"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, MAY 1, 1931 — Number 1

STATE LABOR TO CONSIDER BIG PROBLEMS

Major Matters Face Delegates in Convention.

SESSIONS WILL OPEN MONDAY AT JACKSON

Three-Days' Meeting Promises to Be History-Making Gathering.

Thirty-fifth annual convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor will be called to order Monday at Jackson for a three-day session, and indications are that it will prove to be one of the most important gatherings in the history of organized labor in Tennessee.

Abnormal conditions have brought new and greater problems, and the rank and file of the various crafts are fully cognizant of the need for intelligent and constructive consideration of labor's present position.

Renewed activity of coal miners throughout the state, who have recently shown unmistakable signs of staging an industrial rebellion against conditions called indescribable and untenable, will in all probability have the attention of the delegates, and plans will be made to assist these sorely-tried workers in every possible manner.

Unprecedented conditions brought about by incompetence of Gov. Henry Horton and the manipulation of state funds by political bosses is another major problem which will be considered, together with the legislative program of the federation, which will cover a wide range.

Unemployment, wage cuts and hours of labor will all have a part in the deliberations of the workers' representatives.

Possibly never before has there been manifest in Tennessee a more general conviction that serious, thought-compelling problems must be solved. Patriotic, intelligent and militant discussion and action is required in this the greatest of all emergencies, and that such will guide the deliberations of the delegates as well as the working out of the program to follow.

Reports from over the state indicate that attendance at the Jackson sessions will be somewhat reduced, due to unemployment conditions. Many local unions have during the past year crossed stormy financial seas in their endeavor to care for unemployed members, and some are compelled to depend upon their fellow trades unionists and central and district body representatives to present their views in the crisis.

Sessions of the federation will be held at the Southern hotel. The Jackson labor movement has planned a splendid program of entertainment, workers of that city being noted for their ability to take care of their guests, and the tension of the business meetings will be relieved by enjoyable events during the spare time.

Local delegates will for the most part go by automobile, some leaving Sunday morning. A few have expressed the intention of driving to Nashville, witnessing the baseball game between the Lookouts and the Volunteers, and continuing the jaunt to West Tennessee after the game.

Paul J. Aymon, president of the federation, went to the convention city Thursday.

Porto Rican Kiddies Ravaged by Disease

New York.—The claim that Porto Rican conditions are improving is not sustained by Dr. Samuel J. Crumbine, of the American Child Health association.

Dr. Crumbine returned from a two-months' investigation in Porto Rico. Economic conditions in the island, he declares, "are worse, if possible, than a year ago." The condition of children is especially deplorable.

"Poverty and the anemia-producing diseases of malaria and hookworm have made these people an easy prey to tuberculosis, which is literally epidemic in Porto Rico."

Good Pickings

No. 2

Standard Gas 1930 net earnings just reported were $38,052,933. That is surplus after payment of all charges, including preferred dividends, and equals $6.04 a share on common. It is about a million dollars above the previous year's takings.

STATE PLUMBERS IN CONFERENCE

Stacy and McKeehan Participate in Second Meeting of New Organization.

Second meeting of the State Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters was held Sunday at Nashville, Local 43 being represented by E. S. Stacy and J. R. McKeehan.

Mr. Stacy, who is vice-president of the organization, formed in April, told a representative of The Labor World this week that the principal business taken up by the delegates at Sunday's session was the adoption of by-laws, consideration of general conditions of the craft in the state, and plans for a solidification of local unions, with a co-operative program during the months to come. Reports from the various disctricts, he said, showed that while little major work is in progress, union plumbers and steamfitters are doing by far the largest part of such construction. Particularly is this true, he added, in Memphis and Nashville.

The sessions were held in the Labor Temple, with President G. Foley, of Nashville, presiding. The next meeting is called for Sunday, July 12, Mr. Stacy said, and members of the state body are confident that reports at that time will show progress for the members of this craft.

Radio Musicians In Chicago Get 30-Hour Week

N. B. C. Studios Sign Contract With Union Providing Record High Pay and Short Working Periods for 400 Men.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Chicago, April 30.—A step toward a six-day week and a five-hour day for musicians throughout the United States was taken with the signing of a two-year contract by James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, and C. F. McClelland, vice-president and general manager of the National Broadcasting company.

The contract assures the short working day for 400 musicians in six broadcasting studios in Chicago. It calls for the highest wage scale ever paid to union labor, according to Mr. Petrillo.

Two types of orchestras are considered in the contract. Playing members of a commercial orchestra, working in conjunction with an advertising program, are to receive a minimum scale of $150 a week for 30 hours' work. The leader will get $300 a week. An overtime scale of $10 an hour is provided.

The other type of organization considered in the contract is the sustaining orchestra which is provided by the broadcasting company to fill in between advertising programs. The contract calls for a scale of $120 a week for the men and $240 a week for the leader of a sustaining orchestra. An hourly scale of $8 is provided for overtime.

The new agreement governs both local and network programs and prescribes that at no time shall a sustaining or commercial orchestra be used to dispense with the services of orchestras regularly employed on local stations in the Chicago jurisdiction.

Another innovation in the contract is the provision that an orchestra member's weekly day off need not be Sunday or a holiday, but is at the discretion of the studio manager. Another clause prohibits the reduction in pay of any orchestra if the full number of hours are not played. It is also provided that the five playing hours may be extended over any period of eight hours in the day.

A three-year contract continuing the prevailing agreement was signed with the Chicago Symphony orchestra by Mr. Petrillo. The contract calls for the services of 98 men, each to be paid $90 a week.

Family Relief Cost Jumped 89 Per Cent.

Washington.—In 100 cities reporting to the federal children's bureau the amount disbursed to needy families increased 89 per cent from 1929 to 1930.

Approximately $40,000,000 was spent in 1930. This does not include sums expended by missions, municipal lodging houses or other agencies providing individuals with temporary shelter or food, nor agencies giving relief only to war veterans.

The proportion of relief cost met by private philanthrophy and by the public through taxation varies. The largest proportion met by the public (in 75 cities) was in Detroit, where 84.9 per cent came from public sources.

In Washington, D. C., and New Orleans the money was raised by private contributions.

RAILS CAN'T OWN BUSES.

Austin, Tex.—A bill making it unlawful for a railroad company to own an interest in a motor bus or truck line doing an intrastate business in Texas is constitutional, according to Atty.-Gen. Allred.

Principles of Organized Labor Best Safeguard for Our Future Says Veteran Union Advocate

(Editor's Note—The following article by Hon. Jerome Jones, editor of the Atlanta Journal of Labor, was written for the Convention Supplement to this issue. However, it was received too late for that section, and due to its constructive value is given this position in our regular issue. Mr. Jones is a veteran of many labor battles, and has brought to our movement during a long and useful life much of intelligent thought. He is a civic leader in the Georgia city, as well as a labor advocate, and his conclusions on "What's Ahead?" are worthy of every consideration by trades unionists as well as other groups who are striving for a solution to our present economic problems.)

HON. JEROME JONES
Editor Atlanta Journal of Labor.

(By Jerome Jones)

The immediate future of Organized Labor in the south cannot be said to be as roseate as one would desire. There are some things appearing in the path of its progress which have been and will likely continue to offer serious obstacles. It is not necessary to point out all of these but it might be worth while to consider some of them.

One of the most deterring factors and one of the most difficult ones to meet is the extreme individualism of our people. Coming up for the most part as agricultural people and from a class of people who have in the main been managers of their own business they have been trained and schooled in the theory and practice that it is nobody's business how each man runs his own business. Perhaps this originated during slavery times when a common problem brought the slave owners together but in a manner which was a protest against any interference with the property rights of individuals. Individual property rights, therefore, as against human or social rights have predominated in the economic thinking in the south. This has had its place, to be sure, but it has also had its evils—evils which we are now beginning to reap in full measure since we are not only allowing but actually inviting organized capital into our midst.

Another factor closely allied with this is the lack of training in co-operative enterprise of our people. A group of people working in a shop may come to feel their common interest, but a group of farmers each in his own field hardly feels the same degree of dependability upon each other. They do not realize their common problems. Hence, despite the very worthy efforts of some to organize the farmers it must be admitted that only here and there have such efforts brought much success in the form of a real working organization of farmers. Then, too, we have unfortunately lagged behind in education and have, therefore, perpetuated ignorance and illiteracy. Hiding behind the negro we have stunted both the negro and the white in their mutual development until even now we are scarcely more than children in the intellectual level. Hence, it has been difficult to make any appeal that would overcome the prejudice, indifference and hostility naturally growing out of our economic doctrines and lack of educational progress.

These naturally have resulted in a third hindrance to organized labor, viz., the overwhelming odds which it faces in its efforts. On the one hand we have a class representing capital that is strongly entrenched financially, socially and religiously. It is becoming more so until today labor is finding it very hard to break the wall. But shall we say that these odds are insurmountable? Not at all. They must be recognized and our plan of campaign must always keep these in mind. There are certain helpful factors which give us hope of financial victory.

The first of these that may be mentioned is the fact that the security of our economic system and the stability of industry depend upon the very principles which organized labor can best promote. Under the individual contract plan, the laissez-faire theory, there is bound to develop two class systems. The predominant employer class and the submerged employe class, the free and the slave. Industry is a profit-making and not a philanthropic enterprise. Its primary motive is pecuniary gain to the owners. The social good is of secondary importance. There is no place in such a scheme for good will and common interest. Co-operation is impossible and the highest efficiency is impossible. The inevitable result, as history will show, has been revolution. Organized labor, however, points the way to an industrial order in which co-operation of all factors involved is the key word; in which common interests are recognized and given fair place and in which everyone is encouraged to make his highest and best contribution. In other words, organized labor appeals to self-interest in a broad, social way rather than in the spirit of greed. Little by little industrial leaders are beginning to see the inevitable doom of the whole so-called "open shop," individual contract scheme and are coming more and more to realize that only in unity—and there can be no unity without a recognition of common rights and obligations—is there strength. Organized labor wherever it has had a chance has demonstrated the soundness of this argument. The south of all sections should be able to reap the highest benefit from such an order because we are a more homogeneous group.

A second factor in our favor is the fact that organized labor is really the promoter and the standardbearer of the American home and the American standard of living. Industrial history will attest the fact that where the principles advocated by organized labor have not been recognized the result has been the degradation of the American worker and his confinement to a very low standard of living. The millions of people in this country who are forced to live on a level that is below the recognized American standard of living, are living—and starving!—testimony to the inadequacy of the old capitalistic theory. Wherever organized labor has been given a chance, in those organizations in which the rights of the workers have been recognized and respected, there has come a higher standard of living, a group of home owners, a group of people who see to the education of their children.

Closely allied with this factor, therefore, is the third factor which is bound to lead us to triumph, industrial democracy. Political democracy is very dear to our hearts and has been for a hundred and fifty years. But each year we are beginning to realize that political democracy is impossible among enslaved workers, among a class of people who must work under conditions in which they have no voice, who must work for wages which they have no power to control, who must work, if indeed they work at all, according to the dictates of another, and who must live in houses built, owned and managed by another at rentals which they have no power to regulate. And perchance if they have one day in seven free they must play or attend church according to the provisions made by someone else. The man who is tied to another during his waking and even his sleeping moments cannot possibly be a free citizen. He cannot possibly exercise the prerogatives of citizenship in a democracy. Hence, our efforts, therefore, are directly in line with the efforts to perpetuate the principles of democracy itself and to enthrone the ideals of American freedom in the hearts of the American people and to make permanent those American institutions which have thrilled the world by their human appeal.

And finally the labor movement is coming to be realized by those who understand it as something more than a selfish wage-raising, work-decreasing policy, something more than an effort to match the greed of capital, and is being understood as a great human movement having for its immediate effects the freeing of a large portion of our people and for its ultimate effect the elevating and ennobling of the people as a whole. Trades unionism as interpreted by the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated organizations undertakes to promote better living and a better life through justice and fair dealing, co-operation and good will as concerns the relation of employer and employe; the bettering of our standard of living and the promotion of health and education in the relation of the workers to home and community and the exercise of intelligent, socially minded, socially trained, economically free citizens in relation to our government, and finally the establishment of the Golden Rule in our relation of one man with another.

There are some things against which organized labor and its promoters must guard. Chief among these is the danger of our substituting political for economic methods in our efforts to further the success of the movement. Having for our primary purpose the freeing of man by first making him economically free we must not make the mistake that has been so fatal elsewhere and seek some short cut, easy route. Not discounting the necessity for being keenly alert at all times politically, not for one moment saying that we should not make full legitimate use of the ballot, never admitting that we can afford to ignore the great part which our government can and must play, we must nevertheless remember that our success depends upon our reliance in and the use of economic weapons and our sticking to economic forces as our major channels of activity.

A second thing against which we must guard in the future is the tendency to allow organized labor to become involved in political problems and issues which are not strictly economic. In taking sides in such issues we are not only expending our energies in directions which lead us nowhere in our program, but may even vitiate the whole movement. Particularly is this true with respect to the anti-prohibition movement or the efforts to repeal or modify the Eighteenth amendment. The most distressing thing about this is that it is destined to alienate those forces which are most useful to us just now and upon which we must rely most heavily in the future in our campaign of justice and fairness and right dealing, the church.

The future is indeed fraught with dangers and possibilities for good, but we must set our faces toward the future. Dangers must not deter us. Temporary failures must not shake us from our faith. Temporary success must not make us proud. We must go forward by standing by the principles which have formed the foundation of the labor movement and upon which any permanent structure must rest.

Women's Work Bill Signed by Roosevelt

Governor Approves Measure Limiting Hours of Minors and Female Employes in Mercantile Establishments.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Albany, N. Y., April 29.—Another labor law was added to New York's progressive labor code when Gov. Roosevelt signed the bill providing a basic schedule of working hours for women and minors employed in mercantile establishments. A basis of eight hours for six days, a total of 48 a week, is established by the measure.

Under a provision in the bill mercantile employers may require six additional hours twice a year, but only for the purpose of inventories. As an alternative to this straight 48-hour week, with an equal distribution of working hours for each day, provision is made for a half-holiday each week in return for a strictly limited amount of overtime.

Ten hours of overtime in addition to the two six-hour periods would be permissible annually under the terms of the bill, but only on condition that an equivalent time off must be given by the employer for any overtime exacted under this clause.

Discussing the half-holiday provision in the bill, the governor said that women employed in mercantile establishments vigorously advocated it.

"It is my definite conviction that a desirable social policy, already largely a custom in industry, is thus given the sanction of law and encouraged to develop while at the same time the underlying principle of a limitation based on the eight-hour day is observed," Roosevelt added.

"The bill is an agreed measure, the fruit of long negotiations between the merchants and the women's organizations favoring hours regulations, and is believed by all of them to embody sound and fair provisions and to represent a forward step," the governor said.

NO WOMEN AS JURORS

Concord, N. H.—The house of representatives rejected a bill which would make women, with certain exceptions, subject to jury duty.

TEAMSTERS CUT HOURS.

Oakland, Cal.—Teamsters' Union No. 70 installed the eight-hour day. This is a reduction of 30 minutes each day and affects 1,000 employes.

Secretary of Labor Attacks Pay Cutting

(International Labor News Service)

Washington, April 29.—Attacking suggestions that there should be reductions in wage levels because of lower commodity prices, Secretary of Labor Doak said:

"If there was such a thing as a properly fixed wage rate for various industries and trades, then there might be some reason in the suggested reductions. But there has been no such properly fixed rate."

The only serious proposal for general wage reductions had come from the bankers, Doak pointed out, and said that "the administration has done everything that can be done to prevent adoption of such plans."

"If you haven't got foreign markets," Mr. Doak contended, "the only way to bring back prosperity is by increasing domestic consumption. How that can be done by reducing the present level of wages, is too much for me."

TO FIGHT SPREAD OF TUBERCULOSIS

Local Unions Will Urge State Body to Do Battle Against Plague.

Tuberculosis was called the principle health problem in Tennessee, a disease of poverty and a poverty-making disease, in resolutions adopted by Central Body in regular session Monday night, and delegates to the annual convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor were instructed to present the matter before that body at Jackson and urge a constructive battle against the ravages of the "great white plague."

The resolution was fathered by "Jack" Hurley, member of the Journeymen Tailors' union and at one time president of Central Body. In presenting the matter Mr. Hurley delivered an interesting address, which was well received by the assembled delegates.

It is the hope that the resolution will mark the beginning of an effective fight against conditions which help to spread the dread scourge, and the state labor representatives will be petitioned to start the battle at once.

The resolution, which was unanimously adopted Monday night, follows:

Whereas, tuberculosis (the great white plague) is at the present time the principal health problem in the state of Tennessee. It is not only a disease of poverty, but it is a poverty-making disease. Notwithstanding Tennessee's equitable climate, tuberculosis stands today the most poverty-making of all our diseases.

Whereas, industrialism is making great progress in Tennessee, this dreadful scourge usually follows where industrialism is most manifest, affecting the happiness, endangering the lives of every strata of society. Reduced to material basis, the loss in dollars and cents is enormous.

Whereas, medical science has proved this dreadful scourge can be eradicated if proper methods are adopted, and proven methods are: First, proper housing conditions, isolation of the diseased patient when possible; second, good food, sunshine, pure air, proper rest and an aroused enlightened consciousness to dangers which beset us from this terrible industrial parasite; tuberculosis can be conquered if taken in time; prevention is more important than cure. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That this State Federation of Labor go on record to do everything in its power to prevent the fatal progress of this dreadful scourge, known as the Great White Plague, and it instructs its delegates to conduct a never-ending campaign in every town, city and county in this state that this scourge be eradicated; and be it further

Resolved, That our legislative committee be instructed to urge upon our state senators and representatives the urgent need for them to work for county tuberculosis sanitariums, especially in those counties where industrialism is further advanced.

Texas and Illinois Labor Editors Dead

William M. Reilly, Dallas, and Frank A. Leven, Danville, Pass On — Reilly Veteran Member of I. T. U.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, April 29.—Word has just been received here of the death of two well-known labor editors, William M. Reilly, of Dallas, Tex., and Frank A. Leven, of Danville, Ill.

Mr. Reilly, who died April 15, was editor of the Dallas Craftsman, one of the ablest edited labor papers in the country. He was a veteran member of the International Typographical union and frequently represented his organization at American Federation of Labor conventions. He was active in the work of the International Labor Press of America. He attended the last convention in Boston.

Mr. Leven was managing editor of the Vermilion County Star, published at Danville, Ill. He died suddenly April 13.

Mr. Leven was a lifelong resident of Danville. Early in life he became interested in labor organizations. He assisted in organizing many local unions, both in Danville and elsewhere, and represented these organizations at many state and national conventions. For more than fifteen years he was secretary and treasurer of the Danville Trades and Labor council.

CIGARETTE MACHINE WILL TRIPLE OUTPUT

New York.—The American Machine and Foundry company is working on a cigarette machine that will turn out three times as many cigarettes as is now possible.

Patents on the present machines are expiring. These machines produce 600 cigarettes a minute. The new machine, it is believed, will produce from 1,600 to 2,000 cigarettes in the same time.

SAYS PAY CUTS ARE DRYING UP BUYING POWER

Senator Couzens Assails Wage-Slashers.

PROTESTS PLACING BURDEN ON LABOR

Michigan Solon Asks Business Men to Maintain Standards.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, April 30.—Setting up by employers of unemployment funds to provide security of income for the workers was urged upon the Chamber of Commerce of the United States by Senator James Couzens of Michigan in an open letter to the organization. The letter strongly protested against placing the entire burden of unemployment on the wage earners, and asked the chamber to go on record against wage reductions.

"Does the chamber realize," Senator Couzens asked, "that to reduce wages would simply bring around a maladjustment of the distribution of the earnings of capital and labor that existed before this depression?"

In a statement recently, Senator Couzens discussed methods to prevent unemployment and assured industrial stability. He suggested consideration of his suggestions at the forthcoming meeting of the chamber. President William Butterworth of the organization replied, saying that the senator would be invited to discuss his program before the convention. The invitation was not issued to him, Senator Couzens said, and his open letter, addressed to Mr. Butterworth, followed.

Criticizes Barnes' Suggestion

In his letter, Senator Couzens said in part:

"Mr. Julius Barnes, in a recent statement, stated that there were normally about 45,000,000 persons employed receiving wages of $50,000,000 daily; that there were 5,000,000 out of work, with the 40,000,000 still employed receiving about $46,000,000, and therefore suggested that this $46,000,000 be spread over the entire number of 45,000,000 usually employed.

"In other words, there is to be taken from those employed approximately $5,000,000 daily to be distributed in wages for employment of those now unemployed.

"Does this not place the entire burden of unemployment on the wage earners and relieve capital of any expense in taking care of the 5,000,000 unemployed?

Workers' Instability Stressed.

"Does the chamber visualize that what is causing the failure of business to recover is the instability of the income of those already working?

"Does the chamber realize that this some 40,000,000 of workers in self-preservation must conserve every dollar possible in fear of having their incomes reduced or cut off entirely by further unemployment?

"Does the chamber realize that those employed only on part time cannot play any part in bringing around the recovery of business? Will the chamber at its convention please go on record whether or not they believe in a reduction in wages or a possible increase or at least a maintenance of existing wage scales?

How Would Pay Cuts Help?

"Does the chamber realize that to reduce wages would simply bring around a maladjustment of the distribution of the earnings of capital and labor that existed before the depression?

"How will a reduction in wages increase the purchasing power, which is so badly needed at this time?

"Does the chamber, with the constant increase in productivity of manpower, believe that the workers are to get less of their productivity rather than more?

"Statistics show that the value of manufactured products in 1929 was $6,699,168,000 more than in 1927, and yet wages in 1929 were only $572,828,000 more than in 1927. They also show that wages paid in 1929 were $413,779,000 more than in 1923, and in the same period manufactured products increased by $8,887,941,000 for the same period.

Buying Power Would Be Hit.

"Does not the chamber believe that this development is drying up the springs of consumption?

"Would the chamber approve of a curtailment in the orgy of installment sales, and would they further approve of the state passing legislation such as exists in France, which makes it impossible for a merchant to hold the title to merchandise after it has been delivered to the purchaser?

"Would not such legislation by the states act as a check on the tremendous development of what is now politely called 'consumers'' credit?"

WOMEN'S 44-HOUR WEEK REJECTED IN WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis.—The state assembly defeated the Nixon bill that would establish an eight-hour day and 44-hour week for women wage workers. The vote was 65 to 30.

THE LABOR WORLD
810 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY
Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council
R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager
Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1931.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

THE domestic system in England's industrial life (discussed last week) evolved into the mercantile system by almost imperceptible stages. With the rise of the mercantile system the state took over the task of looking after industrial details that were formerly the concern of the guilds. This paternalistic attitude of government toward industry was for the purpose of creating and solidifying national trade. In brief, the state set the price of commodities, prescribed laws for apprenticeship, laid down rules governing the relations of master and servant, passed on the quality of cloth and measured it, tested silverware, weighed the loaves of bread, passed poor laws, made wage scales and appointed justices to guard labor. The governing powers at times went so far as to arbitrarily fix the price of grain in an effort to stem the decline of production of corn (President Hoover's wheat commission is a modern example).

The distinction between the domestic and the mercantile systems is clearly seen when we remember the domestic system was an industrial order where entire villages were, so to speak, like enlarged factories, the component parts (departments) of the separate plants being the workingmen's cottages, while the mercantile system was the whole nation turned into an immense group of factories under one management, idealized in an attitude of watchful motherliness on the part of political government. It was the broadening as well as intensifying of national industry; the awakening of a people to real nation-conscience and nation-mission, and their first realization of their ability as a national working force. It was a nation's coming of age. As for its lasting place in industry's history the mercantile system was the first faint signs pointing to the great Industrial Revolution.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—When was the first federal child labor law passed?

A.—Sept. 1, 1916. It was held unconstitutional by the United States supreme court in 1918.

* * *

Q.—Who said: "The labor press is one of the best avenues of education available to the trade union movement?"

A.—This is from a declaration on the labor press made by the 1909 convention of the American Federation of Labor.

What Next!

An electrical instrument that "feels" the thinness of the thinnest piece of material has been developed in the Westinghouse research laboratories at Pittsburgh. Its purpose is the detection of imperfections in workmanship or fraudulent reproductions of articles. It can tell instantly whether a doubtful document, stock certificate or check is printed on paper of the same thickness as the genuine or pick out faked historical documents, costly tapestry and silks by comparing their thickness with the original.

Restless, could not sleep

"THERE were days when I felt like I could not get my work done. I would get so nervous and 'trembly' I would have to lie down. I was very restless, and could not sleep at night.

My mother advised me to take Cardui, and I certainly am glad she did. It is the first thing that seemed to give me any strength. I felt better after the first bottle. I kept it up and am now feeling fine."—Mrs. T. R. Gibson, Fort Payne, Ala.

E-124

CARDUI HELPS WOMEN to HEALTH

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

WAGE CUTTERS PRESENT SORRY FIGURE.

Low wage business men, economists and financiers present a sorry figure. Some, however, are discreet in their attack on present wage levels. They discuss the inevitableness of lower rates, in the hope that this system will eventually be accepted without fastening responsibility on them. This flank method is called "psychological"—it craftily creates a low-wage sentiment without the authors being discovered.

Wage reducers held a contrary position a few years ago. They gloried in high wages that was necessary for mass production. So-called "high" wages, however, did not keep pace with increasing mass production and the top-heavy structure collapsed. Millions of workers are unemployed and the nation's history has been scarred by hunger and its allied ills.

These former high wage advocates now swing to the other extreme. Without vision or ideal, they accept the philosophy of surrender and are waiting, Micawberlike, "for something to turn up." They have no plan, except wage cuts. They resort to meaningless phrases and essays to conceal their white flag. They hope that the depression will create a commodity shortage which will, in turn, end unemployment. This hope ignores forces that brought on this depression. These forces will continue to function and the next depression will appear more quickly and will be more acute because of low wages, long hours, automatic machinery, combines and scientific processes.

These economists, business men and financiers should be considered the nation's comics. Their intellectual bankruptcy is complete. They dare not refer to their former position of high wages to buy mass production.

No other citizen denies that a lack of purchasing power has closed the nation's factories. Low-wage business men sound the depths of nothingness when they say that a still lower purchasing power will open the nation's factories.

These men "have been weighed in the balance and found wanting." They do not possess even a superficial knowledge of things vital to them. They want returns on their investments, but they refuse to see low wages will intensify present conditions that, if continued, will make payment of principle, as well as interest, impossible.

No thinking citizen will give serious consideration to popgun remedies for our national debacle. Low-wage advocates are blind leaders who would land the nation into a ditch.

Organized labor will stand by its philosophy of high wages and shorter hours. This will save the very men who would tear down our social structure and make the millions of unemployed a permanent institution. Labor must prove that its opponents are wrong.

NO MIDDLE GROUND.

There is no such thing as neutrality.

Every man or woman, whether or not they are brave enough to admit it, is on one side or the other of every issue touching human life.

Frequently the expression is heard that the interest of a Hamlet's ghost called the "neutral public" is that or it is this, or we may hear people smilingly remark that they are in nowise concerned in a public issue because it is not necessary for them to take side.

And there are many professional men and women—doctors, lawyers, architects, druggists, etc.—and people of small business interests and a legion of clerks, salesmen and white-collared office help who disdain to express their sentiments on issues before the public and defend their lack of courage and indifference with the plea of being "neutral."

But there exists no "neutral public" to have any special interests apart from the rest of mankind. Individuals who keep silent when others are advocating far-reaching changes or battling for economic right are not maintaining neutrality—they are quietly supporting one side or the other.

There cannot be any neutrality in human society—the destiny of each one of us is too closely linked to that of our brother humans to permit of that. It is the inalienable right and duty of every man to choose on which side of a public issue he will take his stand. If he prefers, he may choose the side to which he will throw his moral support as his conscience or interests dictates—but if he does not do so voluntarily he inadvertently supports one or the other sides by his silence and aloofness.

The Bear Growls

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

Russia has remobilized. For the 'steenth time the soviet-trained dancing bear is performing a new line of antics. By a few sharp jerks on the chain attached to the iron collar of communism about its neck the poor driven beast is now doing an entirely new dance, something its masters at Moscow announce as a Five-Year two-step. Since having been forced to do this latest shuffle-along the bear has also changed faces—its animal grin has changed of a sudden to one of human leering and its natural throaty growl to an ominous roar of smothered rage. That Moscow is having trouble keeping the bear dancing is indicated by numerous "decrees" it has issued of late, especially the ones establishing the piece-work system for the nation, drafting of ship repair labor and seamen, and disciplining of rail workers. No such harsh handling of the bear would ever have been necessary had the bear been dancing happily. The Moscow higher-ups are applying the steel prod to old bruin in their rage over its sullen attitude toward their national and international policies. From the shipping repair activities going on it begins to look like the soviet regime leaders will in their rage turn on the rest of the world, too. Maybe they're getting ready to sic the bear on us. Who can tell, anyhow? Not knowing for certain just what Moscow's intentions are it will pay world-public opinion to continue to refuse to countenance the philosophy and labors of the soviet crowd.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
Part XIV.
MARK 6:7-9, 12

WM. L. MOSS

It is unfortunate that anyone would use Jesus' direct reference to money in Mark 6:7-9, 12 as having any bearing on His teaching about the pay of ministers, missionaries or men's possession of wealth. Those who quote this passage as a teaching of Jesus concerning money do so because of a misunderstanding of the nature of the first three gospels. They regard them merely as detached sayings held together by just enough semblance of narrative to make them interesting reading. The gospels are really the record of a continuous life, its mission not being disclosed through single incidents or detached sayings but reveals itself in the quality, forcefulness, habit and movement of the great Teacher's mind. If we would find what Jesus taught on any subject whatever we must search out, compare and weigh all He had to say on the subject in the first three evangelists, then get a clear-cut impression of how He habitually thought and taught about the subject, then cast aside altogether the letter of His teaching on the subject and sum it all up from a spiritual viewpoint.

There is in the first three gospels a definite and extraordinary difference of emphasis in the teaching of the Master concerning the rich and the possession of money. Rather than be confusing in his treatment of the entire subject of these articles the writer has hitherto deliberately omitted even casual mention of this fact, not with the intention of deceiving but with the plan in mind at some time to use a saying of our Lord as the starting point in explaining the whole matter. The Mission of the Twelve, recorded in Mk. 6:7-9, 12, serves our purpose admirably. We will now begin a study of the difference in the emphasis in the teaching of Jesus about money that appears in Matthew, Mark and Luke:

1. The first three gospels are called Synoptic Gospels because their structure and contents present an almost identical triple parallel synopsis of the life of our Lord. True, no two of the three evangelists' accounts agree exactly, but their contents and narrative structure follow the same general lines—closely enough in fact to be regarded as independent accounts of the life of Jesus.

2. The order in which these three books appear in the New Testament of our Bible is not the order in which they were originally written. The men who fixed the canon of the New Testament and gave the books their present order of precedence did not know as much about certain internal evidence in the books pointing to their actual dates of writing as scholars of the last couple of centuries. For centuries after the Christian church accepted the first three gospels, as canonical an antipathy existed against a genuine critical study of them, but within the last two or three hundred years critical scholars have out of the theories advanced and evidence discovered sifted much that has added to our knowledge of the true facts surrounding the writing of Matthew, Mark and Luke, as well as the fourth gospel, John.

(To Be Continued)

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

There is grave doubt as to whether Nero fiddled while Rome burned, and perhaps Mr. Albert H. Wiggin isn't playing the violin either, just now.

But Rome did burn and Nero didn't stop the fire at any rate.

If Nero did actually pour out the strains of some good old Roman prewar music, he did no worse than is being done by Mr. Wiggin and such other banking men as Rome C. Stephenson.

For these bankers are all set to destroy the foundations of national well-being. They are doing what they can, by striking at wage standards, to make a crippled economic system limp the more painfully and visibly.

Perhaps some future historian, getting his allegory straighter than his detail, will write:

"While the United States shook and shivered in the desperation of a terrific economic crisis, Mr. Albert H. Wiggin, one of the gilded Neros of the time, climbed out upon the parapet of his banking building and on his violin sought to display his joy by playing with much zest the then popular tune, 'I want my gold when I want it.'"

* * *

Getting into reverse again and returning to allegory, it may be that bankers, such as Mr. Wiggin, tempted as was Joseph, but in a different field of action, are not lacking in desire and so yield to the tempter who beckons them to seek more power.

The glamor of the golden Mrs. Potiphar beckons them and they are willing enough to risk the safety of the whole world about them.

Always there have been temptations to cause men to lose their senses—and sometimes their heads.

However, in every field and to all men there comes an end of orgiastic conduct and the bankers will either forsake greed or lose their graft.

* * *

But now comes the question of whether men like Wiggin are, from the economists' standpoint, or the workers' standpoint, any worse than men like Babson, once called Babbling Babson by the late Samuel Gompers.

Babson is quoted as having said: "I believe that the resistance that organized and unorganized labor is making against a readjustment of wage scales is distinctly retarding a return to prosperity."

Now that's Babsonism. Babson is one of the most expensive financial advisers in the United States. He maintains a great establishment from which advice pours into the mails day by day, going to those that pay for it.

"Lower wages are inevitable," he tells the wide world.

That's Babson. Let it be remembered, even unto the fourth and fifth generation!

And there ought to be some power somewhere able to require an explanation as to how and why a man so minded can call himself an economist and get away with it.

* * *

Turning aside for a moment, let us pay attention to the reports that union men are rebating part of their pay, for the sake of getting work. Back-handed wage-cuts are reported.

These reports may be true. Undoubtedly in some cases they are.

It is not unnatural. There is no use expecting the impossible.

As a matter of act, many openly regard this more or less secret method as better than open acceptance of reductions, which cannot be tolerated.

The rebate can be stopped. It is not on record. The official scale remains. As long as that stands ground has not been lost definitely.

The thing that is rotten in this situation is the urge to wage-reduction from men like Babson—and the boob economics that come from men like Wiggin. Put a pin in such things and keep it there. Forget not!

Ford's Tractor Plant in Ireland Doubles Output

Produced 16,214 Units Last Year, of Which Nearly Half Were Shipped to U. S., Commerce Department Reports.

Washington, April 9.—The Ford tractor plant at Cork, Ireland, produced in 1930 a total of 16,214 units, of which 6,815 were shipped to the United States. Production was almost double that of 1929 (8,537 units), when the number shipped to the United States was 1,409.

No exports to Russia are noted in 1929, excepting of tractor parts; and in 1930 the total shipment of tractors to Russia was one unit. It is reported in the commerce reports of the commerce department that an anticipated contract from Russia could not be accepted, for lack of underwriting—which means lack of cash and credit. But there were considerable shipments of tractor parts to Russia, amounting in 1930 to a value of $1,767,893.

On account of the failure of the Russian contract it is stated that the plant at Cork reduced its employes from 7,000 to a skeleton force of 250; until production was gradually built up during the summer, increasing at one time to about 2,700 employes.

The product was shipped to all parts of the world, the principal consignments being to Great Britain, Germany and Australia, each of which took over 1,000 tractors, and included also 901 units to Argentina.

Charity for Labor Rather Than Work

Minneapolis, April 29.—Charity for labor was urged by large taxpayers at a public hearing on a bill that would permit this city to issue bonds for $5,000,000 to build badly needed municipal buildings.

A representative of the Taxpayers' association declared that it would be cheaper to spend $1,000,000 for charity than pass the bond issue.

O. B. McClintock, anti-union head of a burglar alarm factory, said his business is improving. He didn't understand why his statement was received with laughter.

He declared that the Community Chest raised $1,500,000 last year, and a woman trade unionist replied that half of this amount had been collected from the poor to feed the poor.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial Branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmonson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

Back Again!

Yes, Sir! D. G. Miller's back in harness again! Ready and anxious to serve you . . . and giving the same excellent service he formerly gave . . . he couldn't give any other because his motto is to give Service and Satisfaction with every purchase.

Mr. Miller was in business from 1907 to 1925 and many of his old friends and customers will be glad to hear that he's back on the job again, after a six-year absence. The Miller Ice and Coal Company is completely outfitted with modern equipment . . . which assures you of real service.

We are looking forward to a pleasant summer with all our old customers back on our list along with many new ones, and we know that they will be satisfied with the service rendered by the Miller Ice and Coal Company. Won't you let us number you among our customers this summer? We'll be glad to have you.

"WATCH FOR THE WHITE TRUCK WITH THE WHITE DRIVER"

The slogan that assures you of perfect service. And don't forget to look for the truck this summer. You'll profit greatly by it.

Miller Ice and Coal Co., Inc.

2308 Dodson Avenue Phone 2-3041

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

Real Wages Last Ten Years One-Half Less Than Output

(By International Labor News Service.)

Boston, April 29.—High wages that American living standards and domestic markets may be maintained, was called for by William Green, president A. F. of L., in an address to the Harvard Business School club, Harvard university.

During the ten-year period ending 1929, the trade unionist pointed out, productivity increased 48.5 per cent, while real wages increased only 33 per cent. During the 30-year period ending in 1929 the cost of living increased 147.5 per cent, while real wages in manufacturing increased 23.9 per cent.

"It is of no value if we develop our productive facilities to the highest possible point and at the same time neglect to give the consuming masses the purchasing power corresponding with our facilities to produce," said Mr. Green.

"The United States, long ago, moved forward from a low wage standard. Low wages has long been considered economically unsound. A constant increase in wages corresponding with an increase in the efficiency and productive ability of working people is an economic necessity.

"A general reduction in wages at the present time would be of the greatest injury that could be inflicted upon our social and economic order. Nothing could happen that would so thoroughly convince the masses of the people of the complete breakdown of our existing industrial and economic system as would a widespread reduction in wages at this time."

President Green said a reduction of hours is inevitable because the introduction of machinery has made it impossible to find employment for workers six days a week.

"We shrink from the thought of creating a permanent army of unemployed, yet such a social state will be reached unless there is a general readjustment of the hours of labor that conform to our productive ability," said Mr. Green.

"Industry ought to meet the present situation with a reduction in hours and in the number of days worked per week, rather than through wage reductions. Industrial management will do well if they give this subject the consideration it deserves and if they will progressively apply it as circumstances and conditions permit."

Income Taxes Are Diverted To Pay Secret Steel Bonuses

(By International Labor News Service.)

Newark, N. J., April 29.—The government, and not stockholders, paid out $32,000,000 in bonuses that officials of the Bethlehem Steel corporation secretly voted to themselves during the last fourteen years, said Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem board of directors, at a meeting of stockholders in this city.

Mr. Schwab said this money was saved from tax payments by "charging liberally for depreciation."

"By this process, the company returned to the government that its plant was excessively depreciated in value and profits were thereby lessened. The money, however, remained in the company's strong box, but was placed in the depreciation fund, from where it found its way into the pockets of stockholders.

"During 1917-18, when "the federal taxes were particularly high," said Mr. Schwab, "the management charged off for depreciation $31,510,366."

"Whatever is charged today for depreciation," he continued, "reduces to that extent the net income of the corporation subject to federal income taxes and results in a saving in federal taxes of $125,000 in cash for every $1,000,000 of depreciation. This saving is made for the benefit of the corporation and does not in any way benefit its stockholders."

Mr. Schwab's confession of how income taxes are evaded by his corporation increasing depreciation, or lessening plant value, and thus saving $125,000 per $1,000,000 depreciation, has given little publicity.

The steel magnate was grilled by a group of minority stockholders for paying bonuses that were unknown until the recent court contest over a proposed merger of Bethlehem and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company. Schwab was asked why Bethlehem managament waited fourteen years before they called upon stockholders to approve the bonuses. Schwab was cornered and feebly replied:

"I can't answer that. It appears to be a legal question."

The bonuses were approved by the stockholders, as the company management secured proxies for 74 per cent of the shareholders, who were voted in favor of dodging income tax payments by the bookkeeping trick of lessening profits by increasing plant depreciation.

Postoffice Deficit Caused by Subsidies

Washington.—Has the postoffice department abandoned its policy of blaming wages for the postoffice deficit?

A break in this defense was made by Frederic A. Tilton, third assistant postmaster-general, who declared that the deficit is caused "to a great extent by the subsidies of the department to the shipping and airplane industries."

Government aid is given American merchant ships and airplanes that carry mail on the theory that these can be used in the national defense.

Postal workers do not deny the need for building up a national defense, but they insist that the subsidies should not be charged to their department any more than to the department of agriculture, for instance.

Postal workers, for years, have urged that the department be placed on a business basis by separating costs of handling mail and money used for other purposes.

Officials count national defense as a charge against the department, and then, when workers ask for higher wages or improved work conditions, the deficit is used as an alibi.

The department favors increasing the cost of first-class postage to meet the deficit. Business interests oppose this plan and the fight may result in a popular understanding of the postal workers' position.

Wage Based on Output Is an Employers' Aid

Washington.—Wages based on output, from a theoretical standpoint, is the fairest and most satisfactory way of remunerating employes, but it doesn't work out that way, according to Ethelbert Stewart, commissioner federal bureau of labor statistics.

When a man steps up production to a point where he makes a comparatively high wage and a good living, employers in many instances cut the rate of pay, said Mr. Stewart.

"If employers were to set a definite cost for labor on each piece of work and stick to it, the output basis of paying workers might realize its potentialities," the commissioner said.

OIL ON FIVE-DAY WEEK

San Francisco.—The Standard Oil Company of California placed its production department on the five-day week. Several affiliates of the company work under this system.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45178
...of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
...ley H. Tindell vs. Maggie May Tindell

...appearing from allegations in complaint's bill, which is sworn to, that Maggie ...Tindell is a non-resident of the state of ...nessee, so that the ordinary process of ...cannot be served upon her, it is ordered ...publication be made for four successive ...s in The Labor World, a newspaper pub...d in Hamilton county, notifying said non...dent to appear at the next June rules of ...court, to be held at the courthouse in ...attanooga on the first Monday in June ..., the same being a rule day of said court, ...make defense to said bill or the same ...be taken for confessed, and the cause ...for hearing ex parte as to her.
...10th day of April, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
...Dixon, Atty. 5-8

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45209
...of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Henry Wise vs. Mary Wise

...appearing from allegations in complaint's bill, which is sworn to, that Mary Wise ...non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so ...the ordinary process of law cannot be ...served upon her, it is ordered that publication ...made for four successive weeks in The ...World, a newspaper published in Hamilton County, notifying said non-resident to ...at the next June rules of said court, ...held at the Courthouse in Chattanooga ...first Monday in June next, the same ...a rule day of said court, and make de... to said bill or the same will be taken ...confessed, and the cause set for hearing ...parte as to her.
...26th day of April, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
...Dixon, Atty. 5-22

Roger W. Babson Declares Lower Wages Inevitable

Wage-Cutters' Ranks Wobble With Powerful Factors Joining Labor in Opposition to Further Wreckage of Industry.

Washington, April 29.—Wage reduction discussions raged hot and heavy this week, with some new wage-cutters coming to light.

Perhaps the outstanding recruit to the Chase National bank position was Roger W. Babson, "big shot" economist, whose views, wired from Lake Wales, Fla., were given prominence in Editor and Publisher.

Babson came out flat for wage-reductions. He said general business has "seen its low point," declared that "disquieting" dividend reports for the last quarter were "water over the dam" and generally looked for better things. But he sided with the wage-cutters.

"I believe," said this high-priced prophet, "that with the present low commodity prices, the low interest rates and the low cost of living, lower wages are inevitable. The sooner that is recognized the better off for all concerned. The department of labor can no more peg the scale of wages than can the federal farm board peg the price of wheat."

Takes Rap at Hoover.

Babson held that Hoover, in trying to keep up wages, "may have retarded employment."

It was reported during the week that a delegation of railroad executives had sought the government's ear for a suggestion of wage-cutting on railroads, but had been discouraged.

Perhaps the most pointed and illuminating evidence of the week was offered by William Hard, noted Washington correspondent of many newspapers, in a national radio broadcast. Hard asserted that within the week leading bankers had met in New York with a representative of British bankers to discuss wage-reductions. He asserted further that George C. Roberts, of the National City bank, had stated the position of bankers for wage reductions, thus bringing a new figure into the picture. Hard declared wage reduction proposals would constitute the big issue of the year. No other evidence has made clearer the tremendous battle confronting organized labor.

Stresses Hoover's Stand.

Hard emphasized President Hoover's continued alarm at the tactics of wage cutters and indicated that the president is in complete opposition to those tactics.

The A. P. business writer, who should have certain inside information, asserted this week that informal meetings to talk wage-cutting have been held by big executives in New York "within recent weeks." It is reported that these meetings did not head up into a concerted move, but they are believed to have helped along the reactionary bank idea to some extent.

On the other side of the picture, Alfred P. Sloan, of General Motors, said there was no idea of wage-cutting for General Motors employes for the present, but he left an open door for a future change of policy. On the same side of the picture Colby M. Chester, president of General Foods, said, "We see no necessity for wage reductions."

Several Cuts Reported.

"Business Week" says several large companies have cut wages during the past few weeks. These include Goodyear and Goodrich, in the rubber industry, with the prediction that Akron manufacturers in the same line will follow suit. Republic Steel and Colorado Fuel and Iron are reported by "Business Week" as having cut salaries of higher-ups, maintaining their basic wage scale, but Corrigan & McKinney has cut wages 10 per cent, in common with some of the small Pennsylvania and Ohio steel concerns.

Col. Arthur Woods, in charge of unemployment relief measures for President Hoover, added his denunciation of wage cuts. "My personal theory," he said, "is that wage-cutting would be most unfortunate."

Mr. Woods expressed the belief that there are fewer wage cuts in this depression than in previous times, and that while some of the smaller employers are practicing it, the big employers are not doing so. He said he believed that industry generally is trying to follow the lead of the president, as given a year and a half ago.

Road Contractors To Pay Living Wage

Denver.—The state highway engineer talks of the eight-hour day and a 50-cent hourly rate on road construction work.

The state federation of labor wants assurance that such rate will be paid and is urging passage of necessary legislation.

All of our new Chevrolets are shipped to Chattanooga over the Railroads, and NOT by trucks and trailers.

D.H. (With ad in Supplement)

Newton Chevrolet
PHONE 6-0181 317 BROAD ST.

DON'T BE SELFISH
Tell Your Neighbors!
Take a Light Dose of
B L & K R
at Bed Time, and a Full Dose Before Breakfast for a few days—Then, "TELL YOUR NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS."
Try This on Puny Children
B L & K R is Sold by Druggists
Accept No Substitutes

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PREMIER CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

FLOWER---MUSIC and SHOPPING FESTIVAL
CHATTANOOGA MAY 4-9

Beautiful Show Windows
Special Sales--Bargains and Dollar Days
IN ALL CHATTANOOGA STORES

National Music Week---Special Programs

Home Coming Week for All Chattanoogans

CHATTANOOGA
ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW
AUDITORIUM MAY 6-7

A Week of Business, Pleasure and Entertainment

Bring Your Family--Bring Your Friends
D.H.
TO THE
FLOWER---MUSIC and SHOPPING FESTIVAL
CHATTANOOGA MAY 4-9

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation

Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg. Opposite Central Market

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company

Ideal Service at Moderate Cost

Phone 6-6114

COAL

Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25

Honest Weight — Prompt Service

CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

BILIOUS

"I have used Black-Draught . . . and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—H. C. Hendrix, Homerville, Ga.

For indigestion, constipation, biliousness, take

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

WOMEN who need a tonic should take CARDUI. Used over 50 years.

Chattanooga's Best Entertainment

BIJOU

Chattanooga Owned and Operated

MONDAY — TUESDAY — WED.

"Viennese Nights"
(Feature)

—o—

A LOONEY TUNE CARTOON

Pathe Talking News

VITAPHONE VARIETIES

THURSDAY — FRIDAY — SAT.

"My Past"
(Feature)

—o—

Pathe Talking News

Vitaphone Variety

Those who desire better living and working conditions must do their share to secure them. Demand union made goods and service.

Sequence: Hunger, Strife, Violence and Overthrow

(International Labor News Service)

Washington, April 29.—Opening the national D. A. R. convention, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, national president general, said:

"Men and women are asking for work in this country. One of the fundamental principles of this nation is—'the right to work.' Upon lack of work is built dissatisfaction. With dissatisfaction comes turmoil and strife. In the wake of strife comes violence. Violence unseats government."

WITH THE ELECTRICIANS

By E. E. CROSBY

Having been absent from this corner a couple of weeks, was requested to brush up and write something with a kick, but while eschewing mediocrity of expression through platitudinous phraseology, it behooves one to beware of ponderosity, and to be mindful that pedantry being indicatory of an inherent megalomania frustrates its own aim and results merely in nubilous reiteration. (Editor's note—Our good friend Crosby later completely sobered up, and has now returned to normal.)

* * *

Was out and saw Ed Carroll's garden. It's a fine one. Looks like a 5 and 10c store—5c these, 5c those, and 10c them seeds. He'll tell you all about it.

* * *

Don't know what to say about Trundel and Fournier, but they can see what their name looks like in print.

* * *

Maybe you have forgotten the special meeting for next week. Well, say "I saw it in The Labor World" and be there.

* * *

Can't call W W. Berry a tea hound, he has too many fox hounds—about six, they tell me.

* * *

Looks like W. B. Dyche changes autos with the seasons; swapped the Ford for a Chevy; saw him minus a coat; think he gave it for boot.

* * *

C. E. Cofer now lives at 403 Lyerly street. Guess he didn't like the North Chattanooga buses.

* * *

I see E. E. McDaniels has struck some pay dirt. Yes, he had four sacks full in the back of his car last week.

* * *

W. D. London has been around explaining just how he planted the potatoes and how he expected them to turn out. Wait until he finds he has to dig 'em.

New Industries Can't Absorb Labor; High Wages Urged by Federal Chief

(By A. F. of L. Direct News Service.)

Washington, April 23.—Ethelbert Stewart, commissioner of federal bureau of labor statistics, does not accept the claim that new industries are absorbing workers let out by old ones. The radio and phonograph industry in 1927, he pointed out, employed but 3,000 more than in 1923.

The commissioner said increased wages would bring a greater measure of prosperity by increasing buying power, but the problem is to make employers want to raise wages.

A return to business prosperity is linked more closely with the problem of finance than with production, he said.

In rejecting the claim that new industries are absorbing displaced workers, Mr. Stewart agreed that there is an element of truth in the statement, but he referred to the thousands of extras in Hollywood, few of whom average five days' work a week for a year.

"In the manufacture of phonographs and radio," said Mr. Stewart, "census figures show that the number of employers rose only 3,000 from 1923 to 1927. Three thousand would not go far toward absorbing the shrinkage of employment in manufacturing plants.

"In the attempts to prove that our industrial and commercial life, taken as a whole, is taking care of everybody, our attention is directed to the large increase in the number of students in high schools and universities. My answer to that is this: Those people are not employed and never were. They do not come from the class that is thrown out of the factories, and the question of their employment under present conditions is not solved; it is simply postponed for four years or perhaps longer.

"The increase in the number of persons employed in retailing, in the life insurance business, and occupations of that kind, is not very encouraging as an answer to the problem. The average life of insurance agents as such is rather brief, as is also that of the corner grocer, who is becoming more and more short-lived as the chain stores expand. Chain stores do not employ as many people as the old-time store. One chain grocery system, for example, has only one man in many of its stores."

Legislature Lauded for Barring Night Work for Girls Under 18

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Durham, N. C., April 30.—Commendation of the general assembly for prohibiting night work for girls under 18 years of age and insistence that the house concur in senate amendments to house bill No. 287, were expressed in a resolution adopted by the women's auxiliary to the Medical Society of North Carolina, meeting here.

The text of the resolution follows:

"In view of the fact that for seventeen years the American Medical association has been on record for a workday not to exceed eight hours, and the prohibition of labor at night or in any hazardous employment for children under 16, the women's auxiliary to the Medical Society of the State of North Carolina commends the North Carolina general assembly, now in session, for having enacted a statute prohibiting the employment of girls between 16 and 18 at night.

"The auxiliary further urges the house to concur in the senate amendment on H. B. 287, now pending in the legislature, thereby establishing an eight-hour work day for all girls from 14 to 16, and most boys of like age, and prohibiting the employment of children under 16 from a specified list of dangerous employments."

House bill No. 287 is one of the most needed pieces of legislation in the state, but it has had a stormy time in the 1931 general assembly. Since its introduction in the house, many weeks ago, it has been in the hands of more than half the standing committees. The house finally passed it and the senate amended it, thus necessitating its reference to a committee of the house for concurrence. That committee has delayed reporting it out of committee so that the house may vote on the senate amendments.

Many of the women's groups in the state are rising up and insisting that the general assembly quit its foolishness and pass the measure.

Power Trust Is in Every Field; Aims to Control Popular Mind

Washington.—"The power trust has spent literally millions of dollars to control public sentiment," said Senator Norris, in discussing exposure of power trust methods by the federal trade commission.

"Every school child who has in any degree followed disclosures made by the commission knows that there is a power trust; that it is not only nation-wide, but that it is reaching out into various foreign countries," said Mr. Norris.

"The power trust would not only control public opinion, but opposes municipal ownership of electric light plants. They have done this secretly, by methods and means which are disgraceful and dishonest.

"They have undertaken to control elections, from the presidency down to municipal officials in towns and villages. They have spent thousands of dollars to control legislatures. They have not hesitated to control the pulpit. They have secretly sent their emissaries into communities to visit women's clubs, to influence Boy Scout organizations, to control farmers' organizations, to subsidize college professors and school superintendents.

"They have, likewise, indirectly attempted to control newspapers and have sometimes purchased. All these things are disclosed by the official investigation of the federal trade commission. They have sent their emissaries into Canada to bring back misleading and often untrue reports and conclusions as to what is being accomplished in Ontario by the publicly-owned electric light and power system. There is no doubt about these things. Further denial only adds to the already large accumulation of incriminating evidence which has been produced and which stands uncontradicted."

Senator Norris said that "every student knows" regulation of the power trust has broken down. "It has not been a success," he said. "As too often happens, the public regulators have been regulated by the trust by various methods."

Too Much Output, So Wages Were Cut

Raleigh, N. C.—Wages of textile workers have been reduced because they produced too much, according to J. W. Cates, of the Eastern Carolina division of the Southern Textile association.

The textile men met in this city. With wages cut and a surplus of output on their hands, they are asking, "What next?"

Wages, it is believed, cannot be reduced much lower without a risk of state-wide strikes.

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

FARRELL'S Volunteer Floral Shop

Flowers for All Occasions

Phone 6-3658

COME HERE

Men!

You Can Buy a Mighty

GOOD SUIT

For as Little as

$1.00

A WEEK

ASKIN & MARINE
904 MARKET ST.
Buy It Here On Credit!

LABOR BILL SIGNED.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Gov. Pinchot signed the Mansfield bill which awards double compensation to any minor under 18 who is injured while illegally employed. The employer and not the insurance carrier must pay the extra compensaiton.

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY
SELF SERVICE GROCERY
417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

Watch this space weekly for Lowest Prices on Quality Groceries
Your fellow Union Man buys here—
Why not you?

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

IF YOU WANT THE BEST FLOUR MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIEND

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, MAY 8, 1931 — Number 2

STATE LABOR PLEDGES AID TO MINERS

Calls on Governor to Investigate Conditions.

GROSS VIOLATIONS STATE LAWS CHARGE

Delegates Declare Public Welfare Demands Immediate Probe.

Jackson, Tenn., May 6.—Gross violation of state mining laws, and living conditions in various mining communities in Tennessee, justify and demand an immediate and searching investigation, according to a resolution adopted by the Jackson convention Tuesday, and the incoming executive council of the federation is charged with the duty of personally presenting the resolution to the governor of the state and asking that a commission be named at once to probe conditions surrounding these workers.

Supporting the resolution, William Turmblazer, president of District 19, painted a vivid and dramatic word picture of suffering of women and children forced by circumstances to endure privations, even though, in many cases, the family bread-winner is regularly employed.

Starvation wages, un-American working conditions and denial of constitutional rights were all included in charges which indicted mine owners and operators.

It is declared that the public welfare requires immediate action, and the situation, with all its hideous details, will be impressed upon the governor in the executive council's appeal for a searching probe.

The resolution follows:

Whereas, living conditions are such in the mining counties of our state warrant immediate investigation; and,

Whereas, in many instances there are gross violations of the state mining laws that may cause a large disaster to be visited upon the coal miners of this state; and,

Whereas, certain constitutional rights of the coal miners are being violated; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the delegates to this thirty-fifth annual convention, That we respectfully request the governor of the state to appoint a committee or commission of disinterested citizens to make an investigation of these matters immediately, the public welfare requiring same; and be it further

Resolved, That the incoming executive board upon the adjournment of this convention carry the resolution to the Hon. Gov. Henry Horton in person with the request that he give consideration to this all-important matter.

U. S. Child Labor Bar Approved by Colorado

Denver.—Both branches of the Colorado legislature passed a concurrent resolution ratifying the child labor amendment to the federal constitution.

That is the first favorable action in several years on the long-pending amendment. It was rejected by a score of states following a bitter campaign that was marked by much misrepresentation.

The proposed amendment would give congress the power to "limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years."

Congress believed it had that power when it denied the products of child labor to interstate commerce. This was declared void by the United States supreme court. Congress then passed a tax law, levying on the products of plants that employ child labor. This, also, was held to be void. Congress then passed the amendment and has submitted it to the states for ratification.

Would Railroad Alfred Hoffman For Second Term

Militant Hosiery Workers' Organizer Faces Prison for Activities.

ALFRED HOFFMAN

Stroudsburg, Pa., May 5.—What impartial investigators here regard as a more glaring case of conspiracy and persecution against a labor union leader than any that has happened in the south in recent years is the effort now being made to railroad Hosiery Workers' Organizer Alfred Hoffman, on a conspiracy charge, in this picturesque little Pennsylvania town. Organizer Hoffman recently served a month in jail at Marion, N. C., as a sequel to the strike of cotton mill workers. It is admitted that the jailing of Hoffman was not carried out because there was any real evidence that this burly young trade unionist had been definitely proven guilty of a crime, but because the manufacturers of North Carolina had given orders that some labor organizer pay the penalty for having blazoned the shameful labor conditions in the southern mills before the whole world.

Because he went to jail for the sake of the miserable "slaves of the spindle," under-cover agents have spread the propaganda against Hoffman that he is somehow a dangerous and lawless character. The vicious type of slander is used by the labor spies and anti-union agencies with great effectiveness in the

(Continued on Last Page)

Labor Injunction Harms Free Press

Washington.—The principles of free press is involved in the labor injunction, William Green, president A. F. of L., reminded delegates to the convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

The trade unionist declared that labor stands for a free press, even though workers may disagree with what is often printed.

"Injunction orders are a transgression upon freedom of the press," said Mr. Green. "Labor views with grave concern the encroachment upon this principle by equity courts.

"Even the slightest encroachment may prove a wedge which, if unopposed, will permit a further abuse of the restrictive powers of equity courts. It is but a step from the suppression of news circulated by hand bills, circulars and through the labor press to the hampering of newspapers in their expression of news relating to industrial disputes. This is a matter of vital interest to the press and to labor. Our mutual interests compel labor and the press to stand together in support of the freedom of the press, a cardinal principle upon which our government rests."

President Green said trade unionists ask no favors of the press. They only ask justice and fair play.

"In all human interest stories relating to labor and labor's experiences they covet only that it shall all be presented without bias and in a truthful, just and interesting way," he said.

Retirement of W. C. Birthright Recalls Record of Able Service To Tennessee Trade Unionists

(By R. M. Cooke)

Jackson, Tenn., May 7.—In the retirement of William C. Birthright, secretary-treasurer of the Tennessee Federation of Labor since 1917, who resigned his post today following acceptance a few months ago of a similar position with his international union, the federation loses one of its most valuable assets.

In his many years of conscientious service to the cause of organized labor, this valiant trades unionist has brought to our movement many splendid qualities, and no faults for which any member has ever had need to apologize.

Mr. Birthright was born at Helena, Ark., on April 27, 1887, and two years later his family moved to Nashville, where in due course of time he learned the barber's trade. Upon the completion of his apprenticeship he quickly became interested in the cause of labor, and from the first he has brought to the movement an intense but intelligent zeal. His first experience as a trades union officer, following his initiation in Local 35 on February 17, 1908, was as secretary-treasurer of that office, which position he filled with credit for ten years. He served eleven years as secretary-treasurer of the Nashville Trades and Labor council. His outstanding civic work in his home city, his service to the government during the world war and his unusual executive ability displayed in his activities in connection with political and legislative matters in which the organized workers are concerned, attracted the attention of his international union, and a few years ago he was elected a member of the general executive board of that body. Again his worth was proved, and when President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, was faced with the task of naming three competent, outstanding men to direct the southern organizing campaign Mr. Birthright was among the trio, and needless to add his ascending star was not dimmed by the importance of this assignment.

About one year ago President Shanessy, of the Barbers' International union, one of the ablest executives in the American labor movement, was forced by ill health to take a leave of absence of several months' duration. The general executive board then called the Tennessean to serve in that responsible position, and his service in that capacity was so outstanding that he was named to the post vacated by the general secretary-treasurer, which appointment by the board the membership later unanimously ratified. Although the new office necessitates Mr. Birthright's residence in Indianapolis, the headquarters city, he was prevailed upon by officials of the Tennessee Federation to remain as secretary-treasurer of that body until this convention.

In the formal passing of William C. Birthright as an officer of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, the rank and file of this state labor movement lose an able advocate, whose place will be hard to fill. There will be none, however, who would deny him the promotion to which he is so justly entitled, and hundreds of friends in the state will watch his career with confidence and pride.

I do not believe that a word of personal tribute is out of place just here. During my humble service in the state body of some fifteen years I have been associated with "Bill" Birthright under all manner of circumstances. May I not say now that I have always found him able, sincere, cool-headed, thoughtful, and above all—at all times—an honorable, home-loving Christian gentleman.

W. C. BIRTHRIGHT

Text of Resolutions Adopted By State Labor Representatives Indicates Spirit of Determination

Demand for Prevailing Wage Scales and Employment of Home Labor on State, County and Municipal Works Included In Program Which Covers Wide Field of Activities for Coming Year.

Jackson, Tenn., May 6.—What proved to be one of the most interesting and constructive conventions held by the Tennessee Federation in many years deliberated earnestly and thoroughly dissected and discussed resolutions covering a wide range of subjects. Although the provisions of some brought about sharp disagreement and debate, an air of serious determination pervaded the sessions at all times, and it was plainly evident that unprecedented economic conditions have brought about a realization that unity of intelligent action is the first necessity to meet this emergency.

Among the most important of the resolutions adopted were:

Declaring that the system of free textbooks has proved highly successful, and calling upon the state legislature to extend the system throughout Tennessee;

Recalling that the labor movement has always favored the primary; branding as reactionary the present movement to repeal the state primary laws, and urging upon progressive groups throughout Tennessee to oppose the effort to return to the antiquated convention plan;

Declaring that certain vicious elements are conducting a systematic campaign to shift the burdens of taxation upon the shoulders of the workers, and calling upon central bodies and local unions to unite in support of proven friends for public office;

Instructing the legislative chairman to seek state laws which will insure employment of local citizens on all public works;

Favoring enactment of the Davis-Bacon bill providing for payment of prevailing wage scales on all state, county and municipal projects;

Favoring the Norris bill for the operation of Muscle Shoals;

Favoring legislation safeguarding workers against occupational diseases;

Urging investigation of an article appearing in The Labor World which quoted Charles M. Schwab as admitting the diversion of funds which should have gone to the federal government to the payment of private bonuses to officials of U. S. Steel;

Favoring legislation for proper taxing and regulation of buses in Tennessee;

Declaring "Duck Head" overalls and work clothes "unfair" products;

Formally removing Sterchi stores from "unfair list."

"Canned Music" Will Be Feature Of Discussions

Musicians to Consider Many Problems—William Green to Be Guest.

When delegates to the thirty-sixth annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians meet in Chattanooga on June 7, one of the principal subjects for discussion will be "canned" music.

Decrying the practice of using musical robots in preference to personally conducted music, the musicians' organization, in a pamphlet sent out to various branches of the federation and individual members, urges a representative attendance at the convention.

Among the complaints made by the federation is that a large number of musicians have been added to the army of unemployed by the elimination of orchestras in the motion picture theaters.

In various speeches before the convention proper the subjects will be presented the delegates and some action seeking the re-establishment of personally conducted music will be taken.

Harry S. Kennedy, chairman of the committee on arrangements, anticipates an attendance of between 1,000 and 1,200 at the convention.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has accepted an invitation to attend and address the convention. Mr. Green is to be in Nashville on June 11 for an address before a joint meeting of the legislature and his itinerary will be arranged so that he may visit the Chattanooga convention.

Joseph M. Weber, of New York, for thirty years president of the federation, will preside at the general sessions. Convention headquarters will be in the Hotel Patten, and all sessions will be held in the Memorial auditorium.

Work for Uncle Sam Is Not "Bed of Roses"

Washington. — Government employes, as a whole, are not lolling in luxury, nor do they draw princely salaries, according to a study of the 10-year history of the federal retirement law made for the National Federation of Federal Employes.

The great bulk of employes who have been retired received salaries of less than $1,800 a year.

Far from being a life-time sinecure for employes, the government service has a large and costly labor turnover each year.

The study shows that contributions by government employes to the retirement fund have exceeded all expectations and soon will average $30,000,000 annually. Employes contributed $223,598,899 since the law became operative in 1921. Of this amount $22,961,907.16 represents interest on the deposits.

Against this total the government contributed only $40,450,000, of which $19,950,000 was paid into the fund on July 1, 1928, and $20,500,000 paid on July 1, 1929.

Retired employes receive $13,492,984 annually. This is divided among 17,768 persons. Analysis of pensions paid shows that 12 persons receive less than $100 retirement pay a year, 127 less than $200, 437 less than $300, 842 less than $400, 1,643 less than $500, 1,678 less than $600, and 1,735 less than $700.

BROTHERHOOD CHIEFS DENY RAIL WAGE CUTS

New York.—Executives of railroad brotherhoods deny that they or their members will accept wage reductions.

President Johnson, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, declared in no uncertain terms that "there will be no reduction."

"There is no justification for these reductions," he said.

"There is no truth in the rumor that we've discussed wages with any one," said President Robertson, of the locomotive firemen. President Whitney, of the trainmen, takes the same position.

AYMON BESTS LABOR EDITOR IN CLOSE RACE

Named President of State Body Fourth Time.

JAKE COHEN PUTS PEP INTO CONTEST

George Forbes Chosen Local Executive Board Member—Nashville Next.

PAUL J. AYMON
Re-elected President State Federation for Fourth Time.

Jackson, Tenn., May 6.—Paul J. Aymon, Chattanoogan, whose activities for and in behalf of organized labor cover a period of many years, was today chosen for the fourth successive term as president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Mr. Aymon's election was an outstanding tribute to his sincerity, honesty and ability, given emphasis by the fact that he defeated, by the narrow margin of one vote, another "old-timer" who has rendered good service to the labor movement—Jake Cohen, editor of the Memphis Labor Review and former fellow-townsman of Aymon.

The contest for the honor of heading the federation was one of the hardest-fought in the history of the state body. Partisans of both candidates spent much of their spare time during the three-days session in strugling with their fellow-delegates for preference for their respective choice.

The contest was remarkable in that the intense partisanship was absolutely free from bitterness or personal feeling. When the result was announced Mr. Cohen immediately moved to make the election unanimous, and was the first to grasp the victor's hand in congratulation.

W. E. Cheek, Nashville carpenter, was elected to succeed W. C. Birthright as secretary-treasurer, in a contest with C. O'Riley, Jackson barber, and David Hanly was the unanimous choice of the delegates to succeed himself as legislative chairman.

The executive council for the coming year will be composed of the following members:

Chattanooga—George Forbes, Postal Clerks.
Memphis—E. E. Bynum, Steamfitters.
Jackson—B. C. Blackmon, Machinists.
Knoxville—Sam C. Godfrey, Railway Carmen.
Nashville—J. O. Neville, Pressmen.
United Mine Workers—T. J. Smith.
Nashville was selected for the 1932 convention.

TAILORS STOP WAGE CUT.

Vancouver, B. C., Canada.—Organized journeymen tailors checked a 10 per cent wage cut. Three employers did not believe the workers when they said they would strike. The "Doubting Thomases" applied the reductions, but they changed their minds after a two-day tie-up.

MILLIONAIRES' "WAGES" COMPARED WITH INCOMES OF LOW-PAID LABOR

Duluth, Minn., May 7.—The 1929 income of 504 millionaires was compared with the income of farmers and industrial workers by William E. McEwen, editor of the Labor World, in a radio talk over station WEBC.

"These 504 millionaires paid taxes on net incomes of $1,185,135,330," said the labor editor. "This is equal to the wheat and cotton crops owned by 2,932,000 wheat growers and cotton planters.

"The net income of these 504 millionaires for a single year exceeded the life wages of 40,000 factory workers with average earnings of $1,000 a year. It exceeds the wage of nearly 40,000 union bricklayers, the highest paid American building mechanics, if they are fortunate enough to work 200 days a year, which they are not. It is greater than the incomes of 700,000 union carpenters.

"In low-wage, anti-union shop Duluth it would take 504 laborers 2,600 years to earn as much as these millionaires netted in a single year.

"The 504 Duluth anti-union shop laborers would have to start at the time of Jeremiah the Prophet, nearly 700 years before the birth of Christ, and work continuously at their present wages until today to earn as much money as the 504 favored Americans 'earned' in 1929, and whose incmes for that year amounted to all the money on deposit in all the banks of twenty cities the size of Duluth.

"I make these comparisons for the purpose of visualizing the tremendous incomes of the super-rich. And while wealth is rapidly concentrated into fewer hands each year, international bankers have entered into a conspiracy to force the wages of the workers still lower."

Newly Organized Labor College In First Session

Detroit.—The newly-organized labor college held its first session recently. Thirty-five students registered for the class studying "The History of the Labor Movement." That this history will be taught in the class from a strictly A. F. of L. point of view is evidenced by the fact that the instructor is Samuel Tobin, president of the Building Trades council.

Twenty-five students enrolled for the class in economics. Harry Riseman, a young attorney, is the instructor.

An educational committee, appointed by President Martel, of the Central Labor body, will have complete supervision of the educational work.

MILL WORKERS CUT; WAGE $1.80 A DAY

Everett, Wash.—Several hundred mill workers employed by the Robinson Manufacturing company are on strike against a 10 per cent wage cut that would bring rates in many cases down to $1.80 a day. Others would be paid $2.10.

The company, last fall, cut wages 20 per cent. The latest cut is being resisted and the employes favor organization. They are aided by the local trade union movement.

Women's Work Bill Signed by Governor

Albany, N. Y.—A bill providing for a 48-hour week for women and minors in mercantile establishments was approved by Gov. Roosevelt.

A half-holiday each week in return for a strictly limited amount of overtime is provided. Employers may require six additional hours twice a year for the purpose of taking inventory.

The half-holiday provision was vigorously urged by these women workers, said Gov. Roosevelt.

"It is my definite conviction," he said, "that a desirable social policy, already a custom in industry, is thus given the sanction of law."

WAGE CUTS HAMPER RECOVERY; DEFLATION COST ON WORKERS

— United States Senator La Follette.

Boston, May 7.—"Wage reductions is a bold proposal to make the worker pay the most of deflation," said Senator La Follette in a speech before the Ford Hall Forum in this city.

"It means a debased standard of living and degradation of citizenship," he said.

"To avoid the evils of unjust distribution of wealth and anarchic control of industry, progressives in congress contend for federal aid to meet the emergency of unemployment relief, a shorter work day and shorter work week, maintenance of wage levels, stabilization of industry, rehabilitation of agriculture and exercise of the power of taxation through the graduated income and inheritance tax laws to meet the increased burdens and responsibilities of government."

The Wisconsin senator challenged the president's recent speech congratulating the Red Cross for relying exclusively on voluntary private aid in its drought relief operations.

"Federal labor department data," continued Mr. La Follette, "show that while the spirit of those able to give charity was being well nourished, the meager physical nourishment of those unemployed was being obtained primarily out of government funds.

"The federal government and the federal income taxpayers escaped, it is true, but as a result a staggering burden has been thrown upon municipal, county and state governments, which are forced in all too many cases to obtain a heavy share of their income from taxes on real estate."

"The philosophy of laissez faire, applied during the last ten years, has brought disaster. It is obvious that we cannot manage our highly developed and intricate machinery upon the basis of ideas developed in a predominantly agricultural and individualistic society of 150 years ago. These ideas have, in fact, been abandoned by our more advanced economists and industrial and financial leaders."

THE LABOR WORLD
310 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY
Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council
R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager
Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1931.

JUST A DISTRESSING THOUGHT!

The financial situation in our fair state is very much like the weather. There seems to be a great many people saying quite a lot about it, and nobody ever does anything about it. It is very sad!

* * *

PASSING THE BUCK.

Having led the country into the howling wilderness of a nation-wide depression and feeling the loss of profits their blind policies have incurred business men are making the atmosphere blue with accusations hurled at the politicians. "Political violations" and not lack of business judgment, they cry, brought about our present economic disaster. In fact, every effort ever made by national and state legislative bodies to regulate industry is now coming in for sharp criticism, although business men maintain a discreet silence concerning the fact they have always taken full advantage of statutes giving them control over labor through the courts.

If politicians have meddled too much in industry isn't it fair to ask whether they found in their imaginations the issues upon which to legislate or were prompted to take action at the insistence of big business? The answer is plain enough to any sensible person when it is remembered business men have always attempted to use the legislative powers of our country to further their own selfish interests. It is an indisputable fact our law-making bodies have generally been partial to big business—freely subscribed to its mandates and influence and been led by its economic philosophy. The courts especially have been guilty of this.

While the country prospered and no menace loomed on the horizon that would swoop down on business and destroy profits business men were content to walk hand in hand with the politicians. But since the crash has come—well, that's something for which the politicians alone are to blame, says big business, for was it not they who passed the laws which should have safeguarded the nation's prosperity against calamity and depression and have not their laws failed to protect? From this warped viewpoint it is easy for business men to blame the lawmakers for the breaking down of our prosperity, but we cannot help but feel it would be better sportsmanship—and far wiser—if they would come forward and take upon their shoulders a share of the onus.

* * *

It would be interesting to know the details connected with the ways in which the five hundred or more American citizens amassed their fortunes of a million dollars in 1929. We wonder how many of them could be found whose own methods—or the methods of the companies their money was invested in—were entirely above reproach. It would be also interesting to know how many of these millionaires gave their employes a fair share of the riches that came in to them during the course of the year. Undoubtedly few of them worried in the slightest about the methods they used—far fewer gave a thought to the methods of the companies in which they had invested their money. None, we can safely say, turned to those of the wage group and gave them over and above their wages a share of the profits they so laboriously helped piled up!

Our whole plan of present-day industry seems to be based on the policy that's "it's yours if you can get away with it"—and stay out of the penitentiary. As the chief end of American life, "getting away with it" is imbibed straight or in a slightly diluted form by practically every American child by the time it reaches the age of ten. James Truslow Adams says we Americans are "essentially lawless." Probably he has overdrawn matters a little—and probably he hasn't when we look things squarely in the face. Yes, it does force us to do some downright hard thinking about our "essential lawlessness" when we see so many around us who do nothing but try to "get away with" all they possibly can. At least we can say this, that our present industrial policy—label it by whatever name you please—which takes the work and the best hours of the best days of the lives of men and women and gives them in return barely enough to hold together body and soul while immense fortunes are coming to their employers is needlessly causing misery, grief, pain and destroyed hopes which might easily be avoided.

GET THE TRUTH.

For a long time this newspaper has been digging out and publishing facts about the business system and what has made it go wrong. We do not apologize for the statement that no other agency has offered more rock-bottom truth about the causes of our present than has been offered by this newspaper. This week we offer more. Next week we shall offer more. And then more.

But all the truth in the world isn't worth much, in this connection, if it is merely stored up in the heads of people. Great masses of men and women must take this truth and do something about it.

* * *

We are showing our readers where the big trouble lies. We are showing where the big money goes. We are showing the big pay-off. We are showing who takes the bill toll out of labor. We are showing why the masses cannot consume enough of American output to keep the wheels going. We are showing why, with things as they were and are, a crash had come.

By the facts we show why another and another crash will come, unless the American people do something about it.

* * *

A great many go ramping around crying, "there' ought to be a law.' They say, congress should have done this and that.

They center attention on congress, which can do only a limited little bit. By doing that they take attention away from the industries that did the damage and made depression inevitable. They likewise take attention away from the big bankers who are even today trying their best to make confusion worse confounded, depression more depressed.

This crash came in and because of industry. Center attention where the trouble is! Level the angry finger of accusation at industry and banks!

* * *

Industry has been run as if it were in operation for the sole purpose of piling up fabulous loot for a very few. It has been run largely by private dictators. It has been run in a lop-sided manner to a lop-sided crash. Finally, after much telling of truth we begin to hear discussion of conscious control, of balanced production, of economic councils, and other devices of many names, but all founded on the thought that the masses must have a voice in determining whether there shall be prosperity or breadlines.

For many months we have talked about the imperative need for the development of democratic methods and process of industry. Away back of that the American Federation put it all into an official declaration called "Industry's Manifest Duty."

* * *

Such power as today rests in the hands of a few big executives, a few big bankers and a few tightly interlocked boards of directors must be modified by the processes of democracy.

If democracy is good in political life it is just as good in industrial life. And perhaps equally important.

If another depression—and still others—are to be prevented, the men and women in American industry must organize for prevention. We shall not get safety by wishing for it, no matter how much knowledge may be in our heads while we wish. There must be sound, democratic action.

WAGES AND DIVIDENDS.

Why should wages be reduced to assure dividends? The latter is called "wages of dollars" by those who see no difference between dividends and wages.

Men talk of "putting dollars to work." This flippancy is intended to place the dollar on a level with labor—with human beings. The dollar does not work. It is a medium of exchange. It is used, for instance, to buy a shovel or a ditch digging machine. Both must be operated by labor. The dollar, the shovel and the machine cannot, by themselves, create wealth.

A portion of the resultant wealth that follows the application of labor to the machine is given to workers. This is called wages. Because of its social effect, there is no similarity between this transaction and the payment of dividends.

When wages are cut, workers' living standards drop. This is felt by the entire country. If wages of Montana copper miners are reduced, boot and shoe workers in Massachusetts and Missouri are affected. It means less work for eastern and southern textile mills. The same theory applies to every industry and calling.

This situation does not apply when dividends are postponed. Small stockholders are few, as compared with the millions of wage earners. Living standards of large stockholders cannot be affected. The small number of stockholders is indicated by a recent statement that 4 per cent of the people own 80 per cent of the nation's wealth.

When dividends are not paid, this does not mean that a corporation is in the same condition as a worker whose wages are cut. Managers of this corporation may pass dividends to "provide for future contingencies." This means that earnings are placed in other funds, such as "reserves," "replacement" and "depletion."

Dividends may be used to carry inventories at lower market costs—that is, as the market price of this commodity drops, sufficient funds are set aside to equalize this drop. The passing of dividends may also mean that payment cannot be made on excessive (watered) capitalization and extra plant capacity that are evidences of unwise management, and which workers are now called upon to pay.

Wages is a first charge on industry. Wages are woven into the people's lives and are apart from dividends. Wage reductions mean greater concentration of wealth. Under this system the 4 per cent who now own 80 per cent of the nation's wealth will secure an increasingly larger share.

At The Change
A Critical Time In Every Woman's Life.
"During a critical time in my life I took Cardui for several months. I had hot flashes. I would suddenly get dizzy and seem blind. I would get faint and have no strength.
My nerves were on edge. I would not sleep at night.
"Cardui did wonders for me. I recommend it to all women who are passing through the critical period of change. I have found it a fine medicine."—Mrs. Hettie Murphy, Poplar Bluff, Mo.
Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine and contains no dangerous drugs.
E-176
CARDUI
Helps Women to Health
Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
Part XXV.
MARK 6:7-9, 12

WM. L. MOSS

In studying the difference of emphasis in the teaching of Jesus about money that we find in the gospels we soon discover that we can eliminate from all consideration the gospel of John. If you will take the trouble to look in a good concordance form the words "rich," "poor," "wealth," "poverty" and "penury" or any word of this class you will find that with the exception of two unimportant passages the references are all taken from the first three gospels and none from the fourth.

Then what is the gospel of John, and what is the explanation of the difference between it and the other three gospels, for doesn't it look like them in all outward respects? Yes, it most certainly does look like the gospels of Matthew, Mark and Luke. But, internally, between it and these three gospels there is a wide difference. Then what is it? In answer to this question the writer is going to choose the language of his definition very carefully and for a purpose: The gospel of John is a philosophical dissertation, a spiritual biography, based on the life of Jesus Christ. Speaking from a personal standpoint, the fourth gospel has always had an attraction for this writer that makes it easy for him to turn again and again to it when reading for spiritual refreshment—but as a life of Christ he does not even consider it!

Yet, without the gospel of John how poor would our understanding of Jesus really be in some respects. Without John we would not have Jesus' words revealing God's nature (Jn. 4:24), we would have been left in the dark as to how a man can be born a second time were it not for Jesus' explanation (Jn. 3:4-8), and we would not have known how Jesus regarded Himself in relation to those who believed on Him—as the Bread of Life on which believers are to feed (Jn. 6:47-58), as the Door through which the sheep (humanity) must pass to safety to salvation (Jn. 10:7-18) and as the Interceder in prayer before the Father beseeching Him that He will bestow the Holy Spirit upon those who keep the Son's commandments (Jn. 14:15-26). All this—and even more—is to be found only in the gospel of John and nowhere else. Still we cannot regard the gospel of John as being basically a narrative of the life of our Lord. The nature of the superstructure that has been reared upon the events of His life recorded in that gospel forbid it, as well as the purpose of the writer of the gospel when he sat down to compose it.

Thus we have our attention narrowed down to the first three gospels when we would seek to know Jesus' mind concerning the rich and what He thought about the question of money in general.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

THE great obstacle to prosperity in ancient European commerce was the lack of internal free trade, which meant a native merchant was forced to pay customs duties on his goods when he sent them from one to another of the different political and geographical divisions into which his country was divided. These internal customs duties were the same as present customs duties levied on goods passing between nations today. France as late as 1766 had three different sets of customs in addition to local duties, while the tiny duchy of Milan was divided into six provinces with different systems of commercial taxation.

Adam Smith declared England's free trade within her national boundaries one of the chief causes of her prosperity. And it was also one of the two chief reasons why the mercantile system so easily and rapidly brought about the industrial revolution, the other reason being the nature of the society that emerged out of the bitter struggles of the seventeenth century. Primarily it was a working society, a people who wanted to do something better than live off each other, and at its top was a commercially inclined aristocracy. Voltaire said with a great deal of surprise in the eighteenth century that the "gentlemen" of England—the aristocracy—were not ashamed of being engaged in commerce. In fact Walpole and Pitts, two of the greatest statesmen of the period, while they disagreed on details at least were in agreement on fact that the sovereign end of their country's government was commerce! In eighteenth century France commerce and industry had to support an idle and parasitical aristocracy that went untaxed, but in England, as we have seen, while its aristocracy was the governing class yet it was an aristocracy that did not hesitate to follow its commercial inclinations.

Bottom!

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

March 3: I met another one today. He wanted a dime. I gave him two-bits. Said he was an upholsterer, hadn't worked over a day or two a week in three months—sometimes he didn't catch a day a week. A kindly man, well past the 50 mark, wore a celluloid collar and a grey suit that needed pressing. The lines on his face spelled worry. . . . April 12. I saw him again today. He needed a shave badly and the lines in his face were deeper. A harried look has crept into his eyes. Said he was still making the rounds of the upholstering shops—but no work. Was having to beg money for every meal he ate. He's getting bitter. . . . May 6: I saw him yesterday. H—— and I gave him half a dollar between us. His clothes are shabbier, he still has on that celluloid collar and it is dirtier than ever. Hasn't worked a single day since we last met. He's going down fast. The lines in his face are deeper. When I first met him a couple of months ago his language had "sirs" and "if you please" and "thank you" in it—yesterday it was spiced with "hell" and "damn" and bitter, bitter words. He is at last one of the nation's "unemployables." He has hit bottom! And he knows it—that's the tragedy of the whole business. Unemployment insurance would have saved him from this—and would have saved us, too, from his possible derelictions in the future.

What Next!

A company in Hamburg, Germany, is supplying five-room cottages fabricated of standardized metal sections. The roof and outer walls are copper, the ceiling and inner walls are of sheet steel. Between these outer and inner metals is an aluminum-asbestos insulation, said to do wonders in shutting out winter cold and summer heat. The metal wall, 10 centimeters in thickness, is certified to absorb fluctuations in temperature to the same extent as would a brick wall 222 centimeters thick.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—Who was the first American labor organized to use amplifiers in organizing work?
A.—This distinction is claimed for Edward F. Callaghan, of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers, who is using amplifiers in organizing meetings held before the gates of hosiery mills in Reading, Pa.

* * *

Q.—What is one of the queerest strikes on record?
A.—A strike of executioners of China, who complained that unless they got more money per head they would starve.

* * *

Q.—In what country are women employed in mining?
A.—In India, where at the end of 1929 there were still 70,656 women working in the mines, out of a total of 269,701 employes. Employment of women as miners is now restricted and is expected to be abolished entirely by 1939.

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

Ruskin Offers Scholarship for Union Women

London.—A scholarship is offered by the governing council of Ruskin college, Oxford, for women actively engaged in trade union, co-operative, labor party or similar work.

This scholarship will be tenable at Ruskin college for the college year beginning Sept. 28 next and ending on July 2, 1932, and will be of the value of £160 (£125 college fees, inclusive of board, lodging and tuition, and £35 for the student's personal expenses). Candidates must be above the age of 20.

Teachers Must Vote For "Right" Party

Harrisburg, Pa.—Public school teachers in the anthracite coal region are discharged when they fail to work for the "right" political leaders, said Miss Barbara McGlynn, a union teacher from Wilkes-Barre township, in testifying before a legislative committee.

Miss McGlynn, who presented a copy of her dismissal as a public school teacher, urged adoption of the teachers' tenure bill, which would make it impossible to discharge teachers except after proper hearing and for clearly stated reasons.

Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer United Mine Workers, and John A. Phillips, president State Federation of Labor, urged passage of the bill.

Unionists pointed out that boards of education are mainly composed of wealthy men, former employers, who serve without pay. They are used to firing and hiring at will and the pending bill is opposed by them because it challenges their autocracy.

Pension Laws Useless, Is Employers' Verdict

New York.—There is comparatively little old age dependency of such nature as to require state action in the way of old-age pension legislation, according to the National Industrial Conference board, representing a score of anti-union employers' associations.

The public is assured that the general economic status of wage earners does not justify any assumption of lessened opportunity for individual thrift. These opportunities still exist, saith the conference board, adding that where the individual has neglected to provide for old age the family is ordinarily expected to provide for its aged members.

The board also states that though a long period of years wages have increased more rapidly than the cost of living. The inference is plain that workers do not save their money and neglect opportunities that they now believe has relieved them of the duty of self-support.

Industrial pensions, maintained by employers, are approved.

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

Shifting conditions make shifting demands. An industry thrives one year and a change of fashions, especially the mutations of feminine fancies, makes that industry a failure the next season.

Southern cotton farmers suffer from lack of consumers as well as from the ravages of the little black boll weevil. The rise of silks and rayons has meant the decadence of cottons and, to some extent, of woolens.

The American woman wears fewer clothes. So do her brothers, her cousins and her uncles. The textile industry suffers.

Once the mark of respectability and prosperity was the ownership of a piano in the home. Now the radio brings the melody and the automobile is the social measurement of the family's importance.

Many millions ride in cars and wear out fewer shoes, thus making life harder for shoemakers in Lynn and Brockton. Women wear reptile skins on their feet, making death more certain for South American pythons and other luckless ophidians.

People ride and get less exercise and eat less bread by a slice at a meal. Less wheat is thus consumed and the farmer finds his income diminished. Next, when if and as the nation takes to the air, road builders and automobile builders will suffer. Labor will be displaced and transferred but, without a scientific plan for production, industry will continue hodge-podge and planless and there will be much suffering and needless pain.

* * *

One hundred American cities spent over 40 million dollars in the year 1930 in caring for families that were in need. This was an increase of 89 per cent over the amount spent for the same purpose in 1929, according to the statement of Glenn Steele, in the Monthly Labor Review for April.

Perhaps the most significant part of the report lies in the statement that 72 per cent of this total amount was paid out of the public funds, as compared with 60 per cent in 1929. Private relief agencies raised 48 per cent more than in the previous year; but the public departments increased their relief grants by 146 per cent over the 1929 figures.

In the Detroit area, where the relief funds were nearly all derived from taxation, the public expenditures for relief in 1930, $8,680,017, more than equaled the combined contributions from the public treasuries of seventy-four cities.

It is also stated that "on the whole the cities of from 50,000 to 100,000 population experienced less severe conditions last year than the larger industrial centers."

* * *

No American with a sense of justice can read of the Mooney-Billings case in California without a feeling of outrage. As Lillian Symes points out in a fine analysis of the Mooney-Billings affair in Harper's Magazine the case is really an American Dreyfus case, only justice has not been triumphant in California as it was in France.

"The Dreyfus case," she writes, "had its belated happy ending after twelve years. After fifteen years nothing short of a violent awakening of the state's long dormant sense of social indignation can save us from the disgrace of having these men die in prison—and from having some future generation shudder at California's callous indifference and stupidity."

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45178
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Cauley H. Tindell vs. Maggie May Tindell
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Maggie May Tindell is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next June rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in June next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 16th day of April, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
F. L. Dixon, Atty. 5-8

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45238
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Mamie G. Tucker vs. Joseph R. Tucker.
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Joseph R. Tucker is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication by made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next June rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in June next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken as confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 30th day of April, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
5-29

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45209
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Henry Wise vs. Mary Wise
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Mary Wise is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton County, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next June rules of said court to be held at the Courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in June next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 24th day of April, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
F. L. Dixon, Atty.

STATE UNIONS TO MEET.

Ottumwa, Ia.—The annual convention Iowa Federation of Labor will convene here Tuesday, June 9.

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

HEADACHE, Digestive Disturbances

"I used to suffer a great deal with sick headache. These headaches seemed to come from biliousness. I would be very dizzy and sick at my stomach, and sometimes I would have to go to bed.

"I found that Black-Draught would relieve these headaches very quickly. It seemed to cleanse the system.

"Now I do not let myself go so far—I take Black-Draught as soon as I begin to feel bad and avoid a lot of suffering."—Mrs. L. R. Little, 41 W. High St., Gainesville, Ga.

Costs only 1¢ a dose. E-177

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

WOMEN who are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

Chattanooga's Best Entertainment

BIJOU

Chattanooga Owned and Operated

MONDAY — TUESDAY — WED.

"KISS ME AGAIN"

—with—

Bernice Claire

—o—

Pathe Talking News

Vitaphone Variety

THURSDAY — FRIDAY — SAT.

"THE PUBLIC ENEMY"

—o—

Pathe Talking News

Vitaphone Variety

PARAGON CAFE

(Circle Club Headquarters)

11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c

REAL WESTERN STEAKS

Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

FARRELL'S Volunteer Floral Shop

Flowers for All Occasions

Phone 6-3658

TAXI

Phone 7-1261

PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE

WATSON CAB CO.

PREMIER CABS — METER RATES

208 West Ninth St.

DON'T BE SELFISH Tell Your Neighbors!

Take a Light Dose of

BL & KR

at Bed Time, and a Full Dose Before Breakfast, for a few days—then, "TELL YOUR NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS."

Try This on Puny Children

BL & KR is Sold by Druggists

Accept No Substitutes

Those who desire better living and working conditions must do their share to secure them. Demand union made goods and service.

Cigarettes—2,600 a Minute—And Profits?

Business Week describes a new cigarette-making machine made by American Machine and Foundry Co. that nearly quadruples present cigarette-machine speed. Built to average 1,600 perfect cigarettes a minute, tests show a production of 2,600. Three of these speed demons have been in operation a year to get all "kinks" and "bugs" out before general use. Present machines, little changed in 25 years, average but 600 cigarettes a minute. The tobacco trust, already a colossal profit-maker, exploiting underpaid workers and tobacco growers, may now pile up even higher heaps of wealth—unless workers find a way to increase wages enormously.

High Pay Scales Held Big Factor In Child Health

William Green Points Out Adequate Incomes for Workers Promote Children's Physical, Mental and Spiritual Welfare.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, May 7.—Adequate wage scales for the workers promote child health and happiness, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared in a radio address given as part of the observance of May 1 as "Child Health day." Mr. Green directed attention to the suffering of children during the unemployment crisis and said that it must be made possible for fathers and mothers to earn a wage sufficient to supply children with the things which make for health, development, education, happiness and usefulness.

"The children of our nation," Mr. Green continued, "are the most precious treasures we can claim, and it is our duty, and should be considered our privilege, to provide them with the finest and happiest living conditions possible. The purpose of the White House conference on child health and protection 'is to set forth an understanding of those safeguards which will assure to them health in mind and body.' Embodied in the American Federation of Labor program is much the same ideal; for the child, the right to live the life of childhood, unhampered by industrial work, and with the opportunity for an education which will prepare him to become a useful and happy citizen, capable of earning a living when he reaches maturity."

NOTICE!

Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council will meet Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, in regular session. All delegates are requested and expected to be present, as matters affecting every local union will come before the meeting for discussion.

Ohio Governor Approves Bill to Bar Yellow Dog

State Becomes Fifth to Deprive Slave Contract of Standing Before Courts — Labor Long Fought for Measure.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Columbus, O., May 8.—With the signing by Gov. George White of the anti-yellow dog contract bill, Ohio becomes the fifth state to have legislation outlawing the yellow dog. Similar legislation has been passed by Colorado, Wisconsin, Arizona and Oregon.

The bill signed by Governor White makes illegal any labor contract which attempts to forbid either employe or employer from organizing.

Organized labor has waged a long fight for the bill, which becomes law in 90 days from May 2.

Assemblyman Joseph Cassidy, union linotype operator on the Cleveland Plain Dealer, was the leader in pushing the legislative fight for the bill.

ATTACHMENT NOTICE

Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee
Hoskins Van Hooser vs. Leonard Barker and Wife, Betty Barker

In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiffs, and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and an original attachment having been levied on one lot of household goods, being lot No. 3648, in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

This 8th day of April, 1931.

KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

ATTACHMENT NOTICE

Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee
E. R. Zane vs. Leonard Barker

In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and an original attachment having been levied on one lot of household goods, being lot No. 3648, in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

This 8th day of April, 1931.

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Hubby—What in the world do you call that, a vase or a bowl or what?

Wifey—I don't know dear. The salesman just called it a bridge prize.

* * *

Creation took but seven days,
But such cosmetic gestation
Could not occur if it had need
Of senate confirmation.

* * *

Broker—We feel that there are some very "good buys" at the present time.

Customer—Yes, I have heard that before, and I think what you mean is "Good-bys."

* * *

Some of those modern writers ought to lift their minds out of the gutter. After all, we must keep our gutters clean.

* * *

A man seldom meets another man who is smarter than himself.

* * *

Willis—Have you got one of these home refrigeration plants?

Gillis—You bet; and I've got a whistle on it, too, to razz the iceman when he goes by.

* * *

A little girl saying her prayers kept referring to "Andy." When she had finished, her mother inquired who she meant by "Andy."

She answered—Well, mother, at Sunday school they said, "Andy walks with me, Andy talks with me, Andy tells me I am his own."

* * *

These gangsters may be able to get away with murder in Chicago, but they get into trouble when they forget to pay their income tax. We are a patient people, you understand, but there are some things that we just won't stand for.

* * *

Binks (to storekeeper)—Have you any eggs in which you can guarantee that there are no chickens?

Storekeeper (after pausing a moment)—Yes, sir; duck eggs.

* * *

Excuse me! More riddles. True fans never tire of guessing them, and never give up so long as there is a chance of getting the right answer. Are you a true fan?

1. What is bookkeeping?
2. Do you know what they call small gray cats in Canada?
3. What do people in China usually do when it rains?
4. How did the whale that swallowed Jonah obey one of the biblical commandments?
5. How does an auctioneer look when conducting a sale?
6. Which is the left side of a baked potato?
7. Who is the most distant relative?
8. When a young man calls upon his sweetheart, what should he shun?
9. How do gamblers justify their practice in the Bible?
10. Brothers and sisters have I none, but that child's father is my father's son. What relation am I to the child?

Answers: 1. Forgetting to return borrowed books. 2. Kittens. 3. They let it rain. 4. Jonah was a stranger and he took him in. 5. Forbidding 6. The side that is not eaten. 7. Adam. 8. Affection in his heart, perfection in his manners, and confection in his pockets. 9. They say Adam and Eve threw up a paradise (pair o' dice) for an apple. 10. Father.

* * *

Mistress (discovering butler helping himself from a cellarette)—Robert, I am surprised.

Butler—So am I, madam. I thought you was out.

* * *

Craige—I'm doing research work.

Thayer—How's that?

Craige—I'm working with the sheriff. He stops the cars and looks for liquor. I'm a little farther down the road and I research them.

* * *

A farmer and his son were working in a field when the old man tripped on the stump of a tree and fell. He got up and said:

Farmer (angrily)—Gosh darn that stump. I wish it was in hell.

Son—Pop, I wouldn't say that, you might stumble over that stump again some day.

* * *

Our idea of a man with a "pull" is our dentist. . . The man who is in love with himself has no fear of being jilted. . . The only conspicuous red movement in this country is the lipstick business. . . A lot of people are hard to please. Some others are just hard.

Postoffice Squibs

By R. B. LANE

R. M. Long has returned to work after ten days' vacation.

* * *

A friend asked me what Herschel Massey was doing off so much. Well, I don't know, he may have to report to the squire.

* * *

M. M. Echols has had his car repainted, which makes it shine like new.

* * *

Harry Sagasser is bringing in some fine tulips, while Supt. John S. Walker brings in California poppies.

* * *

When you put mail in letter boxes, if you get your fingers sticky, it's only paint, as they are receiving their annual new dress.

* * *

W. A. Myers has returned to work after a siege of flu.

* * *

M. M. Echols came in the other morning grinning from ear to ear, shouting, "I am a grandpa."

* * *

Brother Dailey is still bothered with his teeth. He has one pulled occasionally, but I guess he needs to lose them.

* * *

Received card from Harry Gribben, who is on a trip up east. Will visit Washington, Philadelphia and New York before returning.

* * *

Frank Brooks told Echols not to visit his grandchild too often, as he was speaking from experience as his children's granddady. Henry Oehlsen makes it an excuse to come and see the children, but always stays for supper. He don't have to be asked.

* * *

Pat Connor says that he is not bothered so much with the back seat drivers (as he calls them when they try to help his opponent of the checker game) since a certain thing happened.

* * *

The editor failed to inform me that he was going to issue last week's Labor World earlier than usual, so I had my notes returned.

WORKLESS THRONG BOULDER DAM; NO PROSPECT FOR EMPLOYMENT

Los Angeles, May 7.—Job-seeking workers should avoid Biulder dam, advises Don Cameron, general representative Brotherhood of Carpenters, on returning from an investigation of Las Vegas and the dam site, under instructions of General President Hutcheson, of the Brotherhood.

Las Vegas, 31 miles from Boulder dam, is crowded with unemployed, most of whom are penniless,' said Mr. Cameron. The telegraph office and the postoffice are filled with men seeking money from home.

Hundreds of workers are camped along the Colorado river. Those who have flivvers have no money to buy gasoline. They cannot move their autos and they have no food.

The Six companies, who have the construction contract, receive thousands of letters every day from applicants for positions. A regulation reply, that "we regret there is nothing we can offer you at present," is forwarded to the job-seeker.

"The Six companies," said Mr. Cameron, "are now working 200 men, about 30 of whom are carpenters, in the erection of 30 cottages. The other employes are mostly laborers. Carpenters' wages is $5.60 a day; laborers, $3.50. Deductions are $1.60 a day for board and room; hospital and insurance charges of 15 cents a day, and $3 for poll tax.

"It will be noted," continued Mr. Cameron, "that while the employers have dug up the Nevada law regarding payment of poll tax and hospital fees, they have overlooked the state law of Nevada calling for a minimum wage of $4 a day."

Nevada citizens favor enforcement of the minimum wage, said Mr. Cameron, "but they are unable to cope with the rush of people to Las Vegas.

"Organized labor should insist that no further appropriations be made for this work unless wages are adjusted to meet present living costs.

"With improved machinery and the few men employed, this project can afford to pay a better wage."

The federal employment agency has registered 2,800 workers and has received 8,000 applications by mail, but the agency has received few calls for men.

Wage Slash Urged By Another Banker

Chicago.—George E. Roberts, vice-president of the powerful National City Bank of New York, is the latest banker to join wage slashers.

In an address to the Illinois Manufacturers' Cost association the eastern financier urged wage cuts to bring about what he termed "an equilibrium in industry."

He has the bread-basket outlook, as far as workers are concerned, and insists that when commodity prices drop, wages should be shoved downward.

The banker stated that "a great reduction of actual wage payments has occurred," but these reductions do not reduce the cost of production or the cost of living and, therefore, do not stimulate consumption or increase employment. Real wage reductions is favored.

Old-Age Pension Plan Passed in New Jersey

Trenton, N. J.—The state legislature passed a bill that provides financial relief for needy persons of 70 years and over. Gov. Larson has said he will sign the measure.

Senator Stout sought to amend the bill to provide relief for persons 65 years and over, but withdrew the proposal when it was stated that this is contemplated when funds are available.

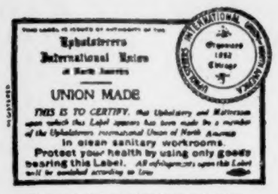
Senator Richards said $3,800,000 would be required for the first year of the pension plan on the basis of 70 years, whereas $5,600,000 would be required at 65. A general tax would be required to finance the difference between the two amounts, he stated. If the age limit is kept at 70, he declared, a capital fund can be built up from receipts of the inheritance tax department.

KNOW Your Union Label

Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen

Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union

Union Label of Tobacco Workers



Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America

Coopers' Union Label

United Leather Workers Union Label

United Hatters of North America Label

Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners

Plate Printers and Die Stampers' Union Label

International Photo-Engravers' Union Label

Local Pressmen's Union Label

Allied Printing Trades Label

Local Typographical Union Label

Union Label of Stove Mounters

Emblem of American Federation of Musicians

Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union Label

Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings

Store Card of Retail Clerks

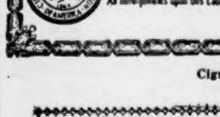
Brick and Clay Workers' Label

Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union Label

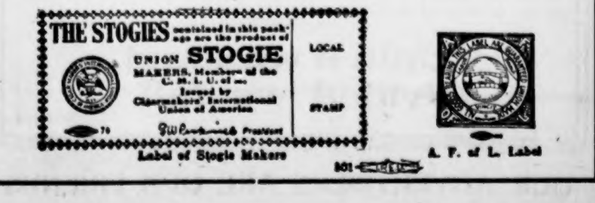
Machinists' Union Label

Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators

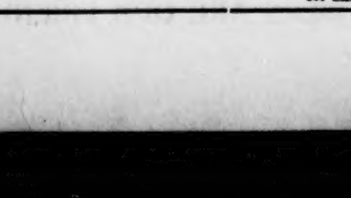
Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union



Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union



Cigarmakers' Union Label



Label of Stogie Makers

A. F. of L. Label

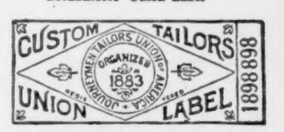
(REGISTERED) Bartenders' Button

REGISTERED Waiters' Button

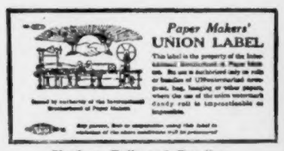
Card of Union Bartenders

Card of Union Waiters

Bookbinders' Union Label



Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America



Used on Rolls and Bundles

Paper Makers' Union Labels

Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers

Broom and Whisk Makers' Union Label — Jewelry Workers' Union Label

Union Labels of Electrical Workers

Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance

Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America

Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union

Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation

Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company

Ideal Service at Moderate Cost

Phone 6-6114

COAL

Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25

Honest Weight — Prompt Service

CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—
Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

AN ENGLISH EDITOR'S TIP TO AMERICANS, "RISE AND WALK"

Herbert N. Casson, of Efficiency Magazine, Wants to Know How It Can Be Possible That 120,000,000 People Can Be Wrecked by Handful of Wall Street Fools.

You are depressed. You think you are crippled. You are afraid of the future. You are full of years. You have half the gold of the world and half of the machinery and most of the automobiles and all the sky-scrapers.

You have the greatest home market in the world and the largest corporations that the world has ever seen.

You are ruled more by ideas and less by tradition than any other people in the world. You have usually done what you thought you could do.

How can it be possible that a progressive nation of 120,000,000 people can be wrecked by the speculation of a little handful of fools in Wall street.

The prices that were forced too high had to come down. Today all the prices are too low. There is now a golden opportunity for every man who has eyes to see it.

Dollars are now being sold for 30 cents. Practically every security in the United States is being sold at less than its value.

The way to create a fortune is to buy from pessimists. Pay your money and take the risk. Frick started his career by buying coke ovens in the slump of 1873. Carnegie made $300,000,000 by buying steel plants in slumps.

Hundreds of fortunes have been made by buying from pessimists. Ye gods! What a chance there is at this moment!

In five years from now, most American business men will belong to the "I-Wish-I-Had-Club." Then it will be too late to buy a dollar for 30 cents. The opportunities will be gone.

When a horse balks the balk is in his head not in his legs. He moves on when he thinks he will. And when an American business man is depressed, the slump is in his head. There is nothing serious to prevent him from making money if he thinks he will.

When fear rules the will, nothing can be done, but when a man casts fear out of his mind, the world becomes his oyster.

To lose a bit of money is nothing, but to lose hope—or lose nerve and ambition—that is what makes men cripples.

The silly depression has gone on long enough. Get rid of it. It is inside you. Rise and walk.

LIVING FORCED TO EUROPE'S BASIS WILL ASSURE PAY OF BANK LOANS

New York, May 7.—A European standard of living for American wage workers was predicted by Congressman Snell in a sensational speech at the annual dinner of the St. Lawrence County society. He referred to our high living standards as "artificial."

Mr. Snell's utterance is significant because he is chairman of the powerful committee on rules, that dictates legislation in the national house of representatives.

The speaker of the house, recently deceased, and Congressman Tilson, majority leader, together with Mr. Snell, were referred to in the last congress as the "triumvirate." Mr. Snell's prediction referred to "the next generation," although it might be asked if the European standard of living is good enough for the next generation of American workers, why not now?

The speaker's theory fits into the philosophy of bankers who have loaned billions of dollars to Europe and who would admit foreign goods to this country that the loans may be paid.

"For many years," said Mr. Snell, "on account of our natural resources and by means of a protective tariff, we have artificially maintained a higher standard of living than in any other countries, but we have gone the limit on a tariff. Our natural resources are being depleted and it will be necessary that the next generation govern its economic standards and living conditions more in accord with world-wide conditions than we have done in the past.

"In this country we have gone the limit of artificial stimulation and my prediction is that in the next few decades living conditions in America and the rest of the world are going to be much nearer the same level than they are today."

Mr. Snell abandoned the theory that American standards should be the pattern for the rest of the world. He took the opposite position and insists that because 10 per cent of our output is exported we should accept the living level of Europe. He favors the five-day week—in principle. But he rejects it as a practical proposition because of the long work day abroad. He ignores the greater productivity of American workers.

The speech is in line with recent utterances by international bankers, and is another indication of a growing rift in Mr. Snell's party over the tariff. He appears to be in accord with eastern international financiers who would admit foreign goods that interest on their European loans may be paid. In that event, these bankers reason, lower living standards for American workers is necessary.

American Job Holders 'Racketeering" Haiti

New York.—"A gang of American racketeering job holders in Haiti cause increasing tension in that country," declared Ernest G. Chauvet, editor of a Haitian newspaper, at a luncheon in this city.

The editor said that his countrymen accepted recommendations of the Forbes commission, but deplored that the proposals have not been carried out.

"Haiti is pro-American, but anti-occupationist," he said. "Haitians feel that American job holders, the so-called American experts, have become an object of derision throughout our country. Their blunders are injuring the economic life of Haiti.

"Not only are Americans holding most of the important offices, but they do not even speak the language. Gross inefficiency is the result. With the end of the mailed fist military rule of Haiti by marines the civil occupation has broken down in the face of governmental and economic problems.

"Haitians understand that it is not the American nation, but a gang of racketeering job holders who are deceiving the American people, who are creating the present serious situation. For example, an American typist, without qualification, is given the highly technical position of road engineer.

"An instance of gross maladministration is furnished by the Service d'Hygiene, where marine corporals with no medical training are made officers, although Haitians with five years of medical training are kept waiting and jobless."

Radio Trust Bumped By U. S. High Court

Washington.—The federal supreme court declined to review a decision by two lower courts that the Radio Corporation of America is engaged in unlawful practices when it forces independent radio manufacturers to use its vacuum tubes.

The court's refusal to reconsider the decisions is the hardest blow ever dealt the radio trust. It has forced independents to buy its tubes, and has terrorized these manufacturers by threats of endless and costly litigation.

The decision will strengthen the fight against the radio trust for its attempt to monopolize radio communication. Radio manufacturers may also sue the trust for treble damages under the anti-trust law.

Auto Makers Asked To Aid Detroit Poor

Detroit, Mich.—A resolution calling upon auto manufacturers who draw their labor from Detroit to share the city's burden of supporting families of the unemployed was unanimously adopted by the city council.

Mayor Murphy told the council that 40 per cent of the amount expended for relief goes to unemployed men who ordinarily work in factories outside the city limits, but whose homes are in Detroit.

Councilmen asserted that the city cannot continue to pay for relief without going bankrupt within a year.

Industrial Safety Urged in New York

Albany, N. Y.—Wage workers, as individuals, must become more interested in industrial safety, declared a committee that is studying this question. John Sullivan, president New York Federation of Labor, is chairman.

The committee recommended that each local union in every industry appoint a permanent safety and health committee to report on unsafe habits and practices within the control of the individual worker, together with safe and healthful habits which should be adopted.

If the accident is caused by lack of proper safeguards, the matter should be reported to the state department of labor.

"The keynote of this campaign," said the committee, "is to be the responsibility of each worker for the safety of himself and fellow workers."

Gov. Roosevelt said it is imperative that the workers assist "in stemming this rising tide of suffering and loss."

"During this year there were 109,848 compensated accidents, an increase of more than 9,000 from the year 1928-29," said the governor.

"There are thousands of persons injured at work every year who do not receive compensation because their disability did not last seven days, or their work did not come under the compensation law."

Davenport P. O. Job On Low Wage Basis

Davenport, Ia.—Work on a basis of 30 cents an hour features the new postoffice building in this city.

The Tri-City Labor Review asks "where is that pledge that was given the president by employers that there would be no reduction in wages?"

"That a contractor, hiding behind the technicalities of the law is permitted to work on federal jobs and enforce a 30-cent wage scale on working men simply because of an industrial depression, reflects no credit on government officials," says the labor paper.

Wisconsin to Require Jury in Contempt Cases

Madison, Wis.—Gov. La Follette signed a bill which provides for jury trial in all civil and criminal contempt cases. The measure does not apply to direct contempts committed in the presence of the court.

"All contempt proceedings," the measure reads," "whether civil or criminal, brought for the alleged violation of any such restraining order or injunction, are hereby declared to be independent, original, special proceedings, and shall require a unanimous finding of the jury."

A criminal contempt proceeding—which involves violation of criminal law—is a rare occurrence. The United States supreme court ruled in the Michaelson case, that jury trial in such contempts, is "the best practice of the court."

Civil contempts, however, have been held by courts to be within their jurisdiction. This right is challenged by the new law. The power of the court to punish for direct contempt—such as improper language to, or in the presence of, the court—remains untouched.

Publishers Oppose Five-Day Work Week

New York.—The five-day week is "uneconomic," declared the American Newspaper Publishers' association at their annual convention in this city.

The resolution sounds familiar to printing trades unionists who have reduced the work day during the last generation.

These employers reaffirmed their former position that five-day requests on individual publishers be referred to the next meeting of the association "and in the interim adhere to this resolution."

Harry Chandler, publisher of the anti-union Los Angeles Times, was re-elected president of the association.

CHANGE IN THEATER LAW HOLDS ONLY PRODUCERS

Albany, N. Y.—Gov. Roosevelt approved an amendment to the Wales theater padlock law by removing actors, stage hands and musicians from prosecution in connection with alleged obscene plays and placing responsibility solely upon producers and authors.

"The propriety of making a wholesale arrest of an entire cast, including some actors who may not have anything to do with that part of the performance which is claimed to be obscene, is, of course, questionable," said the governor.

"Inasmuch as there is suitable provision in the law for the indictment and conviction of the actual offenders, it is not only just but proper that the law be amended to exclude those who may possibly be non-offenders."

75,000 IDLE AIDED BY SPORTS CARNIVAL

St. Louis, Mo.—"There are 75,000 idle persons in this city," said Scott R. De Kins, director-general citizens' committee on relief and employment, in an appeal to patronize a huge sports carnival.

"The relief agencies, through which the citizens' committee gives relief for needy persons, have been caring, the past several months, for 12,000 families, representing 50,000 individuals, keeping roofs over their heads, furnishing them with food and clothing, preventing actual starvation," said Mr. De Kins. "The calls for help are increasing and will do so until employment on a large scale is resumed."

URGE IDLE INSURANCE.

Madison, Wis.—A state unemployment insurance bill to be financed one-half by employers and one-half by a surtax and doubled inheritance taxes has been introduced in the state legislature by Assemblyman Hampel.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

MORE ABOUT ALFRED HOFFMAN

(Continued from First Page)

smaller towns such as Stroudsburg, where the citizens have alreay been trained to believe that trade unions are criminal organizations. In Stroudsburg, ever since the strike at the Mammoth mills broke out, the local industrial bureau (a sort of chamber of commerce), has most industriously striven to break the strike by every and any means.

The sort of lurid and infamous rubbish for which Dave Clark, of the Southern Textile Bulletin, has been notorious has been industriously strewn about Stroudsburg in an effort to develop a hatred of a union which had enterprise and ability enough to carry on a most successful strike in the face of all kinds of obstacles.

While union leaders do not feel that the effort to make a criminal out of Hoffman will get very far, nevertheless, an expensive and troublesome legal fight will have to be made. Furthermore, the anti-union forces are making capital out of the fact that an indictment was made.

ANDRIES MEYER DIES.

New York.—Andries Meyer, president Diamond Workers' Protective Union of America, an A. F. of L. affiliate, died at his home of heart disease. He was 62 years old and was president of the union for more than a quarter of a century. He is survived by a widow, three daughters and a son.

COME HERE

Men!

You Can Buy a Mighty

GOOD SUIT

For as Little as

$1.00

A WEEK

ASKIN & MARINE

904 MARKET ST.

Buy It Here On Credit!

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY

SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

PURE LARD Very Best, No Beef Tallow in This Lard — 4 Lbs. 37c
MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE Limit 2 lbs.—Lb. 27c
APPLE BUTTER "Maiden Blush," Large 38-oz., Full Quart—Jar 15c
PINK SALMON No. 1 Tall, 15c Size, Can 10c
TOMATO SOUP OR HOMINY Van Camp's, Tall Can 5c
BAKING POWDER Calumet; 10c size 2 for 15c; Lb. Can 22c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

IF YOU WANT THE BEST FLOUR MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA

THE LABOR WORLD

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, MAY 15, 1931 — Number 3

MINE WORKERS OF TENNESSEE SEEKING PEACE

Hope to Avoid Repetition Kentucky Trouble.

PUBLIC AGENCIES ASKED TO INTERCEDE

Desperate Workers Continue Efforts for Relief From Conditions of Serfdom.

Colorado and Ohio Oust "Yellow Dog"

Denver, May 14.—Governor Adams signed a bill that outlaws the "yellow dog." The measure originated in the house and was later approved by the senate.

Columbus, Ohio, May 14.—Organized labor won its long fight against the "yellow dog" when Governor White signed a bill that outlaws this alleged contract.

* * *

Efforts to avoid, in Tennessee, such unfortunate disturbances as have plagued the mining districts of Kentucky during the past fortnight, are continuing, and it is reported that, while little has been found to encourage the belief that a satisfactory mutual agreement will be reached, the workers and their representatives have not lost hope that somehow something will be done to take from them the un-American and impossible burdens which have been placed on their shoulders by what they regard as arrogant and foolish policy of the employers.

It was pointed out to The Labor World this week that, prior to the walkout in the Kentucky fields, William Turnblazer, of Jellico, president of District 19, made personal appeals for investigation to the United States Department of Labor, the National Red Cross, the governor of the state and other agencies, without avail. In Tennessee, it was recalled, the Tennessee Federation of Labor organized sent a long telegram to President Hoover, describing conditions in the mine fields of this state and appealing for an investigation. Mr. Henry Horton was also appealed to, but in lieu of the telegraph, the executive council of the federation was instructed to present the petition of the starving workers to his excellency personally.

However, in spite of a "yellow dog" contract, and a house-lease which makes a virtual state of serfdom, the workers of various camps are prepared to leave their jobs, it is said, on a moment's notice. "If we must starve," they are alleged to have said, "we might as well die working as working." Up to the present time, cooler heads among the workers and earnest advice of representatives of the United Mine Workers of America have prevailed, and there have been no walk-outs in this state. George H. Van Fleet, conciliator of the United States Department of Labor, is endeavoring to effect an adjustment of the threatened disturbances in Tennessee fields.

The "yellow dog" so-called "contract," the instrument which buried Don Parker, of West Virginia, deep into his political grave, is used in the strict, and The Labor World's informant offered, as evidence of this discredited evil, a copy of an alleged contract of employment," which was signed by both parties.

The "contract," forced ruthlessly down the throats of honest American workmen, taught from their childhood that their homeland is the home of the brave and the land of the free," reads as follows:

CONTRACT OF EMPLOYMENT.

I am employed by and work for the.....Coal and Coke Company with the express understanding that I am not a member of the United Mine Workers of America, and will not become so while an employe of the.....Coal and Coke company; that the.....Coal and Coke company is run non-union and agrees with me that it will continue to run non-union while I am in its employe. If at any time while I am employed by the

(Continued on Last Page)

GREEN AND WOLL DENOUNCE "RESIGNATION" STORY AS WITHOUT SEMBLANCE OF TRUTH

Trade union circles throughout the nation were stirred last week by a newspaper story, published first in a Washington daily, to the effect that President Green was becoming "weary of his difficult post" and would shortly resign his office as chief executive of the American Federation of Labor. The story continued that "Matthew Woll clubs" were being organized in various cities, with the purpose of having Mr. Woll succeed the president.

Both President Green and Vice-President Woll have vigorously denied the allegations in toto, and each declares in prepared statement that there was absolutely no foundation for the story, which was "based entirely upon premeditated assumption and ruthless presumption."

In view of the sensation caused by the report, which was followed by a veritable flood of protest from all sections of the country, statements of both Mr. Woll and Mr. Green are particularly interesting.

Mr. Green Said:

There is no truth in the story published in the Washington Daily News on May 5 that I intend to tender my resignation as president of the American Federation of Labor at the meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor which is being held at the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor which meets in Vancouver, British Columbia, next October.

It is difficult to understand the basis for such a story. No inquiry had been made of me by the reporter or the news editor regarding the truthfulness of this story before it was published. If such an inquiry had been made I would have stated that I had no intention whatever of tendering my resignation as president of the American Federation of Labor.

When the reporter was asked why he did not make an inquiry in order to verify the report which he states was the basis of his story he advised me that he refrained from doing so because if he had done so other press associations would have been advised and thus he would have been denied the opportunity of writing an exclusive story.

While the duties of the president of the American Federation of Labor are very exacting and for the present the work is very trying, I have never signified any intention of tendering my resignation as president of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Woll Said:

The news item having appeared in the Washington Daily News of May 5 to the effect that William Green was to resign the presidency of the American Federation of Labor and that I was seeking the assumed vacancy thus to be created, and that those interested in my welfare were organizing "Matthew Woll clubs" in Philadelphia and elsewhere, is without the slightest foundation of fact, based entirely upon premeditated assumption and ruthless presumption and is wholly untrue.

In addition, I wish to state clearly, definitely and unequivocally that I have not been, am not now and do not, at any time, hope to be a candidate for the position of the presidency of the American Federation of Labor—not that I in any way undervaluate the greatness of the position involved, the honor and influence attached to it, or the great humanitarian, civil, social and beneficial service made possible thereby, but rather because of the trust placed in me by the overwhelming number of national and international unions and local unions, including the American Federation of Labor, in administering the affairs of the Union Labor Life Insurance company as its president.

I regard the news item, based as it is on not the slightest evidence of fact, and without an attempt first having been made to ascertain its accuracy before publication and wide distribution, as an act of utter disregard to good character of men involved and the national movements represented by them.

CANDIDATES FIND UNION LABEL BIG HELP IN ELECTION FIGHT

Greensboro, N. C., May 14.—Little cards that are customarily distributed by candidates in the municipal primary and biennial election must bear the printers' union label this time or they are not fit to appear in public. This is the first time in the history of the Gate City that the union label has even been considered an asset and a positive necessity on all printed matter of political candidates.

The city clerk, E. G. Sherrill, landed in more hot water than a little when he neglected to insist that the union label appear on orders for little cards that he obligingly looked after for some of the candidates for posts on the city council. It is to be doubted whether the chap even knew there is such a thing in existence as a union label before the present campaign got started. He knows it now, for some of the irate candidates nearly pitched himout on his ear when the cards for which he had placed orders turned up without the little emblem of union printers.

In past years, friendship with union labor was not regarded as an asset. Most of the candidates in former years would have laughed long and loud at any suggestion that union labor had a vote of even minor consequence in Greensboro.

Things are different this year. Every candidate in the running is courting labor's vote, and most of the courting is done right out in the open for every one to observe.

Machinery Causes Unemployment; High Wages, Not Charity, Urged

Denver, May 14.—Displacement by machinery, called "technological unemployment," presents a permanent problem of unemployment, said speakers at the Catholic conference on industrial problems, held in this city.

Millions of workers have been displaced from the industry in which they were employed, asserted John E. Gross, secretary Colorado Federation of Labor. "These machines have increased production 250 per cent during the last ten years.

"This system, which creates a permanent class of unemployed and at the same time increases production, has been largely responsible for the present depression," said the trade unionist, who insisted that workers must have a higher purchasing power.

"The inability of workers to consume the machine output produces a so-called overproduction. This causes industry to curb operations, thereby increasing unemployment.

Rev. John L. Mulroy, director of local Catholic charities, declared that charity is neither a remedy nor a preventative of unemployment. "It is a palliative, at best," he said.

Statistics which showed how charity has increased in this country since 1929 were presented by the clergyman. In 1929 there were $1,250,000 given by 145 agencies to 50,000 families. In 1930 these charity organizations were forced to care for 250,000 families at a cost of $5,000,000. This number increased in 1931 to approximately 500,000 families who were given charity aid.

E. J. Yetter, president Colorado Manufacturers' association, agreed that charity is no solution for present conditions, and that other policies must be adopted. He said the five-day week in all industries is but the first step in the solution.

"Unemployment insurance must be provided by a government-endowed fund that shall be contributed to by the state, the employer and the employe," he said.

LOWRY AGAIN NAMED HEAD LOCAL 259

Movie Operators Select Officers—Will Send Delegate to Atlanta.

Saturday night, May 2, must have been a lucky night for Mr. J. Burson Lowry, president of Local 259, Moving Picture Machine Operators, for that gentleman was not only chosen to again head his local union, but an added honor was given him by naming him delegate to the Southeastern district convention, which meets in Atlanta in June.

Other officers to serve the projectionists during the coming year were as follows:

Vice-President—John B. Blanton.
Financial Secretary—Leo Vick.
Treasurer—Pat Neligan.
Recording Secretary—Roy Hipp.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Joe McDowell.
Business Agent—W. G. Belcher.
Delegates to Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council—A. C. Kamin, D. A. Harrison and Jim Smith.

POSTOFFICE PAINTED BELOW STANDARD WAGE

San Francisco.—Painters employed on the Ferry postoffice building in this city are paid $5 a day. The standard rate is $9.

Good Pickings

No. 4

Cash dividends paid by domestic corporations of $550,334,82 were paid in April, compared to $401,079,571 paid in March. Light and gas companies came first, paying more than $100,000,000. Banks came next with over over $65,000,000 in dividends paid for the month.

CENTRAL BODY APPRECIATES MAXON LETTER

Local Workers Glad to Enlist Co-Operation of Churchman in Battle.

Chattanooga Trades and Labor council Monday night took formal notice of a letter written by Rt. Rev. Bishop James M. Maxon, of the Protestant Episcopal church, and read before the recent convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor.

The churchman's letter called attention to the present situation with reference to Tennessee prisons, and particularly the question of convict labor in competition with free workers, declared his belief that the time is now propitious for a reform in the iniquitous system, and offered his cooperation in securing from the present state legislature remedial legislation along this line.

Tennessee Federation, at Jackson, referred the letter to its legislative committee, which brought in a report expressing gratification at the bishop's interest and declaring its purpose to co-operate with him in every possible way.

Following the discussions by the local council Monday night, Secretary Gerlach was instructed to write Bishop Maxon in reference to the matter, and the following letter was mailed Friday:

May 15, 1931.

Rt. Rev. Bishop James M. Maxon,
905 Oak St., City.

Dear Sir:

At the regular meeting of Chattanooga Trades and Labor council Monday night, your letter to Mr. R. M. Cooke, read before the recent convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, was discussed, and I was directed to say to you that the organized workers of Chattanooga, as well as of thestate as a whole, appreciate your interest in the matter of convict labor in competition with free labor.

Working people naturally are brought more closely into contact with the evils of this antiquated and barbarous system, and we are pleased to note that our constant protest has at last begun to be heeded by other groups of our citizenship.

We hope in the near future to be able to work out plans which will forever outlaw this menace to free workers, and we will be pleased to co-operate with you and other good citizens to this end.

Again assuring you of our appreciation for your stand in this matter, and with kindest regards,

Yours very truly,
MATT GERLACH,
Secretary.

Business Men Dodge Taking Wage Stand

Atlantic City.—The question of maintaining high wage standards or enforcing wage reductions was evaded by the annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The business men ignored Senator Couzens' challenge that they take a stand on this question.

Other economic problems received similar treatment. After nearly two years of depression, the nation's business men pleaded for further study, additional surveys and a greater test of experience. Not a single suggestion to end unemployment came out of this meeting.

Opposition to federal income tax increases was recorded.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the chamber's board of directors, blamed politics for the present depression. Business leadership was exonerated and the responsibility was placed on the shoulders of wicked politicians.

Unemployment was casually referred to in an approved resolution which called for "a continued study of the possibilities of business and employment stabilization."

"This study," it was stated, "should include means for relieving such unemployment distress as may unavoidably occur from time to time."

A "rational program of production and distribution" to be initiated by business itself was favored.

Mr. Barnes called for removal of restrictions against private insurance companies entering the field of unemployment insurance, for the sale or lease of Muscle Shoals to private enterprise and denial of the use of government money to compete with private business.

COMPENSATION FAVORED.

Tallahassee, Fla.—The Florida senate, by a 20-16 vote, passed a workmen's compensation law. The measure is now before the house.

FORBES REPORTS "LOW DOWN" ON VARIOUS DELEGATES TO FEDERATION CONVENTION

By GEORGE FORBES.

The annual convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor is a very serious and important event, and the recent one was no exception. The Chattanooga delegation performed their task in a spirit of duty well done, and are proud of their part in the fight for a better day for humanity. But let us digress for a moment and look on the events of a convention in more or less lighter vein.

* * *

One party—Bill Eckenrod, Matt Gerlach, Roy Lee and myself—left Chattanooga in a low-priced car of a popular make about 8:30 a.m. Sunday, stopped over in Hortonville to see the Lookouts massacreed, and in the cool evening finished our trip to Jackson, arriving shortly before Mr. Robt. M. Cooke and party, who had left Chattanooga in his limousine about daybreak. However, we had the advantage of Bob, for Horton's state police chased us almost all the way from Nashville to Jackson. They thought it was Al Capone and party.

* * *

We were all "delegates at large" except Bob Cooke. Bob had his better half with him.

* * *

The entertainment committee was on the job and prepared one of the finest banquets that I have ever attended. They told me afterwards that yours truly was called on for some alleged poetry after the hot air got started, but I was among the missing, owing to the fact that I had to get out and catch some air. I was afraid that dancer was on for an encore. Oh, baby!

* * *

Several familiar faces were among the missing at Jackson. The Chesterfieldian Albert Hill; John O'Connor, the student and orator; Matt Robinson, the fire-eater; Sam Scandlyn, the editor and big promoter; the Chalkeye, and others. Who knows who will be missing next time?

* * *

Bill Birthright, who has been the backbone of the Tennessee federation for several years, serving as secretary-treasurer, bid us a fond and affectionate adieu. Bill has received a much deserved promotion, being appointed general secretary-treasurer of the barbers' international union, with headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind. He was presented with a beautiful silver set as a slight token of our appreciation at the closing session. In parting he gave up the following advice and consolation:

"Don't worry if your job is small,
And your rewards are few;
Remember that the mighty oak,
Was once a NUT like you."

* * *

The Nashville delegates put on a play at the convention that was a knockout. Andy Simon took the lead and demonstrated that he has ability at something else besides politics. Other Nashville delegates showed marked ability as actresses and actors. If Hollywood ever gets wind of it, Nashville will have to secure a new bunch of delegates.

* * *

Bill Eckenrod, who represented the postal clerks and the Circle club, conducted a class in billiards in the basement of the New Southern hotel; as an instructor he's good. Ask Roy Lee, Matt Gerlach, "Brush" Smith, and others.

* * *

Miss Spink, Jake Cohen's beautiful and efficient secretary, was noticed enjoying the banquet in company with a young printer from Memphis by the name of Matt Burton. (I hope his wife doesn't see this).

* * *

The election for president was so close that you could hear a pin drop while waiting for Secretary Birthright to announce the winner. Paul Aymon would have never been elected if it had not been for the republican vote of upper East Tennessee, as the state of Memphis was almost a unit against him.

* * *

In making the nominating speech for Jake Cohen, Delegate Horace Johnson went back four hundred years to the time when the Mississippi river was first discovered to be running downstream—no doubt the Memphis delegates went home expecting to see Jake Cohen and Old Man DeSoto standing hand in hand on the banks of "Wolf Creek" with the Indians staging a war dance around them.

* * *

In reading the various excellent labor papers printed in Tennessee covering the convention I noticed that Sam Scandlyn of Progressive Labor, printed in Knoxville, reported that his paper was represented at the convention by Mr. W. Clay McKenzie, managing editor; also the Associated Press and the United Press. Well, he ain't got anything on The Labor World, for at that convention we had the editor-in-chief, bookkeeper, advertising solicitor, office boy, a majority of the board of directors, including the chairman, a special feature writer (that's me)—also 500 copies of an elaborate convention supplement for distribution to the delegates and visitors from which the representatives of the Associated Press and United Press requested permission (and received it) to use articles as feature stories to be sent to all parts of the United States and Canada.

* * *

Bob Cooke and Hollis Reid hijacked a vase of flowers from the table of Delegates Clapp and Godfrey at the banquet, but poor Bob got a bad break a little later, as the dancer—oh, baby!—got where Bob could not see her when she did her stuff. But I think he got her address later.

RAIL CARMEN NOTE PASSING OF BROTHERS

Resolutions Express Reverence for Memory of Departed Members.

Respect for the memory of B. F. Duckett and James Buffington, members of Lodge 211, Railway Carmen, who have recently passed to the Great Beyond, is expressed in resolutions adopted by the last regular session of the organization.

High tribute is paid to the lives of each of the departed brothers, and heartfelt condolences are offered the bereaved relatives in the resolutions, which follow:

On April 4 our friend and fellow-worker, B. F. Duckett, laid down the working tools of this life, and passed to the Great Beyond.

Whereas, we mark with regret the passing of one who long has been in our midst as a friend; be it

Resolved, That we now express to the members of the family of Brother Duckett our heartfelt sympathy and extend to them in this hour of trial our pledge of friendship and love.

Death holds its horrors for many; yet to those of great faith it is but the vehicle of translation into a larger and better life. The life that is well-lived and well-kept faces the future with calmness and serenity for the present now is but the preparation of the future then. Each of us lives a space of years into which time we may crowd the good and evil; we build for eternity.

Our friend has slipped away from the now into the then. We look upon the life and find it well-lived. It developed a good character, a kindliness of nature, a responsiveness to finer things, a desire to do right. Such memory as this left to those who remain behind should serve to dull the keen edge of suffering.

Sense of the loss of companionship is keen and natural; yet all who live in faith rejoice that the parting is only for a little time. For if we live a life that has for its end eternity, our meeting again is assured. In death we give back to the great Ruler of the Universe the life we owe, that ours "may richer, fuller be."

Socrates once said: "The end of life is to be like unto God, and the soul following the God will be like unto Him; He being the beginning, the middle and the end of all things."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the family, a copy be spread upon the minutes of this lodge, and that a copy be given The Labor World for publication.

May God's richest blessings rest upon the loving children of Brother B. F. Duckett.

H. N. WADE,
G. W. FULLER,
J. H. WOOD,
Committee.

Whereas, the passing in death of Brother James Buffington on the morning of March 21, 1931, came to us a shock; and,

Whereas, our sympathies flow out to those of close connection whose loss exceeds ours; be it

Resolved, That we extend to the members of the family our condolences and our offer of heartfelt sympathies. We are conscious of the fact that death is the the Grim Reaper who passes by slightly, stealthily taking his toll, often where it can be ill-spared. The going of loved ones is always an occasion of trial and deep bereavement, whether it be in the still watches of the night, when life ebbs low, or in the bright sunshine when all around life pulsates, the loss is always felt, and the wounds made then are far deeper than the eyes of passersby can see. We know that in this hour of grief there are wounds that mere words cannot heal. Only time can heal heart-wounds and cover the scar of the soul. To those whose sorrow is very keen we would offer our comfort.

The dark hour has yet its ray of light, but sometimes it gleams but faintly. The sunlight of faith may be temporarily obscured, yet in a little while the light will shine forth. It is the faith that we hold, that we live by, that some day, in some manner not plain to us, we shall be reunited with those whom we have loved and lost for a while. Morning follows the blackest night, so hope must follow despair, and faith overcomes sorrow.

"The world recedes; it disappears,
Heaven opens on my eyes; my ears
With sounds seraphic ring;
Lend, lend your wings! I mount! I fly!
O grave, where is thy victory?
O death, where is thy sting?"

Now, be it therefore Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the bereaved family of Bro. Buffington, a copy spread upon the minutes of this lodge, and a copy furnished The Labor World for publication.

H. N. WADE,
G. W. FULLER,
J. H. WOOD,
Committee.

CONTRACTORS PLAN WAR ON BUILDING LAW

Bosses' Union Would Invalidate New Statute.

"PREVAILING WAGE" TO BE CONTESTED

Employers, However, Would "Assure Living Pay" to Skilled Workers.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, May 14.—That the Associated General Contractors of America plan a fight to weaken the prevailing wage law enacted by the last congress was indicated here this week by Managing Director Edward J. Harding.

Harding said the association in its coming spring session would plan a legislative program, including "a constructive amendment to make the wage law workable and equitable and at the same time assure a living wage to construction labor."

Union officials see in his "living wage" project a proposal to kill the "prevailing wage" provisions in the interest of wage-cutting, which the present law sought to stop. It is predicted that unions will fight unitedly against any such program if launched by the employers.

6,000 on Strike Against Pay Cuts In 33 Silk Mills

Allentown Walkout Spreads Until Town's Main Industry Is Virtually Tied Up, With Only Small Plants Operating.

Allentown, Pa., May 14.—Allentown's silk mill workers have refused to accept wage reductions and a protest strike, starting two weeks ago in one mill, has spread to 33 silk mills here, and to six in the surrounding area.

Six thousand weavers, beamers, twisters, winders and loom fixers are out. Only 17 small plants, employing less than 50 each, are in operation.

The strike is the first labor disturbance of major importance in 59 years in this, the second largest silk manufacturing city in the United States.

Most of the owners have emigrated from Paterson, N. J., the first city in the industry, to avoid the thing that faces them today—organization of the workers under the banner of organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The managements have taken no steps to combat the strike. Many of them, however, have locked out their employes rather than face the strike test.

The Majestic mill, where the strike started, notified employes two weeks ago this scale would be cut 16 2-3 per cent. The workers walked out.

A week later they were joined by the 300 men and girls in the Maxwell and Sontag shops, engaged in filling orders for the Majestic.

One mill, the Price & Price, already has settled. The workers have returned there under an agreement recognizing the union and guaranteeing them from $25 to $40 for a 50-hour week. The "open-shop" scale was from $15 to $37 for from 51 to 56 hours.

There has been a year's organization work here by Arthur McDonnell, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America. He and William F. Kelly of Philadelphia, international vice-president of the Textile Workers' union, are guiding the strike.

Population of City Gets Another Boost

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Milton S. Cooke, one boy. Little William Franklin is said to have opened his eyes on May 5, and demanded, "Daddy, when is this blamed depression going to end?"

The newcomer will face the task of entertaining his "big brothers"—Milton and Freddie, aged 15, and Forrest and Raymond, aged 14. Mother and babe are receiving callers at the home of Mrs. Cooke's mother, Mrs. T. F. Ramay, 306 Woodland avenue.

"Papa" is a member of the Typographical union, while "Grandpa" Ramay pays his dues to the secretary of Lodge 211, Railway Carmen.

MOTOR RATE BILL VETOED.

St. Paul, Minn.—Governor Floyd B. Olson vetoed a legislative bill that would compel motor trucks to increase rates to the level of railroad freight rates.

The purpose of the bill, said the governor, "is to force common carriers out of business."

THE LABOR WORLD
810 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY
Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council
R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager
Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, MAY 15, 1931

THANKS!

NOTABLE DEMANDS FOR HIGH WAGES.

It is worthy of note that President Hoover and Secretaries Lamont and Mellon have each publicly advocated maintenance of living standards. In any other period or in any other land this would be much more amazing than it is now in the United States. But, be that as it may, these pronouncements are enormously significant. They form a record and when men fall down on their promises or fail to live up to their platforms they can be held accountable.

SHOULD BE READ.

Editor, The Labor World:

I want to congratulate you on the splendid issue of "What's Ahead?", the supplement to The Labor World of May 1. This is not only a splendidly attractive publication in appearance and design, but it is filled with inspiring and significant articles that all progressive citizens should read. It is a fine indication of the stability of American institutions when organized labor takes the lead in the hopeful propaganda of fact instead of the threatening and discontented position of workers in so many other countries of the world.

With sincere congratulations,
JOHN E. GILBREATH.

KNOWS WHAT'S AHEAD.

Editor, The Labor World:

I have been wondering "What's Ahead." Now I know, after perusal of the convention supplement, which was read from cover to cover, including the advertisements, with much appreciation.

While in common with other friends in the labor movement, I have always been looking forward with much pleasant anticipation to receipt of my copy of the annual supplement in the past, all expectations were exceeded in your current issue. It is for this reason that I want to compliment you very highly on its careful preparation and general setup, feeling sure that all recipients, particularly those affiliated with the labor movement, will appreciate it just as much.

The labor movement of Chattanooga owes so much to The Labor World I cannot help but give expression to these sentiments.

Again complimenting you on your valuable work and hoping to add many more to my collection,
W. F. LANGE.

"A FINE EDITION."

(Chattanooga News)

* * * We are much impressed with the anniversary edition of The Labor World, which contains thoughtful articles on labor's future, written by such men as Frank Morrison, William Green and state labor leaders, including Albert E. Hill and Paul J. Aymon.

While warning against laziness and urging a certain amount of militancy, these American labor leaders urge that the problems facing the toilers be worked out on the basis of co-operation, rather than on the basis of violence. All of America's great labor victories have been won peacefully. With such good sense still predominant, we feel that labor has hopes of working out its present unhappy situation.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

RUN-DOWN and WEAK

"I began taking Cardui when in a weakened, run-down condition," writes Mrs. F. S. Perrit, of Wesson, Miss. "I took one bottle, and I seemed to improve so much that I sent for six bottles. After I had taken the six bottles, I seemed entirely well.

"Before I took Cardui, I was nervous, restless, blue and out of heart. I felt depressed all the time. After I took Cardui, all this disappeared.

"I gave my daughter Cardui and it helped to relieve irregular . . ."

This medicine has been used by women for over 50 years.

E-170

Take CARDUI
Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

AS TO ARBITRATION.

It was a very significant piece of news that came out of Evarts, Ky., in the Harlan coal fields a few days ago to the effect that Col. Dan M. Carrell, sent by Gov. Sampson to stage a militaristic show in the Harlan coal fields, demanded that mine operators disarm of shotguns and pistols their hired mine guards and so-called "mine workers" who were assisting the guards to maintain "peace" for the operators until the troops arrived.

That there was no commonsense need for the arming of the men the operators hired to menace the disaffected miners nor for an appeal by the mine owners for troops to be sent by the state was clearly indicated by Col. Carrell's first contact with both operators and miners. After ordering the disarming of the mine guards and their assistants the colonel called a conference with union officials, mine owners and county officers and informed them the solution of the whole difficulty would be found in sane discussion and not in fighting each other.

In his attitude at Evarts let it be said Col. Carrell merely took the stand organized labor always adopts in similar situations and for which the miners of the Harlan district stood. As long as capital and labor are made to exist as two opposite poles in our economic order there will be misunderstandings, disagreements and problems for solution. So long as we have these misunderstandings, disagreements and problems there will be but two alternatives to industrial peace: The adoption of force by one or both parties involved, and that means not in reality peace but an armed truce, and the other alternative is the only sane and lasting method, a willingness to arbitrate through pacific and mutual discussion of the disputed points at issue.

Organized labor from its inception as a self-governing body has stood foursquare for a policy of arbitration in industry. It shall continue to do so. It feels that labor's interest in industry must and will in time be recognized as paramount to the interests of that of any other body or individual. It concedes the employer has a vital interest in industry; it concedes an equally vital interest of its own in industry. It says the employers interests ought and must be protected, it says its own interests also ought and must be given equal protection. Without apology labor places itself on an equal footing with capital in all things relating to industry. Realizing that industrial peace means plenty for all parties concerned organized labor long ago sensed that some just means must be adopted whereby industrial problems between employer and employe might be solved with least injury to both parties. It has advocated arbitration as the only solution, and it has had the satisfaction of seeing it praised by both employers and employes wherever it was given a fair test.

FALL STILL BATTLING.

Faced with a year's sentence in the penitentiary and the payment of a $100,000 fine, Albert B. Fall, convicted for complicity in the infamous Teapot Dome oil scandal of President Harding's administration, is making a last-minute effort to dodge the penalties of his corrupt acts.

The former cabinet member now claims he is not strong enough to go to prison, and as to the fine he says if his friends do not step forward and come to his recue he will be forced to take the pauper's oath. So far none of his friends have gone to any pains to assure him they will assume the burden of the fine.

All the lower courts through which Fall has carried his case have in no uncertain tones declared him guilty. He is now undecided about carrying the case to the supreme court, and whether he does or not the question of his guilt has already been decided as far as the people's minds are concerned. If ever corruption in government is to be ferreted out and the guilty punished the courts must be given to understand their efforts to mete out punishment in such cases will have the hearty support of the people. Fall has been convicted and the processes of justice ought not to be allowed to be interfered with and the man permitted to escape serving his sentence by appeals to maudlin sentiment.

MENE, MENE, TEKEL UPHARSIN!

The United States Chamber of Commerce convention, just held in Atlantic City, N. J., was not exactly an unworried feast of monarchs.

It was, nevertheless, unable to read. Or if it read it did so haltingly and without comprehension as to the meaning or what to do about it.

The handwriting is on the wall, large and plentiful.

But here were the big business men of the nation—the fellows that, in piping times of prosperity, strut and say "we did it." Here, meeting in the worst depression the nation has known since the war of the rebellion, these big fellows—these bucks with the big antlers—wagged their heads, tried to carry the bluff along, tried to show that they had the brains, tried to talk like the medicine men of the tribe, and having strutted and bluffed, went home having produced exactly nothing.

The biggest guns fired solo shots, salvos of broadsides, but they were all blanks. Nothing but wadding.

What a flop for big business to pull off in 1931!

The handwriting on the wall. These big fellows were clearly worried to the point of professing to know what to do about matters, but they wrote no prescription. What an appalling spectacle!

—And Fumigate!

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

This thing called unemployment is a world-wide problem. Our own native shores heads the list with something like 6,000,000 idle; Germany comes next with 4,357,000; Great Britain, 2,648,217; Italy, 642,000; Japan, 400,000; Austria, 294,845; Poland, 200,000, and Czechoslovakia, 155,203. France, who held out the longest, now admits 350,000 unemployed and about a million on part-time. This unemployment among many nations must not be our excuse for adopting a laissee faire policy of "let things alone and they'll adjust themselves in time." True, we can't right wrongs in the foreign and industrial fields, stagnated along with ours for nearly three years, but at least we can begin to put our own house in order. Capital has been too engrossed in profit-taking. In other words, it has capitalized the earning power of money by creating combines, chains, immense super-plants—all highly efficienized and thoroughly monopolistic. It has followed an all-take-and-no-give policy—and Toiling Jack has become a mighty poor lad! It has sat back in its swivel chair in lordly style, nonchalantly twiddling its pudgy thumbs, purposely unmindful of the conditions its attitude created. Without the open sesame watchword, "Merge," no one has been admitted to its high and lofty councils. Unable to enter its council chambers you were left to cool your heels outside until you were frozen out of business. For sport, it has been going gunning with double-load competition. Our very first move in house-cleaning is to sweep out of our minds our rotten ideas about what constitutes the proper lines along which business is to be conducted.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
Part XXVI
MARK 6:7-9, 12

WM. L. MOSS

Since we have eliminated the gospel of John from all consideration as a part of our basis for studying the mind of Jesus on the question of money we may now ask, Is it possible any of the other three gospels, Matthew, Mark or Luke, should be eliminated? The answer is in the affirmative concerning only Mark, although we can, if we so desire (and the author has so desired) use that gospel. You see Mark must not be dropped from our study list due to the fact that it is the earliest of the four gospels. On the other hand, the writer of Mark presents us with nothing of importance to our study that cannot be found in either Matthew or Luke. Furthermore, the second gospel from beginning to end doesn't deal with the general problems of social life in the same familiar way as do the gospels of Matthew and Luke. The writer seems to be absorbed in setting forth the concise words of Jesus. But we simply cannot dispense with Mark in our study of Jesus and money on such immaterial criticisms; it would take a far weightier piece of evidence such as convicted the gospel of John to be brought against the gospel of Mark before we could ever think of discarding that writing. So we will sum the matter up by saying: The elementary nature of Mark, who labors so hard to report verbatim the words of the Master, forces us to turn our greatest attention to the more social gospels of Matthew and Luke, but we will retain Mark in our plan of study for the very reason that he goes to such great pains to report accurately the sayings of Jesus. Thus the gospel of Mark serves a twofold purpose for us—it is a source of material in our study and at the same time serves as a check on the other (and more important) two gospels as far as the correct wording, authentically, etc., of a saying in them is concerned.

Mark was the first of the four gospels to be written, and thanks to the indefatigable and lifelong efforts of scholars of many lands we know the basis of Mark was an even older document which, as far as we know, no longer exists. The document serving as the basis of Mark is called "Q," abbreviation for Quelle, German for "source," a German being the first to trace it running through the entire length of Mark's writing. This does not in the slightest invalidate the gospel of Mark; rather it makes it a thousandfold more important to Christendom. Also let it be said this document called "Q" is traced in Matthew, and if evidences of it is found in that gospel then most certainly we are justified in thinking traces of it will some day be identified in Dr. Luke's gospel. Dr. Luke himself tells us that he knew of the existence of other written lives of Jesus, for when addressing his work to Theophilus (Lk. 1:1) he takes great pains to say, "Forasmuch as many have taken in hand to set forth in order a declaration of those things which are most surely believed among us . . ." (i. e., the life and works of Jesus.) Now it is entirely plausible that among the documents Dr. Luke refers to our old friend "Q" might have been numbered. The writer of these articles thinks so, although he thinks that both Mark and Matthew as well as other and minor lives of Jesus were referred to. The document "Q" was more in the nature of a collection of sayings of our Lord than it was a biography.

"HANDSOME HAL" TAKES PEN IN HAND TO EXPRESS ACCUMULATION OF PET PEEVES

Editor Labor World:

This is getting to be a darned unsatisfactory old world to live in—ever notice it? At best it is in this part of our fair land! And to me! I have several pet peeves on my marvelous mind this week, and if you feel too optimistic to print this you know what you can do!

First, there is the finance and tax situation of our state, and the most ungodly delay in any body doing anything about it except asking somebody else a lot of questions. While the more questions they ask the worse the situation becomes. They ought to be ashamed of themselves, placing our poor "dear", most harassed governor in such a great number of embarrassing positions. Three or four or, at the most, twenty, is a big plenty, I am sure!

Second, I am getting badly outdone at seeing the name "Lea" and "Caldwell" in print so much! It is unseemly to be prying into these two gentlemen's private life, and blabbing from the housetops so much about them! That's not the right place to publish such things. They should tell all that to a grand jury, as they're the only ones who do not know it already! Too much publicity for the gentlemen entirely!

Thirdly, this unique brand of weather we are having! It's an infernal outrage! If this new man, Mr. Hadly, I believe, can't manage the weather any better than to allow such a lot of South Bend or Medicine Hat weather to follow him like a pet puppy when the government moves him down here to our so-called sunny south, then he doesn't seem fitted for such an important place! He hasn't been able to do a thing with our weather since he came here, and after five months wait in what patience I can, I must protest, gentlemen! And I think I've got a right to one good healthy kick! I suggest that your, er, mammoth and widely read sheet kindly request Mr. Hadly to chase this foreign weather hence before my winter suit wears clean out!

Fourthly, I'm peeved about the peculiar effect our wonderful climate seems to have on all our imported baseball players, or what are laughingly called baseball players! (Don't laugh, darn you, this is serious!) I feel sure you must have noticed that a new player is brought in and he wallops the tar out of the ball and gallops madly around the bases for just about three days, and then the climate gets him, even if he happens to be over in Memphis or Little Rock playing, and he stops walloping the ball, and can't handle it, and can't run bases. It is most provoking, and has been going on now for twenty-two years, with our ball fans still full of hope and trust and confidence in the men at the helm! It seems to me that the men in the "boiler room" and the "crews" are mostly to blame. And I wish to inform you that, much as I hate to do such a thing, I have transferred by baseball "budget" fund back into my "incidentals" fund, where I got it, and will let it remain until our beloved team manager begins to feed a quart of yeast to the team per day! That will either raise their percentage—or their temperature!

Hoping you are in the same, or better, humor, I am, lovingly,
H. F. BROWN.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

IN FURTHER explanation of how England achieved its great commercial progress it will be enlightening for us to compare her with Rome, one of the most highly civilized nations of ancient times. The Romans were in the main human parasites—they existed largely by the labors of their numerous slaves and produced little through their own exertions. Thus they failed utterly to throw about their natural life the one safeguard guaranteeing any people self-preservation. England from her earliest history had like Rome a civilization to support, a civilization peculiar to her racial stock. But Englishmen, unlike the Romans, made it a point to live by the rule of supplying the increasing needs of their civilization largely by their own toil, independent of the hazards of a slave market, for it was Rome's gradually failing slave supply that marked the real dissolution of the empire. Englishmen learned early the lesson of self-support and as a result grew stronger with each century. For this reason we can look back and trace her efforts to organize and reorganize her industrial life to meet the changing conditions brought by successive generations. Rome seeing no need to labor, as that was what its slaves were for, she argued, made no effort to work out chains of industrial orders even for its slaves and, as its slave supply failed more and more, the empire came increasingly paralyzed, and when no more slaves were to be had Rome's chief support was gone forever and the nation collapsed.

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

The American Federation of Labor points out that wage cutting means mental or physical decline, in many cases.

This has occurred in New York City, where the New York state department of labor says that women clerical or white collar workers, as a result of sharp declines in their wages, "must have had to adjust their lives during the past year to lower standards of living in order to make their reduced earnings cover the necessities of life."

Wage cutting undoubtedly often causes irreparable damage to human beings. Bankers and others who talk lightly of wage cutting don't seem to know this, or if they do, it doesn't mean anything to them.

Down at Danville and in Schoolfield, Va., where the big strike was, the situation hasn't got "back to normalcy" by a mile or two.

Suffering exists. There are appeals for help. It isn't as exciting to help where there's no battle, but men and women get just as hungry and children suffer just as keenly.

There are charges that the Red Cross isn't doing what it ought to do. The Red Cross can't afford too many such charges and this isn't the first.

Meanwhile, in the same section of the country the tobacco kings rake in their millions, while the workers of tobacco land continue among the poorest of the poor.

Meanwhile bureaucracy in government flourishes as the green bay tree and spreads beyond all reason, costing money. It does not and will not mend the woes of industry, no matter what its high claims.

In several big eastern cities recently the milk man has been delivering orange juice extracted in Florida, frozen and thus delivered. For the first shipment two and a half million oranges were crushed by marvelous machines.

Does the milkman get any more money for becoming the last link in the distribution system for this new product?

Whatever may be the hard-boiled condition of big bankers, the fact remains that in no previous depression have so many leaders of business and manufacture had the sense or the courage to speak up and support the wisdom and determination of labor to hold the line. It is encouraging.

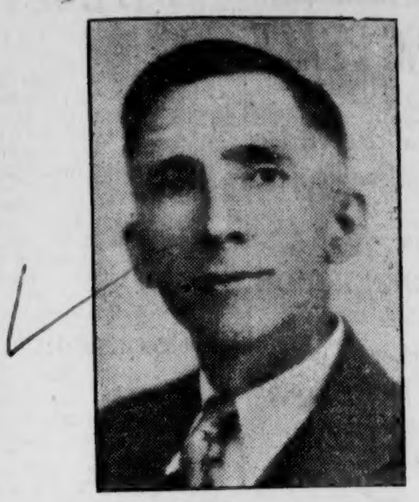
But what all must learn is that wages must go up—high up—to hold present levels is not enough, not half enough. It's going to be a tough lesson to some, but it must be learned.

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

Our Advertisers are our friends.



We Are Pleased to Announce the Association With Us of

Mr. George C. Mason

Mr. Mason's experience in the Chattanooga insurance field is quite extensive. He has served the general public in this line for 22 years. With us he is well prepared to render his usual excellent service.

We join Mr. Mason in inviting through this office a continuation of the business favors of his many friends.

Southern Insurance Agency, Inc.
JAMES BUILDING—GROUND FLOOR PHONE 6-0575
GENERAL INSURANCE — BONDS
HARRY WINER, PRESIDENT
FELIX DIAMOND, SEC.-TREASURER

BIJOU
Chattanooga's Best Entertainment
MONDAY — TUESDAY — WED.
'THE MILLIONAIRE'
—with—
George Arliss
—o—
LOONEY TUNE CARTOON
PATHE TALKING NEWS
VITAPHONE VARIETIES
THURSDAY — FRIDAY — SAT.
'THE HOT HEIRESS'
—with—
Ben Lyons
—o—
PATHE TALKING NEWS
VITAPHONE VARIETIES

Bankrupt FURNITURE SALE

SATURDAY THE BIG DAY

Saturday will be the BIG day at the BANKRUPT SALE. Reason it out—BANKRUPTCY PRICES ARE LOWEST for they were bought for a fraction of their real value and are sold at GIVE AWAY prices. Be here tomorrow.

$5.00 Buffet Mirror	$1.92	$12.50 Table Lamp	$4.95
$2.50 Dinner Set	99c	$30.00 Royal Easy Chair	$12.50
$1.00 Water Set	39c	$35.00 Love Seat	$13.75
$1.50 Card Table	69c	$18.50 Dresser	$9.75
$1.50 End Table	69c	$22.50 Vanity Dresser	$9.50
$2.00 Electric Toaster	79c	$ 3.50 Odd Dining Chairs	69c
$2.50 Smoking Stand	69c	$ 5.00 Bird Cage and Stand	$2.95
$3.50 Table Lamp	$1.19	$15.00 Dining Table	$6.50
$2.00 Door Mats	65c	$ 6.50 Night Table	$3.50
$2.50 Bath Stool	75c	$15.00 Electric Clock	$7.75
$1.50 Boudoir Lamps	75c	$ 2.00 Garbage Cans	79c
$2.00 Bed Lamps	85c	$10.00 Utility Cabinet	$4.95
$1.50 Mirror Cords	79c	$18.00 Hickory Swing	$9.00
$2.00 Fancy Pillows	69c	$11.50 Hickory Chair	$5.50
$2.00 Book Ends	59c	$ 3.50 Step Ladders	99c
$1.00 Plaster Cat	57c	$ 2.00 Console Mirror	79c
$5.00 Iron Bed	98c	And Hundreds of Other Items That Limtied Space Does Not Permit Us to Mention.
$2.00 Unfinished Chairs	99c
$3.50 Bench	$1.98

TERMS

These prices are supposed to be CASH prices but Rhodes-Jones will extend you terms, payable either weekly or monthly. This enables ALL to participate in this WONDERFUL CARNIVAL OF FURNITURE VALUES.

STOCK AND ACCOUNTS OF WALTON & CO. BOUGHT FROM UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT BY RHODES-JONES FURNITURE CO. NOW BEING SOLD AT

524 Market Street

CONSTIPATION

"If I got constipated, I would get dizzy and have swimming in my head. I would have very severe headache.

"For a while I thought I wouldn't take anything—maybe I could wear out the headaches; but I found they were wearing me out.

"I found Black-Draught would relieve this, so when I have the very first symptoms, I take Black-Draught and now I don't have the headache.

"I am a firm believer in Black-Draught, and after using it 20 or more years, I am satisfied to continue its use."
—F. B. McKinney, Orange Park, Fla. s-m

THEDFORD'S
Black-Draught

WOMEN who are run-down, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

COME HERE
Men!
You Can Buy a Mighty
GOOD SUIT
For as Little as
$1.00
A WEEK
ASKIN & MARINE
904 MARKET ST.
Buy It Here On Credit!

FARRELL'S
Volunteer
Floral Shop
Flowers for All Occasions
Phone 6-3658

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PIONEER CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

DON'T BE SELFISH
Tell Your Neighbors!
Take a Light Dose of
BL & K R
Bed Time, and a Full Dose Before Breakfast, for a few days—then, "TELL YOUR NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS."
Try This on Puny Children
B L & K R is Sold by Druggists
Accept No Substitutes

EDMONDSON
SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W Edmondson, LL.B., M. Accts., Prest.
Tower Bldg.—Sixth and Market

H. D. Lee Company Makes Forward Step in Instituting 5-Day, 40-Hour Work Week

Recently the Associated Press, the United Press and labor papers throughout the country carried the good news that the H. D. Lee company had announced they would voluntarily go on a five-day, 40-hour work week throughout all their garment factories, without reduction in pay.

The Lee company, with 2,500 union employes, is first in the work garment industry to adopt the short work week. It is significant that the country's largest manufacturers of work and play clothing should lead the way in helping to solve labor's problems.

Should Influence Others.

This action on the part of the Lee company in making this forward step on their own initiative should be a big factor in influencing other lines of industry to adopt a similar policy and is right in line with the policy advanced by the American labor movement as a permanent step toward an equitable solution of the unemployment situation.

Organized labor, of course, heartily agrees with the Lee company's policy and approves the shorter week and hours, which is a step forward at this time by giving more work to the present unemployed; in fact, the adoption of such a policy in all industry is imperative under the changing economic conditions, when improved machinery plays such an important part in speeding up production. If more concerns were to follow the lead of the Lee company, we would find immediate improvement in the unemployment situation.

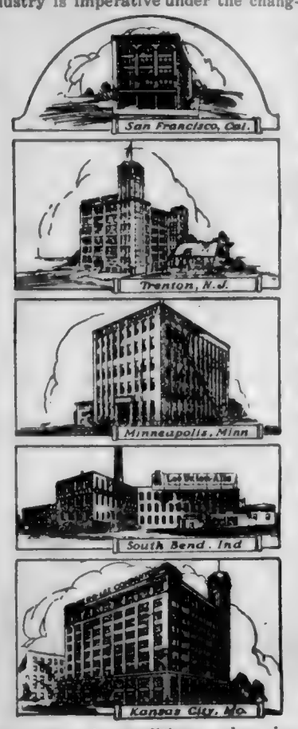
The Lee company has been in this business only fifteen years, and has grown to be the largest concern of its kind in the country, with plants at Kansas City, Mo.; South Bend, Ind.; Trenton, N. J.; Minneapolis, Minn.; San Francisco, Cal., and Salina, Kan. Its success can be attributed to several factors; its wisdom and vision in adjusting their policy to meet changing conditions and the fact that their product is manufactured solely by union labor. Lee products are admittedly recognized as the highest standard. This company has stuck to quality throughout their business career, and as for service, fit and design, they have little or no competition.

Lee union-made garments are sold in every city and town and almost every village in the United States. Every garment is sold with an unconditional guarantee—"Better in every way, or a new pair free."

Lee products are made in clean, healthful sewing rooms, by satisfied union employes. Incidentally, it is well to mention that in all these years the Lee company have operated with union labor, never have they had a grievance but what it has been adjusted immediately, to the satisfaction and interest of both union employe and employer.

The Lee company speaks with pride and distinction when they make the statement that they attribute their success and leadership in this industry to the fact that they employ union labor, who by the reason of their direction under the union leadership, are able to earn union wages and maintain their standards of living.

It is with satisfaction that organized labor of Chattanooga notes this forward step of the H. D. Lee company's policy, in view of the fact that labor's ideals and principles have been met voluntarily and without solicitation.



"GOOSE BRAIN" OVERALL FACTORY SCENE OF CONVENTION PLAYLET

"And They Call Us Civilized" was the title of a dramatic sketch in two scenes given by a group of Tennessee trades unionists, assisted by the Southern School for Women in Industry, which proved to be one of the most enjoyable features of the Jackson convention of the Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Presented in the splendid auditorium of Jackson High school, the play pictured conditions existing in the "Goose Brain Overall Factory," the first scene being inside the establishment, with the workers gathered in groups discussing an order from the management increasing working hours and reducing wages thirty-three and a third per cent., in spite of an existing contract, which had been in effect many years. It was explained that "big business" interests in the city (not named) had brought influence to bear upon the factory owner which caused him to forget the many years' service rendered by his workers and take advantage of unemployment to endeavor to destroy the union. The picture gave opportunity for Andrew Simon, as Joe, a peddler, to offer some sage advice, the point of which was not lost on the audience of several hundred people. Supporting Mr. Simon were Mrs. Tom Hanson, Misses Dessie Brown, Helen Gregory, Pearl Johnson, Mary Lynn and Mattie Belle Woods.

The second scene was laid outside the factory doors, and depicted results of unemployment. The dialogue here brought out varied views by the participants concerning the reasons and remedy for the "depression," and ran the gauntlet from the "fire-eater" to the ultra-conservative, the latter being given lines which apparently placed him in the minority. Participating in this scene were David Hanly, Tom Hanson, Joe Neville, Horton Ridley, W. E. Cheek and E. E. Woodward.

Miss Martha Trollinger and R. M. Trollinger furnished music, and Lynn Peal offered a side-splitting comedy sketch.

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

My country, 'tis of thee
Sweet land of dimpled knee,
Of thee I sing;
Land of the silken hose,
Land of the powdered nose,
Land where the flapper shows
Her diamond ring.
—H. F. B.

* * *

The horse and mule live thirty years—
They never taste light wine or beers.
Sheep and goats are dead at twenty—
They drink no liquor—water plenty.
At fifteen dogs are mostly dead—
They look not on wine that's red.
At ten the cat's lost all nine lives—
No beast on milk and water thrives.
At five most birds have passed away—
Far, far from alcohol they stay.
Bugs spend but a few days on this earth—
They never know the cocktail's worth.
But evil, wicked, rum-soaked men
Live on to three score years and ten.
—Forbes.

* * *

Mrs. Mosquito—Where is your daughter?

Mrs. Housefly—She just went to the front door for a screen test.

* * *

Wife—How's this for a saving idea, dear? I bought playing cards that can be washed.

Her Husband—Well, I don't mind doing the dishes—but I draw the line on scrubbing the deck.

* * *

The colonel's wife sent the following note to Capt. Leonard:

"Colonel and Mrs. Moore request the pleasure of Capt. Leonard's company to dinner on May 25."

To which she received the following reply:

"With the exception of six men on leave and two on sick list Capt. Leonard's company take great pleasure in accepting your invitation."

* * *

Little Bride—Jack, you said you said you wanted shin bone soup. I didn't remember down at the butcher shop just what it was, and I showed the butcher my shin and he guessed it all right.

The Groom (grunting)—Humph, I'll be darn careful what cuts of meat I specify in the future.

* * *

Fond Wife—If you go first, dear, you will wait for me on the other shore, won't you?

Husband (with a sigh)—I suppose so. I never went anywhere yet without having to wait for you.

* * *

Daddy—Only fools are certain, Bobby; wise men hesitate.

Bobby—Are you sure of that, Daddy?

Daddy—Yes, certain of it.

* * *

Wife—You know, dear, marriage is a fifty-fifty proposition.

Husband—Yes, it's fifty dollars here and fifty dollars there.

* * *

Jock—Sandy, I wonder if you could oblige me with a cigarette?

Sandy—But, I thocht you said you'd stoppit smokin'?

Jock—Ave, weel. I've reached the first stage. I've stoppit buyin'.

* * *

Solicitor—Would you indorse our cigarettes for $2,000, sir?

Celebrity—For $2,000 I'd smoke the fool things.

Cleveland Hotel Settles Strike

(By International Labor News Service.)

Cleveland, O., May 8.—The first break in the ranks of the big Cleveland hotels which have been fighting the union waiters, waitresses, cooks and musicians since last July, has come. Union leaders announce that the strike at the Hollenden hotel has been settled.

Strikes of the unions against the Cleveland, Winton, Statler, Allerton, Olmsted and other hotels belonging to the Cleveland Hotel Association, Inc., will be continued.

The strike was called following the lockout of the union workers for their refusal to sign a "yellow dog" contract.

OHL ON RELIEF BOARD

Madison, Wis.—Henry Ohl, Jr., president Wisconsin Federation of Labor, is included on Governor LaFollette's unemployment relief board.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45238
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Mamie G. Tucker vs. Joseph R. Tucker.

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Joseph R. Tucker is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication by made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next June rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in June next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken as confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 30th day of April, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
5-29

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45209
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Henry Wise vs. Mary Wise

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Mary Wise is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton County, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next June rules of said court, to be held at the Courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in June next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 24th day of April, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
F. L. Dixon, Atty. 5-22

ATTACHMENT NOTICE
Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee
Heskins Van Hooser vs. Leonard Barker and Wife, Betty Barker

In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiffs, and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and an original attachment having been levied on one lot of household goods, being lot No. 3648, in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

This 8th day of April, 1931.
KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

ATTACHMENT NOTICE
Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee
E. E. Zane vs. Leonard Barker

In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and an original attachment having been levied on one lot of household goods, being lot No. 3648, in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.
This 9th day of April, 1931.

We Sell
Lee Overalls
and Union-Alls for Men and Boys and are proud of our stock of union label clothing.
EFFRON'S
Market at Sixth

Buy Union Made
Lee Overalls
Union-Alls, Shirts, Pants, Play Suits from our complete stock.
Elder's Store
3007 Dodson Ave.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

In Union there is Strength — get your LEE'S FROM US. Complete line union label garments for men and boys.
T. G. BOSS
Alton Park

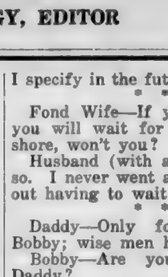
UNION MADE
TWO GOOD NAMES--
LEE
STIMPSON'S

We Carry a Complete Line of Lee Goods
STIMPSON'S
908 S. Willow Street

"The Famous Lee Blue Ribbon Label"
Soon your store will display this emblem . . . watch for it, the sign of the merchant with the union spirit!
Guaranteed
Better in Every Way
or a NEW PAIR FREE!
Facts You Should Know . . .
Lee Overalls and all other Lee garments as well are union-made in clean, healthful, modern garment plants by hundreds of members of the United Garment Worker's Union . . . plus . . . Lee Overalls are made with genuine Jelt denim made from Piedmont Upland long fibre cotton spun with an exclusive multiple twist that stays tight and strong . . . plus . . . Lee Overalls made with genuine Jelt denim are stronger, wear longer, are more comfortable and wash with marvelous ease. Buy the biggest value . . . buy union-made Lee Overalls from your Lee dealer.

UNION-MADE
Lee
OVERALLS
UNION-ALLS, SHIRTS, PANTS
CHILDREN'S PLAYSUITS
THE WORLD'S STANDARD
. . . with the World's Largest Sale
UNION MADE by
THE H. D. LEE MERCANTILE COMPANY
Kansas City, Trenton, Salina, Minneapolis, South Bend, San Francisco

Lee Overalls
SHIRTS --- PANTS
PLAY SUITS
Built and sold by friends of Labor . . . buy them here.
SAM SIR
126 W. Main St.



America's Largest Selling Work Clothes
LEE
UNION MADE
The New No. 91 Shield-Back
OVERALLS
UNION-ALLS PLAY SUITS
KOBLENTZ
Dept. Store
"The Store for All the People"

UNION MEN!
Buy your Lee Overalls, Lee Shirts, Lee Pants, (Lee Playsuits for your youngsters) from us. We have a complete stock.
C. E. ZAHND
ST. ELMO

Attention Union Men!
Get your LEE Overalls and other Union-Made Clothing from us. We have a large stock.
GARMANY'S
"THE UNION MAN'S FRIEND"
MAIN STREET

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation

Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg. Opposite Central Market

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company

Ideal Service at Moderate Cost

Phone 6-6114

COAL

Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00

Furnace Nut . . . $4.25

Honest Weight — Prompt Service

CITY COAL CO.

718 E. Main 6-3163

Graduation Special

The Royal 100

$100

$2.00 a week

This Graduation Special is in a class by itself. The 5 sparkling diamonds and superb solid white gold mounting are unmatched in beauty and value! You have a whole year to pay for it!

"Just Bring An Honest Face"

Shyer's

815 Market St.

DRY CLEANING

Men's Suits Cleaned and Pressed 50c

Ladies' Plain Dresses 50c

Pleated Dresses up from 75c

Fur-Trimmed Coats 50c

Special Prices on Rugs, Draperies, Comforts, Ties, Scarfs, Gloves, Etc.

BROADWAY DRY CLEANING COMPANY

BROAD AT SIXTH ST.

Miss Louise Blair, Mgr.

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

Postoffice Squibs

By R. B. LANE

Did you see the air squadrons Thursday?

* * *

M. M. Echols is taking a few days' vacation.

* * *

Pat Connor has begun to bring in strawberries. If the weather gets hot he will have lots to sell.

* * *

Hubert Guthrie of the registry division flew with Dick Selcer down to Dalton Wednesday and took dinner with Earl Miller, No. 13, who is on vacation.

* * *

And still no settlement of the postoffice squabble. If they had chosen the Market and Broad street site they could have been working on it now; but no, some one wants to gouge the government.

* * *

Harry Gribben is back from a visit to Washington, Philadelphia, and New York, where he met some of his old friends.

Brother Dailey got tagged this week for too long parking while he ate his dinner, but out talked the officer, who tore up the ticket.

* * *

J. L. Miller was cited for reckless driving on his way back from Cleveland recently. Some more state highwayman stuff. Why our legislators do not repeal the state patrol law is more than I can understand. A couple stopped a lady driving her car home from an entertainment and if a friend had not been right behind her no telling what would have been the consequences. Their excuse was, oh, we thought she was alone.

* * *

The Tennessee Electric Power company did a good job when they covered the cobblestones on Broad street between Fifth and Sixth.

* * *

A highwayman went into a restaurant run by a Scotchman, and says, "I hate to do this, but my family has to have something to eat." So the Scot bought his gun.

ALONG MELODY LANE

By JOHNNY MAHONEY

Whoever invented the word "bang" would certainly have to apply it to the Tivoli Troubadours for the masterful performance that they put on at the Tivoli the first part of the week.

* * *

While most of the stage shows have been headed with Pedro's name, we feel that Mr. Rogers ought to get up at least one show featuring Dick Stamper. He could head it "Local Boy Makes Good in a Big Way."

* * *

They tell us that Howard Pack is going into the real estate business—he is quite interested in some Glenwood property.

* * *

At last the union will have a saxophone player who can cut the stock arrangements that the European nations wish on us each year. Miss Lasater has signed up James Buckhanan, who has been playing in and around Paris for the last two years.

News from Jimmy Cox's camp tells us that George Ryerson has signed up with their band to assist them at Lake Winnepesauka on the Wednesday and Saturday night dances.

* * *

We predicted that Pedro would sing and play for the Tivoli patrons, but we never dreamed that he would be as versatile as he turned out to be. Last week he played the violin, sang, played the xylophone, directed and then to cap the climax attempted to take home the feminine part of the stage team of Sully and West.

* * *

John Patty is making a big go at the radio station. We now find him announcing. They say that he has been trying hard to make his voice heard in Florida.

* * *

We were surely proud of Bill Krug's playing at the Tivoli this week. See, Bill, what you have learned from Ralph last summer.

MORE ABOUT MINE WORKERS

(Continued from First Page)

_____Coal and Coke company I want to become connected with the United Mine Workers of America, or any affiliated organization, I agree to withdraw from the employment of said company; and I agree that while I am in the employ of said company I will not make any efforts among its employes to bring about any unionizing of its mines against its wishes. I further agree that I will not join or assist in organizing any other labor organization while in such employ except by and with the consent of said company.

I also agree to abide by the rules and customs of the mine and camp, and hereby authorize the company to deduct from any credits I may have in the office such amounts as are necessary or may be necessary for the maintenance of school, hospital and burial funds, for insurance at $1.70 per month, and for the services of the camp physician. It is understood that the present rate for the school fund is $____ per month, the rate for the burial fund is $____ for the death of each child and $____for the death of each grown person, for each employe; and the present rate for services of the camp physician is $2 per month for each employe who is the head of a family and resides within the confines of the mine camp proper, * * * Employes living out of or beyond the confines of these localities who are heads of families will be, as to the camp physician, classed as single persons, and the camp physician will not be obligated to attend their families, but such camp physician may make such contract as to attendance upon the family of such employe as they may agree upon. The rate for all single men, not heads of families, will be $1.50 per month for the services of the camp physician.

I have either read the above or heard the same read.
Approved:

_____
Employe.

_____
Superintendent.

N. B.—This form must be signed in duplicate by each employe, one copy to be delivered to the employe, and the other retained by the company.

SITUATION IN KENTUCKY TENSE.

In the meantime, reports say that miners have quit work at five Harlan county, Kentucky, mines in protest against failure to disarm mine guards.

Local union officers had announced that the men would strike if the state troops which were sent there last week did not eliminate the guards. They referred to the signed statement, given out last week at a meeting between union officers and representatives of Gov. Flem D. Sampson, which provided for disarming of the mine guards to prevent further outbreaks in the labor dispute which had cost five lives and destruction of much property.

Mine owners tried to get the governor to send troops to protect their property, but the head of the Kentucky state government said that only on a petition of the people would he resort to such a move. He sent the troops when residents of Harlan county asked for them.

Representatives of Gov. Sampson and labor officers met and signed an agreement asking the governor to order out the troops.

William Turnblazer, president of the United Mine Workers in Kentucky and Tennessee; Lawrence Dwyer, national representative of the union, and Peter Campbell, representing the Kentucky State Federation of Labor, met with Russell O. Miller and Corbett L. Gullett, representatives of the governor, and signed the following agreement:

"In the interests of citizens of Harlan and Bell counties, we hereby request that Gov. Sampson send sufficient soldiers to these counties to preserve order.

"We also desire and insist that no transportation of outside or foreign labor be sent into Harlan and Bell counties while the troops are in the field and for the duration of martial law.

"The miners of these counties are without food and shelter and some arrangement will have to be made to take care of the situation.

"The miners have the right of free assemblage and the right to join and solicit members for their organization and we agree that all meetings shall be held in the daytime. We agree that all mine guards be disarmed and their commissions revoked. We, the undersigned, agree to co-operate in the fullest extent to bring about a settlement of these conditions at the earliest possible time."

RESIST WAGE CUT.

Duluth, Minn.—Freight handlers in this city and in Superior refused to accept a wage cut of 10 cents an hour. Non-unionists joined with the organized to resist this attack.

REJECT PRISON LABEL.

Madison, Wis.—The state assembly rejected a bill that provides for the labeling of all prison-made goods and prohibits contracts for prison labor.

"The failure to develop production involved, in the long run, the ruin of the Roman empire, for its civilization was not a light or easy burden."
—J. L. Hammond.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

Communists Prosper In Depression Times

Boston.—An American standard of living, old age pension laws and adequate retirement provisions to care for needy aged is the most effective resistance to communist propagandists, said Congressman Fish in an address in this city.

The speaker struck at the root of social unrest and called for legislation dealing with unemployment. He said a vigorous effort should be made by congress to assist the willing wage earners and that employers should be urged to maintain present wage rates.

Congressman Fish said he was not protesting against the form of government in Russia. "That is not a matter which concerns the American people," he said.

"We have no right to interfere with the kind of government set up in any foreign land, but we resent any alien interference with our own domestic institutions."

"There can be no possible basis of compromise between our republican form of government and communism. There is an irrepressible conflict between Americanism and communism."

NOTICE OF SALE OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS AND WARES FOR STORAGE

Take notice, that on the 1st day of June, 1931, at 10 a.m., the Main Street Transfer and Storage Company will, at its warehouse at 1512 Carr Street, City of Chattanooga, County of Hamilton, State of Tennessee, sell at public outcry to the highest bidder the following described articles, to-wit:

1. One lot of household goods stored by L. E. Smith, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
2. One lot of household goods stored by Jack Ferris and American Security Co., consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
3. One lot of household goods stored by Lincoln Loan Co., consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
4. One lot of household goods stored by G. D. Watkins, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
5. One lot of household goods stored by Mrs. Lela Flanigan, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
6. One lot of household goods stored by W. C. Thomas, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
7. One lot of household goods stored by Evelyn Anderson, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
8. One lot of household goods stored by R. A. and Clara Allen, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
9. One lot of household goods stored by J. F. Eadens, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
10. One lot of household goods stored by Fred Prater, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
11. One lot of household goods stored by Mrs. J. G. Prater, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
12. One lot of household goods stored by Maude Humphrey and Lincoln Loan Co., consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
13. One lot of household goods stored by Clara Trimble, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
14. One lot of household goods stored by Shelma Horton, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
15. One lot of household goods stored by Lucile Williams, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
16. One lot of household goods stored by W. C. Newborner, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
17. One lot of household goods stored by Luther Wallace, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
18. One lot of household goods stored by J. W. Moore, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
19. One lot of household goods stored by Mrs. C. N. Shaw, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
20. One lot of household goods stored by Margaret Jefferson, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
21. One lot of household goods stored by C. A. Nation, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
22. One lot of household goods stored by Ed Alexander, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.

Said goods will be sold for storage charges accrued thereon and all other necessary expenses incurred in making said sale, and said sale will be made in accordance with Senate Bill No. 128 of the Acts of the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee of 1909, passed on February 12th, 1909, and approved on February 19th, entitled "An Act Creating a Lien in Favor of Warehousemen and Providing Means for Enforcing Same," which said act takes effect from and after its passage.

Said sale will be made at public outcry and for cash and the proceeds thereof applied as directed by said statute.

This the 13th day of May, 1931.

MAIN STREET TRANSFER & STORAGE CO.
By J. S. Lamb.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45276
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

William C. Howington vs. Ola Bell Howington

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ola Bell Howington is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next July rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in July next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 9th day of May, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
F. L. Dixon, Atty. 6-5

EFFRON'S TENTH ANNIVERSARY SALE

Saturday and Monday

Celebrating our 10 years of successful business with the greatest values and the lowest prices ever before offered by any store in Chattanooga at any time!

COME — SEE — SAVE!

EFFRON'S

THE HOME OF LOW PRICES

MARKET AT SIXTH

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE Limit 2 lbs.—Lb. 27c

ONIONS New Texas, Light Yellow, Nicest You Have Seen — Pound 3½c

GREEN BEANS Flat, Stringless, Pound 7½c

PINK SALMON No. 1 Tall, 15c Size, Can 10c

PEACHES Delmonte, Large 2½ Size, Can 19c

CHILE Van Camp's, No. 1, 10c Size, 2 Cans 15c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

IF YOU WANT THE BEST FLOUR MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

Not Always SPECTACULAR . . .

A child swallowed a bead a few weeks ago in Williston, S. C., which lodged in her bronchial tube. Persistent attempts failed to remove it. In desperation, a renowned Philadelphia specialist was called by long distance telephone—he rushed the proper instruments by airplane—the bead was removed—the child's life was saved.

Every day—somewhere—newspapers tell how the telephone has been of priceless service in some emergency, but these spectacular occasions are only high lights in the many regular daily uses for a telephone in the home. The neighborhood grocer—the corner drug store—the doctor—the police and fire departments—and the many friends who make the family's social hours more pleasant—all are only a moment away when you have a telephone.

With all its many advantages, modern telephone service is so low in cost that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE and Telegraph Company
(Incorporated)

WARNING TO TAXPAYERS

Unpaid 1930 State and County Taxes now bear interest at 6% per annum from March 1st to June 1st.

Taxes may be paid at my office until June 1st, when lists will be delivered to officers for collection at the cost of the taxpayer.

ALVIN SHIPP, TRUSTEE.

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

MINE WORKERS TO CONFER AT PINEVILLE, KY., TUESDAY

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, MAY 22, 1931 — Number 4

Green Again Pours Hot Shot Into Ranks Of Wage-Slashers

Labor's Solemn Duty to Resist Cuts, He Asserts

Welfare of Nation Depends Upon Defeat of Bankers' Campaign for Lower Pay, A. F. of L. President Tells Trainmen.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Houston, Tex., May 21.—Following the assault on wage cutting delivered by the A. F. of L. executive council, President William Green, addressing the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen's convention here, leveled labor's guns squarely on big banking and financial interests. He declared that the "solemn duty of the wage-earners of the nation to resist with all the power they possess" attempts to cut wages.

"In order to save employers and private industry from the evil consequences of wage cutting, American labor will stand uncompromising and immovable against all attempts to lower living standards through the imposition of reductions in wages," Mr. Green told the convention.

"Many representatives of labor believe that a group of powerful banking and financial interests are attempting to enforce a general reduction in wages. They interpret the statements recently made by Mr. Wiggin, of the Chase National bank; Mr. Roberts, of the National City Bank of New York; Mr. Stephenson, representing the Bankers' association, the representative of the Union Trust company, of Cleveland, and Melvin Traylor, of the First National Bank of Chicago, in favor of wage reduction arguments offered to the public by the representatives of these financial institutions in consecutive order as more than a coincidence. Some refer to them as evidence of a conspiracy. Reports have reached the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor that some bankers have refused to extend credit to manufacturers unless they reduced wages. This is coercion of a most reprehensive character.

Big Employers Oppose Cuts.

"It is interesting to observe the financial situation which has arisen out of the existing distressing economic situation. On the one hand we behold the president of the United States, the secretary of the treasury, Mr. Mellon, and members of the president's cabinet, large employers of labor, such as Mr. Farrell, of the United States Steel corporation; Mr. Swope, of the General Electric company, many railroad executives, the Associated Employers of San Francisco, numerous large building contractors and representatives of labor making strong declarations in opposition to wage reductions and on the other hand some representatives of banking and financial interests assuming an opposite position, insisting upon, if not attempting to enforce, reductions in wages.

"Who is most competent to judge as to whether the maintenance of existing wage standards or a reduction in wages would hasten a return of prosperity? Shall the opinion of the employers of labor and the representatives of labor prevail or shall it be the opinion of banking and financial interests?

"If bankers and their sympathetic friends were right the bituminous coal industry, which is on the verge of bankruptcy, ought to be the most prosperous of all American industries.

Social Unrest Increasing.

"Those banking and financial representatives who are advocating wage reductions and forcing employers to make reductions in wages are assuming grave responsibilities. Already the wage cutting policies adopted by some employers are producing a most unfavorable social and economic effect. Unemployment continues; buying lags; social unrest is increasing; human distress is becoming more acute. Meanwhile extreme and impatient proposals are being advocated and systematically considered as remedies for the nation's economic ills.

"Banking interests which are forcing reductions in wages and those employers who are responding to this powerful influence must accept responsibility for a continuation of the existing unemployment situation. Bad as it is and bad as it has been, it would be infinitely worse if the nation were forced to pass through another winter of unemployment. Hunger knows no law. It creates social unrest which, in turn, produces grave disorder. When such a stage is reached public opinion will not fail to hold wage cutting influences responsible for the suffering and disaster which millions of men, women and children are forced to undergo."

Lower Wages to Be Fought.

In closing his address, Mr. Green said:

"In this period of continued unemployment it is gratifying to know that many substantial and influential employers of labor are standing with the representatives of labor in all the efforts which are being put forth to maintain existing wage standards. We know we are right because the records show that industries make money when wages are high and lose money when wages are low. The greatest earning period in the history of industrial America covers the time when wages were at their peak. In the light of all these facts it becomes the solemn duty of the wage-earners of the nation to resist with all the power they possess the attempt of those banking interests who are seeking to enforce reductions in wages. In order to save employers and save industry from the evil consequences which are bound to follow such a course American labor will stand uncompromising and immovable against all attempts to lower living standards through the imposition of reductions in wages."

RESISTS WAGE CUTS.

Allentown, Pa.—More than a score of silk mills in this area are strike-bound because workers refuse to accept wage cuts. The strike is the first labor disturbance of major importance in this city for fifty-nine years.

HONOR MEMORY NATION'S HEROES

Legion Auxiliary to Observe Annual "Poppy Day" on Streets Saturday.

Saturday is "Poppy Day," and ladies of the American Legion auxiliary will, according to annual custom, offer for sale on the downtown streets the flower which is symbolic of the memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice "over there."

A member of the auxiliary Friday submitted for Labor World readers the following with reference to the organization and the significance of "Poppy Day:"

"The dimes, quarters and dollars dropped into the boxes on Poppy day enable the Legion auxiliary units to carry out a constructive program of aid to the disabled and to dependent families of veterans throughout the year. Every penny is expended in relief work for the victims of the war.

"Then, too, the making of the poppy provides work for hundreds of disabled men throughout the winter who otherwise would be unable to earn anything for themselves or their families. Only those disabled men who cannot establish their claims for government compensation are permitted to make poppies. They are paid a penny for each poppy made. All of Tennessee's poppies were made by the disabled veterans in the hospital at Johnson City. Giving these men the opportunity to earn some money is the largest piece of welfare work done by the American Legion auxiliary.

"So, wear a poppy Saturday! Honor the dead and serve the living!"

"The American Legion auxiliary is the largest woman's patriotic organization in the world. It is composed of every woman who herself enlisted during the war, of every woman who mourns for a veteran son, husband, father or brother, and of the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of the members of the American Legion. Are you one of those privileged to be a member of this organization? If you have never taken advantage of this privilege, won't you get in touch with the nearest auxiliary unit and join now?

"Do you remember when the boys left home training camps or 'over there,' how we promised them any service we could render? We knitted, rolled bandages, wrote letters, or spent hours fixing boxes of goodies for them. Now, that twelve years have passed, time has dimmed these memories until they have almost faded from the public mind. Do you realize that there are thousands of these boys for whom the war is not yet over, and who are still fighting a brave fight which will not end until death closes their eyes for the last sleep?

"The women of the American Legion auxiliary are trying to show towards these men a peace-time service, by offering a helping hand where needed, by furnishing comforts to these men and their families, and showing them that they have not been forgotten. We are also striving to help the thousands of women and children left widowed and orphaned. It is our aim to see that every child of ex-service men is given the same chance in life he would have if "Daddy" had been spared.

"Theirs was a life of sacrifice, and ours is the privilege to see that this sacrifice was not in vain."

DESTITUTION AND SUFFERING AMONG FAMILIES OF WORKERS TO BE SUBJECT OF GATHERING

President Turnblazer Calls for Three Representatives From Each Mine in District 19—Urges Attendance "Even If You Have to Hitch-Hike to Get There."

"Yellow dog" contracts, unemployment, starvation wages, "pluck-me" commissaries and general destitution and misery among the coal miners of Tennessee and Kentucky, will be discussed by a convention of these workers at Pineville, Ky., next Tuesday, May 26, and efforts will be made to devise ways and means to take care of those in want for the bare necessities of life, and "work out policies which will conserve the best interests of all."

Conditions among these workers in District 19 have during the past few weeks reached a crisis, resulting in bloodshed in the Kentucky district and a situation in Tennessee which has threatened open industrial warfare at any minute. Cooler heads and conservative judgment have prevailed in this state to prevent a general walk-out, it is said, but strikes in the Harlan field are declared to have been forced by arrogant and unreasonable tactics of the mine operators in dealing with the pleas of the workers for relief.

It is said to be realized, however, that something must be done immediately to alleviate the distress among the miners of both states, and President William Turnblazer, of District 19, has yielded to the solicitation of many workers and called the conference to be held at Pineville next Tuesday.

Executive council of the Tennessee Federation of Labor was called into extraordinary session at Knoxville last week to consider the Tennessee situation, but no information on these deliberations was made public.

The call issued by President Turnblazer follows:

To the Union and Non-Union Coal Miners of Southeastern Kentucky and Tennessee.

Greetings:

I have received a number of appeals, and at the solicitation of those who work in and around the mines, I have been requested to call a convention of coal miners to meet at the courthouse in Pineville, Ky., Tuesday, May 26th, at 10 o'clock a.m. for the purpose of giving earnest and serious consideration to the situation now existing in the coal fields of this district, and to devise ways and means to take care of our people, and work out such policies as will conserve their best interests. Therefore, I am appealing to every miner in this district to elect and send delegates to this convention on the basis of three delegates from each mine. I would request that you get in touch with each mine and have them select these delegates. You can double up in automobiles and trucks in connection with transportation, and it is absolutely necessary that all mines be fully represented, even if you have to hitch-hike to get there.

This convention means much to those who are dependent on the coal industry for a livelihood, and it is very essential that you be represented.

Gov. Flem D. Sampson has been extended an invitation to address this convention, along with several other speakers of reputation.

Trusting you will see the wisdom of putting forth every effort in sending representatives to this meeting, and whatever policy is decided upon will work to the interest of those who toil, I am,

Yours respectfully,
WILLIAM TURNBLAZER,
President.

EUROPE'S LOW-WAGE CAMPAIGN DIES A-BORNING AT WASHINGTON

By CHESTER M. WRIGHT
(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, May 21.—Europe's low's wage propaganda came in full force to the convention of the International Chamber of Commerce here and didn't get to first base.

Had the full force of the hurricane of wage-cutting propaganda got out of hand it would have swept the floor and the reverberations would still be the chief memory of the big gathering.

Three things operated to stop the storm before it got headway. One of these was the record made by the American delegation in the international chamber meeting in 1929, when it wrote its own addition to convention resolutions and declared that, for America "rising wages and continuous employment create widespread buying power."

Another was the fact that President Hoover's pre-convention blast stopped tariff discussion, which helped stop wage-cutting talk.

Newspaper Men Didn't "Fall"

The third was the fact that a corps of American publicity men, with whom the working newspaper men on the job co-operated, didn't "fall for" the propaganda that was spread through the conference.

This combination of circumstances virtually barred wage-reduction propaganda from the open discussions, save in the case of the head of the European steel cartel. It did not halt agents of wage-reduction propaganda from working overtime privately to spread the poison.

One of the most active in the effort to break open the wage reduction issue was the French publicity representative of the International Chamber of Commerce. It is safe to conclude that he did not come to Washington with that point of view unless he had been made sure before leaving Paris that his employers wanted that point of view exploited.

Encounters Unwilling Listeners.

But he, like others, encountered unwilling listeners among American newspaper men, as well as the 1929 declaration for "rising wages."

Those who were at the heart of the machinery around which the convention operated knew the European intent and moved rapidly to check its development. To a considerable extent the Europeans had planned to open their fight with an attack on the American tariff, but back of their planned attack on tariff was the driving force of their determination to start a world movement to drive wages down.

Naturally there were certain Americans ready to assist in the drive, but they were checked by other Americans. One of the notable contributions to sober second thought about wage-cutting was the smashing address delivered by Dean Donham, of Harvard, in which he seriously and calmly predicted consequences of the most dire character unless present inequalities are rectified.

World Drive Stopped.

The fact is that, while the chamber of commerce ended in an almost complete absence of constructive program, the convention stopped a world drive against the American standard of living, partly by virtue of its own record which it could not well abandon and partly because of outside forces which it feared.

The wage-cutting drive was not stopped without some cost. When talk of wages was stopped other issues likewise were smothered. Among these was the soviet issue, which was billed to have an overhauling, but which escaped, not because of lack of conviction, but because adroit moves closed the floor to issues that would have been destructive of every good thing the convention might have accomplished.

For labor the stopping of the wage-cutting drive was worth all its cost. It was perhaps the most momentous thing that could have happened.

TIMES TO PRINT "HOUSE ORGAN"

Employes of Morning Paper Will Publish Breezy Private Sheet.

(By John H. Crump)

For many years the employes of Adolph S. Ochs on the payroll of the New York Times have had their own private newspaper, called the Little Times. This breezy little paper contains only news about the employes of the New York Times.

And now Mr. Ochs' employes on the payroll of the Chattanooga Times are to have their own private newspaper also. Adolph S. Ochs II called representatives from each department to a meeting recently and formulated plans for the publication of a monthly paper edited by and for the employes of the Chattanooga Times.

Gordon Allen was appointed editor-in-chief, with an associate editor from each department. The name of the publication will be the Junior Times. It will be of tabloid size, eight pages of five columns. A board of directors will govern the destinies of the Junior Times, the board being composed of the editor-in-chief and fourteen associate editors.

The first issue of the Junior Times will appear June 1, and will contain interesting sketches and pictures of many of the old-timers in the Times employ. Every department will be represented each month and it is hoped that every employe will be mentioned at least once in the span of four months.

In addition to stories about the old-timers in the Times employ, there will be stories in the first issue about former employes who have made good in other lines and on other newspapers.

WAGE CUTS PROTESTED.

Salt Lake City—Reports to the Utah Federation of Labor show that wages in certain sections of this state have been reduced to $2 a day, said M. I. Thompson, president of the federation, in a public statement.

NOTICE!

Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council will meet Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, in regular session. All delegates are requested and expected to be present, as matters affecting every local union will come before the meeting for discussion.

POSTAL UNIONS' ANNUAL OUTING

American Legion to Present Flag to Local's Band. News Notes.

(By R. B. Lane)

The Letter Carriers and Postoffice Clerks will have a picnic at East Lake park Saturday, May 30, from 4 to 8. Every one will spread their lunch together. The Letter Carrier band will play and other entertainment will be provided. The American Legion will present a flag to the band and the Carriers will present a banner also.

* * *

Dick Selcer, who with J. L. Miller went up to Cleveland last Wednesday, was cited by state patrol for fast and furious driving past a schoolhouse (school had been out for an hour.) The squire turned him loose.

* * *

J. L. Miller loaned his car to a girl friend, who smashed it up in collision. Will cost the boy $50 to get it fixed. She said, "I am sorry!"

* * *

Harry Sagasser started from home the other morning with several dozen eggs in his car when the steering gear went wrong and he went into the ditch. He had scrambled eggs.

* * *

Frank Brooks is back after a few days of vacation.

* * *

Where is the new postoffice. I don't know, do you?

* * *

Joe Carson was off a day or two this week sick.

* * *

Hannum, of St. Elmo station, is off on vacation.

* * *

Brother Dailey was off Tuesday attending district conference.

* * *

Earl Miller is back after a few days' vacation which he spent on his plantation at Dalton, Ga.

* * *

How do you like the new air mail schedule?

IDLE INSURANCE LOOMS.

Washington.—If men are not put to work, unemployment insurance in some form is inevitable, declared Dean Wallace B. Donham, of Harvard university, at the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Unemployment of millions of men as a result of failure to control the effects of machinery and mass production is a challenge to western civilization, he said.

BARBER BILL VETOED.

Columbus, O.—Gov. White vetoed a bill that would create a board of barber examiners. The measure was urged by employes and employers in this calling.

312 Big Corporations Pile Up Huge Profits While Workers Starve

"VAIN, SHALLOW" YET WE LOVE 'EM

Forbes Agrees and Disagrees With Philosopher About Fair Sex.

Although Arthur Schopenhauer, German philosopher, doesn't know it, having departed this vale of tears more than a century ago, his sage estimate of the fair sex has met a Tartar in this year of our Lord 1931. George Forbes, postal clerk, who has a funny way of disagreeing with folks and making 'em like it, takes issue with Herr Professor, and offers, in verse, a modern view of this most perplexing problem—the female of the species. It happened like this:

A young lady friend of the grey-haired trades unionist brought to him a quotation from the works of the philosopher, and asked his reaction to the sentiment expressed, as follows:

"* * * After all, men are much more beautiful in body than women.

"It is only a man whose intellect is clouded by his sexual impulse that could give the name of the "fair sex" to that undersized, narrow-shouldered, broad-hipped and short-legged race; for the whole beauty of the sex is bound up with this impulse. Instead of calling them beautiful there would be more warrant for describing women as the unesthetic sex. Neither for music, nor for poetry, nor for the fine arts, have they really and truly any sense of susceptibility; it is a mere mockery if they make a pretense of it in order to assist their endeavor to please. * * *

"They are incapable of taking a purely objective interest in anything. * * *

"The most distinguished intellects among the whole sex have never managed to produce a single achievement in the fine arts that is really genuine and original; or given to the world any work of permanent value in any sphere. * * *

"The less we have to do with women, then, the better. They are not even a 'necessary evil;' life is safer and smoother without them. Let men recognize the snare that lies in women's beauty. * * *"

Sorter hard-boiled? Sure; but that didn't bother George much. Tackling the hard propositions is his specialty. So he got his alleged brain to working, and doubtless after many hours of labor evolved the following for presentation to the aforesaid young lady who had so anxiously sought his opinion:

WOMAN.

Narrow shoulders and narrow mind,
Broad in front and broad behind,
Low and squatty, with fat knock-knees,
Always demanding a life of ease.
You have caused more pains and aches
Than war and booze and droughts and quakes;
Yet, in spite of this and that,
You make my heart go pitty-pat.
Vain and shallow to the core,
Still I love you more and more.

And that's that. It struck us as not at all bad. (Mr. Forbes is at the parcel post window, main office. The line forms on the right.)

Huge Reserves Built Up While Industry Slumps

Surplus Funds of Big Concerns Increased by Use in Call-Loan Market During Bad Year, Survey Shows.

(By International Labor News Service.)

New York City, May 21.—Cash has piled up in the coffers of 310 industrial corporations, even though commodity output has in many cases decreased and though earnings from plant operations have dropped.

These corporations had 3 per cent more cash at the end of last year than they had at the end of the previous year, so that through twelve months of the worst of the depression they piled up money in millions of dollars.

This is revealed in a Standard Statistics company survey, just made public. "Sagacious management" which paid off senior obligations capitalized the opportunity to "increase their funds through operations in the call-loan market" is credited with this gain in cash holding.

Thus a new element has entered into the business of corporate profit-making and it is shown to work as well when industry is on the rocks as when it is on the mend. The survey says:

"Total cash and equivalent of 310 industrial corporations for which comparable records are available for the past four years, amounted, at the close of 1930, to $1,789,000,000, an increase of 3 per cent over the aggregate balance sheet item of Dec. 31, 1929, and 14.5 per cent over the condition in 1927."

An explanation is offered which points out that these huge cash reserves bear little relation to earning power, but it does not alter the fact that the reserves have been built up while industry has sagged, which is to say that they have made money out of national adversity, as they did out of prosperity, though of course not in such volume. Says the survey, in explanation:

"While this strong cash position is concrete evidence of relative financial stability, its character is static, since it bears little relation to current earning power.

"Obviously, it would redound much more to the advantage of the companies concerned if the cash item were considerably smaller, assuming that its reduction could be offset by a higher rate of current return on the capital invested in enterprise. In other words, this cash is to a large extent unemployed, and prospects for its profitable use under present conditions are limited by substantially the same conditions which govern the volume of demand for merchandise. Under existing conditions, however, these ample cash reserves form a very necessary backlog for taking advantage of any possible recovery in business during the current year."

Metal Workers in Special Meeting

An unusually important called meeting of Local 62, Sheet Metal Workers, will be held Tuesday night, according to announcement Friday morning by Alvin J. Pfitzer, financial secretary. Mr. Pfitzer declined to divulge the nature of the business to come before the members, but did say that matters which vitally affect each and every member will be up for discussion, and it is hoped that a 100 per cent attendance will be present when the session is called to order.

Personal

F. H. Horton (not related to his excellency, the governor) has removed his tools from the Hotel Patten Barber shop and is now located at the Climax, 18 West Eighth street, where he is now prepared to attend the tonsorial needs of old friends, and, while he didn't exactly say so, it is thought Mr. Horton wouldn't object to taking on a few new customers.

THE LABOR WORLD
310 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY
Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council
R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager
Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, MAY 22, 1931.

ORIENTALIZE WEST COAST?

The business depression is reviving agitation to place Japanese under the immigration quota law. We are told that this will help our export trade. But "a few hundred" Japanese, it is claimed, will be admitted and this will not result in "any great overthrow of the English-speaking race."

The plea that Japan is "insulted" by exclusion ignores the fact that other Orientals—Koreans, Chinese, Lascars and Hindus—are also debarred. The American people decline to be orientalized. This would not happen within the next few years, but if the bars are let down, future generations will face new race problems.

Trade unionists were ridiculed forty years ago when they urged Chinese exclusion. Chinese labor was cheap in those days. But the Orientals enlarged their scope. They challenged not only living standards of workers, but they began to compete with business men and agriculturists. This was different. Pacific states now deny Orientals the right to even own or lease land.

An orientalized west coast is a terrific cost to pay for a few million dollars that Japanese may spend in this country. Our civilization cannot be jeopardized by sob appeals of dividend seekers.

ARROGANCE AND STUPIDITY.

A Pennsylvania magistrate a few days ago had before him a man who, without a job, had gone fishing in the hope of finding food.

"Twenty-five days in jail," said the magistrate.

The jobless man had no fishing license.

Somehow it ought to be possible to add that judge immediately to the ranks of the unemployed.

FROM JUDGE PARKER'S HOME TOWN.

Judge Parker's home town has elected a union man.

Judge Parker very probably would now be a supreme court justice were it not for his "yellow dog" record.

The nation will be glad that Judge Parker's home town thus vindicates the principles of trade unionism.

Judge Parker's education should be helped by the event.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street
We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right
OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

PAINS QUIT COMING
"When I was a girl, I suffered periodically with terrible pains in my back and sides. Often I would bend almost double with the intense pain. This would last for hours and I could get no relief.
"I tried almost everything that was recommended to me, but found nothing that would help until I began taking Cardui. My mother thought it would be good for me, so she got a bottle of Cardui and started me taking it. I soon improved. The bad spells quit coming. I was soon in normal health."
—Mrs. Jewel Harris, Winnsboro, Texas.
Sold At All Drug Stores. E-77
CARDUI
Helps Women to Health
Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

"BUSINESS" WALKS IN A MAZE.

For half a century the voice of the organized labor movement of America has been demanding the application of democratic practice to the control of industry of the nation and of the world. We have been witnessing during the past two weeks the dress parade of the so-called brains of the "business world." And after the parades have cleaned up and gone, after they have said their best and their worst, after they have shown whatever colors they cared—or dared—to show, one begins to wonder whether the "business world" as such is much over "fourteen years of age"—mentally.

One eminent industrial magnate said, "Our important financiers know perfectly well in 1928 and 1929 what the real character of the financial situation was and what its results would probably be. They even spoke of the possibility of a collapse of the boom—privately—not publicly."

* * *

A leading financier said: "We have not failed because of ignorance of economic theories, but because of our utter disregard and defiance of all economic laws. Ambition, stupidity, and greed have dictated policies, and trouble has been the result."

* * *

Great manufacturing corporations expanded their plants beyond all limits of the possible purchasing power of a home market—or any other visible market. They capitalized the temporary earning capacity of these plants at millions—and offered this boosted and watered stock to their employes at par during a rising stock boom, as a soothing syrup for labor! Then they took this money and put it into the Wall Street "call-money" whirlpool, which sank out of sight when they pulled back their funds. Out of such funds as these they have been paying depression dividends.

* * *

Over against this picture, here is another, drawn by a banker who addressed the meeting at Washington:

"It has long been fashionable to criticize the individual who buys beyond his income, thereby becoming a victim of debt with its subsequent embarrassment, and, all to frequently, bankruptcy or worse. What shall we say, however, of a business leadership which expands its plant and equipment without considering the source of its temporary market, and increases its force to an extent which intelligent understanding should indicate would leave it seriously involved with thousands of employes out of work when such demand had passed? Certainly, we cannot blame the individual, and excuse the management!"

* * *

The gist of all slogans of trade, national and international, has been "dog eat dog!" Which might be fair enough, if it only involved the leaders of the expeditions. But when it means that the rank and file of the industrial armies are literally "thrown to the dogs," when the time comes to junk the worn-out factories and equipment, the intelligent workers begin to suspect that the alleged intelligence which directs the leaders of the armies is not so great as they have been led to believe.

* * *

These great gatherings of the chambers of commerce—what are they? Do they represent the last efforts of the autocrats to find their place in the currents of a world of progress? They have certainly had to admit that they do not know which way they are headed!

Why, from these world gatherings of the managers of production, was the voice of labor shut out? Perhaps that is what was needed to give point and balance to the whole discussion.

MARKET-BASKET COST.

Melvin Traylor, president First National bank, Chicago, favors American living standards, but intimates that wage reductions are permissible when living costs are reduced.

This is a revival of the old theory that workers' wages should be based on market basket costs.

Workers, under this system, must reject all hope of higher living standards. The trader, commission man and huckster, not they, set wages that have no relation to the production of wealth.

The Traylor theory is also based on the belief that American "living standards" were a fact before the stock crash in 1929.

The national bureau of economic research states that annual wages in this country in 1917 averaged $1,205. This is several hundred dollars below a minimum living standard.

No one denies that low purchasing power will delay a business recovery. But many men refuse to acknowledge that the depression was caused by low purchasing power.

By holding wages even where they were before the stock crash, while automatic machinery and scientific processes have increased, the stage is set for another depression.

Business depressions are logical if the Traylor theory is correct. If we base wages on market basket costs we are in a circle from which there can be no permanent relief.

Labor-displacing machinery and scientific processes increase output and workers are steadily released from employment. Goods continue to be thrown on the market. Additional labor-displacing machinery and scientific processes are installed to cheapen production for a constantly narrowing market. More workers are forced into the idle, non-consuming army, while more commodities are manufactured by automatic methods.

The inevitable happens, while business men dodge the cause as they discuss a continuance of policies that either intensify the depression or make the next one more acute.

Business men should realize the social aspect of wages. This is not merely a "labor question." Wages diffuse wealth.

The depression cause, followed to its logical end, will engulf business men. They can not continue to prosper under a system of wages based on market basket costs and a production method that is based on automatic machinery and scientific processes.

With millions of idle men, fed by charity, at the other end of the line, an impossible condition is created.

History should teach these business men that an evasive policy will not suffice.

They should recall that French royalists, in 1789, gaily declared: "After us the deluge."

"MEETING" THE CRISIS.

A national plan whereby every unit of industry will ascertain annual consumption and then divide its output over the year, was favored by the recent convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. This is called "budgeting production." The plan is based, we are told, on voluntary action by employers without government interference. This does not exclude government or state aid, such as is now happening in the oil industry. Subsidies to private shipowners and airplanes is another illustration of the difference between "government interference" and government aid, as understood by these business men. Soviet Russia, it is pointed out, plans its production. In Russia, however, the objective is unlimited output, enforced by rifle squads. In our country the objective would be avoidance of excess output.

We are not living in a static society. Industries and production are being revolutionized by inventive genius. The unemployed army is being constantly recruited as new processes are installed. Manufacturers who have a commodity monopoly, such as a certain soap, or a kodak, can budget output to approximate consumption, but is this possible in a highly competitive industry? Can the output of textiles, for instance, be forecasted when rayon strives to capture this market?

Every industry has an excessive plant capacity that is "eating its head off" by taxes, maintenance charges and frozen investments. Three years ago, when the United States was at the peak of its buying power, George Otis Smith, then director of the United States geological survey, declared that the country was "over-engined." The engineer, be he civil, mechanical, electrical or mining, "has done his work too well," said Mr. Smith.

There is no abatement in the work of these scientists. No employed worker is certain of his position. Laboratories are being extended. Engineers and scientists are more numerous and able.

It may be said that when the budget plan is installed unemployed workers will be cared for by employers' "unemployment reserves," or boss-contorlled unemployment insurance. That system will apply to workers temporarily laid off, not to those who have been permanently released, who have been discharged. The budget scheme, in short, would standardize production and assure steady employment to a certain percentage of wage earners—until the machine affects them.

Assuming that this scheme were possible by employers co-operating to an extent heretofore undreamed of, the millions of unemployed would remain a problem. Their number would increase through the elimination of every possible waste and the continuous installation of new production devices.

No plan is depression-proof that ignores the army of unemployed. These millions of workers are a tax on society, a danger to existing orders and a menace to living conditions of those employed.

Any plan that ignores the depression-cause is of temporary benefit to employers who would provide a cushion for the next industrial collapse that their present policies make certain.

LABOR INJUNCTION PLAN NOT WRITTEN INTO LAW

Lansing, Mich.—Anti-union interests in this state failed to write a regulation labor injunction into the Michigan criminal code.

Picketing would be outlawed and any attempt to influence others not to patronize or trade with an unfair employer would be classed as a misdemeanor.

The proposal sounds like the outburst of a labor injunction judge. The only difference would be that if the measure was written into law a denial of fundamental rights would be legalized and a jury would convict instead of an equity court.

The judiciary committee of the senate rejected the proposal.

Patronize our Advertisers.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

AS HAS been previously explained (Labor World, May 1), England's mercantile system was marked from its beginning by a highly artificial and paternalistic state of affairs. Government was so closely identified with commerce and commerce with government it is really difficult to separate the two in one's mind. The secret of England's mighty strides forward in industry was twofold: her banking and navigation. Government played a big hand in both, as we shall see.

Money-lending was originally a Jewish business, Christians being forbidden by canon law to practice it. These restrictions finally broke down and Italians and Germans took to the business. To the Italians belongs the credit of inventing what we call a bank, i. e., the system of taking over another person's money, paying him a small fee and using the money to make profit for oneself. The Dutch improved on the Italian system by inventing bank money. Later on than this banking began to develop in England. Merchants in that country were in the habit of depositing small sums with goldsmiths, taking receipts, which were the origin of our bank-notes. The government or business men took to borrowing money from the goldsmiths. The governments got deeper and deeper in debt until lending them became a risk and loan interest climbed to exorbitant rates. As a consequence, the Bank of England was started in 1694, being a joint stock company with a charter and having as its object the loaning of huge sums to the government at 8 per cent interest.

The contribution England's navigation and colonization made to her industrial life and commerce will be discussed next week.

The Law Wins!

Written for The Labor World By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

"Yes, we're going to show other big American cities a thing or two about how to get a strangle-hold on lawlessness," Chicagoans tell you since they washed their political linen and hung it on the line for the world to see. To back up what they say here's an order given to its revivified police department last week: "No more stray dogs 'floating' around on your beats. Run 'em in—investigate afterward!" And the courts are lining up, too. Just read this little piece of drama: Fred W. Smith, a penniless, jobless, hungry man, goes out to get money with which to provide the wife, kiddies and himself with provender. Nervous, Smith accidentally pulls the trigger—a clerk slumps to the floor, dead. In court Smith is his only witness; he tells of his long hours tramping the streets looking for work, of his starving family, of a hard landlord threatening eviction. His story is finished. A short, nerve-wracking wait . . . one by one they file back in . . . then . . . "Gentlemen, what is your verdict?" . . . a death-like silence . . . one rises . . . "Your honor, fifty years' imprisonment!" The law wins! Chicago's police officialdom is riotously happy! "Now we'll see who's master of this city!" it bellows, banging its fist on the table and stamping to and fro with jaws suddenly set. "Now we're getting back our old grip on the lawless element, now we're"—and a small crowd of gangsters across the hall in the city's prosecuting attorney's office overhears and titters, for the group is successfully negotiating to have red-headed Mike the Killer's two-year triple murder sentence reduced because of his annoying cigarette cough. Mike will go free—the law wins!

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—What state most recently ratified the child labor amendment to the United States constitution?
A.—Colorado.

* * *

Q.—What international union has its headquarters in Troy, N. Y.?
A.—Laundry Workers' International union.

* * *

Q.—Who said: "The burden of unemployment is so staggering that theories must be put aside and courage found to devise new ways of meeting the problem. When millions stand on the brink of despair, positive measures are everything, and beautiful theories nothing?"
A.—Herman Dietrich, German minister of finance.

* * *

Q.—How does the old-age pension law of Delaware, enacted this year, differ from those of other states?
A.—The Delaware law provides that all the cost of pensions be borne by the state. In the other states having old-age pension legislation, the cost is either divided between the state and counties or borne wholly by the counties.

What Next!

A. H. J. Wright, an English inventor, is pushing an idea for molding fireproof automobile bodies out of asbestos at about half the weight and cost of steel bodies. Three English concerns are experimenting with the invention, which may revolutionize the automobile body-building industry. Wright claims to have devised means of making a thin asbestos sheeting which is resilient and non-brittle, the rest being simple. The new body is fireproof, a non-conductor of heat and eliminates "drumming," while the surface is ideal for covering with cellulose.

The man who says "I forgot" to demand union goods or service is a full brother to the one who "rocks the boat."

Continue the Label Campaign

By JOHN J. MANNING
Secretary-Treasurer Union Label Trades Department

The nation-wide Union Label Campaign conducted by the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor was a splendid success and we wish to thank all of those who gave their services voluntary and unselfishly.

This voluntary work is what made the campaign successful. The committee who were appointed to do this work in the various cities did their work well and I am sure that organizations that took an active part in the campaign will find this activity will repay them one hundred fold, with the increased interest aroused in their organizations and the emblems of their organizations.

It is the hope of the department that interest in the union label, card and button will not diminish now but that the campaign will be continued. In other words, make each month Union Label month. If this is done, it will help solve the unemployment situation among the members of organized labor.

I would like to see each organization start a vigorous campaign right now and continue it through the year. The Union Label Trades Department will gladly co-operate in any campaign of this sort which any organization may inaugurate.

During the April Union Label campaign interest was created and this interest should be encouraged and fostered. Keep the union label, card and button in the minds of the general public. Insist on the products of members of organized labor. Request the services of those having a union card or button. Do not become lax in your demands for union products and union services, and watch results.

Workless Problem Shoved On to Labor

San Francisco.—The Industrial association recommends that business men shift the burden of unemployment to labor by dividing the work—or "rotating work," to use the language of these anti-unionists. The value of high wages—which these employers do not pay—is stressed.

All building construction would be placed on this basis. The impartial wage board's scale would be enforced. This board is a self-constituted group who took upon themselves the right to set wages which, of course, are below union standards.

The Industrial association led a bitter fight against building trades unions several years ago. The anti-unionists were defeated, although they went so far as to deny credit and material to any contractor who employed trade unionists.

Organized labor in this city says the association's announcement is a "gesture."

Frank C. MacDonald, president California State Building Trades council, points out that the association is financed principally by large corporations who are not employers of building craftsmen.

Trade unionists suggest that the members of the association, large employers of labor, apply their doctrine of high wages, for which they so fervently plead.

LESS LABOR, LESS WAGE ON NATION'S RAILROADS

Washington.—Less workers are employed on the nation's railroads, and less wages are paid, according to a report by the interstate commerce commission.

Class 1 railroads employed 1,316,494 workers, the middle of last February. Wages were $175,818,130.

Compared with the same period last year this shows a decrease of 14.75 per cent or 227,823 employes and total compensation a decline of 17.53 per cent, or $37,380,485.

DRY CLEANING
Men's Suits Cleaned and Pressed 50c
Ladies' Plain Dresses 50c
Pleated Dresses up from 75c
Fur-Trimmed Coats 75c
Special Prices on Rugs, Draperies, Comforts, Ties, Scarfs, Gloves, Etc.
BROADWAY DRY CLEANING COMPANY
BROAD AT SIXTH ST.
Miss Louise Blair, Mgr.

The practical trade unionist always demands the union label, shop card or button.

SWIM AT Warner Park Swimming Pool
Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

INDIGESTION

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest. "I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted. "Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."
—Clyde Vaughn, 10 Shippy St., Greenville, S. C.
Sold in 25¢ packages.

Thedford's
BLACK-DRAUGHT
WOMEN who are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

FARRELL'S
Volunteer
Floral Shop
Flowers for All Occasions
Phone 6-3658

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
FISHER CABS — MOTOR RATES
208 West Ninth St.

DON'T BE SELFISH
Tell Your Neighbors!
Take a Light Dose of
BL & K R
at Bed Time, and a Full Dose Before Breakfast, for a few days—Then, "TELL YOUR NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS."
Try This on Puny Children
B L & K R is Sold by Druggists
Accept No Substitutes

EDMONDSON
SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
James Bldg.—Sixth and Market

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45238
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Mamie G. Tucker vs. Joseph R. Tucker.
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Joseph R. Tucker is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next June rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in June next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken as confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 30th day of April, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

ATTACHMENT NOTICE
Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee
Van Hooser vs. Leonard Barker and Wife, Betty Barker
In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and an original attachment having been levied on one lot of household goods, being lot No. 3648, in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer & Storage Co., belonging to said defendant and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth street, Chattanooga, Tenn., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and proceeded with ex parte.
This 9th day of April, 1931.
KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45276
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
William C. Hewington vs. Ola Bell Hewington
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ola Bell Hewington is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next July rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in July next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 9th day of May, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
L. Hixon, Atty. 6-5

Our Advertisers are our friends.

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Such a Joy in June.

The roses make the world so sweet,
The bees, the birds have such a tune,
There's such a light and such a heat,
And such a joy in June.
—H. F. B.

* * *

Mrs. Jenkins (looking up from her newspaper)—I see there's a new coffee on the market that has dates in it.

Mr. Jenkins—What do you mean, dates in it?

Mrs. Jenkins—Why, this advertisement says, "It's dated!"

* * *

Some of the babies in Chicago are so tough that they use handcuffs for teething rings. . . There is some reason to expect that in time Chicago will erect a monument to the Unknown Victim. . . Osculation knows no nationality. A kiss is something that tastes good in any language. . . Some birds are as dumb as they look and others are dumber than they can possibly look. . . The reason a man can't find a policeman when he wants one is because the policeman is not looking for him.

* * *

She—And will you love me as much as this when we are married?

He—How can you doubt me? You know I've always liked married women best.

* * *

Freddy—What was all the excitement at Adam's place last night?

Craig—Oh, a girl was playing a violin in her pajamas and the string broke.

Freddy—What—on her violin?

Craig—Naw—on her pajamas.

* * *

The reason a man is not greeted with a kiss and a smile when he gets home in the evening is because his wife knows he is going to start right in messing up the house or kicking about the expenses.

* * *

'Taint what we have,
But what we give,
'Tain't where we are,
But how we live;
'Tain't what we do,
But how we do it—
That makes this life
Worth going through it.
—Forbes.

* * *

We rush like mad all the time and it may not pay. Nevertheless we have never seen man or woman who took their time to their tasks make a very big success at anything.

* * *

Neighbor—Did I bring your lawn mower back last fall?

Indignant householder—No, you did not.

Neighbor—Now, what'll I do? I wanted to borrow it again.

* * *

We shudder to think what the situation would be if women hadn't been permitted to purify politics.

Churchmen Discuss Economic Ills; Service, Not Profit, Should Guide

New York, May 14.—The service motive should precede the profit motive in industry, declared Presbyterians in this city at a meeting called to discuss unemployment and other economic ills.

Prof. Broadus Mitchell, of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, said: "We have made individual enterprise our economic monarch and he is on the point of abdication.

"We have relied upon the god of chance and to compensate for his gross errors we have had to turn to charity. Chance has given us, on the one hand, bursting granaries, and on the other hand, bread lines."

Prof. Mitchell said that the average business depression lasted fifteen months and on that basis some believed the present conditions soon would become normal. Some depressions, however, continued for five years, he explained, saying there was no means of determining how much longer the present conditions would continue. Secretary of Commerce Lamont, in his address to the chamber of commerce at Atlantic City, Prof. Mitchell said, might well have concluded: "Gentlemen, I'm sorry, but I don't know anything about it."

"The business man and the government patterned in His image, in our present predicament, have no measures to propose," continued Prof. Mitchell. "Capital is mute, and the secretary of commerce professes complete agnosticism as to remedies. It is obvious that individual enterprise draws to a close."

James Myers, industrial secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, quoted the Standard Statistics company in pointing out that the total of dividends paid by industrial, traction and railroad companies in 1930 was $318,600,000 more than in 1929, while the federal reserve board's index of factory payrolls showed that total wage payments had decreased 20 per cent from the total paid ni 1929.

"Yours Hopelessly" Is Entirely Right

Editor Labor World:

In answer to your kind query, I wish to inform you that I have entirely recovered from those three grouches I had on last week, thank you. The ball club has started to play ball, the weather has warmed up, to some extent, at least, and all indications point to either the early clearing up of the political situation in Nashville or else a row that's going to be interesting, as citizens will forget all our other troubles. A first-class, a No. 1 dog fight wouldn't hold a candle to it! Also do indications point to a democratic victory in 1932!

But alas! this week I have a brand new peeve to vex me! I've got to go to work next Monday! Isn't that dreadful? Just when I've grown accustomed to "unemployment" (personally) it's a dickens of a note to have to stop and go back to the old sordid commercial grind of hammering out your daily bread! When a man makes it a rule not to work but once every six months, as I do, it pulls his pin feathers to have to get up so early in the morning. The only really pleasant part about it comes along about noon Saturdays when the boss hands you the pay envelope and you begin to feel your chest swell!

You know, I'm a native of Georgia, and I never knew a native of Georgia (or Tennessee or any other state!) who ever struck a lick of work unless he felt just compelled to do it, and couldn't hire some other fellow to do it for him! We are all peculiar that way. Ever notice it?

Still, in a way, I don't mind the work so much as I do the way us pipe-fixers have of getting so infernally dirty on the job! The only consolation I get out of that is that all that dirt is on the outside and comes off, once a week anyway, while I have known some "white-collared" workers to accumulate quite a lot of dirt inside, which only the "Blood of the Lamb" could ever remove—and probably will not!

Yours hopelessly,
H. F. B.

Central Body Ousts Unfaithful Official

Greensboro, N. C., May 21.—As an exponent of militant unionism the Greensboro Central Labor union has first-class qualifications. In a regular meeting, that organization demanded the resignation of its treasurer because he had been found violating fundamental principles of organized labor.

Members of the Central Labor union found that the treasurer, who is a contracting carpenter, was managing to keep pretty busy most of the time despite the widespread unemployment. They found that he was doing it by bidding for jobs at ridiculously low figures and then hiring carpenters at considerably below the local union scale. Most of the men he has been working were non-union men, although some of the city's best carpenters, members of the deposed treasurer's own local, have been unable to find jobs for months.

Perhaps the meanest feature of the whole affair in the eyes of fellow carpenters was the fact that the ousted official had brass enough to come up into the union hall and, in the presence of hungry union carpenters, use the telephone that they were helping to pay for to telephone to non-union men to come to work for him.

So the Greensboro Central Labor union chose a new treasurer, and he is a real union man.

NOTICE OF SALE OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS AND WARES FOR STORAGE

Take notice, that on the 1st day of June, 1931, at 10 a.m., the Main Street Transfer and Storage Company will, at its warehouse at 1612 Carr Street, City of Chattanooga, County of Hamilton, State of Tennessee, sell at public outcry to the highest bidder the following described articles, to-wit:

1. One lot of household goods stored by L. E. Smith, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
2. One lot of household goods stored by Jack Ferris and American Security Co., consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
3. One lot of household goods stored by Lincoln Loan Co., consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
4. One lot of household goods stored by G. D. Watkins, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
5. One lot of household goods stored by Mrs. Lela Flanigan, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
6. One lot of household goods stored by W. C. Thomas, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
7. One lot of household goods stored by Evelyn Anderson, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
8. One lot of household goods stored by R. A. and Clara Allen, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
9. One lot of household goods stored by J. F. Eadens, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
10. One lot of household goods stored by Fred Prater, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
11. One lot of household goods stored by Mrs. J. G. Prater, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
12. One lot of household goods stored by Maude Humphrey and Lincoln Loan Co., consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
13. One lot of household goods stored by Clara Trimble, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
14. One lot of household goods stored by Sheima Horton, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
15. One lot of household goods stored by Lucile Williams, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
16. One lot of household goods stored by W. C. Newborner, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
17. One lot of household goods stored by Luther Wallace, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
18. One lot of household goods stored by J. W. Moore, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
19. One lot of household goods stored by Mrs. C. N. Shaw, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
20. One lot of household goods stored by Margaret Jefferson, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
21. One lot of household goods stored by C. A. Nation, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
22. One lot of household goods stored by Ed Alexander, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.

Said goods will be sold for storage charges accrued thereon and all other necessary expenses incurred in making said sale, and said sale will be made in accordance with Senate Bill No. 128 of the Acts of the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee of 1909, passed on February 12th, 1909, and approved on February 19th, entitled "An Act Creating a Lien in Favor of Warehousemen and Providing Means for Enforcing Same," which said act takes effect from and after its passage.

Said sale will be made at public outcry and for cash and the proceeds thereof applied as directed by said statute.

This the 18th day of May, 1931.
MAIN STREET TRANSFER & STORAGE CO.
By J. S. Lamb.

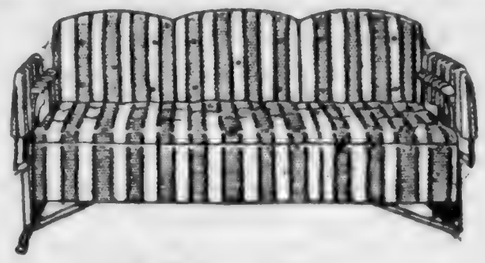
UNQUESTIONABLY THE GREATEST FURNITURE SAVINGS SENSATION IN THE HISTORY of CHATTANOOGA

STERCHI'S 21st ANNIVERSARY SALE and FREE GIFT FESTIVAL

$5,000.00 worth of Furniture Pianos-Radios OUR GIFT TO YOU!

BONA FIDE SAVINGS UP TO 65¢ ON THE $1.00!

$42.50 Fiber Suites
Fiber suite with loose, spring-filled cushions. Bright, cheerful colors. Now only $29.95
TERMS $1.00 WEEKLY



Full-Size Gliders
Strong angle iron frames. Pretty, bright covers. See them tomorrow. Best values in town! $19.50
TERMS $1.00 WEEKLY

ALL NEW Merchandise—$300,000 Stock to Choose From!

Garden Hose $1.49
Occasional Chairs $5.95
Reading Lamps $4.95
Porch Swings $1.95
Colonial Secretary $29.95
End Tables 69c

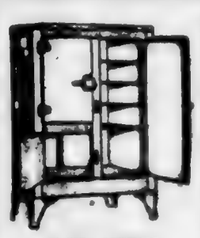
This Ensemble
Matchless Beauty! Matchless Value!
Quality—Beauty—Value! You get all three in this splendid ensemble! Just another example of the marvelous savings now available at Sterchi's. Full-size Sofa and large Fireside Chair—upholstered in good quality velour—now selling for only $49
$1.00 WEEKLY PAYS FOR IT!

Drastic Reductions On Entire Stock!

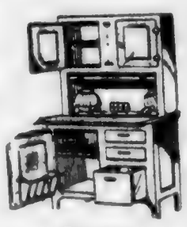
$49 Gas Ranges
Now $29.95
Terms $1 Weekly

100% Felt Mattress
Now $8.95
Terms 50c Weekly



ALL-STEEL Refrigerator
40-Lb. Capacity
Now $19.95
Terms $1 Weekly

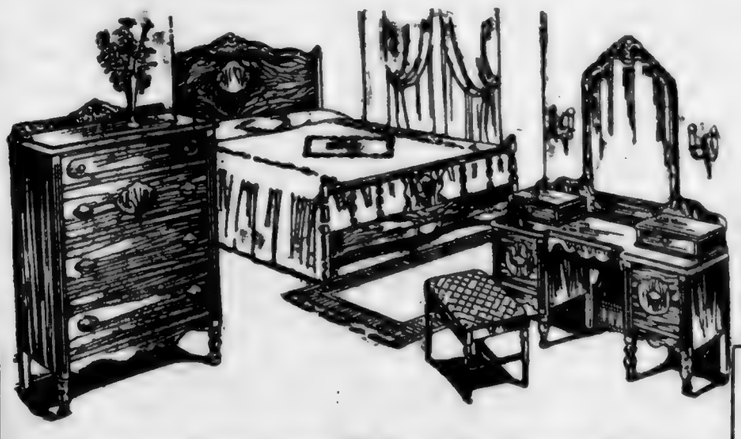
9x12 Rugs Axminster
Now $23.95
Terms $1 Weekly



Hoosier Cabinets
Now $29.50
Terms $1 Weekly

Let Your Eyes Be the Judge — See!

Amazing Values in Every Sterchi Store



Many Other Suites at One-Half Price

$5,000 Worth of Furniture, Pianos, Radios. FREE!

Genuine American Walnut Bedroom Suite
Sterchi's 21st Anniversary Sale unquestionably provides more and better furniture for less—much less! A complete three-piece Bedroom Suite—including French Vanity, Poster Bed and Chest of Drawers—all in genuine American walnut—for only $49
$1.00 WEEKLY PAYS FOR IT!

$5,000 Worth of Furniture, Pianos, Radios. FREE!

SEE OUR WINDOWS

STERCHI'S
QUALITY FURNITURE

SEE OUR WINDOWS

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation

Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg. Opposite Central Market

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company

Ideal Service at Moderate Cost

Phone 6-6114

COAL

Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00

Furnace Nut $4.25

Honest Weight — Prompt Service

CITY COAL CO.

718 E. Main 6-3163

KNOXVILLE'S JOB COMMITTEE ASKS PRESIDENT HOOVER'S AID

Knoxville, May 21.—The advisory employment committee has sent to the residents of this city a copy of the resolution it forwarded to President Hoover, including an explanatory letter to the individuals addressed, as follows:

"It seems there is no definite constructive plan on a large scale which will relieve the present deplorable unemployment situation.

"We believe that if we could get the president of the United States to call a meeting of some of the thoughtful citizens in the country to study and discuss the problem, that some definite good would be accomplished. These people should be chosen from business leaders, labor leaders, university men and welfare workers who have made a study of present conditions. We believe that some definite constructive plan could be worked out that would help business in general, and enable us to go through next winter with less suffering to working men and women.

"If you think well of this plan, will you kindly write President Hoover along these lines so as to get something done and let us hear from you as soon as possible."

Copy of the resolution sent to the president:

"The advisory employment committee of this city believes that there can be no permanent relief of the unemployment situation until there are fundamental changes in industry due to labor-displacing machinery and other causes. Therefore, we most respectfully urge that you call a conference of the industrial leaders and representatives of labor with a view of formulating plans that will deal more effectively and in a practical way with the unhappy situation that exists throughout the nation."

The names of the committee given are: E. W. Ogden, chairman; Rex Wallace, secretary; John W. Green, John T. O'Connor, C. J. Guzzo, Mrs. N. E. Logan, Mrs. Alva R. Scott, and George R. Dempster, city manager.

UNION MAN WINS COUNCIL SEAT IN JUDGE PARKER'S HOME CITY

(By International Labor News Service.)

Charlotte, N. C., May 21.—In this home city of Judge John J. Parker, United States Senator Cameron Morrison and United States Power Commissioner Frank McNinch, a city usually conceded to be a hornet's nest of anti-anything from anti-Al Smith to anti-union labor, Claude L. Albea, fourth vice-president of the North Carolina Federation of Labor and president of the Charlotte Central Labor union, piled up the third highest vote of ten men in the biennial municipal election and won a place on the city council.

It is a matter of comparatively recent history that organized labor put up a mighty battle that prevented the seating of Judge Parker on the supreme court of the United States because of his anti-union decisions, particularly his support of the yellow dog contract and the injunction in the coal disputes of West Virginia. It is even more recent history that Senator Morrison had hardly warmed his seat in the senate before he secured the appointment of McNinch to the power commission. It was McNinch, back in the days of his mayorship of Charlotte, who issued the order that resulted in the shooting of several street car men during the big strike of a decade ago.

Albea, who is a linotype operator on the Charlotte Evening News, was one of four independent candidates to win out in the election despite the terrific campaign waged by the Good Government league, an organization made up of individuals who were backing the old city council. The only member of the old council to achieve re-election ranked lowest in the scale of votes given the five successful men.

In the primary held in late April, Albea ran second with a vote of 2,820. In the election, he received 4,397 votes. He polled the highest vote of all candidates in three precincts and tied for high vote with Charles E. Lambeth, who received the highest vote in the election, in another precinct.

The election of Albea to the city council is regarded with interest throughout the state, as it is rather a novelty for a union labor man to get any serious consideration in municipal politics in North Carolina. The handsome vote given the Charlotte labor head is considered in union circles here and elsewhere in the state as significant.

BIJOU

Chattanooga's Best Entertainment

MONDAY — TUESDAY — WED.

"THE LADY WHO DARED"

—with—

BILLIE DOVE and SYDNEY BLACKMER

PATHE TALKING NEWS

VITAPHONE VARIETIES

THURSDAY — FRIDAY — SAT.

"THE WIDOW FROM CHICAGO"

—with—

ALICE WHITE, NEIL HAMILTON and EDW. G. ROBINSON

PATHE TALKING NEWS

VITAPHONE VARIETIES

Picketing Upheld By Federal Court

Philadelphia.—"Union men have a right to appeal to the public for support of their cause," said Federal District Judge Kirkpatrick in dismissing an application for an injunction against motion picture operators who have been replaced by non-unionists.

The court, however, ordered that pickets be limited to two persons at each theater.

"The general effect of picketing is to reduce patronage," said the court, in ruling that this in itself is not unlawful.

"I cannot find any element of threat or coercion in anything the defendants said or did," declared the court.

BATTLE AGAINST WAGE CUTTING OPENED BY WILKINS VIA RADIO

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, May 21.—The high-wage idea is on the air. In it's nightly program Wilkins Coffee has joined the big fight against cutting wages and against lay-offs.

"Wage reductions will farther retard recovery and reduce buying power," says the Wilkins announcer over a network.

The Wilkins announcer says further that the company "has not and will not" reduce the wages of a single employe, adding that "no employe has been laid off to join the bread line."

"Do what you can to avoid the catastrophe of wage reductions," is the closing admonition.

Business Men "Fight Like Savages"; Membership Drops in Trade Groups

(By International Labor News Service.)

Cleveland, O., May 21.—The cherished belief that business men will build up trade organizations and eventually join with organized workers in solving economic and industrial problems is shattered by "Steel," an iron trades review, in a leading editorial that deplores the withdrawal of business men from their trade organizations.

"Steel" refers to one industry, whose leading members have "practically deserted their association and are fighting among themselves like savages.

"They are in danger of wrecking a machine that has cost them millions of dollars to construct, but which has returned them millions of dollars in benefits," says "Steel."

The editorial indicates that trade unions are not the only organizations that suffer a decrease in membership during business depression.

"Reduction of income and consequent shrinking of profits have frightened many business heads into the folly of curtailing or abandoning group activities," it is stated.

"In certain industries support of trade associations has been withdrawn to the point where the continuance of valuable co-operative work is seriously threatened. In the majority of instances the suspension of support is due to the short-sighted policy of executives who think it is easier to cut off the trade associations than to effect economies in other directions.

"Practically everything that has been accomplished in standardization in this country must be credited to the work of trade bodies.

"Yet—strange as it may seem—trade bodies now are facing a supreme test, to which, unfortunately, many industrial executives are surprisingly indifferent."

Indianapolis Unions Spurn Pay Reduction

Organized Workers Adamant in Refusal to Accept 20 Per Cent Cut Proposed by Employers' Association.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Indianapolis, Ind., May 21.—Arbitration advances made by the Associated Construction Employers have been spurned by various labor crafts in this city which do not have to deal directly with this group and which have begun wage scale conferences with employing master craftsmen directly.

Labor groups are adamant in their refusal to accept the 20 per cent reduction in wages proposed by the association, and even the four groups which must deal directly with the organization have signified their refusal to accept the reduction. The iron workers, cement finishers, carpenters and hoisting engineers are the crafts directly affected.

Officials say that in the past the craftsmen have met directly with the employers and have made their wage agreements in that manner. The Associated Employers is a comparatively new organization and has attempted to set aside this custom and make the agreements directly with the crafts.

CANADIAN UNIONISTS MAKE GAINS IN 1930

Ottawa, Canada.—The curve for Dominion trade union membership last year was upward, despite the business depression.

The Canadian department of labor reports a gain of 2,973 for all elements of organization. The Canadian central bodies, which number twenty-seven, an increase of two, have between them 673 local branches, a gain of thirty-four, with a combined membership of 57,168, a gain of 3,981. The independent unions lost membership.

Hub Postoffice Job To Proceed at Once

Work at Boston, Halted by Decision of Comptroller General, to Go On Under Treasury Department Order.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, May 21.—Work on the Boston postoffice, recently halted by decision of Comptroller General McCarl, will proceed at once under treasury department orders.

The contract for the new structure sets the figure for the work at $4,648,900. It is understood that the N. P. Severin company, Chicago, has already started sub-contractors at work.

Two weeks ago McCarl ruled that since the contract was not awarded on work called for in the original specifications, it could not be approved. The treasury order, however, probably based on a reversal of himself by McCarl, reverses the situation.

The Severin company employs union workmen.

FIFTEEN BILLION LOST BY ORGANIZED CRIME

Sterling, Ill.—Organized crime is causing a direct loss of $15,000,000,000 annually and must be stamped out if democratic government is to survive, said Gov. Emmerson in dedicating a municipal coliseum here.

The American people are gambling with human weakness in exercising only a superficial authority over their elected public officials, the executive said.

"Government has become the biggest and most complex business in the state and nation, and upon an awakened understanding of individual responsibility rests the burden of continuance of good government."

Patronize our Advertisers.

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY

SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

LARD "Pure Hog Lard" or "Best Compound" — 4 Lbs. 37c

MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE Limit 2 lbs.—Lb. 27c

CHILE "Van Camp's" Large 25c Size, Can 18c

JOAN OF ARC "Red Kidney Beans" 2 Cans 15c

TOMATOES Size 2 Can, Best Grade, 19-oz. — Can 6c

ONIONS New Texas, Light Yellow, Nicest You Have Seen — Pound 3½c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

IF YOU WANT THE

BEST

FLOUR

MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

SATURDAY

MAY 23d, IS THE

Last Day

...OF...

FRIEDMAN'S

QUITTING BUSINESS

SALE

GIVE-AWAY PRICES ON MEN'S SUITS AND FURNISHINGS

FRIEDMAN'S MAKER TO WEARER CLOTHES SHOP

812 MARKET STREET

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

WARNING TO TAXPAYERS

Unpaid 1930 State and County Taxes now bear interest at 6% per annum from March 1st to June 1st.

Taxes may be paid at my office until June 1st, when lists will be delivered to officers for collection at the cost of the taxpayer.

ALVIN SHIPP, TRUSTEE.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 46209

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Henry Wise vs. Mary Wise

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Mary Wise is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton County, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next June rules of said court, to be held at the Courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in June next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 24th day of April, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

F. L. Dixon, Atty. 4-25

ATTACHMENT NOTICE

Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace Hamilton County, Tennessee

E. B. Zane vs. Leonard Barker

In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and an order of attachment having been levied on one lot household goods being lot No. 3648 in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant and returned to me. It is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East 9th Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

KELSO RICE,

Justice of the Peace

This 9th day of April, 1931.

LABOR'S "NO BOND HOLIDAY" STAND APPROVED

HOUSE TO VOTE MONDAY ON ARTICLES OF IMPEACHMENT

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

Volume XVI | CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, MAY 29, 1931 | Number 5

ITIZENS FROM MANY GROUPS BACK WORKERS

Protest Against Stagnation Finds Favor.

ITY AND COUNTY FINANCES SOLID

Widespread Disagreement With Proposal of Chamber of Commerce to Check Public Works Program.

Support from unexpected sources, in the form of expressions of hearty approval from business and professional men, has come to officers and members of Chattanooga Trades and Labor council since the action taken Monday night with reference to the so-called "bond holiday" proposal of a Chamber of Commerce committee.

Following a special called meeting of the board of directors of the chamber Tuesday morning, at which a resolution was adopted in effect calling for the "bond holiday," City Commission Tuesday afternoon unanimously passed a proposal to issue $200,000 bonds for sewers at Brainerd, newly-annexed territory. General comment on the streets since has indicated public approval of the commission's action, and disagreement with the Chamber's committee.

Taking sharp issue with certain citizens who are advocating a "bond holiday" for Chattanooga and Hamilton county which, if adopted, would preclude any public improvements for a term of years, Chattanooga Trades and Labor council Monday night called upon city and county officials and legislative representatives to provide funds for all necessary public works, and protested "any unnecessary curtailment" at this time.

Calling attention to the fact that the federal government itself, recognizing the unprecedented unemployment situation, has initiated a program involving the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars on various projects, the labor representatives urged a continuation of the local improvement program, "even though it shall mean an increase in our bonded indebtedness."

The resolution, which was unanimously adopted following a general discussion, also stated that "We believe in the future of Chattanooga, and desire to be on record as opposing any backward step at the time of its greatest progress."

It follows:

Whereas, certain interests are proposing a "bond holiday," prohibiting the city and county from issuing bonds for any public improvements for the next two years; and,

Whereas, the federal government, and various states, recognizing the urgent necessity for relieving the present unprecedented unemployment situation, with which the country is now confronted, have initiated major programs of public works; and,

Whereas, certain public improvements are now necessary in Hamilton county and Chattanooga; therefore, be it

Resolved, That Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, representing the memberships of thirty craft unions in this vicinity, protests any unnecessary curtailment of public works at this time, and calls upon our city, county and legislative representatives to provide funds for all necessary improvements, even though it shall mean an increase in our bonded indebtedness; be it further

Resolved, That we believe in the future of Chattanooga and Hamilton county, and desire to be on record as opposing any backward step at the time of their greatest progress; be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be furnished the press, city and county officials and our legislative representatives.

quire Thrasher Is Central Body Guest

Esquire Wilkes T. Thrasher, county ire pro tem., was a guest Monday ht of Central Body, and delivered address in which he touched on activities of the county authorand outlined some of the plans ich it is hoped to accomplish within near future. The visitor stressed necessity for providing employent for all citizens possible, and d attention to the fact that he always endeavored to serve the r and needy. Stating that he felt record entitled him to meet with mbers of organized labor, the ofial added that he has been called union squire," which he declared by no means resented.

he visitor was given closest attenn, and at the conclusion of his reks was accorded unusual applause invited by the chair to return at time the "spirit moved him."

WHY A "BOND HOLIDAY"?

Agitation for a "bond holiday" for the city and county, which means the stagnation of all public improvements for a period of years, is, we believe, particularly unfortunate at this time. Even more to be deplored, furthermore, is the broadcasting of statements indicating that the City of Chattanooga and the County of Hamilton are unduly pressed financially, and are bonded to the limit of safety. We have it on authority of leading bankers and from other strictly reliable sources that such is by no means the case.

Under normal conditions, circumstances might prevail which would render advisable a recess from bond issues, but with hundreds of good citizens actually hungry and thousands of others on the verge of want and privation, and with private industry sorely pressed to provide employment for an all-too-small number of people, a campaign to suddenly shut off all public works should have more for a foundation than the rearing of a tax bogey built of straw. And such appears to be the basis of the present agitation, originating in a Chamber of Commerce committee.

We reach this latter conclusion admittedly not from any particular ability of the writer to analyze the financial condition of the city or county, but rather is it based on what we hope is an average working man's intelligence, supported by the unqualified opinion of leading citizens, who have stated, only this week, that the credit of both city and county is unusually good, and that inquiries are constantly being received from bond buyers offering a flattering rate for city and county issues.

But even though such were not the case, and the financial standing of our local governments must be strained to do so, we believe it is the duty of officials to take every possible step to provide employment for as many people as possible. It is not denied, furthermore, that many public improvements are urgently needed. The vast new territory acquired by the city recently must be taken care of; school buildings, we are told, are in a deplorable state of disrepair, constituting not only a menace to health but to life and limb of our children; lack of hospitalization, if one is to judge by recent newspaper controversies, has almost reached the point of scandal; it surely cannot be gainsaid that street, sewer and general sanitation work is greatly needed; street-widening projects are held as highly desirable, and eventually will be an absolute necessity if Chattanooga is to continue her normal growth, and many other similar items might be placed in the list of desirable and worthy public improvements, all of which must in the not distant future be cared for.

(Continued on Second Page)

CENTRAL BODY BACKS EXPANSION PROGRAM STATE HEALTH BOARD

A resolution in support of the proposed budget of the state department of health, and protesting against a drastic reduction made by the finance ways and means committee of the state legislature, was adopted by Central Body Monday night following a talk in support of the protest by Neil J. Crowley.

Mr. Crowley, a visitor to the session, outlined the splendid work done by the health department in the past, and declared the proposed cut in the budget of the department would result in the serious crippling of laboratory work and work a serious hardship particularly on the smaller communities. He further pointed out that in such event the greater part, if not all, of the suffering caused would be borne by the poorer people and those in the rural sections, contending that it also might result in the death of many poor people who might otherwise be saved.

The resolution petitions Hamilton county representatives in the legislature to support the health board's budget, and provides that copies be furnished other Central Labor bodies in the state for their consideration. It follows:

Whereas, the finance ways and means committee of the legislature of Tennessee has recommended that the annual budget of the state department of health be reduced from $383,070 to $327,600, and this in the face of a request for an appropriation of $581,010, which the state department of health feels is necessary to carry on its work for the next two years; and,

Whereas, the result of this drastic reduction of the budget allowed the state department of health will cause a crippling of the splendid work heretofore performed by that department, in that it will mean the closing of laboratories in Nashville, Chattanooga, Memphis, Knoxville and Johnson City, thereby crippling to a great extent the laboratory work of the state board, and working a severe hardship on all the smaller counties of the state; and,

Whereas, in the event of this curtailment of the revenues of the state department of health, the greater part, if not all, of the suffering thereby caused will be among the poor people of the state and those situated in counties not having the medical facilities of the larger cities, so that the suffering will be widespread and may result in the death of many poor people who might otherwise be saved; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we respectfully urge our senator and representatives in the legislature of Tennessee to use their best endeavors to see that the recommendation of the joint finance ways and means committee is not allowed to become a law and, further, that the state department of health be supplied with the funds which, in its judgment, are absolutely necessary to carry on the splendid work which it has been doing in the past; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be published in The Labor World, a copy furnished the daily press, and copies be sent to the other Central Labor councils in Tennessee with the request that they join this council in its effort to uphold the hands of the state department of health.

Circle Club On Summer Schedule

Circle club having gone on "summer schedule," there will be no meeting of that body Monday night. At the last regular session it was voted to pursue the usual hot weather course and meet but once each month until September. Next session is scheduled for the third Monday in June, at which time plans will be presented for the annual picnic-outing, which has come to be quite an event for the club members, their wives and families.

COMPENSATION LOST.

Tallahassee, Fla.—The house of representatives rejected a workmen's compensation bill that was urged by trade unionists.

PROBE NEED OF REPAIRS TO SCHOOLS

Central Body Conducts Independent Investigation.

COMMITTEE WILL REPORT FINDINGS

Rumors of Unsafe and Insanitary Schools Brings Action by Labor.

Persistent rumors that many city and county school buildings are in such state of disrepair as to, in some cases, be actually a menace to the lives of students, are responsible for action taken by Chattanooga Trades and Labor council looking to a thorough and detailed investigation of the condition of every school building in both city and county, a committee named under the provisions of a resolution being instructed to visit and inspect each of the buildings and report its findings, in writing, to the body.

It is the purpose of Central Body, in the event conditions are found to be as reported, to take whatever steps may be found possible to insure that the proper attention is given to this most important feature of the city government.

It was held in discussions supporting the resolution that there was no disposition to embarrass anyone with the investigation, but in justice to officials as well as to the people generally the truth should be established and some action taken to correct the evil, if indeed such exists. Co-operation of city and county school officials will be sought by the committee, headed by E. E. McDaniels and composed of members of building trades unions. The inspection trip was scheduled to start Thursday, and was expected to take some time to complete the survey.

The resolution as adopted follows:

Whereas, it has become common talk that public school buildings in Chattanooga and Hamilton county are in bad state of repair, in many instances so bad as to be positively dangerous to the health and the lives of students; and,

Whereas, if untrue, these reports are hurtful to our city and to those officials who are charged with the duty of providing safe and sanitary buildings and surroundings for thousands of children of school age in the city and county; and if true should call for an immediate and insistent public demand for relief; therefore, be it

Resolved, by Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, representing thousands of taxpayers and citizens patrons of the public schools, That the president of this Central Body name a committee of five members, with instructions to conduct an impartial but thorough investigation of such reports; that this committee endeavor to secure full co-operation from city and county officials in this investigation, and report its findings to this council at next regular session, or as early thereafter as practicable.

LOCAL 62 HOLDS LIVELY MEETING

Sheet Metal Workers Entertain "Bosses"—Approve Action on Bonds.

Regular session of Local 62, Sheet Metal Workers, Tuesday night was unusually interesting, according to Alvin J. Pfitzer, secretary, an important feature of the session being a smoker and social hour with local proprietors of roofing and sheet metal works. A large majority of the "bosses" accepted the invitation to enjoy the smoker, and conditions affecting the trade were discussed at some length, Mr. Pfitzer said.

Action of Chattanooga Trades and Labor council Monday night in opposing a proposed "bond holiday" was approved, the secretary continued, and it was voted to have the local's stand noted in The Labor World, as well as to address a letter to city and county officials and to the representatives in the state legislature.

Another matter which was brought before Central Body Monday night, and on which the members of Local 62 also took action, was the report that representatives of the Holland Furnace company, which has been declared "unfair" by the Sheet Metal Workers and Molders, are making a house-to-house canvass locally, cleaning furnaces and soliciting repair work on same.

Mr. Pfitzer said his local union desires it again stressed that the Holland Furnace company employs non-union labor, and suggested that should any local trades unionist or their friends find it necessary to install a furnace, or have repairs made on one, they call any of the following firms, all of which are fair to organized labor, employing none but members of Local 62:

Abercrombie Roofing and Sheet Metal Works.
J. W. Brooks & Co.
Chattanooga Blow Pipe and Roofing Co.
T. R. Greene.
Mountain City Stove & Roofing Co.
A. H. Schmissrauter.
Vondrake Heating & Roofing Co.
R. T. Wetzel & Son.
W. J. Wolfe Sheet Metal Works.

NEW FEDERATION OFFICIAL OUTLINES ACTIVE PROGRAM

W. E. CHEEK

W. E. Cheek, newly-elected secretary-treasurer of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, was an honored guest at Monday night's regular meeting of Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, and in an address to the assembled body outlined the program of activities which he hopes to carry out during the coming year. Of particular interest was the new secretary's reaction to a change in the bylaws of the federation, which would require members of the executive council to make detailed reports to headquarters each quarter. He stated that plans are now being worked out along this line which will insure that every trades unionist in the state may be informed at all times of the progress being made, and of the part he or she is expected to play in the onward march of organized labor. He appealed for co-operation of Chattanooga workers during his incumbency, and his remarks were well received by the delegates.

Mr. Cheek, whose home is in Nashville, has a long record of service in the Tennessee labor movement. A member of the Carpenters' union, he has served that organization in various capacities, as well as being for many years active in the Nashville central body and the state federation. He was formerly president of the former organization, and numbers his personal friends in Tennessee by the score.

LOCAL LABOR PAYS TRIBUTE TO WORTH OF W. C. BIRTHRIGHT

A splendid tribute to the work of W. C. Birthright, former secretary-treasurer of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, who resigned at the Jackson convention this month, having accepted the post of general secretary-treasurer of his own international union, the Journeymen Barbers, is paid in a resolution adopted by a committee named by President Ortwein Monday night, and consisting of W. F. Storey, W. L. Gardner and George Forbes.

Appointment of the committee followed reading of a letter from the former federation official, in which he expressed his regret at severing official connection with the Tennessee movement, complimented those with whom he has worked in the federation for the past two decades, and urged every co-operation for his successor, W. E. Cheek.

Attesting not only the appreciation of Chattanooga trades unionists for the official record of the retiring secretary, but paying high tribute to the personal character of Mr. Birthright, the resolution follows:

Whereas, W. C. Birthright, secretary-treasurer of the Tennessee Federation of Labor since 1917, has resigned to accept the call to a higher position in the American labor movement; and,

Whereas, Tennessee has produced no more able and conscientious trades unionist, whose worth has been amply demonstarted on many occasions; whose ability has been repeatedly recognized, and whose personality has endeared him to every one with whom he has come into contact; therefore, be it

Resolved, That while we regret to lose the services of such a valiant and outstanding trades unionist, we nevertheless rejoice that he has received this well-merited promotion. We congratulate the Journeymen Barbers' International union on securing the services of Mr. Birthright, and predict for him a long and successful tenure in the office to which he has been called.

REPEAL ACT PASSED.

Hartford, Conn.—The state house of representatives approved a bill that will submit to voters the question of whether Connecticut shall petition congress to favor repeal of the Eighteenth amendment. The bill was supported by both political parties.

HANLY SEES VICTORY FOR "ANTI" FORCES

Indications Point to Adoption by Small Majority.

SAYS "HORTON GANG" HAS NOT BEEN IDLE

Action on Important Labor Bills Introduced This Week Await Disposition of Impeachment Motion.

By DAVID HANLY
Legislative Chairman, Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Nashville, Tenn., May 28.—The senate of Tennessee today adopted a resolution abolishing the probe committee and the auditors who have been examining the departments of the state government.

On the day previous the senate tabled a resolution asking the secretary of state and the attorney-general to withhold their signatures to the contracts for textbooks recently adopted by the state textbook commission until the legislature could consider the report of the commission that was appointed to consider free textbooks for the school children of the state. These two resolutions consumed two days.

At the present time it appears that Gov. Horton has a majority in the state senate. There has been gossip in the hotel lobbies that the Horton administration by sinister methods has been able to corral enough senators to block any effort to take from the governor the enormous power that he now has by virtue of the so-called reorganization act passed under the administration of Gov. Peay. Also that he has enough votes to acquit him in the event he is forced to stand trial before the senate in the event he is impeached by the house of representatives.

On Tuesday the house by a vote of 58 to 39, passed a resolution providing that a committee consider the report of the investigating committee and report to the house whether the facts developed by this committee justified the impeachment of the governor.

This committee reported to the house today that the facts justified impeachment and that it was preparing articles of impeachment to be presented to the house. These articles will probably be voted on Monday.

The "Horton gang" has not been idle, but the indications are that the articles of impeachment will be adopted by a small majority.

So far no legislation of a general nature has been considered by either the house or senate, nothing will be done until the impeachment question is disposed of.

The labor bills introduced this week are: Bills to provide for the prevailing rate of pay on public works, to prohibit the shipment into this state for sale of convict-made goods and to abolish the contract system in the penal institutions of this state.

President Paul J. Aymon, of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, arrived here Thursday.

Mrs. C. C. Ferry Goes to Reward

As The Labor World goes to press, a telephone call brings news of the passing of Mrs. C. C. Ferry, wife of the well-known member and officer of Local 74. Mrs. Ferry surrendered to the Grim Reaper Friday morning after many months of ill-health. She had spent some time during the past two years in Florida, in a fruitless effort to regain her lost health.

Mrs. Ferry, before she was stricken, had taken an active interest in trade union affairs, and in former years had rendered valuable service to the cause through her interest in the Union Label league.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

The Labor World speaks for the entire local movement in extending to Brother Ferry and other surviving relatives sincerest sympathy and condolences in their great loss.

HEAD TAX AND LOTTERY URGED TO PAY PENSION

Boston.—A head tax, the proceeds to pay for old age relief, was reported by the house committee on ways and means.

Representative Sullivan proposed that his lottery bill be substituted. The lottery bill would create a state commission, under whose auspices the lottery would be conducted.

THE LABOR WORLD

310 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 26, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, MAY 29, 1931.

THANKS, SENATOR

"WHAT'S AHEAD?"

(Nashville Labor Advocate.)

"What's Ahead?" supplement to the Chattanooga Labor World, is a well edited, nicely printed supplement issued from the office of the Chattanooga Labor World, with our good friend Robert M. Cooke, editor.

Special articles and a healthy advertising patronage makes the supplement worthy of a permanent place in the libraries of those who received it. Beginning with the feature article by the editor, "What's Ahead?" the supplement has the following as contributors: Clarence E. Swick, George L. Googe, Edward F. McGrady, Henry P. Hanson, Miss Mary C. Barker, H. V. Reid, Raymond Redd, William Green, Frank Morrison, Ben Williams, W. C. Birthright, David Hanly, John T. O'Connor, Thomas J. Smith, W. L. Diffe, Paul J. Aymon and Albert E. Hill. In addition there is reprinted the article by the late Samuel Gompers, "Lest We Forget." A number of illustrations serve to dress up the supplement, and on almost every page is something of interest concerning Chattanooga.

The supplement is indeed a credit to The Labor World and the editor, Bob Cooke.

The Advocate extends congratulations.

UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE.

Editor The Labor World:

It is a dismal shame and a downright reflection on the pride and progressive spirit of the people of the state that the University of Tennessee must undoubtedly take a cut in its appropriation from the state treasury this year as well as drop its expansion program.

Of all the institutions of an educational nature, of all "public improvements" so-called, highway building and maintenance and other activities for which the state supplies all or a part of the money, the University of Tennessee and its branches should be the last to have its appropriation cut one single dollar under that of 1930. The university at Knoxville and its branches are the people's own property. Many of the state's young men and women who go to the university would not be able to go elsewhere for their higher education. J. J. Walker, acting treasurer of U. of T., told the subcommittee the institution closes each year with a deficit of about $100,000, and Senator Hal Clements, of Knox county, stated that students' fees at Knoxville are less than fees at Vanderbilt, the University of Georgia and the University of North Carolina.

We must not expect our state university to operate at a big financial gain if the educational wants of thousands unable to pay the cost of higher education at other institutions are to have their needs supplied.

The people have a right to expect the one fount of higher education in the state which really belongs to them be permitted to continue to serve them during 1931 as in the past. If we expect to boast an educated citizenry we certainly ought not to expect the universities of other states and privately endowed universities and colleges located outside Tennessee to educate men and women and send them into our state to act as our leaders!

That is exactly what will happen once we begin to hamper our state university in the conduct of its management or lop off large sums from its yearly appropriations.

FAIR PLAY.

Nashville, Tenn., May 25.

Restless, could not sleep

"THERE were days when I felt like I could not get my work done. I would get so nervous and 'trembly' I would have to lie down. I was very restless, and could not sleep at night.

My mother advised me to take Cardui, and I certainly am glad she did. It is the first thing that seemed to give me any strength. I felt better after the first bottle. I kept it up and am now feeling fine."—Mrs. T. R. Gibson, Fort Payne, Ala.

E-176

CARDUI HELPS WOMEN to HEALTH

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

THE BANKERS' "SYSTEM."

Wage cutting policies of certain banking interests and employers is indefensible, declared the A. F. of L. executive council at its recent meeting in Washington. Workers, organized and unorganized, were called upon to "resist to the fullest extent any and all attempts to reduce wages."

Outstanding individuals in the nation's banking group have publicly favored wage cuts, while pleading that their association has not indorsed this plan. Do these bankers imagine that workers have not passed out of their childhood days? Do they imagine that workers see any difference between an "agreement" and an "understanding?" Between a widely heralded resolution and a mere suggestion at the right time and to the right parties?

Bankers don't do business via the brass band route. A word, a hint, will suffice. To pass a wage-cutting resolution would be tactless. It would arouse opposition that bankers can avoid by smoother policies.

Bankers have their own phraseology; their own methods. A mere suggestion that credit might be curtailed to business men who have a "high" labor cost is sufficient.

Bankers control the nation's credit. They are the key to our economic life. Through them loans are secured to finance industry, construction and transportation. They are interested in the "wages" of dollars—not wages of workers.

The would-be borrower understands when the banker suavely and smilingly intimates that "high" labor costs "will compel close scrutiny of the loan application."

BY WAY OF EXPLANATION.

Two weeks ago—May 15—we summed up Albert B. Fall's repeated statements through the columns of the daily papers that he was on the verge of giving up his fight against paying his $100,000 fine and serving his year's sentence, as appeal for maudlin sympathy.

At the time the editorial was written everything on the surface pointed to the truth of Fall's assertions. Nothing was appearing in print connected with Fall to bear us out in our editorial contentions. But we thought we saw and knew the truth. So we printed what we regarded as the true reading of the facts: that Fall was trying in this way to get President Hoover to say he would pardon him after he went to prison and to get political friends to come forward and volunteer to pay the fine. We printed the editorial of May 15 with a knowledge it would be doubted by many.

That we were correct in our opinion of the case has now been established. On Friday, May 22, many newspapers throughout the country carried across their front pages such truth-revealing streamers as these: "Fall Resumes Fight, Dropping Mercy Plea," "Fall to Continue Court Battle," etc.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

IT IS difficult for us to think of Holland as having once been "mistress of the sea" and it is still more difficult for us to think that England had to wrest this title from the little country of dikes and canals through a series of economic wars that began as early as 1651. But it is a fact Holland once ruled the waves; as a matter of truth by the middle of the seventeenth century Holland had gained a foothold in America, taken Portugal's settlements in India, Africa and the Spice islands and caused Dutch sea trade to become the envy of all Europe.

But like a bolt out of the blue came England's navigation act of 1651, her way of declaring economic war on the Dutch. The "tight little isle" had at last awakened! With a vengeance it went to work under the protection of this navigation act to take from Holland its transatlantic sea trade. The act of 1651 absolutely forbade importation or exportation of goods between Asia, Africa and America and the British Isles except in British vessels manned by British crews! Little Holland could not withstand the impact of this blow to her maritime commerce and as a result the Union Jack soon was proudly waving as ruler of the waves. Between the years 1715 and 1787 England's foreign trade increased 500 per cent. Her ships were now cruising every sea in the world and she had a string of colonies that circled the globe.

By the time England's sea dominance was established history-making inventions were preparing her land industries for a revolution, and this great change in industry, the Industrial Revolution, was the foreshadowing of our modern industry with its manifold complexities.

Or Revolution?

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

What the hard-riding, paint-besmeared Indian astride his foaming pinto pony and giving vent to his blood-curdling war-whoop could not do many generations ago President Hoover has declared his intention of accomplishing. He plans to put out of existence all the forty or more little one-company army posts dotted over the west. The abandonment of these useless relics of our old Indian frontier days has been up before. While they have absolutely no value from the standpoint of our national defense, military need for them having long since passed, political opposition and local self-interest have always blocked efforts to ease the national purse of their expense. The people of the sections where these so-called forts are located have always taken the position they have a mysterious vested interest in them. Even recently the spokesmen of the town near one of the forts to abandoned said that so long as the soldiers in the fort must be fed and paid, the money might just as well be spent in their community. Which is merely telling Uncle Sam: "Go ahead and throw away your money, old boy, but be sure to throw it in our direction." We all believe in government economy—if it's some other community than our own on which the economy is being practiced! Our cries for government economy are shams, masking selfish desires. In reality we Americans believe in government economy in the abstract. Yet strangely enough we inwardly shudder at the thoughts of the increasing cost of our government. These shudders are going to develop some day into one big outward convulsion if we don't watch out.

WHY A "BOND HOLIDAY"?

(Continued from First Page)

Development of any or all of the above would not only create employment for men actually engaged in the work, but many lines of business would be correspondingly benefited, the whole constituting an almost endless chain which would extend back to the coffers of the tax-collector himself—for let us not forget that the working man who is unemployed, the merchant who has no trade and the manufacturer whose plant is idle cannot pay taxes.

The United States government itself, as well as a number of states, have recognized the necessity for relief in the present economic stress by initiating many public projects, the federal government having in the making a program which involves the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars, and even this in the face of major agitation for "economy."

During the past winter of soup kitchens and bread riots the hope was constantly held out that prosperity was "just around the corner." But it hasn't yet arrived, and we have yet no assurance that the coming winter will be any better. The average American working man is patriotic to the core, but no considerable number of people, willing, able and anxious to earn a living, will submit to starvation in a land "flowing with milk and honey."

The writer has the honor of being listed as a member of the Chamber of Commerce taxation committee; he also formally represents Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council as a fraternal delegate to the board of directors of the Chamber, and we are not unmindful of the civic spirit which is the basis of their general activities. But we believe that these gentlemen, in their zeal to protect the financial standing of the city and county governments, are overlooking or ignoring a feature which either now or later must be reckoned with: The salvation of our entire structure through a recognition of an unprecedented and possibly a dangerous economic crisis.

Let us not continue to "fiddle while Rome burns."

$1,040 A YEAR AVERAGE PAY

Here Is Tragic Story of the Great Army of Underpaid—42 Per Cent. of All Workers Industrial Employes.

By W. I. Newman

Our previous studies of the census returns relating to labor and manufactures have been looking at the big end of the horn, mainly. We have been studying Big Business. We found that sometimes Big Business meant small wages. Now let us turn deliberately, and see what are some of the facts which would be affected by the much-talked-of "cut in wages" now being proposed.

Bearing in mind, for purposes of comparison, that the average wage of the over eight million wage earners in manufacturing industries in 1929 was $1,308, let us see about those who were getting less than this average.

149 Low-Wage Industries

We find that of the 326 industries listed in the census, there were 149 industries in which the wage was the same or less than the average for all manufactures.

The number of wage earners employed in these 149 low-wage industries was over three million—3,747,102. That was 42.8 per cent. of the whole number of wage earners.

The total amount of their pay was almost four billion dollars. That was 34.1 per cent. of the entire payroll of manufactures in 1929.

Make 33.1 Per Cent. of All Output

These 42.8 per cent. of the wage earners produced a total product valued at $23,034,768,977, or 33.1 per cent. of the total manufactured product; using material and energy valued at $12,518,761,399—which was 33.2 per cent of the total cost of material, energy, etc., for all manufactures.

The value added by manufacture in these industries amounted to $10,538,507,264—ten and a half billion dollars—or 33.2 per cent. of the total value added to manufactures. After deducting the three billion wages, this leaves a net amount of over six billion dollars, which goes to satisfy what are known as "capital charges," rent, interest, insurance, depreciation, advertising, etc. — and profit, of course.

Average Wage Only $1,040 Per Year

The average number of wage earners employed per establishment in these 149 low-wage industries was 45 persons. The wages, which ranged from $372 a year in the making of turpentine and rosin, to $1,309 in the manufacture of chemical fire extinguishers, average $1,040 per wage earner.

The average value of product turned out per worker in these industries was $6,147.

The value added by manufacture averaged $2,812 per worker.

The average product per establishment was valued at $277,504.

Some of these industries are affected by seasonal conditions, such being the turpentine, canning, shoes, clothing and similar manufactures.

Two Ways of Viewing Tragic Picture

Now, there are two ways of looking at this line of facts. It just depends on whether you are on the delivering or the receiving end of the deal.

Wage cutters can argue: IF 42 PER CENT. OF THE AMERICAN INDUSTRIAL WORKERS CAN LIVE ON $1,040 A YEAR, WHY SHOULD THE OTHER 58 PER CENT. GET SO MUCH MORE THAN THAT?

Those who want to remove tariffs and bring in the products of cheap labor in other countries—the importing bankers, and others, with investments in European and Asiatic industries—will argue: We must cut our labor costs so as to compete with the products of other countries, otherwise we cannot expect them to pay their war debts.

Turpentine Camps Consume But Little

But those who are looking for a larger home market for their autos, radios, refrigerators, etc., and to whom the American Standard of Living means a better business and social world, will point to the average figure of $1,308 for all industrial wages as being too low. HOW CAN AMERICAN INDUSTRY EXPAND, WITH ITS HOME MARKET LIMITED BY SUCH A LOW LEVEL OF WAGES?

The worker and his wife may argue: WELL, IF CHEAP LABOR IS THE BEST, SLAVERY WAS THE CHEAPEST OF ALL.

BUT THE SLAVE HAD NO BUYING POWER. AND THE NEARER YOU GET TO SLAVERY, THE LESS THE BUYING POWER OF THE HOME MARKET!

There are not so many radios in the turpentine camps.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
Part XXVIII.
MARK 6:7-9, 12

WM. L. MOSS

In the last two weeks' article I have tried to make plain through the use of only the essential details of (1) why the gospel of John is useless in our present study of Jesus and money and (2) why we use Mark. We have left now the first and third gospels to consider. What of them?

Even the most casual New Testament reader can discern the evidences in Matthew and Luke that point to an identical origin of the two gospels. A "parallel version" of these two gospels shows this similarity between them, a "parallel version" being one in which the gospels are printed in parallel columns alongside each other, thus:

Blessed are the poor. —Mt. 5:3.	Blessed are ye poor. —Lk. 6:20.

With a parallel version of the gospels of Matthew and Luke before the reader he will not lose much time in discovering an outstanding fact concerning them: In practically every instance where Matthew and Luke give accounts of the same incidents or report with more or less fullness sayings of Jesus in which the rich or the poor are referred to, Luke is always severe in his language of the rich—at times almost denunciatory—and on the other hand commends the poor! Matthew's reports of the same incidents and sayings are the opposite of Luke's in the wording, and of course differing from Luke's gospel in the teaching viewpoint. For example: Matthew says, "Sell that thou hast;" Luke says, "Sell all thou hast." Matthew reports Jesus as saying, "Give to him that asketh thee;" Luke reports the same saying as, "Give to every one." And there is of course a further example in the quotation shown above (from the Sermon on the Mount) used as an illustration to show what is meant by a "parallel version," besides numerous other examples through the gospels in question.

What interesting conclusions this difference of internal competition and wording of the selfsame incident or utterance of Jesus by the two writers lead us to will be discussed next week.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—How long has the women's bureau, United States department of labor, been in existence?
A.—Twelve years.

* * *

Q.—Where was the Metal Polishers' International union organized?
A.—Syracuse, N. Y.

What Next!

The possibility of rubber dining car wheels is being studied at Issoudon, France, by representatives of the principal French roads. Experiments are being conducted on a branch line to St. Florent. Gasoline-driven engines with rubber tires have been operating for several months, and experts believe that their adaptation for passenger cars also will lessen noise, shocks and deterioration of the rails.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

SPECIALS!

1 Essex Sedan; thoroughly reconditioned, new paint, new 9 tires $300
Chevrolet Coach, reconditioned, new tires $33
Ford Tudor; thoroughly reconditioned, new tires, new 9 paint $30

RICE BROS.
CHEVROLET CO., INC.
236-38 East Main Street
1520 Rossville Avenue

SOL. MOYSES & CO.
INSURANCE
SEE US BEFORE INSURING
311-12 James Bldg.
Phone 6-8188
WE WRITE ALL KINDS OF INSURANCE AND GUARANTEE THE LOWEST PRICES

Our Advertisers are our friends.

SWIM AT Warner Park Swimming Pool
Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.

WARNING

Up to and including May 31 State and County Tax is payable at my office with one and one-half (1½%) per cent. added interest and penalty.

If you carelessly put off paying your taxes until after May 31 the following penalties will be added:

ON A TAX AMOUNTING TO

$ 25 with added penalty of $3.37—total	$ 28.37
$ 50 with added penalty of $ 5.75—total	$ 55.75
$ 75 with added penalty of $ 8.12—total	$ 83.12
$100 with added penalty of $10.50—total	$110.50

Why not borrow the money and save paying such exorbitant fees to the back tax collector?

I appeal to the taxpayers to come to my office and pay their taxes before May 31 and save their penalties.

ALVIN SHIPP, Country Trustee

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

BILIOUS

"I have used Black-Draught . . . and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—H. O. Hendrix, Homerville, Ga.

For indigestion, constipation, biliousness, take

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

WOMEN who need a tonic should take CARDUI. Used over 50 years.

"PUT YOUR LIFE IN BISHOP'S HANDS"
Volunteer State Life Insurance Company
J. W. Bishop, Mgr. Home Office Agcy
ASSOCIATES
E. F. WALLACE, H. A. PARK, E. K. PLUKER, B. W. RAWLINGS, R. L. WALTERS, E. L. BROOKING, W. E. WEBER, C. W. BRADLEY, J. J. HARRISON, RAY SEAGLE, H. M. JUDD, J. H. JARVIS, R. B. WITT
MISS MAGGIE LYNN PEEPLES
N. W. RAY, WINCHESTER, TENN.

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PREMIER CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

DON'T BE SELFISH
Tell Your Neighbors!
Take a Light Dose of
BL & KR
at Red Time, and a Full Dose Before Breakfast, for a few days—Then, "TELL YOUR NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS."
Try This on Puny Children
B L & K R is Sold by Druggists
Accept No Substitutes

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
James Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45238
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Minnie G. Tucker vs. Joseph R. Tucker.
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Joseph R. Tucker is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next June rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in June next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken as confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 30th day of April, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

ATTACHMENT NOTICE
Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee
Dawkins Van Hoosier vs. Leonard Barker and Wife, Betty Barker
In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and an original attachment having been levied on one lot of household goods, being lot No. 3648, in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth street, Chattanooga, Tenn., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.
This 9th day of April, 1931.
KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45276
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
William C. Howington vs. Ola Bell Howington
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ola Bell Howington is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next July rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in July next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken as confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 9th day of May, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
J. Dixon, Atty. 6-5

Our Advertisers are our friends.

23½ Hours—$4.70!

(International Labor News Service)

Frederick, Okla., May 28.—Upchurch Construction company, of Montgomery, Ala., non-union contracting firm, is building a federal building here.

One laborer worked 23½ hours and drew $4.70 in his pay envelope.

That's what a non-union laborer gets out of this non-union contracting firm working on a building owned by Uncle Sam.

Four Indictments Against Hoffman Declared Illegal

Attorneys for Union Organizer Show Charges Are in Contravention to Law and They Are Thrown Out of Court.

Stroudsburg, Pa., May 21.—The anti-union drive of the authorities of Monroe county hit a snag when the judge who issued the most sweeping injunction in recent injunction history was forced to throw out of court four indictments brought against Organizer Alfred Hoffman, of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers. Judge Samuel E. Shull declared three counts in the indictment illegal and only permitted one count to stand and that one had to be sent back to the grand jury for correction.

The judge, sitting as a magistrate, held Hoffman under bail while the grand jury is fixing up the case against the hosiery organizer.

District Attorney Ira LaBar had attempted to charge Hoffman with conspiracy to throw stones, assault, slashing auto tires and pushing autos off the highway. Quoting the laws of Pennsylvania, which set out the legal rights of trade unionists and which nullified the old conspiracy laws, Forrest Mervine and Orrin E. Boyle, counsel for the union, showed that the indictment was directly in contravention of the statutes. Evidently in his haste to get Hoffman before the court on some charge—at the bidding of the bar association, which has declared the strike itself a conspiracy—the district attorney slapped together the first charges that suggested themselves to him.

The surprise move of the defense created a sensation in the town, but the evening papers played down the fact that the indictments were quashed. Meanwhile the injunction still prevents picketing at the Mammouth mill and all strike meetings are under the ban. The strikers are not permitted to advertise the fact that a strike is in progress or in any way transmit this news to others. Judge Shull has, however, indicated by his ready acceptance of legal argument that the anti-union crowd here will have to act a little more discreetly from now on—at least it will have to be careful about how it draws indictments.

Incidentally Judge Shull himself, during the injunction hearing, suggested to the district attorney that Hoffman be prosecuted for conspiracy. He made this suggestion after a couple of strikebreakers testified that some one they thought was Hoffman at a union meeting made some statements about ditching cars of out-of-town scabs if any should be brought in.

NOTICE OF SALE OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS AND WARES FOR STORAGE

Take notice, that on the 1st day of June, 1931, at 10 a.m., the Main Street Transfer and Storage Company will, at its warehouse at 1512 Carr Street, City of Chattanooga, County of Hamilton, State of Tennessee, sell at public outcry to the highest bidder the following described articles, to-wit:

1. One lot of household goods stored by L. E. Smith, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
2. One lot of household goods stored by Jack Ferris and American Security Co., consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
3. One lot of household goods stored by Lincoln Loan Co., consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
4. One lot of household goods stored by G. D. Watkins, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
5. One lot of household goods stored by Mrs. Lela Flanigan, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
6. One lot of household goods stored by W. C. Thomas, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
7. One lot of household goods stored by Evelyn Anderson, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
8. One lot of household goods stored by R. A. and Clara Allen, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
9. One lot of household goods stored by J. F. Eadens, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
10. One lot of household goods stored by Fred Prater, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
11. One lot of household goods stored by Mrs. J. G. Prater, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
12. One lot of household goods stored by Maude Humphrey and Lincoln Loan Co., consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
13. One lot of household goods stored by Clara Trimble, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
14. One lot of household goods stored by Sheima Horton, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
15. One lot of household goods stored by Lucile Williams, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
16. One lot of household goods stored by W. C. Newborner, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
17. One lot of household goods stored by Luther Wallace, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
18. One lot of household goods stored by J. W. Moore, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
19. One lot of household goods stored by Mrs. C. N. Shaw, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
20. One lot of household goods stored by Margaret Jefferson, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
21. One lot of household goods stored by C. A. Nation, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.
22. One lot of household goods stored by Ed Alexander, consisting of beds, chairs and other articles.

Said goods will be sold for storage charges accrued thereon and all other necessary expenses incurred in making said sale, and said sale will be made in accordance with Senate Bill No. 128 of the Acts of the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee of 1909, passed on February 12th, 1909, and approved on February 19th, entitled "An Act Creating a Lien in Favor of Warehousemen and Providing Means for Enforcing Same," which said act takes effect from and after its passage.

Said sale will be made at public outcery and for cash and the proceeds thereof applied as directed by said statute.

This the 18th day of May, 1931.

MAIN STREET TRANSFER & STORAGE CO.
By J. S. Lamb.

Postoffice Squibs

By R. B. LANE

Well, they say that all differences about the site for the new postoffice have been ironed out, and now the government can proceed to build same.

• • •

The clerks in the office are organizing a ball team.

• • •

The letter carriers' band played for the inmates of Pine Breeze Wednesday afternoon.

• • •

There will be an inspection of the carrier force June 3 for the summer season. At the same time, they will draw for their annual vacations, and may vote for delegate to the national convention which meets in Oakland, Calif., the first Monday in September.

• • •

Cliff Tittle, superintendent of East Lake, paid us a flying visit this week.

• • •

John S. Morgan, carrier of Nashville, Tenn., stopped off on his way up east. He is a member of committee on the constitution and laws of the N. A. L. C.

• • •

The carriers' band will play at the dedication of a monument erected by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Rossville, Ga., May 31.

• • •

Walt Massey has a new boy at his house.

• • •

Don't forget the picnic at East Lake park Saturday (today). Music by the band, and other entertainment and refreshments.

• • •

You know how to tell a Scotchman? Well, when he smokes his own tobacco he don't put in enough in his pipe for it to draw, and when he begs a pipe full he packs it in so tight that it will not draw.

• • •

I never can tell how much of my squibs the editor may delete. Some day I may pi the whole works.

BIG "NO REDUCTIONS" CAMPAIGN IS LAUNCHED BY METAL TRADES

National Campaign of Resistance and Education Is Begun by Executive Council of A. F. of L. Department—Slashes Would Retard Recovery, Pronouncement Declares.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, May 28.—"Reductions in wages cannot increase employment," says a circular letter to all metal trades unions just issued by the A. F. of L. Metal Trades Department, "but reductions in wages would definitely increase the doubt in men's minds which must be removed before real prosperity can return."

All local unions and councils are called upon to resist wage cuts, to give the widest publicity to the policy of "no reductions" and to launch a campaign to encourage the unorganized to likewise resist.

Unions are called upon to appoint committees to visit merchants, newspapers, public-minded citizens and clergymen to organize sentiment against reductions.

The circular is signed by President James O'Connell, Secretary-Treasurer John P. Frey and Vice-Presidents Joseph A. Franklin, John Coefield, John J. Hynes, W. W. Britton, Roy Horn and James A. Wilson.

The trade union policy of maintaining wage rates during the depression has received the outspoken indorsement of the president of the United States and the directors of a large number of the nation's principal industrial corporations," the circular says. It continues:

"Action is required to prevent employers from endeavoring to advantage their own position to the injury of other business men and industries, through reducing wages.

"The economic soundness of the trade union policy relative to the necessity of maintaining wage rates is unassailable. It should be the purpose of the trade union movement to put its policies and convictions into action.

"There are no moral, social or economic justifications for reductions in wages. Every attempt to reduce wages sould be met by active organized opposition. The public should be made aware that efforts to reduce wages are the result of the employers' ignorance or indifference to economic facts, or their incompetency in management, or greed, or a combination of the three."

WEALTH IS IN FEW HANDS; POPE CALLS FOR JUST WAGE

Vatican City, May 28.—Accumulated riches in the hands of the few, the necessity for a just wage, a denial that labor is a commodity and the need to "reconstruct the whole economic system by bringing it back to the requirements of social justice" were included in a world radio address by Pope Pius XI.

The pope said that in the past there has been "an excessive and unjust disproportion of the commodities of life between capital and labor, for on the one hand immense riches are accumulated in the hands of the few, while on the other hand the proletaria, who form millions beyond counting, have nothing of their own save their hands and the sweat of their brow."

"It is, therefore, absolutely necessary to reconstruct the whole economic system by bringing it back to the requirements of social justice so as to insure a more equitable distribution of the united proceeds of capital and labor.

"The condition of the proletariat worker cannot forever be the normal condition of the bulk of mankind. It is essential that the proletariat be enabled to obtain some of the advantages enjoyed by proprietors.

"In the present order this can be accomplished only by a fair and just wage. Wages, therefore, must be such as really to satisfy the legitimate requirements of an honest working man, not only for his person, but also for his family and to make it possible for him to improve his conditions within the limits above described.

"Free and unbridled competition has been succeeded by the exaggerated concentration in the hands of a few of the whole economic power, not only of single nations, but of the entire world, and this power degenerates into tyrannical despotism."

Churchmen Take Strong Stand On Present-Day Economic Ills

New York, May 28.—Unemployment and the whole economic situation will be brought to the attention of the Presbyterian general assembly at Pittsburgh, May 28-June 3, by presentation of a memorial unanimously adopted by the Presbytery of New York.

The resolutions declare that "the Presbytery of New York affirms its belief that there is needed an economic reconstruction of society that will distribute economic goods more in keeping with the principles of justice and brotherhood."

James Myers, industrial secretary Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, declared that "the church can not say at a time like this, with the apparent complacency of the president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, that 'the inherent strength of our economic position has been proved.'"

"The church, if it is true to the spirit of Christ," said Mr. Myers, "must put itself in the position of the least privileged. From their point of view it will be obliged to say that 'the inherent weakness of our present economic system has been proved.'"

Prof. Broadus Mitchell, of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, declared that our economic system, based on individual effort, has broken down.

"President Hoover, the arch-individualist, has done more governing by commission than any other president," he said. "Business cannot cure its own ills. The business man and the government patterned in his image, in our present predicament have no measures to propose. Capital is mute.

"It is obvious that the day of individual enterprise draws to a close. It deals itself and us terrible blows. Instead of chance and charity, we need pure thought, deliberate planning, for the supply of society's needs."

"Insiders" Get Out Before Stock Crash

Washington.—The stock market crash of 1929 did not fool "insiders," according to a preliminary report of income for 1929, as returned to the internal revenue bureau.

Many individuals whose income exceeds $25,000—known as group three—the figures show, cashed in their long-pull profits before the collapse.

Dividends received by this group were one-third of its total income and it is estimated that a major portion of such profits were taken by the sale of stocks.

Net profits reported by this group were $2,316,193,450 in 1929 as compared with $1,843,329,590 in 1928 and $1,081,186,018 in 1927.

The 1929 profits were nearly half a billion dollars more than the previous year and nearly $1,300,000,000 more than in 1927.

While unloading was going on, the public were assured that prosperity would continue. This propaganda upheld the market so that the "cashing in" could continue at top prices. The market collapse started in November, 1929.

ATTACHMENT NOTICE
Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee
E. R. Zane vs. Leonard Barker
In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and an original attachment having been levied on one lot of household goods, being lot No. 3648, in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth street, Chattanooga, Tenn., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.
This 9th day of April, 1931.
KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

KNOW Your Union Label

Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen

Glove Workers' Union Label

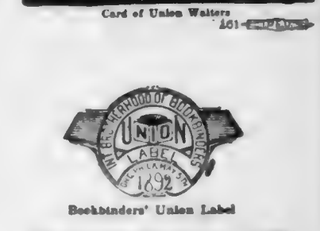
Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union

Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp

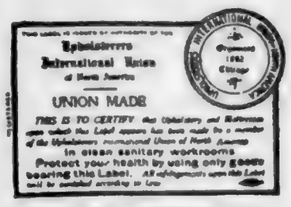
Card of Union Bartenders

Union Label of Tobacco Workers

Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America



Card of Union Waiters

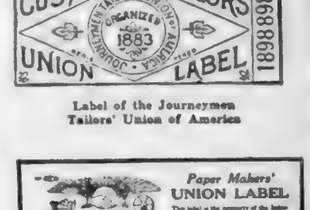


Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America

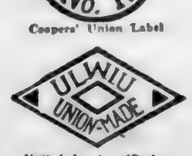
Bookbinders' Union Label

Coopers' Union Label

Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings



Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America



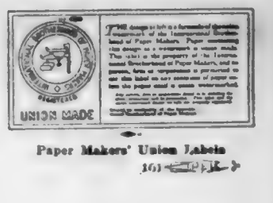
United Leather Workers Union Label

Store Card of Retail Clerks

Used on Rolls and Bundles

United Hatters of North America Label

Brick and Clay Workers' Label



Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers

Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners

Bevers and Whisk Makers' Union Label

Jewelry Workers' Union Label

Plate Printers and Die Stampers' Union Label

International Photo-Engravers' Union Label

Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union Label

Local Pressmen's Union Label

Allied Printing Trades Label

Machinists' Union Label

Local Typographical Union Label

Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance

Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America

Union Label of Stove Mounters

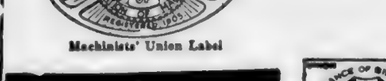
Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union

Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union

Emblem of American Federation of Musicians

Cigarmakers' Union Label

Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union Label



THE STOGIES contained in this package are the product of
UNION STOGIE
MAKERS, Members of the C. M. I. U. of A.
Issued by Cigarmakers' International Union of America
LOCAL
STAMP
Label of Stogie Makers

A. F. of L. Label

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation

Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company

Ideal Service at Moderate Cost

Phone 6-6114

COAL

Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25

Honest Weight — Prompt Service

CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

National Spokesmen in Battle for High Wages

Leaders in Every Walk of Life Defend Living Standards Against Attack by International Bankers and Industrialists

While international bankers and financiers and international industrialists are centering their fire on the American standard of living in a fight to force wages down, a return fire in defense of high and increasing wages has swelled up from every corner of the United States in such a gathering of opinion in support of organized labor's contention as has never been witnessed in any industrial crisis anywhere.

Here are opinions gathered by International Labor News Service and compiled from recorded utterances of the last few days, supporting labor's fight for high wages and high buying power as the only method of restoring national prosperity—an astounding group of expressions from men in every walk of life:

William Green, president American Federation of Labor: The workers know positively that an early return of normal conditions depends upon the development of a high purchasing power among all classes of people and that this objective can only be reached through the maintenance of existing wage standards.

Executive council, American Federation of Labor: The council believes that a wage-cutting policy will positively contribute to a continuation of the existing unemployment situation . . . What the country needs is the development of buying power, not productive power.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon: The American standard of living must be maintained at all costs; and certainly the present is no time to undertake drastic and doubtful experiments which may even conceivably result in breaking down the standard of living to which we have become accustomed.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont: The most prosperous periods in the nation's history have been those coincident with high wages and shorter hours.

President Hoover: Any retreat from our American philosophy of constantly increasing standards of living becomes a retreat into perpetual unemployment, and the acceptance of a cesspool of poverty for some large part of our people.

U. S. Senator Couzens: To reduce wages would simply bring about a maladjustment of the distribution of the earnings of capital and labor that existed before the depression.

Rabbi Bricker, Cleveland: The way out of the business depression lies in higher wages, not in lower buying power of workers who are the nation's best customers.

Col. Arthur Woods, chairman president's emergency employment commission: It would indeed be unfortunate if employers generally took advantage of the present situation to engage in a wage-slashing movement.

Arthur P. Sloan, General Motors: There is no idea of general wage-cutting for General Motors employes for the present.

John Fitzpatrick, president Chicago Federation of Labor: American standards of living must be maintained and bettered, rather than to be brought to the Asiatic level.

L. J. Brown, president Kellogg company: While actually reducing the number of working hours, we will in addition have increased the base rate per hour of our employes 12½ per cent, meaning that even the shorter working period and the greater opportunity for recreation and enjoyment the actual purchasing power of our employes' dollar compared with last year will be greater.

U. S. Commissioner of Labor Ethelbert Stewart: Everybody but a few "old fossils" are in favor of high wages.

McGraw-Hill Magazines: Maintain wage scales that permit a high standard of living and purchasing power.

John Marrinan, Personal Finance Corporation: If the capacity of American industrial plants and equipment is to be returned to full use, a readjustment upward of workers' earnings appears inevitable in order to sustain mass consumption in the face of further mechanization and technological unemployment.

Colby M. Chester, president General Foods Corporation: We see no necessity for wage reductions.

U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner: I propose as goals in the national economic program higher wages, elimination of child labor, unemployment insurance, enactment of old age pension laws and a general reduction in hours of employment.

Dr. Julius Klein: Any reduction in wages will mean delay of recovery of the depression and further demoralize the home buying market.

H. D. Gadssen, president Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce: Any general reduction in wages would hinder business recovery.

Edward A. Filene, Merchant: I am for a program that comprehends high wages, mass production and mass distribution, which, in turn, brings high consumption with low prices. Unemployment is only bad business thinking.

A. R. Erskine, president Studebaker Corporation: This corporation has made no reductions in the prevailing wage rates in its plants.

Robert P. Scripps, president and editorial director, Scripps-Howard Newspapers: First, shorter hours of labor than have ever been dreamed of. Second, a much more wide distribution of wealth—through wages or otherwise—to permit increased luxury consumption, and increased luxury employment.

LABOR'S CHIEF HEADS SPEAKING PROGRAM FOR MUSICIANS' MEET

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will pay his second visit to Chattanooga, probably on Wednesday, June 10, when he will deliver an address to the annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians, which meets here the week of June 8. President Green is scheduled to address a joint session of the state legislature at Nashville on Thursday, the 11th, and will probably go to the state capital immediately after his local address.

Aside from several hundred delegates who will come from widely-scattered localities in the United States and Canada, the convention will bring a large number of international officers and men outstanding in the American labor movement.

Preliminary program, as announced Thursday, calls for an address by President Joseph Weber at the Memorial auditorium on Sunday night, the 7th, in connection with a concert by local musicians. On Monday a formal program of addresses is scheduled, including welcome by Mayor Bass, E. J. Walsh, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Paul J. Aymon, president of the state federattion, and M. H. Ortwein, president of Chattanooga Trades and Labor council.

Local No. 80 has issued an invitation to all Chattanooga trades unionists to attend the auditorium program Sunday night, as well as the opening sessions on Monday.

Hotel Patten will be official headquarters for the convention.

ALONG MELODY LANE

By JOHNNY MAHONEY

Day by day, in every way, the convention gets closer and closer. Lester Cohn, general chairman, has been so busy that he has hardly had time to give his pupils their regular attention. Mr. Van Arsdale, of Tivoli connection, has used up every pencil in the house trying to figure out how he will transport 500 delegates in and around Chattanooga.

* * *

One of the outstanding features of the entertainment program scheduled for the convention will be the dance at the Patten. Different orchestras, including the Troubadours, will furnish the necessary jazz. Arrangements have also been made for a number of Chattanooga's entertainers to do their stuff during the intermissions.

* * *

Sandy Summers says we picked a good date to have the convention, but he can't seem to understand why there is not a golf tournament on the program. How in the world can anyone have a good time without playing golf, sez Sandy.

* * *

As Ralph Miller did not get to complete his dance at the Patten in the way of pre-convention activities, may we suggest that Jean use him on the ladies' committee. We understand that he is now quite an expert on bridge.

Speaking of transportation, someone suggested that Dick Stamper should be made a member of that committee. However, the writer has already counted on Dick being on the entertainment committee in a capacity that will be divulged later.

* * *

The Coca-Cola company opened with a bang this week. Their new Chattanooga plant was opened to the public to the tune of two of Chattanoogn's orchestras.

* * *

With the closing of schools for the vacation periods, business seems to be picking up. Miss Lasater, Jimmy Cox, Frank Worthy all had a very busy week.

Electricians Postpone Pay Raise to Aid Idle

Increase Due Chicago Union Now But Is Put Off Six Months for Benefit of Unemployed Members.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Chicago, May 28.—Entitled to a raise of 25 cents a day under terms of a five-year contract, Local Union No. 34, United Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, has by vote postponed the increase.

The men involved are installation men employed by the Illinois Bell Telephone company under five-year contract.

Under the contract an increase of 25 cents a day is now due, but by mutual agreement the raise will not go into effect for another six months. Also, by mutual agreement, the 25 cents a day will, during the six months, be used to give work to union members who otherwise would be unemployed.

The increase is not abandoned. The date of effectiveness has been postponed for the benefit of union members.

Virginia Labor Assails Veto of Wagner Bill

State Federation Executive Committee Presents Resolution Denouncing Killing of Employment Measure.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Danville, May 28.—The executive committee of the Virginia State Federation of Labor, meeting here, presented resolutions denouncing the action of President Hoover for his veto of the Wagner bill providing for the setting up of a national employment agency organization, and also denouncing the practices of contractors on public works in this state, in importing non-residents of the state as workers on these jobs at wages below the level paid in Virginia for the same kind of work.

Secretary of Labor Doak was criticized for the appointment of federal directors and assistants in state employment agencies under his control, "thus adding to overhead expense without placing anyone."

The convention convened with J. Fred Cherry, president, of Norfolk, presiding.

Other topics scheduled for discussion were unemployment, safety codes in industry, workmen's compensation, shorter work week, use of militia in strikes, textbooks and railroad and bus transportation.

Federal High Court Upholds "Dick" Law

Washington.—The legality of a New York law that licenses private detectives and investigators was upheld by the United States supreme court. The court made no comment in its decision.

The appellants are engaged in a general "snooping" business—inquiring into the character of persons and their business or occupation. A state license is required and the applicant must have engaged in police work for three years.

The statute was challenged on the ground that the state has no right to regulate a business of this character under the guise of exercising its police power, since it is not an occupation affected in any way with the public interest, health, morals, safety or welfare.

Utilities Earnings Reach Huge Figures

Raleigh, N. C.—The attempt of state legislators to place an equitable tax on power companies has revealed vast earnings by these corporations.

Dividends of the Duke Power company in 1929 amounted to $1,980,486. In that year the company put into its surplus fund $3,887,155. This made a total profit of $5,867,641 for that year.

The Carolina Power and Light company, the same year, paid $1,250,557 in dividends and placed $1,374,266 in their surplus fund. This was a net profit of $2,422,708.

Legislators point to the report of the federal trade commission (page 704, July 15, 1930,) that the Carolina Power and Light company watered its stock in the Pigeon River power project to the extent of $22,048,400. The Duke Power company's stock represents water to the amount of not less than $50,000,000.

"As to the Mellon company," declares the Raleigh News and Observer, "there is more water in the stocks than in the rivers of North Carolina from which they receive their power."

Legislators have asked the Duke Power company and other corporations: "How much actual money has been invested in your company?"

Pleas were made that these figures could not be stated offhand, but would be furnished. The request was made early last February, but to date no information has been supplied.

The man who says "I forgot" to demand union goods or service is a full brother to the one who "rocks the boat."

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

BIJOU

Chattanooga's Best Entertainment

MONDAY — TUESDAY — WED.

John Barrymore
in
"SVENGALI"

LOONEY TUNE CARTOON
PATHE TALKING NEWS
VITAPHONE VARIETIES

THURSDAY — FRIDAY — SAT.

"THE FINGER POINTS"
—with—
Richard Barthelmess

PATHE TALKING NEWS
VITAPHONE VARIETIES

FARRELL'S Volunteer Floral Shop

Flowers for All Occasions

Phone 6-3658

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45359

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Georgia Robinson vs. James Robinson

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that James Robinson is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next July rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the 1st Monday in July next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 27th day of May, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

F. L. Dixon, Atty. 6-19

Paving and Sidewalk Assessment Bonds for Sale

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the undersigned until 11 a.m., Tuesday, June 9th, 1931, for Assessment Bonds of the City of Chattanooga as follows:

Paving District No. 540	$17,210.07
Paving District No. 585	12,244.86
Paving District No. 591	487.17
Paving District No. 592	9,717.75

Bonds will be dated June 1st, 1931, and mature in equal installments in one to nine years, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable annually. Both principal and interest payable at the First National Bank, Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Sidewalk District No. 124	$1,456.40
Sidewalk District No. 125	2,786.12
Sidewalk District No. 139	397.96
Sidewalk District No. 140	3,181.92

These bonds will be dated June 1st, 1931, and mature in equal installments in one, two, three and four years, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, both principal and interest payable at the First National Bank, Chattanooga, Tenn.

All proposals to be considered must be accompanied by a certified check for two per cent. (2%) of the face value of the bonds, payable to F. K. Rosamond, Treasurer—same to be forfeited by the successful bidder in the event of failure to accept and pay for bonds awarded. The City of Chattanooga contracts to supply free to the purchaser certified evidence of the legality of these bonds with the approving opinion of the City Attorney. In all other respects bids must be unconditional.

These bonds are free from all taxes in Tennessee, including state, county and city, and are exempt from federal income tax. Right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

Address—E. D. BASS, Mayor,
Municipal Building, Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feather

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSEE

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

LARD "Pure Hog Lard" or "Best Compound" — 4 Lbs. 37c
MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE Limit 2 lbs.—Lb. 27c
BUTTER Our Two Popular Tenn. Pack, Fresh Creamery—Pound 25c
TOMATO SOUP Van Camp's, Tall Can, Can 5c
PINTO BEANS Fresh New Mexico Stock, Pound 4c
NEW POTATOES Strictly No. 1 Red, Pound 2c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

IF YOU WANT THE BEST FLOUR MADE

Buy Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

Send Greetings by TELEPHONE

Important news concerning yourself or family, or perhaps a birthday or wedding anniversary. Maybe a boy or girl away at school has passed examinations with honors or a baby is born to some relative or friend.

The quickest, easiest and most pleasing way to send your greetings and good wishes is by telephone. The sound of your voice adds that personal touch of sincerity which means so much. The cost is small. Only fifty cents for a 150 mile talk when you use Night Station-to-Station service.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPH CO.
(INCORPORATED)

"THE COST IS SMALL WHEREVER YOU CALL"

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, JUNE 5, 1931 — Number 6

Plans Complete For National Gathering Union Musicians

General Chairman Cohn Announces All Committees "Clicking."

William Green, William F. Canavan and President Weber Head List of Distinguished Guests of Chattanooga for Convention All Next Week—Fine Entertainment Program Arranged—Hotel Patten Headquarters.

CONVENTION PROGRAM

SUNDAY, JUNE 7

Arrival and Registering of Delegates and Visitors at Hotel Patten.

8:00 p.m.—Members assemble in lobby of Hotel Patten to be transported to Auditorium.

8:30 p.m.—Gala concert in honor of delegates and visitors at Memorial Auditorium.

President Weber will make an address.

MONDAY, JUNE 8

1:30 p.m.—Assembling of delegates and guests on steps of Memorial Auditorium to have convention picture made.

2:00 p.m.—Official opening of convention.

Invocation.....Rev. T. S. McCallie, Pastor of the City of Chattanooga

Welcome from Local No. 80.....Lester Cohn, Convention Chairman

Official Welcome for the City of Chattanooga.....Hon. E. D. Bass, Mayor

Official Welcome for Chamber of Commerce.....E. J. Walsh, President

Greetings from Tennessee Federation of Labor.....Paul Aymon, President

Greetings from Central Labor Body of Chattanooga.....M. H. Ortwein, President

Greetings from I. A. T. S. E.....William F. Canavan, President

Reply.....Jos. N. Weber, President American Federation of Musicians

8:00 p.m.—Trip to Lookout Mountain Caverns (for visitors only). Reception at Caverns. (Meet in lobby of Hotel Patten to be transported to Caverns.)

9:00 p.m.—Grand Ball, Hotel Patten (informal)—in honor of delegates and visitors.

TUESDAY, JUNE 9

Morning—Convention in session.

2:00 p.m.—Sightseeing trip to Lookout mountain for delegates and visitors. (Meet in lobby of Hotel Patten at 1:45 p.m. Do not miss this trip. Those wishing to visit cave on the way back to Chattanooga may do so and buses will wait. Special price of $1.50 has been arranged for cave trip.)

7:30 p.m.—Wrestling match, Memorial Auditorium. Jimmy Londos, world's champion, vs. John Katan (for delegates and visitors).

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 10

Convention in session morning and afternoon.

9:00 p.m.—Theater party, Tivoli theater, for delegates and visitors. (Guests Publix Theaters corporation.)

THURSDAY, JUNE 11

Convention in session all day.

FRIDAY, JUNE 12

Convention in session all day.

Thirty-sixth annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians, representing 800 local unions, with approximately 140,000 members, will open its sessions officially Monday at the Memorial auditorium, with President Joseph N. Weber presiding. Mr. Weber arrived Wednesday, with other members of the national executive board, and daily sessions of this body will be held until the official opening next week. The veteran executive, in an interview, called attention to the fact that this is the first time in twenty years that his organization has met in the south, and the first time in history that a city no larger than Chattanooga has entertained the big gathering. He declared he was highly gratified, however, that a comparatively small local union should undertake a task of such magnitude, and complimented No. 80's representatives—Harry S. Kennedy and Richard Park—who prevailed upon the previous convention to select Chattanooga for this year's meeting place.

Delegates and visitors began to register at the Hotel Patten, headquarters, as early as Friday morning, and General Chairman Lester Cohn expressed the opinion that by the time the pre-convention entertainment program begins Sunday morning, practically all of the several hundred expected will be on hand.

A feature of the entertainment scheduled for Sunday will be a concert at the Memorial auditorium, featuring the Cadek Choral society of 150 voices and such local artists as Miss Lee Greene Gulley, pianist; Alvin Blumberg, violinist, and McConnell Erwin, municipal organist. President Weber will deliver an address at this time.

Formal opening of the sessions will take place Monday afternoon, when addresses will be delivered by Mayor Bass, Chairman Cohn, E. J. Walsh, president Chamber of Commerce; Paul J. Aymon, president Tennessee Federation of Labor, and M. H. Ortwein, president Chattanooga Trades and Labor council. Featuring this program of addresses will be William F. Canavan, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, who will extend greetings on behalf of the alliance, of which the Musicians are a part, and the reply from President Weber.

Monday afternoon the delegates and visitors will be entertained with a sightseeing trip to Lookout mountain, including a visit to the Lookout Caverns, and the day's entertainment will be concluded with a grand ball at Hotel Patten. Tuesday afternoon at 2 another sightseeing trip will be enjoyed, and in the evening the unionists and their friends will "take in" the wrestling match at the auditorium, featuring Jimmie Londos, world's champion, versus John Katan, holder of the Canadian title.

On Wednesday the address of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be the outstanding event. Time of Mr. Green's address was not known, and in fact it had not been learned just when the federation chief will arrive in the city. He is scheduled to address a joint session of the Tennessee legislature at 11 a.m. Thursday, however, and will necessarily, therefore, be compelled to leave Chattanooga Wednesday night. A theater party at the Tivoli Wednesday night will close the day's festivities.

Among the other well-known national figures who will be guests of the unionists will be Milton Schwartzwald, musical director of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum interests, and Boris Morross, who occupies the same position with the Publix corporation.

Thursday's entertainment pro-

(Continued on Last Page)

CHATTANOOGA'S DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

Chattanooga will have the honor next week of entertaining at least three outstanding officials of the American labor movement. On the program of the convention of the American Federation of Musicians will be William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who will address the convention Wednesday; William F. Canavan, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators, who will extend greetings on behalf of the alliance, and President Joseph N. Weber, who will, of course, have the leading part in the proceedings. President Weber arrived in Chattanooga Thursday for a pre-convention session of the Musicians' executive board.

The labor officials, whose photos appear herewith, are, from left to right, President Weber, President Green and President Canavan.

Fine Orchestra Formed to Aid Idle Musicians

Philadelphia Organization Gives Occupation to Unemployed and Furnishes First Class Programs of Symphonic Music.

(By Staff Correspondent)

Philadelphia, June 4.—One of the finest symphony orchestras in the United States has been formed here, primarily to furnish occupation to otherwise unemployed members of the American Federation of Musicians, but also to offer the public an opportunity to hear another fine orchestra specializing in symphonic music at a minimum cost.

The Pennsylvania Symphony Orchestra, as it is known, was started in 1926 by Adolph Hirschberg, president of the local Musicians' union and president of the Central Labor union of Philadelphia. Then for two years it was dormant.

Last November it was revived through the efforts of Theodore Feinman. It has given five concerts this season, the last one on May 17, with Henry Hadley as guest conductor. Mr. Feinman is an accomplished musician, and through his efforts the Pennsylvania Symphony orchestra in the last year has gained an enviable reputation in the musical world.

Only Democratic Orchestra.

Because of the large number of musicians out of work the last two or three years, due to the robot or canned music, it was felt by Mr. Hirschberg, Mr. Feinman and others interested that it would be a splendid idea to have an orchestra that would accomplish the twofold object.

This orchestra is the one democratic organization in the musical world today, the members selecting their own managers and conductors. Another unique thing in this connection is that it has no sponsors. It stands to rise or fall on its own merits. The orchestra consists of 85 to 100 members, many of them being former members of the Philadelphia orchestra. The Pennsylvania Symphony orchestra has the full support of Joseph N. Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians.

CUBA BOILING AT POINT OF REVOLT, REPORTS SAY

Army Held Ready for Instant Action, Guards Everywhere, Machine Guns Everywhere and Machado Rumored Preparing for Getaway.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, June 4.—Confidential reports sifting through to Cubans exiled here are that Havana is on edge, not knowing what will happen.

Looking back upon a long list of slain trade unionists, editors and professional men who have opposed the dictator, the island republic may be on the verge of revolt.

Machine guns are reported mounted everywhere. Police travel in pairs and call the soldiers at the least disturbance. Troops patrol regularly. Country roads are watched by rural guards. The army is being kept ready for action—and there is much uncertainty about what the army will do, if and when revolt seriously breaks out.

Not in years has Cuba known such suspense, according to reports reaching here. Two factors hold a resentful people in some restraint—lack of arms and fear of intervention by the United States. Machado has done his best to disarm the people.

But in spite of all drawbacks, talk of uprising continues, with manifestations of revolutionary activity becoming more frequent.

Back of it all is the rumor that Dictator Machado will resign and get out while the getting is still good.

WAR BIRDS DIDN'T FLY JUST FOR THEIR HEALTH

Record Breaking Demonstration, Revelation of Army Air Strength—Was It a Tip to the Curious and Perhaps to the Truculent?

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, June 3.—Why did more than 670 army war birds stage their big show?

Just for fun? Just for practice?

Followers of international events do not entertain any such ideas.

How many American citizens knew the United States army had more than 600 airplanes?

Inquiry fails to reveal any particular knowledge of that sort among civilians. Most Americans did not know American air strength was so great.

How many citizens or subjects of foreign nations knew the United States had so many airplanes?

It is regarded as probable that governments knew, but the peoples of other countries did not know.

Here, then, was a demonstration!

It is not to be overlooked that this giant armada of the air swarmed over Ohio, then swarmed over Chicago and then flew across the great steel area over the mountains to the coast—the great area that would be aimed at by any military enemy that could reach it.

The speculation that is running in quarters that like to watch such things is this: Was this a demonstration, not of defiance or aggressiveness, but of ability to keep others out? There is very little notion that it was mere maneuvering, or game-playing. It is perhaps worth noting that foreign observers were given the best possible opportunity to see this armada in action. They were invited and urged and they did not turn down the invitation.

The great operation, incidentally, came precisely in the midst of the most outspoken European predictions of war that we have heard in many years.

POWER COMPANY IS ACCUSED OF BIG DEVELOPMENT STEAL

(By International Labor News Service.)

Ottawa, June 2.—A high class Canadian racket was exposed in the house of commons when Robert Gardiner, United Farmers' leader, demanded an investigation into the affairs of the Beaunhamois Power company, which is developing power on the St. Lawrence and about 20 miles above Montreal. The charge was that the company's development was without any legal foundation and contrary to the treaty obligations of Canada with respect to navigation on the St. Lawrence.

Premier Bennett said he had already started an investigation and would appoint a parliamentary committee to continue it.

Claiming the right to divert 70,000 cubic feet of water per second from pany sold its bonds on the strength of that claim.

J. S. Woodsworth said that if the procedure of the company was illegal the investors were in the position of receivers of stolen property.

Premier Bennett interjected that where a company was found to be ultra vires those who invested in it in good faith had a right to legal protection.

"Lawyers generally see no analogy between big steals and little steals," Woodsworth retorted. "If a corporation can legalize a raid on public property by issuing a few bonds, the law ought to be amended, and the promoters compelled to disgorge."

Woodsworth advocated the development of all St. Lawrence power as a public enterprise.

HANLY FEARS DANGER FOR LABOR BILLS

Sees Threat to Entire Program of Workers.

EXPECTS REAL WORK TO BEGIN AT ONCE

Appointment of Steering Committee May Spell Doom for All Labor Legislation.

By DAVID HANLY
Legislative Chairman, Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Nashville, Tenn., June 5.—The house of representatives on Wednesday and Thursday debated the first of eight articles of impeachment against Gov. Horton. The probability is that a vote will be reached by noon Friday.

On Wednesday Representative Mooney, of Shelby county, made by far the best speech that has been delivered on either side. It was a terrific arraignment of Gov. Horton and his alleged coconspirators, Luke Lea and Rogers Caldwell.

Today Speaker Haynes made an eloquent appeal to the house members to vote the articles of impeachment and compel the governor to stand trial before the senate sitting as a court of impeachment for his part in the conspiracy that resulted in the loss by the state of over $3,000,000 that was deposited in banks that Rogers Caldwell either owned or dominated.

Representative Fletcher Cohn, of Shelby county, today also made a logical and convincing argument why Horton should be impeached.

The indications tonight are that article 1 of the impeachment charges will be adopted by the house tomorrow by a narrow margin.

The senate today rejected a bill to repeal the state highway patrol. This bill was introduced by Senator Faulkner.

The senate will vote tomorrow on a resolution that provides for the appointment of a steering committee composed of five members that will say what bills will be considered the remainder of the session. If this resolution is adopted it will spell the doom of all labor legislation.

McDaniels Calls School Committee To Meet Monday

E. E. McDaniels, chairman of a committee from Chattanooga Trades and Labor council which is investigating the need of repairs to school buildings in the city and county, Friday morning asked The Labor World to publish notice to the committee members that the next "inspection trip" will be made Monday morning, and all members are urged to be at the city hall at 8 a.m., where the trip will start.

Mr. McDaniels said inspection of the school buildings is a "big job," but already a number of the buildings have been visited and the committee will have at least a partial report to make at the Central Body meeting Monday night. He asked that the committee members be on hand Monday morning promptly at 8 o'clock.

Angel of Death Enters Smith Home

The Angel of Death entered the home of J. Wade Smith Wednesday morning, and removed therefrom Mrs. Mary E. Scott, an aunt of Mrs. Smith, following a lingering illness. Mrs. Scott is survived by one brother, J. T. Brown, of Spring City, and several nieces and nephews. The Labor World extends sincere sympathy to the surviving relatives. Mr. Smith is a well-known member of the local Typographical union.

Mother of Mrs. Peyer Passes to Reward

Mrs. W. P. Evatt, mother of Mrs. J. M. Peyer, passed away Tuesday morning at the home, 1411 West Fifty-third street. Mrs. Evatt was 77 years of age, and had been in bad health for some time. She is survived by five daughters and four sons. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from Chapman's. The Labor World extends to Mr. and Mrs. Peyer and other relatives heartfelt condolences in their bereavement.

MINE WORKERS MAKE PLEA FOR PLAIN JUSTICE

2,000 Appeal for Official Protection.

WM. TURNBLAZER IN DRAMATIC ADDRESS

Coal Diggers of District 19 Approve Activities of Union Officials at Pineville.

WILLIAM TURNBLAZER
President District 19, United Mine Workers of America.

Ben Williams, representative of the United Mine Workers of America, in Chattanooga for a few hours Wednesday, reported that the called meeting of mine workers of District 19, held at Pineville, Ky., last week, was successful beyond the expectations of those sponsoring it, from a standpoint, at least, of numbers in attendance and keen interest shown.

From the mountains of eastern Tennessee and southeastern Kentucky, said Mr. Williams, the workers came, in trucks, wagons, buses and on foot, gathered to register a protest against conditions which have steadily become worse, and which the United Mine Workers have recently attempted to alleviate in certain sections. Mr. Williams declared that in more than twenty years' service for the "coal diggers" he has never seen a more determined and earnest gathering. Scheduled to be held in a public building in the mountain town, it was early seen that no building there was large enough to accommodate even a considerable portion of the delegates, and the sessions were adjourned to the baseball park, where more than 2,000 gathered to voice their protest and appeal for relief.

TURNBLAZER SCORES KENTUCKY GOVERNOR.

Easily the feature of the great meeting, he said, was an eloquent address by William Turnblazer, of Jellico, veteran president of District 19. Mr. Turnblazer scored Gov. Sampson, of Kentucky, for his failure to force compliance with an agreement made with respect to the situation in the Harlan and other fields. In the beginning of the disturbances there, he said, local citizens appealed to his excellency for protection against gunmen employed by the mine operators, and it was agreed that state militia would replace these gunmen, who would be dismissed. This and other promises were wantonly violated, he declared, and he further placed responsibility for the resultant conditions squarely upon the state executive and his excellency's associates.

AYMON ALSO PAYS RESPECTS TO SAMPSON.

Paul J. Aymon, president of the Tennessee Federation, also took a rap at the Kentucky executive.

President Aymon declared that America "was not immune to revolution," and stated that in the last few months seven countries had been embroiled in revolution. He said the "hungry man knows no law," and that the people of America will not go as low as they did in other countries before revolting. He urged the workers to work and vote against the men in authority who were opposed to organized labor and who were responsible for their present oppression.

The speakers urged those present to do all in their power to "create public opinion" favoring the organization of the union in the coal field.

Others addressing the great gathering were Mr. Williams and "Pete" Campbell, president of the Kentucky Federation of Labor.

Ringing resolutions, commending President Turnblazer and other officials for their activities, and appealing to the citizenship of the two states for a "square deal," were also a feature of the most dramatic and significant gathering of workers, perhaps, ever held in the south.

A spirit of determination prevails among these workers, Mr. Williams declared, which can only result in relief in the end from conditions of virtual serfdom forced upon them gradually but effectively by mine operators of the district.

THE LABOR WORLD
210 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY
Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council
R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager
Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1923.

FRIDAY, JUNE 5, 1931.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—How do farm wages now stand in comparison to past years?

A.—The United States department of agriculture says that the general level of farm wages on April 1 was the lowest recorded since 1916. Farm workers are unorganized.

* * *

Q.—Is the co-operative movement general throughout the world?

A.—The co-operative movement has taken root in nearly every country. The co-operative movements of forty-one countries are federated in the International Co-operative Alliance, which embraces 229,890 local co-operative societies with an aggregate membership of more than 70,000,000 persons. These societies do an annual business of more than $17,000,000,000 and have share capital and reserves of more than $1,500,000,000.

What Next!

The General Electric company has perfected and placed in various hospitals an artificial fever-producing machine whose benefits to medicine are legion. It induces a temperature of 106 degrees without discomfort to suffering patients. Such artificial temperatures speed up the body processes so that they provide immunity against infections.

Women Are Not Paid "Paper" Wage Scale

Washington.—Working women in Massachusetts are paid as low as $3 and $4 a week, according to information received from that state by the federal women's bureau.

This rate is less general than $5, $6 and $7 a week for full-time employment.

Under the Massachusetts law the state wage commission recommends a wage rate. This is not mandatory, but the authors of the law were confident that it could be enforced by a public opinion, and by publishing this rate in newspapers. Exploiting employers pay no attention to these decrees and as the women are unorganized they are compelled to accept pauper rates.

Some of the work, as the manufacture of men's furnishings, children's clothing, underwear and radio parts, comes under existing wage decrees. In other instances no decrees have been established for the occupation. This situation exists particularly in some of the textile cities.

"Owing to the serious business depression, it has been possible for these concerns to secure women and girls, and men and boys as well, at subnormal rates of wages," it is stated.

Dodging Agreement Made by Business?

New York.—Are business men preparing a popular psychology that will permit them to repudiate their no-wage-cut agreement with the president?

The Washington correspondent of the Wall Street Journal makes this significant statement: "* * * only a few employers were represented at the Washington conference so that their competitors who were not represented would appear free from any promise."

At The Change
A Critical Time In Every Woman's Life.

"During a critical time in my life I took Cardui for several months. I had hot flashes. I would suddenly get dizzy and seem blind. I would get faint and have no strength.

My nerves were on edge. I would not sleep at night.

"Cardui did wonders for me. I recommend it to all women who are passing through the critical period of change. I have found it a fine medicine."—Mrs. Hettie Murphy, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine and contains no dangerous drugs.
E-170

CARDUI
Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

ISSUE MUST NOT BE EVADED.

"Regularization of employment" is discussed by industrial leaders who claim that each industry should bear its own unemployment burden. This proposal will be helpful, but it should not be confused with a more vital problem—what is to be done for, and with, numberless workers who have been replaced by the machine and scientific processes, and who have lost all claims to their job?

These workers are not laid off—they are discharged. They would not come under any unemployment relief plan that an industry sets up for those who are temporarily released and who expect to resume their work.

"Regularization of employment" would be an ideal situation if there were not 6,500,000 workless; if inventive genius and the scientific mind were not continually enlarging the workless army and narrowing the number of those who are needed in production. The vast unemployed army are not only non-consumers, but they menace work conditions of those who are so fortunate as to be employed.

These idle workers are a threat to the social order. There can be no regularization of employment in the true sense when machine victims seek work and employes are haunted by the fear that they, too, will eventually be placed on the street. There can be no security, mental peace or regularization under the proposed plan. The isgue is evaded. Millions of unemployed are ignored, as are forces that created this condition. These forces are ceaseless in their functioning and they will make conditions more acute.

Captains of industry who talk of "regularization of employment" may hope to create a favored class among employes whom they can "play off" against millions of workless. This is blindness and blundering. It is postponing the day when facts must be faced.

Workless must be placed in employment. This can be done by a drastic reduction of hours. Employers will voluntarily accept this plan or later be compelled to yield by the forces that are revolutionizing industry and social outlooks.

The millions of unemployed must be given work. This question cannot be solved by talk of "regularization of employment" for those who now happen to have jobs.

A STRIKING WARNING.

Talking straight to steel executives described by him as "the 'comrades' sitting here in the front row," James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, accused them of wage-cutting and said:

"I think it's a pretty cheap sort of business."

Looking back over the long record of anti-unionism of the United States Steel corporation, particularly under the late Judge Gary, this is a remarkable piece of news. Mr. Farrell said more. Observe:

"You say wages have been stabilized in the steel industry. They have not. We are living in a fool's paradise. Honeycombing and pinching and all sorts of things have gone on. The so-called big standard companies, the companies in the headlines, are not maintaining the standard of wages. It's a shame that when some of the large companies are trying to maintain wages others are cutting them even when they are affording only three-day-a-week employment."

Mr. Farrell finally warned his colleagues thus: "I think we are not doing a good job and unless we do a better job something is going to happen."

Let us be grateful for this plain speaking. But let us remind Mr. Farrell that if trade unionism could be made as strong in the steel mills as it is, for example, in the printing industry, the job of preventing wage cuts could and would be much more easily handled and there would be infinitely less danger that what Mr. Farrell calls "something" will "happen."

Unionism is a protection for humanity and a safeguard for democracy.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

WE ARE about to lift the curtain on the beginning of the great drama in man's industrial life which is universally designated "the Industrial Revolution." Step by step we have given readers of The Labor World brief sketches of the ancient serf, the rise and decline of the guild system, the development of the domestic system and its expansion into the commercial system. In our more recent editorials (those describing the commercial system) we have purposely dwelt on England's commercial background to the exclusion of those of other nations because of England's close relationship to us. Also for the reason that a large part of our commercial inheritances, both good and bad, came directly from our Anglo-Saxon brothers across the sea. In fact the analogy between England and American commercial practices is even greater in many ways than that which marks the two nations' political practices. One would be disposed to deny this until the matter is thoroughly studied. England, you see, boasted fully developed commercial and industrial fields before even the American colonies had won their freedom and it was easy (and natural) for this country to follow the mother country to a certain extent in her commercial activities.

In succeeding editorials we shall describe the sweeping and momentous changes brought about by the union of men's minds and nature's forces and show how this unshackling of men's hands forced them to seek protective solidarity in the formation of labor unions.

Amazons!

Written for The Labor World By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

Before the supreme court of the United States will say female aliens can be admitted to citizenship it demands they affirm they are willing to go to the firing line in defense of this land. In this wise the august court disposed of the case of Marie A. Bland, Canadian war nurse. The justices turned thumbs down in Marie's case simply because she wouldn't affirm she'd take a gun and go out and slaughter others in case of war. Yet Marie declared she was willing in the next war to do as she did in the last, serve as a woman should serve by helping alleviate the suffering of war-maimed soldiers. Marie is right. Woman's place in war is . . . out of it! Out of it to the extent they are seen only near the battlefield after the butchery has taken place. We don't ask our American-born women to shoot rifles or jab bayonets into men's hairy chests or toss hand grenades into the enemies' faces to shatter their heads. We only ask our women to be . . . women! There has always been left one little spark of real manhood in our characters during war which wouldn't permit us to ask American women to shoulder rifles. An alien woman admitted to this country branded with the terrible mark that she assented to the demand made on her when she sought citizenship that she be willing to shoot or disembowel enemies of her adopted country (for that is what war means) would not be fit for citizenship! Marie knew it. So she proved she had strong womanly self-respect by refusing to become a citizen of a nation that has men who want to send their women out to fight for them.

DANNY AND DAD: PARTNERS

By Annabel Lee Glenn

Danny had asked his mother if he could go with his dad down to the print shop and "look the place over," as he said.

"What do you think about it, Dad? Do you think he'll be in the way?"

"No, he won't be any trouble. Let him come. We can have a good time. He's never been in the new plant. I'd like to take him along."

Down at the shop Danny explored every nook and corner of his father's new establishment, and asked many questions. Dad was glad to explain about the presses to his son, and the two of them were tired after two hours' inspection tour.

"Let's go in the office and sit down awhile. I'll tell you more about things in there."

"Sure, I'm tired, too."

They went into the office.

"Now, son, here's my desk, and you sit at that one, like we were partners."

"I see you have some new blotters here, Dad. They look pretty good. But what is this little seal here at the bottom for, with the little letters printed on it, and the number beside it?"

"Look at it again. You can read what it says."

"It says 'Allied Printing Trades Council,' and then it has 'Union Label' in the middle."

"That's what it is, the Union Label, given by the Allied Printing Trades Council."

"Oh, it has the name of our town, too, on the last line."

"Yes, and the little number beside it is the number of our shop."

"What does the Union Label stand for, Dad?"

"It's like this, son. A long time ago the printers worked very long hours, and did hard work, and were were paid only a little bit of money. They often didn't make enough money to get along. Then sometimes, the master printer would say the wages would have to be reduced. The printers knew that if the wages were cut they wouldn't be able to make enough money to pay their bills, nor enough to buy the food and clothes they needed. So they met together and formed a union."

"Was that very long ago?"

"Yes, quite a long time ago. In New York in 1776, when our country was new, the printers asked for an increase in wages and the master printers said they wouldn't pay them so the printers said they wouldn't work. They had their Union then."

"What happened then?"

"The printers didn't work, and before long the master printers agreed to pay them their increased wages."

"Were there very many members?"

"Not many. You see, this Union was only a local Union. Things are different now."

"Tell me all about it, Dad. If I'm your partner I ought to know about these important things."

"That's right, son. The Typographical Society was formed almost a hundred years ago. The men who belonged were all in the printing industry, and most of the men who were printers were members. They had a large organization. They stood for good wages, reasonable hours of work, and good working conditions. Later the different trades in the printing industry, such as the Printing Pressmen and their Assistants, the Photo-Engravers, the Stereotypers and Electrotypers and the Bookbinders decided to form unions of their own. They split up into separate unions, but did it in a good way. They made agreements with each other, and banded together in a trade alliance, called the Allied Printing Trades Council. This alliance is made up of representatives from each of the trade organizations."

"What happened to the Typographical Society then?"

"It was still there. You see, when the others formed their own unions the Typographical Society, or Union, agreed to the new Unions, and they all work together now. Now the Printers have their own Union, the Bookbinders theirs, and so on."

"Then can anyone use the little label?"

"Only Union shops."

"Yes, I know, but how does a shop get the labels?"

"The Allied Printing Trades Council owns the labels. Before a shop can use one, the shop is inspected and an agreement is made between the employers and the men and women in the shops. This agreement provides that the shop shall be run on a fair Union basis, and the hours of work and the wages are agreed upon, and the rules of the industry are followed. Both the employers and the employes sign the agreement. The council gives the shop a license and the permission to use the label."

"Well, Dad, whenever I see a Union Label on a paper I'll know that the work was done by Union men after this."

"That's right. And what else will you know?"

"I'll know that the work is clean and good, and that the men were paid enough for doing it."

"Fine, Danny."

"I'm going to be a Union printer when I grow up, Dad."

"Like me?"

"Sure, like you. I'll be a real partner, then, won't I?

"Yes, you will, boy."

"Say, Dad, I'm hungry. Is it lunch time?"

"Just about. Let's wash up a little and we'll go home. Mother will be looking for us."

"She'll be glad I'm going to be a Union man, won't she, Dad?"

"She will, son. Come on, let's go."

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

A 100% UNION JOB

A LABEL IN and ON THE PAPER

We Carry a Complete Stock of
UNION-MADE PAPERS
AND ENVELOPES

ANGEL PRINTING CO.
312 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7525

DEMAND THIS LABEL

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL CHATTANOOGA

On All Your Printing

It Stands for the Highest Quality Work
Performed by Skilled Artisans

It Costs No More : : All Sizes

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES COUNCIL OF CHATTANOOGA

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY

"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
Part XVIII

By the apparent differences in the viewpoints adopted by Matthew and Luke in their handling of exactly the same material that fell from the lips of Jesus we are forced, not to discredit one or the other writer, but to classify the documents they produced as works reflecting the characters of the authors. Each man wrote as a result of his life's experiences. Their gospels are colored by their minds. We might say the differences of teaching revealed by Matthew and Luke's books are about the same as to be found in modern literature between the writings of a sincere and earnest philanthropist and the writings of a socialist agitator. (Notice I do not spell "socialist" with a capital "S.")

WM. L. MOSS

With this comparison in mind Luke becomes the "socialist-evangelist." Matthew was a Jew, wrote for fellow-Jews and impregnated his version of our Lord's ministry with Jewish thoughts and Jewish illusions. Luke was a Jew, wrote for Greek-speaking Jews and Gentiles in general, lived in an intellectual world swayed by his Greek learning, and it was perfectly natural he should color his life of Jesus with a more candid and normal view of life than did his ultra-Jewish fellow writer, Matthew. Luke lived a freer social life than did Matthew and as a result of that living taught from a larger social experience. He was, in fact, like Paul in this respect. Luke's gospel reveals the writer had unbounded and deep human sympathy. It was therefore easy for him to seize on the radical sayings of Jesus and pass them on to us in all their original sternness. Matthew on the other hand always tends to soften these harsher sayings, spiritualizing them and making them conform to the more vampid and quieter habits of Jewish provincial thinking.

So we arrive at the conclusion that Luke best understood the Master and it is to him that we turn for the best renderings of what Jesus said about the rich, the poor and money. Jesus was not a social reformer nor did Luke regard Him so, but the Master did teach (as is evident in all the first four gospels) that our social wrongs are traceable to our wrong use of material things and therefore we have this additional proof that Luke wrote from the correct viewpoint when we read how he stresses the words of Jesus on the destructive nature of earthly possessions. Luke had a deep appreciation of Jesus' spiritual ideals for men; in fact he could not have emphasized the social side of his gospel in the way he did without this knowledge and understanding. In common with Jesus, Luke realized that men's spiritual world is often destroyed for them by their inordinate love for material possessions and that it is the well-balanced mind that tempers its thinking with spiritual thoughts without losing all interest in material life.

"Where Promises Count"

Chattanooga Printing and Engraving Co.

DIAL 6-4239

300-302-304 Market St.

WRESTLING

JIM LONDOS
World's Champion
vs
JOHN KATAN
Canadian Champ
Two Hour Limit

Preliminary - One Hour
JIM CLINKSTOCK
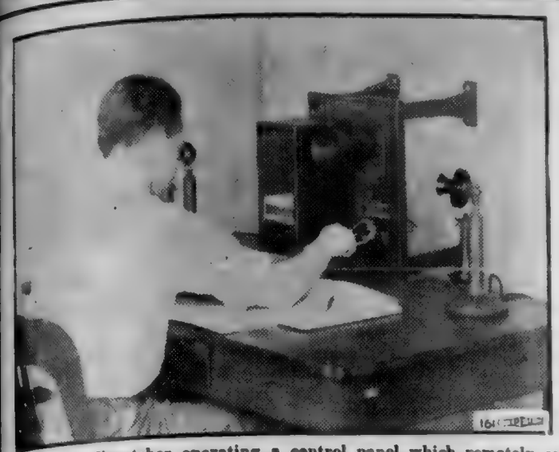
vs
PAT
O'SHOCKER

Seats 50c-$1-$1.50-$2
All Seats Reserved

AUDITORIUM
TUESDAY
JUNE 9th

Giving Orders to Electrical Equipment



Picture shows a dispatcher operating a control panel which remotely controls automatic electric equipment in a distant station.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Schenectady, N. Y., June 2.—A new type of equipment produced by the General Electric company controls the operation of remote, automatic electric devices by means of audio-frequency impulses. Indications of electric conditions from the remote equipment are given by means of audible signals, in contrast to previous methods using visual indications.

The new control equipment, known as the audible selector type supervisory equipment, is applicable to the operation of various types of electric machinery. Automatic hydro-electric generating plants in central station systems, automatic pumping stations, etc., may be controlled from a remote point. The operator at a point remote from the devices he controls can open and close valves and circuit breakers, start and stop pumps, etc., and receive automatic indications of the position of the valve gates, of whether the pumps are running or stopped, and when hot bearings occur, gaskets blow out, oil level drops in tanks, pressure drops, etc., he is automatically notified.

The supervising equipment, located in the dispatcher's office, consists of a wall panel on which are mounted a calling dial similar to those used on dial telephones, a reset key, a howler and an audio-frequency transmitter. The supervisory equipment located in the outlying station which is to be controlled, consists of selector switches, auxiliary relays, etc., necessary to adapt the supervisory system to the control circuits of the devices supervised.

Whenever the dispatcher desires to operate a unit such as a pump located in the outlying station he dials the proper code to select that unit. A series of audio-frequency impulses are thus transmitted over the line wires to the selector switches in the outlying station. The selector switches take a position corresponding to the numbers dialed and start a code sending device which checks the position of the selectors by sending a return code to the howler in the dispatcher's office. This code return is the same as the code dialed. The howler has two tones, high and low pitched, the one indicating that the pump is running and the other that the pump is stopped. Thus, the dispatcher, knowing the selector switches are set on the position corresponding to the pump he wishes to operate and knowing whether the unit is in the open or closed condition, can now dial a signal to start or stop the unit. He immediately receives a signal via the howler to indicate that the desired operation has taken place.

The man who says "I forgot" to demand union goods or service is a full brother to the one who "rocks the boat."

SOL. MOYSES & CO.
INSURANCE
SEE US BEFORE INSURING
311-12 James Bldg.
Phone 6-8188
WE WRITE ALL KINDS OF INSURANCE AND GUARANTEE THE LOWEST PRICES

B L & K
Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
FINEST CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45238
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Mamie G. Tucker vs. Joseph R. Tucker.
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Joseph R. Tucker is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next June rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in June next, the same being a rule day of said court, and the defense to said bill or the same will be taken as confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 9th day of April, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45276
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
William C. Howington vs. Ola Bell Howington
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ola Bell Howington is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next July rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in July next, the same being a rule day of said court, and the defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 9th day of May, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
L. Dixon, Atty. 6-5

CONSTIPATION take

"IF I got constipated, I would get dizzy and have swimming in my head. I would have very severe headache.

"For a while I thought I wouldn't take anything—maybe I could wear out the headaches; but I found they were wearing me out.

"I found Black-Draught would relieve this, so when I have the very first symptoms, I take Black-Draught and now I don't have the headache.

"I am a firm believer in Black-Draught, and after using it 20 or more years, I am satisfied to continue its use."
—F. E. McKinney, Orange Park, Fla. E-171

THEDFORD'S
Black-Draught
WOMEN who are run-down, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

Consult Us About Your Teeth
DR. L. J. USHER
DENTIST
7½ E. Seventh Street Phone 6-3612
Live and Let Live Building

SWIM AT
Warner Park
Swimming Pool
Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.

$1,000 PROFIT PER MAN IN LOWEST WAGE LOT

Startling Facts About Industries That Pay Less and Reap More Than Average.

By W. L. Newman

If cutting wages should get fashionable, every boss would want to be up-to-date. But there is one crowd of bosses who have not even a shadow of excuse for cutting wages. They are employers in the forty-seven industries which have been paying the average wage, or less—in some cases very much less—but who have been getting a value added to their product by manufacture, which is above the average added by all manufacture.

We need to bear in mind these two figures: average wage for all manufacturing industries, $1,308; and average value added to product by manufacture per wage earner, $3,269.

$161 Below National Average!

This average wage of $1,308 is not a decent wage. It is only used for comparison because it is the average of all industrial wages for 1929. There is no figure given by any of the various students or authorities, including the United States bureau of labor, which gives a budget of minimum health and decency for a family of five persons at less than $2,000 per year.

But these 48 industries, which range all the way from artificial leather to women's clothing, through butter, chewing gum, patent medicines and cigars and cigarettes, paid in 1929 an average wage of $1,141, or $161 less than the average wage of manufacturing industries.

In passing, it might be just as well to pause for a moment and wonder where the United States industrial worker got his reputation for having a high rate of wages, and a high standard of living, when the manufacturers' own figures show the above facts.

$2,494 Above Average Per Man Output.

But the interesting fact remains to be told, which is, that these manufacturers collected in the sale of their products an average value added to the product per wage earner of $5,763, or $2,494 more than the average value added in all manufactures in 1929.

Let us get a little closer to the picture, and take the industry in which the value added figure is the lowest of these 47 items: it is nails and spikes (not made in rolling mills). Here the "value added" item amounts to $3,312 per wage earner. There are 37 wage earners in the average establishment, who receive an average wage of $1,215. That leaves a net amount of $2,097 per wage earner, or $77,589, for the whole works, to be applied to what are called capital charges after paving wages. (The cost of material and power has already been allowed for, as the average product per wage earner is valued here at $6,043; the average product per establishment being $224,184.)

$1,000 Profit Per Worker Per Year.

Without attempting to give a detailed distribution of the overhead costs of the plant, it seems fairly safe to say that the boss stood a good chance in 1929 of taking down approximately $1,000 per worker of clean profit.

The highest showing for value added by manufacture, in this list of 47 industries paying under the average wage, is for the manufacture of chewing gum, where the figure is $37,100,000 for the 39 establishments, employing 2,327 wage earners; or $15,900 for each wage earner, of whom there were 59 per establishment. The average wage paid was $1,203. After paying the wages the boss had a net of $14,697 per wage earner, or $867,123 for the establishment, to distribute for his rent, interest, depreciation, insurance, advertising, and presents for the babies. You might think of that next time you take a bite of your favorite chicle chew!

Does This Make for Good Citizenship?

But the important thing for America, and for American institutions, is this: WHAT KIND OF CITIZENS CAN BE BUILT ON AN AVERAGE WAGE OF $1,203?

Is any manufacturer who pays that kind of wages, and makes that kind of profits, interested at all in building and perpetuating American institutions so that they can hold their own against the assaults which are certain to come in times of depression, and from forces such as those of communism?

There is only one possible answer:

Such an employer takes no interest in the essential fundamentals of American citizenship and institutions.

IF THAT IS THE "AMERICAN WAY," IT NEEDS FIXING!

NATION MUST ACT AT ONCE TO PREVENT SUFFERING, GREEN WARNS

In Face of Optimistic Talk by Hoover, A. F. of L. Head Sees Widespread Distress Unless Remedial Action Is Taken Without Delay.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, June 4.—In the face of the announcement by President Hoover and his cabinet that they have found "many favorable factors" in the present business situation and following up labor's declaration of war on wage cutting, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, warned this week that the nation must begin planning at once if widespread suffering is to be prevented. But President Green reported slight gains in trade union employment, which, however, he said, have been so small as to leave the unemployment problem almost as serious as at the first of the year.

Urging the taking of prompt steps to forestall suffering, recommending four measures of relief and taking another shot at wage cutting, Mr. Green said:

"We must begin planning at once if we are to prevent widespread suffering. Before all else is the problem of security. Workers want to know that they can count on a job. Without taking undue risk, most employers could unquestionably guarantee work to a certain portion of their work force. Practically every employer can estimate the number of men he will need for a minimum force even in dull seasons. A guarantee of employment to even a portion of the country's work forces would help business revival enormously and bring relief from anxiety to thousands of workers' families. At present workers are holding all they can in reserve for fear of losing their jobs. They cannot do otherwise for they cannot see ahead. The funds they reserve amount to billions of dollars. If they were sure of their jobs the release of these funds would be an immense stimulus to business.

Pay Cuts Evil Influence.

"Another influence which contributes to continuation of the existing distressing situation is the wage cutting policy which is being pursued by some thoughtless employers. This sniping at wage standards creates an unfavorable psychological condition. Working men through fear of wage reductions and loss of work are curtailing their buying power and are purchasing only to the extent of the barest necessities.

"Third, industry must fully appreciate its responsibility to divide equitably upon a pro rata basis all available work among all its employes. No man should be deprived of his share. Each employe has a moral claim upon industry for a share at least of all work available.

"Fourth, communities must plan for relief through industrial funds, through municipal and relief organizations. For the relief problem next winter bids fair to be worse than last.

"Unless industry, labor and our governments face this problem now, next winter's suffering may be worse than last."

Chain Store Tax Upheld by Court

Washington.—The United States supreme court, by a 5-to-4 vote, reversed the federal district court and upheld the Indiana tax on chain stores.

Justice Sutherland dissented at length. His views were approved by Justices Van Devanter, Butler and McReynolds.

Justice Roberts, in the majority opinion, said "there seems to be some ground for making a distinction between chain and individual stores."

The decision is the first of its kind handed down by the supreme court and is considered important because it may open the way for legislation in various states that are agitating against the chains.

The Indiana tax, or license fee, starts with $3 on one store. This increases until the license fee for each store in excess of twenty-five is $25 for each additional store.

KNOW Your Union Label

Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen

Glove Workers' Union Label

Card of Union Bartenders

Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union

Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp

Card of Union Waiters

Union Label of Tobacco Workers

Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America

Bookbinders' Union Label

Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America

Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America

Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings

Coopers' Union Label

Used on Rolls and Bundles

United Leather Workers Union Label

Store Card of Retail Clerks

United Hatters of North America Label

Paper Makers' Union Labels

Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners

Brick and Clay Workers' Label

Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers

Plate Printers and Die Stampers' Union Label

Jewelry Workers' Union Label

International Photo-Engravers' Union Label

Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union Label

Local Pressmen's Union Label

Union Labels of Electrical Workers

Allied Printing Trades Label

Machinists' Union Label

Local Typographical Union Label

Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance

Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America

Union Label of Stove Mounters

Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators

Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union

Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union

Emblem of American Federation of Musicians

Cigarmakers' Union Label

Union Label of Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union

Label of Stogie Makers

A. F. of L. Label

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation

Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company

Ideal Service at Moderate Cost

Phone 6-6114

COAL

Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25

Honest Weight — Prompt Service

CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

FACTS: FEWER FACTORIES; MORE POWER; FEWER MEN

But With Plants and Workers Cast Aside the Mountain of Manufactured Output Grows.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Here is a part of what has happened in Pennsylvania manufacturing plants during the last ten years, according to the census:

Number of establishments, 1919, 27,974.

Number of establishments, 1929, 16,870.

Over 11,000 manufacturing establishments in Pennsylvania closed up for some reason or other.

Number of wage earners, 1919, 1,135,837.

Number of wage earners, 1929, 1,006,946.

About 130,000 workers were "displaced," technologically or otherwise. What on earth do you suppose they were doing?

Value of product—total, 1919, $7,315,702,867.

Value of product—total, 1929, $7,387,856,808.

For some reason or other, they were able to produce over 72 million dollars' worth more of products after they got rid of that 130,000 odd workers. Looks like "technological" stuff, all right.

They used $4,210,408,628 worth of materials and energy in 1919. In 1929 the cost of materials and energy was $4,000,673,484—more than two hundred million dollars saved there.

The wages paid in 1919 was $1,406,066,138.

The wages paid in 1929 was $1,390,782,260.

That was a saving in wages of about sixteen million dollars.

But they used 4,445,095 horsepower in 1919, and 5,935,764 in 1929. That is an increase of 1,500,000 horsepower in ten years, with a reduction of 130,000 workers. Each added horsepower displaced over ten workers.

But what became of the workers and their families?

These were human beings!

And this is going on in every state in the Union.

Mismanagement Big Factor in Slump--Wagner

New York Senator Pleads for Better Planning by Government and Industry to Maintain Economic Securiy.

(By International Labor News Service.)

New York, June 4.—Emphasizing the importance of economic security to be obtained by careful planning both by the government and industry in general, Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, in speaking to the membership of the New York Building congress, said in part:

"One of the contributing causes of the present business depression, in my judgment, is the mismanagement of our own domestic activities. We want to restore economic stability that will bring to labor security against unemployment; security against loss of income and also security against that fear of the future.

"One of our difficulties is that we have done no planning; neither private industry nor government has planned on a national scale. I introduced three bills three years ago having primarily the object of advanced planning to meet possible depression—advanced planning is only one segment of our economic activity; there has to be a fundamental approach and then we must build, build upon that until perhaps our private industry as well as our government will do advanced planning. I have discovered that public construction was carried on at a time when private industry was prosperous. In other words, government was competing with private industry in price of labor, price of material and thus creating a boom and a false idea of prosperity which inevitably resulted in one of those cyclical depressions which I think can be avoided.

"What should the government do? The government ought to aid industry, not to compete with it. The government ought to use its funds in public construction to take up the slack when private industry is slowing down. 'Well,' said someone, 'how do you know when it is slackening up?' There has been a dispute for two years and a half as to whether a depression was on the way. This dispute was between individuals who insisted upon prosperous conditions and others more conservative who saw the depression coming. But we had no economic information upon the subject.

"So I introduced a bill for the collection of accurate information on employment and unemployment, because all economists agree that the most definite measure of whether a country is prosperous or whether a depression is in sight is when unemployment begins to get into our economic activities. That bill after a struggle of two years was finally passed and a bureau has been created.

"The advanced planning bill came after that and was signed finally by the president. We have those two acts now as law. The advanced planning board consists of certain members of the cabinet and will see that planning on public construction is done six years in advance. In other words, we are to begin now upon all projects which have been authorized so that in the critical times we can save at least the six or eight months which are required for preliminary steps before a single public construction job could actually be carried on. The moment the index of unemployment shows a possible depression coming, the government will be ready to enter into the field and check the depression. It may not do it altogether, but it certainly will be a contributing factor."

Is War So Near?

(International Labor News Service)

Washington, June 2.—Gen. Ludendorff on Sunday predicted war in Europe by July.

"He's not far wrong," said a high American army officer in Washington. His name cannot be used.

P. O. Promotions Urged by Unionist

Washington.—The postoffice department's policy of withholding special clerk promotions is protested by Thomas F. Flaherty, secretary-treasurer National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, in a letter to President Hoover.

Postoffice officials, said Mr. Flaherty, take advantage of a technicality in the law to deny promotions to nearly 1,000 clerks in the $2,100 salary grade, who, ordinarily, would be promoted into the $2,200 grade and then, a year later, into the $2,300 grade.

"Government officials are constantly urging private employers to avoid wage slashing," said Mr. Flaherty. "The department's policy, in denying earned salary increases to approximately 1,000 clerks, is at variance with the doctrine preached by administration leaders.

"Special clerkships are secured only after years of satisfactory service—at least fifteen years in the larger offices. To withhold these promotions now is to deny a wage increase that has been justly earned by more than a decade of efficient work."

Industrial Slump Blamed on Business

Long Beach, Cal.—Lack of business management, rather than overproduction, is the cause of our industrial slump, said Rev. Fr. Robert E. Lucey, of this city, in an address to local trade unionists.

"When the machine age came men were discharged, but industry did not make a place for these workers," said Fr. Lucey.

"While dividends increased in 1930, wages decreased in the same proportion.

"Industry has eaten the goose that has laid the golden egg and is now suffering. The solution is a reduction of hours for workers with an increase of pay, so that the workers will have a portion of these billions of profit that were made while wages were being reduced."

NOTICE!

Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council will meet Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, in regular session. All delegates are requested and expected to be present, as matters affecting every local union will come before the meeting for discussion.

Postoffice Squibs

By R. B. LANE

They are hot on the governor's trail, but who shall cast the first stone?

* * *

The Letter Carriers' band gave a concert on the postoffice lawn Wednesday evening.

* * *

Officials inspected the carriers for the summer season. I don't think they looked as spick and span as last year. Inspector W. R. Keyes made a talk to the boys.

* * *

After the inspection Branch 62 went into the election of a delegate to the national convention, which meets in Oakland, Cal., Labor day, O. L. Farmer, of Highland Park station, winning the trip.

* * *

Frank Brooks says that his daddy-in-law, Henry Oehlson, was so afraid that he would not get over to his house for breakfast that he came and woke him up.

* * *

Letter carriers on their rounds are asked to do lots of things for their patrons. The other morning Sub Rader had to stop and pull a tooth for a little girl.

* * *

Echols says that you could not haul in a wheelbarrow what Frank Brooks ate at the picnic which was held at East Lake park May 30.

* * *

The Highland Park station moved into their new building were sent lots of flowers, but Roscoe Talley was the only one to receive a personal one. Someone sent him a bunch of old wax flowers enclosing a card reading, "From an ardent admirer."

* * *

The other night when closing, Roscoe closed the safe and no one could open it the next morning, as the combination was locked up inside. Talley says when he locks up he locks up for keeps. Hard to telegraph to the makers of the safe for the combination.

* * *

We are asked the question every day, "When are you going to build the new postoffice?" Well, I don't know.

MORE ABOUT MUSICIANS

(Continued from First Page)

gram consists of a special feature for the ladies, exact nature of which was not announced. Mrs. G. A. Van Arsdale is in charge of this "department."

Chairman Cohn announced Friday morning that everything is in readiness for the arrival of the visitors. Various committees, he declared, have "clicked" splendidly, and every individual member has entered whole-heartedly into the spirit of the occasion and done his or her "bit" with credit.

The various committees which have toiled for many weeks to make the gathering a success are as follows:

General Chairman—Lester D. John.

Registration—R. L. Park.

Ways and Means—Ralph Miller.

Entertainment—John T. Mahoney.

Transportation—E. R. Van Arsdale.

Exploitation—Sidney Shallett.

Women's Committee—Mrs. G. A. Van Arsdale.

Editor Program—Wallace W. Cash.

Badges—E. A. Rankin.

Chairman Cohn has issued a cordial invitation to all local trades unionists to attend the open sessions.

ALONG MELODY LANE

By Sax O. Phone

Local No. 80 and her ninety members are busily putting on the finishing touches for the convention. It has even been reported that Buck Weaver has bought a new suit for the occasion, but those who are close in say that it's just a rumor.

* * *

The entertainment committee was worried for a while over the possibility that there would not be enough girls at the Monday night dance at the Patten, but all fear has been set aside as Herman promises to bring some of his girls.

* * *

Interest is especially keen for the dance as Pedro and his high-stepping Troubadours will be there in the flesh. It's sure fine of the Tivoli management and the boys to come out and help us.

* * *

Members are urged to get dates for the dance and promise them one great time. Besides dancing, there has been arranged an interesting program for the intermission.

* * *

Last week Dick Stamper and Sugar did some real singing. We are proud of our boy who made good.

* * *

We hear that Manager Rogers is planning a Cleveland, Tenn., night at the Tivoli. Hundreds are expected to come down and pay homage to the saxophone talents of Richard. We hope that South Pittsburg does not try to honor Joe Leland and Ramon Pryor at the same time in the same way.

* * *

If the national convention contains as much fussing as one of our local meetings, we can easily see why the entertainment committee has arranged a wrestling match for the entertainment program.

* * *

Gol durn it, Local No. 80 may not have the best president in the federation, but we are willing to bet that our president is the best golfer.

* * *

Members in need of money line up on the right. Ralph Miller is now connected with a loan company. No, Herbie, he won't hock your drums.

Musicians' Union Finds New Orleans 'Slow Pay'

New Orleans, June 2.—While this city is busy raising money to care for the unemployed, a bill for $56 for services of ten musicians at a dance given by the city in honor of the crew of the battleship Wyoming remains unpaid since Feb. 9.

The musicians in question have made repeated attempts to get their money. They have written Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley several times and only to the last letter, sent through the union here, did they receive a reply. The mayor thanked the writer of the letter for calling the matter to his attention, for he always wished to settle bills of that type promptly.

This was on March 13. Meanwhile the mayor is on his way to Paris to attend an exposition there and the bill remains unpaid. The Musicians' union will take the matter up with the commission council.

BIJOU

Chattanooga's Best Entertainment

MONDAY — TUESDAY — WED.

"The Maltese Flacon"

—with—

BEBE DANIELS

PATHE NEWS
RIPLEY "BELIEVE IT OR NOT"
VITAPHONE VARIETY

THURSDAY — FRIDAY — SAT.

"Doorway to Hell"

—with—

LEWIS AYRES

PATHE NEWS
VITAPHONE VARIETIES

GLIDDEN'S
First Quality PAINT
25% SAVINGS
1 GALLON FREE
if you buy 4 gallons
OR 1 QUART FREE
with 4 quarts

STOVALL HARDWARE CO.
711 CHERRY ST.

NOTICE TAXPAYERS

The Hamilton County Boardof Equalization is Board of Equalization is meeting daily in the office of the tax assessor from 11 to 12 o'clock, a.m., for 25 days from June 1 to June 29, inclusive (Sundays excluded). Taxpayers who have complaints to make as to assessments made by the assessor on personalty or on real estate may appear in person or by attorney and present their claims.

W. A. Seagle, Chm.
Porter Poe, Secy.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45359

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Georgia Robinson vs. James Robinson

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that James Robinson is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next July rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the 1st Monday in July next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 27th day of May, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

F. L. Dixon, Atty. 6-19

REPLEVIN NOTICE
No. 1486

Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee

Tennessee Electric Power Co. vs. Crabtree Transfer Co. and E. A. Dobbins

In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, a replevin notice having been served on goods in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant, and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., on Monday, June 29, 1931, at 11 a.m., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

This 8th day of June, 1931.

Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feather

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSEE

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY
SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street — 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

PURE HOG LARD 8-lb. pail 89c; 4-lb. pail 47c; 4 lbs. bulk 35c
COMPOUND Very Best Grade, 4 Pounds 36c
PINK SALMON No. 1 Tall, 15c Size, Can 10c
MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE Limit 2 lbs.—Lb. 27c
CAN MILK Carnation or Pet; 10 Small Cans 35c; 5 Tall Cans 35c
SALT Reg. 5c Size, 2 Boxes 5c MATCHES Large Size Bx 2c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

IF YOU WANT THE BEST FLOUR MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

Effron's Sale
...OF...
FRIEDMAN'S STOCK

Brings the Greatest Values in Men's and Boys' Clothing and Furnishings in Ten Years. Come and See for Yourself.

EFFRON'S
THE HOME OF LOW PRICES

MARKET AT SIXTH

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, JUNE 12, 1931 — Number 7

EEK REASONS FOR DISMISSAL OF C. H. ZIEGLER

entral Executive Board Petitions Officials.

ABOR BODY ASKS FOR INVESTIGATION

ummary Discharge of Veteran Public Servant Brings Storm of Protest.

Local 74, Carpenters, at the egular weekly meeting Thurs- ay night unanimously adopted a esolution deploring the discharge f Mr. Ziegler and demanding hat he be reinstated.

espectfully petitioning the mayor d city commissioners to conduct an estigation into the summary dis- sal of Charles H. Ziegler, super- ndent of parks, and to refuse to prove said dismissal without just se, executive board of Chatta- ga Trades and Labor council, in a ial session Thursday night, took the unusual case of the veteran employe and reflected what is be- ed to be the sentiment of almost per cent. of the city's population. r. Ziegler, a former cigarmaker, been active in the local labor vement practically ever since there been a local labor move- t, and has rendered the same scientious and efficient service to taxpayers which has marked his ivities in behalf of those who m their bread by the sweat of ir brow." Under the city charter would have had but two more rs to serve before being entitled substantial life pension, and it is ended that to deprive him of this ft after eighteen years' service culated to destroy any incentive faithful service which might ani- the activities of present or fu- employes of the city government. Charlie" Ziegler, as he is known undreds of personal friends, had been regarded as a "fixture" in ity government. Officials in his artment have come and gone, but thought of his removal has ever made public until Commissioner s A. Cash, recently re-elected to e, announced to press representa- this week that the superintend- of parks would be displaced as economy move."

mors of Mr. Ziegler's discharge been rife for some weeks, and it nown that scores of citizens early ed their protest. The commis- er, however, stated that he had een responsible for the reports. mmittee from Circle club called Commissioner Cash some two or weeks ago to protest the re- val of the park superin- ent, but were given little or no lation in the matter.

erhaps never in the history of the as the dismissal of a subordi- been so generally deplored, the missioner's action and its attend- circumstances having all this been a subject for discussion any groups of citizens, on the s, in offices and stores, and in herever men or women congre-urteous service of the displaced rintendent to officers and mem- of the various garden clubs, his t knowledge and personal inter- aving been cheerfully granted at mes over a period of many years, brought to his defense a large er of ladies interested in beau- g the city, and newspapers and have expressed themselves upon the unfortunate occuriends of Mr. Ziegler are advocat- a personal protest at the regular ing of city commission Tuesday, is was stated Thursday that in robability the commissioners will etitioned for a hearing on the er at that time.

e resolution adopted by Central executive board follows:

Whereas, announcement is de, through the daily press, t Mr. Charles Ziegler, super- ndent of parks, has been sum- rily relieved of his duties in t capacity; and,

Whereas, Mr. Ziegler has spent ctically eighteen years of his in this department of the government, rendering what been widely recognized as l, intelligent and efficient ice to the taxpayers; his en- career as a city employe has n marked by faithful perform- e of his duties, and thousands friends will testify to his un- ed devotion to his arduous rs and the constructive effort ch has marked his every ac- ty as a servant of all the peo- of our city; and,

Whereas, under the law which poses the reward of public ice, Mr. Ziegler would in a ter of approximately two rs be entitled to a lifetime sion; and,

Whereas, we believe that such ong and faithful record of ice to the people should com- d more fitting recognition than dismissal at the whim of a department head; and,

Whereas, it is our understanding that the city commission as a whole is responsible for the actions of its various department chiefs, which must be formally approved by a majority of the board; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we respectfully but insistently call upon the honorable mayor and board of commissioners to conduct a thorough investigation into the reasons for the discharge of Supt. Ziegler, and demand of the commissioner of parks that just cause for his action be given before the dismissal of Mr. Ziegler is approved; be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be furnished the mayor and commissioners, and the daily press and The Labor World for publication.

Chicago Union Print Shops On Five-Day Week

Employers' Association Offers No Resistance as Provision of Famous Contract Become Effective June 1.

(By Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, June 11.—None of the union employing printers of Chicago resisted inauguration of the five-day week June 1, which was provided for in a five-year contract effective Oct. 1, 1929.

The Franklin Association (employers' group) had asked the union to abrogate the five-day week feature of the contract, or in lieu thereof to permit the members to go on a 40-hour weekly basis at the prevailing hourly rate. This would have amounted to a decrease of $5.20 a week based on the minimum job scale.

The union, at the May 24 meeting, unanimously turned down the request upon the telegraphic advice of Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical union.

Provisions of Agreement.

The five-year agreement provides that the five-day week shall prevail during the months of June, July and August of 1931 and 1932, and that on and after April 1, 1933, the 40-hour week shall become effective for the full twelve months of the year.

Aside from some minor differences of opinion in some of the shops as to the application of the new rule, which were ironed out by the officers of the union and the management of the shops involved, no difficulty was experienced.

Some of the members of the Franklin association had been very active in endeavoring to persuade their employes to go to the union meetings and vote to abrogate the five-day week feature of the contract. However, when the union voted unanimously to stand by the contract, these employers considered that discretion was the better part of valor and gracefully conceded the point.

I. T. U. Backing Valuable.

The executive council of the International Typographical union is deserving of great praise for the handsome manner in which it backed up Chicago Typographical Union No. 16. It is felt here that the easily won victory is of tremendous moral value to the labor movement of the entire country at this time, when there is a surreptitious drive on to cut wages.

State Supreme Court Upholds Free Press

Madison, Wis.—The state supreme court sustained the refusal of the Milwaukee circuit court to enjoin a newspaper from opposing rate increases by the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company.

The newspaper—the Milwaukee Post—called on citizens to organize and to refuse to pay an extra fare. The company sought to enjoin the newspaper from interfering with its "property rights."

The supreme court declared that freedom of the press, guaranteed by the constitution, prohibits the court from issuing an injunction against the publication of articles in a newspaper, and asserted that every person is assured the right to speak, write or publish his sentiments on all subjects.

"A mere apprehension of future injury is not enough to warrant the issuance of a permanent injunction," the court declared.

The article objected to by the company read, in part, as follows: "To Arms, North Milwaukeeans! Refuse to pay 6 cents for two miles of street car riding. In Old Milwaukee they can ride 10 and 12 miles on one fare. We, of the newer Milwaukee, victims of unkept promises, must pay 13 cents to ride to our homes from our daily toil. There isn't a policeman in the city who would arrest you for demanding your rights. Let's fight for our rights if it is necessary to use a club."

The Post, in its defense, claimed the last sentence was not an exhortation to violence, but rather was comparable to the "big stick" campaign waged by President Roosevelt.

MAY TAX GAS STATIONS.

Indianapolis.—Indiana may extend its chain store tax to gas stations. The state board of tax commissioners will ask the attorney-general to pass on the question.

CENTRAL BODY'S SCHOOL REPORT ILLUMINATING

Deplorable Conditions Are Found General.

HORTON RULE IS AGAIN "BLASTED"

Resolution Calls on Taxpayers to Continue Battle for Relief.

Declaring that the taxpayers of Tennessee should "continue an unceasing demand upon their representatives to bring the looters of Tennessee to an accounting," Chattanooga Trades and Labor council Monday night protested vigorously against the "spectacle of a vigorous political regime whitewashing its renegades."

Representatives Coleman and Chamlee were sharply criticized for their support of the Horton crowd as shown in their activities against the proposed articles of impeachment against the governor. Formal action against the two Hamilton representatives, however, was not taken.

The resolution follows:

Whereas, organized labor has unceasingly denounced Gov. Horton immediately after it was apparent that two private citizens were really holding the governor's chair; and,

Whereas, because of the resulting looting of the treasury of the state of Tennessee, and the failure of several banks and various suicides, an irate and aroused citizenry has demanded that Gov. Horton be removed from his office; and,

Whereas, because the taxpayers are now being treated to a spectacle of a vigorous political regime whitewashing its renegades; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, That the taxpayers of Tennessee should continue an unceasing demand upon their representatives to bring the looters of the state of Tennessee to an accounting; and, be it

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be given to each of our own representatives and to the daily press and Labor World.

SCHOOL REPORT IS ILLUMINATING.

Light on the deplorable condition of city school buildings was given in the report of a committee which has been making a thorough investigation of the needs for repairs on these buildings. At a recent session of Central Body a resolution was adopted which called attention to reports that many of the city schools were actually in dangerous condition from lack of attention, and the committee was named to make a survey.

E. E. McDaniels, chairman, in making a partial report, prefaced his remarks with the statement that had anyone told him conditions were half as bad as were found, he would not have believed it. The committee had visited sixteen out of forty-four buildings, and in practically all cases astounding facts were disclosed.

Incidentally, Mr. McDaniels stated Thursday of this week that further activities of his committee had brought out similar deplorable conditions in the buildings where the youth of Chattanooga spend so much time.

From serious insanitary menaces to actually dangerous fire hazards, the committee found unbelievable defects, and the partial report made Monday night, it is held, has more than justified the investigation and the formal protest which will follow its completion.

It is planned to present a detailed report, in writing, to the city commission, and demand that all buildings be put into at least safe and sanitary condition before another session opens.

WILLIAMS TELLS OF MINERS' PLIGHT.

Plight of the coal miners of Tennessee and Kentucky was graphically described by Ben Williams, representative of the international union, and the struggle for a measure of relief was gone into, incidents of heroism among these native Americans being cited and their fortitude under most trying conditions was highly commended by the organization's representative. He told of the struggles to gain a foothold through collective action to alleviate the un-American conditions, and of the necessity for facing hired professional gunmen and the state militia in Kentucky.

Much has been said recently, he declared, about deplorable conditions at Brushy Mountain, where state convicts are forced to mine coal, but in some instances, he declared, the felons are in better position than the so-called "free" mine workers, and he declared it had been intimated that "free" miners are "scabbing" on the convicts.

'WIRE TWISTERS' NOMINATE NEW OFFICERS

Local 175 Expects Some Interesting Contests at Annual Election—Notes.

Some interesting contests are scheduled to feature the annual election of officers by Local 175, Electrical Workers, at the regular meeting next Wednesday night, and a 100 per cent. attendance is expected. A. E. Butler, president, will have opposition in the person of E. E. Crosby, present vice-president, and W. P. Howard, recording secretary, will try conclusions with Robert Duncan for the honor of occupying that position during the coming year. A complete list of the nominations, given The Labor World this week, follows:

President—A. E. Butler, E. E. Crosby.

Vice-President—Fred Simons, Boyd Keebler.

Recording Secretary—W. P. Howard, Robert Duncan.

Financial Secretary—C. A. Frost.

Treasurer—W. W. Williams.

Business Manager—E. E. McDaniels.

NEWS NOTES
(By E. E. Crosby)

Well, at last you don't have to stand on your head to have the Chattanooga ball club near the top.

* * *

The entertainment committee has been ordered to get up another fish fry this summer. If you know the address of any fish send 'em in.

* * *

Mac says he now believes the first 100 years are the hardest.

* * *

Ed Carroll said if there is one corn every minute he is one of 'em.

* * *

Patton says an old Ford is better than no Ford—saves walking.

* * *

C. E. Coffer is planning a trip to Georgia.

* * *

Bill Cooper is reported on a fishing trip and the big ones don't get away when he goes after them.

* * *

Wendel Worley is soon going to move on his plantation near Soddy.

Labor Promises Housecleaning in Mississippi Poll

Politicians Have Driven People Nearly to "Nut House and Poor House," Declares Holt Ross, A. F. of L. Spokesman.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Meridian, Miss.—Denouncing factionalism, Holt Ross, of Laurel, president of the Mississippi State Federation of Labor and international representative of the American Federation of Labor, declared "a thorough housecleaning in Mississippi political circles" is assured.

"After we have drained the cesspool of factionalism, inefficiency and corruption, then we are going to disinfect the state house and start all over again," he said.

"The occupants of the upper house, the lower house and the governor's house have well nigh landed most of us either in the 'nut house' or poorhouse. Evidently the people of the state have suffered long enough from the humiliation heaped upon them by the selfish or stupid politicians.

"Mississippians should remember that there are others to be elected than a governor. The Mississippi Federation of Labor is making a full and complete study of the records of the candidates for all offices and they shall likewise require them to answer certain questions relative to their candidacy. We shall go upon the stump and discuss these issues with the people and not the politicians."

Bethlehem Bonus To Be Continued

Newark, N. J.—Vice-Chancellor John H. Backus ruled that a bonus paid to officers of the Bethlehem Steel corporation shall be continued, pending final determination in the local federal district court of the suit by twenty-one minority stockholders to compel an accounting of these payments totaling $36,493,668 and the refunding of any part thereof deemed to be excessive. The officials who receive these bonuses must deposit a bond in the event that the suit is decided against them.

Although the bonus exceeds more than $1,000,000 for one official, the chancellor indicated his belief in a "living wage." To deny executives their bonus now, when they have been receiving large compensation and living accordingly, would be unfair, he said.

ANNUAL MEET OF MUSICIANS IS SUCCESSFUL

Sessions Adjourn Sine Die Friday.

WEBER NAMED FOR 32D TERM

Delegates and Visitors Praise Local Committee for Entertainment.

With the election of Joseph N. Weber to his thirty-second consecutive term as president, thirty-sixth annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians was practically closed, and after the cleaning up of "fag ends" the sessions were scheduled to adjourn sine die Friday night.

The convention, the first to be held in the southland in twenty years, was described on all sides as highly successful from every standpoint. Matters of direct interest to the members were disposed of with a minimum of "wrangling," and it was the belief that the future of the 140,000 members is brighter at this time than has been the case since the beginning of the business depression.

Entertainment program was carried out without a hitch, and delegates and visitors were loud in their praises of the local membership for providing a full week of enjoyment for the guests.

Address of William Green, president of the American Federation, on Monday, was one of the high lights of the gathering. Mr. Green was scheduled to speak to the musicians on Wednesday, but due to an engagement in the east, the date was moved up, and the federation chief made a flying trip to the city. William P. Canavan, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators, was another distinguished guest, and addressed the convention also on Monday.

A side feature of the gathering was a dinner given President Canavan Wednesday midnight at the Chattanooga Golf and Country club, a courtesy of locals 140, Stage Employes, and 259, Moving Picture Machine Operators.

Mr. Canavan brought to the membership of the two locals a message brimming with optimism, and predicted that, when business activities begin to turn back to normal, the hundreds of locals comprising the alliance are assured of the greatest season of prosperity in their history. J. Burson Lowry, president of Local 259, acted as toastmaster, and Paul J. Aymon, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, and R. M. Cooke, editor of The Labor World, were special guests of the occasion.

National Flag Wavers Favor Wage Reduction

Toronto, Canada.—A wage reduction of 25 cents an hour is the offer of the National Labor Council of Toronto to building contractors. The council is an alleged labor organization that would arouse jingo sentiment among Canadian citizens by opposing affiliates of the American Federation of Labor.

The alleged "unionists" make this plea to contractors:

"We have the ability to carry on our business in Canada as well, if not better, and with more satisfaction to contractors than any other organization controlled and dictated to by foreign countries."

The purpose of this flag waving has been exposed times without number by Canadian wage workers who have a natural loyalty to their country and who have linked their economic interests with fellow craftsmen in the United States.

"Ford Civilization" Mass Output Result

London.—Henry Ford is the embodiment of American civilization and mass production, says Prof. Harold J. Laski, of the University of London, writing in a local newspaper on prominent Americans.

"Henry Ford is a workman who has made a gigantic fortune without ever discovering that we work for the sake of life," writes Prof. Laski. "He is the supreme prisoner of his own machines. He is only the most outstanding of innumerable Americans to think as he does. They think of bigness as greatness. They place the practical Edison before the abstract Einstein.

"Mr. Ford has captured the world with his system. Today Russia transforms itself into a super-America; tomorrow it will be China; then, perhaps, India.

"Mr. Ford's vision of civilization does not impress me. His ideal worker will have material comfort aplenty. I doubt whether he will have a mind to enjoy it."

Trainmen Not To Join Labor Federation Now

But Convention Approves Cooperation in All Cases Consistent With Laws and Policies of Organization.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Houston, Tex., June 11.—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in convention here, declined to become affiliated at this time with the American Federation of Labor, approving a report of the committee on joint relations, which said:

"Under existing conditions it appears to your committee that affiliation with the American Federation of Labor can only be effected by the relinquishment on our part of jurisdiction over classes of service which we have represented for many years, and unless and until this condition is eliminated, we do not recommend an affiliation."

Close co-operation with the A. F. of L. was recommended by the committee, which cited past co-operation, particularly in the movement for the eight-hour day on the railroads. The committee urged further co-operation be given the federation in matters "where such can consistently be done within keeping with the laws and policies of this organization."

Other action taken by the convention included approval of resolutions favoring an increase in freight rates and limiting the members' working hours so that approximately 11,000 men now out of work may be given employment. The convention also called upon officers of the Brotherhood to seek a conference with federal officials, business leaders and the public in an effort to bring about improvement in the business situation.

Sympathize With Bereaved Brother

Sympathy for C. C. Ferry and other surviving relatives of Mrs. Ferry, who surrendered to the Grim Reaper recently following a long battle to regain her lost health, is expressed in resolutions drawn by a committee appointed at last week's meeting of Local 74, Carpenters.

Tribute is paid to the worth of Mrs. Ferry, and attention is called to her unusual interest in the cause of labor. The resolutions follow:

"Whereas, the Angel of Death has entered the home of one of our members, removing therefrom Mrs. C. C. Ferry, beloved wife and helpmeet of our fellow-worker; and,

"Whereas, Mrs. Ferry, in the years when her health permitted, maintained an active and intelligent interest in trade union affairs, rendering valuable service to the cause; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we deplore the passing of this good lady, and extend to Brother Ferry and other relatives our sincerest sympathy in their great loss; be it further

"Resolved, That copies of this resolution be spread upon our minutes, furnished the family of the deceased, and The Labor World for publication.

"C. W. SMITH,
"Z. B. BENDER,
"JOHN BOWMAN,
"Committee."

Speed-Up Systems Don't Create Work

New York.—"How can more labor be used under a system where one worker finds himself doing twice the amount of work he formerly did?" asks Thomas F. McMahon, editor the Textile Worker, official magazine United Textile Workers of America.

The labor editor is referring to the American Wool and Cotton Reporter's statement that output has increased 140 to 180 per cent within the last few years and that this will enlarge work opportunities.

Operatives in spinning rooms, this trade paper states, "tends 24 or 30 sides of spinning instead of 10 or 12 sides. The installation of automatic looms and the proper extension of their operation has cut the cost of weaving a full 50 per cent or more. In one New England mill, for instance—and there are hundreds of similar examples throughout the industry—on one staple construction, the weaving cost used to be 45 cents a cut and is now 15 cents."

The American Wool and Cotton Reporter shows that this speed-up system and automatic machinery is running through every department of the textile industry.

Instances are cited where a mill can produce in four days the same yardage and value that was produced a few years ago in five and one-half days.

The trade paper concludes: "The whole industry is being overhauled in this way to the advantage of the operatives (workers) because the lower the cost of the goods the greater the volume that can be sold and the larger the number of operatives who can be kept on the payroll."

Editor McMahon calls on the trade paper editor to show how more workers can be employed while speed-ups and automatic machinery is continuous.

One good turn deserves another. Your demand for the union label or union service will usually cause the other fellow to do the same for you.

GREEN'S APPEAL TO LEGISLATORS IS DISREGARDED

Women's 48-Hour Bill Is Amended.

CHAMBLISS SPEAKS AND VOTES "WRONG"

First Labor Bill Opposed by Hamilton Senator—Horton in Saddle.

By DAVID HANLY
Legislative Chairman, Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Nashville, Tenn., June 11.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, addressed a joint convention of the general assembly today. The time for his address interrupted the proceedings of the senate while it was considering the first labor bill that has been before either branch of the legislature this session.

After listening to Mr. Green's eloquent appeal to the chivalry of the manhood of America to decrease the long hours of toil of the childhood and womanhood of this country, the senators returned to the senate chamber and amended the bill to provide that the legal work week for women and children shall be fifty-four hours instead of forty-eight hours as provided in the bill. This bill was introduced by Senator Larson, of Shelby county, and Senator Clements, of Knox county.

Senators Larson, Clements and Fitzhugh made speeches advocating the passage of the measure. Senators Chambliss, of Hamilton county; Todd, of Sullivan county, and Coleman, of Marshall county, spoke in opposition to the measure.

The bill as amended was passed by the following vote:

Aye—Abernathy, Albright, Alexander, Anderson, Ault, Brown, Clarke, Clements, Cornelius, Craig, Doak, Fitzhugh, Graves, Kennedy, Larsen, Monroe, Priest, Riley, Vaughan, Mr. Speaker Broadbent. Total 20.

No—Chambliss, Coleman, Ewell, Faulkner, Jackson, McMahan, Spencer, Todd. Total 8.

Pass—Happel, Officer. Total 2.

The effort to impeach Gov. Horton failed in the house. The Horton followers are in complete control of the general assembly. The house today, after a bitter debate, adopted a resolution that had previously passed the senate, dismissing the probe committee and the auditors.

On next Tuesday the senate and house will meet in joint convention to elect Hon. Hill McAlister state treasurer and Hon. Ray Wallace, of Loudon county, comptroller.

There is a rumor here that Gov. Horton will appoint Edgar Graham commissioner of labor, thereby displacing the present commissioner, James M. Southall, who is a member of the Typographical union and a conscientious official. Mr. Graham is the present comptroller and as a member of the funding board was partly responsible for placing large amounts of the state's money in favored banks, thereby causing the state to lose over $3,000,000. Mr. Graham did not have the nerve to stand for re-election.

On account of the State Bar association meeting at Jackson, the general assembly adjourned today until Monday morning.

Trainmen Limit Hours To Assist Unemployed

Houston, Tex.—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, at their convention here, voted to limit the work day of members as a means of relieving unemployed. More than 10,000 trainmen are idle.

Working hours in yard service will be limited to 26 days, or 200 hours, a month; in freight service to 3,500 miles, or its equivalent, and in passenger service to 5,500 miles, or its equivalent.

The change will become effective within thirty days or as soon as the brotherhood's representatives can arrange for the change with railroad managements.

WAGE SLASH PROBE HELD IN WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis.—A majority of the legislative committee that has been probing wage reductions in this state report that reductions have been made in 88 per cent of the nineteen cases investigated. The minority, consisting of four members, assert that the evidence is not conclusive, as living costs may equalize the cuts.

The majority members charge that outside influences have been used on Wisconsin employers to still further reduce wages paid in tobacco warehouses "are unreasonably low, as compared with other industries."

The majority recommends an unemployment insurance law.

THE LABOR WORLD
810 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY
Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council
R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager
Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, JUNE 12, 1931.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—Has trade unionism gained in Japan in recent years?

A.—Yes. In 1923 there were 432 unions with 125,551 members and at present there are 650 unions with 342,379 members.

* * *

Q.—When did women enter the printing trades and when were they admitted to unions of the trade?

A.—Women began to work in the printing trades in 1832. In 1870 a union of women printers was formed in New York City, which applied to the International Typographical Union for admission and was chartered as a local union. Organization of women in separate unions was not a success and in 1872 they were admitted to membership in the union on equal terms with men.

Dance On!

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

What has Tennessee to worry about financially? Nothing, absolutely nothing. But what about the state's lost funds, its $83,920,000 indebtedness, its years of future struggling to overcome the wretched governmental management of the past two or three years? Aren't you plunging yourself into the depths of pessimism and dragging out well-hidden political ghosts when you talk, think or write about these insignificant things? What's the people of the state kicking about, anyhow—haven't they toll bridges to bring them in funds, together with a fine, big gasoline tax to help pay expenses and a perpetual tobacco tax to pour truck loads of pennies and nickles into the state treasury? What more do they ask for—if it could be thought of they'd get it! Sure, the state's finances are alright. Did the state lose a few millions recently? Just forget it! Why bring up unpleasant things like that. The fellows who let that money slip through their hands into Wall Street's pockets had no way of telling the crash would come. Why blame them for losing the state's money? And you fellows outside of the state who want to buy Tennessee's bonds, don't hesitate to buy them. They're as good as gold, for the people are going to pay up all their last losses and plug away in such style from now on that it will make you feel proud to own a few of their bonds. Such is the gist of information appearing in the June 5 issue of the Daily Bond Buyer, published by the New York Times. On, on, with the dance! The piper's piping his merriest tune! Out of the way, you clumsy clodhoppers who are stepping on the toes of the other dancers with your criticisms of their financial carousals! There, there, put up your popguns and call off your sniveling poodles, let the folks who know how to spend your money and enjoy it have a good time! Why do you insist on worrying them, anyhow?

CONTRACT RENEWED IN IRON INDUSTRY

Atlantic City—The existing wage contract between the Western Sheet and Tinplate Manufacturers' association and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers was renewed at a conference of officials of the two organizations.

RUN-DOWN and WEAK

"I began taking Cardui when in a weakened, run-down condition," writes Mrs. F. S. Perrit, of Wesson, Miss. "I took one bottle, and I seemed to improve so much that I sent for six bottles. After I had taken the six bottles, I seemed entirely well.

"Before I took Cardui, I was nervous, restless, blue and out of heart. I felt depressed all the time. After I took Cardui, all this disappeared.

"I gave my daughter Cardui and it helped to relieve irregular . . ."

This medicine has been used by women for over 50 years. E-170

Take CARDUI
Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

PLAYGROUNDS CLOSED.

Announcement, through the daily press, that local playgrounds will not be opened at the usual time, and intimation that these institutions may not be operated at all this summer, came as a distinct disappointment to thousands of citizens and taxpayers. Mr. J. A. Cash, commissioner of this department, is quoted by the dailies as saying that the $9,000 placed in his budget for operating the playgrounds has been diverted to the school-building upkeep, and unless a special appropriation is made they will not be operated.

The rather unusual situation has been the cause for considerable comment, citizens of all walks of community life recognizing the splendid results obtained by the expenditure of a relatively negligent sum annually for the maintenance of these most important adjuncts to the care of the youngsters.

The playground system was originated in Chattanooga by a group of public-spirited citizens, and maintained for several years by contributions alone. Its vast benefits being eventually brought to the attention of the authorities, however, the city government stepped in and took over the operation.

Thousands of youngsters have through the playgrounds been taken from the streets and alleys and provided with recreation under expert supervision, and thus has been removed a widespread and serious menace to life and limb, as well as affording a protection in the moral surroundings of our future citizens, and an excellent system of physical development.

To close this department at the present time with a wave of the hand and with a bland statement that the money appropriated for its maintenance has been "diverted" will not, we predict, be accepted complacently by the citizenship, and a protest "long and loud" may be expected if it shall develop that the recreation centers are to be abandoned because the money has been used for other purposes.

INTEREST IS NOT "WAGES."

An eastern financial journal explains that if bankers could put wages up or down at will they would not permit the reduction of "wages" of money. The "wages" of money (interest) has been reduced.

Here is the theory that labor is a commodity; that a human being, endowed with memory, understanding and will, should be classed with a medium of exchange. To say that interest on money is "wages," or what the worker receives as his portion of production, is the last word in dead-wood economy. If a banker is compelled to reduce interest charges —his alleged money "wage"—is his living standard affected? Must his children be taken out of school? Are they undernourished to the extent of his "wage" cut?

Suppose a business man asks for a loan of $100,000 and the banker tells him his labor costs are too high. What happens? The business man is forced to reduce wages—to lower living standards of his employes—that the banker may receive a higher interest rate.

To say that bankers cannot reduce workers' wages is to ignore realities. Bankers hold the key to the industrial situation because they control the nation's credit. It is significant that influential industrialists oppose wage cuts, but not one banker of standing has taken this position. They either openly favor reduction or reach the same objective by talk of "impersonal economic principles," as does the president of the American Bankers' association.

Money rates respond to competition. In the scramble for money to play the stock market two years ago, call money charges soared to 20 per cent and more.

Shall it be said that this situation, due to a frenzied gambling mania, must apply to human beings? Shall the methods of money changers and stock market riggers be the rule when human beings are involved? Shall living standards be debased by competition between employed and the millions of workless? Shall the depression be continued in intensified form by decreasing purchasing power of the people that bankers may be assured higher rates of interest?

GOVERNMENT BY LAW UPHELD.

The United States supreme court has ruled that equity cannot be substituted for law. The decision annuls a Minnesota statute that empowered equity to padlock any newspaper or publication the judge considered scandalous or defamatory. The law denies free press, said the court. A person who has a grievance against such publication has redress in the criminal and civil courts of that state.

The decision is a vindication of trade union opposition to the labor injunction that denies free press, free speech and free assemblage. Labor's position on the injunction is in line with the United States supreme court decision—maintenance of government by law.

Those who desire better living and working conditions must do their share to secure them. Demand union made goods and service.

THE AWFUL COST OF DEPRESSION

By WILLIAM GREEN

It has been estimated that the total decrease in wage payments in 1930 from 1929 was approximately $10,000,000. Although cost of living decreased 10 per cent. in 1930, this was not nearly enough to make up for the huge loss in workers' incomes. In manufacturing industries, in 1930, the income of all workers, in terms of the goods they could buy, was 29 per cent. below 1929. That is, their ability to buy the products of industry was reduced by 29 per cent., and our factories, mines and railroads lost accordingly. The human cost of this huge loss of income is measured in broken health, loss of education and opportunity for children, discouragement and despair, mental and physical deterioratoin.

Obviously, it is the solemn duty of the management of industry and business to face their responsibilities and meet their obligations to society. This fact cannot be evaded permanently.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
Part XXIX

The writer has very little more he wishes to record here in this series of articles in explanation of the differences existing in the written works of the first three evangelists whose works Christendom has unanimously designated "the gospels," viz., the books of Matthew, Mark and Luke. There only remains for me to point out a few facts relative to the gospel according to Matthew and then I shall pass on to a further consideration of the remaining saying of Jesus concerning money.

WM. L. MOSS

In an article the other week I said that the gospel of Matthew was written by a Jew, with a Jewish mind for Jewish readers. This is not a mere conjecture on the part of the writer, but is one of the accepted and known facts about the gospel. The writer of the gospel betrays these facts on every page he wrote of the New Testament book called by his name. There was a great deal of poverty in Jerusalem but Matthew with characteristic Jewish ability and training to fasten his eyes on the spiritual and find it in the solution for economic troubles is clearly manifest in the gospel he wrote. The hopes of those around him were all staked on the immediate return of Jesus during their own lifetime as the Son of Glory descending from the heavens come to reign forever on earth as its Righteous Judge, and they consoled themselves that this poverty and penury which was theirs now would last no longer than the return of Jesus to earth after His ascension following His crucifixion and burial. So they could afford to endure momentary hardships and persecutions while awaiting the Master's advent as their earthly ruler.

Accordingly throughout Matthew's work we find the spiritual tone dominating every page. Luke sees things more normally; he was uninfluenced in the main by this post-ascension return of our Lord which gripped the minds of so many early Christians and interfered with their thinking normal thoughts.

Matthew's gospel is precious to us in that it reveals on every page these characteristics, and because it does reveal them we do not have to bother ourselves with the question of whether or not his gospel is a real apostolic production—for it is! Its literary makeup, its religious thoughts and the spiritual ideas which dominate it from beginning to end make it plain to us that it is an authentic biography of Jesus Christ. In other words, if anyone wanted to palm it off as a late Christian document instead of the early document that it is he would have to rewrite it word for word, completely reverse its mode of thought and recast its spiritual tone to that of a more material outlook on life, for Matthew's gospel has too much of the "apostolic flavor" about it, and it is this "apostolic flavor" that unmistakably betrays its real origin—a book from the hand of a disciple of Jesus Christ!

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

The Massachusetts minimum wage commission reports that its only method of forcing employers to pay women workers decent wages—the publishing of names of employers who do not comply with its decrees—has been ineffectual in the case of textile firms which have been coming into Massachusetts, taking over unoccupied mill buildings and paying wages of $5, $6 and $7 a week and even $3 and $4 in some cases.

It is evident that "moral suasion" is not worrying these Massachusetts wage cutting employers. It probably won't work with many employers, as those so unintelligent and unprogressive as to pay starvation wages will respond to nothing except a club. Minimum wage laws need teeth. Without teeth, such legislation is of little practical value.

* * *

It has been pointed out in the past that there are too many gasoline service stations, resulting in cut-throat competition, which does neither the automobile owner nor the oil business any good. Now comes along the conservative Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and says the same thing in an annual report that is being hailed as one of the frankest financial reports ever issued by a big corporation. Says the report:

"The pressure of surplus supplies continued to expand retail outlets, of which there are now at least three for every one needed to serve the consumer conveniently and expeditiously. The amount of capital tied up in filling stations built in duplication of existing, adequate outlets is everywhere evident and the investment and labor charges incident to their operation account for a large part of today's high marketing expense. A moratorium upon the building of more service stations, closing those which cannot be operated economically and abandonment of unsound marketing practices would benefit the industry and public alike."

* * *

There are between 200,000 and 250,000 men out of work in our middle western oil fields. The annual loss is enormous. A great industry is tied up. Not only are the wages of the workers taken out of the spending field but the income is cut off for thousands of investors. Equipment is standing idle and deteriorating. Companies which make equipment and which would find this a rich field for sales, thus keeping thousands of their workers employed, feel the effect.

Undoubtedly the companies and individuals owning wells would be glad to produce oil and sell it on a basis of cost plus a very slight profit.

But perhaps it is a good idea to conserve that oil. Maybe it will be needed a hundred years from now, when there is no business depression.

Possibly that is what is in the minds of our government officials. It would seem so. It is easy to believe that they do not want the American fields to be worked.

Recently our navy department went out and signed a contract for nearly 5,000,000 barrels of oil to cost $2,260,110. They bought it from a foreign field.

* * *

Great discussion has arisen as to whether Mussolini has a censorship. His defenders say you can print anything you like in Italy as long as your opinions are not wrong. In other words, you can say whatever the dictatorship thinks is right.

That probably limits criticism to something like this: "Mussolini is a fine man."

Same kind of freedom of the press exists in Cuba and in Russia.

In presenting a token of esteem to W. C. Birthright at the recent federation convention, George Forbes concluded a jingle with the following lines:

"Every giant oak was once
A little nut like you."

You probably couldn't address those lines to Mr. Mussolini, or to Boss Machado in Cuba.

All joking aside, under a dictatorship Mr. Pro Bono Publico has to keep his mouth shut, except when he sings praises.

* * *

Mr. Mussolini has no very high opinion of the United States. Neither has Mr. Stalin, in Russia.

But there is a kind of plain speaking going on today in the United States that would make those tyrants writhe in anguish.

There is more constructive but critical examination of our institutions going on here than has ever gone on in any nation before. It is one of democracy's finest tests.

Other nations have seen as much and more criticism, but always it has led to destruction—its purpose was to plan for tearing down. Here it is to plan for making things work. The difference is considerable.

* * *

Under a tyranny, or under an oligarchy, Mr. Individual usually finds it expedient to point out how lovely everything is.

In a democracy he can say what he thinks about high and mighty institutions and if enough say things they can get action. As long as political government remains democratic there is a chance for freedom in every direction.

Political governments determine where the shooting is to be done.

That's why criticism is unhealthy in Italy, Russia, Cuba and a few other countries.

We may have grievous industrial evils and also grievous political evils, but as long as the people have enough grip on their political government to maintain freedom to speak, write and organize, they can get where they want to go.

It's when tyrants replace congresses that the shooting starts. One man has no trouble ordering out the firing squad. It's a different matter when there are elected representatives to be consulted.

The Russian masses will comprehend that some day—and so will the others.

What Next!

Electrical progress cannot be gauged unless the photo-cell is mentioned. About 600 uses have already been discovered. In Texas it is used for oil prospecting. Chicago police use it to detect whether a suspect is telling the truth. In the Holland tunnel it counts automobiles. In Pittsburgh it switches on lights in a school room. In Youngstown it causes ten-ton ingots to run from their shadows.

Phonograph records, electrically produced with a stethscope and microphone, now reproduce the sound of sick-heart beats, thus enabling physicians to listen to the characteristics of various cardiac disorders as they study the expert diagnosis that comes with the record.

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market
Our Advertisers are our friends

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

INDIGESTION

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest.

"I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted.

"Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."

—Clyde Vaughn, 10 Shippy St., Greenville, S. C.

Sold in 25¢ packages. E-69

Thedford's

BLACK-DRAUGHT

WOMEN who are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

"PUT YOUR LIFE IN BISHOP'S HANDS"

Volunteer State Life Insurance Company

J. W. Bishop, Mgr. Home Office Agcy

ASSOCIATES

E. E. WALLACE, B. A. PARK, E. K. FLUKER, B. W. RAWLINGS, E. L. WALTERS, E. L. BROOKING, W. E. WEBER, C. W. BRADLEY, J. J. HARRISON, RAY SEAGLE, H. M. JUDD, J. H. JARVIS, R. B. WITT

MISS MAGGIE LYNN PEEPLES

H. W. RAY, WINCHESTER, TENN.

B L & K R

Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

TAXI

Phone 7-1261

PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE

WATSON CAB CO.

PRIVATE CARS — METER RATES

208 West Ninth St.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45238

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Mamie G. Tucker vs. Joseph R. Tucker.

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Joseph R. Tucker is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication by made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next June rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in June next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken as confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 90th day of April, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45276

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

William C. Howington vs. Ola Bell Howington

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ola Bell Howington is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next July rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in July next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 9th day of May, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

L. Dixon, Atty. 6-5

DR. L. J. USHER

DENTIST

Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

7½ E. Seventh Street Phone 6-3612

Over Liggett's Drug Store

SWIM AT

Warner Park Swimming Pool

Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

WHAT brought about the Industrial Revolution? The answer is very simple: The event of inventions that bestowed on man the power to harness the forces of nature and make them do his will under his supervision and direction. This introduction of machinery into industry worked revolutionary changes also in the complex organization of business, but for the present let us consider in a broad way what were the effects in the lives of the workers. From the viewpoint of the workman's job it drove him from the vast open spaces of the mountainside and valley and crowded him into ill-smelling cities, robbed him of his little cottage industry and gave it to the factory, turned his personal skill into automatic precision, and changed him from natural craftsman to driven worker. From the viewpoint of the man's personal life the coming of machinery changed him from creator of his handiwork to a dumb watchers of a whirring mass of wood and iron, took away his ownership of his tools, gave him no time to think of his garden, surrounded him with a new social environment not of his own choosing, and placed his family's chances of living or starving on the whims and wishes of the employers. A world had come into existence, not from the hands of the Creator of all flesh but from the brain of man. In this world a society dominated that permitted starving and diseased 6-year-old boys and girls, flat-chested mothers, tottering grandmothers and soul-sick fathers and grandfathers to be herded into dust-filled, unclean, foul-smelling, ill-ventilated factory rooms in the morning, kept there for fourteen and sixteen continuous hours and released at night to return to their eating and bunk rooms they called their homes. It was the black, slimy maw of greed menacingly groping from out the depths of hell itself and suddenly crushing even innocency in its blind efforts to appease its insatiate appetite for wealth.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by deed of trust executed 3d day of October, 1927, by Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, to secure the indebtedness therein described, which deed of trust is of record in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book T, Vol. 25, page 464 et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions therein contained, and default having been made in the payment of several of the notes described in said deed of trust, said notes in the sum of Fifteen Dollars and one in the sum of Twenty-five Dollars; said notes payable monthly and the notes for January, 1931, and all notes since then, one each month, have been defaulted in the payment thereof, and have remained in default for more than thirty days after their maturity; and the holder of said notes having declared all of the same due and payable at once, and requested me to advertise and sell the property described in said deed of trust to satisfy said unpaid indebtedness, I, J. A. Long, trustee, will expose for sale and will sell in front of the west door of the courthouse, on Walnut street in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at 11 o'clock a.m. CST

SATURDAY, JULY 11, 1931,

to the highest and best bidder, at public outcry, for cash in hand, and in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot number one hundred and twenty-six in Bellview (sometimes called Belleview), Chattanooga Land Company's Addition No. 1, Being the same real estate conveyed to Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, by H. B. Langford and wife, F. L. Langford, about July 26th, 1926.

The title is believed to be good but will sell and convey as trustee only.

This 9th day of June, 1931.

7-3 J. A. LONG, Trustee.

NOTICE

The city of Chattanooga desires to purchase and have installed suitable stokers for approximately forty school buildings. Said stokers must be installed on the following terms: The city is to pay for the stokers and the installation of same, the amount actually saved on coal as a result of installation of said stokers. The city will keep an accurate account of the coal purchased each year and using the cost of coal for said buildings for the year 1930-31 as a basis, pay the amount saved to the city on its coal bill for said buildings each year on the purchase price and cost of installation of stokers until the purchase price and installation prices thereof have been fully paid.

The financial standing of the stoker dealer and also manufacturer submitting bids will be considered in awarding the contract for the purchase and installation of said stokers.

Sealed bids for the sale and installation of said stokers will be received at the office of the undersigned in the municipal building of the city of Chattanooga, Tenn., until 11 a.m., June 16, 1931.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

This 9th day of June, 1931.

H. D. HUFFAKER,
Commissioner of Education,
City of Chattanooga.

Postoffice Squibs

By R. B. LANE

Several of the boys at the office are getting their last few days of 1930 vacation. The Scotchman who presides over the parcel post delivery (J. T. McPherson) is off on vacation.

* * *

H. B. Massey was off entertaining his brother, who is visiting from Jacksonville, Fla.

* * *

Ask Frank Brooks about the giraffe party.

* * *

Ask Hick Lewis who won the turkey.

* * *

Brother Dailey and wife enjoyed the ball game Wednesday.

* * *

The committee which the Central Body appointed to visit the school houses and report upon their condition made a voluminous verbal report. But next time, gentlemen, please combine all in one report, as that will facilitate business before the body.

* * *

From Highland Park station: The boys are very well satisfied with their new quarters, all but the checker board. . . C. E. DeRochemont is back after a few days' illness. . . P. H. Jacoway and O. L. Farmer, delegate-elect from Branch No. 62 to the national convention, are planning and studying the road maps to California. . . Oh, yes, I forgot to say that Roscoe Talley eventually got the safe open after hearing from the makers.

* * *

W. J. Griffitts, No. 24 of the main office, is off sick. Sub Magill is working his route in his absence.

* * *

R. B. L. Stansberry is back on the job after a few days' vacation.

* * *

The National Association of Postoffice Clerks are electing a delegate to the national convention, which meets in Los Angeles, Cal., in September. Also are sending delegates to the state convention, which meets in Knoxville, Tenn., July 4. The Letter Carriers' band will accompany them.

* * *

Brother Dailey spent the last weekend in Atlanta visiting his son, who is attending college in that city.

TENURE FOR TEACHERS.

Madison, Wis.—Permanent tenure for teachers of the Milwaukee vocational schools became a fact when Gov. La Follette signed the Groves bill. This was one of the most bitterly fought measures of the present legislative session.

By the new law teachers in those schools go on probation for three years. If found satisfactory after that time they cannot be removed except upon written complaint and after hearing.

LOW WAGE INDUSTRIES COULD EASILY RAISE PAY

Twenty Per Cent Pay Increase for Nearly Four Million Workers Would Add Only 4.2 Per Cent to Factory Price

By W. I. NEWMAN

Let us take another look at these 151 industries which pay their workers less than the average wage of $1,308. They produce one-third of the entire manufactured products of the nation (33.5 per cent) and employ 44.6 per cent of the workers. They pay 34.5 per cent of the entire manufacturing payroll.

Taken by themselves, their average wage is $1,036 per year. That is $272 less than the average wage of all manufacturers. Two hundred seventy-two dollars is not very much money. It amounts, however, to $21.66 per month; or about $5.20 a week for fifty-two weeks. And if you have been living on sow-belly and grits—well, an extra $5 a week means having things and going places. And when you do not have it—it means the reverse; not having things and not going places. And these things and places are not fancy things and places. Not at all.

If Wages Were Raised to Average

It is interesting, and may be profitable sooner or later, to see just what it might involve if this batch of wage-earners—44 per cent of the manufacturing industry workers—were to have their wages raised up to the average of $1,308 per year. Multiply 3,805,235—the number of these workers—by $272, and we have the sum total by which the payroll would have to be increase in order to get this $272 wage increase for about 19,000,000 people—five to the family. The total amount to be reckoned with would be $1,035,023,920—just a little over one billion, thirty-five million dollars. Put that way, it sounds like a lot of cash.

That would be a raise in wages for these people of 20.7 per cent.

Boost Could Be Easily "Absorbed"

It could be done, and the amount "absorbed" in several ways. First, it could be added to the factory price of the product, which amounted to over twenty-three billion, two hundred million dollars. That would bring the factory price up to a little over twenty-four billion, two hundred million dollars. That would mean an increase in the factory selling price of FOUR and TWO-TENTHS (4.2) per cent.

One other way in which this raise in wages could be absorbed would be, to subtract it from the item of "Value added by manufacture." This is the part out of which is paid rent, interest, depreciation, taxes, insurance, advertising AND PROFITS.

Logical Place to Take Out Raise

Now, this part of the machine is overloaded anyway. This is the bump on the wheel of commerce which throws the thing out of BALANCE. This is the place where the PURCHASING POWER DISAPPEARS in the processes of business bookkeeping.

And this is the logical place to take it out.

Excepting taxes and advertising, every one of these is based on a claim of capital.

Big Rake-Off for Low Pay Group

The total item of value added by manufacture in these 151 industries amounts to $10,616,131,557—a little over ten billion, six hundred million dollars. That is 33.5 per cent of the total value added in all manufactures. THIS LOW-WAGE BUNCH OF INDUSTRIES GET THEIR SHARE, when it comes to the rake-off.

And the proposed increase of wages amounts to NINE AND SEVEN-TENTHS (9.7) PER CENT of the value added by manufacture.

Huge Profit of Food Producer

Now we have at hand an official report of one of the great food corporations. It shows that the total sales price of the products of fifty-one plants amounted to $117,463,867. And after covering cost of all sales, including manufacturing, selling, distributing and general expenses and other charges, and then for depreciation, and then for income taxes, the "net profit carried to surplus account" for the year 1930 (which was not the best year lately) amounted to $19,085,585.37—over 19 million dollars.

Great Net Profits Made

So we have a total sales price of over $117,000,000. And a net profit—clean—of over $19,000,000. That makes easy figuring, which shows that the net profit is 16.4 per cent of total sales. There is nothing left to be allowed for now.

Now, the total factory price of the products of these LOW-WAGE industries amounted to over $23,000,000. If we judge them by the great food corporation they make a profit—net—of about three billion, eight hundred million dollars. In which case they could take care of the proposed wage increase out of their net profits and still have nearly three billion left.

Workers Must Fight for More

But these people will claim that they are not so good—not in such profitable business as the food business. Perhaps so—let us cut their net profit in two in our calculations, and leave them only one billion, nine hundred million. They could still take care of their wage increase, and have almost one billion dollars clean profit left.

WILL THEY DO IT?

They probably will not—until

THE WORKERS FIGHT FOR IT.

KNOW Your Union Label

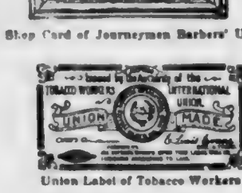
Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen

Glove Workers' Union Label

Bartenders' Button

Waiters' Button

Card of Union Bartenders



Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union

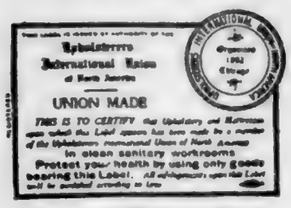
Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp

Card of Union Waiters

Union Label of Tobacco Workers

Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America

Bookbinders' Union Label

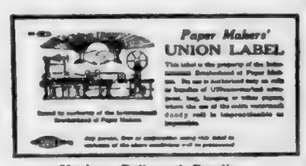


Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America

Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America

Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings

Coopers' Union Label



Used on Rolls and Bundles

United Leather Workers Union Label

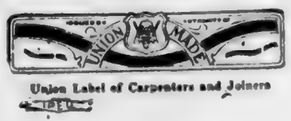
Store Card of Retail Clerks

Paper Makers' Union Labels

United Hatters of North America Label

Brick and Clay Workers' Label

Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers



Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners

Brewery and Whisk Makers' Union Label

Jewelry Workers' Union Label

Plate Printers and Die Stampers' Union Label

International Photo-Engravers' Union Label

Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union Label

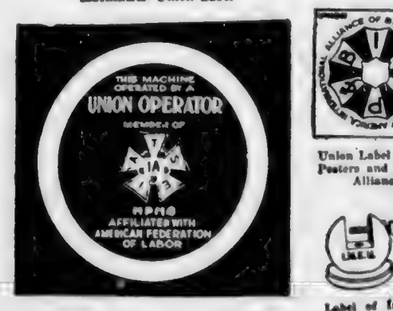
Union Labels of Electrical Workers

Local Pressmen's Union Label

Allied Printing Trades Label

Machinists' Union Label

Local Typographical Union Label



Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators

Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance

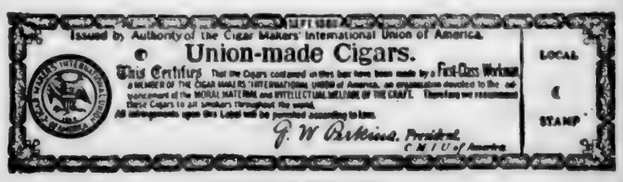
Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America

Label of Steel Metal Engravers' Union

Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union

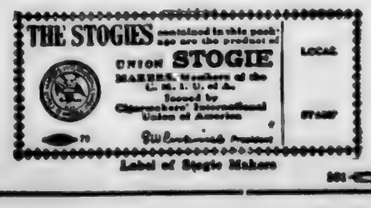
Union Label of Store Mounters

Emblem of American Federation of Musicians



Cigarmakers' Union Label

Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union Label



Label of Stogie Makers

A. F. of L. Label

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation

Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg. Opposite Central Market

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company

Ideal Service at Moderate Cost

Phone 6-6114

COAL

Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25

Honest Weight — Prompt Service

CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

SEVENTY-ONE CONTRACTS FOR MILLION DOLLARS OR MORE

St. Louis University Professor Points Out Wage Reductions Would Add to Demoralization of Industry. While Washington University Professor Urges Widespread Organization.

(By International Labor News Service.)

New York City, une 10.—Seventy-one building contracts, each for a million dollars or more, were let in the United States between March 1 and May 15, according to Truman S. Morgan, president of F. W. Dodge & Co. Thirty-one are being built by private interests.

"A theater in Chicago is to cost $1,500,000. Out in Texas an oil refinery is to cost $1,500,000," said Mr. Morgan. "A grain elevator in Kansas City, Mo., will cost $1,000,000.

"The larger part of this total is to be placed in buildings which service the public or are financed entirely by public funds. The four projects of this type aggregate $117,771.20 and include a vehicular tunnel in Boston to cost $16,000,000, a passenger depot in Waco, Tex., to cost $1,200,000.

"Not grouped in one large center but extended into many sections of the country, these huge expenditures will assure a happy distribution of their funds and the benefits they will spread."

EDUCATORS CONDEMN PAY CUTS, AND ADVOCATE TRADE UNIONISM

Government and Private Contruction Work Runs Into High Figures—F. W. Dodge Company President Tells of Huge Undertakings.

(By International Labor News Service.)

St. Louis, Mo., June 10.—Wage cutting was condemned and trade unionism strongly advocated by collegt professors, speaking at the unployment seminar, sponsored by the St. Louis social justice commission.

Dr. Roy B. Cave, of St. Louis university, in discussing "The Function of Business to Cure Its Own Ills," pointed out a general reduction in wages at the present time would be followed within a few months by an almost equal drop in prices, leaving the business world in much the same position in this regard as before.

"A slash in wages will bring no immediate improvement in employment conditions," he said, "and, therefore, will mean a further drop in the national payroll. This would be followed by falling prices because of the contraction in purchasing power.

Pay Cuts Demoralizing.

"This policy will result, moreover, not only in added misery but in considerable resistance on the part of the workers, a factor which will contribute toward the future demoralization of industry. The workers know only too well the difficulties associated with raising wage rates that once have been lowered.

"Everything considered, a much sounder policy to pursue under existing conditions is to reduce costs of operation by improving methods of production."

Prof. Charles L. Hodge, of St. Louis university, said that industry has been unable to sell its products because of the lag in the purchasing power of the American family. As an example he cited the fact that two-thirds of all families are still without radios, 60 per cent without ordinary electrical appliances, 60 per cent without telephones, and 30 per cent without bathtubs.

Union Best Pay Protector.

Prof. Ralph H. Fuchs, of Washington university, told the meeting that the trade union is obviously the most suitable form of organization to see to it that wages are maintained and that employment is protected.

"It is difficult to conceive," he said, "of a form of organization which can be more effective than this, which makes use of the power of those who are most immediately interested in the maintenance of wages and employment.

"The labor unions in this country have a great deal of difficulty in making headway. They have succeeded in entrenching themselves in a few industries and trades. But the general attitude toward them remains one of hostility.

Organize or Perish.

"Not as a measure of social justice alone, but as a means of self-preservation for the existing order and as an essential foundation for enduring prosperity, there must be widespread organization of workers in this country.

"In no other way can purchasing power be maintained so successfully or capital be prevented from rushing unwisely into enterprises which cannot contribute their share of adequately supported wage earners to the nation's economy."

PARAGON CAFE

(Circle Club Headquarters)

11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c

REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

MORE IDLENESS LOOMS.

New York.—"There are three gasoline stations for every one needed to serve the public," said W. C. Teagle, president Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, in his annual report.

He suggests that the building of these stations be ended and that others that cannot be operated economically be abandoned, as the present policy ties up capital and increases overhead charges.

HUGHES DECISION MAY MODIFY ALL INJUNCTION FIELD

Chief Justice Holds in Gag Law Findings That "Previous Restraint" Must Give Way to "Subsequent Punishment"—Logic Regarded Applicable to Industrial Cases.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, June 11.—"Previous restraint," the doctrine upon which almost all anti-labor injunctions are based, has been dealt a blow by the United States supreme court that may continue nito the industrial field and materially weaken the whole anti-labor injunction structure. The case in which this decision was rendered this week was the Minnesota newspaper gag law, which the court sent to its death.

The decision in this case was read by Chief Justice Hughes and is another in the chain of Hughes decisions made possible by the action of Justice Hughes in joining with the former minority—Holmes, Brandeis and Stone, reinforced by Roberts, who was appointed after the accession of Hughes.

"The fact that the liberty of the press," says Justice Hughes' decision, "may be abused by miscreant purveyors of scandal does not make any the less necessary the immunity of the press from previous restraint in dealing with official misconduct. Subsequent punishment for such abuses as may exist is the appropriate remedy, consistent with constitutional privilege. * * *"

May Change Labor Cases.

There is much feeling that, since the court dealt with free speech, as well as free press, in this decision, and since these rights are on a par with all other guarantees in the bill of rights, the decision may forecast a distinct attitude of the supreme court on the question of injunctions generally, as they are used to restrain labor.

The essence of this decision, as interpreted by many here, is that even though an attempted invasion of rights is thought possible, the constitutional rights of the possible offenders are as vital as are the rights of those who may be damaged and should not be infringed by "previous restraint," the due process of law being to punish if and when an offense is committed.

If the supreme court can decide that a newspaper is entitled to protection in the right of freedom to print until a law has been broken, trade union observers believe that unless the court flies in the face of its own logic it must hold that trade unions are entitled to and must hereafter have the same protection in equally fundamental rights, including the right of free speech. Trade unions have been enjoined repeatedly against speaking and printing matters of fact that, except for the injunction, were legally printable and legally proper in speech.

Creates "More Serious Evil."

A striking section of this latest Hughes decision points out that, while the Minnesota legislators may have sought to prevent an evil by making censorship and suppression possible by "previous restraint," the establishment of that new tyrannical power would be an even more serious evil. As the decision puts it:

"Charges of reprehensible conduct, and in particular of official malfeasance, unquestionably create a public scandal, but the theory of the constitutional guarantee is that even a more serious public evil would be caused by authority to prevent publication."

The conflict between previous restraint by injunction and due punishment after violation was thus the outstanding feature of the gag law case, as it is in every anti-labor injunction case. The court has taken a clear and determined stand against previous restraint in this case, and labor men here are inclined to the belief that having formulated a principle it cannot evade its own doctrine when the next injunction case comes up for decision. It is pointed out that if this logic holds the whole procedure in anti-labor cases will be at least vitally modified.

Private Aid Fails; Public Funds Lead

New York.—The alleged effectiveness of private relief during the business depression is not sustained, according to Ralph G. Hurlin, director of the division of statistics, Russell Sage Foundation.

In an address to the American Statistical association, Mr. Hurlin said that during the first three months of this year, $10,000,000 a month was spent for relief in seventy-five cities. Public agencies provided 71 per cent and private agencies 21 per cent. The balance came from mothers' relief and old age pensions.

Old age relief is destined to become a larger factor in this country, said Mr. Hurlin.

ALBERT H. HAWLEY DIES.

Cleveland.—Albert H. Hawley, secretary-treasurer Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen since 1909, died at his home in this city, after a long illness. He was born in Davenport, Ia., in 1866. He worked as a fireman and engineer from 1886 to 1901, when he was appointed inspector for the interstate commerce commission. He served as trustee of the brotherhood from 1895 to 1909, when he was chosen secre-

EAT
—with—
H. L. TRAVIS
1429½ Market St.
HOME COOKING
You'll Enjoy It

BIJOU

Chattanooga's Best Entertainment

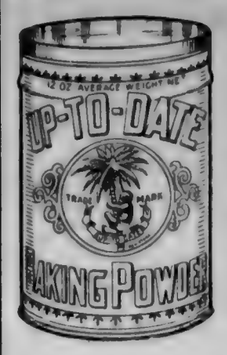
MONDAY — TUESDAY — WED.
"THE WIDOW FROM CHICAGO"
—with—
EDWARD G. ROBINSON, NEIL HAMILTON, ALICE WHITE
PATHE TALKING NEWS
VITAPHONE VARIETIES
LOONEY TUNE CARTOON

THURSDAY — FRIDAY — SAT.
"FATHER'S SON"
—with—
LEWIS STONE, IRENE RICH, LEON JANNEY
PATHE TALKING NEWS
VITAPHONE VARIETIES

NOTICE TAXPAYERS

The Hamilton County Boardof Equalization is Board of Equalization is meeting daily in the office of the tax assessor from 11 to 12 o'clock, a.m., for 25 days from June 1 to June 29, inclusive (Sundays excluded). Taxpayers who have complaints to make as to assessments made by the assessor on personalty or on real estate may appear in person or by attorney and present their claims.

W. A. Seagle, Chm.
Porter Poe, Secy.



Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feather

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS
CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSEE

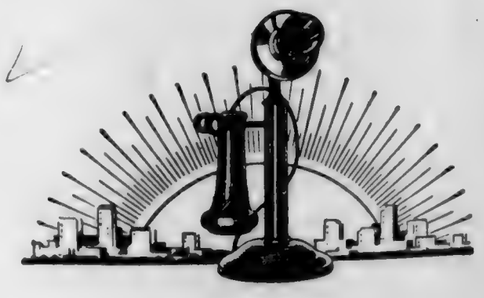
EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED
EASY WAY
SELF SERVICE GROCERY
417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

LARD Pure Hog Lard or Best Compound (Limit 4 lbs.) 4 Lbs. 35c
PINK SALMON Fresh Alaska, Regular 15c Tall Size Can 10c
BUTTER Our Two Extra Quality Brands, None Better Pound 24c
MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE Limit 2 lbs.—Lb. 27c
SUGAR Domino XXXX Powdered or the Browns Carton, Pound 7c
WINEDRIP The Better Coffee, Always Good Pound 16c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

IF YOU WANT THE
BEST
FLOUR
MADE
Buy—
Orient
Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga



It Really Doesn't Pay To Try To Do Without It

The telephone is such a familiar part of daily life that its convenience and value are often overlooked until it is out of service.

This is the experience of those who discontinue their service for one reason or another. They soon find that the small cost of the service has been repaid many times each month in convenience, in time and actually in money saved.

Telephone users constantly tell us that the cheapest service they can buy today, compared with its value, is telephone service.

There have doubtless been times in your own experience when your telephone service has proved priceless—when the ability to call instantly a doctor, a policeman or the fire department, could not be measured in terms of money.

But it is not alone the emergencies that give the telephone its true value. There are the commonplaces of every day conversations—the twenty-four hour a day convenience in the home, the shop, the office, whenever you wish two-way communication with anyone almost anywhere.

On reflection you will doubtless agree that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE and Telegraph Company
(Incorporated)

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

The following came to our desk:

"It's no wonder you have dandruff in your hair, the way you have to scratch to dig this stuff up."

* * *

Son—Dad, who was Shylock?

Dad—Goodness, boy! You attend the best college in this state and don't know why Shylock was! Son, you go and read your Bible.

* * *

When something has to be done we usually find a way to do it.

* * *

There isn't any objection to college training except that it postpones a fellow's education four years.

* * *

The average talking picture talks too much and says too little.

* * *

Edith—Gloria, what does your mother think of your father starting a beauty parlor?

Gloria—Oh, she's glad, Edith. She'll get to spend so much more time with him.

* * *

Wife—You don't love me any more. When you see me crying now, you don't ask why.

Husband—I'm awfully sorry, my dear, but these questions have already cost me entirely too much.

* * *

A hungry person is interested in only one thing and that is something to eat. And there is no reason why any person should be hungry in the United States today. . . A survey is planned to discover in which state women have greatest rights. Speaking offhand, we'd say the state of matrimony. . . Safe practices are often more important than safety appliances. . . In keeping with the current rage, there comes the miniature cocktail. One drink and in a minature out. . . After all, you never saw a woman lolling around uptown, leaning against a wall, and bragging about the work she used to do, did you?

* * *

Mother—Now, Clarissa, you must take a bath before you get ready for the party.

Clarissa—But, mother, I thought you said it was informal?

* * *

The surveying gang had come into this eating joint stragiht off the job and they were hungry.

Waitress (to one of the gang's biggest and toughest)—What'll you have?

Tough Surveyer—Beef.

Waitress—How do you want it?

Tough Surveyor (waving an enormous and impatient hand)—Oh, drive in the steer and I'll bite off what I want.

* * *

A woman in the suburbs was chattering over the back fence with her next door neighbor.

Mrs. D.—So are we.

Mrs. H.—What, are you moving, too?

Mrs. D.—No, we are staying here.

* * *

The democrats, with 1932 in view, don't seem to be able to make up their minds whether the party needs a platform or a wharf.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45359

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Georgia Robinson vs. James Robinson

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that James Robinson is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next July rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the 1st Monday in July next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 27th day of May, 1931.

TUM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

F. L. Dixon, Atty. 6-19

REPLEVIN NOTICE

No. 1486

Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee

Tennessee Electric Power Co. vs. Crabtree Transfer Co. and R. A. Dobbins

In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, a replevin notice having been served on goods in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant, and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., on Monday, June 29, 1931, at 11 a.m., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

This 4th day of June, 1931.

MILK DRIVERS UNITE.

Los Angeles.—Milk wagon drivers in this city have united. They are chartered by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

TAX CHAIN STORES.

Tallahassee, Fla.—The state senate passed a bill defining chain stores and imposing a special license tax thereon.

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI | CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, JUNE 19, 1931 | Number 8

HORTON'S BOYS FRAME A NEW INCOME TAX

Senate Passes Bill Sponsored by Governor.

CHAMBLISS SPEAKS, VOTES "AGAINST"

State Official, Power Interests Linked in New Investigation Proposal.

By DAVID HANLY
Legislative Chairman, Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Nashville, Tenn., July 18.—The senate today passed an income tax bill sponsored by the Horton administration. It levies a flat rate of 3 per cent on all incomes in excess of $2,500 a year. The measure was bitterly assailed by several senators, who said that it was designed to favor the railroads and public utility corporations. Senator Chambliss, of Hamilton county, was especially severe in his criticism of the measure, characterizing it as a messy, unscientific conglomeration.

On Wednesday the senate passed a bill taxing chain stores. This measure was also a Horton tax bill.

Senator Clements, of Knox county, today introduced a resolution to investigate alleged activities of Senator Haston. The resolution charges that there has come to the members of the senate on reliable authority that Haston has for years received a salary as attorney for the Tennessee Electric Power company or other person or persons upon whose property for tax assessment he sits in judgment as a member of the state board of equalization." Haston has served two terms in the state senate. His record there showed that he is a defender of privilege and a bitter enemy of labor. It was partly through his influence that the impeachment of Horton failed. The resolution comes up Friday for action.

The house has considered all this week the general appropriation bill and brought the total of raises up to $208,240, and only 18 of the 50 pages considered.

Both houses have before them bills providing for bond issues totaling $19,000,000, in addition to the $20,000,000 asked on Wednesday.

One issue for $9,000,000 is to refund highway notes that the governor said were "self-liquidating," coming due during the biennium.

One issue for $5,000,000 was to refund money borrowed in 1929 to meet a deficit at that time.

One issue for $5,000,000 was to cover a deficit that the administration knows will immediately accrue.

Representative Baswell made an appeal to the house today to enact some legislation to remedy conditions in the penal institutions of this state that he said were a blot on civilization.

The steering committee of the senate has placed on the calendar four labor measures and action on them is expected next week.

The house today adopted a resolution to adjourn July 2.

Carpenters Name Tollett President

Local 74, Carpenters, at the regular weekly meeting last Thursday night, named officers for the coming year, and some familiar names are found in the list of those upon whose shoulders will rest the responsibility for the local's affairs during the coming year.

The list, as given The Labor World, follows:

President—J. S. Tollett.
Vice-President—Lon Ault.
Financial Secretary—Z. B. Bender.
Recording Secretary—C. C. Ferry.
Treasurer—J. H. Lewis.
Business Agent—C. W. Smith.

Simplified Practice Saved $250,000,000

Washington.—Government aid to business men in standardizing and simplifying their output has enabled industries to save $250,000,000, according to Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce.

"Ten years ago," said Dr. Klein, "there were 552 patterns and dimensions of woven wire fencing on the market; simplification cut the total to forty-two. Once there were forty-two varieties of milk bottles; now there are but four."

Simplification runs through the list of industry, and has resulted in less capital being tied up in inventories.

SCHOOL REPORT IS COMPLETED BY COMMITTEE

Trades Unionists "Uncover" Rotten Situation.

ZIEGLER FOUND SAME CONDITION YEAR AGO

McDaniels' Committee Makes Thorough Job of Task Assigned.

Did Good Job

E. E. M'DANIELS
Chairman of Central Body Committee Which Found Rotten Conditions in City Schools.

Complete report of Central Body committee named several weeks ago to investigate reports of disintegration of city school buildings, was made this week to officers of the body, and released to the press for publication. A partial report, already made public, found unbelievably bad and dangerous conditions in practically every building investigated, and the complete report contains nothing to temper the preliminary announcement of the committee.

Forty-six schools were visited, and only one, the brand-new North Chattanooga grammar school, was given the O. K. of the committee. In a letter accompanying the report, which will be formally placed before Central Body at the regular meeting Monday night, it is stated, "Nearly every building throughout the system is in a deplorable state of disrepair. We have endeavored, however, to be conservative, and not in any particular to overestimate the actual necessities in reference to needed repairs. In addition to needed repairs here listed, we found overcrowded conditions in almost every instance, and in many cases the health and fire hazards were unbelievable."

Mr. McDaniels said the committee received every co-operation from school authorities, principals, teachers and others. He was loud in his praises of the work being done by the various parent-teacher units, and stated that had it not been for their interest, many of the buildings doubtless would have been closed.

Visiting each school, he declared, the committee took careful note of condition of plastering, brick work, roofing, guttering, plumbing, heating, wiring, lighting, painting and carpenter work, and reported in detail the absolute necessities in the matter of repairs.

Responsibility for the upkeep of city school buildings was very recently transferred to the department of education, after having been in charge of the department of utilities, grounds and buildings since 1927.

It is understood that a survey made by Charles Ziegler last year contained practically the same information "uncovered" by Central Body committee, and that Mr. Ziegler strongly urged a major program of repairs. Mr. Ziegler, who had been in the department for some eighteen years, was recently summarily dismissed by Commissioner James A. Cash.

Publication of the report has occasioned widespread comment.

It is expected that Central Body will name a committee Monday night to formally make representations to city commission with respect to the shameful conditions found.

What action will be taken by that body cannot, of course, be forecast, but the committee, it was declared, is prepared to stand behind every detail of its findings, and invites investigation by any fair-minded individual or group of the soundness of claims in the report.

PRESIDENT GREEN URGES HOOVER TO CALL NATIONAL CONFERENCE TO COPE WITH UNEMPLOYMENT

American Federation of Labor Chief Forecasts Winter of Bitter Suffering, and Pleads With Leaders of Finance and Industry to Meet for Sane and Fair Consideration of National Crisis.

President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, proposes that President Hoover summon a national industrial conference to cope with unemployment and he forecasts a winter of bitter suffering.

His views were made known in more detail than heretofore on release of the text of his recent address at dedication of the new headquarters building of the Barbers' International union. In that address President Green said:

"American working men are producing 50 per cent more than they did ten years ago. There is an example of efficiency and productivity.

"The fault lies in our faulty system of distribution. If there was equity, if there was fairness and justice in the distribution of the general earnings of industry there would not be a hungry man, woman or child in America.

Basis of Unrest Must Be Removed.

"And so we are thinking about this problem and its solution. I am certain, my friends, that we cannot continue as we are. The basis of social unrest must be removed. If not, even the very structure of our social order will be seriously menaced, if not greatly threatened. We have passed through two awful winters of unemployment, and if there is anything that tries the souls of men and women it is to go through these periods in the cold and bitterness of winter.

"And now it seems to me that we are inevitably facing another winter with our resources having been taxed to the limit, and yet we are going to be compelled, in my judgment, to call upon our resources for still further contributions to meet the urgent needs of millions of people in the larger cities and towns of the country this winter.

Labor's Remedies Best Yet Offered.

"The thing I wish to emphasize is this, that the great American labor movement has stood during all these trying experiences, showing wonderful patience and tolerance, offering remedies and suggestions only to have them refused. We still offer remedies and we believe that ultimately the representatives of the employing interests, the representatives of the government, the representatives of our financial institutions will be compelled to accept the remedies we offer and apply them in order that we may get back moving on the high road of social and economic prosperity.

"First of all, we have proposed that the president of the United States, in this emergency, shall assemble the representatives of industry, the representatives of the financial interests of this country, the representatives of labor, and outstanding economists, and there develop a sound, constructive economic program that will afford a remedy for the existing industrial ills.

"The representatives of the large employing interests of the country would not respond to an invitation offered them by the president of the American Federation of Labor, because while there are a number of employing interests who maintain contractural relations with organized labor and are friendly and sympathetic to our aims and purposes and our objects, the dominating, powerful interests of the country still hate the American Federation of Labor worse than they do even the communist organizations. That is a very strong statement, but nevertheless I am irresistibly driven to that conclusion.

Must We Face Winter of Misery?

"Now, my friends, how long is this going to continue? When will we develop an economic program? Are we to continue as we did and as we have been doing for lo, these many years? Is nothing to be done? Are we to sit facing another winter with our millions and millions of people hungry?

"There is one power that can command a conference and that is the people of the United States, through their chief executive, the president of the United States, and it is my opinion that such a conference should be held without any unnecessary delay, and the problem should be presented to that conference and they should be told they must find a remedy.

"Labor would propose to that conference that working men and women would be guaranteed job security, that when a man was given work he would be as secure in his job as the stockholder would be in his investment in the concern, and that the worker, having accepted employment, would have a claim upon the industry or have a share of the work so far as it was possible for industry to give it.

"The one cruel, inhuman policy pursued by employers of labor is this, that when the periods of cyclical reaction set in, the first thing is to discharge thousands of working men, turn them adrift for the cities to feed. That is not right in America. There is an obligation resting upon industry and that is to give the man an opportunity to work to earn a decent living. His job represents a claim upon industry just as valid, morally at least, as the claim of the stockholder for ownership in the concern or in industry.

"Those are some remedies that we offer. We say that if a plant has two thousand men that have a job each one has a claim. When conditions change and work slows up, instead of discharging one thousand, let them reduce the hours of labor per day and the number of days per week, so that these two thousand men can have a share of the work in the factory.

"I want to see every man given the opportunity to work and earn a decent living, and how can he be given the opportunity to work and earn a decent living if he is to be discharged? I maintain that if industry had inaugurated the five-day week months ago, and if they would reduce the hours of labor to square with the industrial demands even of this period of unemployment, instead of having six million idle men in the country that number would be reduced to at least 50 per cent of that number.

"Who is going to bring this about? Who is going to change it? How is it going to be changed? In my judgment, only through a conference such as we have suggested, where the cards will be laid on the table, the employers and the leaders of government can see and understand that we are face to face with almost a crisis in American life, that out of it may come and must come better planning, pledging to give to the workers security in their jobs, a reduction in the number of hours per day, in the number of days per week, a balance between production and consumption, so that there will be a steady flow of goods from the point of manufacture to the market. It requires better, more substantial, more constructive economic planning than the country has ever seen or ever known."

UNIQUE HOT MONTHS PACT MADE BY STAGE WORKERS

Rebate Plan Arranged to Take Circuits Over Slim Summer Weeks Is Expected to Hold Unemployment of Alliance Members to Minimum and to Hold Wage Rate Intact.

A working agreement between the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada and the representatives of six major theatrical circuits —including Paramount, Fox, Loewe, Warner Brothers, Radio-Keith-Orpheum and Universal—in a vote by the local unions just taken, received a vote of approval by 426 local unions, having a membership of 19,422, with a negative vote from 139 local unions having a membership of 5,269.

The effect of the management is to let the existing contract wage agreement stand; but to allow a 5 per cent rebate on the wages of all union members not exceeding $60 per week, and a 7½ per cent rebate on all wages exceeding $60 a week, for a period of ten weeks from the date of the agreement becoming effective, which was on or about June 8.

It is understood, President William F. Canavan informed The Labor World, that this vote is not binding upon the local unions which have not approved it, since they have complete local autonomy in the matter of their contracts with their own local employers. It is also a part of the plan that where local unions have already made reductions or allowances to employers in respect to the wages, that shall be included in the proposed rate or allowance. It is expected that slightly in excess of 8,000 members will be affected.

At the end of the ten-week period, it is understood that the present wage agreements shall automatically become effective again; the purpose of this arrangement being to tide the companies over the hard period of the hot months, while at the same time making possible the continuance of working conditions on a compromise basis.

The approval of this compromise agreement, in its unusual form, by so large a number of local unions, is regarded by the international officers as a distinct advance in the field of trade union contracts under difficult conditions.

E. E. Crosby Heads Electrical Workers

E. E. Crosby, active member of Local 175, Electrical Workers, who has served as vice-president of that local during the past year, was elevated, Tuesday night, to the presidency, and a full list of new officers was named to serve during the next twelve months.

With Mr. Crosby will be the following official family:

Vice-President—B. A. Koebler.
Financial Secretary—C. A. Frost.
Treasurer—W. L. Williams.
Recording Secretary—R. C. Duncan.
Business Manager—E. E. McDaniels.

Delegates to Chattanooga Trades and Labor council and other appointive offices will be filled by President Crosby after the installation of officers at next regular meeting of the local, Mr. Crosby said.

Philadelphia to Spend $3,000,000 To Aid Jobless

City Council, Told Worst of Depression Is to Come, Approves Big Municipal Loan for Unemployment Relief.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Philadelphia, June 17.—The city council at its last session passed an ordinance providing for a $3,000,000 loan for the relief of the unemployed, using for this purpose the additional emergency municipal borrowing capacity recently authorized.

In the discussion of methods of disbursing the funds thus to be secured, it was proposed to turn the entire matter of disbursement of all such funds over to Horatio G. Lloyd, giving him a special appointment in the department of public welfare. Mr. Lloyd agreed to this, with the proviso that he be given full control of all disbursements.

On being asked whether this sum of $3,000,000 would be sufficient to carry through the situation until January, 1932, Mr. Lloyd said that he would undertake to see that it did so, if he could have full charge of its disbursement. He stated that the funds used in May amounted to $490,000. Councilman Hall told the city council that the worst period of the depression and of unemployment is still to come, and that the peak will not be passed until next January.

One good turn deserves another. Your demand for the union label or union service will usually cause the other fellow to do the same for you.

HUNGRY TOTS DENIED SCRAPS FROM GARBAGE

Little Ones Barred From Militia Kitchen Refuse.

MINERS MAKE GAIN IN WILDER FIELD

Sign Contract With Big Concern—Aymon, Cheek Appeal for Aid.

COAL AND IRON POLICE TO GO

(International Labor News Service)

Harrisburg, Pa., June 16.—By executive order Gov. Pinchot will abolish the coal and iron police July 1, the governor has announced. Two bills for that purpose failed in the legislature, but the governor says he made a pledge of abolishment which he intends to fulfill. The Pennsylvania coal and iron police, paid by the state, under orders of mine owners, rank with the blackest police forces in state labor dispute records.

Cheering news comes to local trades unionists this week to temper the reports of actual starvation and want among the mine workers of Tennessee and Kentucky.

Announcement is made that one of the largest mining companies in the Wilder, Tenn., field has signed an agreement with officials of the United Mine Workers and the local union there which guarantees relief at least from the unfortunate conditions under which these workers have been forced to exist. Also, it was stated that negotiations are now under way with the two other companies in this same field, a proposal having been received from the operators and countered by the workers.

The above, it was said, followed a strike order in the Wilder field, agreement having been made with the former concern before the walkout took effect. The strike order is now in force against the latter two companies, but confidence was expressed that an early agreement would be reached.

By the terms of the contract, which affects several hundred men, the iniquitous and un-American "yellow dog" is abolished, and many features are incorporated which insure to the workers a return of their rights as American citizens, it was said.

In other sections of Tennessee and Kentucky, however, no relief is as yet in sight with respect to peace between the warring factions.

FEDERATION OFFICIALS ISSUE APPEAL.

Paul J. Aymon, president, and W. E. Cheek, secretary, of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, this week issued an appeal to central bodies and local unions for financial assistance for the stricken families of coal miners in Tennessee and Kentucky. It is pointed out that the United Mine Workers, because of unemployment and lockouts in various fields, are unable to render major aid, and trades unionists of all crafts are urged to contribute to the cause of these sorely-tried brothers in their own state.

The communication of the state labor officials calls attention to the deplorable conditions now existing in various fields. It is pointed out that, in spite of the order of mine owners that no employe should join a labor union, over 500 in Tennessee made application for membership, without any solicitation whatever.

"The conditions created by coal operators have caused strikes in some instances," the statement declares. "In all instances it has caused hunger and want. In Kentucky, in Harlan county, children were denied the scraps from the mess kitchens of soldiers, which had been consigned to the garbage cans."

The appeal, copy of which was furnished The Labor World Thursday, follows:

Deplorable conditions now exist in the coal mine fields of Harlan county, Kentucky, and in Fentress and Overton counties, Tennessee. These conditions are the result of the attitude of the coal mine operators. They deny their employes the right to join a union. In many instances they compel them to work under armed guards. They are compelled to trade in companies' commissaries, where they are charged exorbitant prices for the necessities of life. In order to retain their jobs they are forced to sign yellow dog contracts.

These intolerable conditions have caused the coal miners to rebel and join the union. Without solicitation of any union representative over five

(Continued on Last Page)

MORE PROTESTS FILED AGAINST CASH'S ACTION

Discharge of Ziegler Remains Topic Discussion.

CIRCLE CLUB AND ELECTRICIANS ACT

Latter Resent Dismissal of Ziegler "and Other Unionists" From Department.

Continued protests against the summary discharge of Charles Ziegler, superintendent of parks, by Commissioner James A. Cash were the rule this week, but the city commission was powerless to overturn the action of the department head. Several communications were read to the board in regular session Tuesday, and filed.

Included in the above was a strong protest from Circle club, which adopted the following:

"Moved, That this organization, nearly all individual members of which, at the solicitation of Charles Ziegler, supported Commissioner James A. Cash for re-election, resent the discharge of Mr. Ziegler as superintendent of parks, after faithful and efficient service over a period of eighteen years; and that we have no sympathy for the 'alibi' of 'economy' which is the published reason for said action."

Action of the club was transmitted to the commission, and filed along with other similar communications.

According to reports, however, Mr. Ziegler is by no means the only member of organized labor to "walk the plank" in the parks department since the recent election, trades unionists pointing to several who have recently felt the axe, and the impression is that the department head apparently decided to "clean house" for the coming term.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS FILE PROTEST.

At the regular meeting Tuesday night, Local 175, Electrical Workers, discussed the unfortunate situation in the parks department, the local having a member, Fred Ziegler, who was among the victims of the "economy ripple" at the city hall. A resolution was drafted by a committee protesting the discharge of Mr. Ziegler "and other members of organized labor" by the commissioner, and soliciting public support in a movement to have them reinstated. The Electricians' resolution follows:

"Whereas, Brother Fred Ziegler, son of Charles Ziegler, long-time employe of the department of public utilities, grounds and buildings, has been dismissed, along with his father and others, after rendering competent service to the city; and,

"Whereas, Mr. Ziegler, Junior, is a member in good standing of this organization; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we resent and protest the discharge of our fellow-member by Commissioner James A. Cash, as well as other members of organized labor, and we appeal to the public for support in our efforts to secure a 'fair deal' for all members of organized labor displaced by the commissioner; be it further

"Resolved, That copies of this resolution be furnished the city commission, the daily press and The Labor World for publication."

During his eighteen years' service to the city of Chattanooga, the former parks superintendent made an enviable record, recognized by every department head, and it is understood arrangements will be made to place the veteran in another department, thus forestalling a most unenviable position in which he was placed by the summary action of Commissioner James A. Cash.

City Playgrounds To Open as Usual

City playgrounds, despite the fact that the commissioner of parks diverted the money provided in his budget for their operation, will be opened as usual, and operated, possibly on a smaller scale, for the balance of the summer.

City commission on Tuesday passed on first reading a resolution reimbursing the parks commissioner in the amount necessary for operation of these recreation centers.

Circle club, at the regular meeting Monday night, named a committee to draw resolutions deploring the announcement that this very important feature of the city's work would possibly be abandoned for the year, and the thousands of dollars' worth of equipment allowed to remain idle.

Although there has been considerable speculation as to why the diverted funds should be charged particularly to the playgrounds budget, announcement that a special appropriation will be made was a matter for general gratification.

THE LABOR WORLD

319 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 19, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, JUNE 19, 1931.

Blind

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

We say we fought a few years ago to "make the world safe for democracy." We seemed to think that as a nation we had advanced far enough along the scale of civilization to pause for a brief period and assist the world to fight out its problems. But from some indications then and to this very day it looks like we were neither far enough advanced culturally or economically to go out of our way to help anybody! We were blind leaders of the blind! Now to prove my point look where my finger is pointing—down the road there you see Ripley, Tenn. Those poorly dressed folks are working at a peach crate and strawberry basket making plant. There's 140 of them and the company's payroll total is $1,400 a week. Just $10 apiece for each worker for wages. And now turn this way—see where my finger is pointing—down this other highway you see Clarksville, Tenn. "And what is that crowd of people doing down there?" Oh, they're going into that shoe factory you see on the right. Count 'em as they go in—one, two . . . fifty-four . . . seventy-six . . . one hundred! Yep, one hundred of them. And that shoe factory's payroll is $1,000 a week. Each worker gets ten bucks at the end of every week. "Say, who is that fellow going into the plant with the brown denim overalls on?" Oh, that's the father of nine children . . . the world ain't safe for democracy yet!

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—Is the United Mine Workers of America an industrial organization?

A.—Yes. It includes in its membership all workers employed "in and around coal mines, coal washers and coke ovens on the American continent."

* * *

Q.—When were the first trade unions in Canada formed?

A.—There are records of a printers' union in Quebec city in 1827; in Toronto in 1832; in Montreal in 1833, and in Hamilton in 1833. The Toronto union lapsed during the rebellion of 1837, but was revived in 1844 and has had a continuous existence ever since. The Toronto Typo union (now International No. 91) has had the longest continuous life of any Canadian union.

What Next!

Seeking a method to economize power losses in transmission, the British government subsidized a Russian scientist, Dr. Peter Kapitza. In a $75,000 laboratory at Cambridge university, Dr. Kapitza is discharging powerful electrical pulsations through metal frozen to the temperature of liquid hydrogen, which is below that of liquid air.

Those who desire better living and working conditions must do their share to secure them. Demand union made goods and service.

PAINS QUIT COMING

"When I was a girl, I suffered periodically with terrible pains in my back and sides. Often I would bend almost double with the intense pain. This would last for hours and I could get no relief.

"I tried almost everything that was recommended to me, but found nothing that would help until I began taking Cardui. My mother thought it would be good for me, so she got a bottle of Cardui and started me taking it. I soon improved. The bad spells quit coming. I was soon in normal health."

—Mrs. Jewel Harris, Winnsboro, Texas.

Sold At All Drug Stores. E-171

CARDUI
Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

THE CHERRY TREE

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

In 1929 Bethlehem Steel corporation paid to Eugene G. Grace, salary and bonus, as president of the concern, a total sum of $1,623,753.

Last year American Tobacco company paid to George Washington Hill, in a similar capacity for that company, a total of $2,283,000.

In 1929 Westinghouse Electric company increased its surplus by thirty million dollars, making a total surplus of ninety million dollars. But it cut down its dividend this year by about one dollar.

Eighty-two companies, according to Wall street reports, paid out a total of $192.35 per share to stockholders; but paid back into their surplus funds an average of $313.38 per share.

Thirty-one other companies, who paid their stockholders nothing, paid into surplus at the rate of $42.50 per share.

Query: If this money had been paid out in wages, would the Wall street collapse of 1929 occurred?

* * *

Justice Sutherland, of the United States supreme court, in a recent decision establishing the criminal aspects of reckless driving, said:

"An automobile is potentially a dangerous instrumentality, as the appalling number of fatalities brought about every day by its operation bear distressing witness.

"To drive such an instrumentality through the public streets of a city so recklessly 'as to endanger property and individuals' is an act of such obvious depravity that to characterize it as a petty offense would be to shock the general moral sense."

There is food for serious thought in Justice Sutherland's rather sizzling opinion.

"An act of depravity" is a good definition of reckless driving.

* * *

A dispatch from Washington, Pa., drives home the lesson that nation-wide union organization is necessary, if union wages and working conditions are not to be menaced.

The dispatch says that representatives of 1,800 coal miners, striking against the wage scale paid by the Carnegie Coal company, were told by the vice-president of the company that his concern would not consider recognition of a miners' union until the miners in the southern field have been thoroughly organized.

"It is impossible for us to compete against the non-union fields of the south," he is reported to have said. "We will try to give you a living wage."

Whether what the official said is true or not is beside the question. It is the kind of argument union men are up against in many sections.

Union men who think that they have nothing to worry about because their trade is organized in their particular locality are mistaken. As long as their trade is unorganized in any section, their standards are threatened.

* * *

The shame of the American intelligentsia will be heralded some day as a pretty black business.

Today these high talkers ride pretty high, wide and handsome.

Of course, they are free to talk—and that is good and as it should be.

It is their talk that is disgraceful and wrong—not their right to talk.

We find tyranny praised as though it were the expression of a paradise. We find men who ought to appreciate freedom extolling unfreedom.

Well, all things right themselves in time, though sometimes at terrific cost. For the present there is freedom in the United States. We shall have it as long as we value it and know how to use it, the intellectuals to the contrary notwithstanding.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

FOR a thorough understanding of the Industrial Revolution a few dates and what they signify are necessary. Up to the close of the first quarter of the eighteenth century production remained in the slow handicraft stage, but in 1738 Kay invented the flying shuttle and twenty-two years later (1765) James Watt, a 29-year-old instrument maker, conceived the idea of the separate condenser for the steam engine. Watt's first successful steam engine was finished in 1776 and by 1800 steam engines were in universal use. Two years after Watt thought of the idea that solved the obstacles preventing the use of a steam cylinder that was both hot and cold at the same time, or in 1767, Hargreaves completed the spinning jenny. Four years later (1771) Arkwright perfected his roller spinning machine. A few years later Crompton ingeniously combined Arkwright's roller and Hargreaves' spinning jenny. In 1785 steam replaced hand and water power in the spinning industry.

Revolutionary processes were also taking place in the iron and steel industries. Steam transportation was a reality. Even the economic thinking of men was changing. All this took place within the course of a few decades, not centuries! A study of the mental changes that were taking place at this time in men's minds will be our subject next week, for it is these mental changes that once and for all served to separate industry into two forces, labor and capital.

Public Health Plan Backed by Unionists

Albany, N. Y.—A public health bill, before the state legislature, is favored by the New York Federation of Labor, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Order of Railway Conductors.

The bill was drafted by Gov. Roosevelt's special public health commission. It sets up well-staffed county health departments, preserves local control, assures efficient medical and nursing service and provides for additional hospitals to accommodate larger number of curable patients.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
PART XXX.
Mk. 6:7-9, 12

WM. L. MOSS

The article of last week closed a series of six which were a digression from our study of Jesus' teaching about money in order to fix in our minds the relative value of the four gospels. This study arose from a passage quoted as one many claimed revealed the fact that Jesus did not expect workers in His name to accept remuneration for their efforts. The passage (Mk. 6:7-9, 12) has sometimes been used to question the right of ministers and others to accept a salary for the services they render our Lord through work in His kingdom. To many of us any such argument sounds extremely foolish—to others it is good and valid reasoning to say that in this passage Christ clearly reveals He did not expect workers in His name to accept money for their services. But does the passage justify in declaring such to have been the mind of Jesus? It certainly does not—no more so than does the passage wherein Jesus is quoted as sending to John the Baptist, then in prison, the message that "the poor have good tidings preached to them" suggests that His gospel must to this day be preached only to the poor! Nobody interprets Jesus' message to the Baptizer in that sense and certainly the passage in Mark ought not to be interpreted to mean that Jesus by sending His first band of disciples out without money was setting the precedent that His workers through all the ages were to go out penniless to toil in the vineyard of the world. Mark's gospel, the first written account of our Lord's life, is elementary in every chapter and in this passage in the sixth chapter he merely records one of our Lord's "orders" to His first group of followers. This is characteristic of Mark. We must not forget that later on Jesus and His little head of disciples possessed a money bag—for did not Judas steal from it? But to return to the passage in Mark. Naturally Jesus was anxious in sending out His followers for the first time would want to know if the people were interested enough in Him as a teacher in Israel to honor His representatives amongst them to preach to support them. The gospels record the fact for us that the people did support these first preachers as they moved from town to town, for the returned disciples gave glowing accounts of the good work they had accomplished when on their preaching tour. One of these bands of first preachers our Lord sent out, consisting of seventy men, have their account of what transpired while they were traveling among the people and preaching recorded in Lk. 10:17-20.

OFFICIALS VIOLATE THEIR OATH WHEN THEY REFUSE FREE SPEECH

(By International Labor News Service.)

Harrisburg, Pa., June 11.—Gov. Pinchot has written a scathing letter to Elwood K. Bean, burgess of Lansdale, this state, who refused to permit the Hosiery Workers' union to meet in that borough.

The governor called on the town executive to permit the workers to exercise their American right of free speech and to provide adequate police protection.

"If the constitution of the state and the nation mean what they say, then free speech is a fundamental right of every American citizen, and the denial of free speech is unlawful," said Gov. Pinchot.

"Both you and I are sworn to uphold the constitution and the laws of the United States and this commonwealth. I call your attention pointedly to this fact, and to the very fact that obedience to the constitution is the duty of every American citizen, including yourself.

"Entirely apart from the constitutional right of free speech, it has been demonstrated times beyond number that the policy of denying this right is dangerous and ineffective and has the direct result of advancing instead of repressing the cause against which the denial is made. The surest way to spread any doctrine or to disseminate any set of opinions is to forbid people to mention them in public. Even savages, who perpetuate the names of their dead chiefs by forbidding the speaking of their names, have learned this fact.

"Local police officers are properly charged with the duty of maintaining order within their jurisdictions. The just purpose of ordinances governing disorderly conduct and other similar offenses is most certainly not, however, to enable local officials to exercise a censorship over the kind of orderly public meetings which can or cannot be held.

"To prevent meetings held in support of the right of labor to organize is to deny a right which the constitution,the laws and the judicial decisions of Pennsylvania specifically recognize. We have long passed the time when there was any doubt about that."

Man's Rigid Opinions Fixed at Early Age

New York.—"There is but a small minority of human beings who grow intellectually after 23 or 24," said Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, in an address to the annual meeting of the American Association for Adult Education.

"Most people, after these ages, settle down to likes and dislikes, habits of living and close their minds," said Dr. Butler. "Education is too often confounded with school instruction. While the school has a large part to play it is only one highly organized instrumentality of education."

Dr. Butler said a closed mind cannot cope with present day political, industrial and social changes.

"These problems are solved only by those whose minds are not made up for once and all, who have elasticity of temper and whose feelings are not hardened."

State "Red Flag" Law Voided by High Court

Washington.—The California "red flag" law, as construed by the courts of that state, is repugnant to the guaranty of liberty of speech contained in the constitution, ruled Chief Justice Hughes, of the United States supreme court.

The opinion states that "the maintenance of the opportunity for free political discussion to the end that government may be responsive to the will of the people and that changes may be obtained by lawful means, an opportunity to the security of the republic, is a fundamental principle of our constitutional system."

The district court of appeals of California ruled that the "red flag" law included "peaceful and orderly means and within constitutional limitations."

Chief Justice Hughes handed down an emphatic dissent against such an opinion.

THOMAS REDDING DEAD; WAS POPULAR UNIONIST

Chicago.—Thomas Redding, first general vice-president Sheet Metal Workers' International association, died at his home in this city.

The funeral was largely attended by trade unionists and other acquaintances of this popular trade unionist.

He was a representative of his international at seventeen conventions of the American Federation of Labor. He was an outstanding figure among organized building craftsmen.

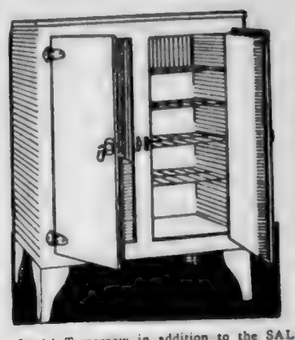
FOOD LABELS IGNORED.

Washington.—A tendency to ignore both the spirit and letter of the federal food and drugs act has developed recently in certain sections of the food trade, according to the federal food and drug administration.

"It is extremely rare," said Dr. Frisbie, "to find an instance where net weight statement does not appear on food in package form, but not at all unusual to find the statement as to quality and contents either faintly legible or small type, not always on the main label and all too frequently obscured by legends or pictorial designs."

Rhodes-Jones Dollar Day!

FREE--500 Pounds of Ice



With These All-Metal Side-Icers $29.75 Values $23.95

Look! Tomorrow in addition to the SALE PRICE on these maximum 50-pound side icers . . . you get 500 pounds of ICE FREE with every all steel box. Money Saving INSULATION soon makes this refrigerator pay for itself.

$1.00 DOWN

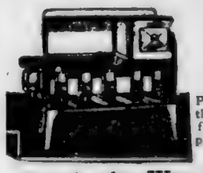
A Real Sun Room Value

Pay Out of Your Income — $1 Sends It Home — Choice of Colorful Covers

3 Pieces $24.95

OVERSTOCKED . . . That's the reason for this TEN DOLLAR reduction of fiber suites tomorrow . . . colorful . . . comfortable and cool. Ideal for year-round use . . . strong reinforced frames . . . each cushion cretonne covered with inner coil springs. . . . Entire Stock at Sale Prices

OIL STOVES



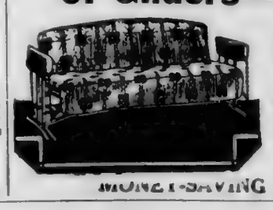
Complete With Built-In Oven $36.95 $55 Values

Pretty green enameled oil stoves that give a continual high blue flame . . . and SAVES oil . . . as pictured.

$1.00 DELIVERS

Here's the Way We Reduce Stocks

Clearance! Entire Stock of Gliders--Priced



$7.95 Up

Season is late . . We're taking drastic reductions NOW . . . At a time that you need the Gliders for Summer comfort.

$1.00 DELIVERS

MONEY-SAVING SAVOIL

RHODES FURNITURE COMPANY JONES

608 Market Street Chattanooga, Tenn.

The Modern Gas Range Offers You An Easier More Dependable Way

INSTEAD of kitchen drudgery—baking failures—anxious hours of oven watching, you simply set the oven heat regulator, then forget about the cooking until time to serve.

There's actually that much difference between cooking on an old cook stove and cooking on the modern gas range. Besides it's more economical.

Stop In and See the Beautiful New Roper

And Magic Chef Gas Ranges Now Offered On Convenient Terms

Cook With Gas—It's the Convenient Economical Way

BUT to fully appreciate the advantages of cooking with gas you must actually see our display of beautiful, new gas ranges.

Why not plan to come in tomorrow? Inquire about the time and trouble saving features. Examine the porcelain oven linings and roomy service drawers. Take advantage of the prevailing low prices.

Chattanooga Gas Co.

"PUBLIC-BE-PLEASED" SERVICE

BILIOUS

"I have used Black-Draught . . . and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—H. C. Hendrix, Somerville, Ga.

For indigestion, constipation, biliousness, take

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

WOMEN who need a tonic should take CARDUI. Used over 50 years.

B & K R

Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, safe, Sure.

TAXI

Phone 7-1261

PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE

WATSON CAB CO.

FISHER CARS — METER RATES

208 West Ninth St.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45414
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Richard R. Kelly vs. Nora Kelly

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Nora Kelly is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next August rules of said court, to be held at the court house in Chattanooga on the first Monday in August next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 11th day of June, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

J. L. Dixon, Atty. 7-11

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45359
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Georgia Robinson vs. James Robinson

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that James Robinson is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next July rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the 1st Monday in July next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 27th day of May, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

J. L. Dixon, Atty. 6-19

REPLEVIN NOTICE
No. 1486

To Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee

Tennessee Electric Power Co. vs. Crabtree Transfer Co. and R. A. Dobbins

It appearing in this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, a replevin notice having been served on goods in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co, belonging to said defendant, and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., on Monday, June 29, 1931, at 11 a.m., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

This 4th day of June, 1931.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by deed of trust executed 3d day of December, 1927, by Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, to secure the indebtedness therein described, which deed of trust is of record in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book T, Vol. 35, page 47 et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions therein contained, and default having been made in the payment of several of the notes described in said deed of trust, to-wit: notes in the sum of Fifteen Dollars and one note in the sum of Twenty-five Dollars; said notes payable monthly after the notes for January 1931, and all notes since then, one each have been defaulted in the payment thereof, and have remained in default for more than thirty days after their maturity; and the holder of said notes having declared the same due and payable at once, and requested me to advertise and sell the property described in said deed of trust to satisfy the unpaid indebtedness, I, J. A. Long, trustee, will expose for sale and will sell in front of the west door of the courthouse, on Walnut street in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at 11 o'clock a.m. on the highest and best bidder, at public outcry for cash in hand, and in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

SATURDAY, JULY 11, 1931,

Lot number one hundred and twenty-six in Fairview (sometimes called Belleview), Chattanooga Land Company's Addition No. 1, Being the same real estate conveyed to Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, by H. B. Stanford and wife, F. L. Langford, about the 26th, 1926.

The title is believed to be good but will convey as trustee only.

This 9th day of June, 1931.

J. A. LONG, Trustee.

PUBLIC WORK POLICY URGED BY GREEN FOR JOB SURETY

Assure Those at Work of Their Jobs and Assure Unemployed of Return to Tasks and Effect Would Be Electrical, American Federation of Labor President Tells Conference.

(By International Labor News Service.)

New Brunswick, N. J., June 16.—Addressing the unemployment and economic conference held here under Rutgers university auspices, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, declared that job security should be a first aim of industry.

"First of all," he said, "those who are employed should be given assurance that their services would not be dispensed with, that they would remain secure in the possession of their work. This security can be assured by the management of industry. A public work policy could be formulated and announced, through which those now employed could be guaranteed a share of all work available. This would mean that instead of discharging workers management should arrange the work-week and the number of hours worked per day so as to give each worker now employed an equal share of all work available. The announcement of this policy should be supplemented by a further announcement that as rapidly as possible those who are idle would be reemployed.

"Such a public work policy might involve the adjustment of working time and the adoption and execution of plans which would bring about an equitable division of the limited amount of employment which existing market conditions afford. Obviously, such a plan and such a policy would tend to restore confidence and buying morale. The worker assured of work security would immediately extend his buying power to its maximum limit. When the fear of losing work is removed the buying power of the worker is increased and exercised. He will not only use his buying power as represented by his pay earnings, but he will also utilize all available credit facilities in order to satisfy, so far as possible, his material and social needs.

"The development and active use of the buying power of this great group of employed workers would have an electrifying effect. It would influence those who are able to buy but who refuse to buy. Through such a process the market would be stimulated so that gradually at least a large portion of the millions who are now unemployed would be given work. It would be dramatic in its consequences and powerful in its results.

"With this effort put forth by the management of private industry and private enterprise, supplemented by a speeding-up of the public building and construction program, as authorized by congress, improvement in the industrial situation ought to be quite noticeable within a reasonable length of time."

MINNESOTA "GAG" LAW ILLEGAL; COURT MAKES HISTORIC DECISION

Washington, June 11.—A Minnesota law, which empowered equity courts to suppress newspapers in that state, has been set aside by the United States supreme court.

Chief Justice Hughes held that the law infringes the liberty of the press guaranteed by the Fourteenth amendment. Justices Holmes, Brandeis, Stone and Roberts joined in this opinion.

Justice Butler wrote the dissenting opinion, which was supported by Justices Van Deventer, McReynolds and Sutherland. The latter decision declared that the majority decision gives the press a freedom not recognized heretofore and construes the word "liberty" in the Fourteenth amendment "to put upon the states a federal restriction that is without precedent."

Chief Justice Hughes and his four associates took their stand for liberty of the press as commonly understood. They insisted that libel laws protect any person who claims to be wronged.

The Minnesota law was passed in 1925. It authorized equity courts to perpetually enjoin any newspaper or other publication that the court believes is malicious, scandalous and defamatory.

"Whatever wrong the appellant has committed, or may commit, by his publications, the state appropriately afford both public and private redress by its libel laws," said Chief Justice Hughes.

"Public officers, whose character and conduct remain open to debate and free discussion in the press, find their remedies for false accusations in actions under libel laws providing for redress and punishment, and not in proceedings to restrain the publication of newspapers and publications."

The minority decision said the newspaper in question was, to use the words of the Minnesota supreme court, "devoted largely to malicious, scandalous and defamatory matter." This fact was ignored by the majority justices, who held that libel laws and civil action are at the disposal of citizens, rather than undermine a constitutional guarantee.

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company

Ideal Service at Moderate Cost

Phone 6-6114

NOTICE TAXPAYERS

The Hamilton County Boardof Equalization is Board of Equalization is meeting daily in the office of the tax assessor from 11 to 12 o'clock, a.m., for 25 days from June 1 to June 29, inclusive (Sundays excluded). Taxpayers who have complaints to make as to assessments made by the assessor on personality or on real estate may appear in person or by attorney and present their claims.

W. A. Seagle, Chm.
Porter Poe, Secy.

Censorship Order To Muzzle Medics

Eat Less Meat, They Suggest, Via Radio, Whereupon Packers get Busy and Doctors Are Told to Get 'O. K.' on Future Talks.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, June 17.—Because a public health radio talk advocated eating less meat in summer, Assistant Secretary of the Treasurer Ogden Mills has ordered that all future broadcasts be submitted to him for appoval before delivery. The public health service is a treasury department bureau. Service doctors are enraged at the censorship order, but see no way to avoid it. Protests from meat packers caused the order.

Wages Are Reduced On U. S. Payrolls

Washington.—The prevailing wage scale is not recognized on construction work at the West Point Military academy, said Congressman Fish in a protest to the president.

Mr. Fish said some laborers on this work were paid as low as 40 per cent below the union rate. He insists on the enforcement of the Davis-Bacon law, passed by the last congress.

Tucson, Ariz.—Carpenters employed on the veterans' hospital here are being paid below the prevailing wage. A joint committee, representing organized labor, the chamber of commerce and the American Legion wired a protest to Washington.

"If this contractor can pay a low wage scale it will establish new standards which will be detrimental to construction payrolls in this community, resulting in serious conditions because of prevailing unemployment," the committee said.

Alien Smuggling Blamed on Seamen

New York.—Federal officials claim to have broken a syndicate which has smuggled thousands of Chinese into this country.

A score of Chinese were found on one vessel, whose owners and officers have been cleared of blame. Members of the crew, who were paid from $500 to $1,000 a head, are responsible.

The government officials solemnly declare that the officers and owners knew nothing of the transactions that were proving a gold mine to the crew. These seamen, the public is assured, smuggled twenty and thirty Chinese aboard, while the owners and officers of the boat remained in childlike ignorance of the deal.

FEAR IS WIDESPREAD OVER LOSS OF WORK

St. Louis, Mo.—Workers and their dependents are gripped with fear, said Wallace B. Donham, of Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, at a business men's luncheon.

"The psychology of fear," said Dean Donham, "is dominant not only in 6,000,000 unemployed and something like 12,000,000 dependents, but also in 7,500,000 half-time employes and their 14,000,000 dependents. It is dominant in other millions of industrial employes who fear the day when they may lose their jobs or go on half time."

The speaker discussed the possibility of unemployment insurance.

Congressman Flays Conduct of Rich Men

(By International Labor News Service.)

Boston, June 17.—Representative William P. Connery, of Lynn, Mass., was booked to deliver a humorous address at the annual convention of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, Boston. This is an old organization boasting of striking uniforms, frequent trips into anti-prohibition Canada and Bermuda, West Indies, Cuba, etc., and supreme capacity for the concoctions that A. J. Volstead tried vainly to extinguish. All members are business and professional men, some of them wealthy.

Congressman Connery startled the Ancients and Honorables with a vigorous attack on prevailing conditions. He accused the men of wealth of being the prime factors in the spread of communism, and predicted that if these men were allowed to continue hoarding the riches of the country the United States would be the scene of a civil war, with great shedding of blood and slaughter. As a man heartily opposed to communism, he felt it his duty to warn his hearers of the menace behind the wealth hoarding. He said congress could do nothing. At this point there was an interruption. One of the Ancient and Honorables said, "No! No!" The congressman resumed with, "No, congress can do nothing to interfere with Wall street." In the crowd were a number of stock and bond brokers.

The congressman issued a warning that a man trying to keep a family of six or seven on $35 a week would soon cease to merely protest against the system which allowed another man to inherit millions and add to it without sharing any with the workers who built up the vast fortune. And that man would be aroused to violence at seeing the family of that man living extravagantly while his family could barely secure the necessities of life.

The Connery address proved a sensation. He had fulfilled his agreement to talk on humor, and had the members of the exclusive organization in gales of laughter. That is, until he suddenly switched from comedy to the tragedy he visualizes.

TO STUDY PENSION PLAN.

Springfield, Ill.—The state legislature passed a bill to create a commission to study old age pensions. The bill is a substitute for an old age pension bill introduced in the senate.

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

BIJOU
Chattanooga's Best Entertainment
Grand Opening
MONDAY, June 29
PERUCHI PLAYERS
With All the Old Favorites
Reservations and Family Party Tickets Now on Sale at Box Office
DIAL 7-1286

"Say it with Flowers"
Joy's
Joy Phone 6-7168
817 Market Street

COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Honest Weight — Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

Ready Cash
For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.
Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

Entire Suites at HAVERTY'S

11 Pieces for Your Living Room At the Normal Price of the 3-Piece Suite!

The most sensational living room offer in Chattanooga. A whole room full of furniture at the price you ordinarily pay for the three-piece suite alone. Consists of the following pieces.

Massive Davenport, Lamp Base, Lamp Shade, Club Chair, Occasional Chair, Book Ends, Throne Chair, End Table, 2 Rugs

$93

$3.00 Delivers the Entire Group—Balance $3.00 Weekly.

Now This Complete 10-Piece Bedroom Group

A $112 Value for Only . . . $86

Terms: $1.00 Cash—$3.00 Weekly

Everything you could want in a bedroom suite is included in this group. A handsome suite finished in walnut, spring, mattress—in fact everything that it takes to make a room complete and attractive. Here are the pieces.

Poster Bed, Coil Spring, Picture, French Vanity, 55-Pound Mattress, Chest of Drawers, Pr. Feather Pillows, 2 Axminster Rugs

52 Pieces for Your Dining Room—Save at Least 1-3 On This Complete Group!

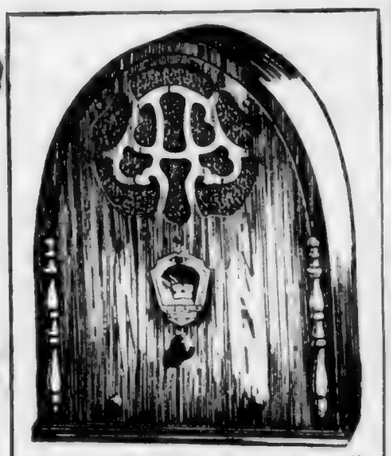
There is a real savings for you in this forty-two piece dining suite. Not a cheap, poorly constructed suite but one of genuine American walnut. One that you will be proud to call your own. The pieces consist of

China Cabinet, 5 Side Chairs, Large Buffet, Arm Chair, Extension Table, Buffet Mirror

A Handsome 42-Piece Dinner Set

$102

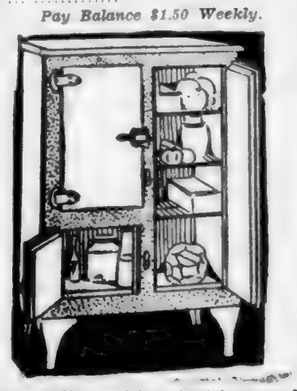
Terms: $3.00 Cash, Balance $3.00 Weekly.



$1.00 Installs This Gloritone Radio in Your Home.

No home need be without the pleasures that radio affords. Only $1.00 will install in your home this famous Gloritone radio. Priced complete including tubes and installation. $59.50

Pay Balance $1.50 Weekly.



25c Delivers Any Refrigerator! Steel 65-Lb. Box As Shown!

For one week only we will deliver any refrigerator in our stock for a cash payment of only twenty-five cents. The box shown is of all steel construction finished in colors. . . . $29.95

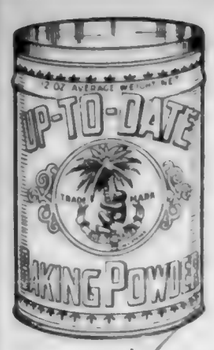
Terms: 95c Cash, $1.00 Weekly.

Extra Heavy Axminsters! Free! Regal Rug Pad!

You've never seen such a rug value. Unquestionably Chattanooga's most outstanding offer. 9x12 Axminsters with a rug pad that gives them the luxuriousness of an oriental at . . . $39.50

Terms: $1.00 Cash, $1.00 Weekly.

HAVERTY FURNITURE CO.
619 Market St.—620 Broad St



Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feather

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSEE

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY

SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street — 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

PURE LARD	Very Best Grade, NO BEEF FAT in our LARD (Limit 4 Lbs.)	4 Lbs. 34c
WESSON OIL	Pint Can 22c (Limit 2 Cans) Quart Can	39c
COFFEE	Maxwell House (Limit 2 Lbs.) Pound	25c
BUTTER	Our Two Tennessee Pack, Extra Quality Brands — Pound	23c
TOMATOES	Size 2 Can, Very Best Grade, (Limit 6 Cans) — Can	5c
PORK & BEANS	"Certified," Very Best, Regular 10c Size, Can	5c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

IF YOU WANT THE

BEST

FLOUR

MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

SWIM AT

Warner Park Swimming Pool

Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.

DR. L. J. USHER

DENTIST

Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

7½ E. Seventh Street — Phone 6-3612

Over Liggett's Drug Store

REJECT "YELLOW DOG."

Chicago.—An attempt to establish the "yellow dog" in the upholstering industry was successfully resisted by Upholsterers' Union No. 9.

Employers withdrew their demand and renewed the old agreement.

CHAIN STORES TAXED.

Madison, Wis.—The state assembly passed a chain-store tax bill that is modeled after the Indiana law recently upheld by the United States supreme court. The tax ranges from $3 on one store to $50 on each store in excess of thirty.

Postoffice Squibs

By R. B. LANE

The State Association of Postmasters met in Chattanooga Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

* * *

The Letter Carriers' band serenaded the visiting postmasters at the Hotel Patten Wednesday evening.

* * *

The postoffice clerks' ball club is now playing regularly, not smashing any records yet.

* * *

Checkers are a funny game. Some days Pat is pizen to the boys, another Peter is the same, and Park "ditto." Sometimes Ruch moves them so fast it dazes Pat. Pat sure takes his game seriously.

* * *

Miss Nash has purchased a pretty new blue car. She was all "het up," for fear they would not have the shade of blue she wanted.

* * *

Lawrence Miller flew up to Cleveland the other evening. Says that the wheat fields are looking fine.

* * *

Tom McPherson is off on vacattion. N. S. Miller is handling the parcel post in his absence.

* * *

W. J. Griffitts is still off on account of sickness.

* * *

Sometimes mail is addressed to "Occupant" of a street number. Recently a carrier marked one up as follows: "Moved, left no address." You see when addressed this way you deliver it just the same as if it had the name on it.

* * *

Foreman of Carriers Colby was checking Route No. 11. Supt. Walker told Hick Lewis the carrier that he got in thirty minutes sooner. He says, "Yes, but you see I had a white gentleman waiting on me."

* * *

W. B. (Abe) Martin is taking a few days' vacation.

WITH THE ELECTRICIANS

By E. E. CROSBY

The reason the boys couldn't find our notes last week, they were on the front page. Won't be there this time, but look at first page anyway. Expect to be at the end of Postoffice Lane this time.

* * *

Chattanooga baseball club gave up one game this week so they wouldn't be put out of the league by A. E. Butler.

* * *

Stoves are so far out of season you couldn't even trade one for a fan.

* * *

Prosperity used to be around the corner, but now I believe it's up a block.

* * *

J. G. Stancel says being corn-fed is better than not being fed at all.

Billie Cooper said he caught a fish so big it broke his arm landing it.

* * *

F. J. Krug, a former member who has been visiting old friends here in Chattanooga, has returned to Port Arthur, Tex., where he is employed by the city.

* * *

W. B. Dyche's Sunday address from now on will be Engel's apple orchard.

* * *

Mrs. E. E. McDaniels has been ill, but is improving.

* * *

Ed Carroll saw a sign on a house, "Light Housekeeper Wanted," so right away he went in to make application for the position. Then he found out someone had made a mistake.

ALONG MELODY LANE

By JOHNNY MAHONEY

It's rather hard to believe, but the convention is over. Considering everything, it was a decided success. Mr. Lester Cohn, the general chairman, deserves the thanks of all the members for the untiring efforts that he has put forth. He did great work and we are proud of him.

* * *

Things are fast getting back to normal, but young Mister Leland, the piano playing member of Ted and Joe, local radio performers, gets the credit for the prize work of the week. Joe got his John Henry alongside of Pa Peruchi's on a Bijou contract and then the trouble began. A drummer coming out of the west added to the flames and Joe, to make things hotter, fills the ranks of his orchestra with jazz musicians.

* * *

Little Gene Hunter, from down in Texas, was truly the star performer of the convention. His songs delighted everyone. Ramon Pryor says that it is too bad that Gene can't play a saxophone.

Oh for those good ole times! We used to attend the theater and listen to overtures played by master musicians. Then came the machine age, and the musicians were supplanted by can music. Now the zenith, the crisis, has arrived, the Bijou presenting a jazz orchestra.

* * *

Now with the southern golf tournament in town, we think a delightful foursome would be Joe Leland, Cooper Null, Granville Watson and Albert Quirk.

* * *

Mr. Van Arsdale, Senior, opines that as far as he could see, the convention was a huge success.

* * *

We were delighted to see a number of the old-timers come out and help us put over the convention. In fact, some of the very best work was done by some of the so-called inactive members.

* * *

Good-bye, ole Convention, you may be gone but the memories of Room 602 linger on.

MORE ABOUT HUNGRY TOTS

(Continued from First Page)

hundred of them in Fentress and Overton counties, Tennessee, joined the United Mine Workers of America by mail. One hundred and fifty coal miners in these two Tennessee counties were discharged when their union membership became known.

The conditions created by the coal mine operators have caused strikes in some instances. In all instances it has caused hunger and want. In Kentucky in Harlan county the children were denied the scraps from the mess kitchen of the soldiers which were consigned to the garbage can.

Because of the fact that the United Mine Workers of America are unable to render financial assistance, the executive council of the Tennessee Federation of Labor appeals to all Central Bodies, local unions and individual members of trade unions to contribute as generously as possible so the suffering of the workers in these coal fields may be alleviated. Contributions of food, even though it be but a can of beans or a pound of coffee, will be appreciated.

Send all cash contributions to W. E. Cheek, Secretary-Treasurer, Tennessee Federation of Labor, 207 Polk avenue, Nashville, Tenn. Send all donations of food and provisions to Robert L. Childress, Pineville, Ky.

BITTNER WINS IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Several thousand coal miners in the Scotts Run district of West Virginia, who had been on strike for months against intolerable conditions and pauper wages, have gone back to work under union conditions and better wages.

Van A. Bittner, international representative of the United Mine Workers in northwest West Virginia, who is making his field headquarters in Clarksburg, W. Va., has successfully negotiated a contract with the operators which includes:

1—Increase in wages.
2—Recognition of the union.
3—Closed shop.
4—Check weighman and the check-off.
5—Pit committees.
6—Bi-monthly conferences between operators and miners on conditions in the business.

The effect of the settlement has spread through Ohio and Pennsylvania and may mean wage negotiations in those states.

Ohio miners are holding mass meetings demanding better working conditions and recognition of the union.

In Pennsylvania there are some 22,000 miners in the mines of the Pittsburgh Coal company on strike for higher wages and union conditions as well as recognition of the union.

In all this the United Mine Workers' international organization, because of enormous unemployment, has been forced to stand on the sidelines as far as aiding in financing the organizing work is concerned.

But the work has gone on spontaneously and without any particular financial aid. Scores of local unions have been set up and the demand for union recognition is spreading furiously in those sections where injunctions and lockouts had demoralized the organization.

While the outcome in Pennsylvania is not predicted, international union officials are pleased at this spontaneous outburst for organization. The explanation is that the miners (former unionists) have reached the point where they can no longer stand up under conditions so long prevalent in the soft coal industry of these states.

Must Watch Signals Is Engineer's Duty

Albany, N. Y.—The court of appeals ruled that a locomotive engineer has "the primary duty to operate his train and to keep alert for signals," rather than be on the lookout for workmen along the tracks, where a switchman is employed to warn employes of approaching trains.

The decision was made in a suit for damages by the heirs of a worker who was killed.

Witnesses testified that there was nothing to prevent the worker from observing the approach of the train and that others heeded the warning of a watchman when he blew his whistle.

Hearing Resisted By Radio Combine

Washington.—The radio trust, fighting for its life, has asked the District of Columbia supreme court to enjoin the federal radio commission from holding hearings that may jeopardise its 1,400 licenses.

The commission has taken cognizance of the United States supreme court's refusal to review decisions of lower courts which held that the Radio Corporation of America violated the Clayton anti-trust law. The trust compelled independent manufacturers to use the trust's patents.

The hearings would result in "irreparable injury," the plaintiffs allege.

Open Saturday!

The Beautiful New

SAUNDERS STORE

(INDEPENDENT OF ANY CHAIN STORE—HOME OWNED)

423-425-427 MARKET ST.

After weeks of preparation, we are throwing our doors open to the people of Chattanooga SATURDAY MORNING, offering what we confidently believe is the most beautiful retail food store in this city. Many years' experience in serving this public has taught us how to please the most discriminating, and this new business is dedicated to Satisfactory Service.

You will find here ample stocks in a wide variety of the finest and freshest articles for your table which the markets afford, arranged for your convenience by experienced merchandisers. Clean, light and airy, you may shop here in perfect comfort. Come Saturday, and enjoy the courteous, congenial atmosphere of this newest of Chattanooga's home-owned, home-operated stores.

And the prices? Compare those listed below with what you have been paying:

Specials for Saturday

MAXWELL HOUSE COFFEE, (3 Can Limit) — Pound	27c
PILLSBURY FLOUR, 24 Lbs.	73c
IVORY SOAP (3 Bar Limit) Medium Bar	5c
PINK SALMON, No. 1 Tall, Fancy Grade	10c
ROSEDALE PEACHES, No. 2½ (4 Can Limit)	15c
POTTED MEAT, Kingan's Best, 3 for	10c
BAKING POWDER, 1-Lb. Calumet	23c
TOMATOES, Fancy Mississippi, 3 Lbs. for	25c
No. 1 FANCY RED IRISH POTATOES, 5 Lbs.	9c
LETTUCE, Nice Firm Heads, Each	5c
BUTTER, Clearbrook, Pound	24c
MATCHES, Box	2c

SATURDAY in our Meat Department

INTERNATIONAL UNION MARKET
THIS IS TO CERTIFY, That this Meat Market is conducted in accordance with the rules of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L. Therefore we commend it to the patronage of all.

BACON, Fancy Black Hawk, Rindless, Pound	27c
PURE LARD, 4 Lb. Limit for	35c
BEEF ROAST, Fancy Kansas City Beef, Pound	15c

SELF SERVICE SATISFIES SAVES

SAUNDERS STORE

423-425-427 MARKET ST.

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI | CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, JUNE 26, 1931 | Number 9

17 LAWMAKERS ON TENNESSEE POWER PAYROLL?

Hanly Hears That Number Drawing Double Salaries.

LEGISLATORS WILL WHITEWASH HASTON

Labor Again Given Cold Shoulder—Plan Adjournment Next Friday.

By DAVID HANLY
Legislative Chairman Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Nashville, Tenn., June 25.—Articles of impeachment were presented to the house today against Secretary of State Haston. Action on the articles was set as a special order for Friday at 10 o'clock. These articles charge that Haston is on the payroll of the Tennessee Electric Power company as an attorney and that as secretary of state he is a member of the state board of equalization that passes upon taxes that are assessed against that corporation.

The opinion here is that the house will defeat these articles of impeachment by the same vote that white-washed Gov. Horton.

I am reliably informed that seventeen members of the present general assembly are on the payroll of the Tennessee Electric Power company.

It is rumored that the Horton legislators in the house will have stricken from the journal all reference to the impeachment charges against the governor.

The house on Wednesday passed a bill providing free textbooks for the children in the elementary schools of the state. The bill has not been considered by the senate.

The prospects that any labor legislation will be considered by the present legislature are extremely blue. The steering committee of neither house has placed any labor bills on the calendar so that they could be considered.

The senate spent practically all this week on bus bills that were sponsored by the railroads. These bills were opposed by the bus and truck interests. Most of these bills were passed by the senate.

The senate will tomorrow take up the general appropriation bill.

The general assembly will adjourn sine die on Friday of next week.

Wealth Inequality Destroys Democracy

Valparaiso, Ind.—A redistribution of wealth was urged as the only method by which our present economic injustice can be ethically advised by U. S. Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, in a commencement address at Valparaiso university.

After citing statistics to show that 2 per cent of the people own only 5 per cent of the wealth, and that consequently 5 per cent of the people own 60 per cent, Senator Blaine declared that "penury and poverty is the grist produced from this concentration of wealth. When the masters of industry take their toll in inordinate salaries, bonuses, dividends, surplus industries, and add to capital investment, there isn't much left for the worker, and eventually he becomes the victim of unemployment.

"Today there is utter disgust with the universal order, and that disgust is being embittered by the sting of child poverty. The clamor is being heard everywhere for legislation against the abuses of the capitalistic system.

"In my way of thinking and as I understand the history of the human race, a redistribution of wealth, and not a redistribution of the income of wealth on the basis of services rendered and income earned, is the only means of escape from the present economic tragedy."

Senator Blaine closed his address with the warning that unless leaders for the real welfare of the masses make their slogan sponsor constructive measures for bringing about the redistribution of wealth by peaceful means, the masses, "who have nothing to lose but the chains that bind them to poverty," will resort to revolution.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS BENEFIT TEN THOUSAND PERSONS

Washington.—More than 10,000 persons are receiving state old-age pensions, according to a report by the U. S. bureau of labor statistics. The number is ten times as large as in 1929.

There are twelve states having old-age pension laws. In a number of these states, however, the law is largely inoperative because of the provision which makes it optional with the counties to set up and finance the pension system.

PAINTERS AND PAPERHANGERS NAME OFFICERS FOR YEAR AND PLAN ANNUAL PICNIC

J. J. Smith, member of Local 226, Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers since 1911, was Thursday night named president of the local at the regular weekly meeting. Although never before holding office in the organization, Mr. Smith has been an active worker since he became a member, and has served on various committees and in other capacities. He succeeds J. G. Burkes.

W. D. Canada, another veteran, was re-elected vice-president, and C. H. Thurston was chosen for another term as recording secretary.

C. F. Weidner, who has held the office of financial secretary for almost a decade, was succeeded by Joe Farmer, and J. G. Schrock, who was made treasurer several years ago, according to Ernest Blair, because he is "too old to run fast," was again entrusted with that responsible position.

Other officers named are:

Trustees—Charles Melford, F. S. Thurston, Roy Bowen.

Conductor—A. T. Jones.

Warden—H. M. Ottman.

Delegates to Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council—A. L. Surrett, J. G. Schrock, J. G. Burkes, W. D. Canada, Horton Morrison, J. J. Smith, F. S. Thurston and Charles Melford.

Committee on arrangements for the annual picnic of Local 226 asked and was granted another week in which to complete preliminary arrangements for the outing. Mr. Smith, newly-elected president, is chairman of the picnic committee.

JAMES G. SCHROCK
Re-Elected "Chancellor of the Exchequer" by Painters.

CAMPAIGN DONORS PAID BACK?

Senator Dill Asserts Heavy Contributors to G. O. P. Fund Got 24,000 Per Cent Return Out of Federal Treasury

Charges that certain contributors to the republican campaign fund in 1928 had "been paid back, with huge interest, out of the United States treasury" were renewed last week by Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington, according to an article in the current issue of "Labor."

Others were "reimbursed" by being given political appointments, he said.

According to Dill, twenty-four men who contributed a total of $477,000 to the G. O. P.'s 1928 "war chest" had since received tax refunds amounting to $114,655,279 from the United States treasury.

"This was a return of 24,000 per cent on their investment," the senator said.

He listed the contributors and the amount of their refunds as follows:

Harry F. Guggenheim—Contribution, $25,000; refund, $210,555.

Jeremiah Milbank — Contribution, $25,000; refund, $891,443.

Cyrus S. Eaton—Contribution, $25,000; George A. Martin, $5,000, and John Sherwin, Sr., $5,000; refunds, $419,262.

W. R. and H. M. Timken—Contribution, $10,000; refund, $370,041.

O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen—Contributions, $32,500 each; refunds, $353,364.

John D. Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller, Jr.—Contribution, $25,000 each; refund, $8,545,309.

Herbert N. Straus—Contribution, $25,000; refund, $568,736.

William Nelson Cromwell—Contribution, $25,000; refund, $222,652.

J. R. Nutt—Contribution, $25,000; refund, $83,669.

Harrison Williams — Contribution, $25,000; Sidney Z. Mitchell, $5,000; refunds, $131,540.

Harvey S. Firestone—Contribution, $25,000; refund, $2,960,000.

Charles Hayden — Contribution, $25,000; refund, $1,876,000.

George F. Baker, Sr.—Contribution, $20,000; refund, $97,388,915.

Walter A. Aldridge—Contribution, $25,000; refund, $26,036.

Dill also said that eight men who donated $162,000 to the republican fund in 1928 "have been rewarded with office." The list included:

Harry F. Guggenheim, ambassador to Cuba, $35,000; Irwin B. Laughlin, ambassador to Spain, $17,000; John W. Garrett, ambassador to Italy, $20,000; John N. Willys, ambassador to Poland, $25,000; Dwight F. Davis, governor-general of the Philippines, $10,000; Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to Great Britain, $25,000; Eugene Meyer, Jr., chairman of the federal reserve board, $25,000.

Large Employers Refuse to Hire Millions of Handicapped Persons

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, June 25.—Employers in the United States refuse to employ eight million "handicapped" workers, according to a report by the White House conference on child health and protection.

"Handicapped" persons are those who are not 100 per cent perfect. One may have defective eyesight, another defective hearing. Still others have been mutilated in the plants of those who own our industrial and commercial establishments. All of them are capable of doing effective work and lots of it. But the employers bar them from work. The disbarment is especially pronounced in the labor policies of the large corporations, 50 per cent of which, according to the report, "automatically set up any handicap as a bar to employment."

Why are these capable workers doomed to forced unemployment? Corporation executives are frank in regard to this. They explain that labor-displacing machinery and so-called efficiency methods have created such a large army of jobless workers that employers can make very rigid selections. Consequently they choose workers who are not physically or mentally handicapped.

Many employers state they refuse employment to the handicapped because workmen's compensation laws make their employment hazardous. Others bar them from jobs because privately-owned industrial pension schemes make it financially profitable to select workers who will be the least burden on the pension funds.

The irony of the situation is that schools and civic organizations devote money and time to give vocational education to the handicapped only to have the employers refuse to employ them after they are equipped to enter industry and commerce as workers.

Mill Owner Condemns Cheap Labor Slogan

Charleston, S. C.—"We must stop our chambers of commerce and other civic organizations from advertising to the world cheap labor conditions and make them state the truth as it is, that we have, when properly trained, not cheap labor but the best labor on God's earth," declared M. R. Vick, of the Rosemary Manufacturing company, Rosemary, N. C., in a talk to the employers making up the annual convention of the Southern Textile association.

"I want to say that the man who wants cheap labor is foolish," continued Mr. Vick. "The cheapest operator I have working with me draws more money each week than any of the rest. He is cheaper because he uses his head to plan and is always thinking of the job in advance."

Teachers to Meet; Face Many Issues

Chicago.—The fifteenth annual convention of the American Federation of Teachers will be held in this city June 29-July 3.

Reports and resolutions will be presented bearing on topics vital to the welfare of teachers, children and the community. Other subjects will include: Size of classes, contract system and tenure, married women teachers, class teachers in excess of classes, teacher certification, general unemployment, school finance, credit unions, group insurance, academic freedom, international relations, educational policy, the crime situation in municipalities and social and economic trends.

John P. Frey, secretary-treasurer Metal Trades Department A. F. of L., will represent William Green, president A. F. of L. Mr. Frey will speak on "Our Economic Crisis."

POLLYANNAS?

The state senate and house of representatives of Illinois, in session at Springfield last week, memorialized the congress of the United States to issue $5,000,000,000 (five billion dollars) in bonds, to "restore prosperity." The action is reported to have been unanimous in both houses and follows similar action by other state legislatures.

What's the matter with those birds? Haven't they been told that public works as an emergency employment measure is "unsound"? The "best minds" are apparently asleep at the switch.

SOUTHERN RY. SHOP EMPLOYES ON 5-DAY WEEK

Final Arrangements Made With Officials.

NEW RULE AFFECTS EIGHT THOUSAND MEN

Melton Returns From Conference Which Worked Out Details.

Finally arrangements for the introduction of the five-day week on the Southern Railway System, affecting all shopcrafts workers, were made in Washington June 19 at a conference between railroad officials and representatives of six unions involved. The new rule will go into effect July 1.

This action follows a vote of the Southern employes, which showed a large majority in favor of the change. T. M. Melton, general chairman of the local Federated Shopcrafts, returned to Chattanooga this week following the conference, which was participated in by the following chairmen representing the various unions: B. B. St. Clair, Knoxville, Machinists; W. M. Wands, Spencer, N. C., Boilermakers; W. H. Baldock, Knoxville, Sheet Metal Workers; W. W. Dykes, Knoxville, Carmen; Logan Waddle, Somerset, Ky., Electrical Workers, and Mr. Melton, Blacksmiths.

Mr. Melton said the vote was taken after company officials had served notice that it was necessary to reduce expenses, and suggested that a five-day week be instituted. The big majority given the proposal by the more than 8,000 employes of the Southern, Mr. Melton said, indicated the position of the workers that it was fairer for all concerned to work five days per week than for some to lose their jobs or to have employment for only two, three or four days in seven.

The memorandum of agreement made with the Southern officials, Mr. Melton continued, contains a clause by which either party may express its desire to discontinue the plan after thirty days' notice.

Mr. Melton said other railroads, whose agreement with their shopmen called for a six-day week, might propose a change, but that no balloting on such a proposal was going on now.

He explained that no wage cut was involved in the change on the Southern. He added that the shopmen, however, would work one day less a week, thus reducing their income and lessening railroad expenses, even though no reduction was made in the wage scale.

The five-day week is already in effect on a number of railroads, including the Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central.

8-Hour Day Law For Wisconsin Workers

Madison, Wis.—The state assembly passed the Hampel eight-hour day bill which provides a general eight-hour day for all workers except farm hands, domestics, watchmen and employes of firms hiring less than three persons. Employers are required to pay time and one-half for work in excess of eight hours.

The bill fixes no penalty for its violation. It is claimed that other provisions of the statutes give the industrial commission adequate power to enforce the law. The senate has yet to act on the measure. The bill is sponsored by the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor.

CENTRAL BODY TO PROTEST CONVICTION OF MOONEY AND URGE EARLY PARDON

TOM MOONEY—1916

No. 31921—1931.

Chattanooga Trades and Labor council will demand of the governor of California an unconditional pardon for Tom Mooney, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in the western state in 1916, together with Warren K. Billings, the conviction following explosion of a bomb in San Francisco during a Preparedness day parade on July 22 of that year. Ten people were killed by the explosion.

The arrest of Mooney and Billings, their subsequent trial and conviction and developments which followed have created a world-wide sensation which has never lagged in interest over the period of years.

Evidence has been produced which has been declared by scores of leading citizens from all walks of life to prove beyond a doubt that Mooney and Billings were the victims of as diabolical frame-up as was ever perpetrated in American history. All efforts, however, to secure pardons for the convicted men have so far failed.

Action taken by Central Body Monday night followed reading of a letter from Leonard Craig, field representative for the Mooney defense committee, who visited Chattanooga last week but was unable to remain here for the local meeting.

Companion photos of Mooney, shown above, tell a grim story of the tragedy which fifteen years' imprisonment has inflicted on the victim.

$90,000,000 Unemployment Dole Sponsored by Community Chests

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, June 25.—The National Association of Community Chests and Councils is sponsoring a nation-wide drive for a $90,000,000 charity fund to relieve the destitute unemployed next winter.

The fund will be distributed as a private dole under the auspices of private social welfare agencies.

The proposal for the drive was laid before community chest officials by Fred C. Croxton, acting chairman of President Hoover's emergency committee for employment. Inasmuch as the emergency committee is the president's private affair, it is understood that the proposed drive for the private dole has the president's approval.

President Hoover recently refused to call a special session of congress, urged by the progressives, to deal with unemployment and unemployment relief. His refusal postponed congressional consideration of unemployment until December.

The Washington Evening Star, a supporter of President Hoover, admits that the drive for the charity fund is backed by President Hoover's administration "to strengthen the president's hand when the next congress meets if doles or huge bond issues to provide relief in indirect form are to be forestalled."

"It was against proposals of this sort," the Star points out, "that the president fought during the last session of congress, and he is likely to face an even more difficult task in keeping the government out of any dole system at the next session, when he will have only a slim and probably unruly majority behind him.

"A relief effort by private agencies ahead of the convening of congress in December would do much to lessen the possible demand for government action."

Mr. Croxton also asked community chest officials to endeavor to induce the Red Cross to join the drive for the private dole.

The community chests have been regarded as non-partisan agencies for the relief of distress. The proposal of President Hoover's emergency committee on employment to take them over and use them against the people's representatives in congress will undoubtedly cause considerable opposition among community chest supporters.

The announcement of the proposed drive for the $90,000,000 private unemployment dole was made a few hours after Senator Couzens' statement that he would sponsor legislation for unemployment insurance at the next session of congress and shortly after William Randolph Hearst's proposal for a five billion dollar unemployment relief bond issue had received a certain amount of popular support.

Local Barbers Must Have New Licenses

Local barbers have received notice from the state board of barber examiners that all licenses for members of this craft expire July 1, and before a renewal is granted each worker must undergo a medical examination.

In a communication to the above effect sent by the board and signed by H. T. Phelps, secretary, attention is called to the benefits of the annual physical check-up, and those addressed are urged to insist that their physicians carry out the provisions of the law.

The barbers' license law was passed at last session of the Tennessee legislature, and although some time was required to familiarize those affected with its provisions, it is declared that the statute is now being observed generally, and apparently is giving complete satisfaction.

R. L. White is the local representative of the state board.

MILL OWNERS CUT OUTPUT; MILL WORKERS LAID OFF

Spartanburg, S. C.—Cotton mill owners in this section are posting notices decreeing an indefinite shutdown beginning July 4. The textile workers are to be locked out of the mills and denied the right to live by their labor in order to restrict the output of cotton textiles to the point where the cotton mill owners may fix prices at a more profitable figure than the ones now prevailing.

NEW COMPENSATION LAW.

Madison, Wis.—The revised workmen's compensation bill has become a law by the signature of Gov. La Follette. It gives larger compensation to workers for major injuries than they received under the old law.

Labor World to Be Delivered Fridays

Beginning with the next issue, The Labor World will be delivered to its readers on Friday. The change is made necessary by the fact that local postal employes go on a Saturday half-holiday schedule beginning July 1, together with the desire to cooperate with the service, as well as to insure that our readers get their paper on time. The publication date will not be changed, but the paper will be placed in the mail Thursday night instead of Friday, as in the past.

Postal authorities urge that the public in general co-operate in making the new schedule successful, by transacting all business possible not later than noon Saturdays.

Ban on Red Output Urged by Business

New York.—An embargo on imports from soviet Russia and opposition to the exportation of industrial machinery to the soviet government was favored by the New York State Chamber of Commerce. The vote of the 300 members was practically unanimous.

The resolution declared that the importation of soviet commodities is detrimental to the public interest and should be discontinued.

"We deplore the exportation of industrial equipment and the extension of technical advice to the rulers of Russia, which is in effect giving aid to elements seeking to destroy the economic and political systems under which we live, and is, therefore, wholly unjustified on political, economic, social and moral grounds," the resolution states.

CENTRAL BODY WILL SEND AID TO MINE FIELDS

Trades Unionists Urged to Contribute Food.

TO ASK BOND ISSUE FOR SCHOOL REPAIRS

Resolution of Executive Board on Ziegler Matter Formally Approved.

Although intense heat kept attendance at Central Body considerably below the average last Monday night, the meeting was interesting and the usual amount of routine business was transacted.

Report of the committee named several weeks ago to conduct a survey of the condition of local school buildings again consumed considerable time, and at the conclusion of a general discussion the committee was instructed to use any and all possible effort to induce those in authority to issue bonds for repairing all buildings before another session opens.

WILL SEND AID TO MINE FIELDS.

Letter from Paul J. Aymon and W. E. Cheek, president and secretary, respectively, of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, appealing for financial support for the families of striking and unemployed miners in Tennessee and Kentucky fields, was another matter which brought forth considerable "oratory." Delegates from some locals reported their memberships had already begun relief work, and it was urged that every trade unionist in Chattanooga contribute at least some article in the nature of foodstuff. The Labor World was named as headquarters for the collection of these supplies, and as this paper goes to press two shipments have been made to Harlan county, and some cash has been collected to be sent to Secretary Cheek.

MINUTES SHOW INTERESTING ITEMS.

Among interesting items shown in the recorder's minutes are the following:

Letter was received from Senator John Chambliss acknowledging receipt of resolution urging bond issues for public works to relieve the unemployment situation.

Article in Sunday's Times, with reference to bond issues for relief of unemployment, written by editor of The Labor World, was approved, and formally made the expression of this body.

Letter from Wichita Building Trades council stated Goodrich Silvertown Tire company, of Wichita, Kan., and Akron, Ohio, employed non-union labor on new building, and asked that all trades unionists be notified of the tire concern's action.

Resolution adopted by executive committee protesting action of Commissioner Cash in discharging Charles Ziegler as superintendent of parks was formally approved.

Thomas B. Carroll, representative of the International Association of Machinists, was a guest of the body, and delivered an interesting address to the members.

Less Than Living Wage Paid Women Workers

Washington.—Employers in the United States are paying many thousands of women workers less than a living wage, according to a study of earnings in thirteen states made by the women's bureau of the department of labor.

The bureau has found that $15.71 was the minimum amount for which a single woman could live independently in 1928. The present survey reveals median week's wages ranging from $8.20 in Mississippi to $16.36 in Rhode Island.

The wage survey covered the earnings of 101,000 women workers in more than 1,000 factories, stores and laundries. Employers in the cotton textile, hosiery and knit goods industries paid women workers low wages. Employers in electrical appliances, rubber goods, metal products and shoe industries paid relatively high wages. Employers in five-and-ten-cent stores usually paid the lowest wages.

WAGE BILL PASSED.

Springfield, Ill.—The state legislature passed the Snell prevailing wage bill. No contractors or subcontractor on Illinois public works can pay a wage lower than the prevailing rate in that community.

The bill is intended to check the importation of cheap labor.

THE LABOR WORLD

810 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, JUNE 26, 1931.

Duped

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

Of course it was bound to come. Nobody expected anything else. Why shouldn't the stock markets of the world act as they did, their stock issues flutter skyward and jubilation fill the breasts of the financiers controlling them, when President Hoover's plan to have congress suspend payments on Germany's war debt meant that said financiers were going to have $670,000,000 with which to play during the next twelve months? Of course they were happy, these money jugglers! If President Hoover had not suggested the moratorium of all government debts for one year at least a third of the $670,000,000 would have been brought to the United States and with this country in the shape it is in just at present and is going to be in for another twelve months or more we would have been glad to have found plenty of uses for that money in our own land. And that would have saddened our dear friends the foreign financiers so much to see that money come over here. Do you, then, wonder at them arranging for the $245,000,000 not to leave Germany and come to this country? Europe might be at loggerheads over her frontiers but her financiers know a good thing when they see it in the shape of $245,000,000 that is to remain with them instead of being sent to us in payment on Germany's war debt. Your Uncle Sammy is being duped by those city slickers in Europe.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—Are the workers on the government-owned Alaskan railroad organized?

A.—Yes. The train service workers are members of the railroad brotherhoods and the rest of the workers are organized in Federal Employes Union No. 344.

* * *

Q.—What circumstances contributed directly to the adoption of the Canadian act legalizing trade unions?

A.—The arrest of twenty-four committeemen of the Toronto Typographical union, including John Armstrong, later to become international president, for participating in a nine-hour day demonstration in the spring of 1872. The charge, at the instance of the Master Printers' association, was seditious conspiracy. It was not pressed in the courts, as Sir John A. MacDonald's government promptly brought in an act to legalize trade unions.

What Next!

Recently an audience and spectators witnessed a talking-television broadcast in a public theater at Schenectady, N. Y., where Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson transmitted images between his laboratory and theater. An orchestra conductor in the laboratory, two miles away, conducted his musicians in the theater. They saw his baton move up and down, and he, in turn, heard their music. The actors appeared on a screen of 42 square feet; their facial features were clear, although covered with the "rain" effect, common in early movie productions.

Restless, could not sleep

"THERE were days when I felt like I could not get my work done. I would get so nervous and 'trembly' I would have to lie down. I was very restless, and could not sleep at night.

My mother advised me to take Cardui, and I certainly am glad she did. It is the first thing that seemed to give me any strength. I felt better after the first bottle. I kept it up and am now feeling fine."—Mrs. T. R. Gibson, Fort Payne, Ala.

E-476

CARDUI HELPS WOMEN to HEALTH

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

THE FIVE-DAY WEEK PRODUCES

That production has increased, while production costs have gone down, with the five-day week in effect, is the testimony of Carelton H. Palmer, president of E. R. Squibbs & Sons. Read his report:

Theoretically the five-day week represents a curtailment of the working hours of 9 per cent or, stated differently, an increase in wages of 9 per cent, and hence it might be anticipated that labor costs of production would rise by this amount.

But through greater efficiency costs of production have decreased in direct and indirect labor per dollar of business done. . . .

In large operations where we can maintain an actual check-up on efficiency, it was found that production in the five-day week amounted to 98½ per cent of the production heretofore attained in five and one-half days, or that 7.5 per cent of the 9 per cent cut in working time was picked up in the added efficiency of the five-day week. Results obtained from the aggregate of a large number of smaller operations indicate that the five-day week gave even better results.

We believe the adoption of the five-day week stimulated the maintenance of a high degree of esprit de corps, reduced labor turnover and resulted in increased efficiency. All regular employes were guaranteed that their positions would be maintained throughout the winter, regardless of business conditions, and that dismissal would occur only through unsatisfactory service.

During the past ten years production of volume in all departments has shown a constantly rising trend. During the same period wages have been increased and hours curtailed. Ten years ago the working week was 49 hours; today we operate 40 hours a week, a reduction of 18.3 per cent. Production costs during this entire period have shown a constant decrease year by year, until today (the) company operates at the lowest cost per dollar of sales in its history.

There are a whole lot of employers who should read this report. And particularly it should be read by the hard-boiled bankers of New York who see no recourse except to take it out of the hides of workers.

HOW EQUITY USURPS LAW.

A Philadelphia equity judge issued an injunction against striking hosiery workers, but ordered that the writ be operative only when an act is committed that would be unlawful if no strike existed. In other words, the injunction cannot be enforced unless the hosiery workers commit a criminal act.

This judge might be considered a "good" injunction judge, but it must be kept in mind that he retained the power to annul government by law.

This is the essence of trade union opposition to the labor injunction. When a criminal act is done, law is violated and the statutes make ample provision for trial. Equity has no jurisdiction in the enforcement of criminal law. That process should only apply where the plaintiff has no remedy at law.

When workers seek higher living standards and are charged with an unlawful act, they are entitled to every right freely accorded the meanest criminal.

If an injunction judge takes jurisdiction, he overthrows the American theory of government and substitutes autocracy. Whether that autocracy be benevolent or despotic is beside the question.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

WITH the introduction of machinery into the industrial world and the passing of the slow handicraft system workers realized that this great change which had taken place removed them from the partnership which they had hitherto enjoyed to some extent along with their masters in the world of production. They were now merely wage-earners—producing solely for the benefit of others and paid only for what they produced and not on the basis of the profits of what they produced brought to their employers. The laborer's pride in the excellency of what he produced was no longer his concern—this was for his employer to worry about. And he need not longer bother himself as to the suitability of what he produced for the market—his employer had representatives in the market to find out what was needed. The question that now faced the worker was: What would his toil bring him and how best to guarantee he would receive in return for his labors the amount he had been promised. His journeymanship was no longer a matter fixed by law but a volunteer agreement between himself and his employer; wages were now made in money, and he was free also to travel from town to town seeking work wherever he pleased. More and more was the fact impressed upon him that his chief problem was to force a solution to the wage controversy, for he soon learned after the mechanization of industry that his sole interest was to be the wage contract and the conditions under which his wages were earned. And to find a solution to the wage problem called for unity and action. As early as 1700 labor organizations were known to exist, but it was not until the eighteenth century that they became known as "union societies," "trade clubs," etc. Their meetings were naturally held surreptitiously—usually at midnight, in dark cellars, in vacant houses or under the moonlight in some open space in the deep woods. The Webbs, in "History of Trade Unions," tell us of the "buried box of records, the secret oath, the long terms of imprisonment of the leading officials." These prison terms mentioned so casually by the Webbs were the result of two legal doctrines which for centuries had been brought to bear by English courts against combination in industry. Of these two doctrines we will hear more next week.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY

"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"

PART XXXI.

STEWARDSHIP AND RENUNCIATION

WM. L. MOSS

At no time in His teaching-ministry did Jesus concern Himself with either the problem of social distinctions or the problem of social prosperity. He was interested primarily in ethical and spiritual values, yet of course He could not escape the inevitable contact with the question of personal riches. Steadfastly committed as He was to the elevating of spiritual ideals and not to the leveling of all social classes to one common plane, a life was precious to Jesus for its own importance as a creation of the Heavenly Father. With this clear-cut effort to concern Himself only with the spiritual state of men, Jesus yet has the distinction of having filled His message to the rich with a profound wisdom—a wisdom that has become a lasting memorial to His balanced judgment.

His utterances throughout His ministry on the possession of material things, especially wealth, show no change took place within His mind regarding them as time went on, nor can His sayings on the subject be classed as the bilious and rabid tirades of one who is unable to taste, because of circumstances, the pleasures that others are enjoying. If this were true it would be a serious indictment against Jesus and His utterances would not be worthy of the slightest consideration. Instead, His teaching about money is regarded as sane and practicable—only our selfish instincts and habits restrain us from practicing them.

Jesus' teaching about riches fall into two general classes, which it is easy to illustrate:

1. The first class may be summed up in a series of sayings from His lips dealing with the earnest and faithful stewardship of wealth.

2. The second class may be summed up in the scattered passages of which the message is the call to abandon and renunciate riches.

In order to demonstrate the actual existence of these two divisions of our Lord's teaching we will study His utterances and parables which reveal them. The proof-texts to be considered for this purpose will not be taken up separately, but an article devoted to each class of proof-texts. Therefore next week Jesus' teaching on the faithful use of riches will be discussed, the proof-texts being (a) The Parable of the Talent, (b) The Parable of the Pounds, (c) The Unjust Steward and (d) The Foolish Rich Man. A list of the proof-texts illustrating the second class of Jesus' teaching, or the abandonment of riches, as well as a discussion of the same, will appear the following week.

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

If things have been as "fundamentally sound," as has been asserted plus many times by supposedly authoritative persons, there cannot be very much for the National Chamber of Commerce to do through its twenty groups of experts who are said to be preparing a survey of the business field.

But comes now the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce and says that "a serious blow to the nation's financial structure is threatened by the downward trend of railroad securities." And then we learn that normally the railroads buy 23 per cent of the soft coal production, 20 per cent of the timber cut, 17 per cent of the iron and steel output and 19 per cent of the fuel oil of the nation, under normal conditions. Under present conditions, however, we are told, the railroads had orders in for construction of only 7,516 new freight cars and 86 locomotives on April 1 of this year, as against 37,117 cars and 442 locomotives at this time last year.

* * *

On top of this comes the story of the bankruptcy of a great steel company, for no other reason than the obsolescence of its equipment! And discussion of this fact leads to revelations concerning the obsolete character of the equipment of the steel mills generally, and the statement that under conditions when only about 50 per cent of the steel plants operate, it is the ones whose equipment is obsolete that become the wall-flowers.

Those are two of what might be called "basic industries"—railroads and steel. But to these we can add the coal business, which is trying to shake itself together, but begins by trying to shake down the miners' wages first of all. The coal mining business is said to be operating with about 70 per cent of up-to-date machinery for under-cutting, transport, elevating and handling of coal at the mines. But it is the little companies that play havoc with prices of coal—and then with wages, so as to cut prices.

* * *

A detailed survey of the metal-working machinery equipment of the nation in 1925 showed that 44 per cent of this equipment had been installed ten years or more prior to that time. Another survey, taken in 1930, showed that last year the condition was even worse, and that 48 per cent of the metal-working machinery—the machinery that is used largely to construct the manufacturing equipment of the nation—was installed ten years since, or prior to that.

In other words, about half of the boasted industrial equipment is ten years or more obsolete. Russia has better machinery, to the extent that it has any, than America has now, on the average! Russia's equipment is the best that the Americans were able to sell her.

* * *

So—the railroads threaten the national financial structure—unless they get their pound of flesh; the iron and steel business has been cutting prices in a frantic effort to keep going with obsolete equipment; the coal companies are fighting each other and using the workers' wages as ammunition; and the whole mechanical equipment of the country is "crumbly" with age and obsolescence.

Meanwhile, the average industrial wage is $1,308. Nearly four million workers in industry receive less than $900 for their annual wages. Three million cotton farmers, representing about 15,000,000 men, women and children, receive as the reward of their year's labor in the cotton patches the magnificent sum of about $300 in American money—when cotton is 18 cents a pound, but cotton is now less than 10 cents a pound.

But the estimable gentlemen say that "everything is fundamentally sound."

* * *

These facts stand out as highlights, however, against the background of the army of the unemployed which is constant—the army which has been rising in numbers during the last ten years, and, when the present tide of unemployment recedes to low-water mark, will be found to mark the level of from two to four million in the army of the constantly and necessarily idle—under these conditions where things are "fundamentally sound."

It seems high time to call into being an economic congress for the nation.

JUST BROWN

Owing to the absolute lack of control over our weather by our new weather man, we believe it is just about time for all hands, and even the moonshiners, to begin to pray for rain!

* * *

Owing to the lack of water in our mountain spring branches, the price of bootleg licker is steadily rising, and is inflicting a real hardship on some of our esteemed fellow citizens, with little relief in sight.

* * *

Yours truly is suffering with another case of lumbago, very cheerfully considering that that is a dead sure sign of not only rain, but of renewed business activity, as I never have the lumbago unless I've got plenty of work to do.

* * *

Friday morning there was seen in this city something that has not been visible for some weeks (or is it months?) That was—a very heavy dew!

H. F. B.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company

Ideal Service at Moderate Cost

Phone 6-6114

NOTICE TAXPAYERS

The Hamilton County Boardof Equalization is Board of Equalization is meeting daily in the office of the tax assessor from 11 to 12 o'clock, a.m., for 25 days from June 1 to June 29, inclusive (Sundays excluded). Taxpayers who have complaints to make as to assessments made by the assessor on personalty or on real estate may appear in person or by attorney and present their claims.

W. A. Seagle, Chm.
Porter Poe, Secy.

If you want to find out how valuable you are about an institution, lay off a week and see how easy it is to fill your place. This is a good cure for a person who has allowed his conceit to assume undue proportions. . . . Flattery often leaves a pleasant feeling even though you know it is flattery. . . . There ought to be a law against travel bureaus sending their alluring summer trip folders to busy folks. They disrupt the entire day's work. . . . It is now claimed that no man can really love until he is 60. A lot of people are lying about their age if this is true. . . . One exchange wants to know why the United States should worry when she has $15,000,000,000 invested abroad. That's the answer. . . . The radio inventor who will invent a radio which will tune out programs filled with boring advertising broadcasts will make a fortune... An optimist is a guy who thinks his wife has quit cigarettes when he finds cigar butts around the house. . . . A Scottish lassie, who applied for a job as an artist's model, was told to come down again the next day and to bring along a pair of tights. She brought her father and mother.

* * *

Miss Ima Hardnut, of Brushville, has returned the lavallier her sweetie gave her because it made a green spot on her wishbone.

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

CONSTIPATION take

"If I got constipated, I would get dizzy and have swimming in my head. I would have very severe headache.

"For a while I thought I wouldn't take anything—maybe I could wear out the headaches; but I found they were wearing me out.

"I found Black-Draught would relieve this, so when I have the very first symptoms, I take Black-Draught and now I don't have the headache.

"I am a firm believer in Black-Draught, and after using it 20 or more years, I am satisfied to continue its use."
—F. E. McKinney, Orange Park, Fla. 8-11

THEDFORD'S
Black-Draught

WOMEN who are run-down, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

"PUT YOUR LIFE IN BISHOP'S HANDS"
Volunteer State Life Insurance Company
J. W. Bishop, Mgr. Home Office Agcy
ASSOCIATES
J. E. WALLACE — W. E. WEBER
H. A. PARK — C. W. BRADLEY
E. K. FLUKER — J. J. HARRISON
B. W. RAWLINGS — RAY SEAGLE
E. L. WALTERS — H. M. JUDD
E. L. BROOKING — J. H. JARVIS
R. B. WITT
MISS MAGGIE LYNN PEEPLES
H. W. RAY, WINCHESTER, TENN.

B L & K R
Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45414
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Richard E. Kelly vs. Nora Kelly
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Nora Kelly is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next August rules of said court, to be held at the court house in Chattanooga on the first Monday in August next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 11th day of June, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
W. L. Dixon, Atty. 7-11

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45359
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Georgia Robinson vs. James Robinson
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that James Robinson is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next July rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the 1st Monday in July next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 27th day of May, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
W. L. Dixon, Atty. 6-19

REPLEVIN NOTICE
No. 1486
Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee
Tennessee Electric Power Co. vs. Crabtree Transfer Co. and R. A. Dobbins
In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, a replevin notice having been served on goods in storage at the warehouse of the Crabtree Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant, and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., on Monday, June 29, 1931, at 11 a.m., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.
KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.
This 4th day of June, 1931.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
Under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by deed of trust executed 3d day of October, 1927, by Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, to secure the indebtedness therein described, which deed of trust is of record in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book T, Vol. 25, page 47 et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions therein contained, and default having been made in the payment of several of the notes described in said deed of trust, said notes in the sum of Fifteen Dollars and no/100 the sum of Twenty-five Dollars; said notes payable monthly and the notes for January, 1931, and all notes since then, one each month, have been defaulted in the paymest thereof, and have remained in default for more than thirty days after their maturity; and the holder of said notes having declared all of the same due and payable at once, and requested me to advertise and sell the property described in said deed of trust to satisfy the unpaid indebtedness, I, J. A. Long, trustee, will expose for sale and will sell in front of the west door of the courthouse, on Walnut street in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at 11 o'clock a.m. on SATURDAY, JULY 11, 1931,
the highest and best bidder, at public outcry for cash in hand, and in bar of the right of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:
Lot number one hundred and twenty-six in Glenwood Land Company's Addition No. 1. Being the same real estate conveyed to Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, by H. B. Ijams and wife, F. L. Langford, about the 20th, 1926.
The title is believed to be good but will convey as trustee only.
This 9th day of June, 1931.
J. A. LONG, Trustee.

THE BATTLE FLAG OF DEMOCRACY IS NAILED TO THE MAST

By CHESTER M. WRIGHT

Depression, depression, depression.
Here and abroad—depression.

Meanwhile labor lands straight in the middle of the target, pointing out the enormous and growing difference between per man production and per man buying power. While that lasts depression must follow depression, with a deeper hollow each time, a shorter period between spasms.

Meanwhile recovery is terribly slow. Doctors and quacks still ask what's to be done.

* * * *

Why the hopeless wringing of hands in so many quarters? Why so much idiotic palaver on the part of so many business leaders? The reason is simple: Business leaders generally are unwilling to admit the truth of what they must know because they hate to tear themselves from old ideas, they hate to give up old rights and powers, they hate to abandon autocracy.

And autocracy must be abandoned in industry and commerce before the cure can ever come. That is flat, final and conclusive.

To the winning of that war against autocracy the labor press sets its face and dedicates its life. All labor does likewise.

* * * *

Certain engineers and economists, not so fearful of truth as the custodians of vested interests, come near the truth when they talk, as they now do, about balance in industry. More courage comes into their voices as time passes and as facts pound themselves harder against the eardrums of the multitude. "Balance," they say, is needed—"balance" between creation of things and the use of things. That means going away with the hideousness of under-consumption. Well enough—call it balance.

Balance production against use; balance need and desire and ability to use against production.

* * * *

No balance can be had until autocracy surrenders.

Those who call for balance must face that stern fact. So must those who have created lack of balance in the past. Ownership and management have got to give up their right to always have the last word.

Democracy must come into the industrial picture. The wishes and needs of people must be consulted. People must have new power—power to buy. That is the amazing thing ahead when men talk about balance. And this talk of balance comes now from eminent engineers and economists, as well as from labor men.

These eminent engineers are not talking wild talk. They are pointing the way to salvation of the industrial order—the wonderful machinery of the modern world.

* * * *

How do we arrive at democracy?

There are two ways. Autocracy surrenders, or it is thrown out.

What is autocracy in industry?

It is the power to say how a plant shall run, what it shall make, what wages it shall pay, what hours it shall run, what price shall be charged, when there shall be lay-offs and shut-downs. It is summed up in the standard phrase of old, "I run my plant to suit myself."

That principle is autocracy. That principle put back of a million-dollar concern has more power for good or evil than most emperors of old ever had. That has to be curbed—not by ranting radicals bent on ruin, but by sane folks, bent on saving.

* * * *

By some process or other—and people usually find their own way to the goal—power must come into the hands of the functioning groups in industry. Real power—not just advisory claptrap.

Ownership matters little, if at all. This is why the politically-minded have missed the mark so widely and have talked so much foolishness.

Mostly the organization work has been done. The skeleton of the necessary structure is at hand. Expansion is needed, but the ground work has been well done.

* * * *

Trade unions first of all. They must be the heart of the structure of democratic practice in industry. Management, organized around the engineering professions, for which there ought to be a better word, must be in. Distribution men must be in the circle of groups. Bankers must be in, but once in such a machine as now must be created, they will be in their proper corner and not on top, which makes a world of difference. Trade associations will come into their own when they sit around the table in such a scheme of things.

* * * *

So it must come, with all functioning groups working together. Powers will be properly fixed by experience, by the give and take that makes all human machinery go. Representation must and will be evolved on a proper basis.

* * * *

Today the frame-work exists. The organizations are in the field.

But they spend their time hating each other, fearful of each other, not knowing each other, few of them suspecting their coming mission.

Once there is frank recognition of the fact that co-operation is necessary old prejudices will soon fade away.

* * * *

Today, also, there is a fear that congress will get in the way of co-operation.

But co-operation to meet human needs is one thing, while combination to thwart human needs is another. It is combination that worries congress. It would soon recognize co-operation—or the people would be telling congress to stick to the political field of life, which is and always will be vital and in which humanity has won its spurs as the conqueror of autocracy.

What would happen if tomorrow some outstanding figure were to call a great conclave of representatives of associations, summoning them to first get to know each other, then to devise ways of working together for the benefit of all?

The battle flag of democracy in industry is nailed to the mast.

Postoffice Squibs

By R. B. LANE

R. M. George, assistant postmaster, and party have returned from a fishing trip.

* * *

W. J. Griffitts is still at home sick.

* * *

C. P. Tittle, superintendent of East Lake station, came by and took John S. Walker, assistant superintendent of mails, on a fishing trip Thursday.

* * *

Barbara, the little daughter of W. A. Myers, had her tonsils removed Wednesday. She is getting along fine.

* * *

Dick Selcer and Hubert Guthrie flew over to the fishing camp at Rock Island Tuesday to visit Mr. George and party.

* * *

Ipso! Facto! Dewey Russ was elected delegate by the postoffice clerks to the national convention, which meets in Los Angeles this year.

* * *

Eugene Melvin and family have returned from a motor tour of North and South Carolina.

* * *

J. T. McPherson returned Friday from his vacation.

* * *

Earl Miller has returned to work, having spent the week-end at home in Dalton.

* * *

H. B. Massey is off from work on account of a boil on his neck.

* * *

Hick Lewis is going to retire this fall and visit his sons in Philadelphia. (There is only one Hick.)

* * *

J. H. Johns is suffering from fallen arches.

* * *

W. W. Colby, foreman of carriers, is taking a little vacation this week.

ALONG MELODY LANE

By JOHNNY MAHONEY

The Peruchi Players are back. That is, all but Ted Below and he never left the Dynamo of Dixie. We hear that they are all pepped up to give us some real shows.

* * *

Maestro Joe Leland will conduct the symphony orchestra that will furnish music between acts. Assisting him will be Mom O'Neal, George Ryerson, Howard Pack, Marion Liner, Cooper Null, Ellis Goodloe and one or two others. Joe will probably play for the overture a unique arrangement of "Coming Around the Mountain."

* * *

This column is offering a fur-lined bath tub to the person who can tell what George Ryerson has on his upper lip. Eddie Swartzman says he's seen a lot of things but this one has him stumped.

* * *

A flash! President Summers was seen behind the counter of his Music Shoppe.

* * *

We mentioned Eddie Swartzman just now. Have you seen his new car? It's really equipped. Adjustable seats, service kit, radio and everything. Eddie is lamenting the fact that he didn't have it when he was 16.

* * *

The latest reports bring us the news that Uncle John Washburn has about recovered from the convention.

Our local is quite fortunate in having with us Albert Quirk, feature xylophonist and drummer. Albert plans to remain here for some time.

* * *

Herman says he won't play in the new Bijou orchestra because they won't let him take home the leading lady.

* * *

Granville Watson says he is outside man for the Bijou theater more ways than one.

* * *

Mr. Gattis and Mr. Pless are spending the week-end at the Lookout Mountain club. They will return home sometime Saturday night.

BIJOU
Chattanooga's Best Entertainment
Grand Opening
MONDAY, June 29
PERUCHI PLAYERS
With All the Old Favorites
Reservations and Family Party Tickets Now on Sale at Box Office
DIAL 7-1286

"Say it with Flowers"
Joy's
Joy Phone 6-7168
817 Market Street

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PREMIER CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

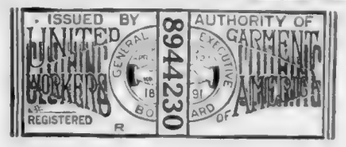
COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Honest Weight — Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

Ready Cash
For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.
Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

KNOW YOUR UNION LABEL

Union Label of Stove Mounters

Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen



Coopers' Union Label

Emblem of American Federation of Musicians

Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union

Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance

Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America

United Leather Workers Union Label

United Hatters of North America Label

Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union Label

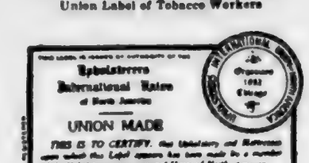
Union Label of Tobacco Workers

Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union

Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union

Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners

Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers



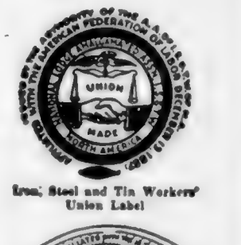
Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America

Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings

Brush and Which Makers' Union Label

Jewelry Workers' Union Label

Store Card of Retail Clerks



Machinists' Union Label

Union Labels of Electrical Workers
161

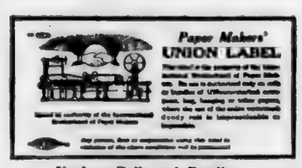
Bookbinders' Union Label

Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America

Brick and Clay Workers' Label
161

Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators
161

International Photo-Engravers' Union Label

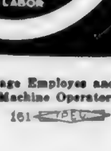


Used on Rolls and Bundles

Local Pressmen's Union Label

Glove Workers' Union Label

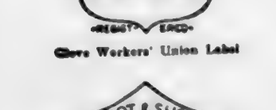
Bartenders' Button



Waiters' Button

Allied Printing Trades Label

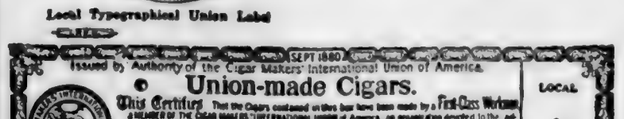
Paper Makers' Union Labels
161



Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp

Card of Union Bartenders

Local Typographical Union Label



Cigarmakers' Union Label

Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America

Card of Union Waiters
161

Label of Stogie Makers

A. F. of L. Label

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.

Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

CURTAIN MAKERS STRIKE AGAINST WAGE SLASHES

London, Eng.—By an overwhelming vote the members of the British lace curtain workers' union voted to refuse to work under the wage cut presented by the employers. The strike covers both England and Scotland and affects 5,000 workers.

Idols Are Smashed; Business Men Mute

San Francisco.—The boasted "intelligence" and "ability" of business men was ridiculed by Washburn Child, lawyer, author and diplomat, in an address to the Commonwealth club in this city.

"The idol is smashed and business men are helpless and mute before the economic wreckage," said the speaker.

"Big business had every chance. It had a clear field for an unimpeded march of economic forces to be wellled over rich virgin opportunity.

"What is the spectacle now? What is the record of its conduct in affairs vital to our national stability?

"It took our property to the gambling table. Not only did it fail to stop vast hunks from our capital going drunk and to Monte Carlo to hear the wheels spin, but it let its own brain go along.

"Did any one of its big-bug leadership issne an effective warning? Not any. All the pyramids of false values produced only sphinxes. Boards of directors and officers had their eyes not on industry but on ticket tapes.

"In our national affairs, in which big business is supposed to have our interests at heart, have we heard the voices of these big fellows? Not a gurgle.

"The industrial garden can fill with the weeds of overproduction and big business merely loans its hoe to Europe. Where, oh where, Big Business, has been your contribution to these responsibilities of your economic government?"

Rubber Strike Ends; No Discrimination

South Bend, Ind.—The three weeks' strike of the 2,800 employes of the Mishawaka Rubber and Woolen Manufacturing company is settled.

The company concedes the right of the employes to belong to the union and will not discriminate against any employe for union membership. Employes discharged because of union activities will be reinstated.

The wage scale will be readjusted upward to meet the wage standard in effect in other United States Rubber company subsidiaries. Employes will receive back pay on the basis of the adjusted standard.

The settlement provides for a permanent employes committee to take up with the management hours, wages, stability of employment and other working conditions.

Paul J. Smith, representing William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and the conciliators of the U. S. department of labor rendered valuable assistance in adjusting the dispute.

UNEMPLOYED COUNCIL SET UP.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The county central committee of the socialist party has established an unemployment council. The council will confer with the unemployed and work out proposals to be referred to the people of Milwaukee.

Those who desire better living and working conditions must do their share to secure them. Demand union made goods and service.

SIX UNION GARMENT FIRMS NOW ON FIVE-DAY WEEK

Despite Depression, Plants in Seventeen Cities Take Progressive Step by Adopting Shorter Week, With No Work on Saturdays and No Reduction in Pay for Week Workers.

(By International Labor News Service.)

New York City, June 25.—Despite the depression, marked progress has been made by the United Garment Workers of America in obtaining the five-day, 40-hour working week this year. Six union garment manufacturers, with plants in seventeen cities throughout the United States and employing several thousand members of the United Garment Workers, have placed their employes on the short week, with no work on Saturdays and no reduction in pay to week workers. These factories manufacture mechanics' clothing, dress and work shirts bearing the label of the United Garment Workers.

The H. D. Lee Mercantile company, with plants at Kansas City, Mo.; South Bend, Ind.; Trenton, N. J.; Minneapolis, Minn., and San Francisco, Cal., and the R. L. McDonald Manufacturing company, St. Joseph, Mo., were the first plants this year to establish the five-day week, effective on Jan. 1. Wide publicity was given to this departure by papers subscribing to International Labor News Service.

June has seen big additions to the ranks of the five-day week manufacturers, the Cowden Manufacturing company, C. B. Cones & Son Manufacturing company and the Bayley-Underhill Manufacturing company having gone on the short week the first of the month. On June 8 the Burlington Overall company announced its plants at Kansas City would go on a five-day week on that date.

The Cowden Manufacturing company has factories in Denison, Tex.; Kansas City, Mo.; Omaha, Neb., and St. Paul Minn. The C. B. Cones & Son Manufacturing company has factories at Indianapolis, Ind., and Lynchburg, Va., while the plants of the Bayley-Underhill Manufacturing company are in Denver, Colo.; Long Beach and Oakland, Cal., and Tacoma, Wash.

In addition to the firms named in the foregoing, several other firms are considering adoption of the five-day week.

TWO GOOD HAIRCUTS

By Annabel Lee Glenn

"Mama, can I go with Bobby to get my hair cut? He's going to get his cut, and I want to get mine cut, too."

"All right, but where are you going, down to the new shop on the corner?"

"I'll ask Bobby which place he's going."

"Well, tell him to tell his mother that the new place only charges 40 cents for a boy's haircut, and the other one charges Fifty. She'll probably say go to the new one. That's what I'd do."

When Dale got over to Bobby's house, Bob was getting washed up. Bob's mother asked Dale to come in.

"Mother says I can go with Bobby to get his hair cut, and I'm going to get mine cut, too. Mama wants me to tell you that the new barber shop only charges 40 cents for a boy's cut and she thinks we ought to go there."

"Would your mother mind you going to the other shop? You see, the old shop is a union shop and I want Bobby to go there. We always do go there."

"Well, maybe Mrs. Reid, you had better call my mama on the phone and tell her about it. You see, I don't know what a Union shop is."

"Would you like to know about a Union shop?"

"Yes."

"Then come out in the kitchen with me, and I'll tell you while I finish frosting my cake."

Dale and Mrs. Reid went into the kitchen. Mrs. Reid had baked some cookies when she baked the cake and she gave Dale a few to eat. He sat down on the white chair by the table, and Mrs. Reid began to mix the cake frosting.

"It's like this, Dale. Once the barbers worked very long hours, from five or seven in the morning until late at night. Some of them still do work long hours like that. Of course, you and I know that it isn't any fun working all the time. You wouldn't like to be a barber and have to be at work real early and have to work late at night, would you?"

"No, when I get to be a man I want to work like Dad does, so I can have time to play with my kids, like Dad does, and like Bob's dad does."

"That's just it. Well, a long time ago a group of barbers met and decided to form a Union and they called it the Barbers' Protective Union. This Union didn't last very long, but several other groups of barbers thought it was a good idea, and a few years later some of these groups came together and formed another Union."

"What did they call it?"

"They called it the Journeymen Barbers' International Union of America."

"Did all the barbers in the Union have to live in the same town?"

"Oh, no, they lived in different parts of the country, but they had meetings and elected officers. The officers acted as the head of the Union. You see, the big Union was divided up into smaller local Unions in the different towns. In some cities there is more than one local, too. They all kept in touch with each other, and made their rules through the International Union."

"What rules did they make?"

"They made rules about the hours of work, and about the money they should earn, and then they made rules about keeping the shops clean and well lighted. Lots of the old-time shops were very dirty, and sometimes people would get a skin rash or some other disease, and it could often be traced to an unclean barber shop. The barbers decided that this wasn't a very good thing to have going on, so they made rules about the shops being clean. Then the barbers knew that if their shops were going to do good business and make money enough to keep the shop going they would have to have good men in the shops to do the work. They made rules about the men who were learning the trade."

"Did they run a school?"

"Well, it wasn't actually called a school, but before a barber could join the Union a journeyman barber—"

"What's a journeyman barber?" interrupted Dale.

"A journeyman barber is one who has finished his course in training and knows how to do good work."

"Oh."

"First he has to be an apprentice. That is, he is a student barber. He works in the shop and learns from the older barbers just how to do the work. The other barbers are his teachers. He has to be an apprentice for two years. By that time he has learned the trade and he can join the Union as a Journeyman Barber."

"What good does it do him to join a Union?"

"If he is a Union member, the hours of work and the prices he may charge are arranged by the Union. He knows that in a Union shop he won't have to work unreasonable hours, and he also knows he will get paid as much as he earns. Then he knows that if he is sick he will be paid a benefit that will help to take care of him and his family while he isn't working. And in case he dies the Union will pay his family some money that will help them."

"That's good, too, isn't it?"

"Yes, Dale, and a Union shop is a clean shop. You see, a Union shop has to be a clean shop, and it has to have good barbers that have worked for two years learning how to do their work. That's why I want Bobby to go to a Union shop."

"That's the kind I want to go to, then, Mrs. Reid. Thanks for telling me about it."

"That's all right. I'll call your mother. I know she won't mind. I imagine that she has just forgotten that the old shop is a Union shop and the new one isn't."

"My dad belongs to a Union."

"Yes, I know, and so does Mr. Reid. That's another reason you boys should go to the Union shop. We Union families must stick together. If we help each other we all will be better off. I know your mother won't mind paying the extra dime for your haircut. She will know it will be a good one and a clean one."

When Dale and Bobby reached Dale's home there was his mother on the porch.

"Got my money, Mama?"

"Yes, and be sure to go to the Union shop. I had forgotten all about the other shop being non-union until Mrs. Reid phoned. Your father mentioned it the other evening but I didn't remember. Here's an extra nickel for candy. Come right back after you are through at the barber shop. Bobby, tell your mother thanks for calling me on the phone, will you? I'm glad she did."

HANDICAPPED WORKERS GIVEN CHANCE FOR JOBS

Milwaukee, Wis. — Handicapped workers will not be barred from employment on Milwaukee public works. The common council defeated a resolution requiring that applicants for work should be subjected to physical examination. "There are many men who could not pass the physical examination imposed by the civic service commission," declared Alderman A. W. Strehlow. "These men should not be excluded from the chance to make a living."

BIDS WANTED

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the undersigned until 11 a.m. Thursday, July 2, 1931, to purchase one 3½-5-ton truck with closed cab, self-starter, electric lights, dual rear wheels, not less than 10-ply balloon tires, body to be a nine-yard garbage body, dimensions 3 feet deep, 6 feet wide and 12 feet long at break of apron, all steel, with mechanical hoist.

For further information call at Room 20, Municipal building. Right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

ZACH TAYLOR, Commissioner, Streets and Sewers, Municipal Building.

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

SWIM AT

Warner Park Swimming Pool

Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.

DR. L. J. USHER

DENTIST

Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

7½ E. Seventh Street Phone 6-3612

Over Liggett's Drug Store

...Keep in touch with out of town Friends by Telephone

There's no uncertainty when you telephone! No "ifs" or "buts." You talk directly to the person you want to reach and get an immediate answer.

Your telephone takes you to anyone, anywhere, at any time. To friends or stores in other cities—to the folks "back home" to children away at school or college.

Telephoning out of town costs little. To most places 25 miles away, the station-to-station day rate is about 25 cents; 40 miles away, 35 cents; 75 miles, 50 cents; 125 miles, 75 cents; 150 miles, 80 cents. Where the station-to-station day rate is more than 35 cents, the rates are even lower during the evening and night periods.

SOUTHERN BELL Telephone & Telegraph Co.

(INCORPORATED)

EAT —with— H. L. TRAVIS

1429½ Market St.

HOME COOKING

You'll Enjoy It

Used Cars

1929 Chevrolet Coupe; thoroughly reconditioned, new tires $245
1929 Durant Coupe; reconditioned, a real buy for $200
1929 Ford Sport Coupe; thoroughly reconditioned, refinished $275
1930 Ford Sport Roadster; like new, has been reduced to $365
1930 Willys Coupe; looks and runs like new, reduced to $375

RICE BROS.

CHEVROLET CO., INC.

236-38 East Main Street

1520 Rossville Avenue

PARAGON CAFE

(Circle Club Headquarters)

11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c

REAL WESTERN STEAKS

Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

OUR WEEKLY MARKET BASKET

WATCH this section every week for Grocery Bargains

Make your Dollar do Double Duty. Patronize those who patronize YOUR PAPER — and save the difference.

Bargains for Saturday!

MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE Limit 3 lbs.—Lb. 27c
PINK SALMON No. 1 Tall, 15c Size, Can 10c
CRACKERS 1-Lb. Premium, 2 for 25c
EVAP. MILK Pet or Carnation Small 10 cans for 35c Large 10 cans for 75c
TOMATOES Fancy Mississippi, Pound 5c
ORANGES 150 Size Florida, Dozen 30c
NORTHERN TISSUE PAPER Roll 5c
BEEF ROAST 15c Fancy Kansas City
CHEESE Lb. 17c
Fancy Wisconsin
PICNIC HAMS 16c Wilson Co. Shankless

INTERNATIONAL UNION MARKET

THIS IS TO CERTIFY, That this Meat Market is conducted in accordance with the rules of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L. Therefore we commend it to the patronage of all.

Issued by authority of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L.

SAUNDERS STORE

423-425-427 MARKET STREET

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

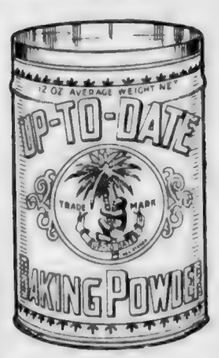
EASY WAY SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

SUGAR Domino XXXX Powdered or the Browns Carton, Pound 7c
APPLE BUTTER Large Quart Size, Good Quality — Quart Jar 15c
KARO SYRUP Red or Blue Label, 5-Lb. Pail 29c
COMPOUND Very Best Grade (Limit 4 Lbs.) — 4 Pounds 35c
PORK & BEANS Armour's "Veribest," Large 10c Size — Can 5c
CAMAY SOAP Regular 10c Size, "You'll Like Camay" — Bar 5c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET



Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feather

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSEE

IF YOU WANT THE BEST FLOUR MADE

Buy— Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI | CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, JULY 3, 1931 | Number 10

ACTUAL STORY OF STRIKE END TOLD FIRST TIME

Arbitrator Gives Details of Danville Pact.

COAL COMPANY HEAD STRIKERS' SPOKESMAN

Business Conditions Bad, But Textile Union Slowly Regains Position.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Danville, Va., July 1.—The actual history of the negotiations leading to the closing of the Danville textile strike were revealed for the first time by one of the participants, Henry W. Morgan, president of the Great Valley Anthracite Coal company of Virginia, in addressing the recent convention here of the Virginia state federation of labor. Mr. Morgan represented the strikers in the settlement of the strike.

Mr. Morgan related his experiences and negotiations with Dr. H. Flippen, of the University of Virginia—Dr. Flippen being the brother-in-law of the late president of the Riverside and Dan River cotton mills—and told how, after several conferences, terms of settlement were arranged.

Flippen Wrote Statement

The speaker announced that communications in his possession would verify the action with the officials of the Riverside and Dan River cotton mills, and that the statement issued by the union officials was agreed to and dictated by Dr. Flippen and written by his own hand; also, that when the question of discrimination was settled, which was the cause of the strike, he was assured that the strikers would be returned to work as soon as business conditions would permit, with the right of union membership. He therefore went into Danville and appeared before the management committee of the local union and suggested termination of the strike.

A short time later, Mr. Fitzgerald, president of the company, died suddenly, and this caused complications. He still felt, however, that Dr. Flippen acted in good faith and that the new officials of the company would recognize the advisability of carrying out the terms of settlement—that his services would be directed to this end.

Advocates Organization

Mr. Morgan told the delegates that, in his opinion, the textile industry was in a similar position to the coal industry and that the textile industry of the south must be organized in order to assure stability.

He thanked the officers of the United Textile Workers of America and the local leaders in Danville for their confidence in him. The convention gave Mr. Morgan a rousing reception and adopted a resolution of appreciation for his services in the Danville situation. Whatever doubt there might have been in the minds of some people in regard to the settlement was cleared away by Mr. Morgan's statement.

"Business conditions at this time in Danville are very bad. A large number of the strikers who were re-employed are now walking the streets. The local union is functioning and slowly regaining its former position.

Dividend "Losses" Fiction Punctured

New York.—The fiction of great losses sustained by stockholders in dividend reductions is shown by the action of the directors of the American Smelting and Refining company announcing the dividends on the common stock from $4 to $2 a share per year.

In 1926 the company paid $6 dividends per share. The surplus was large. An increase in the dividend rate would tend to draw the attention of muckrakers. To increase the dividend rate and throw the muckrakers off the track the company split up the stock on the three-for-one basis.

After the split up stockholders had three shares in place of one share. The extra two shares did not cost them a cent. They were an absolute gift.

The officials then fixed the dividend rate on the new stock at $14 per share per year. So the stockholders who before the split up received $6 dividends on one share, now received $14 on three shares, an increase of 40 per cent.

The recent dividend cut from $4 to $2 gives the stockholders the same dividend return they received in 1926, when that return was very liberal. The $6 per year passed out to the stockholders after the split up was a gift.

The present dividend is not warranted by earnings. It is paid out of profits accumulated during the good years prior to 1930. The company publishes dividend reserves for the benefit of the stockholders when business depression comes, but has no reserves for its employes when the business depression hits them.

Unemployment Reported Back At March Level

Figures Emphasize Serious Industrial Situation and Demonstrate Urgent Need for Planning to Bring Economic Balance.

Figures gathered by the American Federation of Labor show trade union unemployment on the increase again and demonstrate the urgent need for economic balance and planning to bring about stabilization of industry.

Trade union reports for the first half of June reveal that 1 per cent more of the membership was out of work than in May. This increase cancels the gains in employment since March and brings unemployment again to the March level.

The federation estimates that approximately 5,800,000 wage earners are now without work. From March to May, employment had been gaining at the rate of five-tenths of 1 per cent each month, but in June these gains were lost and unemployment increased from 17.1 per cent in May to 18.3 per cent in the first half of June, according to the federation's weighted figures.

Report Held Discouraging.

It was said at federation headquarters that the report was discouraging, as in normal years employment for workers in general improves slightly from May to June, according to trade union reports covering four years. In 1928 and 1929 there were slight gains, although the summer dull season had already slackened some trades. But this year and last year, business depression has brought worse unemployment in June. The increase in the number out of work has been about the same in 1930 and 1931.

Commenting on the figures, a spokesman of the federation said:

"Unquestionably there has been an attempt to give workers at least part-time jobs, for part-time work has increased since May, and 19 per cent were on part-time in the first half of June as compared to 18 per cent in May. But the effort to prevent lay-offs has not extended far enough.

Lay-offs Add to Depression.

"The employer who lays off his men and allows them to depend on relief from charity and become a public charge is shirking his responsibility. He is adding to business depression. Workers have lost approximately three and a half million dollars from unemployment alone this first half year, we estimate. Adding the losses from part-time work and wage cuts, workers' buying power in the first half of 1931 is below 1929 by more than five billion dollars.

"In the half year ahead we face another similar loss in workers' incomes. But if lay-offs are avoided and workers given part-time employment when full work is not possible, some of this loss can be prevented."

Job Losses General.

The A. F. of L. report for different industries shows that the increase in unemployment has been general. Only three trade groups have escaped. The water transport trades, longshoremen and seamen, have a few more at work with the summer busy season, but even now, less than half their members have full work, and 34 per cent are fully employed.

The A. F. of L. figures are as follows:

ALL TRADE—Per Cent Unemployed (Weighted figures)

	1931	1930	1929
January	19.8	12.5	11.3
February	19.0	14.0	10.6
March	18.1	13.6	8.5
April	17.6	13.8	7.9
May	17.1	13.3	6.7
June	18.3*	14.3	6.6

*Preliminary figures for first half of month.

UNEMPLOYMENT—Individual Trades.

	1931		1930	1929
	June	May	June	June
Building	48	48	37	19
Metal	30	28	19	5
Printing	12	11	6	8
All others	16	15	14	7

Typos Postpone Regular Meeting

Regular meeting of Chattanooga Typographical union, No. 89, scheduled for Sunday afternoon, was postponed by the executive board Wednesday, to the following Sunday.

Postponement was in line with the usual procedure of the Typos when regular monthly meeting date falls on or near a holiday. It was held that several members would probably be out of town over Saturday, and the session was accordingly moved ahead.

NEW WOMEN'S 48-HOUR LAW EFFECTIVE IN NEW YORK

Albany, N. Y., July 1.—The new 48-hour week law, affecting conservatively nearly 100,000 women employes of mercantile establishments in the state of New York, went into effect July 1.

Preserving the principle of the eight-hour day, the new ruling allows for two schedules. One is of eight hours a day for a straight six-day week. The other, offering the advantage of a weekly half-holiday, permits nine hours a day for five days a week, plus four and a half hours on the day of the half-holiday, making a working week of 49½ hours.

DOVE OF PEACE HOVERS OVER MINING DISTRICTS IN KENTUCKY-TENNESSEE

Three Conferences Bring Contending Factions Near Agreement—Monster Demonstration Scheduled for Independence Day—Kentucky Republicans Petition Hoover for Investigation of Conditions in Harlan and Bell Counties.

The dove of peace is hovering over the stricken mine sections of Kentucky and Tennessee, according to meager reports coming from Harlan county, and it was predicted Thursday that if outside influences will discontinue their activities and pressure on the mine operators, employers and employes will reach an agreement which will put a speedy end to the industrial warfare which has plagued those sections for months, and which will also mean relief from misery and want suffered by the families of these workers for a much greater length of time.

Three conferences in two days, Tuesday and Wednesday, The Labor World learned, with mine owners of Overton and Fentress counties, developed agreement on all points save two, the operators steadfastly refusing to incorporate in a proposed agreement the "closed shop" and the "check-off," while representatives of the workers were equally firm in their contention that these features were necessary to the future peace and stability of the organization. The position of these representatives, however, was put up to the workers in a special called meeting, and was unanimously approved by them. It is believed that the mine owners were handicapped by outside pressure and influence in refusing to concede these two vital points, but the hope was expressed that they will eventually recede from their position.

Workers in the mines which have already signed agreements, it was said, are contributing weekly sums to the support of their brothers who have not as yet been fortunate enough to make peace with the operators.

A monster Independence Day rally is planned for Saturday at Crawford, to be addressed by a number of prominent men, and it is expected that thousands from throughout the coal regions will participate in the demonstration.

State convention of the republican organization, meeting in Lexington, Wednesday unanimously passed a resolution petitioning President Hoover to investigate conditions in Harlan and Bell counties, The Labor World was told, and it is believed that if such a probe is initiated by the national government conditions will be revealed which will result in a general public demand upon the employers for justice to the miners.

The Labor World's informant declared that workers are more optimistic than at any time since a spontaneous organization move was begun for the relief of unbearable conditions. The spirit, it was said, is wonderful, the oppressed miners maintaining a splendid attitude of patience and forbearance.

Over 2,000 Men In Five Mines Win Higher Pay

By C. S. GARRISON.

Indianapolis, July 1.—The Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company, the second largest operating company in Pennsylvania, has signed a working agreement with the United Mine Workers for a period of one year. More than twenty-four hundred men and five mines are affected.

The contract includes: Checkweighmen, standard tonnage rate for machine runners and loaders, increase of five cents a ton for pick mining, increase for skilled inside labor and for skilled outside labor of 50 cents a day.

The contract is the first with the company since 1927 and is regarded as the entering wedge for the miners in further reorganizing the western Pennsylvania field.

Already some 600 men have returned to work and others will do so as the mines are prepared.

Reds Fight Union.

Pickets representing the National Miners' union, a notorious communist organization, have been attempting to picket the mines against the United Mine Workers and prevent them from going to work.

The negotiations were carried on by Philip Murray, international vice-president, and P. T. Fagan, district president, representing the union, and James Purseglove, president of the coal company. The contract was signed Tuesday.

The Pittsburgh district is still in the throes of a strike, with the backwash from the West Virginia strike settlement in the Scotts Run field. Members of the United Mine Workers are holding a series of organization meetings in the western Pennsylvania mining communities where the workers have been clamoring for the union.

Big Union Membership Gain.

Several thousand miners have renewed their membership in the union and others not heretofore members have joined. The National Miners' union, which surged into the field when the bituminous coal companies repudiated their contracts with the union a few years ago, have turned on the operators and have been staging riots and other kinds of violence.

Now the bona fide union is being urged to come in and stabilize the coal industry.

Just what the outcome will be is problematical, but one thing is certain, the bituminous coal industry in Pennsylvania is getting fed up on their strikebreakers, made up largely of communists.

Pinchot Signs Anti-Injunction Bills

(By Staff Correspondent)

Harrisburg, Pa., July 1.—Gov. Pinchot has signed the two anti-injunction bills and the bill setting up strict qualifications for deputy sheriffs.

Pennsylvania, thanks to the forces of organized labor and the progressives that battled for these measures, sports a cleaner face than usual.

At least, no longer will a Pennsylvania judge issue a temporary injunction against a union and let it stand for ten years until a more fair-minded judge throws it into the wastebasket, as has occurred in Philadelphia.

Under the new law preliminary decrees are good for only five days. Then a public hearing must be held to make it permanent or worthless. More than that, the employer must post a bond for costs to be paid should his demand for "protection" against the union be found ridiculous. This feature of the law alone is expected to lessen the rush of bosses to the courts for strikebreaking decrees.

The new law also does away with the un-American business of a mill boss tipping off a judge to "contempt of court" committed by some unsuspecting picket, whereupon the judge cites the picket for contempt, presses the charges himself, hears the case himself and then pronounces sentence, usually an indeterminate one.

The third bill establishes the qualifications of deputy sheriffs, the first resort of panic-stricken employers in strike times.

It provides that the sheriff of the county must investigate all applicants for deputies' commissions. They are required to have lived one year in the county and to have no criminal record for ten years back.

This cuts off automatically the stream of underworld characters drawn to strike situations through the employers' demands for "adequate protection."

MAINTAIN HIGH PAY SCALES, SAY TWO LEADING CHURCHMEN

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, July 1.—Two leading churchmen, Bishop James A. Freeman and Father John A. Ryan, are quoted in support of high wages by the Associated Bakery Unions of Washington in an effective advertisement urging the public to buy union-made Washington bread. The advertisement is one of a series appearing in the Washington papers, paid for by Bakers' Local Union No. 118 and Bakery Salesmens' Union No. 33.

In part, Bishop Freeman is quoted as follows:

"The president has wisely urged that the wage scale universally recognized be maintained. Those who are attempting to frustrate this wise admonition by displacing thoroughly competent workmen in the interests of those who are willing to work at an unreasonable compensation are certainly contributing to the extension of the present economic depression."

The quotation from Father Ryan follows in part:

"The necessity for maintaining the union or American standard of living at this critical time is recognized by industrial leaders and union men alike and the union which aids in having them maintained not only benefits the working man, but is the protector of local industry and hence a vital factor in the welfare of the community in which it operates. The experience of the past few months shows us that if industrial leaders keep faith with the union the latter in turn will lend its full co-operation and more to those leaders in a crisis."

MARRIED WOMEN SWITCH FROM HOME TO INDUSTRY

Washington.—The switch of married women from the home to wage-earners and salary earners in commercial and industrial establishments is indicated by an analysis which the U. S. women's bureau has made of the 1930 census returns for the District of Columbia. In 1930, 29.9 per cent of married women were engaged in "gainful employment," against 25.8 per cent in 1920.

Neighbor—Has your wife made home happier since she went to cooking school?

Mr. Michael—Much happier, we have both learned to deeply and properly appreciate plain, simple restaurant food.

Jobless Increasing; Work Rationing Urged

Washington.—The number of workers without jobs is increasing according to the unemployment report by the American Federation of Labor. It is estimated that the unemployed now number over 5,300,000.

The report regrets that employers are not applying more generally the policy of rationing work. "The employer who lays off his men and allows them to depend on relief from charity and become a public charge is shirking his responsibility," the report states. "He is adding to business depression."

The report estimates that the combined buying power loss of the workers from total unemployment, part-time employment and wage cuts during the first half of 1931 is $5,000,000,000 less than in the same period in 1929. It is stated that this loss in buying power has reduced the trade of retail merchants 15 per cent below the 1929 volume and has caused many business failures.

"In the half year ahead we face another similar loss in workers' incomes," the report predicts. "But if layoffs are avoided and workers given part-time employment when full work is not possible, some of this loss can be prevented. By following this policy employers can lessen human suffering and help to maintain workers' buying."

Filene Urges Higher Wages, Shorter Hours

Boston Department Store Man Declares Employers Who Give "Dangerously Low" Pay Should Be Denied Credit.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Boston, July 1.—Higher wages and shorter work periods were strongly urged, denial of credit to low wage employers advised and unemployment denounced in a paper by Edward A. Filene, Boston department store owner, read before the convention of the National Association of Credit Men here. Filene is now in Europe.

The problem of financing increased production of commodities cannot be solved by any concerted effort in the direction of less production, said Filene in his paper, continuing:

"It (the problem of consumption) must be solved through production for the masses on a scale which we have never known. It must be solved partly through lower and lower prices, enabling more and more buying. It must be solved partly through higher and higher wages, providing more and more buying power. And it must be solved partly through a shorter and shorter work period, providing more leisure for the masses, more time in which to buy and use the things which we have now learned how to make so abundantly."

Limiting Output Rapped

The idea of limiting production to consumption as a remedy when production outruns the existing capacity of the public to buy, is contrary to common sense and the laws of human nature, he argued.

The paper further said:

"They (credit men) must see that the wage problem is not a mere production problem, nor a mere problem of maintaining pleasant human relations in the factory.

"It is also a problem of maintaining business, of maintaining employment, of maintaining the ability of producers to sell increasing quantities of goods and thus of insuring greater and greater profits.

High Pay Financially Sound

"When credit men come to understand this clearly, they will rightfully insist, as a matter of financial soundness, that wages must continually be raised as better and better methods increase production; and they will call a halt on the credit of employers whose wages are dangerously low."

On unemployment, the paper said: "Unemployment can no longer be tolerated, nor wasteful employment. Business must more and more be approached in terms of employment, of organizing the employment of workers no longer needed in the performance of other duties in the most scientific production and distribution of things it was never possible for the masses to have before."

Express Sympathy For a Brother

Local 259, Moving Picture Machine Operators, has adopted formal resolutions of sympathy for a brother member, James K. Smith, in the death of his father, which occurred June 20.

Mr. Smith's father, James M. Smith, passed away at his home in South Pittsburg, aged 80. Besides James K. Smith, the only son, he is survived by his wife and three daughters, Mrs. J. E. Angel and Mrs. John Baldwin, of South Pittsburg, and Mrs. J. E. Jones, of Jasper. Resolutions adopted by the local are as follows:

"Whereas, God in His infinite mercy has taken from our midst James M. Smith, of South Pittsburg, father of our esteemed brother, James K. Smith; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we hereby express our heartfelt sympathy to Brother Smith and the other bereaved relatives in their hour of sorrow; be it further

"Resolved, That copies of this resolution be furnished the family of deceased, spread on our minutes and furnished The Labor World for publication.

"P. R. NELIGAN,
"J. J. McDOWELL,
"EDWIN HEALY,
"Committee."

The Labor World joins other friends of Brother Smith in extending sympathy to the surviving relatives of the deceased.

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS CAUSED BY FATIGUE

London, Eng.—Mental and physical fatigue and defective hearing and eyesight are the underlying causes of a large portion of industrial accidents, according to a study made by the industrial fatigue research board. The survey included 8,962 workers and 16,188 accidents. Fatigue is caused by overwork, and defective hearing and eyesight are accentuated by improperly constructed workshops.

$3,000,000 JOBLESS FUND IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia.—The official procedure to secure an appropriation of $1,000,000 of the proposed $3,000,000 emergency loan to the newly-created bureau of unemployment relief in the department of public welfare has been initiated.

The fund, which will be distributed through district offices, will be used solely for direct relief and not for "made work."

TURNS LIGHT ON MINIMUM WAGE IN FORD PLANTS

Couzens Says Henry the First Didn't Do It.

MICHIGAN SENATOR TALKS OUT OF SCHOOL

Declares He Himself Is Author of $5 Daily Stipend for Workers.

(By International Labor News Service.)

New York City, July 1.—That he and not Henry Ford was responsible for introduction of the $5 a day minimum wage in the Ford plant is the statement of Senator James Couzens in an article in Printers' Ink Monthly, out July 1. Senator Couzens says it was a lay-off of 2,500 men in October, 1913, and the sight of these men milling before the employment office without overcoats that started his mind at work on a plan to pay wages enough so that lay-offs would not mean privation.

"Early in January, 1914," he writes, "I conceived the idea that it would be possible to pay these men enough money for each day's work to enable them, if they were prudent, to save enough money to carry them over the days of unemployment. I recognized that this would be no immediate relief for those who were out of work, but I sought a plan which would prevent a recurrence of the condition I had been observing. Therefore in January of 1914 I proposed to our president, Henry Ford, that we pay a minimum wage of $5 a day.

Minimum Pay More Than Doubled.

"At that time the minimum wage was somewhere about $2.30 per day, so I thought if we more than doubled that, the men could save enough out of the days they worked so that they would not be in need the days they did not work. Perhaps it may be said that I had too much confidence in the prudence of the workers, but whether I had or not no one actually knows because shortly after this plan was approved the great world war started and all wages were much increased. We therefore had no opportunity of following through to observe the exact workings of the plan, although I may say that the minimum wage of workers of the Ford company has gone higher rather than lower.

"This plan was rather a reversal of the plans now suggested to pay out to the workers certain sums through unemployment insurance, or by whatever name it is called, something for each day they do not work."

Senator Couzens was asked a series of questions. As to "what goes wrong" when production is running at high speed, the senator writes:

"There is a point where production can be too high, at least in many industries, unless, of course, you take into account the needs of the world. I am not attempting herein to take into consideration the needs of other countries. There are so many necessities among the people of China, Japan, India, etc., that it might be true that if they were supplied we could not get too high a production.

"There is one thing that goes wrong so far as our own country is concerned and that is that the wages of the man power do not increase in proportion to his productivity, therefore an unequal division is created. Those who improve industry through technology and management cannot get by with claiming all of the profits and results gained by these technical and management improvements.

"Capital and management seem to think that they are entitled to all the advantages they create by these improvements, but an understanding of the situation will readily convince them that this cannot be accomplished."

Regarding the statement of certain bankers, to the effect that wages are determined by "impersonal economic forces," Senator Couzens said:

"There is more to wages than an 'impersonal economic force,' otherwise why do we create tariffs to keep wages artificially above those in other countries? If wages are determined by 'impersonal economic forces' why the labor unions? Why have the railroads of the nation gone along for years working in agreement with the railroad brotherhoods? Why has any industry made agreements with its workers through union leaders if wages were determined through 'impersonal economic forces?' This, therefore, answers in my opinion the question as to whether or not management has a bearing on the question.

"No, lower wages are not always an economy, in fact they rarely are, although no doubt they could be made so with respect to a specific industry when that industry was a mass producer and much of the work was done by machinery.

"No one can measure the decreased purchasing power caused by the sense of insecurity felt by the workers when decreased wages and unemployment are in the offing. I know of no measure in dollars and cents to determine whether or not the cut in wages is greater or less than the decreased purchasing power."

THE LABOR WORLD
310 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1931.

Playgrounds

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

America will some day realise that a few dollars spent on equipment to teach children how to play, especially in municipal-owned playgrounds, is a very wise investment. We're going to wake up one of these days and as we sit on our haunches and rub our eyes like a cannibal chief who has just awakened from his afternoon nap following a hearty meal of fried human steaks topped off with human brains and ostrich eggs it is going to dawn on us that it is much safer and wiser to spend our city tax money on playgrounds than it is to expend it prosecuting children when they appear in juvenile court. Knoxville has learned the lesson, you bet! Judge Webster, of the juvenile court of that burg, is right now telling his homefolks that since their city has dispensed with playground supervision this summer the number of youthful offenders brought before him has doubled! When a city as an economic measure gives up supervision of its playgrounds or fails to extend its playground system as the need becomes apparent it is an established fact that said city is going to spend as much or more in the prosecution and correction of wayward youths than it contemplated saving in giving up playground supervision. The whole business narrows itself down to a matter of only two choices: Supervised playgrounds at a known and controllable minimum cost, or non-supervision bringing with it a youthful crime-wave at an unknown and uncontrollable maximum cost in money and corrupted child-life.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—What is Unity House?

A.—A summer resort at Forest Park, Pa., owned and operated by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

* * * * * * *

Q.—What was the occasion of the first international labor action on this continent?

A.—In 1845 the Toronto Printers' union, having declared the "Banner" to be an "unfair" paper, instructed its secretary to inform the Printers' society at Buffalo concerning "the actual state of things in the Banner office."

What Next!

A new X-ray tube that promises to produce X-rays more penetrating than any radiation yet made by man was described in a paper read before the American Association of Science, meeting recently at Pasadena, Cal. The new tube is the invention of Dr. L. Lange and Dr. A. Brasch, of the University of Berlin. It is only three feet long, but operates at 2,600,000 volts and produces hard gamma rays equal to 100,000 grams of radium, more than all in use throughout the world today. Tubes may be constructed up to 7,000,000 volts, the scientists were told.

And the next generation will hear dad tell about roughing it in the old days when a fellow had to feed the furnace by hand.

At The Change
A Critical Time In Every Woman's Life.

"During a critical time in my life I took Cardui for several months. I had hot flashes. I would suddenly get dizzy and seem blind. I would get faint and have no strength.

My nerves were on edge. I would not sleep at night.

"Cardui did wonders for me. I recommend it to all women who are passing through the critical period of change. I have found it a fine medicine."—Mrs. Hettie Murphy, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine and contains no dangerous drugs.

E-170

CARDUI
Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

JOB INSECURITY.

The job insecurity which employers impose on workers is well illustrated by a statement by Ethelbert Stewart, commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics of the U. S. department of labor, regarding labor turnover, an economist's term to indicate workers who quit or are laid off or discharged.

In the motor vehicle industry in 1930, the labor turnover was greater than in the combined seventy-five industries for which labor turnover figures are compiled by the bureau. The annual layoff rate was 60.8 as compared with 35.9 in the combined industries.

These figures mean that for every 100 workers employed by the owners of the automobile industry, 60.8 persons were laid off, and 35.9 persons in the combined industries.

That is not all the story. A worker who is laid off is kept on the company's list to be called back to work when the officials believe they can make a profit out of his labor. Other workers are fired. Still others get disgusted with working conditions and quit.

In the motor industry during 1930, for every 100 persons employed 83.8 persons either quit, or were discharged, or laid off, as against 59.7 out of every 100 for the combined industries.

Job insecurity is one of the greatest injustices of the present economic order. It is an injustice to which the stockholders who own and operate industry give but little attention.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

AS THE germ of the idea to band themselves together secretly for mutual protection took root among English working men at the beginning of the mechanization of industry (the Industrial Revolution) their efforts ran afoul of two legal doctrines—the "doctrine of conspiracy" and the "doctrine against illegal combinations in restraint of trade." Both these doctrines have left permanent influences on the labor movement in the United States, having been used in England for centuries as a part of the established attitude of the British judiciary toward capital and labor. The doctrine of conspiracy is so old its source is lost in the receding ages, but we do know as early as 1305 of the existence of a law interpreting "conspiracy" and fixing the exact nature of the offense. This statute, though, did not strike at any one class, as later interpretations did, but outlawed anyone whether employer, workman, merchant or government officials who combined for "malicious enterprise." When the English parliament later placed laws on the statute books regulating wages and prices of commodities anyone secretly or openly evading these laws was guilty of "conspiracy." The doctrine of conspiracy was the natural fruit of an aristocratic government that had good reason to fear combined action. Present day throttling of labor through the injunctive process of law is a direct child of this doctrine of an unreasoning government based on the divine right of the governing class to use any and all means, fair or foul, to keep in subjection those over whom they governed.

The beginning of the Industrial Revolution was fertile ground for the nurture and practice of such a doctrine. The growing army of employers were quick to discover their power over the governing class through control of the economic situation and were enabled to condemn as unlawful the secret meetings of the early "trade societies" formed among working men. Before long all combinations on the part of the working class, whether the combinations affected industry or not, were banned. Employers were tightening the screws that were to effectively bar employes even until today from sharing in the profits of what they themselves produced. (Next week: The "doctrine against illegal combinations in restrant of trade.")

JUST BROWN

Editor Labor World:

You know, I'm nothing if not scientific, and this present dry spell and the dreadful predicament of the moonshiner for want of rain has set me to thinking to devise ways and means to overcome this freak of nature and cause it to rain, at least when the humidity is very high, or even when those tantalizing big clouds drive up and make a bluff at raining, then blow on over with nothing done. And, while I feel sure there are millions in it, I do not care to be considered selfish in this matter and am going to frankly give my process to the world at large and the U. S. in particular, and I am conferring the honor upon you and your—er magnificent journal of bringing the matter to general knowledge of the public.

This process, I will say, is practically as simple as that I published once for controlling West Indian hurricanes and, in fact, it is somewhat similar, as this process also requires giant rockets, which will travel five or six miles high before exploding. These rockets have a nominal explosive charge only. I do not depend upon any concussion to start things. These rockets carry a head in which is merely a half bushel or so of sand, inclosing a small explosive charge used mainly to break this sand container at a high altitude, where the temperature is very low, of course, and scatter this sand, so that it may at once become chilled as it rapidly falls to the earth, so that these cold particles of solid matter will rapidly condense the moisture of humidity or vapor of a cloud and cause a start of precipitation which, of course, will rapidly cool the humid air below and cause rapid condensation and consequent precipitation of rain, which process will, of course, be cumulative, when once started, and there's no known reason why that cold sand from merely a few rockets would not start the precipitation in any condition of humidity and overhead cloudiness. Very simple, isn't it? I only wonder that our national rainmakers' organization have never thought of this simple process. I had my doubts all the time about that very thinly charged sand, released from an airplane, for that sand would never have time to get chilled before it entered the humidity or the vapor of the clouds above, where it might condense moisture. I wish you'd please send a copy of your paper containing this process to our new weather man, Mr. Hadley, and ask him what he thinks about it. I believe we have talked about the weather plenty long enough without doing anything about it.

H. F. B.

P. S.—I think I'll go down to Miami or Havana for the rest of this summer, where I can keep cool!

HOW AMERICAN MILLIONS GO ROLLING TO EUROPE

It is worth while, just to keep our mental balance under all this stress of demand for help to Europe, to add up the total of monies that have gone from the United States to foreign countries during the period including and following the world war, or 1914 to 1930:

Loans to foreigners by the American people	$23,000,000,000
Investments abroad by American citizens	5,000,000,000
Tourist expenditures	5,829,000,000
Paid interest on foreign investments in U. S.	2,377,000,000
Immigrants have sent abroad	2,345,000,000
Missionary and charitable contributions	494,000,000
Freight bills on American shipments	1,959,000,000
Expenditures of U. S. government abroad	984,000,000
American advertising abroad	360,000,000
	$42,348,000,000

There seems to be something of a disposition to regard the United States government and its people as niggardly. The above figures seem to indicate that any such line of conversation must be the expression of what has, unhappily enough, developed into a "beggar complex"—for which Uncle Sam may be somewhat to blame.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
PART XXXII.
JESUS ON STEWARDSHIP
Mt. 25:14-30. Lk. 19:13-27.
Lk. 16:1-13. Lk. 12:16-21.

The teaching of Jesus on Stewardship is full and explicit. As we study His words on the subject we are impressed with the fact that what He taught when boiled down to its very essence simply tells us that he who is faithful in the few things is prepared for mastery over the many. For instance, in His Parable of the Talents (Mt. 25:14-30) one servant is given 5 talents, another 2 talents and another 1 talent. The servant with the five talents doubles them before his master returns from a journey, the servant given two talents doubles his, but the servant with only one talent does not. Now the real comparison is not between the men separately; it is between the servant with five talents and the other two servants. The servant with five talents by doubling them accomplishes a great deal in the eyes of his master and the servant with two talents accomplishes as much in a small way as does the servant with five talents. The servant with the one talent had but little less than the servant with two talents and if he had doubled the one talent he, too, would have accomplished as praiseworthy task as did the two other servants.

WM. L. MOSS

In the Parable of the Pounds (Lk. 19:13-27) a certain nobleman before taking a long journey gave his ten servants one pound apiece to invest for him while he is gone. When he returns the first two servants he calls in to account for the pound given them report they have increased their pound manifold. The third servant called to give a report of his stewardship hands his master the original pound given him, wrapped in a napkin! The comparison in this case is between the men separately. All had exactly the same amount to invest; they are all on an equal footing, and yet, one of them fails to make good, is an unprofitable servant, and the master orders that he who accomplished most (the servant who increased his one pound to ten) be given the unprofitable servant's lone pound.

The Parable of the Foolish Rich Man teaches us among other things that the man who prospers and forgets God is beyond all hope—a plain fool. In studying this parable we must bear in mind Jesus always thought of God only as the Father of men and therefore one who slighted God—as in the case of the foolish rich man—inevitably would make it a practice to slight his fellowmen, that is, God's children. His betrayal of trust thus becomes twofold, a betrayal of trust in dealing with what God gives him and from which he ought to make a return to God by way of thanks for what the Heavenly Father has done for him and a betrayal of trust in his relations with his fellow-creatures in that he selfishly hordes what he accumulates and does not divide with the less fortunate of God's children.

Intelligence!

Our daily press and magazines are continually publishing series of questions, with the information that the readers' answers will serve as an evidence of their intelligence. Evidently from some of the questions asked, they have been prepared by individuals who are wise, and others who are less so. Believing that there may be some evidence of readers' intelligence by the answers they give to questions asked, we submit a few which so far have not been published.

Who determines the price of what we buy?

Who determines the rent we must pay?

Who determines the rate of interest if we borrow money?

Are those who fix prices, rent and interest, wage earners?

Who regulates the hours of labor?

Who regulates the time for lunch and the shop rules and regulations?

Who determines the wage rate and whether workmen shall be paid under a bonus, a premium, or some other method in addition to straight daily wages?

Where rules and laws governing the people are made by an individual without the people's free consent instead of by a representative legislative body, what is that individual called?

If individuals exercise the sole authority to determine hours of labor, shop rules, regulations and wage rate, in what respect do they differ from the dictator or tyrant who, as an individual, makes the laws and rules of conduct to which the people must submit?

The correct answers to these questions by wage earners will show a 100 per cent intelligence test, and indicate qualifications for a good trade unionist.

FARMERS' CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING FORGES AHEAD

College Park, Md.—American farmers are selling 25 per cent of their products, with a market value of $2,000,000,000, through farmer-owned co-operative marketing associations, said Dr. S. B. Bomberger, chief of the Maryland state department of markets, in an address here on the growth of co-operative marketing.

One of the major functions of the federal farm board, backed up by $500,000,000 revolving fund appropriated by congress, is to develop farmer co-operative marketing with one national selling agency for each farm product or group of allied products.

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Honest Weight — Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company
Ideal Service at Moderate Cost
Phone 6-6114

40-Hour Week Urged As Jobless Relief

Springfield, Vt.—A standard 40-hour week, with 50 per cent added to the regular wage rate for overtime between 40 and 45 hours and 100 per cent added between 45 and 50 hours, is recommended to limit overproduction by R. E. Flanders, manager of the Jones & Lamson Machine company.

Penalizing overtime, Mr. Lamson declared, would tend to put more men to work because employers would find it less expensive than to extend the hours of those already at work.

Mr. Lamson presented this idea to a recent meeting of the management division of the Society of Mechanical Engineers. It was not received with enthusiasm.

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Pres.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

Our Advertisers are our friends.

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

INDIGESTION

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest.

"I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted.

"Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."
—Clyde Vaughn, 10 Shippy St., Greenville, S. C.

Sold in 25¢ packages.

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

WOMEN who are run-down, nervous or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

TAXI

Phone 7-1261

PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE

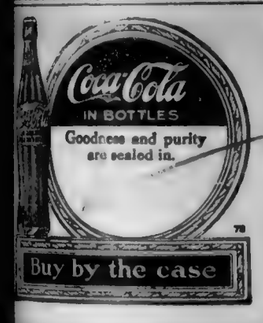
WATSON CAB CO.

PIONEER CABS — METER RATES

208 West Ninth St.

B L & K R

Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.



Buy by the case

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45518

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Pauline Welch Worthey vs. Sam Worthey

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Sam Worthey is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next August rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in August next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 3d day of July, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

Chas. S. Meyers, Atty. 7-24

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45414

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Richard R. Kelly vs. Nora Kelly

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Nora Kelly is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next August rules of said court, to be held at the court house in Chattanooga on the first Monday in August next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 11th day of June, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

J. L. Dixon, Atty. 7-11

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by deed of trust executed 3d day of October, 1927, by Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, to secure the indebtedness therein described, which deed of trust is of record in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book T, Vol. 25, page [illegible], conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions therein contained, and default having been made in the payment of several of the notes described in said deed of trust, said notes in the sum of Twenty-five Dollars; said notes payable monthly and the notes for January, 1931, and all notes since then, one each month, have been defaulted in the payment thereof and have remained in default for more than thirty days after their maturity; and the holder of said notes having declared all of the same due and payable at once, and requested me to advertise and sell the property described in said deed of trust to satisfy the unpaid indebtedness, I, J. A. Long, trustee, will expose for sale and will sell in front of the west door of the courthouse, on Walnut street in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at 11 o'clock a.m. on to the highest and best bidder, at public outcry, for cash in hand, and in bar of the equity of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

SATURDAY, JULY 11, 1931,

Lot number one hundred and twenty-six in Belvoir Land Company's Addition No. 1. Belvoir (sometimes called Belleview), Chattanooga. The same real estate conveyed to Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, by E. B. Langford and wife, F. L. Langford, about the 26th, 1926.

The title is believed to be good but will convey as trustee only.

This 9th day of June, 1931.

J. A. LONG, Trustee.

Folly of Wage Cutting

By WILLIAM GREEN
President, American Federation of Labor

In a radio address at Washington, D. C., commending the efforts of the Washington Central Labor union to raise funds for the erection of a world war memorial, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, made the following statement against wage cutting and in favor of rationing available work:

"We are all hoping and trusting that conditions will improve. All are yearning for the future of prosperity. We earnestly wish to render all service that lies within our power in order to bring about a realization and enjoyment of better times.

"In my opinion this result cannot be speedily realized if the wage-cutting policy advocated by some representative citizens is carried into effect. We cannot bring about a resumption of industrial activity if the purchasing power of the masses of the people, which has already been greatly impaired, is further reduced.

"Manufacturers and producers must find a market for their goods and products if industry, business and labor are to enjoy prosperity. Such a market cannot be found unless those who buy, use and consume manufactured goods and products are able to buy.

"With more than six million workers unemployed and those dependent upon them increasing that number to more than twenty-five million a large section of the purchasing market has been temporarily destroyed. They cannot buy because they have no income.

"Other millions who are working all or part-time are conserving their resources and refusing to buy because of fear that they, too, will be forced to join the army of unemployed.

"It is clearly evident, therefore, that we need to create a better psychological condition, one that will inspire buying rather than saving. The buying power of the people needs to be released in its fullest measure. This can be done by assuring the workers that those who are now employed are secure in their jobs and that all work available will be equitably divided and, furthermore, that their wages will not be reduced.

"It is gratifying to observe that there are outstanding manufacturers and business men who have publicly announced their opposition to reductions in wages. Such producers are rendering a very great service and are making a most valuable contribution toward a return to business revival and industrial activity. Such exhibitions of co-operation and of concern for the public welfare deserve the highest praise and commendation. It is this group of people, who are putting the public good above personal interest, which will eventually lift the nation out of the industrial depression into which it was plunged more than two years ago."

North Carolina Wins New Laws for Labor

Winston-Salem, N. C.—A bulletin issued by the North Carolina State Federation of Labor gives a summary of labor legislation enacted by 1931 general assembly.

The child labor law restricts the work of children between 14 and 16 to eight hours a day and prohibits their employment in dangerous or hazardous occupations. Children who are the sole support of a widowed mother or who have no means of support are exempted from the law.

The law regulating the labor of women over 16 makes mandatory the 55-hour week and the 11-hour day. Women employed in seasonal occupations, agriculture and mercantile establishments are exempted.

The night work law for girls provides that no girl between 16 and 18 shall work between the hours of 9 p.m. and 6 p.m. It applies to mills, factories, canneries and manufacturing establishments.

Boys between 14 and 16 working as news-carriers must not be employed more than eight hours a day, including their school work, and injured workers who come under the workmen's compensation law are authorized to choose their own physician.

Railroad brakemen are added to conductors, engineers, firemen, and printers as exempt from jury duty.

The new convict labor law unfortunately provides that convicts shall be employed on road construction and maintenance.

The practical trade unionist always demands the union label, shop card or button.

AUTO RACES

WARNER PARK

July 4th

FASTEST CARS—
— DARE-DEVIL DRIVERS

—OPEN TO THE WORLD—

ADMISSION 50c AND 75c

INFIELD PARKING

RACES START 2:00 SHARP

BE THERE!

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation

Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

REDUCTION IN BUILDING WAGES BLOW AT ALL PAY, WOLL WARNS

Labor Executive Urges Wage Standards Be Maintained for Benefit of Entire Building Industry—Criticizes Governmental Slowness in Construction Program.

(By International Labor News Service.)

New York, July 1.—Warning that a blow at wages in construction work would be a blow at standards all along the line, Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address to the Investing and Contracting Builders' association here, criticized governmental slowness in getting its building program under way and urged private employers to hold their wage standards up for the benefit of the whole industry.

"Mass consumption," he said, "has failed to keep up with mass production. During the entire period of so-called prosperity dividends and surplus were increasing many times faster than wages. During the ten-year period ending in 1929, productivity increased 48.5 per cent, while real wages increased only 24.3 per cent. During the 30-year period ending in 1929, the cost of living increased 247.5 per cent, while real wages in manufacturing enterprise increased but 123.9 per cent.

"The combined loss in purchasing power due to unemployment, underemployment and disproportionately small wage increases is colossal and has been estimated as a total decrease in wage payments from 1929 to 1930 of approximately $10,000,000,000. And it should be remembered that our factory industries were not going backward during the period of 1929 to 1930.

Facts Are Challenge.

"These facts are a challenge to every American who takes pride in what are called American standards. Every right-thinking person should meet every call for wage reductions with enthusiastic opposition. Instead of centering attention on wage reductions, we should direct our attention to a program for such utilization of American resources, American equipment and American skill, as shall produce and make available for every American worker a livelihood, a home, a leisure and a level of intelligence which shall reflect the mechanical possibilities of this era, in the making of which they have all shared.

"It is recognized throughout the civilized world that America's wage and salary earners have attained the highest standard of living ever attained by any people in all history. And we measure their standards in the character of homes and dwellings enjoyed by the masses. It is further recognized that this enviable position of the masses has been acquired by our higher wage standards. Were the reverse true, then China and India should excel in providing their people with better homes and dwelling places. It is an indisputable fact that the American building industry has made for its rapid and remarkable growth because of the higher wage and salary of America's workers as compared with the worker of any other nation. It must therefore be apparent that your program must have for its objective, not alone the retention of present wage and salary income of the masses, but its constant increase.

"It is likewise evident that any one advocating a wage reduction in the building trades, is but aiding and abetting in a movement for wage reductions in all trades and occupations. And in so doing he is tearing down the very structure upon which the building industry must count for return of normalcy and its constant future growth and prosperity.

"It is not necessary to go to Russia to find a seller who will cut prices, in order to get the cash. The seller who can sell a little cheaper, and still make a safe profit, by reason of a lower cost on his commodity, is always a force to be reckoned with in any market."

Standardized Production Nets Employers $250,000,000 Per Year

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, June 30.—Manufacturers in the United States have saved $250,000,000 a year on their costs of production for the last ten years by following the simplification or standardization practices recommended by the division of simplified practice of the department of commerce, according to Edwin B. Ely, chief of the bureau.

An investigation of the results of the competitive system in the paving brick industry revealed that manufacturers in their attempts to get each others customers by devising something new had made sixty-six sizes of brick. Mr. Ely's simplificationers decided that four sizes would pave streets just as well as sixty-six. The paving brick manufacturers agreed to scrap sixty-two sizes. Now they are making brick with much less capital per unit of output and much less direct factory expense.

Of course the "savings" are pocketed by the stockholders who own the concerns who apply the simplifying.

Simplified practice is just another term for labor-displacing machinery.

In the last analysis it will be found that the reduced number of patterns or sizes enables the employers to secure as large or larger output from fewer employes, and to make the "savings" tangible the employers land the discarded workers on the streets to pound the pavements as the unemployed and live on charity from the community chests.

There is no data to show that the savings made by the employers are passed on to the consumers in reduced prices. In fact the so-called trade associations are set up largely to prevent price reduction from simplified practices or other economies.

The division of simplified practice is now engaged in a scheme to benefit the owners of the banks by standardizing checks and drafts and other documents used in handling money. According to the theory advanced by the simplificationers, the bankers will cut interest rates so as to absorb the savings rather than absorb them by raising dividends.

GARBAGE NOTICE!

During July, August and September both garbage and ashes will be collected on ash days.

Garbage and ashes must be in separate containers or they will not be removed.

Z. H. TAYLOR
Commissioner of Streets and Sewers

KNOW YOUR UNION LABEL

UNION LABEL
Stove Mounters International Union
Union Label of Stove Mounters
INTERNATIONAL
UNION MARKET
Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen
ISSUED BY AUTHORITY OF
UNITED GARMENT WORKERS OF AMERICA
GENERAL 8944230 EXECUTIVE BOARD
REGISTERED
1 C.I.U. No. 1.
Coopers' Union Label
AMERICAN FEDERATION OF MUSICIANS
Emblem of American Federation of Musicians
UNION SHOP!
Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union
Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance
Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America
ULWIU UNION-MADE
United Leather Workers Union Label
UNION LABEL
O.P.&C.F.I.A.
314
Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union Label
UNION MADE
Union Label of Tobacco Workers
Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union
Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union
THE UNITED HATTERS OF NORTH AMERICA
REGISTERED
United Hatters of North America Label
Upholsterers International Union of North America
AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR
UNION MADE
Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America
Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings
Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners
UNION LABEL
Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers
UNION MADE
1893
Stone and Whitt Mason's Union Label
Jewelry Workers' Union Label
UNION STORE
Store Card of Retail Clerks
Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union Label
UNION LABEL
1892
Bookbinders' Union Label
CUSTOM TAILORS
ORGANIZED 1883
UNION LABEL
1898
Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America
U B C W
Brick and Clay Workers' Label
Union Label of Photo Printers and Die Stampers' Union
I.P.E.U.
International Photo-Engravers' Union Label
Paper Makers' UNION LABEL
Used on Rolls and Bundles
INTERNATIONAL GLOVE WORKERS OF AMERICA
UNION LABEL
Glove Workers' Union Label
ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL
Allied Printing Trades Label
UNION MADE
Paper Makers' Union Labels
BOOT & SHOE WORKERS UNION
UNION STAMP
Factory
Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp
HB
(REGISTERED)
Bartenders' Button
RWAE
REGISTERED
Waiters' Button
TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION LABEL
Local Typographical Union Label
UNION MADE
Machinists' Union Label
THIS MACHINE OPERATED BY A UNION OPERATOR
MEMBERS OF
I.A.T.S.E. & M.P.M.O.
AFFILIATED WITH AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR
Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators
Local Pressmen's Union Label
SEPT 1880
Issued by Authority of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America.
Union-made Cigars.
This Certifies That the Cigars contained in this box have been made by a First-Class Workman
LOCAL
STAMP
Cigarmakers' Union Label
UNION BAR
Card of Union Bartenders
THE STOGIES contained in this package are the product of UNION STOGIE MAKERS, Members of the U. M. H. U. of A. Issued by Cigarmakers' International Union of America
LOCAL
STAMP
Label of Stogie Makers
A. F. of L. Label
I.T.C.S.A.F.L.
Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America
UNION HOUSE
Card of Union Waiters

Trade IN TIRE SALE

ACT NOW FOR SAVINGS

For this week only we will make special trade-in allowances for your old tires. It is decidedly poor economy to worry along with worn, dangerous tires when you can equip your car with dependable new UNITED STATES tires for very little cost.

$1.00 DOWN

$1 Per Week

Remember — it's better to be safe than sorry. Our prices for new tires are lower — our allowances for old tires greater — our terms to suit your income.

TRADE IN YOUR OLD TIRES

We have a constant market for old tires and we can make a substantial allowance for any tire now on your car regardless of make, age or condition. Bring your old tires to us for the best allowance in town.

ENJOY THE FOURTH OF JULY ON SAFE TIRES

JOHNSON TIRE CO.

Broad and 11th Sts.

DIAL 6-6117

Chattanooga's Oldest and Largest Tire Dealers. Owned and Operated by Chattanooga People

Former Premier Demands Speedy Action for Idle

Advocating National Planning Conference, W. L. Mackenzie King Tells Parliament Canada Faces Perilous Situation.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Ottawa, June 30.—The Canadian government should immediately summon a conference of representatives of employers and employes, manufacturers' associations and farm organizations, transportation companies and women's societies, etc., to consider ways and means of coping with unemployment and providing for the relief of distress, W. L. Mackenzie King, opposition leader, urged in a speech on the budget.

"Many people are near the verge of starvation, and many more are greatly distressed in mind because of the position they are placed in through no fault of their own," he said. "Unless the prime minister and his colleagues take some very speedy steps to meet the situation they will find themselves face to face with a condition in Canada with which they as a government will be unable to cope. I make my suggestion in all good faith, not as the leader of a party—and the prime minister laughs at it; the prime minister!"

Mr. King evidently has an ear closer to the ground than when he was leader of the government. Having more time for observation, he is alarmed over the development of industrial feudalism, and the serious plight of the common people. The new feudalism, he said, has taken the form of "integrated industrial and financial control by which through the interlocking directorates of banks, investment houses and industrial corporations, the regulation of credit may be used to serve the interests of capital and increase the fortunes of those who hold privileged positions of wealth."

Demand that the government summon a national conference to plan a permanent solution of unemployment is also made by the labor and farmer members. In their amendment to the budget they regret that the government has revealed no policy regarding employment. In part, their amendment states "that the present economic conditions demand intelligent and intensive study and definite planning upon a national scale, with the view of substituting well defined cooperative principles in respect of production and distribution."

SPORT LOVERS TO HAVE TREAT IN AUTO RACES

Independence Day Card Promises Thrilling Contests at City Park.

The sport loving public of Chattanooga will be given something entirely new July Fourth in the form of an open competition automobile race at Warner park. Time trials will start promptly at 1 and the races proper at 2.

According to the promoters, drivers and cars that will race were picked from a large list of applicants, only the ones of known reputation for speed and daring being admitted. In addition to "Shorty" Gingrich, four times Florida state champion, the entries are composed of such dirt track celebrities as C. J. ("Crash") Waller, Carl Beal, Raymond Slack, Herman Jeanette, Walter Wallace, Dutch Terrell, "The Flying Dutchman," and two local boys, Whipple Crawford and Harold ("Pup") Allison. A total of seventeen cars will face the barrier when the starter drops his flag as a signal to "give her the gun."

This race will differ from those offered heretofore, in the respect that they will be running for prize money and not just a team of cars owned and controlled by the promoter. This is naturally going to make each driver strain his car for every ounce of speed it has, and some of them will have plenty.

The Knights of Columbus are sponsoring the meet and are doing everything possible to make it safe and comfortable for the many thousands of fans that are sure to be in attendance.

The track will be practically dustless, it is promised, which will make it possible for those wishing to view the races from their cars parked in the infield to do so with perfect safety. Preparations have been made to take care of the largest crowd that has been to Warner park in a long time.

Jobs Stabilization Director Appointed

Washington.—The new federal employment stabilization board is ready to function with the appointment of H. Sawyer, a New York consulting engineer and secretary of the Associated General Contractors of America from 1923 to 1929, as director.

Mr. Sawyer's appointment was announced by Secretary of Commerce Lamont, chairman of the board, whose other members are secretaries of the treasury, agriculture and labor.

The stabilization board was created by the only one of the employment bills sponsored by Senator Wagner, of New York, which became law. Advance planning of federal building work to prevent unemployment is one of the duties of the board. It is also required to co-ordinate the public building projects of states and municipalities with the federal program and keep the president advised of current trends of construction so that he may make recommendations to congress relative to public building work when employment is jeopardized.

2,096 CONCERNS FAIL; DEBTS, $120,317,711

New York.—Business concerns numbering 2,096 defaulted in May with liabilities amounting to $120,317,711, according to Bradstreet's. Concerns dealing in food, clothing, furniture and home furnishings made up the greatest number of failures.

Postoffice Squibs

By R. B. LANE

We are going to press a day earlier.

* * *

Vacation started the first of July. I understand that J. L. Miller, carrier No. 8, has gone to Florida. Well, if Florida is any hotter than what we have had the past week, I want to stay away from there.

* * *

A couple of new sub carriers were appointed recently, W. L. Ragsdale and E. C. Gardner.

* * *

There were six new members added to Lookout Branch 62, N. A. L. C., at the June meeting.

* * *

The Letter Carrier band is going up to the K. P. camp in the new park July Fourth.

* * *

Massey says that one evening this week when he got home there sat Henry Ohelson and wife on his front porch. He asked him why he did not bring Frank Brooks. He says he did not want him, he just looked out for himself.

* * *

M. E. Rainey is back at work at East Lake station after taking the balance of his 1930 vacation. E. H. Lyons and Fred Oehlsen, also of East Lake station, are shedding their teeth.

* * *

Hubert Guthrie and party left for Caney Fork on a fishing trip Thursday.

* * *

Saturday being a national holiday, there will be no deliveries of mail. Get out your flags, boys.

* * *

Frank Brooks had the boys believing that he was going to work route 8 while Miller was on vacation. Harry Gribben says that is no way to do, beating a sub out of a job.

* * *

Say, has it been hot this week? I'll say it has, hovering around 100 every day.

Organized Labor the Rallying Point To Fight Lower Living Standards

Glasgow, Scotland, June 30.—"So far the capitalists have produced no remedy for the economic crisis beyond wage cuts, the lengthening of working hours, and the suppression of social legislation and its institutions—that is to say, the general reduction of the standard of living and the aggravation of the hardships and sufferings of the workers," says the Scottish Typographical Journal, the organ of the Scottish Typographical association.

"The truth of the matter is that capitalism has brought about its own undoing. It has brought about an economic breakdown ,and things the world over are so much out of joint that it is bankrupt of ideas as to how to rehabilitate the former conditions.

"The 'system,' we are told, requires that the share of national income that goes to the producers must be decreased, and that the share that goes to idle money-lenders and income-receivers must be increased.

"Faced by the growing dangers to the nation's workers in the maintenance of capitalist ascendency, the working class has before it the duty of continuing its fight for democracy and the urging of its economic and social demands with greater persistence and energy than ever.

"Conscious of their importance and aims, the workers must see that social and technical progress shall no longer serve to promote the interests of a minority, but shall contribute to a general rise in the standard of living, the satisfaction of the physical and mental needs of all mankind, and the preparation of a higher order of society.

"Against the remedies proposed by capitalist employers the workers must, in their own defense, place the remedies they propose. These may be roughly summarized as shortening of working hours, maintenance of wages, paid holidays, raising of the school-leaving age, extension and expansion of social welfare and insurance, increase of public works, etc.

"Economic machinery and innovations of all descriptions, such as rationization, cartels, monopolies, the credit system, etc., must be brought into better harmony with the general interests of the community.

"The workers' organizations should be the center and rallying point of this great struggle and it should be our desire and endeavor to have the organization with which we are connected playing its part with resolution and intelligence in the struggle for the emancipation of the worker.

"If we have faith in humanity and progress, we should set ourselves to realize here and now the rights of man."

Wealth Distribution Must Be More Equal

New York.—The convention of the Advertising Federation of America asks for "the widest possible distribution among the creators of wealth of an equable share of the profits of production and of the time economies made possible by the development of machinery" as one measure to restore business prosperity.

In the opinion of the convention, the advertiser's ability to create a desire for things is wasted if the people who have the desire lack money to buy.

The convention did not specify higher wages as a mechanism for bringing about the better wealth distribution it desired. The selection of the plan was referred to business executives, the most of whom have not up to the present expressed much enthusiasm for a wider distribution of wealth.

As a measure to stimulate business immediately the convention urged that the latent buying power now in the possession of the people who are employed should be released by imparting to jobholders the conviction that their jobs are secure.

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

DR. L. J. USHER

DENTIST

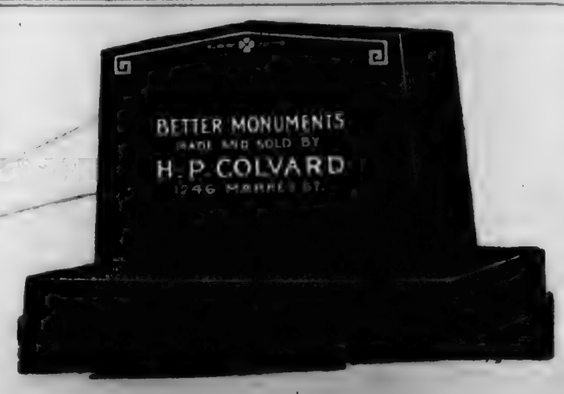
Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

7½ E. Seventh Street Phone 6-3612

Over Liggett's Drug Store

SWIM AT Warner Park Swimming Pool

Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.



OUR WEEKLY MARKET BASKE

WATCH this section every we for Grocery Bargai

Make your Dollar Double Duty. Patronize those who patroni YOUR PAPER — and save the difference.

Bargains for Saturday!

MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE	Limit 3 lbs.—Lb.	27c
PILLSBURY FLOUR	24 Lbs.	77c
IRISH POTATOES	5 Lbs. for	9c
LEMONS	360's, Red Ball, Dozen	23c
BANANAS	Nice Size, Dozen	15c
PORK & BEANS	Armour's, Can	6c
CRACKERS	1-Lb. Premium, 2 for	25c
PURE LARD (4 Lb. Limit)	Lbs. for	35c
BACON	Pound, Fancy Black Hawk	25c
CHEESE	Lb., Fancy Wisconsin	17c

INTERNATIONAL UNION MARKET

THIS IS TO CERTIFY, That this Food Market is conducted in accordance with the rules of the Amalgamated Food Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L. Therefore we commend it to the patronage of all.

SAUNDERS STORE

423-425-427 MARKET STREET

(INDEPENDENT OF ANY CHAIN STORE—HOME OWNED)

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

SALAD DRESSING	"Salad Bowl," a Good One, 16 oz., full pint	15c
PICKLES	"Mrs. Schlorers," Regular 10c size, 6 Varieties — 2 Jars	15c
OLIVES	Plain or Stuffed, Wolf's, Regular 10c Size — 2 Bottles	15c
TOMATO SOUP	"Van Camp's," Regular 10c Size — Can	5c
FLOUR	"Polly Rich," 24-Lb. Bag 75c; "Orient," Paper Bag, 24 Lbs.	81c
COFFEE	MAXWELL HOUSE (Limit 2 Lbs. — Pound	27c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feathe

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSE

IF YOU WANT THE BEST FLOUR MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI | CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, JULY 10, 1931 | Number 11

HORTON 'GANG' STILL CONTROLS SAYS D. HANLY

Not One Labor Measure Passed by Legislature.

BELIEVES NO EXTRA SESSION TO BE HELD

Quotes Gilbert Saying Any Labor Bill Passed Would Have Been Vetoed.

By DAVID HANLY
Legislative Chairman Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Nashville, July 8.—The Sixty-seventh general assembly of the state of Tennessee adjourned sine die on Thursday, July 2.

Gov. Horton and his gang are still in control of the affairs of Tennessee. His legislature appropriated plenty of money, but provided no revenue. It refused to authorize the issuance of bonds to the amount of $20,000,000 as requested by Gov. Horton. The senate passed a bill to provide for the issuance of $10,000,000 of highway bonds, but the opposition prevented the bill from coming up in the house. Commissioner of Highway Baker says that he will have to lay off about 4,000 employes of the state highway department, thereby adding that number to the army of the unemployed.

Not one labor measure was enacted into law during the session. If any had been passed they they would have been vetoed by Gov. Horton, according to C. C. Gilbert, secretary of the Tennessee Manufacturers' association, who is also a member of the governor's staff.

The effort to impeach Gov. Horton failed. If the people of Tennessee expect any relief from the mismanagement of their affairs they will have to consign to oblivion Gov. Horton and all his gang. What Junius said of the Duke of Grafton applies to Gov. Horton: "It is not that you do wrong by design, but that you never should do right by mistake."

Gov. Horton and his gang were in complete control of both branches of the general assembly through an alliance with all but six of the republican members.

It is my opinion that Gov. Horton will not call an extra session. The articles of impeachment are still before the house of representatives and can be adopted at any time a majority of the house members vote for them.

In the articles of impeachment presented against Gov. Horton in the house no mention was made of the violation of the constitution of Tennessee by him in sending the state militia into Elizabethton to crush the workers in the foreign-owned rayon plants at that place who had rebelled against intolerable conditions.

The report to be made by the joint legislative committee of the Tennessee Federation of Labor and the Railroad Brotherhood will give in detail the activities of this committee during the sessions of the legislature just adjourned.

Labor Code Secures Rights for Workers

Madison, Wis.—Gov. La Follette's approval of the labor code enacted by the Wisconsin legislature puts many demands of labor into statute law. The outstanding features of the code are:

Collective bargaining is held to be right of labor.

"Yellow dog" contracts are declared illegal.

Workers may legally strike, join unions, assemble peaceably, picket peaceably, make arrangements to act together, persuade other laborers to adopt their point of view, and the courts are prohibited from restraining such acts.

Trade union officials or members cannot be held liable for the acts of other members unless it is shown that such acts were instigated by such officials or members.

The courts cannot issue an injunction without notice and hearing to workers and only after an open court hearing, and an injunction can only last five days and be applicable to specific acts.

Appeals in injunction cases take precedence over other court business and must be expedited.

Persons cited for criminal contempt have the right of bail, of being notified in advance of hearing to permit preparation of defense, of jury trial, and of filing affidavit of prejudice against the judge. Punishment is limited to $25 fine or ten days in jail.

The labor code bill was introduced in the senate by Senator Thomas M. Duncan, of Milwaukee, now executive secretary to Gov. La Follette. He was formerly secretary to Mayor Hoan, of Milwaukee.

THE COUNTY IS SAVED!

For the past several days the people of Chattanooga and Hamilton county have been witnessing a political circus which, were it not for its possibilities of tragedy, would be even more amusing than other "remedies" for our present ills prescribed by the economic experts, theorists, taxation specialists, friends of the dear people and what have you.

First we were told that the county government planned to "reduce operating expenses" by cutting salaries of employes in the various offices. Proponents of the scheme were acclaimed by the newspapers as financial wizards, come to lead us out of the wilderness of taxation and the slough of despond which is its twin brother in this crisis. Habitual howlers against "high salaries and wages" arose and called their new Moses blessed.

The County of Hamilton was to take from the pay envelopes of these employes $5,000 per year—a great saving to us taxpayers, though it be indeed less than the annual stipend of one clerk or other official elected by the people to county office. A sum total which would hardly be sufficient to place a bronze tablet at the eastern terminus of the latest Missionary Ridge tunnel with the names of its builders engraved thereon; and which, if diverted to the highway department, for instance, would hardly pay for a few loads of chert to plug up a chuck hole.

But when this master stroke was announced it developed that the end was not yet—not by any means. We learned then that the system was to be extended to other departments, including the schools, and again the sorely-tried school teacher becomes the "goat." In fact, it appears that every employe of the county, with the exception, of course, of those whose salaries are fixed by law, is to be levied on to the tune of 10 per cent. of his or her wages as a sort of patriotic tribute to the county government and a salve to the injured feelings of the large landholder.

And when the entire county structure has thus been "rehabilitated," and the distressed taxpayer relieved(?) of this vast burden, we may expect to see a similar program advocated for employes of the city government. Then the door is opened to private industry to claim ample precedent for forcing down wages to new low levels.

When the present industrial depression first became acute, the president of the United States called into conference business leaders of the nation, and at his insistence exacted a pledge from them that wage levels were to be maintained. Many of the country's outstanding business men, spokesmen for the key industries, who in normal times have resisted wage raises with all the power at their command, are today urging that standards of working people be not destroyed, that wage cuts are false economy, and would eventually lead us deeper into the mire. That the promise of the nation's leaders has in the main been kept we are assured, and the fallacy that wage reductions will hasten a return to prosperity is becoming more and more generally recognized.

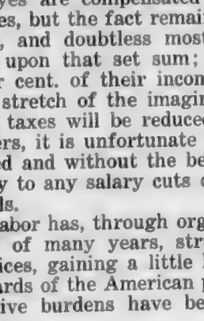
It is entirely within the range of possibility that some county employes are compensated in an unequitable amount for their services, but the fact remains that each was employed at a stated salary, and doubtless most of them have assumed obligations based upon that set sum; to suddenly deprive any of them of 10 per cent. of their income is not only unjust, but requires a great stretch of the imagination to figure just how the average man's taxes will be reduced in the process. In the case of the teachers, it is unfortunate indeed that they have never been organized and without the benefit of collective action must submit meekly to any salary cuts ordained by the august court or other officials.

Labor has, through organization and collective action, over a period of many years, struggled and sacrificed, cried aloud at injustices, gaining a little here and a little there to raise living standards of the American people, and through its program many excessive burdens have been lifted from the shoulders of the toilers.

That working men and women of Chattanooga and Hamilton county should witness first steps to destroy those standards locally taken by officials elected by the suffrage of all the people is, as we see it, deplorable, and we believe the present position of county authorities will be keenly resented, as a matter of principle, by thousands of citizens and voters.

SIGNWRITERS PLAN PROGRAM OF ACTIVITY

Enroll Five New Members at Last Meeting—Officers Named for Year.



CHARLES RUGGLES
Re-Elected President of Local 299, Signwriters.

Members of Local 299, Signwriters, are in the midst of a campaign of activity which they declare will not stop until every competent worker at that business is enrolled in the union. As an indication that the unionists mean business, it was announced that no less than five were initiated at last session, which leaves those out of the fold as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth.

Officers for 1931 were elected last week as follows:

President, Charles R. Ruggles; vice-president, Harry Bradfield; recording secretary, S. L. Englander; financial secretary, M. H. Ortwein; treasurer, O. C. Case; conductor, S. H. Wright; warden, G. E. McPherson.

Burglars Purloin Ruggles' Apparel

C. R. Ruggles, newly-elected president of Local 299, Signwriters, was the victim, July 4, of burglars. While celebrating Independence day as befits a patriotic union man, engaged in the approved pastime of matching wits with the finny tribe, his home was entered, and when he returned at the end of a rather unsuccessful day's sport he found his earthly possessions, in the matter of wearing apparel, consisted of:

Coats	0
Hats	0
Pants (used), pair	1
Shirt (used)	1
Socks (used), pair	1
Ties	0
B. V. D.'s	1

Charlie says, anyhow, it's summer, and a guy doesn't need much clothes this hot weather.

12 OUT OF EVERY 100 SILK WORKERS LOSE JOBS

New York.—Employers in the silk industry hired 12 per cent less workers during the five months in 1931 than during the corresponding period in 1930, the Silk Association of America reports. The number of workers employed in May was 5.7 per cent less than in April.

COUNTY COURT'S WAGE-SLASHING IS DENOUNCED

So-Called "Economy Move" Bitterly Resented.

PROTEST OF LABOR GAINS IN VOLUME

Correspondent Ridicules "Ballyhoo" and Makes Own Suggestions for Savings.

Recent "economy wave" in the county government, led by Judge Cummings, which has developed into something like a hysterical movement for salary and wage cuts, has occasioned much comment, and while the professional wage-slashers are approving pay cuts for county employes, adverse criticism is also being heaped upon the heads of the proponents and members of organized labor are outspoken in their opinions denouncing, in principle, the most unusual stand of county officials.

Executive board of Chattanooga Trades and Labor council has been urged this week to call a special session in protest against the trend of affairs, but it was held that inasmuch as regular session of that body will be held Monday night the matter can be threshed out at that time, and labor's voice may be heard collectively.

A fair indication of sentiment among local trades unionists with respect to the movement is given in a communicatiton from an "old-timer," who expresses his opinion as follows:

Editor The Labor World:

Hamilton county, through the "economy" efforts of Judge Cummings and members of the county court, is endeavoring to achieve the questionable distinction of being the first local government in the United States to add to the misery of the depression by wage and salary reductions.

Squire Wilkes Thrasher, speaking to the proposition Monday, denounced the Hoover administration, absolutely ignoring the well-known fact that the president has stood against taking advantage of the depressed condition of world affairs to batter down the standards of living of wage-earners of the country.

It is true that many have been and still are out of work. Is there anything in the proposal of Judge Cummings for a wage slash that will benefit the unemployed? Is it even proposed to put any more people to work? In all the ballyhoo about this matter I have seen no such suggestion. As a matter of fact, there has been no statement from those in authority that a reduction in taxes is even contemplated. It is merely alleged that the reduction in salaries is necessary if the present rate is to be maintained in the face of decreased assessments.

In the past few days numerous Tennessee county courts fixed tax rates for the coming year. If any of them found it necessary to make slashing wage reductions the fact was overlooked by the press. Many of them did cut the tax rate, however.

The mild scramble at the courthouse and the sudden zeal for the "dear taxpayers" forces the conclusion that there is something behind this proposition that does not appear on the surface.

Public officials are being told bluntly by certain interests that they must fall in line with this wage-cutting scheme or "walk the plank" when they come up for re-election.

Well, the working people should just as bluntly tell these self-same officials that if they allow themselves to be used in this matter the "skids" will be greased.

Without the slightest idea that they will be appreciated or make any difference, I would like to make a few suggestions as to county government that might save us advertising to the world that Hamilton's affairs are on a par with those of Tennessee under the leadership of Lea, Caldwell and Horton.

First—Call a halt on departments exceeding their budgets and creating large deficits. This should include the highway, as well as other departments.

Second—Buy no property for school sites or other purposes from officials of the county or relatives except through condemnation proceedings.

Third—Dig no more holes in missionary ridge just now.

Fourth—Leave a little of Lookout mountain as a historic souvenir of the glories of the past.

Fifth—Remind those in charge of purchases that commodity prices are down. Incidentally, commodity prices rise and fall sometimes almost overnight. Salaries and wages are hard to bring up and the men who help push them down can by no stretch of the imagination be termed friends of the workers.

Several members of the county court are supposed to be especially friendly to labor. Three of them did make speeches against the wage-cutting proposition—and then voted for it.

My limited knowledge of parliamentary procedure offers no explanation for such a course. In the language of the street, I can only inquire, "how come?"

OLD-TIMER.

Chattanooga, July 9, 1931.

Pay Cuts Termed 'Economy Lunacy'

Cesspool Must Go, Klein Says; Bankers Wrong

Assistant Secretary Calls for "Concentrated Attack" and Shows How Dividends Soared in 1930, While Wages Lagged

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, July 9.—Not only is wage cutting "economic lunacy," but the terrific underpayment of wages suffered by about three million wage earners whose income is below the average manufacturing wage of $1,322 per year must be ironed out "by some counter attack," declared Dr. Julius Klein, assistant U. S. secretary of commerce, upon his return this week from a midwest tour.

How far Dr. Klein reflects the sentiments of President Hoover may be an indefinite matter, but his statements follow the trend of Hoover's denunciation of the "cesspool of poverty" and it is popularly believed that on economic matters Klein is the Hoover spokesman.

Dr. Klein held that a national canvass showed business leaders "on the whole" keeping their agreement against wage reduction and he believes that in spite of "the occasional pressure" toward lower levels, industry, almost as a whole, will hold its present wage levels.

Wage Cuts Only Hurt.

"Some banking interests are in error," he declared, with some sharpness, "in their belief that general wage cutting will hasten economic recovery.

"The belief that wage cuts will restore the growth of dividends to national security holders may account for this insistence that lower wages will start an upward trend.

"This is a fallacious theory. Statistics show dividends have out-raced the upward swing of wages.

"Using 1921 as the level which marked the start of the last prosperity swing, we find that, on a basis of 100 for that year, dividends in 1930 reached the remarkable height of 397. Factory wages, on the other hand, increased only to 114 points in that period. To drop the wage scale, already not high, in hopes of pushing even higher the dividends, would undermine the purchasing power of the nation.

Must Not Tear Down.

"We already are finding strong evidence of a restoration of confidence on the part of the buying public. To instigate wage cuts would be to tear down the feeling of security which recently has returned to the people.

"There have been a few industries which have maintained abnormally high wage levels, but to call for a general cut because of this handful would not be sensible."

"We have evidence of a slow but certain upward swing," he said. "The rise of one commodity in particular, the textile industry, has been extremely promising of general improvement.

"In 1908 and in 1921 the recoveries from business slumps have been marked first by the upward swing in the textile industry.

"Retailers throughout the country are understocked. As soon as even a slight jump in retail buying becomes manifest there should come a general return to activity in replenishing of stocks."

Business Men Study Unemployment Puzzle

Washington.—Stabilization of employment figures prominently in the program for the coming year drawn up by the board of directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce, declared Silas H. Strawn, president of the chamber.

"American business has a vital interest in the stability of employment and in the possibilities of minimizing the disturbing effects of seasonal cyclical fluctuations," Strawn said.

"Employment regularization experiments have demonstrated unmistakably that the management of every type of business enterprise can exert some measure of control over the economic forces which produce intermittent employment.

"The special committee of the chamber now giving attention to this subject is exploring the possibilities of supplementing individual efforts at stabilization with a wider co-operative trade association effort. Undoubtedly, present successful individual methods can be applied on a much wider scale and with greater effect by whole industries."

Special Effort To Maintain Pay Held Essential

Hoover Debt Plan Brings Change for Better, But Winter Idleness Will Be "Very Serious," A. F. of L. Says.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, July 8.—Although President Hoover's plan for suspension of international debts for one year "has brought a psychological change that may mark the turning point toward business improvement," "winter unemployment this year will be very serious," the monthly survey of business of the American Federation of Labor warns.

The survey continues to emphasize that the big danger in the present situation is wage cutting, and goes on to say:

"Further wage cuts are threatened in the dull summer months, although the brightening business outlook will help to prevent a concerted movement for wage liquidation. Once started such a movement could assume the proportions of an avalanche sweeping along even those firms which are now resisting wage reductions. Danger is not past.

Hold Wages, Is Advice.

"Wage cuts involve millions of dollars loss in buying. Most of them can be avoided by improving efficiency. A special effort to hold wages in the next two months is essential to capitalize the recent turn for the better. Unions thus far have done much good by preventing or lessening wage cuts."

Discussing loss to labor's buying power this year, the survey says:

"From unemployment, part time work and wage cuts in the first half of 1931 workers have lost over five billion dollars. Their income is below the 1929 level by this amount. Workers' loss this half year amounts to one-fifth of the average value of all retail sales in the country in six months of 1929—it is more than twice the value of all our exports in a prosperous half year. This shows the immense loss business has suffered in the decline of workers' buying.

Guarantee of Jobs Urged.

"As well as the five billion dollar loss in workers' buying power, workers are holding billions more in reserve because even those who have work fear wage cuts and unemployment. These vast sums could be released for buying by assuring workers jobs through the winter; it would make a vast difference to business in the coming months. Most employers can guarantee work, either part or full time, for at least a portion of their force. This would be a practical step of much significance."

The survey sees definite good resulting from President Hoover's debt proposal. It says:

"The debt plan immediately awakened a spirit of greater confidence over the entire world. In this country fundamental business adjustments had been going quietly ahead for some time, but pessimism and doubt still paralyzed business. The debt plan has brought a psychological change that may mark the turning point toward improvement. Due partly to the promise of relief for Europe, partly to constructive developments in business which are now becoming evident, there is a definite change for the better in business sentiment."

Soft Coal Industry Under Investigation

Washington.—President Hoover has asked Secretary of Commerce Lamont and Secretary of Labor Doak to make a report on the economic conditions in the bituminous coal mining industry.

The Lamont-Doak investigation is President Hoover's substitute for a conference to consider the bituminous coal industry's problems which he was requested to call by the executive council of the United Mine Workers of America.

The appointment of the Lamont-Doak committee was announced in a telegram from the president to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

"The administration is desirous of lending every possible assistance to any constructive program put forward by operators and miners," the telegram says.

"Accordingly, I have referred the communications received from your council and others to the secretaries of commerce and labor, and have asked them to advise me as to the present attitude of those directly concerned in the industry as to the manner in which the government might contribute helpfully in any movement designed to advance the wellbeing of operators and workers, as well as all others interested in the bituminous coal situation."

$1,000,000 FUND AKSED FOR OREGON OUT-OF-WORKS

Salem, Ore.—Gov. Meier has recommended to the state highway commission that a fund of $1,000,000 be allocated for the relief of unemployment next fall and winter. Of the $660,000 fund made available last fall, $533,000 was spent for wages.

MILLER BROS. REMOVED FROM 'UNFAIR LIST'

Labor Makes Peace With Department Store.

UNION BARBERS ONLY EMPLOYED IN FUTURE

Settlement of Controversy Will Prove Welcome News to Hundreds of Workers.

Acting on a request from officials of Local 415, Journeymen Barbers, executive board of Chattanooga Trades and Labor council Thursday morning formally removed Miller Bros. company, local department store, from the "unfair list" of organized labor, and thus is ended a most unfortunate controversy which arose in the latter part of December concerning the operation of the barber shop and beauty parlor in the Miller store.

The dispute was an outcome of the organization of beauty workers in various local shops, the department store owners taking the position that established rates prevented agreement on the scale of prices prepared by the union. The beauticians' organization, although giving much promise and flourishing for a while, was the victim of peculiar conditions surrounding the trade, and after vigorous efforts to overcome the many problems encountered in the effort to establish it on a firm foundation, it was deemed advisable to withdraw the charter.

The new agreement with the Miller management provides that none but union barbers shall be employed in the department-store barber shop.

President George Perry, of Local 415, said Thursday that negotiations with the store management had been in the friendliest spirit, and he was high in his estimate of the attitude of the employers.

Restoration of the Miller company to the good will of organized labor will be welcome news to hundreds who had formerly found it a pleasure to deal with them, and who sincerely regretted the unfortunate break of last winter.

SCHOOL REPAIR WORK EXPECTED TO BEGIN SOON

Public Unanimous in Demand for Repairs Before Fall Sessions Begin.

Work of making necessary repairs on some forty-odd local school buildings is expected to begin within a short time, there being little doubt at this writing (Thursday) that city commission will approve recommendations of Commissioner Huffaker and furnish funds with which to do the emergency work.

The commissioner of schools, into whose department the buildings were formally transferred at the regular session Tuesday, has made detailed investigation of a survey recently completed by a committee from Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, and announced to the city fathers Tuesday that absolutely necessary immediate repairs can be made for a sum approximating $35,000.

Public demand that the buildings be placed in safe and sanitary condition prior to the opening of the fall sessions has been general, and so far as has been made public there is none to deny that such a program is imperative.

It is announced that, barring a hitch in the plans, work will in all probability be started immediately after appropriation is authorized by the commission.

State Plumbers To Meet Sunday

New state union of plumbers and steamfitters will meet Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the Labor Temple, Nashville, for a one-day session. E. S. Stacey, of Local 43 vice-president of the state body, said Thursday he is not familiar with the present program, but activities for the next few months will be outlined and passed on at the session Sunday. J. R. McKeehan, of Local 43, also is a member of the Tennessee association, and will accompany Mr. Stacey to the capital Saturday. G. Foley, of Nashville, is president. It is expected that a representative of the Journeymen Plumbers and Steamfitters International union will be present and give the benefit of his advice and counsel.

THE LABOR WORLD
310 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, JULY 10, 1931.

"Free" Speech

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

An American's proverbial privilege of "free speech" is a pretty costly thing if he dares take advantage of this right guaranteed him by the constitution of the United States. That is, it's costly if his speech is on behalf of labor when the industrial captains do not feel disposed to permit him to speak. A speech under such circumstances means he must go to prison, leave his family to get by as best they can, while he is forced to eat the bitter fruit of defeat and when he regains his freedom again either flee the community or return to live under the conditions he dared to protest. Just the other day at St. Clairsville, O., a couple of men wanted to address striking miners. The miners' employers said "no"—Mayor C. B. Bradford timidly told the men they might address the miners—an armistice was declared—the meeting was held—the state police were told to do their duty—not knowing what their "duty" was and having been dressed for the part by the state with big shiny badges, natty caps and uniforms and toting business-looking .38's they had to do something. They arrested fifty persons immediately following the meeting. Nobody knows what the offense was for which the fifty were arrested. But the state police had to do something. They had to keep busy even if it meant depriving others of a chance to work. Only a handful of the fifty were striking miners. The state police got store clerks, garage men, factory workers, etc. These workers thought there was such a thing as free speech in the United States—they went to hear one of these "free" speeches and it cost several of them their freedom and their jobs. They were not even speakers—then! But I'll wager all of them after they get out of jail will not lack for descriptive adjectives nor fail to avail themselves of the opportunity to make little front doorstep "speeches" on the costliness of "free" speech in this land of glorified restrictions.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—What proportion of the railroads have adopted a union-management co-operative agreement with their shop workers?

A.—A study made by Prof. Louis A. Wood, of the University of Oregon, shows that four major railroad systems in the United States and Canada, having together about one-sixth of the total combined railroad mileage of the two countries, have adopted the co-operative plan. The railroads are the Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian National, Chicago & Northwestern and Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific.

* * *

Q.—Who was called "the father of the Canadian labor movement?"

A.—D. J. O'Donoghue, Typographical union, Ottawa, first vice-president of the Canadian Labor union, organized in 1873. This was a federation of Canadian unions which had a short life. The work it started was resumed by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

RUN-DOWN and WEAK

"I began taking Cardui when in a weakened, run-down condition," writes Mrs. F. S. Perrit, of Wesson, Miss. "I took one bottle, and I seemed to improve so much that I sent for six bottles. After I had taken the six bottles, I seemed entirely well.

"Before I took Cardui, I was nervous, restless, blue and out of heart. I felt depressed all the time. After I took Cardui, all this disappeared.

"I gave my daughter Cardui and it helped to relieve irregular . . ."

This medicine has been used by women for over 50 years. E-170

Take CARDUI Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

YOUR LABOR PAPER.

Here is something to think about. The sworn circulation of some seventy-five weekly trade union papers in the United States is about three-quarters of a million.

That is, from one point of view, a lot of circulation. There are, let us say, twice that number of weekly labor newspapers and if the circulation runs evenly throughout, then the total circulation is about a million and a half.

Which means that only about half the members of organized labor read a local weekly labor newspaper, or any other weekly newspaper dealing with labor affairs.

And that is not so promising. Every member of organized labor ought to read the labor paper published in his own city and he ought to read two or three others. In addition to which he ought to read the monthly magazine published by his international union.

The obsession for baseball scores, made by purely commercial organizations for box office purposes, will never relieve the unemployment problem, which at this moment has six million workers literally by the throats.

There never was a time in world history when so much information was available about the workings of our great economic machine nor was there ever a time when so much of it was being printed in labor papers.

But the statistical fact is that the movement is not reading this information, as a whole. It is a statistical fact that a great part of the movement is not reading anything of value to men and women as trade unionists.

This is one of the genuinely serious things of the day. What can be done about it? Plenty.

It can and should be a part of the routine business of every local meeting to have a definite period of time devoted to the question of labor papers. The question should be asked of every member:

Are you reading your labor paper?

There should follow a discussion of the most important news of the week. At least fifteen minutes should be devoted to this in every meeting and a half hour would be better.

The number of newspapers read by union members could be and should be doubled.

There never was a time when labor newspapers were printing so much valuable material.

There never was a time when labor newspapers were as valuable as they are now.

There never was a time when labor newspapers could perform such valuable service, nor when they were so badly in need of support for their splendid efforts.

Boost your newspaper and then watch your newspaper fight for you. Circulation today means organized opinion and organized opinion is the only kind that gets anywhere.

Don't get the foolish idea that boosting a labor newspaper is just "helping the editor."

Supporting a labor newspaper means helping yourself to knowledge and helping your movement to greater strength.

BEWARE THE RED HERRING.

Perhaps the best friends Wall Street has today are those who point to the national capital and say, "Let the politicians do something."

To throw upon political life the blame for industrial and financial piracy and short-coming is to draw a red herring across the trail.

This depression is an industrial depression. The economic world has gone out of gear. Put the blame where it belongs.

Why should not industrial overlords, with their excess profits and fabulous reserves securely tucked away, be happy if politicians can be blamed? And why should they not be happy if all eyes can be turned toward politicians for a cure?

Keep the blame pinned where it belongs and bring forth the cure where the blame lies.

When the economic world accepts its own responsibility and sets out to readjust itself for permanent prosperity, then we shall be on the high road. And even those whose sole interest is in profit will be better off, for, if we may venture to state a sound but fearsome truth, this economic order will be assured a permanence which it may not have unless it can find its way to an existence based upon justice.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

IN 1436 a statute was enacted by parliament of England forbidding guilds and trading companies from adopting by-laws "in restraint of trade" and forbidding all practices in price manipulations "for their own profit and to the common hurt of the people." This is the earliest recorded instance of the use of the much broader term which later became known as the "doctrine against illegal combinations in restraint of trade," the second of the legal doctrines inherited by us from the British. Although it was not until 1436 that this doctrine of so-called "combination" in restraint of trade was actually written into the laws of England, the existence of the doctrine is as old as its twin doctrine of conspiracy. The doctrine against illegal combinations in restraint of trade was repeatedly invoked to hamper traders and employers from 1436 on, and in 1800 was again enacted in the form of a general statute declaring any and all combinations entered into by journeymen themselves illegal. Thus labor in the course of the centuries had passed through periods of governmental paternalism, wage protection and had now entered still another phase of guardianship, governmental antagonism. But regardless of the two legal doctrines, a multiplicity of laws and unfair court decisions to keep working men under control, both capital and government soon discovered working men did not hesitate to strike, "combinations" among them increased instead of diminishing and in spite of unjust laws they would not desist in their fight for a living wage. Parliament was finally forced to recognize the justness and validity of the working men's demands and as a consequence in 1824 an epochal step was taken by that law-making body which opened the way for the formation of modern trades unions. What this step was and the men responsible for this great reform will be discussed next week.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
Part XXXIII.
JESUS ON RENUNCIATION

Lk. 14:25-33. Lk. 5:2-11. Lk. 18:18-25.

WM. L. MOSS

First let me explain that Jesus' commands to certain persons with whom He came in contact to renounce their possessions and follow Him were not commands given to all men but were given to the particular personages Jesus was addressing at the particular time. This is quite evident in His words as recorded in Lk. 14:25-33, where He says, "Whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all he hath, he cannot be my disciple." Jesus was always on the watch for disciples, i. e., followers who would give up everything, prepare themselves for preaching under His tutorship and then go out and spread His gospel by their own teaching. We know of twelve or fourteen men by name whom He thus trained. Jesus realized that a person joining this little group of disciples must share in His ceaseless wanderings and therefore must detach themselves completely from home, kindred and business. We have not a single incident on record of Jesus calling the masses of people who came to hear Him preach and who accepted Him as their Lord by the name of "disciples." In fact, we know that Jesus often took His disciples aside and taught them many things He did not care to impart to the great multitudes who followed Him from place to place or who came out to hear Him teach.

The incident recorded in Lk. 5:2-11 must surely have been frequently repeated, especially in the earlier stages of our Lord's ministry, but the main point in referring to the incident in this article is to help bear me out in what I have stated in the paragraph above. The men called and who "forsook all" became members of the little band who were then and are today styled His "disciples," the selected few who were with Jesus constantly day and night and the recipients of His private teaching.

Undoubtedly the most conspicuous and touching instance of Jesus' demand of one who would be His follower while He was yet in the flesh is furnished in the interview of the Master with the rich young ruler (Lk. 18:18-25). The incident is recorded by all three gospel writers, and since this is true, evidently showing it was specially treasured among the early memorabilia of our Lord. Therefore I shall reserve it for treatment next week in an article by itself.

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

Justice seems to have skidded badly in the verdict acquitting a former Oklahoma deputy sheriff of killing Emilio Cortes Rubio, 20-year-old relative of President Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico. The verdict was returned twenty days after young Rubio and his student chum, Manual Garcia Gomez, was killed by the deputy's gunfire on a residence street in Ardmore, Okla.

William E. Guess, the acquitted deputy, and a fellow deputy attempted to question the students as suspicious characters. They were on their way home to Mexico by automobile after attending school in this country. Guess pleaded self-defense, alleging that Gomez pointed a revolver at him. It was charged at the trial that the revolver was "planted" on Gomez by Guess.

Though the shooting apparently was the result of a misunderstanding, coupled with lack of judgment and an excess of zeal on the part of the deputy sheriff, it seems incredible that it should escape all punishment.

* * *

Somerville Hastings, a British physician and member of parliament, discussing the medical service of the future, recently declared that medicine should have more to do with the prevention of disease.

"Every physician should have his mind directed into preventive medicine . . . At present preventive medicine takes but a small place in the curriculum of the medical student, and the laws of health are hardly taught at all.

"So much diagnosis and treatment has to be learned for the qualifying examinations that the preventive side is largely neglected. There must be more health propaganda and periodic health examinations. People rarely come for this or for information as to the laws of health, because it costs money. There should be no economic barrier between the physician and his patient. Efficient treatment depends on the earliest recognition of disease."

Unfortunately, the "economic barrier," another name for the inability of people to pay doctor's bills, stands in the way of medical advice and treatment when it would do the most good. Only the raising of the standards of living of the masses will do away with this barrier.

* * *

Removal of Magistrate Jean Norris, of New York City, as unfit for judicial service doubtless caused talk to the effect that her ousting proves women not suited for the bench, etc., etc. Of course it proves nothing of the sort, any more than the removal of a male judge proves that men are not fitted for the bench. All that Magistrate Norris' removal indicates is that some women are unfit for judicial office. There are women judges giving fine service, of whose work there is nothing but praise. Critics of women judges should remember that all mankind is prone to err, men as well as women, and that little can with fairness be argued from one case.

* * *

A code of ethics governing the relations between buyers and sellers of bituminous coal has been approved by the National Association of Purchasing Agents and the National Coal association. The need for the code has grown out of practices which both parties have recognized as undesirable and a detriment to themselves as well as to society, the public is told. Among the practices which the code is designed to eliminate are fraud, bribery and misrepresentation.

This is all very well, but what about a code of ethics governing the bituminous industry in its relation with its employes? There is need for such a code if ever there was need for anything. The need grows out of wage cutting, hostility to unionism and other practices recognized as detrimental to miners, operators and society, to apply the reason given for the adoption of the code for buyers and sellers of bituminous coal.

* * *

When do owners of steamship lines believe in government ownership? When they can't make private ownership pay.

This question and answer makes a good commentary on the action of the owners of the United States lines in considering asking the government to take back their lines, which they obtained from the United States shipping board a few years ago. The steamship operators thought they were going to make a lot of money then and they conducted a regular campaign to show how much better they could run steamship service than the government. Now they have found they can't make money and they have become converts to government ownership, at least as far as steamship lines are concerned.

The attitude of the operators is hardly sporting. They don't seem to be game enough to take the losses with the profits. Now that profits have vanished, they want Uncle Sam to assume the burden. "Let George do it," is their slogan.

What Next!

A new British color process was demonstrated to the Royal society in London, which, it is said, will revolutionize cinematography. The secret of the new invention is that the actual film base is printed with a foundation, or matrix, consisting of 500,000 minute red, green and blue-violet squares to every square inch of film. Over this foundation there is coated a highly sensitive emulsion. This new film, the result of five years' endeavors, is inflammable.

LABOR FIGHTS CUTS IN TRADE SCHOOLS

Washington.—The Central Labor union of Washington is carrying on a spirited fight against the action of the commissioners of the District of Columbia in paring down the vocational education estimates submitted by the board of education as necessary to provide adequate trade education facilities for Washington school children.

The estimates submitted by the board of education incorporated in general the recommendations of the advisory committee on vocational education, of which John P. Colpoys, spokesman for the Central Labor union, is chairman. Organized labor's campaign for better vocational education facilities for the District of Columbia is supported by the American Federation of Labor.

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company
Ideal Service at Moderate Cost
Phone 6-6114

COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Honest Weight—Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

STATEMENT
of the
Hamilton National Bank
Chattanooga, Tenn.

In Response to Comptroller's Call at the Close of Business June 30, 1931

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts		$15,057,936.51
Overdrafts		3,685.06
U. S. Bonds and Premiums		2,053,058.63
Bank Buildings (Five Offices)		1,462,241.63
Furniture and Fixtures (Five Offices)		119,548.32
Stock in Federal Reserve Bank		97,500.00
State, Municipal and Other Bonds		867,943.22
Other Real Estate		69,175.70
Customers' Guarantee Account, Letters of Credit		8,265.00
Customers' Liability Account of Acceptances		324,082.80
U. S. Bonds Other Than Circulation Requirements	$1,541,778.66
Cash in Vault and Due From Banks	5,070,843.04	6,612,621.70
TOTAL RESOURCES		$26,676,058.57

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock	$ 2,000,000.00
Surplus and Undivided Profits	1,330,464.77
Dividends Unpaid	50,554.00
National Bank Notes Outstanding	1,948,460.00
Contingent Liability, Letters of Credit	8,265.00
Acceptances Executed by This Bank for Customers	324,082.80
Deposits	21,014,232.00
TOTAL LIABILITIES	$26,676,058.57

The Hamilton Securities Corporation, with paid-in capital stock of $500,000, is owned by the stockholders of the Hamilton National Bank. This is not included in the above figures. Through this organization we offer a complete investment service.

DIRECTORS

J. H. CANTRELL, T. R. PRESTON, JOHN STAGMAIER, G. F. MEEHAN, L. M. STONG, J. B. POUND, A. W. CHAMBLISS, W. A. BURNS, HAROLD MORRISON, W. C. CARTINHOUR, W. R. LONG, C. H. HOWELL, P. J. KRUESI, ROLAND OLMSTED, GEORGE E. SCHOLZE, FRANK STEFFNER, O. B. ANDREWS, F. A. SEAGLE, MARK K. WILSON, J. L. HUTCHESON, C. M. PRESTON, C. M. WILLINGHAM, F. I. UNDERWOOD, J. M. GAGER, R. C. THATCHER, T. H. LASLEY, NEWELL SANDERS, F. O. RETTIG, D. B. HARRIS, FELIX G. MILLER, W. M. LASLEY, I. B. MERRIAM

We Cordially Invite Business from Individuals, Business Organizations and Banks!

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

BILIOUS

"I have used Black-Draught . . . and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—H. O. Hendrix, Homerville, Ga.

For indigestion, constipation, biliousness, take

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

Women who need a tonic should take CARDUI. Used over 50 years.

"PUT YOUR LIFE IN BISHOP'S HANDS"
Volunteer State Life Insurance Company
J. W. Bishop, Mgr. Home Office Agcy
ASSOCIATES
T. E. WALLACE — W. E. WEBER
B. A. PARK — C. W. BRADLEY
B. E. FLUKER — J. J. HARRISON
B. W. RAWLINGS — RAY SEAGLE
B. L. WALTERS — H. M. JUDD
E. L. BROOKING — J. H. JARVIS
R. B. WITT
MISS MAGGIE LYNN PEEPLES
H. W. RAY, WINCHESTER, TENN.

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
FRENCH CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

B L & K R
Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

Ready Cash
For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.
Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

Coca-Cola IN BOTTLES
Goodness and purity are sealed in.
Buy by the case

Pinchot Ends Rule Of Coal-Iron Police

(By International Labor News Service.)

Harrisburg, Pa., July 6.—Pennsylvania's hated coal and iron police are no more. Gov. Pinchot has refused to renew their commission and after sixty-five years of existence, marked by bitter clashes with striking workers, the coal and iron police, a private army of 1,100 men, paid by mine operators but commissioned by the state, no longer possess state police power.

In refusing to renew their commissions, Gov. Pinchot redeemed his campaign pledge to wipe them out. In his last campaign, Pinchot denounced the coal and iron police as a "body of men which has created more lawlessness and disorder and danger to public safety than any other in the state."

The coal and iron police will keep their jobs, it is expected, but only as private watchmen at the collieries and mines. Their activities will be limited to their employer's property and they will no longer patrol the roads of the coal districts.

Effort after effort has been made to abolish the coal and iron police by legislative action. But every effort has failed. Even at the last session of the legislature, despite the mounting tide of public resentment, greedy and selfish private interests were able to defeat legislation aimed at ending their autocratic rule. The law authorizing the coal and iron police is still in force and any governor can give them state commissions. But public opinion has turned so strongly against them that it is not felt any governor will revive them.

The coal and iron police, in their long history, have been responsible for no one knows how many acts of brutality, intimidation, violation of civil rights and even murder. They have been fought and denounced by organized labor for years.

Public indignation came to climax with the killing of John Barkoskie, a Santiago, Pa., miner, who died from injuries received at the hands of coal and iron police in their barracks in 1929. Three of the five police in the barracks at the time of the assault on Barkoskie were tried on a charge of murder but escaped punishment because a doctor who witnessed the beating of the miner said he could not identify any of the three defendants as Barkoskie's assailants.

Wages Must Be Raised to Provide Buying Power for Mass Production

(By International Labor News Service.)

Boston, July 9.—Higher wages is a necessity as production is increased and something can be accomplished if credit men who are extending credit to producers understand this, Edward A. Filene, president of William Filene Sons company, department store, told the National Association of Credit Men in a paper read before their convention.

"The credit men must see that the wage problem is not a mere production problem, nor a mere problem of maintaining pleasant human relations in the factory, the paper said.

"It is also a problem of maintaining business, of maintaining employment, of maintaining the ability of producers to sell increasing quantities of goods and thus of insuring greater and greater profits.

"When credit men come to understand this clearly, they will rightfully insist, as a matter of financial soundness, that wages must continually be raised as better and better methods increase production, and they will call a halt on the credit of employers whose wages are dangerously low."

Stressing the importance of increased consumption, Mr. Filene said "it must be solved partly through lower and lower prices, enabling more and more buying. It must be solved partly through higher and higher wages, providing more and more buying power.

"It must be solved partly through a shorter and shorter work period, providing more leisure for the masses, more time in which to buy and use the things which we have now learned how to make so abundantly."

On the question of unemployment, Mr. Filene said "it can no longer be tolerated, nor wasteful employment. Business must be more and more approached in terms of employment, of organizing the employment of workers no longer needed in the performance of other duties in the most scientific production and distribution of things it was never possible for the masses to have before.

"Wages, while they must rise as production rises, cannot be adjusted daily. Nor can prices."

Railroad Rate Increase Demand Contains Wage Reduction Threat

Washington, July 1.—The threat of wage reductions for railroad employes features the petition for a 15 per cent freight rate increase which the railroad executives presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is expected the increase, if granted, will boost the net revenues of the railroad companies about $400,000,000 per year.

The railroad executives state that during the depression they have "continued in employment wage earners whose services were not indispensably necessary to the transaction of the volume of business which was offered for transportation." Had they been disposed to practice drastic economy, wages would have been reduced long ago. But the railroad executives yielded to the policy, which they say is approved by most leading industrial executives, of maintaining wage rates as a necessary element in restoring prosperity.

Moreover, the necessity of a freight rate boost is imperative, and under the law there is a detailed and prolonged procedure necessary to reduce the wage rates of railroad employes. A freight rate boost, on the other hand, can be made effective in a few days provided the Interstate Commerce Commission approves the boost.

It is significant that the demand for the rate boost contains no pledge that wage cuts will not be resorted to later. On the other hand, it is clearly stated that the railroad owners regard present railroad wages as unreasonably high, and reserve the wage question to be dealt with "at a later stage."

The railroads are owned by about 800,000 stockholders, who rely on the government, through the Interstate Commerce Commission, to restore their stock to the dividend-paying status which railroad earnings for 1930 seriously impaired and in many instances destroyed.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

The First National Bank
OF CHATTANOOGA
Condensed Report to Comptroller at Close of Business June 30, 1931

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$17,240,563.33
Overdrafts	2,493.53
U. S. Bonds	2,647,726.57
State, Municipal and other Bonds	1,197,338.92
Stock in Federal Reserve Bank	120,000.00
Banking House and Fixtures	1,586,202.21
Other Real Estate Including Old Banking House	744,335.32
Customers' Liability Under Letters of Credit	37,217.48
Other Assets	43,550.14
Cash in Vault and due from Banks	4,842,304.96
	$28,411,732.46

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock	$ 2,500,000.00
Surplus	1,500,000.00
Undivided Profits	875,707.79
Reserve for Taxes and Other Purposes	62,932.61
Quarterly Dividend Payable July 1st, 1931	75,000.00
Circulation	2,500,000.00
Letters of Credit	37,217.48
Deposits	20,860,874.58
	$28,411,732.46

The $900,000 Capital of the First Securities Company, which is held by trustees for the stockholders of The First National Bank, is not included in this statement.

DR. L. J. USHER
DENTIST
Office Hours: 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.
7½ E. Seventh Street — Phone 6-3612
Over Liggett's Drug Store

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Teacher—Robert, here is an example in subtraction. Seven boys went down to the creek to swim, but two of them had been told not to go in the water. Now, can you inform me how many went in?

Robert—Yes'm; seven.

* * *

Mrs. Pemberton—It says here that the young girls today are abandoning all restrictions.

Mr. Pemberton—Well, I'd better not catch Mary Katherine without hers on!

* * *

It's Up to the Girls.

When skirts were short, some funny things
Both fat and thin were viewed;
We hope those props will be improved
Ere short skirts are renewed.
—H. F. B.

* * *

Have you heard about the Scotchman who married a tatooed dancer so his children could see moving pictures?

* * *

Wedlock often develops into a deadlock. . . . Bathing beauties are among the bare necessities of life. . . . The late husband catches the early morning lecture. . . The turning point in a man's life is often when he begins turning his pay envelope over to his wife. . . . Men have only themselves to blame. Women buy nearly everything on their account. . . . Some wives seem to think their husbands are made to order. . . A girl may allow herself to be led to the altar, but that's when the leading ends. . . . Dashing young ladies often lead fast lives. . . . Even in these swift modern times occasionally a girl may be found who is so slow that it takes her thirty years to reach the age of nineteen.

* * *

Little Josie flew into the house one evening very late for the evening meal and hurried to her mother's chair:

Little Josie—Oh, mother, don't scold me, for I've had such a great disappointment. A horse fell down in the street and they said they were going to send for a horse doctor, so, of course, I had to stay. And after I waited and waited he came, and oh, mother, what do you think? It was only a man!

* * *

How Times Have Changed!

"You must wake and call me early,
Call me early, Mother dear,"
That was often said to mothers
By the girls of yesteryear:

But the girls now tell their mothers
As they go out for a spin,
"You must wake up early, Mother, Someone's got to let me in."
—Forbes.

* * *

Business Man (after interviewing his daughter's suitor)—I regret I cannot see my way to allow you to marry my daughter at present, but give me your name and address; then, if nothing better turns up in the near future, you may hear from me again.

* * *

The mother who spoils her child may be foolish but the mother who doesn't is unnatural. . . . There was a time when a doctor couldn't figure much on success unless he was able to grow whiskers. . . . Several exclusive tearooms are now serving paper weights with their meals to keep the sandwiches from blowing off the table. . . . Every man should have a hobby, declares someone. Perhaps. But it is better not to let your wife see you with her. . . . The wise man never stops to argue with a sharp-tongued wife. He beats it. . . . Some wise man says: "A hundred hurry to catch up where one hurries to get ahead." . . . Silk stockings keep a fellow from noticing that her neck is dirty.

* * *

Mrs. Huller—Your husband looks like a brilliant man—I suppose he knows everything?

Mrs. Keeper—Don't fool yourself. He doesn't even suspect anything.

* * *

Caller—Does your husband get what he earns?

The wife—Yes, that's why we are always hard up.

* * *

Policeman (to resident seated on doorstep at 2 a.m.)—What's the matter? Lost your key?

Mr. Henpeck—N-no; M-m-my n-nerve.

* * *

Miller—That man is so honest he wouldn't steal a pin.

Strauss—I never thought much of the pin test. Try him with an umbrella.

* * *

Maud and the Judge.

Maud Muller on a summer day
Raked the meadow, sweet with hay,
The judge who passed, exclaimed:
"What fun!
Think what that hay is worth per ton."

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45518
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Pauline Welch Worthey vs. Sam Worthey
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Sam Worthey is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next August rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in August next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 2d day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Chet. B. Meyers, Atty. 7-24

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45414
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Richard H. Kelly vs. Nora Kelly
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Nora Kelly is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next August rules of said court, to be held at the court house in Chattanooga on the first Monday in August next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 11th day of June, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
L. Dixon, Atty. 7-11

EVENT—OF TREMENDOUS IMPORTANCE TO CHATTANOOGA HOMELOVERS

NEW LIVING ROOM FURNITURE — NEW BEDROOM FURNITURE — CARLOADS OF IT!

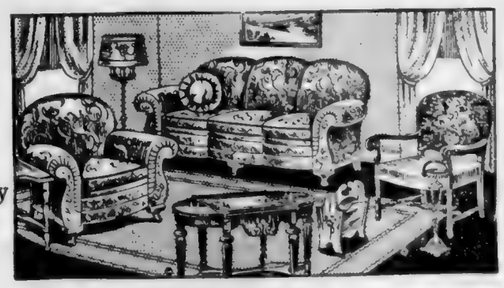
NEW DINING ROOM FURNITURE — NEW PHILCO RADIOS — CARLOADS OF IT!

$50,000 GOOD-WILL EVENT — STERCHI'S

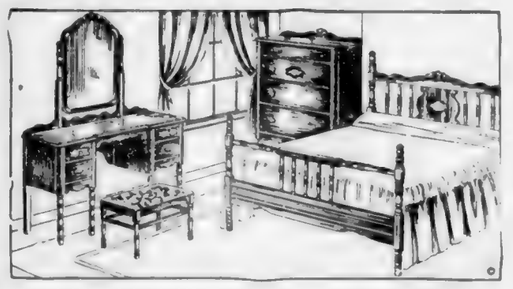
9-Piece Dining Room Suite—Genuine American Walnut
Good Will Price $89.00

Ideal for the medium size dining room. Suite consists of extension table with extra leaf attached, china cabinet, host chair and five side chairs. A real buy. See it tomorrow!

$1 Weekly Pays



Remarkable Living Room Suite
In the Good Will Sale at Only
In no way is this an ordinary suite—A new arrival—You'll agree with us when you see these two large overstuffed pieces, that anyone can now have a desirable living room. . . . Buy tomorrow.
$49.85
$1.00 WEEKLY PAYS



$1 Weekly Pays

Extraordinary Bedroom Value
In the Good Will Sale at Only
Think of getting a guaranteed 3-piece bedroom suite for a small price like this. Just another good reason why everyone should refurnish their home now! See this great value tomorrow!
$29.85
$1.00 WEEKLY PAYS

NEW 1930 PHILCO RADIO
Complete, Installed $59.50
$1.00 Weekly Pays!

APEX WASHERS
Phone for Free Home Demonstration
$99
$1.50 Weekly Pays!

Your Business Appreciated At STERCHI'S!

New in Style! New in Quality!
New in Sensational Values!

A Store of Many Friends — More Friends Wanted!!!

BROAD at SEVENTH
251 EAST MAIN ST.
W. EIGHTH at PINE

STERCHI'S
QUALITY FURNITURE
BROAD ST., AT SEVENTH

ROSSVILLE, GA.
E. CHATTANOOGA
251 EAST MAIN ST.

Here are JUST 4

of the Most Outstanding Mid-Summer

CLEARANCE VALUES...for your Hard-earned Dollars

(1) 50-lb. ALL COTTON MATTRESS

Get your needed rest—on a fluffy all cotton mattress—and this is a splendid value in an all-cotton mattress, in a firmly woven printed cover in neat patterns. $3.75

(2) ROLL-EDGE FELT MATTRESS

Sleep soundly on one of these 50-lb. felt mattresses—roll edges and imperial stitching, and encased in a heavy art sateen ticking. Most unusual value! $8.85

(3) 25-ft. Guaranteed GARDEN HOSE

Cool things off and give your lawn and garden a good sprinkling to make up for the long lack of rainfall! 5-ply guaranteed construction, coupled 25-ft. sections. $1.49

(4) 9x12 Wool-Nap AXMINSTER RUGS

Good-looking rugs—and of a splendid-wearing quality. Nice selection of pleasing patterns. Just SEE what a value they are. $21.47

Clemons Bros

COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS

West Eighth Street at Chestnut

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

SWIM AT

Warner Park Swimming Pool

Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.

Notice

to

Telephone Subscribers

After July 1st there will be a change in the date of rendering telephone bills in this city.

A pamphlet containing full explanation of the new billing plan was enclosed with your July 1st telephone bill. Please read it carefully.

After reading the explanatory notice enclosed with your bill, there may still be some point on which you would wish further information. If so, we will welcome an opportunity to help you.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY
(Incorporated)

Cotter Reappointed Plumbing Inspector

JOHN T. COTTER.

John T. Cotter, member of Local 43, Plumbers and Steamfitters, who has been city plumbing inspector for the past sixteen years, was this week renamed to that position by Commissioner Taylor, of the department of streets and sewers.

Mr. Cotter was first appointed by Commissioner Huffaker on Sept. 1, 1915, and has served successively under Mayors Chambliss, Hardy and Bass, and Commissioners Frazier, Crox and Betts.

He joined Local 43 in 1904, and recalled this week that except for a period when he was in business, has been a continuous member of that union. He is also a member of the American Society of Sanitary Engineers.

Publix Company Creates New Plan To Mulct Painters

Theater Corporation Uses Clever Scheme to Avoid Paying Wages in Accordance With Union Regulations.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Cincinnati, O., July 8.—Failing to lower existing wage levels on construction of their many theater projects, Publix Theaters corporation of New York have resorted to a clever plan to avoid paying wages of craftsmen in accordance with trade union regulations, it was learned here today. While the plan has not injured labor materially, steps are being taken to prevent its further use or its uses by other corporations.

Publix had apparently sublet the painting and decorating on its now million dollar Cincinnati unit to a concern styling itself "New Haven Studios." Under the union's rules the contractor pays the wages of his home town if that scale is higher than the local rate. If it is lower then he pays the rate prevailing in the city where the job is situated.

Until the very last day of the project the painters had no idea that the firm employing them was a subsidiary of the Publix Theater corporation of New York. The fact was revealed by one of the minor executives in charge of the work. In other words, Publix dodged paying the New York rate of $2 an hour by creating a dummy company under the title of "New Haven Studios," because the New Haven scale of wages is lower than that in Cincinnati. Although it is too late to do anything about the matter, union officials are preparing full reports and will broadcast these to other cities where Publix is either working on new projects or has them in preparation.

All Union Laws Strengthened by Court Decision

District Appeals Judge Holds Dissatisfied Members Must First Seek Relief Under Rules of Organization.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, July 8.—All international union laws are strengthened by a decision just handed down in the district court of appeals in a suit brought against the late Arthur M. Huddell of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Henry E. Fish sought an injunction to prevent his suspension by Huddell, then international president. Fish was business agent of the local union.

The district supreme court decided against Fish, who thereupon took his case to the court of appeals. The court of appeals has ruled that relief should have been sought through the union organization under its laws. The court further held that the laws of the union were adequate for the protection of Fish's interests.

Fish had been dismissed from his position, he asserted, and suspended for one year. He contended this deprived him of a living, and alleged that he could not secure relief under union laws. This the court has denied in holding for Huddell and the international union.

It is pointed out here that every decision in a clear-cut case has brought court rulings that dissatisfied union members must first seek relief through their organizations under organization law and that they cannot come into equity courts with clean hands until they have exhausted the union remedies offered.

REAL ESTATE PROMOTER DEFRAUDS HOME BUYERS

Washington.—A jury has found Joseph B. Shapiro, a real estate promoter, guilty of using the mails to defraud purchasers. The testimony showed that Shapiro had sold houses without informing the purchasers that the houses were encumbered with "hidden" mortgages. Purchasers bought the houses with the understanding that there were either no mortgages or only first and second mortgages against them to be confronted later with demands to pay "ground trusts" in addition.

ALONG MELODY LANE

By JOHNNY MAHONEY

We hear that Jimmy Cox and a few of his associates will spend the next few weeks at Cloudland. Au Revoir, Jimmy, pleasant dreams.

* * *

Howard Pack, bass blowing member of Joseph Leland's musical venders, has found a new way to rate with the women. Howard is filling all dates by airplane. Girls, don't be surprised to answer the telephone and hear Howard's deep voice informing you that he'll fly over to see you.

* * *

Ellis Goodloe is training to become president of our society. Pluk says he puts in eighteen holes of golf a day so he can be a good president like Sandy.

* * *

We want to congratulate Sugar Saidenburg for the fine work that he has been doing at the Tivoli, but most of all for the interest that he takes in the affairs of the local. He's at all the meetings and ready to do whatever he can.

* * *

"Sir," said the young lady to Herman quite haughtily, "either take your arm from around my waist or keep it still. I'm no ukelele."

* * *

Shelly Sands wishes to thank the execution board and all the members of the local for the many gifts and flowers that they sent him when he was sick.

* * *

The Bijou band seems to be hitting on all sixes, or we might say all eight. They are new men with a new kind of pit music, but Joe says he's satisfied as long as the deah ole pooblick likes 'em.

* * *

After the way Robert Fay played the uke in last week's performance at the Bijou, we feel that he should be given Herman's place in the local.

WITH THE ELECTRICIANS

By E. E. CROSBY

C. E. Coffer and family are vacationing in Florida.

* * *

Lost: One Berry. Where is it, W. W.?

* * *

Worley is the champ ——— shooter; won himself one quarter of a beef Saturday.

* * *

B. A. Keebler has been ill for the past week. He lives on California avenue at White Oak on Dayton pike.

* * *

W. D. London wants to know if any of the gang has found a substitute for money.

* * *

W. P. Howard says he has smoked 40 pounds of tobacco in his pipe. If it holds that much at one time don't tell him to fill it up at your expense.

* * *

Frost has it figured out how to make two pair of trousers out of one. Get a light pair to wear in the summer and dye them dark for winter.

* * *

The dewberries are ripe, so that's what I've been doing.

* * *

Fred Simons is playing the part of Salesman Sam. He is handling fans at present.

* * *

W. L. Williams will be the new delegate to Central Body with E. E. McDaniels, Ed Carroll and E. E. Crosby remaining over from last year.

Postoffice Squibs

By R. B. LANE

So far, the painting in the postoffice has made a great improvement in the looks.

* * *

Harry Gribben received card from J. L. Miller, who is spending his vacation in Florida, asking him to take care of the girls on his route.

* * *

Roscoe Talley, of Highland Park station, had twenty-five or thirty friers carried away by a thief. He has bought some more and says that he is going to lock them in when they grow up.

* * *

Bill Jones has returned from a family reunion at Harrison, Tenn.

* * *

L. D. Raulston is back at work after a few days sickness.

* * *

J. B. Ray is on vacation.

* * *

J. H. Johns is on his vacation, getting a much needed rest.

* * *

J. A. Carson says if the world is as big in proportion as it is up in the Smoky Mountain park, it is a "gollywhopper."

* * *

O. L. Farmer is taking chauffeur lessons from H. M. Baker, preparatory to his trip to Oakland, Cal., next month.

* * *

Tom Lane, of the Cincinnati Post, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Lane, in the Alberta.

* * *

Miss Vivian Davis, of Covington, Ky., will be the week-end guest of Mrs. Howard Williams at the Walnut apartments.

* * *

Miss Mae Walker, of Cincinnati, is the guest of Jane Lane in the Alberta apartments.

* * *

Earl Miller says he just had to see the Lookouts win the last game from Birmingham, and from the way Herschel Massey was moving when I last saw him he must have seen it, too.

U. S. Asked to Take Back Ships Operated at Loss by Private Concern

New York, June 30.—The board of directors of the United States Lines have requested the United States shipping board to take back the large fleet of eleven big ships which the board sold to the shipping company in 1929 for a fraction of their cost and on terms which extended the payment over a long period.

The sale was made to get the government to demonstrate the superiority of private ownership and operation in the development of an American merchant marine.

But even the genius of private initiative is unable to cope with the worldwide business depression. In 1930, the United States Lines lost $728,150, and with passenger traffic this year 50 per cent below last year's level, the loss would be nearly doubled.

So the officials of the company, while still believing in the "rugged individualism" which characterizes the present era, desire to have the people of the United States, through their shipping board, operate the merchant marine as long as that operation is carried on at a loss.

Cigarette Concerns Get $45,000,000 In Price Boost; Workers Get Nothing

New York, July 9.—The price boost of 45 cents a thousand for certain popular brands of cigarettes decreed by the four leading cigarette manufacturing concerns in the United States will add about $45,000,000 to the income of the companies this year, according to reliable estimates in Wall street.

The companies which pick up this golden nugget are the American Tobacco company and P. Lorillard company, of New York City; Liggett & Myers Tobacco company, St. Louis, Mo., and Reynolds Tobacco company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Out of a total production of about 120 billion cigarettes in the United States in 1930, these four companies produced 95 per cent, or around 114 billions.

The market value of the common stocks of the companies jumped over 100 million dollars when the price boost was made public.

The $45,000,000 tribute which the officials of the tobacco companies levy on chain stores and other retailers of cigarettes will be passed on to cigarette consumers.

The officials of the companies do not state that any of the $45,000,000 extra profits resulting from the price boost will be devoted to increased wages or shorter hours for their employes. The officials regard themselves as primarily the agents of the owners of the common stock, to whom under the law and practice the entire price boost belongs.

Residents of U. S. Spend Average Of $407 Yearly in Retail Stores

(By A. F. of L. Direct News Service.)

Washington, July 1.—Residents of the United States spend $50,034,000,000 a year in the nation's retail stores, according to data just compiled by the U. S. census bureau. In addition, goods priced slightly in excess of $3,000,000,000 are bought by consumers directly from manufacturers and producers.

The straight retail sales are handled through 1,549,168 stores. The ratio of numbers of stores to population is 12.6 to each 1,000 residents.

Sales average $407.53 a year per resident, indicating that the average family of four persons buys in a year goods worth $1,630.12 at retail prices.

New York, with sales totaling $7,240,000,000, ranks first among the states. Second comes Pennsylvania with sales of $4,040,000,000, followed by Illinois, third, $3,687,000,000, while California is fourth with $3,269,000,000, and Ohio fifth with $3,057,000,000.

These data cover sales in 1929 for which the census has just finished its tabulations. This is the first time the census bureau has ever made a count of retail stores and attempted to report their sales.

No data is being collected by the bureau covering sales this year.

The practical trade unionist always demands the union label, shop card or button.

OUR WEEKLY MARKET BASKE

WATCH this section every we for Grocery Bargain

Make your Dollar Double Duty. Patronize those who patroni YOUR PAPER — and save the difference.

Bargains for Saturday!

PILLSBURY FLOUR	24 Lbs.	77c
MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE	Pound	27c
SUGAR	Cane Granulated; 5 lbs. 25c; 10 lbs. 49;c 25 lbs.	$1.23
M. H. TEA	¼-lb. package 18c; ½-lb. package	35c
NORTHERN TISSUE PAPER	Roll	5c
WATERMELONS	20 to 24 lb. 24c 24 to 30 lb.	29c
CAN MILK	Pet; 10 Small Cans 35c; 5 Tall Cans	35c
SALT MEAT	Streak of Lean	10c
PURE LARD	4 Lbs. for.. (4 Lb. Limit)	35c
BACON	Pound Rindless Black Hawk	25c

INTERNATIONAL UNION MARKET

THIS IS TO CERTIFY That this Meat Market is conducted in accordance with the rules of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L. Therefore we can recommend it to the patronage of all.

Issued by authority of the Administrative Representative and Executive Committee of Union America A. F. of L.

SAUNDERS STORE

423-425-427 MARKET STREET

(INDEPENDENT OF ANY CHAIN STORE—HOME OWNED)

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY

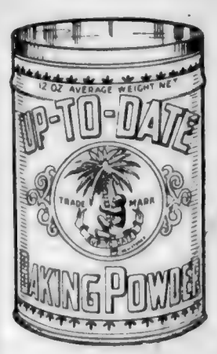
SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street — 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

PORK & BEANS	Armour's "Veri-Best" Regular 10c size—Can	5c
POTTED MEAT	Armour's "Veri-Best" Regular 5c size—2 Cans	5c
COMP. OR PURE LARD	Very best grades (4 Lb. Limit) 4 Lbs.	35c
FLOUR	Polly Rich, Extra Quality, 24-Lb. Bag	75c
MATCHES	Large Box... 2c SALT Reg. 5c size 2 Boxes for	5c
WINEDRIP	The Better Coffee, Always Good Pound	16c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET



Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feathe

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSE

IF YOU WANT THE

BEST

FLOUR

MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

Labor Denounces Wage-Slashing Program

Tennessee Coal Strike Successfully Ended

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI | CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, JULY 17, 1931 | Number 12

GREEN URGES WORKERS TO RESIST DESTRUCTION OF LIVING STANDARDS

ocal Low-Pay Campaign Keenly Resented by Central Body.

ALLS ON ESQUIRES O CHECK MOVEMENT

olutions Oppose First Steps Toward Lowering American Standards Bought and Paid For by Heavy Sacrifice of Workg Men and Women.

Wage-cutting in general and e present effort of the county ge along that line in particuar was the principal topic for cussion at Monday night's regar meeting of Central Body, nd expressions by various delees left no doubt of the resentt of organized labor concernng the much-discussed plan to ndate" living standards of rking people under the guise "economy."

A timely communication from esident Green, of the Americ Federation of Labor, urging mediate action to forestall the struction of standards which pears now to be the program the low-wagers in the "high ces," furnished an appropriate ce to the introduction and bsequent passage unanimously three resolutions, each bearg on the local political-financial uation. Mr. Green said, among her things:

"There is a terrific battle on tween the advocates of high ges and the wage-cutters. ur business recovery makes it ry difficult for small business ncerns to continue normal exenditures. Some agencies are ging deflation of prices, values d wages. Deflation has deoyed investments that represted work and savings. Some the larger concerns are takg advantage of conditions as an cuse to cut wages and destroy andards of work established by ars of effort.

"To stop wage-cutting should the immediate concern of ery central labor union. * * * ry (your citizenship) to realize that wage-earners constitute per cent. of retail trade, and at wage-earners' buying power ans to the real estate busiss, to the merchant, to insurce, dentists, doctors, etc. * * *"

Attention was also called to the ct that there are in all comunities employers who are adfastly maintaining wage es, and the federation executive urges that the workers do e in their power to buy from m and turn patronage to m.

Three resolutions, each exssing in no uncertain terms position of Chattanooga workpeople, were adopted following general discussion of the losituation brought about by nty Judge Cummings' proam of wage-slashing.

GES COUNTY COURT RESCIND ACTION.

The first of these resolutions s attention to the fact that ge-cutting policies tend to deoy living standards, ridicules "economy" plea in cutting nty wages, denounces the proal as "unjust, unfair, unreaable and unnecessary," and upon the members of the nty court to call a special sion and undo the damage ch has been done and the ater calamity seen in a conation of the program. Sher- Taylor, Clerks Rogers and k, who have stood steadly in their refusal to enter the plan, are highly comded for "refusing to take

LABOR'S POSITION ON WAGE-CUTTING

"Economy" Claims Ridiculed

Whereas, certain officials of Hamilton county have initiated a program of wage-slashing, and are endeavoring to extend this program, under the guise of "economy," to all departments of the county government; and,

Whereas, such a policy of lowering living standards in this great crisis is opposed to the advice and counsel of many of the nation's outstanding industrial leaders, from whom the president of the United States exacted a pledge to keep wages at their usual level while the present depression exists; in general, wage cuts will retard the recovery of business stability and the return to prosperity, and in particular the slashing of salaries and wages of county employes will impose an added burden on thousands of citizens and will bring a negligible sum in return; and,

Whereas, the continuance of this policy by county officials will give aid and comfort to other employers who are attempting to beat down wages of workingmen; and,

Whereas, organized labor has, over a period of many years, struggled and sacrificed to obtain for working people a fair and just share of that they produce; therefore, be it

Resolved, by Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council, representing thousands of working men and their families in this territory, That we denounce the present attitude of county authorities in this matter as unfair, unjust, unreasonable and unnecessary, and we call upon those members of the county court who desire to serve their constituency to demand a special session of said court to override the action already taken; be it further

Resolved, That we commend the stand of Sheriff Charley Taylor, Clerks Tom Rogers and Hays Clark, and others who are refusing to take dictation from a frenzied and arrogant group who apparently can find no way out of our difficulties other than to place the entire burden upon the already-overloaded shoulders of the men and women who work for a living; be it further

Resolved, That this resolution be offered the daily papers for publication, that the citizenship of Chattanooga may be informed of our position.

Offer Aid to Teachers

Whereas, the program of wage slashing of all county employes, regardless of justice and equity, as promulgated by Judge Cummings, is unsound and unfair; and,

Whereas, since the wages of school teachers, those already miserly paid mainsprings of the rearing of our American youth, will be still further reduced in order to alleviate the suffering of our millionaires; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Chattanooga Trades and Labor council resents and protests, reasons and demands, that if school teachers' wages are affected in any way that it be on an increasing basis, regardless of whether today's dollars can buy more Packard automobiles, $85,000 homes, or gold bathtubs; and, be it further

Resolved, That Chattanooga Trades and Labor council hereby brings attention to the school teachers themselves that we welcome them in any effort that they may make to help themselves, rather than sitting supinely by, crying for justice and aid.

"Stay in Your Own Back Yard"

Whereas, Mayor James A. Trent, of Knoxville, was quoted in a recent issue of the Chattanooga News as extolling the virtues of wage-cutting as practiced in the government of our sister city of which he is the elected head; and,

Whereas, working men and women of Chattanooga are doing everything in their power to combat wage cuts as a matter of principle; and,

Whereas, Mayor Trent is a member of organized labor and doubtless enjoys the support and co-operation of his fellow trades unionists in Knoxville; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we suggest that Mr. Trent's activities along the wage-cutting line might well be confined to the limits of the city over whose affairs he presides, and that we furnish a copy of this resolution to the Knoxville Central Body for their information.

dictation from a frenzied and arrogant group who apparently can find no way out of our difficulties other than to place the entire burden upon the already overloaded shoulders of the men and women who work for a living."

PROTEST SLASHING OF TEACHERS' PAY.

Arbitrary cut of 7½ per cent. in the wages of school teachers, after contracts for the year had already been made, is the subject of another resolution, and demand is made for increases rather than cuts in the pay of these sorely-tried public servants. Suggestion is also made that the teachers take steps to help themselves, and every assistance is offered in such a commendable effort if and when made.

TAKE HOT SHOT AT JIM TRENT.

The third resolution bearing upon the local situation offers resentment at an interview supposedly given to the Chattanooga News by James A. Trent, of Knoxville, which quoted the sister city's trade-unionist-mayor as praising the benefits of wage cuts as practiced by the city over which he presides. Suggestion is made, in effect, that Chattanoogans are capable of working out their own problems, and the "traveling mayor" of Knoxville might well turn his entire attention to affairs at home.

C. E. Watkins, director of the Chamber of Commerce financial campaign, appealed to the members for co-operation in the upbuilding of the city, and Ben Williams, general organizer for the United Mine Workers of America, reported on conditions in Kentucky and Tennessee affecting the "coal-diggers." His remarks were very optimistic, and included a prediction that the mine workers of District 19, Tennessee and Kentucky, are in a fair way to throw off the yoke of oppression which non-union

(Continued on Last Page)

"PAY-OFF MAN" OF HORTON BOYS IS LABOR CHIEF

Charles R. Love Replaces Union Printer.

JAMES M. SOUTHALL GIVEN A PINK SLIP

New Commissioner Was Unfriendly to Legislation Sponsored by Workers.

By DAVID HANLY
Legislative Chairman Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Nashville, Tenn., July 15.—Gov. Horton on yesterday discharged James M. Southall as commissioner of labor and appointed in his stead Charles R. Love, of Springfield, Robertson county.

Mr. Southall was appointed by Gov. Horton about two years ago, succeeding E. M. Gillenwaters. He has been an active member of the International Typographical union for more than twenty-five years. At the present time he is a dues-paying member of Nashville Typographical Union No. 20. Mr. Southall was a conscientious public pinchat who believes in the principles of trades unionism.

Mr. Love, his successor, has been prominent in Tennessee politics for many years. He was speaker of the house of representatives in 1929. As a member of the legislature he was not friendly to labor legislation. After the adjournment of the 1929 general assembly he was appointed to a job in the department of finance and taxation.

He managed Gov. Horton's campaign for the democratic nomination for governor last year. It is generally believed that an enormous campaign fund was riased to secure the nomination of Horton. Mr. Love dispensed this large slush fund in the interest of the governor and also financed the campaign of several democratic members of the present general assembly. It is also reported that he handled the money that was used to defeat the impeachment of Gov. Horton.

Thomas N. Greer, a well-known lobbyist for the utility corporations, is now the power behind the throne in the Horton administration. He was the brains of the Horton forces that defeated the effort to impeach the governor. Love was known as the pay-off man.

Some surprise was occasioned by the appointment of a brother of Carroll Reese, ex-republican congressman from the First congressional district, as the successor to A. S. Caldwell as commissioner of insurance and banking. It is believed here that Mr. Reese is a republican and only claims that he is a democrat to meet the emergencies of this occasion. It is generally believed in political circles that this appointment is a pay-off for republican votes against impeachment.

It is rumored here that Commissioner of Highways Baker is the next to walk the plank. Baker is the man who testified before the probe committee that, in an "unguarded moment," he was persuaded to deposit $250,000 of highway funds in the Holston Trust company of Knoxville. Gov. Horton has not uttered one word of criticism against Baker for this act. It is rumored that he is to be fired to make a place for Capt. Thomas N. Henderson, of Franklin county, chairman of the state democratic committee. Henderson was formerly an assistant state's attorney-general. It is said his resignation was demanded by Atty.-Gen. L. D. Smith because of some questionable opinions he furnished the highway department.

New Electrician Makes Public Bow

A new electrical worker has made his bow to the Chattanooga public. The newcomer is not exactly a journeyman, but in time will make a competent craftsman, according to "Daddy," who, by the way, is Grady McArthur, member of Local 175. The youngster arrived last Tuesday night at the home, 4110 Thirteenth avenue, and at press time had not been named. He is said to have weighed the usual ten pounds.

It is reported that when the little McArthur first opened his eyes he said: "Now, Dad, I'm going to need plenty of attention during the next twenty years or so, and don't you stand for any of these punk arguments about wage cuts."

'YELLOW DOG' ROUTED BY COAL MINERS; SIGN PACT WITH OWNERS

Trade Union Principles Only Hope For Coal Industry, Miners Assert

Indianapolis, Ind., July 15.—Recognition of the trade union by the bituminous coal mine operators and the development of joint wage-agreements is put forward in a statement issued by the United Mine Workers of America as the only measure that will restore economic order and prosperity to the coal industry.

Officials of the union contend that since the bituminous operators began their drive against organized labor a few years ago the coal markets of the country have been a "ruinous uneconomic battleground." The business individualism of the operators has resulted in price cuts and wage cuts which have brought profitless production to many operators and suffering to the miners.

The union declares that a similar condition existed in the latter part of the last century. The emergency of forty years ago was considered by a number of joint conferences between representatives of the organized miners and operators. The conferences discussed methods to rescue the bituminous industry from the economic ruin into which anarchistic business practices had driven it.

It is claimed that in 1898, as a result of these joint conferences, "collective bargaining and the eight-hour day became a reality by joint wage-agreement, which also embodied other rigid provisions designed to put the industry on a sound economic footing." This agreement, it is asserted, rescued the bituminous coal industry from its disastrous condition.

The statement points out that the uneconomic practices which obtained in the bituminous industry prior to 1898 have developed in recent years with similar economic troubles for both miners and operators. "But there are signs that the same time-proven stabilizing forces of joint wage-agreements will again be invoked. Joint agreements in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, recently negotiated, after six years of marketing labor and capital assets, give promise that barbarous self-destruction will give way to an enlightened plan.

"The leaders of industry should recognize, after many years of experimentation, that there is only one workable plan—and that, the joint wage-agreement."

Officials of the United Mine Workers hope the conference of the bituminous operators recently convened in Washington by Secretary of Commerce Lamont will result in conferences between the miners and the operators and the reincarnation of the joint wage-agreement.

Electricians Lose A Valued Member

B. A. Keebler, Newly-Elected Vice-President, Succumbs to Sudden Illness.

B. A. Keebler, elected vice-president of Local 175, Electrical Workers, only a few weeks ago, succumbed last Friday morning to an illness ness which had attacked him but a few days previously.

Mr. Keebler was 30 years old. He had been active in the counsels of Local 175 for some time, and his advice and counsel in the organization's work was highly valued. He was well liked by his fellow craftsmen, and his pallbearers were chosen from the union's membership.

Mr. Keebler is survived by his widow, two daughters, Lillian and Betty Jean; three sisters, Mrs. W. O. Tribble and Mrs. Jessie Stilwell, of this city, and Mrs. J. A. Ellis, of Los Angeles, Cal.; two brothers, H. V. Tallent, of this city, and M. O. Keebler, of San Diego, Cal.

Funeral services were held in the Chapman funeral home at 10:30 Saturday morning, conducted by the Rev. W. T. McMahan, and interment followed at Chattanooga Memorial park. The following members of Local 175 acted as pallbearers: Ed Carroll, R. H. Duncan, John Kennedy, E. E. McDaniels, Fred Simons and W. L. Williams.

Local 175 Wednesday night adopted the following resolutions on the passing of the deceased brother:

Whereas, the Angel of Death has entered the home of one of our members and taken therefrom the husband and father, Brother Boyd A. Keebler; and,

Whereas, Brother Keebler was a worthy citizen, a kind and loving husband and father, a loyal and sincere worker in his craft union;

Resolved, That we will miss him, individually and collectively, and we mourn with his family in the untimely taking away of our good brother; be it further

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to all the surviving relatives, and that we send copies of this resolution to them and to The Labor World for publication, and drape our charter for thirty days as a token of our esteem for Brother Keebler.

C. A. FROST,
R. H. DUNCAN,
E. E. M'DANIELS,
Committee.

The Labor World joins the Electrical Workers and many other friends of Brother Keebler in extending heartfelt condolences to the bereaved family in their dark hour.

Plate Printers Have Out-of-Work Problem

Washington. — Unemployment will have a prominent place in the business of the thirty-ninth annual convention of International Plate Printers', Die Stampers' and Engravers' union which will be held in Philadelphia, July 20-25.

"Unemployment is the great question confronting our own craft and an effort should be made by our delegates to solve this problem, at least for plate printers, die stampers and engravers," declares Frank J. Coleman, editor of the Plate Printer, the official journal of the union.

"The days of competition with our craft by other methods of printing are not over, and it will be a hard fight during the coming years to hold our own against the wage of cheap production that is now being advocated by those who have been responsible for our present unemployment problem.

"The American Federation of Labor is a great constructive force in the United States today that the workers must look to for their economic salvation. On every hand wage cuts and cheap methods are advocated and being put into operation despite all the promises that were made to President Hoover that every effort would be made to maintain existing wage scales and conditions."

Furuseth Says Unions Are Labor's Strength

San Francisco—The labor movement is about to enter the most strenuous period in its history, Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seamen's Union of America, told the San Francisco Labor council. He claimed that big business is in control of the country and the only thing its leaders can think of or understand is to follow in the footsteps of the old capitalistic masters. In his opinion "rationalization is eating up and destroying our civilization."

Mr. Furuseth expressed his faith in trade unionism as the protector of the workers in these times of stress. Labor will have to fight for the preservation of the conditions it has established throughout the years, he said. It will find a way through the wilderness and make a reality of the principle that all men are equal and entitled to equal opportunity.

Agreement Reached With Operators of Overton-Fentress Counties.

MOVE HAILED AS BIG FORWARD STEP

Employer and Employe Will Co-operate to Bring Order Out of Chaos in Industry—Williams Praises Conduct of Workers in Trying Situation.

"Rest in Peace"

DIED, in Fentress-Overton counties, Tennessee, on or about July 11, 1931, the mongrel pup pictured above as he was in his healthiest days. This pup departed unhonored and unsung. He has many cousins, uncles and aunts in various sections, some in Tennessee, who are also very ill, and the death rate in his family in other states has been extremely high in the past few months.

Fathered by short-sighted and selfish employers, his family has been imposed on many, but when the pedigree is traced only the hard-boiled would allow them around their places of business.

Following a strike of some three weeks which tied up two of three large coal mines in Fentress and Overton counties, Tennessee, agreements were signed last Friday whereby all disputes are adjusted, the strikers returned to work, and thus was taken the first steps in what representatives of the mine workers described to The Labor World as "the most logical, practical and constructive program to correct the many ills which conditions have forced upon the industry as a whole."

The walkout occurred when efforts to adjust working conditions had failed, and after several hundred men had been discharged for joining the United Mine Workers of America, whose representatives were sent into these counties at the urgent appeal of the workers themselves.

When it appeared there was no possibility of reaching an agreement, a strike was declared, but one of the three companies made peace with its employes before the walkout could become effective. The other two concerns remained adamant until some ten days ago, when they decided to sit at the conference table and iron out the existing differences. As stated above, these confer-

(Continued on Last Page)

THE LABOR WORLD
819 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 19, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, JULY 17, 1931.

"If winter comes, shall spring be far behind?"

Oh, Economy! What sins are committed in thy name!

It is suggested that there are those who, for economy's sake, would cut the wages of sin.

It may not get us very far, but anyhow the wage-slashers know now where labor stands on their proposals.

Latest figure sets the average wealth of American citizens at something like $2,857. Great Scott, but haven't a lot of us been shortchanged?

Comparatively few people knew that July 11 was the birthday of Senator George Norris, but the time may come when that date is printed in red ink on our calendars. Who knows?

It is discovered that several of our school principals have been acting as agents for book publishers. Which may be bad. But the school teacher must live, and under our present system of "salaries" most anything in the way of a sideline is doubtless acceptable to them.

Gov. Horton runs true to form in the appointment of former Speaker of the House Love to be commissioner of labor. Mr. Love is not regarded as a friend of labor by those who checked his record as a legislator. As, well, in this and other matters occupying our minds in these parlous times, another day will come.

Tennessee Electric Power company has applied for injunctions against "jitney" operators, claiming exclusive right to operate over local streets. Now just suppose these wage-cutters force our pay down to where we are unable to stand the exorbitant prices which that concern taxes us for our lights. Would the lighting of an old kerosene lamp in our homes be an invasion of the corporation's sacred rights?

J. L. Levine, prominent local attorney, in an interview in the morning paper Tuesday, took sharp issue with the county wage-slashers, and cited some figures which must have proved somewhat embarrassing to those who have set out to "relieve the dear people of their great tax burdens" by reducing wages of county employes. Mr. Levine figures that a 10 per cent cut all down the line might, with a liberal interpretation, save the average man 60 cents per year in taxes. Mr. Levine, quite a large taxpayer himself, is to be congratulated upon his fair-minded stand, and upon his "intestinal stamina" in opposing the propaganda of the low-wage advocates.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

PAINS QUIT COMING

"When I was a girl, I suffered periodically with terrible pains in my back and sides. Often I would bend almost double with the intense pain. This would last for hours and I could get no relief.

"I tried almost everything that was recommended to me, but found nothing that would help until I began taking Cardui. My mother thought it would be good for me, so she got a bottle of Cardui and started me taking it. I soon improved. The bad spells quit coming. I was soon in normal health."

—Mrs. Jewel Harris, Winnsboro, Texas.

Sold At All Drug Stores. E-77

CARDUI
Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE.

President Hoover has been urged to call a national industrial conference and the National Civic federation has communicated with employers and labor organizations to find out whether there will be sufficient response to justify it in calling a conference.

This recalls the fact that the first industrial conference representing three groups of citizens—labor, employers and the public—was called by President Wilson in 1919. It would appear that a short statement in regard to the appointment of the representatives of the three groups, the discussion, and the antagonistic position taken by the employers' group, which prevented an agreement and legislated the labor group out of the conference, would be of interest at this time.

On Sept. 3, 1919, President Wilson sent letters to representatives of labor, employers, and the public, inviting them to attend an industrial conference in Washington, D. C., Oct. 6, 1919.

The United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Industrial Conference board were each instructed to select five members to represent them, and these, with three representatives each of the investment bankers and railroad managements, composed the employers' group. President Wilson selected the twenty-two members of the group representing the public and asked Mr. Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to select the labor representatives. The employers' group consisted of seventeen delegates, the labor group of nineteen, and the public group of twenty-two members.

The specific purpose of the conference was stated by President Wilson in his call as that of "consulting together on the great vital questions affecting our industrial life, and their consequent effect upon all our people." It would be the duty of the conference to "discuss such methods as have already been tried out of bringing capital and labor into close co-operation, and to canvass every relevant feature of the present industrial situation for the purpose of enabling us to work out, if possible, in a genuine spirit of co-operation, a practicable method of association based upon a real community of interest which will redound to the welfare of all our people."

The conference remained in session thirteen days, but was unable to work out any program, and after the withdrawal of the labor group and the departure of the employers' group on Oct. 22, following the president's suggestion that the public group continue its session, the conference was finally declared abandoned on Oct. 23, 1919.

The labor group withdrew from the conference when the employers' group voted against the following resolution introduced by the labor group:

"The right of wage earners to organize without discrimination, to bargain collectively, to be represented by representatives of their own choosing in negotiations and adjustments with the employers in respect to wages, hours of labor, and relations and conditions of employment is recognized."

The labor group pressed their resolution for adoption. They were supported by the public group, but the employers' group insisted that the representatives of labor should be selected from among their employes and opposed the clause that "labor should be represented by representatives of their own choosing" in negotiations with employers with respect to wages and conditions of employment. They also opposed the right of wage earners to organize without discrimination, holding that the word "discrimination" was susceptible to various interpretations.

Inasmuch as the labor group represented over 4,500,000 persons who were enjoying collective bargaining and the right of selecting their own representatives and to organize without discrimination, the labor group felt that it could be of no avail to continue the sessions when the employers' group would not agree to the conditions already established and enjoyed by over 4,500,000 organized workers.

Under the rules of the conference all three groups must vote unanimously in order to be the expression of the conclusion by the industrial conference. Although two groups of the three voted for the labor resolution, the labor group resolution was lost.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—Have any prominent public officials recently asked the governor of California to pardon Tom Mooney?

A.—Yes. At least two governors, Phillip La Follette, of Wisconsin, and George W. P. Hunt, of Arizona, have asked that Mooney be pardoned. Mayor Joseph L. Heffernan, of Youngstown, O., recently refused an invitation to visit California while Mooney remains in prison.

* * *

Q.—What was the longest-lived pure Canadian union?

A.—The Provincial Workmen's Association of Nova Scotia, organized in 1883. Its membership, eventually confined to miners, became affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America at the close of the great war.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

Mr. Jahncke Should Go to Chanute

Famous "Taxless Town" of Kansas Supplies Answer to Assistant Secretary's Attack on Public Ownership of Utilities.

An Editorial in "Labor."

Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the navy, went to Altoona, Pa., on the Glorious Fourth, and delivered an oration denouncing public ownership of public utilities. Public ownership is a step "backward," said Mr. Jahncke. It won't work, it leads to sovietism, and it builds up an overpowering political machine, according to the assistant secretary.

Just how Mr. Jahncke became an authority on public utilities is not quite clear; if one may draw conclusions from his biography in "Who's Who," his chief claims to fame are that he has a lot of money and married the granddaughter of Lincoln's secretary of war.

Fortunately the Washington paper that reported Mr. Jahncke's speech carried an article which constituted a most effective reply to his fantastic claims. It was entitled "America's Largest Taxless Town" and told the story of Chanute, Kan.

Even Mr. Jahncke would hesitate to charge that Chanute has gone over to the bolshevists. It is in a state which gave President Hoover, Mr. Jahncke's chief, a thumping majority in the last election.

According to the Washington paper, Chanute has no taxes, because it owns its utilities, and the profits of these run the town—and then some.

Rates on all utility service are cheaper than in Kansas towns which have private ownership, but nevertheless the electric light plant and the gas plant have paid for themselves, and only a small sum is still owing on the water plant.

The city's clear holdings in these three utilities are worth more than $1,000,000—or more than $100 apiece for each of the 10,000 men, women and children in the place.

Not a cent of city taxes is levied; the utilities pay for the police force, the fire department, the public library, the municipal band, and for some splendid civic improvements, including an airport and a municipal auditorium, which supplies office space, rent free, to a number of civic organizations.

If there is a communist in the town he hasn't been discovered up to date. There are a lot of progressive republicans and democrats in the little burg and they are prepared to defend to the last ditch their experiment in public ownership.

Mr. Jahncke made his speech in the wrong place. He should have gone to Chanute. Those Kansans would have appreciated the humor of his jeremiad.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
Part XXXIV.

JESUS AND THE RICH YOUNG RULER. Lk. 18:18-25.

WM. L. MOSS

"And a certain rich ruler asked him, saying, Good Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life? And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? none is good, save one, even God. Thou knowest the commandments, Do not commit adultery, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Honor thy father and mother. And he said, All these things have I observed from my youth up. And when Jesus heard it, he said unto him, One thing thou lackest yet: sell all that thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me. But when he heard these things, he became exceeding sorrowful; for he was very rich. And Jesus seeing him said, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God! For it is easier for a camel to enter in through a needle's eye than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

Now, I have quoted this passage entire in order not to rob it of any of its indispensable elements nor to destroy in the least the never-fading beauty of the incident. Here is a fine young man, wealthy, clean and conscientious—but yearning for something higher to come into his life than just ease of living. There are unsatisfied aspirations of his soul that my ambitious Underwood Portable—nor for that matter, anyone else's—could ever begin to describe or do justice to—it is therefore better that I leave this attempt to fathom the young man's aspirations and portray them with cold, mechanical words to the personal subjective experiences of my readers. But soul aspirations were there, else he would not have come to Jesus in the way he did. "Good Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?" is to us like the page of an open book. In those words are dead husks of satiated appetites, the earthly yearnings of the human soul when it awakens to the fact that this life is not life at all until it has reached up and felt the touch of Almighty God—in those words, I say, are everything possible for a human being to feel who desires more than this life can supply.

Jesus knows the young man is sincere. The Master invites him to a fuller, more heroic life—one of excellence, worth and capacity. He tells him to cut loose from that which hindered him from entering into this full and heroic life—renounce his wealth and become His disciple by following Him wherever He might go.

Here was the chance of the rich young man's lifetime. Would he accept the invitation, would he follow Jesus, would he give up something to gain everything worthwhile to man, eternal life? It was a great chance for a really great, young life—a life rich in possibilities seeking greater heights under the loving care of the greatest Teacher mankind has ever known! Like Peter, like Paul, like John, like many of our Lord's disciples, had he but said the word he might have strove for Almighty God in the presence of kings or his name, as have those of the apostles just mentioned, might have become a household word before whom the reverential memory bows.

But this rich young man failed—he failed miserably. What was there in his young, purposeful life that held him back? What destroyed his chances of ever attaining that which he cherished most, that for information about which brought him kneeling suppliantly at the feet of Jesus? And how did Jesus feel about this something that held this promising young man back?

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

IN 1798 five journeymen printers were indicted at the Old Bailey, London, for "conspiracy" and just exactly twelve years later the Common Sergeant of London, Sir John Sylvester, better known as "Bloody Black Jack," with the 1798 persecution of the printers as his precedent, set out to "beat down and alarm" the printers who fell into his clutches "and on whom he inflicted scandalously severe sentences," so reports the London Times of Nov. 9, 1810. But Bloody Black Jack was to have his hand called in this persecution of the infant organization of union printers. Francis Place, a tailor who was active in labor matters, did more than any one man to nullify the power of the Combination Act of 1799 (reaffirmed and amended by that of 1800) under protection of which Bloody Black Jack was persecuting the London compositors. Place, who was undoubtedly a radical unionist-politician, was secretary of the most powerful labor union then in existence in London, the London Corresponding Society, whose officers spent most of their time in jail, some kept behind the bars for as long as three years before being brought to trial and sentenced.

But at this time there was a second type of new labor reformer and also one of the men responsible for the noteworthy reforms brought about by parliament through its own laws and which led up to the 1824 act of parliament removing the general prohibition of combinations and accorded to working men the right to bargain collectively. The best example of this second type of reformer is Joseph Hume, a wealthy physician. During the thirty years Hume was a member of parliament he was directly responsible for an incredible number of laws protecting or affecting labor.

(Continued Next Week.)

Mr. Warburg, a noted New York banker, says business revival needs the help of psychologists and not economists. Perhaps a few buyologists would help.

More "Economy"

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

And now the Chicago board of education is going to pay teachers in scrip what is due them for their work in Chicago's schools during the last few weeks of the recently closed session. To one of the acknowledged lowest paid professions in the world, to hundreds (mostly women without other means of sunport or protection) of its own tax-paying teachers the big city of Chicago is saying, "Now that your work is done for the school year, here are some little slips of white paper. Hold 'em until we vote you the money that makes 'em negotiable. We can't pay you in check or cash—somebody else is using the money." Ought teachers to be in politics? Without answering let me say that they ought never to allow anyone to talk them out of being good citizens—and that means just that! The polls are open to the teachers of every city—and in every city a teacher is not doing his or her full duty as a citizen until he or she exercises a citizen's full perogatives. A public employe is no more duty bound to ignore the mistakes of the administration under which he is employed than he is obligated to shut his eyes and walk across a floorless bridge fifty feet in the air. America needs an informed electorate. It needs an electorate so determined and knowing its own will and wishes that when politicians see it marching to the polls 100 per cent strong they will, if lucky enough, enter office understanding that when it comes time to pay faithful and necessary public servants over whom by law they are placed they must not shove worthless pieces of white paper in their hands in lieu of the money those public servants have earned.

Mrs. Blabber—You're looking very happy this morning. Have you had good news?

Mrs. Gabber—Just wonderful! My husband has just had a nervous breakdown and we're going to California.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

Tired of Greed

We are so tired of selfishness
And all the woe it brings,
When every joyous, little bird,
Of love's allurement sings.
Why can we not have happiness
Like God has given them?
For, to our souls, 'twould surely be
Life's priceless, richest gem.

Why will we waste the soul's delight
In chasing after greed,
When love and all the gifts of God
Are all our spirits need?
Why are we not, as birds, content
With blessings that God gave?
Why will we let the sin of greed
E'er chase us to the grave,

And cause us needless suffering,
To fill the world with woe,
When if our souls were filled with love,
Such happiness we'd know?
We're tired to death of all the grief
And sorrow that greed brings;
So let us take life's lessons from
The little bird that sings.

—Martha Shepard Lippincott.

What Next!

High state taxes on cigarettes, amounting in some cases to 20 per cent, have brought about the production of a cigarette roller which sells for less than a dollar and produces from thirty to forty cigarettes with 10 cents worth of tobacco. Cigarette papers and tin box to carry the cigarettes are included in the outfit.

Kayo—They gave Six Second Smith a present of a bathrobe before the fight last night.

Okay—Yeah. And he got a beautiful pair of socks later on, too.

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

Carl—Honey, I'm knee-deep in love with you.

Winifred—All right, I'll put you on my wading list.

COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.0
Furnace Nut $4.2
Honest Weight—Prompt Serv
CITY COAL CO
718 E. Main 6-316

R. J. Coulte Undertaking Company
Ideal Service at Moderate C
Phone 6-6114

EDMONDSO SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, ing, Penmanship, Civil Service and all mercial branches. Individual Instru DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Ed ups, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Mari

The office is reeking with the s of paint. They are working on i a hurry.

UNIVERSITY ...of... CHATTANOOGA SUMMER SCHOOL

(Second Term)

July 20—August 27

Regular College Credits Given in the Following Subjects:

—Chemistry	—German	—Music
—Education	—History	—Political Science
—French	—Mathematics	—Spanish

Teachers attending the Summer Session may qualify for Limited Training Certificate or the renewal of old certificate under the state provision which requires attendance in Summer School.

For Further Information, Write or Call

Registrar — Phone 6-1215

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

"If I got constipated, I would get dizzy and have swimming in my head. I would have very severe headache.

"For a while I thought I wouldn't take anything—maybe I could wear out the headaches; but I found they were wearing me out.

"I found Black-Draught would relieve this, so when I have the very first symptoms, I take Black-Draught and now I don't have the headache.

"I am a firm believer in Black-Draught, and after using it 20 or more years, I am satisfied to continue its use."
—F. B. McKinney, Orange Park, Fla. 8-17

THEDFORD'S
Black-Draught

WOMEN who are run-down, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PHONE CABS -- METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

B L & K R

Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45518
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Pauline Welch Worthey vs. Sam Worthey

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Sam Worthey is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next August rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in August next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 24 day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Thos. S. Meyers, Atty. 7-24

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45414
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Richard B. Kelly vs. Nora Kelly

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Nora Kelly is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next August rules of said court, to be held at the court house in Chattanooga on the first Monday in August next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 11th day of June, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
F. L. Dixon, Atty. 7-11

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
No. 45562
Blanche Welch Duckett vs. Ralph L. Duckett

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to that Ralph L. Duckett is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 14th day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Thos. S. Myers, Atty. 8-7

Pension System Used to Drive Workers Into Speed-Up System

(By International Labor News Service.)

North Billerica, Mass., July 9.—The dictatorial use which employers make of their privately owned and operated company pension systems is well illustrated in the walkout of the employes of the Talbot Woolen mills in protest against the stretch-out system recently set up in the mill.

The company officials describe it as an "efficiency" system. The employes claimed that it imposed more work on them.

There was much discontent among the workers as the system was installed in department after department. When the stretch-out reached the dress room the discontent broke out. The dress room employes walked out and demanded the elimination of the speed-up scheme.

It was then that the officials brought in their pension system as a coercive measure and told the employes that unless they accepted the speed-up scheme the company would abolish its pension system. And to give the employes time to consider their loss under the proposed discontinuance of the pension system the company officials closed the factory a week to make certain "needed repairs."

The Talbot mills is a close corporation. Dividends are paid, but the rate is not made public.

Industrial pension systems, owned and operated by company officials, are a weapon always ready for the employers' use when they want to browbeat their employes into accepting intolerable labor conditions.

Railroads Seek National Monopoly Of All Forms of Transportation

Boston, July 9.—A veritable national monopoly of all forms of transportation by land, air, waterway, lake and sea by the railroad companies was stressed as absolutely necessary for the protection of the investment of 800,000 stockholders who own the roads and sundry bondholders who have mortgages on them by Elisha Lee, vice-president of the Pennsylvania railroad, before the annual convention of the National Association of Credit Men.

Voluntary consolidation of the railroad companies, the prohibition of competitive rates, and drastic limitation of the construction of new railroads were also emphasized as essential to the development of a transportation system adequate to the needs of the public and sufficiently profitable to pay interest and dividends on the twenty-six billion dollars which investors now have tied up in the railroads.

Development by the people, through their government, of waterways and the encouragement of bus transportation by permitting the bus companies to operate without regulation on government built and maintained highways, in competition with the owners of the railroads, was denounced by Mr. Lee as "unsound, unfair, against public interest, and out of harmony with the spirit of our laws and institutions."

Mr. Lee did not mention the interests of the railroad employes, nor did he suggest any relief for the tens of thousands of them whom the executives of the railroads have recently thrown and are continuing to throw into the army of the unemployed.

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

This depression is a curious affair. Statistics show that times are pretty tough. More than five million still are out of work.

Out of 30,000 members of one trade in one city only 3,000 have work.

Bituminous mine owners have carried non-unionism to the point of desperation and they seem now willing to come back to unionism and orderliness, feeling the depression and the bickering of non-unionism in their pocketbooks.

Unions are paying relief and out-of-work benefits as never before.

Tokens of depression are plentiful enough.

* * *

But over July Fourth holiday crowds showed no thinning out. Such resorts as Atlantic City were thronged and never did the crowds seem more happy and carefree.

Railroads hauled joy-seekers in capacity loads.

Baseball is still bringing in the multitudes. Even prize fighting, that great game of ballyhoo and bunk, draws its thousands and thousands to spend their money. Where there is any lack of attendance nobody lays it to hard times; they lay it to a wearing off of public confidence in the game.

How comes this great orgy of money spending for these things when the nation is blanketed in a depression that stills factory wheels and chokes the line of trade? It is one of the great puzzles of the situation.

* * *

Stocks of clothing in stores are low, yet it's been many a year since pleasure-seeking throngs looked as gay in raiment.

The whole situation seems tangled and muddled and unreasonable. One thing stands out: This is a depression without panic. In other times we have had panics—sometimes we have had panics without depressions and panics coming ahead of depressions.

But here we are at the bottom of the depression. President Green—who is no chaser of phantoms, who seeks facts as they are—says we are "bumping along the bottom" right now.

Conservative forecasters see 1932 as a year of come-back.

It is a peculiar thing that with such a grinding down as we have never known and with so many indications of possible disaster around us, we have, on the whole, gone through in more or less of a dare-devil fashion. Perhaps there is a fatalism in the air.

* * *

Perhaps there is something deeper and finer than that about it. Perhaps there is a determination that our vast machinery of production must be compelled to yield us happiness and plenty and so, daring the system to the finish, we spend the last cent as happily as the first!

Anyhow, we shall see, as we go along. However, already there is some sign that there is this magnificent determination. Members are flocking into unions and when members flock into unions we have the best indication in the world that we are not licked—that we have just begun to fight intelligently.

We shall go on enjoying life, fighting for more of life, for more happiness and freedom and safety from the evils of undue exploitation!

* * *

There have been some cut-and-dried elections in this country, but American politicians have not yet reached the degree of efficiency of Rumania's premier, Porga, who recently won a great victory. He followed the usual procedure and even improved upon it.

The government's party members were hustled to the polls and voted early and often. The opposition were browbeaten, threatened and advised to stay home; some were jailed, others were beaten and a few were killed. It was a great victory and the premier, a favorite of King Carol, controls about 70 per cent of the house.

Poland and Rumania conduct elections in much the same fashion. Methods used are perhaps not so effective as the fascist method, which controls 100 per cent, but they accomplish the purpose of winning the election.

Yet why hold an election at all? Why not publish the returns the day before and save the expense and worry of polling a majority by gangster methods?

Unemployment Studied By Workers' School

Los Angeles, Cal.—The economic causes of unemployment and remedies for it are being considered by the Workers' Summer school at Los Angeles Municipal Camp Seely in the San Bernardino national forest near here.

The most vital concern of labor during the past year has been and is now the tragic consequences of the industrial depression, says the statement describing the study courses. "Never before have the problems entailed in the loss of jobs, part-time employment, maintenance of wages, our machine civilization and the ruthless displacement of men by machines, forced their ghastly consequences upon labor with the force they now threaten."

The summer school is under the direction of the joint committee on workers' education of the California State Federation of Labor and the extension division of the University of California.

Free Textbooks Denied Night School Students

Washington.—The legal adviser of the government of the District of Columbia has decided that night school students cannot have free textbooks because night schools are not specifically mentioned in the free textbook law recently enacted by congress. The law was urged for many years by the trade union movement of Washington. Labor leaders believed the phraseology was comprehensive enough to include all schools whether night or day.

"UNDESERVING" JOBLESS BARRED FROM RELIEF

Philadelphia.—Competent investigators at salaries of from $100 to $125 a month will be required to administer Philadelphia's $3,000,000 unemployment relief fund, according to H. G. Lloyd, director of the newly created bureau of unemployment relief which will handle the fund. Mr. Lloyd, who is a member of the banking house of Drexel & Co., is giving his services as administrator for $1 a year. He does not intend that undeserving out-of-works shall receive any help, and it will be the business of the investigators to apply expert knowledge to each case.

N. Y. WOMEN WORKERS GET 48-HOUR WEEK LAW

New York.—The new 48-hour week law for women employed in mercantile establishments went into effect in New York state on July 1.

The law maintains the principle of the 8-hour day, but permits two schedules of employment, one of eight hours a day for a straight 6-day week and the other, offering the advantage of a weekly half holiday, permits nine hours a day for five days, plus four and a half hours on the day of the holiday, making a working week of forty-nine and a half hours. It is estimated that 100,000 women are affected by the law.

UNION INSURANCE COMPANY APPOINTS NEW AUDITOR

Washington.—The appointment of Morris Pike, actuary of the Unity Life and Accident Insurance association, Syracuse, N. Y., to the position of vice-president and actuary of the Union Labor Life Insurance company, is announced by Matthew Woll, president of the company. The announcement states that Mr. Pike "has had an extensive experience in the life insurance field both in the New York state insurance department and in the home offices of life insurance companies." Mr. Pike succeeds Rainard B. Robbins, who resigned.

Labor Must Organize For Its Protection

"There are approximately fifty million workers in the United States who should be organized under the banner of the American Federation of Labor," asserts M. I. Thompson, president of the Utah State Federation of Labor and editor of the Utah Labor News.

"As wage earners they must depend on their jobs in order to make a living for themselves and their dependents. As individuals they are at the mercy of some one in holding a job, and unless thoroughly organized the workers are unable to protect themselves from being deprived of making a decent living for themselves and their families."

Mr. Thompson declares that the unorganized workers must "understand that only through organization and the recognition of working class interests can the workers ever hope to obtain economic freedom and protection from economic evils that bring with them suffering, misery and starvation. Labor is power, and real organization makes powerful unions and makes strength."

3-CENT FARE OPPOSED FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Washington.—Three-cent fares for school children on the street car and bus lines of Washington violate the United States constitution and confiscate property, according to an appeal to the courts from the public utility commissioner's three-cent fare ruling made by the officials of the two street car companies and one bus company.

The United States congress, which is also the legislative body for the District of Columbia, passed a law last winter authorizing the commission to fix fares at not more than three cents for children under the age of 18. Over 20,000 school children took advantage of the three-cent fare.

One of the street car companies is controlled by the North American company, of New York, a public utility holding concern.

Statement of the condition of the CHATTANOOGA FEDERAL EMPLOYEES CREDIT UNION
located at Chattanooga, Tennessee,
at the close of business June 30, 1931.

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts		$26,940.92
Furniture and Fixtures		95.00
Actual cash on hand	$ 846.30	846.30
Total		$27,882.22

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock Paid in	$23,365.68
Surplus Fund	1,901.79
Undivided Profits Less Expenses and Taxes Paid	1,012.17	26,279.64
Savings Deposits	1,602.58	1,602.58
Total		$27,882.22

State of Tennessee,
County of Hamilton.

I, J. T. McPherson, president of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true, and gives the actual condition of said bank as shown by the books on file in said bank.
J. T. McPHERSON, Pres.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 10th day of July, 1931.
J. L. PARK, Notary Public.
(Seal)
Correct—Attest:
J. S. WALKER,
G. B. PIERCE,
C. E. COPPINGER,
Directors.

Mother (to little daughter returning from Sunday school)—Well, what was your lesson about this morning?

Little Daughter—A man named Solomon.

Mother—And what did you learn about Solomon?

Little Daughter—The teacher said he had 300 wives and 700 cucumber vines.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by deed of trust executed 3d day of October, 1927, by Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, to secure the indebtedness therein described, which deed of trust is of record in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book T, Vol. 25, page 464 et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions therein contained, and default having been made in the payment of several of the notes described in said deed of trust, said notes in the sum of Fifteen Dollars and one in the sum of Twenty-five Dollars; and notes payable monthly and the notes for January, 1931, and all notes since then, one each month, have been defaulted in the payment thereof, and have remained in default for more than thirty days after their maturity; and the holder of said notes having declared all of the same due and payable at once, and requested me to advertise and sell the property described in said deed of trust to satisfy said unpaid indebtedness, I, J. A. Long, trustee, will expose for sale and will sell in front of the west door of the courthouse, on Walnut street in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at 11 o'clock a.m., on

SATURDAY, AUGUST 8, 1931,

to the highest and best bidder, at public outcry, for cash in hand, and in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot number one hundred and twenty-six in Bellview (sometimes called Belleview), Chattanooga Land Company's Addition No. 1. Being the same real estate conveyed to Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, by H. B. Langford and wife, F. L. Langford, about July 26th, 1926.

The title is believed to be good but will sell and convey as trustee only.

This 13th day of July, 1931.
J. A. LONG, Trustee.
8-7

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
No. 45419
Annie Mae Harris vs. Carl H. Harris

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Carl H. Harris is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 13th day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
F. L. Dixon, Atty. 8-7

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Commissioners of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, contemplate amending Ordinance No. 1843, known as the Zoning Ordinance, so as to re-zone and change the property on each side of the Brainerd Road beginning at the culvert immediately south of and adjacent to the City Fire Hall and for one block south thereof, from a Commercial District to an "A" Residential District.

The Board of Commissioners of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, will have a hearing in the office of the Mayor on Tuesday, Aug. , 1931, at 3 o'clock p.m., to hear protests of any person whose property is affected by said amendment.

By order of the Board of Commissioners, this first day of July, 1931.
JOHN C. HIBBETS, Auditor.

Do you know Your Union Label

Union Label of Steve Mounters
Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen
Emblem of American Federation of Musicians
Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union
Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance
Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America
Coopers' Union Label
United Leather Workers Union Label
United Hatters of North America Label
Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union Label
Union Label of Tobacco Workers
Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union
Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union
Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners
Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers
Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America
Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings
Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union Label
Jewelry Workers' Union Label
Store Card of Retail Clerks
Bookbinders' Union Label
Machinists' Union Label
Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America
Brick and Clay Workers' Label
Plate Printers and Die Stampers' Union Label
International Photo-Engravers' Union Label
Used on Rolls and Bundles
Local Pressmen's Union Label
Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators
Allied Printing Trades Union Label
Paper Makers' Union Labels
Glove Workers' Union Label
Local Typographical Union Label
Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp
Bartenders' Union Label
Waiters' Union Label
Card of Union Bartenders
Cigarmakers' Union Label
Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America
Card of Union Waiters
Label of Bicycle Makers
A. F. of L. Label

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

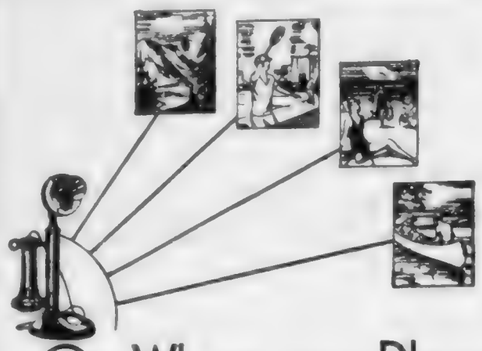
ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

SWIM AT

Warner Park Swimming Pool

Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.



Go Where you Please On your Vacation...

Mother likes the mountains—sonny wants to go to camp and so does little sister—dad must work most of the summer—but they may go where they please and still keep together by telephone. Mother and the children may arrange to call dad regularly at a certain time, at office or home. It makes vacations more enjoyable and dispels anxiety to hear the voices of loved ones, telling of the day's happenings.

Calling at a prearranged time enables you to use the cheaper station-to-station service with no risk of missing the person wanted. If you call by number at night there is a still further reduction in cost. In using station-to-station service, ask for the distant telephone by number or location instead of asking for a particular person. When the distant telephone answers you may ask for whomever you want.

Wherever each member of the family goes this summer, the local telephone office will gladly give the cost of calling back home. Just ask for "Long Distance."

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY
INCORPORATED

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

MORE ABOUT "YELLOW DOG"

(Continued from First Page)

ences resulted in a thoroughly satisfactory agreement according to The Labor World's information, and the three companies affected—Fentress Coal company, Davidson Mining company and Briar Hill Collieries—are now operating under agreement with their employes.

The peace pact spelled doom for the infamous "yellow-dog" contract, it was said, and thus was removed, it is hoped forever, an ever-present menace to peaceful relations between employer and employe. Readjustment of the wage scale is to be made as conditions and developments justify, and it was declared there was thorough accord on this feature of the pact. The United Mine Workers of America is given full recognition, with the "closed shop" and check-off features included.

Ben Williams, national organizer for the United Mine Workers, who with President Turnblazer, of District 19, and John T. Jones, recently assigned to the district, assisted the miners in securing the settlement, was high in his praises of both the miners and their employers for their conduct of the negotiations.

"The disturbance, as a matter of fact," Mr. Williams told The Labor World, "has been 'brewing' for many months, as has been the case throughout the district. Some three months ago the United Mine Workers were appealed to for assistance, and President Turnblazer was urged to lend his aid in bringing relief from intolerable conditions. When the union was eventually formed, many men were discharged for becoming members, and it became apparent that there was no peaceable solution to the difficulty. During all these efforts at amicable adjustment, and after the walkout occurred, the workers conducted themselves with great credit, using judgment in a bad situation which would have done credit to organizations of many years' experience. Perfect co-operation was given to local officers and representatives of the United Mine Workers in carrying out the policies advocated by them.

"The result of the recent negotiations, which were carried on in the friendliest spirit, is very gratifying and encouraging, because it is the birth of a new spirit between miners and operators in Tennessee that will in the end certainly prove of vast benefit to those who have their money invested, as well as to those who depend upon successful operation of the mines for their daily bread.

"A spirit of unrest prevails throughout the non-union fields of this as well as other districts, and the attitude of the operators in Fentress and Overton counties indicates a practicable and sensible course which furnishes a great contrast to the position of mine owners in Harlan and Bell counties, Kentucky, where conditions are now such as to bring much misery to both sides of the controversy.

"Settlement of the Tennessee trouble eliminates a great deal of unnecessary suffering and consequent bitterness which would have resulted had the disturbance continued, and the operators have every assurance of hearty co-operation and good-will of all employes.

"The United Mine Workers of America stands now, as always, ready and willing to assist employer and employe in joint, co-operative efforts to stabilize the industry with profit and satisfaction to each.

"On behalf of the miners of Fentress and Overton counties, as well as of President Turnblazer and myself, I want to thank the trades unionists of Chattanooga for their wonderful moral support, as well as for contributions of cash and supplies."

MORE ABOUT WAGE-CUTTERS

(Continued from First Page)

conditions have forced upon them in recent years.

New delegates were obligated as follows: Plumbers, John Phillips and G. F. Chapin; Painters, W. D. Canada, J. G. Burkes, Charles Milford, J. J. Smith, A. L. Surrett, Horton Morrison, J. G. Schrock and F. S. Thurston.

Wages Low on Boulder Dam Job

Las Vegas, Nev.—Wages at Boulder dam, under the domination of the officials of Six Companies, the concern that has the contract for the construction work, are exceedingly low, according to a statement by Joe Reed, vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers.

"The men now employed are mostly carpenters and laborers," Reed says. "Carpenters are receiving $5.60. Laborers $4. Until recently common laborers received $3.60 per day.

"Since this wonderful raise of 40 cents a day went into effect, we have newspaper reports that $4 a day is considered a very good wage in good times. Out of these wages $1.70 per day is paid for board, and from the first pay check received by each employe about $12 is deducted for road, poll and other taxes.

"Figure out to your own satisfaction just how much wealth is in control of each man employed on the great Boulder dam job, I believe the greatest engineering project undertaken by the United States government, with the possible exception of the Panama canal. And how much money will it be possible for any man who may be able to stay throughout the period of the job, estimated about seven years, to save if the Six Companies are permitted to carry out their declared policy of wage rates and absolute open shop conditions of employment?"

Railroad Labor Opposes Wage Cuts; Output Jumps; 471,000 Less Men

Cleveland, O., July 15.—"The railroad organizations are ready to assist, and have so declared themselves, in every way possible to fight all forms of unfair competition with which the railroads are confronted, such as the buses and trucks which, free from government regulation, 'hog' the highways, the government-subsidized inland waterways and the pipe lines," asserts Carl Rudolph, editor of the Locomotive Engineers' Journal, the official organ of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in discussing a possible drive for wage cuts by railroad executives for railroad employes.

"But when it comes to a reduction of wages in order to continue dividends, no union labor man can go along. For railroad men have already taken a very drastic cut in wages. The men in engine and train service only work when there is work to do. They work on a mileage basis at so much per mile. The fewer trains the railroads handle the less revenue they get; the fewer miles the engine and train crews make the less pay they get. In other words, these men work on a piece work basis at so much per mile.

"In the first two months of 1921 the railroads had 1,805,000 employes and their operating expenses were $829,000,000. In the first two months of 1931 they had only 1,334,000 employes (a reduction of 471,000) and their operating expenses were $566,000,000. It is very evident that reduced payrolls made up by far the greater part of this saving in operating expense."

Mr. Rudolph also points out that during the last ten years the railroad men have gradually increased their efficiency measured by the amount of work done. Expressed in tons of freight moved per mile per day, the railroad men are moving a ton 822 miles a day compared with 606 miles ten years ago.

"This increased efficiency on the part of the railroad employes," Mr. Rudolph declares, "is still maintained and is continually enhanced."

Plan to Bring Order Out of Present Chaos

Red Cross Denies Help to Miners, on Ground Workers' Plight Is Economic and Not Disaster Due to "Act of God."

Washington, D. C., July 15.—Just when the representatives of the coal mine owners and coal miners were opening their meeting in Washington, in an attempt to bring order into the chaos of the coal industry, an appeal from Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, to the Red Cross was answered by Judge John Barton Payne, National Red Cross chairman, saying that the plight of the miners is due to economic conditions, and does not fall within the scope of the Red Cross.

Judge Payne said the situation in the coal industry has been brought to the attention of the Red Cross from eight or ten states.

"It is an economic situation which has been before the country for more than ten years," said Payne, turning thumbs down on the workers.

Must Restrict Field, He Says.

"The Red Cross is an emergency organization, dealing with disasters which, broadly speaking, fall within a class said to be due to an act of God; a disaster which can be closed when the emergency has been met. By confining itself to such things as are contemplated by its charter, the Red Cross is able to do its work; if it should undertake to deal with distress wherever and however existing it would speedily find itself financially unable to proceed."

Meanwhile, it is hoped that more permanent relief may be had ultimately through the two meetings held in Washington on July 9, of the mine operators and the mine workers' representatives, respectively. The meeting of the operators was held at the invitation of Secretary Lamont, of the Commerce Department.

Meeting at Doak's Invitation.

The meeting of the union representatives was held at the invitation of Secretary Doak, of the labor department; and it is hoped that out of the two meetings some progress may be made in the matter of bringing order into the chaos of the coal industry.

It is frankly stated that the possibility of the get-together has been brought about by reason of the growing strength of the National Miners' union, a communist organization.

The situation is accentuated by the fact that one of these big companies which has been most bitter against the union is said to be "Mellon-controlled," in that Secretary Mellon and his brother have a controlling interest. It is known that President Hoover is favoring the conferences, and hopes to secure some sort of stabilization of the coal industry by means of it.

Yellow Dog Contract Opposed by Teachers

Chicago.—The "yellow dog" contract, which would deny teachers the right to form unions, was denounced by W. D. Satterthwaite, of Seattle, Wash., before the executive council of the American Federation of Teachers at their annual convention here. He said that efforts to force this contract upon members of the teaching profession should be fought with the force of public opinion.

John P. Frey, representing the American Federation of Labor, with which the Federation of Teachers is affiliated, said the federation would "put its full strength behind the efforts of teachers to maintain their professional organizations in affiliation with organized labor, and will fight all efforts to curtail educational appropriations."

Minimum Wage-Scale Violations Charged

Baltimore, Md. — The Baltimore grand jury has returned indictments charging five contractors engaged in municipal work with violating the current wage-scale provisions of the Baltimore city charter.

The city code prescribes that "not less than the current per diem wages in the locality in which the work is performed shall be paid laborers, workmen or mechanics employed by contractors or subcontractors in the execution of any city contracts in any public works within the city of Baltimore."

The Maryland Employers' association and more than sixty contractors interested in municipal work have a suit pending to restrain the city authorities from enforcing the minimum wage scale.

First Tramp—After I had given her back her lost purse, she put her hand in her pocket and said: "Take this for a hot drink."

Second Tramp—What did she give you?

First Tramp—A lump of sugar.

Pay Scales Must Be Maintained, Copeland Says

New York Senator Tells Longshoremen's Convention High Labor Standards Are "Very Essence of Civilization."

New York City, July 15.—Vigorous opposition to wage cuts was voiced by Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, in addressing the convention of the International Longshoremen's association here. Copeland urged that present wage scales be maintained and told the convention he would fight any measure to cut wages during the depression.

Senator Copeland said that soviet Russia is a menace and declared that "we don't want our labor to compete with serf and slave labor over there." The "very essence of civilization," he added, "is in a maintenance of labor standards."

Representative John J. Boylan said that while business was passing through an economic cycle of distress, "we have had these things before, and we are going to rally again." He urged the delegates not to be pessimistic.

Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation Bank and Trust company, told of his institution's operation and success despite the business depression, during which, he said, the bank had earned its dividends, met its overhead and built up substantial reserves.

T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the United States shipping board, was less sanguine in his view of future business conditions. He said the Great Lakes region was most affected by the depression.

James C. Quinn, secretary of the Central Trades and Labor council, welcomed the delegates, as did Walter B. Holt, president of the New York district council of the Longshoremen's association. Joseph P. Ryan, president of the association, who presided, emphasized the importance of maintaining the wage scale, reminding the delegates that the organization had not pressed employers for wage increases.

High Wages Linked With Prosperity

Washington, July 15.—"To reduce wages now is not sound economic judgment," says J. B. Prewitt, editor of the International Bookbinder, the official journal of the Brotherhood of International Bookbinders, in an editorial on the relation of buying power to prosperity. "Higher wages with a surplus over ordinary expenditures are necessary to maintain a higher standard of living.

"High wages are the foundation of a well-balanced business structure, and without a solid foundation nothing can survive.

"There is no economic reason to the argument offered by some financial leaders that merely because living costs are down that wages should seek a lower lever.

"Every one knows now what we need is to restore the buying power in order to preserve the American standard of living. Evidently some employers who are attempting to cut wages during this crisis think only in terms of mass production. How they expect to sell the goods produced by curtailing the already limited buying power of the present time is a problem yet unsolved."

Federal Bond Issue For Jobless Relief

Detroit, Mich., July 15.—The Detroit central labor union has approved a five-billion dollar federal bond issue to construct public works for the purpose of providing work for the unemployed.

San Francisco, Cal.—The executive council of the California State Federation of Labor approves a five billion dollar issue for the construction of public works to provide jobs for the unemployed. The council urges President Hoover to call a special session of congress to authorize the bonds and asks the California members of congress to support the proposition.

Detroit. — The Chicago Federation of Labor has indorsed a proposal for a five billion dollar federal bond issue to construct public works for the relief of unemployment. The Chicago Federation estimates that "10,000,000 wage earners are vainly seeking work."

Lampson—Have you ever been at a telephone in a storm?

Harrell—Oh, yes! My wife occasionally calls me up.

OUR WEEKLY MARKET BASKET

WATCH this section every week for Grocery Bargains

Make your Dollar do Double Duty. Patronize those who patronize YOUR PAPER — and save the difference.

Bargains for Saturday!

PILLSBURY FLOUR 24 Lbs. 77c

MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE Pound ... 27c

SALT Reg. 5c Size, 2 Boxes 5c

MATCHES Large Size Bx 2c

PEACHES Can 15c
Rosedale, 2½ Size

PURE LARD 4 Lbs. for .. 35c
(4 Lb. Limit)

BACON Pound 25c
Rindless Black Hawk

INTERNATIONAL UNION MARKET
This is TO CERTIFY, That this Meat Market is conducted in accordance with the rules of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L. Therefore we commend it to the patronage of all.

SAUNDERS STORE
423-425-427 MARKET STREET
(INDEPENDENT OF ANY CHAIN STORE—HOME OWNED)

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY
SELF SERVICE GROCERY
417 Market Street — 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

PINEAPPLE "Del Monte" Sliced or Crushed, Size 2, 19 oz.—Can 19c

POTTED MEAT "Loyal," Very Best Grade—2 5c cans for .. 5c

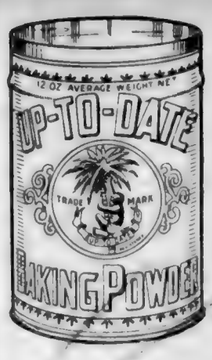
VIENNA SAUSAGE "Loyal," None Better 2 10c cans for 13c

PORK & BEANS Armour's "Veri-Best" Regular 10c size—Can 5c

PINK SALMON Fresh Alaska, Regular 15c Tall Size ..... Can 10c

KARO SYRUP Size 1½, Red or Blue Label, Reg. 15c Size—can .. 10c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET



Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feather

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSEE

IF YOU WANT THE

BEST FLOUR MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

LABOR'S DIVIDENDS.

Elm Grove, W. Va.—W. Clarence Morrison was killed in falling 140 feet to the bottom of a shaft of the Elm Grove Mining company. He was assisting in repairing a mine elevator when the chain broke.

Baltimore, Md.—Three men working in the East End laundry were burned about the face by chemical fumes that escaped as they were removing the head of a water cooler.

400 PAINTERS' UNIONS HAVE FIVE-DAY WEEK

Lafayette, Ind.—Seventy-five per cent of the members of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, covering 400 local unions in thirty-two states, are working on a five-day, 40-hour week basis, according to figures made public by the officials of the brotherhood.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

INTEREST IN LOCAL PAY-SLASH CAMPAIGN CENTERS ON COUNTY COURT SESSION

PRESIDENT GREEN, FIGHTING WAGE CUTS, WARNS OF DANGERS OF SOCIAL UNREST

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI | CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, JULY 24, 1931 | Number 13

10 Per Cent. Tax Move Hits Snag

WORKERS LEAD IN BATTLE TO HOLD STANDARD

Gain Much Public Support in Stand.

MANY CITIZENS JOIN IN PROTEST

Effort to Lower Hard-Won American Living Conditions Widely Resented.

Interest in the News-Cummings - Arn wage - cutting program, which began recently with announcement of slashes in all departments of the county government—including school teachers, although contracts had already been mailed to them—continued unabated this week, with the afternoon paper publishing daily news stories and editorials purporting to justify the county judge's plan to extricate his administration from a financial tangle by taxing each employe 10 per cent. of his or her earnings, and with Sheriff Charley Taylor, Criminal Court Clerk Hays Clark and Circuit Court Clerk Tom Rogers standing steadfastly against the unprecedented program and apparently inviting the judge to "shoot" with his oft-threatened court action to compel these officials, elected by the people, to join in the movement for a reduction of living standards for all county employes. Clerk and Master Sam Erwin, although accepting the plan for himself, has also refused to apply it to his office force. The proposed pay slash is in addition to 5 per cent. which some county employes have been taxed for a "charity fund," disbursed, it is said, from the county judge's office and at his honor's discretion.

Although assurances have come from the city hall that none of the officials have been enlisted in the scheme for reduction of living standards of public workers, already certain private employers have indicated a disposition to take advantage of the ballyhoo" and demand sacrifices of their own employes.

Position of organized labor, as expressed in no uncertain terms in resolutions adopted by Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, has found favor among fair-minded and progressive citizens of all groups, including some of the city's largest manufacturers and business men, and each day brings encouraging words from various sources, advising, and even urging, continued protest and publicity against the misconceived, unjust and somewhat belated gesture at "economy" in the county government. The News' sensational discovery, blazoned across the front page with an eight-column streamer last week, that some county teachers receive more than $100 per month (although, through an oversight, doubtless, it was not explained that teachers only have nine months' employment in a year) has brought a flare-back to the wage-slashing, standards-destroying campaign, many who had formerly been neutral in the battle being brought thus to realize the meager salaries paid these much-abused victims of the officeholder's vagaries.

Chief interest, however, centers in the meeting of the county court scheduled for Monday, Aug. 3. Already some members of the court have declared they voted for the wage-slashing, standard-reducing resolution under a misapprehension, and Esquire Bayless has openly announced that he will demand reconsideration and a rescinding of the court's approval of the scheme. Chattanooga Trades and Labor council has called upon those 'squires who desire to represent the will of their constituency" to withdraw approval, and the reaction is being awaited with considerable interest.

(Continued on Last Page)

Emergency Board Rules Rail Pay Slash Is Illegal

Attempted Reduction of Shopmen's Wages Below Prevailing Standards Held Not Justified; Violation Rail Labor Act.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, July 23.—Reduction of wages without negotiation with employes is branded as illegal, when the railway company employer is able to pay dividends, is the substance of the recent statement of the emergency board appointed by President Hoover to settle the dispute between the management and the employes of the Louisiana & Arkansas railway, contained in the report filed in that matter. The first point is, that reduction of wages of railway shop crafts below the prevailing standards is not justified when necessity does not exist; and the second, that promulgation of new rules and changes in working conditions without notice is positively illegal under the terms of the railway labor act.

The emergency board, created by the president last April, declared that the road's financial condition was in no manner worse than other carriers which have maintained existing wage levels, and did not warrant the reduction in shop crafts wages. It called attention to the fact that the carrier had fully met its obligations as to the payment of interest on its securities, and had even paid out "substantial" dividends to its stockholders.

The appointment of the emergency board was according to the provisions of the railway labor act, after the road had refused the offer to have the controversy arbitrated by the board of mediation, following the reduction of wages last February.

The emergency board said that it could not urge the employes to accept an arbitrary reduction of wages, as that would be to place those who obey the law at a disadvantage as against those who violate it; that an arbitrary reduction of wages, made without negotiation with the men, lacked all the elements of a contract, in that it was purely one-sided; and that if the road was not offered arbitration, it should seek it.

Employer Cuts Wages For Milwaukee Jobless

Milwaukee, Wis.—The willingness of many employers to use starvation to secure cheap labor was shown by the Badger Furniture company in its endeavor to capitalize unemployment in wrecking its plant here preparatory to erecting a new building. The concern offered 15 cents an hour for ordinary labor and 20 to 30 cents for mechanics. A number of workers hard pressed by unemployment began the work. The union wage scale for common labor is 75 cents an hour, and for carpenters $1.10.

Chain Store Adopts Union Labor Policy

San Francisco, Cal.—The S. H. Kress and company, operator of a chain of five, ten and twenty-five cent stores, will erect their new store building in Modesto and Sacramento, Cal., under union labor conditions, according to a statement by F. C. MacDonald, general president of the State Building Trades council.

In addition to employing union labor the company agrees that the contractor shall use local subcontractors and material men whenever it is practicable.

John O'Connor On Citizens' Ticket For Knox Council

JOHN T. O'CONNOR

John T. O'Connor, former president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, has been selected by a citizens' committee of his home city, Knoxville, to run for councilman in the municipal elections in September. Mr. O'Connor is now a representative of the Benefit Association of Railroad Employes.

As chief executive of the state labor body and in various other lines of civic and public work, John O'Connor has demonstrated unusual ability, and the voters of our sister city would do well to elect him to a position in the city government. It will be his first venture in politics, and scores of Chattanooga friends will be with him in spirit in the race to come.

Naturalization Aided By Jobless Aliens

New York.—Unemployment has increased the number of applications for citizenship, according to the National League for American Citizenship.

The league points out that citizenship is a costly process for the employed alien. Government fees run as high as $35, to which must be added the wages or salary lost during attendance at the naturalization bureau and fees for witnesses. All told gaining the citizenship right runs to around $75. Inasmuch as both the would-be citizens and their witnesses are now very largely unemployed, the cost, except the government fees, is materially reduced.

Wages Must Stand, Senators Declare

New York.—United States Senators Robert F. Wagner and Royal S. Copeland, made ringing declarations against wage reductions in speeches before the convention of the International Longshoremen's association.

"An employer of labor or a captain of industry can today be guilty of no more violent act of industrial sabotage than by substituting a policy of wage deflation," Senator Wagner declared. "To resist wage reductions is today one of the foremost duties of employer and worker alike."

"In this crisis there must be no cutting of wages," asserted Senator Copeland. "I hope wisdom will prevail and there will be no such reductions."

Oil Companies Sack Jugoslavian Workers

Belgrade, Jugoslavia.—The Standard Oil Company of New York and the Royal Dutch Shell company have thrown large numbers of workers into the army of the unemployed by shutting down their big oil refineries in Jugoslavia. The executives of the oil companies closed their plants because the government of Jugoslavia cancelled a law enacted some years ago allowing crude oil to enter duty free.

PAINTERS PLAN NINTH ANNUAL PICNIC-OUTING

Affair to Be Staged at Winnepesaukah.

"BIGGER AND BETTER" PROMISE RENEWED

General Committee Begins Work on Elaborate Program of Events.

Plans for the ninth annual picnic-barbecue to be staged by Local 226, Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, are well under way, according to J. J. Smith, president of the local, and the promise is again made that the event this year will be "bigger and better than ever before."

The outing will be held at Lake Winnepesaukah, on Thursday, Aug. 6, popular summer resort just over the state line, and an elaborate all-day program will supplement the many and varied amusements which are offered visitors to the playground.

Mr. Smith said Wednesday that the general committee has preliminary arrangements well in hand, and before the end of the week various subcommittees will be named to assist in the task of providing amusement and entertainment for hundreds of guests, including members and their families and friends.

The Painters' annual barbecue-picnic has come to be quite an institution locally, and a large portion of the general public looks forward each summer to enjoyment of the day. So many features are always provided it has been difficult to select the most enjoyable, this being largely a matter of individual taste.

The barbecue at noon, of course, is not the least of the highlights, and this feature will this year, as usual, be in charge of the "old master," W. A. "Zeke" Witt whose fame as an artist in this line is country-wide. To head the sports events, it is announced that in all probability a fast amateur baseball game will be carded, several teams at present bidding for the privilege of "strutting their stuff" before the large crowds that will undoubtedly attend. The usual popular athletic contests will be arranged, with real prizes for the winners, and sport lovers will have a wide variety of choice for their day's entertainment.

The general committee consists of J. J. Smith, A. L. Surrett, W. A. Witt, Charles Milford and Joe Jett.

Professional Women Vision Unemployment

Vienna, Austria.—Forty-three American business women, headed by Miss Lena M. Phillips, a New York lawyer, are here to attend the second annual meeting of the International Congress of Business and Professional Women. Unemployment is one of the principal questions to be considered by the congress. Surveys have been made to ascertain how far women in Europe have been affected by the business depression.

WORK RELIEF SCHEMES GIVE JOBS TO THOUSANDS

London, Eng.—The unemployment grants committee states that on April 24, the latest date for which figures are available, there were approximately 59,000 men directly employed on schemes of work presented by local authorities and approved for grant on the recommendation of the committee, or on schemes specially provided to provide work in necessitous areas during last winter.

The estimated cost of schemes recently approved is over $17,000,000 to provide employment for about 7,500 men.

Under the unemployment grants plan the British government advances to local authorities a portion of the money required to construct public works.

NOTICE!

Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council will meet Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, in regular session. All delegates are requested and expected to be present, as matters affecting every local union will come before the meeting for discussion.

Sam Godfrey Resigns After Long Service To Cause of Labor

SAM C. GODFREY

Announcement comes from Knoxville that Sam C. Godfrey, prominent in the councils of Tennessee labor for many years, has resigned as secretary of the Central Body in that city, business reasons being given for his quitting the post.

Mr. Godfrey has long been recognized as a "wheel horse" in the state movement, and friends throughout the state are hoping that he will not find it necessary to sever his connection with the movement entirely. "Sam" has an enviable record for honorable and constructive service, and his retirement would mean a real loss to the movement in the state. He has been succeeded as secretary of the Knoxville body by J. C. Guinn.

Paper Mill Workers Thrown Out of Jobs

Fort William, Ont.—The closing down of the pulp and paper mills here has thrown large numbers of paper mill workers out of jobs. Much of the timber used for pulp is taken from government land. In an endeavor to help the paper companies, William Finlayson, minister of lands and forests, has offered to accept one-half of the timber dues payable this year, allowing the other half to be held over without interest.

Oil Well Operators Drop 30,000 Workers

Wichita, Kan.—The agreement of over 300 independent oil well operators to shut off around 22,000 oil wells in an endeavor to raise prices by reducing output throws about 30,000 men into the army of unemployed. It is expected that the oil well operators' "strike" against low priced oil will extend to other states, throwing additional thousands of oil workers out of jobs and reducing their standards of living.

WAGE BOOST, 5-DAY WEEK ASKED BY GLASS WORKERS

Atlantic City, N. J.—Members of the American Flint Glass Workers' union, headed by M. J. Gilhooley, of Toledo, O., vice-president, are holding a two weeks' annual wage conference with the manufacturers of cut and blown glassware.

The glass workers are asking for wage increases in some departments and for an eight-hour day and five-day week, Mr. Gilhooley said. The manufacturers are understood to be seeking wage cuts. E. J. Barry, of Toledo, president of the manufacturers' association, presides over the conference.

Father—Now I want to put a little scientific question to you, my son. When the kettle boils, what does the steam come out of the spout for?

Son—So that mother can open your letters before you get them.

Militant Address Brings Big Ovation

Navy Yards' Pay Scales to Stand For Coming Year

Present Rates, Affecting 30,000 Workers, Won't Be Changed in 1932, Acting Secretary Jahncke Announces.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, July 23.—Present wage scales of civilian workers at navy yards throughout the nation will be maintained during 1932, as the result of an order issued by Ernest Lee Jahncke, acting secretary of the navy. About 30,000 workers are affected.

The announcement said that due to the present economic situation, the local wage boards, which usually are summoned to meet in August, will not be convened this year.

The wage boards collect data on wages in their respective communities and this material is forwarded to Washington to be studied by the department wage board which advises the secretary of the navy on the scale the service should pay in its industrial plants over the country.

The continuance of the present schedule is in accordance with the administration's action of November, 1929, for the relief of unemployment and stabilization of labor conditions throughout the country, without reduction of wages, Mr. Jahncke said. Action is taken at this time in order to save the employes and the government the expense incident to the collection of wage data, he explained.

Similar action was taken last year by the navy department. The navy makes up its new wage schedule in ordinary times, to take effect on Jan. 1, each year.

Five-Day Week, 6-Hour Day For U. S. Employes

Washington.—The five-day week and six-hour day without reduction in total earnings is demanded for government employes throughout the country by the District of Columbia Federation of Federal Employes Unions.

"It is recognized by all authorities that the present serious condition of world-wide unemployment would be materially aided through adoption both of the five-day week and the shorter work day," the federation says.

"The number of unemployed will continue to be added to because of the use of improved machinery and office devices and new methods of work.

"Improved methods make possible curtailed working hours and a shorter work week without any reduction in production of the federal government."

The federation insists that the shorter work day and work week shall be applied without any decrease in total weekly earnings.

The resolution will come before the annual convention of the National Federation of Federal Employes at Seattle, in September.

Mistress (indignantly)—Just look at the dust on this sideboard, Mary. It's at least six weeks old.

Mary (calmly)—Then it ain't nothing to do with me, mum. I've only been here four weeks.

WE REFUSE TO BUDGE, IS CHIEF'S DEFY

Pays Respects to Advocates of Low Pay.

WAGE REDUCTIONS "NOT DEBATABLE"

Democracy in Danger When Troops and Citizens Fight, He Tells Convention.

(By International Labor News Service.)

New York City, July 23.—With "Fight" ringing through every sentence, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, electrified the convention of the Longshoremen's International union here this week with his most pronounced declaration against wage reductions and unemployment.

Visioning the social unrest, the armed clashes reported from several directions, looking ahead to the third winter of unemployment, the leader of America's organized workers declared there must be remedy.

Drawing on history, he declared, "hunger lies at the basis of world revolution."

Again, he said: "It is not good for a republic when its citizens clash with the police and armed forces of the nation."

On the direct issue of wage-cutting he laid down the proposition, flat and definite: "Here we stand like the Greeks at Thermopylae. We refuse to budge. The American Federation of Labor will not stand a reduction of wages and we are going to oppose it with all our might and vigor."

Ovation Greets Militant Words.

Here the delegates broke into an ovation—a storm of determination to stand by the declaration of war against wage reductions.

Senator Robert F. Wagner joined in the denunciation. He declared his impatience with "the smug belief that we do not need and cannot find the remedies," and he declared an employer can be guilty of "no more violent act of industrial sabotage than by instituting a policy of wage deflation."

"We have reached a point in America," said Mr. Green, "where unemployment has brought on a serious condition of social unrest and industrial discontent. We find it in the coal fields and textile centers. It is not good for a republic when its citizens clash with the police and armed forces of the nation.

"We are facing the third winter of unemployment. Our nation has never been put to that test before. While we wait and refuse to grapple with the problem, men go hungry and social unrest develops. The history of the world shows that hunger lies at the basis of world revolution."

Challenge to "Sit Still" Idea.

"What are we going to do about it?" he continued. "The situation is more serious than it appears on the surface and for some reason those in authority refuse to act. In the name of God, are we to sit still and do nothing? There are those who think that a reduction of wages is necessary and that it is time to lower the standard of living among working men and women.

"Well, the American Federation of Labor has challenged that sort of economic philosophy. It has stood like a stone wall against the demands of employers that wages be reduced. Is there any reason why the millions of working men and women should make an additional sacrifice which would be required by a horizontal reduction in their earnings? Have we not suffered enough? Shall we cut the wages of those few of us left who have work?

Wage Reductions "Not Debatable"

"This subject is not debatable with the American Federation of Labor. We are not even open-minded about it. Our minds are closed because we have thought it over thoroughly and constructively. The employers would destroy their own market, but we will save it.

(Continued on Last Page)

Machinery Should Reduce Hours Instead of Creating Unemployment

(By International Labor News Service.)

New York, July 23.—"No one protests the development of machines, but everyone protests its indiscriminate affecting of employment opportunities, and this will become more and more a world problem," according to a statement on labor-displacing machinery by Joseph N. Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians.

"In considering this matter, one cannot merely argue from the viewpoint of his particular calling, profession or station in life, but must do so objectively for the reason that no man remains unaffected by unfavorable economic developments engulfing the entire world, nor can he escape fear of consequences if the real causes responsible for them are not realized and corrected. It is necessary that we consider all this so as to realize more clearly our own respective position in this all absorbing human problem.

"The American Federation of Labor has pointed the way to a practical solution of the problem by suggesting that machine use and development be confined to cheapening the production of a commodity and as a surcease to excessive hard labor, at the same time avoiding over-production and the reduction of the number of men employed. Therefore, the use of the machine should not result in the discharge of the worker, but merely in the reduction of the days and hours and the hardships of this labor, so that hand in hand with mass production, mass enjoyment of a shorter working week and day and lightening of labor may go."

Newspaper Editors "Easy Marks," Utility Propagandists Boast

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, July 23.—The extent to which propaganda for private gas and electric utility companies gets published as "news" is revealed by a report filed before the federal trade commission in the form of evidence of one of its attorneys. The report included a chart compiled from reports of the utility "public information bureaus," showing the number of columns of free publicity secured by the various bureaus of the utility organizations. One of the utility associations described the publicity bureau as the "keystone of our public system," and no part of the country is exempt from the influence of these publicity spongers.

The Rocky Mountain utility committee bragged that it had secured literally "miles of favorable publicity," free of charge. From New England to Texas, the editors of the newspapers seem to have used this kind of copy for feature, news and editorial matter; and even Nebraska, the home of Senator George Norris, reported that in 1921 more than 400 of the 500 papers in the state had used this utility publicity copy at various times.

The New England committee reported, "One of the most favorable results obtained was the number of editorials published in many of the leading newspapers where committee material has been directly reprinted in editorial columns or taken as a text for favorable comment on the public utilities' problems."

THE LABOR WORLD

310 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, JULY 24, 1931.

FAIR WARNING!

Of course, it's none of our business, but we can't resist the impulse to warn Mr. Engle and Mr. Niehoff, of our baseball club, as follows: Chattanooga baseball fans are long-suffering and gullible, having listened for some twenty years to springtime ballyhoo about their team only to have the bubble burst before the middle of the season and "Chattanooga" hit the bottom of the standing with a dull thud. Surely we have been reasonable. But, gentlemen, there is a point beyond which we cannot go, and if you value your standing in the community and desire to protect your investment DON'T, EVER, FINISH A SEASON BELOW KNOXVILLE!

Sympathy of the entire community goes out to the family of Commissioner of Education H. D. Huffaker in the passing of his beloved wife and helpmeet, who surrendered to the Grim Reaper early Tuesday morning following a lengthy and valiant fight to regain her lost health. Mrs. Huffaker was a lovable Christian lady, and her unselfish and indefatigable work for the betterment of the community, expressed in her activities in various civic and other organizations, will live long to endear her memory to thousands of Chattanoogans. On behalf of the entire labor movement, The Labor World extends heartfelt condolences to the bereaved relatives of this good woman.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—Has the American Federation of Labor a flag of its own?

A.—Yes. It flies from the flagstaff on top of the federation's building in Washington, D. C., and is dark blue with A. F. of L. in white letters across it.

• • •

Q.—What was the pioneer international union in Canada?

A.—Montreal Local No. 21 of the Iron Molders' Union of North America, organized in 1861.

What Next!

Wood gas as a substitute for gasoline has been tested some time on an omnibus in Montevideo, Uruguay. The company says it is satisfied and will equip all of its buses with the device. It says the fuel costs $1.80 daily per bus compared with $9 to $10 daily for gasoline and that buses using it require less lubrication only once monthly instead of weekly. The wood gas is produced in a large, rather unwieldy tank equipment which is carried at the rear of the vehicle.

One good turn deserves another. Your demand for the union label or union service will usually cause the other fellow to do the same for you.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

Restless, could not sleep

"THERE were days when I felt like I could not get my work done. I would get so nervous and 'trembly' I would have to lie down. I was very restless, and could not sleep at night.

My mother advised me to take Cardui, and I certainly am glad she did. It is the first thing that seemed to give me any strength. I felt better after the first bottle. I kept it up and am now feeling fine."—Mrs. T. R. Gibson, Fort Payne, Ala.

B-176

CARDUI HELPS WOMEN to HEALTH

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

A TIME FOR ACTION!

From many points come reports of new interest in organization work. Applications for union membership are coming faster than usual. Men want to be inside instead of outside.

Perhaps this is merely an expression of the age-old instinct to join the pack when trouble comes. Perhaps it is something more than that. Perhaps it is a realization of the fact that individuals, by themselves, cannot cope with a situation in which everyone on the employers' side is organized.

The situation with which a wage-earner is confronted is too big for him to meet alone.

The man who comes into a union because he is so battered that he is desperate may stay when times improve, or he may not.

The man who comes in because he understands individual helpfulness in the face of industry's complexities and organized strength, will stay.

But whatever may be the reason that brings a member in, it is the union's job to show him why membership is valuable, why he should remain a member, why he should bear his share of the burden, why it is a matter of duty as well as a matter of self-protection to stay in.

The union justifies itself in all times. It does so a hundredfold in these times. But tomorrow the non-union man will be out of the picture, because a lone individual, going his own way, in a world where everything is organization, teamwork and negotiation, will simply not fit. The day will come when not even the most obstreperous bosses will want a non-union man.

There will have to be organized responsibility as well as organized intelligence and discipline.

How, for example, would a man stand if he lived in a state which didn't belong to the Union? It will one day be that way in industry.

Meanwhile for those that see no further, there are the dollars and cents reasons.

It is not by accident that the average rate of union wages is twice the average rate of all wages.

Union men are not drawing twice as much as non-union men just for no reason at all. They are drawing better wages because of organized effort.

Not only are wages better, but conditions of work are better. The best equipped and cleanest plants are the plants where union men work.

The Saturday half-holiday was won by the unions. Where the five-day week is in effect it was won by unions.

When the 30-hour week comes, as it must, it will be because of unions!

Employment is more regular for union members. Bosses have more respect for union members!

The amazing thing is that there is any such thing as a non-union worker. Some day we will look back in wonderment at the years and years of effort that were required to win strength for unions. We will ask how it was that anybody could have been stopped from joining a union.

Today we are in a depression, but we are going places just the same.

We seem to have stagnation, but we are having tremendous changes.

For one thing, industry is becoming more closely knit together. The processes of merging and consolidating go on rapidly.

Vast and astounding new machinery is just over the horizon.

The mechanical man is more and more a labor-saver more and more a problem to himself and everybody else.

Accident loses more and more by taking out.

A spontaneous movement toward organization is in the air. This is the time to get busy—intelligently!

UNIONISM AS A SOCIAL FORCE.

The value of the trade union movement cannot be measured by wage increases, unless these increases are associated with higher living standards, more diffused education and a more enlightened citizenship.

Unionism is a social force because its heart is morally and ethically sound. It is never found pleading for special privileges. Wage rates it asks for are met by the non-union employer. Its pleas for the abolishment of child labor include children of workers who take no part in the fight for better conditions. Its demands that life and limb be protected in shop and mine include all workers. Its creed is all-embracing—regardless of sex, religious belief, politics, nationality or color—it invites all wage-earners to join with it in the effort for a higher type of manhood and womanhood.

The time has passed when the trade union movement must apologize for its existence or defend its purposes. Its position is invulnerable because it is supported by grim necessity and by the highest ideals that have actuated man—a larger degree of liberty. A movement founded on these two elements can withstand any shock, as has been proven times without number by the trade unions.

Those who desire better living and working conditions must do their share to secure them. Demand union made goods and service.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Money"
PART XXXV.
JESUS AND THE RICH YOUNG RULER
Lk. 18:18-25

Last week's article closed with the writer asking three questions: What in the life of the rich young ruler who came to Jesus and inquired as to how to find eternal life held him back? And then, what destroyed this young man's chances of attaining that about which he sought information from our Lord? And lastly, how did Jesus Himself feel about the something which held the young man back? In seeking answers to these questions of course we must seek for them in the teaching of Jesus, but we must not for one moment try to find in His teaching the methods or even the viewpoint of a political economist or social reformer.

WM. L. MOSS

Jesus' teaching proves without a shadow of doubt that the dangers connected with the possession of property was ever in His mind. Read the gospels for yourself as the writer has with the purpose in mind to see on what points in world life Jesus laid the most emphasis and you will soon be faced with the startling revelation that the Master placed greater emphasis on the dangers of the possession of wealth than He did on the evils of licentiousness and drunkenness! But why do we of today, that is the average Church member, think the reverse is true? Because the Church has reversed Jesus' mode of thinking! We hear from the pulpit incessant and ringing fulminations against the wiles of the world, the flesh and the devil, but not a word against the dangers that lie in the possession of great wealth. Jesus' concern was for the spiritual vitality and soundness of the individual and above all else for the human relationships that exist among men. Now, licentiousness and drink are but two of these evils that destroy men—there are also others, among them the possession of property when possession becomes the end and not a means in an individual's life. Jesus was interested in property, as He was in licentiousness and drunkenness and every other evil only in so far as it corrupted life and kept the individual from coming into possession of the sweeter elements of existence and the eternal glories of the future. He was against property, as He was against every other thing, if it tainted men's higher and nobler natures or made brotherliness among them difficult.

Jesus knew the acquisitive instinct, just like our appetites, absorbs the energies of will and intellect. He knew that this instinct and our appetites if left to their own guidance easily take possession of us and become ravenous, destroying the soul if permitted to grow unchecked. In the case of money it has the same effect on all of us. Its possession limits the horizon of life, our sole aim, even though we do not lose our outward interest in the Church and secular life, is to make our pile grow bigger, to heap money upon money. Life soon becomes a thing which consists of money and the problems of money. People, life and all that is contained in life is valued according to a money standard. Homes are founded upon it rather than upon love. Wars are fought for its sake. Artists bow down to it. Government is swayed by it. In fact, when money takes complete possession of an individual or a nation the fact that it was invented to secure for men freedom and self-development is forgotten and it is used to enchain men and beat down their self-expression.

Trust Law Change and Unionized Coal Industry Demanded by Green

Washington, July 23.—Recognition of trade union collective bargaining in the coal industry and amendment of the anti-trust laws to permit legalization of holding companies are urged by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as necessary fundamentals for placing the bituminous coal industry on a sound economic basis.

In a press statement explaining his proposal President Green points out that holding companies would bring about the closing down of uneconomic mines and secure the utilization of only those mines where coal can be produced most efficiently. This would insure preservation of the coal supply, provide profits for the operators and fair living conditions and wages for the coal miners. The holding companies would be under the general supervision of the federal government to prevent monopolistic price control and similar prices.

President Green declared that the operation of surplus uneconomic mines brings about ruinous competition, which in turn drives operators into bankruptcy and miners into disgraceful living conditions. The tendency of the miners is to hang around intermittently operated, uneconomic mines in the hope of obtaining jobs. Close them, and the miners will look for jobs elsewhere.

Thorough unionization of the mines and the consequent recognition of collective bargaining, with the union wage scale generally accepted, would prevent individual operators from attempting to undersell competitors by cutting labor costs. This would not only protect the coal miners, but would stabilize the industry, President Green concluded.

Disloyalty!

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

Volumes have been written about what is the proper amount of loyalty and respect employes should practice in their relationships with their employers—but how little has ever been penned or said about the loyalty and respect employers owe their employes! This effusion you are now reading is an unblushing contribution to the latter class of preachments. It relates to the relationships existing between organized printers and their publisher-employers. For several years it has been a known fact that the printers' employers as members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association were accumulating a "protection fund" which, it has always been hoped by the members of the S. N. P. A., would grow some day to large enough proportions as to permit the publishers to embark upon a fight south-wide to destroy the locals of the International Typographical union for once and forever. In convention recently at Asheville, N. C., the members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association, at the behest of a publisher who not so long ago locked out his union compositors, enlarged its reserve for fighting union printers to the sum of $1,000,000. Looking things squarely in the face, what does this mean? It means that publishers now employing union printers are quite frankly gathering together money enough to "break the back" of the International Typographical union here in the southland by crushing locals wherever possible. The printers, at work at the cases or at the make-up stone or in front of linotype machines and elsewhere in the composing room, are daily and nightly grinding out for their employers the very money which some day—sooner or later—will be used to finance what is intended to be "a magnificent fight" to forever crush the printers' union. The attitude of the publisher-employers is that of "biting the hand" that feeds them! It is, to say the least, a mighty poor return for the undoubted loyalty of thousands of organized printers who have given their life to the trade and the financial enrichment of their employers!

What Fools These Mortals Be?

Boy—Who is sovereign in this country, daddy?

Daddy—The people, collectively, son.

Boy—Who is sovereign in Canada?

Daddy—King George of the British empire.

Boy—Why is it, where the people are sovereign, we pay 7½c a K.W.H. for electricity and the king's subjects pay only 1¾c?

Daddy—Run along to school now, Eddie, I am very busy.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

IN the early eighteen hundreds there stepped from out the heterogenous mass of men into the political life of England a man who was to play no small part in freeing laboring men, partially at least, from the onerous and iniquitous "conspiracy laws" then darkening the statute books of the most enlightened nation of that time. This man was Joseph Hume, who but a few short years before he became a member of parliament had returned from the India service a wealthy man. He was a physician, and when he returned home he was converted from toryism to liberalism. His study of the financial, political and industrial problems of his people at home soon convinced him that the quite and reactionary lines of thought to which a Tory was limited in order that the old aristocratic orders might be preserved and the wealth and political power kept in their hands could serve no good purpose in the end, as far at least as the common people, especially the laboring class, were concerned. He readily saw that the repressive measures adopted in the form of "laws for the protection of our great nation" were, after all, merely cunningly connived and artfully disguised shackles to hold the common folk in check. Hume, in his political activities, met that most interesting figure, Francis Place, and soon became one of his most enthusiastic co-workers for industrial reform. The two together, Place secretly working in his little tailor shop, the mecca of every industrial agitator of that day, and Hume as an M. P. seeing that the desires of Place and his friends were carried out in parliament, along with still another man sought and secured the repeal of the hated "combination laws" and forever freed English labor. The third member of this crusading labor triumvirate was one John R. McCulloch, of which more next week.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45589
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Minnie Galloway vs. Charles Comer Galloway

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Charles Comer Galloway is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 21st day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C.
F. L. Dixon, Atty. 8-14

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

INDIGESTION

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest.

"I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted.

"Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."
—Clyde Vaughn, 10 Shippy St., Greenville, S. C.

Sold in 25¢ packages. E-170

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

WOMEN who are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

"PUT YOUR LIFE IN BISHOP'S HANDS"
Volunteer State Life Insurance Company
J. W. Bishop, Mgr. Home Office Agcy
ASSOCIATES
E. E. WALLACE — W. E. WEBER
W. A. PARK — C. W. BRADLEY
C. E. FLUKER — J. J. HARRISON
S. W. RAWLINGS — RAY SEAGLE
J. L. WALTERS — H. M. JUDD
C. L. BROOKING — J. H. JARVIS
R. B. WITT
MISS MAGGIE LYNN PEEPLES
H. W. RAY, WINCHESTER, TENN.

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PRIVATE CARS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

B L & K R
Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

Ready Cash
For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.
Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Second Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

Coca-Cola IN BOTTLES
Goodness and purity are sealed in.
Buy by the case

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45518
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Collins Welch Worthey vs. Sam Worthey
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Sam Worthey is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next August rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in August next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 7th day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Thos. S. Myers, Atty. 7-24

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
No. 45562
Collins Welch Duckett vs. Ralph L. Duckett
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ralph L. Duckett is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 16th day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Thos. S. Myers, Atty. 8-7

Labor Saving Goes On, But How About Also Saving the Laborer?

In 1929, when the number of wage-earners employed in manufactures was at the peak, there were 192,522 less persons at work than in the previous peak year of 1919.

Meanwhile, the population total had increased by 20 per cent. This increase had not been absorbed by industry; and the proportion of those engaged in agriculture had decreased.

Had there been no depression, these cumulative facts alone would have constituted a social and economic problem mounting toward the first magnitude.

And nothing was being done about it!

* * *

Meanwhile, there has been a development of the equipment of manufactures in all lines, from steel and iron to the making of textiles, shoes and radios, looking to the further economy of labor costs in industry.

Railways and mining have been making their contribution to these "labor-saving" improvements.

Agriculture is increasing the number of tractors and combines and corn-and-cane cutting machines.

Horses' power and man-power is being eliminated from the corn, cattle, wheat, hog, cotton and ginning processes.

The crowding out of the factories seems to have resulted in a "drift to the land," based upon the hopes of the grandsons of farmers that they can go back to a little farm—"where they at least can eat."

* * *

Contributing to the displacement by the machines of the "hands"—human hands—is another important function of the efficiency engineer: the stop-watch counting of human motions, and the co-ordinating of the human hands to the movements of the machine.

The old Taylor system is being applied in cool, engineering fashion, qualified with a kind of intelligence which counts the contentment of the worker while on the job as an industrial and economic asset.

Labor saving is going right on. And no sensible man wants to stop that.

But who is looking after the saving of the laborer?

* * *

Four steel plants, in three different states, have been shut down and their business concentrated in one steel plant in Gary, Ind., on account of the new "ribbon," or continuous process, of making sheet steel.

Doubtless it is good for Gary, but how about the folks in those other four towns?

A new device and process worked out at a plant in Girard, Ohio, has resulted in an increase of the size of the "bloom" in the puddling of wrought iron from 200 pounds to 6,000 pounds. By this process 100 men can produce as much wrought iron as formerly required 1,000 men. This has reduced the number of puddlers in that plant from 950 to about 500, thus far.

* * *

There will be further reductions, unless the management can secure contracts for material to take the place of Bessemer steel.

Steel rails used to come from the puddlers, but the Bessemer process stole the market years ago.

Now, if wrought iron can come back, by this new process of cheaper production, it will build up the puddlers' activity.

But what is to become of these displaced iron and steel workers in any case?

STATE BARBERS BOARD ISSUES RULES FOR SHOPS

"When one enters a barber shop these days it is to wonder at the marvelous changes that have taken place," said H. T. Phelps, secretary of the state board of barber examiners, speaking of the work done by his board since its organization.

By special act of the legislature this board was created two years ago, and since that time has been actively engaged in bringing about reforms of much worth to patrons of barber shops, now patronized to a great extent by women and children.

In addition to the board members inspectors are employed to see that no infractions occur, especially instructed to enforce all sanitary regulations.

Barbers are required to stand an annual physical examination. Besides, to practice barbering in Tennessee, the law provides a satisfactory examination to determine fitness, and applicant must be of good moral character and temperate habits.

Mr. Phelps further stated, "It pays to look well, and barbers realizing this, are fully co-operating, using every effort to make their places as attractive as possible."

Truly, a new era has dawned for the tonsorialists, resulting in improved methods of great benefit to patrons, thereby making it almost impossible to spread infection or disease, either by customer or barber.

All barbers are cautioned to familiarize themselves with rules and regulations adopted by the board of examiners, which Mr. Phelps gives as follows:

Rule 1. The main entrance to each barber shop, barber college and school of barbering shall be clearly marked.

Rule 2. Each barber or apprentice barber shall register with the state board of barber examiners and shall post his or her registration certificate conspicuously near his or her chair.

Rule 3. All barber shops, barber schools and barber colleges shall display a sign indicating that it is a barber shop, barber school or barber college, and the said sign shall be clearly visible at the main entrance of said place.

Rule 4. Rooms or space used for barber shops, barber schools or barber colleges shall be separated by tight, ceiling-height partitions from rooms or space used for any store, poolroom, pressing shop, restaurant or eating place, shoe repair or other repair shop, or any other business not customarily associated with barber shops and which might create objectionable conditions in a barber shop.

Rule 5. An annual physical examination is required.

Rule 6. All barber shops, barber schools and barber colleges, together with all furniture, equipment, tools, utensils, floors, walls and ceilings, shall, at all times, be kept in a clean and sanitary condition, well lighted and well ventilated.

Rule 7. Continuous hot and cold running water must be provided in each establishment. The dipping of towels, mugs, tools, or utensils of any kind in hot or cold water tank is prohibited.

Rule 8. Cuspidors shall be cleaned every day and a disinfectant solution left in them at all times.

Rule 9. Any barber, operator or employe whose work causes him or her to touch the skin of any person, shall wash his or her hands with soap and water before beginning work on any other patron or person.

Rule 10. At least two receptacles must be provided in each barber shop, barber school or barber college. Used shaving papers must be deposited in one, and used towels in the other.

Rule 11. Shaving mugs and brushes shall be thoroughly washed with hot water, the temperature of which is not less than 200 degrees Fahrenheit, before each patron is served.

Rule 12. A towel that is used on one patron shall not be used again on another patron until re-laundered.

Rule 13. The headrest on each chair must be provided with a clean towel or sheet of clean paper for each person.

Rule 14. A strip of cotton, towel or sanex must be placed around the patron's neck so that the hair cloth does not come in contact with the neck.

Rule 15. All bathrooms, toilets and other adjoining rooms shall be kept clean and in a sanitary condition. Bath tubs shall be thoroughly washed and cleaned after each patron's or person's use. Individual soap and clean towels shall be given to each patron. No brushes, sponges, or wash rags shall be left in bathrooms for use of the patron.

Rule 16. The use of powder puffs, finger bowls, sponges and styptic pencils is prohibited.

Rule 17. Razors, scissors, tweezers, combs, rubber discs and parts of vibrators and all other utensils, appliances or anything that comes in contact with the head, face or neck must be immersed in boiling water or in a disinfectant solution and placed in a compartment until used again. Only such methods of sterilization as are bacteriologically effective shall be permitted.

Rule 18. Failure on the part of the owner, manager or employe to comply with the foregoing regulations will be deemed sufficient cause to revoke license.

Rule 19. It shall be the duty of the proprietors of all barber shops, barber schools and barber colleges, and of all registered barbers, apprentices and barber students, patrons of barber shops and others to assist in carrying out these sanitary rules and regulations adopted by the state board of barber examiners pursuant to, and under the authority of, the laws of the state of Tennessee, Chapter 119, statutes of 1929, by reporting to the board or any of its duly authorized agents, or assistants, any violations of the said law or of these sanitary rules and regulations.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45606
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
J. W. King vs. Debbie Davis King
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Debbie Davis King is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 22d day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C.
Thos. S. Myers, Atty. 8-14

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

On the eve of their execution, an Irishman, a Scotchman and a Jew were asked if they would like any special delicacy.

The Irishman voted for Irish stew, the Scotchman for a bottle of Scotch whisky, and the Jew fancied strawberries and cream.

Warden (protesting)—But, strawberries are not in season.

The Jew—That's all right, I can wait.

* * *

Joe—Hullo! Bought a saxophone?
Moe—No; I borrowed it from the man next door.
Joe—But you can't play it.
Moe—Neither can he while I've got it.

* * *

The girls are not going to worry about the washout of the cotton crop so long as the silk worms keep busy. . . . If some men would spend as much time doing things as they do in telling about the things they have done, a lot more would be accomplished. . . . Few things are as painful as telling a funny story to a person who has no sense of humor. . . . An egotist is a person who thinks he is as clever as you think you are. . . . It may be all right for people to love their enemies, but it has been our observation that mighty few of 'em do it.

* * *

Smile and the world smiles with you,
Kick and you kick alone;
But the cheerful grin will let you in,
Where the knocker is never known.

* * *

A kindly but somewhat patronizing landlady inquired of the young bride how she and her husband proposed to spend their summer vacation.

The Bride (a little distantly)—Our plans so far, are tentative.

Landlady—Oh, how delightful. I'm sure you'll enjoy camping out more than anything else you could do.

* * *

A guest hurried up to the hotel clerk's counter. He had just ten minutes to pay his bill, reach the station and board his train.

The Guest—Hang it, I've forgotten something. Here, boy, run up to my room—No. 427—and see if I left my pajamas and shaving outfit. Hurry. I've only got five minutes now. Show some speed.

The boy hurried. In four minutes he returned, empty handed and out of breath.

The Bellhop—Yes, sir, you left them.

* * *

If a pitcher is jerked out and the game is won, that's strategy; if he is jerked and the game is lost, that's plain unadulterated dumbness.

* * *

Pretty Girl (at florist's)—Have you any passion poppie?

Elderly Clerk (excitedly) — Gol ding! Just you wait till I lay these roses down.

* * *

Doctor—Now, young man, what have you got to say for yourself?

His Son (in for a licking)—How about a little local anesthetic?

* * *

An old-timer is one who can remember when "Cut it out" was a slang expression instead of a popular cure.

* * *

Tommy—Isn't "wholesome" a funny word, father?

Father—What's so funny about it?

Tommy—Why, take away the "whole" and you've got "some" left.

* * *

"It's the truth that I speak,"
Says Archibald Green,
"A girl on the lap
Is worth two on the screen."

* * *

Male Straphanger—Madam, you are standing on my foot.

Female Ditto—I beg your pardon. I thought it belonged to the man sitting down.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by deed of trust executed 3d day of October, 1927, by Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, to secure the indebtedness therein described, which deed of trust is of record in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book T, Vol. 28, page 464 et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions therein contained, and default having been made in the payment of several of the notes described in said deed of trust, said notes in the sum of Fifteen Dollars and one in the sum of Twenty-five Dollars; and notes payable monthly and the notes for January, 1931, and all notes since then, one each month, have been defaulted in the payment thereof, and have remained in default for more than thirty days after their maturity; and the holder of said notes having declared all of the same due and payable at once, and requested me to advertise and sell the property described in said deed of trust to satisfy said unpaid indebtedness, I, J. A. Long, trustee, will expose for sale and will sell in front of the west door of the courthouse, on Walnut street in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at 11 o'clock a.m., on to the highest and best bidder, at public outcry, for cash in hand, and in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 8, 1931,

Lot number one hundred and twenty-six in Bellview (sometimes called Bellevieww), Chattanooga Land Company's Addition No. 1. Being the same real estate conveyed to Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, by H. B. Langford and wife, F. L. Langford, about July 26th, 1926.

The title is believed to be good but will sell and convey as trustee only.

This 13th day of July, 1931.

8-7 J. A. LONG, Trustee.

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

Do you know Your Union Label

Union Label of Stove Mounters

Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen

Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance

Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America

Coopers' Union Label

United Leather Workers Union Label

Emblem of American Federation of Musicians

Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union

Union Label of Tobacco Workers

United Hatters of North America Label

Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union

Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union

Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners

Union Label of Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union

Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America

Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings

Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers

Stove and Which Molders' Union Label

Jewelry Workers' Union Label

Store Card of Retail Clerks

Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union Label

Bookbinders' Union Label

Machinists' Union Label

Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America

Brick and Clay Workers' Label

Plate Printers and Die Stampers' Union Label

International Photo-Engravers' Union Label

Used on Rolls and Bundles

Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators

Local Pressmen's Union Label

Glove Workers' Union Label

Allied Printing Trades Label

Paper Makers' Union Labels

Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp

Bartenders' Button

Waiters' Button

Local Typographical Union Label

Cigarmakers' Union Label

Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America

Card of Union Bartenders

Label of Stogie Makers

A. F. of L. Label

Card of Union Waiters

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company
Ideal Service at Moderate Cost
Phone 6-6114

COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Honest Weight — Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

"Say it with Flowers"
Joy's
Joy Phone 6-7168
817 Market Street

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
No. 45419
Annie Mae Harris vs. Carl H. Harris
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill [illegible] Carl H. Harris [illegible] State of Tennessee [illegible] process of law cannot be served [illegible] ordered that publication be made for four consecutive weeks in the Labor World [illegible] and that said defendant appear before the Chancellor [illegible] Hamilton county [illegible] and plead, answer or demur to complainant's bill [illegible] September rules of said court [illegible] attorneys on the first Monday in September next, the same being the [illegible] day of said month, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This [illegible] day [illegible], 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
P. L. Dixon, Atty. 8-7

SWIM AT Warner Park Swimming Pool
Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

Eight Arguments Against Wage Cuts

Pictured above are eight "arguments" against wage cuts, entering wedge for which has been driven by the county administration. Fred Adamson, of the Electricians, may be expected to oppose at least any general application of the "economy" program, along with many other of his fellow workingmen who are blessed with families of similar size. Mr. and Mrs. Adamson live at 1110 Burnette avenue, where the family group shown above was snapped some time ago. Left to right, the children are Florrie, 20; Marie, 18; Leola, 17; Norman, 15; Doris, 14; Ruth, 12; Howard, 8, and Edward, 6. Mrs. Adamson is a granddaughter of the late George M. Day, whose many members of Chattanooga Typographical union, No. 89, remember as "Uncle George," one of the most beloved printers of his time.

MORE ABOUT
10 PER CENT. TAX

(Continued from First Page)

Several local organizations of a civic and semi-civic nature have adopted strong resolutions condemning the movement toward a destruction of living standards, and local unions are also joining in the protest. Among the latter is Lodge 53, Iron Molders, which adopted the following expression at its regular meeting this week:

"Whereas, County Judge Will Cummings, aided by other county officials and advocates of low wages for working people, has initiated a movement for and is demanding salary and wage cuts for all employes of the county; and,

"Whereas, such a movement is not only unnecessary and unfair, but will give aid and comfort to all employers who seek to unload their depression burdens upon the shoulders of working people; and,

"Whereas, Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, our parent body, has fittingly and well expressed the indignation of labor and a demand for the county court to undo, as far as possible, the damage already done; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we approve the sentiment expressed by our Central Body, and offer our full co-operation and support to the movement to stop this outrage upon those who toil.

"C. E. CARPENTER,
"JAMES O'CONNOR,
"Committee."

An open letter sent to Judge Cummings and Mayor Bass and signed by J. R. Porter, secretary of Hamilton Council, No. 1, Gray Eagle Cavalrymen of America, was furnished The Labor World this week, as follows:

"Chattanooga, Tenn.,
"July 16, 1931.

"To Mayor E. D. Bass and Judge Will Cummings:

"We hereby openly announce our opposition to the move to reduce the salaries of the school teachers and other employes of the city and county. As a means of relief to the financial condition of today, we stand for the highest American standard which must come through the training of our public school system, which everyone should be proud of. We shall oppose any backward move from the standard which we have attained, the same being by far too low at the present time.

"We as taxpayers and voters hope you will give this matter some consideration.

"Yours truly,
"Hamilton Council No. 1, O. of G. E. C. A.
"J. R. Porter, Secretary.
"302 Bell Avenue, City."

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Commissioners of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, contemplate amending Ordinance No. 1848, known as the Zoning Ordinance, so as to re-zone and change Lots Nos. 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22 of the Connor, Foust & Thompson addition to Chattanooga, Hamilton county, Tennessee, in the old Third Civil district, now a part of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as shown by Plat Book No. 6, page No. 11, in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, from a Residential District in Section 3 to District 4 of Section 4, so as to permit the erection of a residential apartment building on said property, but no business of any kind shall be, or is to be permitted on said described land or in any apartment building erected on said land.

The Board of Commissioners of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, will have a hearing in the office of the Mayor on Tuesday, Aug. 25, 1931, at 3 o'clock p.m., to hear protests of any person whose property is affected by said amendment.

By order of the Board of Commissioners of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, this the 21st day of July, 1931

JOHN C. HIBBETS, Auditor.

MORE ABOUT SOCIAL UNREST

(Continued from First Page)

"Here we stand like the Greeks at Thermopylae. We refuse to budge. The American Federation of Labor will not stand a reduction of wages, and we are going to oppose it with all our might and vigor."

"How dramatic, how electrifying, how heroic would be a declaration that industry is going to meet its obligations; that we are not going to add to the burdens of the cities and towns this winter; that we are not going to turn adrift those who served us so faithfully and so well, to become objects of charity, led by citizens' committees and taxpayers of our municipalities.

Reduce Days and Hours of Work.

"There must be no further additions to the army of unemployed. We must assume our obligations and maintain every man now employed, and find jobs as soon as possible for those unemployed. Perhaps a reduction of days or hours is necessary to give every man a share of the work that is available. I would rather have 100,000,000 employed five days a week than 60,000,000 employed six days with 40,000,000 idle.

"These economic and industrial adjustments must be made. We are faced with the inevitable facts and that is what I think an industrial conference called by the president should consider. No social order should deny a willing man the opportunity to work. Every worker has a claim to his share of work.

Social Sanctions Are Threatened.

"Our financial institutions, industry and the government itself rest on social sanctions, and those social sanctions are threatened when we create in a republic an army of unemployed and the conditions that now exist. Those in authority have refused to respond favorably to our suggestion and we appeal in the name of labor and humanity for a favorable response to the suggestion that a conference be called and that it be supplemented by legislative action.

"I can't understand why millions should be appropriated in war, and yet at a time like this, more dangerous and even more menacing to the institutions of our country than war, there should be any hesitancy on the part of the government to appropriate money for constructive enterprises to provide millions of unemployed with work."

TIDE OF ORGANIZATION IN RANKS OF COAL MINERS IS FAST RISING

With Bituminous Industry Desperately in Need of Stabilizing Force and Even Greater Chaos Threatening, Workers See Union as Balance Wheel and Flock Back to U. M. W.

By C. S. GARRISON

Indianapolis, Ind., July 23.—The tide of organization in the ranks of the United Mine Workers, which has been at ebb for a long time, seems to be coming in, according to reports from various mine fields of the bituminous region.

Despite the refusal of certain operators to agree to a calling of a general conference to find a solution to the ills that seem to be eating the industry, organizing work among the miners is going forward and with enthusiasm.

It was agreed among factors in coal production that the industry is sick and is getting no better fast. Officers of the United Mine Workers, of course, have a decided interest in the coal industry, representing several hundred thousand persons dependent on it for life itself. They wished a general conference of operators, miners and the public to devise some sort of method to put the industry on its feet. The declination by operators, called by Secretary Lamont, to participate in such a meeting, while not final as far as the industry is concerned, shows, mine officials say, that operators—some of them—are content to go on in the old dog-eat-dog method of competition and the devil take the hindermost.

Operators Offer No Remedy.

Incidentally it might be mentioned that the operators offer no remedy themselves and apparently are not willing to accept suggestions from other sources.

Thus the coal industry is left hanging and with no net under it. The miners have a sincere—if selfish—desire to see the coal industry put on an even keel. Mining coal is their bread and butter, and if they get no work they starve.

It is this sentiment that has started the workers on the road to rehabilitate their old organization. Since the contract between the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal corporation and the United Mine Workers of District No. 5 has been negotiated, and the Scott's Run field in West Virginia has been reorganized, the rank and file of miners vision a return of the union, and they are re-establishing their membership by the thousands in Pennsylvania and other soft coal districts.

In most of these districts, where strikes have been in force and where the workers have started new local unions the so-called National Miners' union—a communist outfit—has sent in disturbers by the score to muddy the waters and carry on a campaign of violence and sabotage. The red element predicted the blow-up of the contract in District 5 and said openly they expected to keep the mines on strike. In this they failed, as some 2,400 men—United Mine Workers—are at work under the new agreement.

Officers in Demand.

International and district officers have plenty of work cut out for them and find it almost impossible to keep up with the demand for their presence at mass and local union meetings where organization work is going forward.

It is pointed out that ever since the coal industry started into the practice of repudiating contracts made with the United Mine Workers a few years ago, it has been in a chaotic condition due to the absence of bonafide contractural relations with a responsible body of men.

A continuation of the economic war which has been waged among operators, the spilling of blood in strikes and riots, the continued starvation of thousands of miners and their families will make a bad situation worse and bring veritable chaos in an industry that should be sitting at the head of the industrial prosperity table.

Action Is Imperative.

Officials of the United Mine Workers have pointed out to President Hoover and cabinet members that something must be done to prevent thousands of American citizens engaged in digging coal from absolute starvation this winter. A man with no work and his family starving and ragged is easy meat for red propagandists bent on setting up a "dictatorship of the proletariat" in America.

Level headed mine workers declare union organization is the balance wheel and are bending their efforts to restore the union to its former place in the industrial sun. Notice of the signing of contracts between the union and three Tennessee coal companies has been received at headquarters and the work there and elsewhere continues.

Miners' Union Warns of Government Control of Bituminous Coal Industry

(By International Labor News Service.)

Indianapolis, Ind., July 23.—Unless business executives and the coal operators join with the United Mine Workers of America to extricate the bituminous coal industry from the chaos which dominates it today, the federal government must exercise its sovereign power and reorganize the industry by legislative fiat. This is the substance of a statement in the United Mine Workers' Journal, the official organ of the United Mine Workers.

A tremendous reduction in the amount of coal consumed caused by the business depression is largely responsible for unemployment and its contingent suffering and distress among the coal miners, the Journal points out in discussing what is wrong with the coal industry.

"When industry in America was running at its height, a few years ago, more than 800,000 men were employed in and around the mines," the Journal says. "But in 1930 less than 500,000 were employed, and these 500,000 only made a hand-to-mouth living."

For the first four months in 1931, the output of bituminous coal was 36,000,000 tons less than during the same period in 1930; 58,000,000 tons less than in 1929; 39,000,000 tons less than in 1928, and 76,000,000 tons less than in 1927.

The Journal claims the coal miners are unable by themselves to remedy the depression in the coal mining industry, and insists that the responsibility rests with management and business.

The figures on decreased production and increased employment "tell a graphic and terrible story which impels the powers of business and government to turn their most serious attention to the duty of rescuing this fundamental industry from the chaos in which it flounders," concludes the Journal.

"If management and business are impotent, or simply will not try to find the way out, then government must step in and point the way."

A bill detailing the scheme of the United Mine Workers of America for reorganizing the bituminous coal industry and setting up a plan for regulating labor conditions, output, and prices was introduced in the last session of congress by Senator Watson, of Indiana, and referred to the senate committee on interstate commerce.

Coal Situation Desperate, Miners Tell Government

Workers' Case Presented "With Very Great Ability and Force" Secretary Doak Says Following Two-Day Conference.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Washington, July 23.—With a thorough presentation of the mine workers' case to the government, the two-day conference of United Mine Workers' representatives with Secretary of Labor Doak ended here Tuesday. At its close President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, declared the situation "desperate" and expressed the hope that President Hoover would yet see the way clear to summon a national coal conference.

Asked as to communist infiltration in the coal fields, he declared that if the mine owners would negotiate with the bonafide union they would not have communist troubles on their hands.

There was general agreement that the coal field situation is in a state of disorganized turmoil and misery, as far as non-union fields are concerned. President Lewis would go no further than to again call attention to his petition to President Hoover for a conference with the union's threefold objectives—the right to organize and negotiate and stabilization of the industry—in view.

Secretary Doak limited his comment to saying that the miners' case had been presented "with very great ability and force."

The conferences are being treated as a part of a program to be carried out, which began with the conference between the mine operators and Secretary Lamont, and is now to be followed by other work in the line of investigations. Asked whether there would be any conference with the representatives of the National Mine Workers' union, the communist left wing miners' organization, Secretary Doak replied that the National Miners' union, the red organization, had very effectively shut itself out of any conferences by filing a protest with President Hoover's secretary objecting to any conferences whatever.

Besides Secretaries Doak and Lamont and President Lewis, those taking part in the conference were Phillip Murray, vice-president of the United Mine Workers; Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer; Van A. Bittner, special representative of the Mine Workers for northern West Virginia; James Marks and P. T. Fagan, presidents of two Pennsylvania districts; William Houston, international representative for southern West Virginia; William Turnblazer, president of District 19, east Kentucky and Tennessee; Ed Morgan, special representative for west Kentucky; Lee Hall, president of District 6, Ohio, and Percy Tetlow, of the same district; David McDonald, assistant to the vice-president of the United Mine Workers, and K. C. Adams.

Duluth Labor Editor Placed on State Board

St. Paul, Minn.—Gov. Floyd B. Olson has appointed William E. McEwen, of Duluth, editor of the Labor World, a member of the state conservation commission, a board created by the late legislature to have complete control of the state's mineral and timber resources, lakes, streams, water power, the protection and propagation of game and fish, and the public domain.

OUR WEEKLY MARKET BASKE

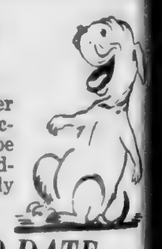
WATCH this section every we for Grocery Bargai
Make your Dollar Double Duty. Patronize those who patron YOUR PAPER — and save the difference.

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED
EASY WAY
SELF SERVICE GROCERY
417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue
100% HOME OWNED STORES

LARD Pure Hog Lard or Best Compound (Limit 4 lbs.) 4 Lbs. 35c
WINEDRIP The Better Coffee, Always Good Pound 16c
SUGAR 5-lb. bag 25c; 10-lb. bag 49c; 25-lb. bag $1.23
Fancy RICE or PINTO BEANS Very Best, Pound 4c
APPLE BUTTER "Loyal" Pure, Very Best Grade—30-oz. Jar 15c
MACARONI or Spaghetti, "Cook's" Best, 7-oz. Size — Two Packages 7c
WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.



UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER
Makes biscuit as light as a feathe

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS
CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSE

IF YOU WANT THE
BEST FLOUR MADE
Buy—
Orient
Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

Speaking of Cakes—
Why Bother with Baking when your Groce has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties o the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make— Of course they're
ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES
In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

O'Leary called at the home of his friend O'Brien to tell Mrs. O'Brien that her husband was locked up for being drunk.

Mrs. O'Brien—Why didn't you bail him out, man?

O'Leary—Bail him out! Bedad, you couldn't pump him out!

It's surprising, boys, how ignor girls can be at times. There one of them who doesn't know wh kiss means, but they always insis having it repeated. . . . When e thing is dull, it's good business f scissors grinder.

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI | CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, JULY 31, 1931 | Number 14

PLAN SPLENDID PROGRAM FOR PAINTERS' DAY

Enjoyable Day Forecast for Next Thursday.

PICNIC-BARBECUE AT WINNEPESAUKAH

Committees Promise Entertainment for Old and Young at Outing of Unionists.

THE MENU

Dill Pickles Olives
Barbecued Lamb, Pork and Baby Beef
Potato and Pimento Salad
Cold Slaw Relish Devil Sauce
Sliced Tomatoes Bermuda Onions
Assorted Bread Assorted Drinks

Ninth annual barbecue-picnic of Local 226, Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, will be staged next Thursday at Lake Winnepesaukah, and committees from the local union are busy preparing an all-day program for the entertainment of folks of all ages.

"Painters' Day" has come to be quite an event not only for members of the local union and their allied craft, the Signwriters, but hundreds of friends annually take advantage of the outing. While games and contests of every description will make the program interesting from early morning until late afternoon, the chief feature of the event will, of course, be the barbecue at noon. Jesse Witt, than whom there is no more competent "chef" in the business when it comes to preparing a real barbecue feast, will as usual be in charge of this part of the program, and a tempting menu is announced, with generous portions for all comers.

The entertainment committee, which is arranging for a long list of athletic contests and stunts, has secured valuable prizes for the winners of each of these field events, and a program of perhaps two hours' duration is being worked out under the chairmanship of E. L. Blair, who has himself gained quite a reputation along this line. There will be prizes suitable for old and young, men, women and children, according to Mr. Blair, with games and contests in which everybody may participate. In fact, he promised, there will be "something doing every minute of the day."

The athletic contest and games program will be as follows:

Old men's foot race (60 years and over), 50 yards.

100-yard dash for house painters.

100-yard dash for paperhangers.

100-yard dash for sign painters.

A prize for each race and a grand prize will be offered for winner in each.

100-yard dash for the three winners in the above races.

50-yard dash for boys under 15 years old.

100-yard dash for boys over 15 years.

50-yard dash for girls under 17 years.

Bear race for boys under 7 years.

Old-time rolling pin throwing contest for wives of house painters, sign painters, paperhangers and non-members. Four prizes: a grand prize for the winner of the contest between the winners of the four contests.

Baseball throwing for ladies, also for girls under 15 years.

Egg men's foot race, 250 pounds and over, 100 yards.

Potato race for married ladies.

Egg race for married ladies.

Horseshoe pitching contest.

Prize for largest family on the grounds at noon of member of Local 226.

Prize for largest family on the grounds at noon of member of Local 299.

Prize for ugliest member of each, Local 226 and 299.

Drawing and word contests for men and ladies.

A baseball game between a team representing Lake Winnepesaukah and a picked nine from the union will be an event of the afternoon.

The above, with other features to be worked out, added to the many and varied attractions offered by Chattanooga's Coney Island," assure a great day's pleasure for all who join with the local unionists this year in the annual observance of "Painters' Day."

Transportation will be provided by the Greyhound Bus lines, according to J. J. Smith, general chairman, the schedule to be announced later through the daily papers.

The committees arranging for the day's events follow:

General Committee—J. J. Smith, chairman; Charles Milford, A. L. Pruett, Frank Miller, Joe Jett.

Purchasing Committee—A. L. Surber, chairman; R. J. Hogue, W. D. Sims, W. A. Witt.

Entertainment Committee—E. L. Blair, chairman; P. P. Thurston, George Sivley, Sr., J. G. Burkes, Paul Myers.

Refreshment Committee — Charles Milford, chairman; George Sivley, Jr., Joe Harrison.

Ticket Sales Committee—Joe Witt, Frank Thurston, Charles Milford, Joe Bork, George "Skinny" Witt.

Barbecue Committee—W. A. "Zeke" Witt, chairman; Fred Bodine, R. L. Keith, Jess Smith, F. S. Thurston, Skinny Witt, Homer Tarwater, A. G. Springer, Jr., A. T. Jones, H. M. Ottman, Joe Farmer, O. C. Mabee.

Committees on serving, reception and other features will be named later.

MAYOR TRENT NOT BELIEVER IN WAGE CUTS

Knoxville Official Denies He Approved "Economy."

LOCAL INTERVIEW MISINTERPRETED

Article in Chattanooga News Misleading, He Explains to Home City Central Body.

James A. Trent, mayor of Knoxville, according to an article in last week's issue of the labor paper in that city, has denied the purport of remarks attributed to him some three weeks ago by an article in the evening News of Chattanooga, wherein Mr. Trent was quoted, in effect, as approving wage-slashing campaign in the Knoxville city government, and thereby, according to Chattanooga trades unionists, giving "aid and comfort" to the Cummings-News-Arn pay-cut movement locally.

Mr. Trent is a member of the International Typographical union, and Chattanooga workers very naturally resented his supposed remarks, and a resolution expressing this resentment was unanimously adopted by Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, and a copy furnished the Knoxville Central Body.

The Knoxville mayor, according to the labor paper, appeared before that organization recently and explained the circumstances of the alleged interview, and it appears that there was a misconception or a misconstruction of his remarks.

The article, from last week's issue of Progressive Labor, follows:

Mayor James A. Trent, Knoxville's union mayor, was unjustly criticized by the Chattanooga Trades and Labor council last week in a resolution accusing him of advocating the wage-cutting "economy program" that is now being practiced by many municipalities, and which movement is now being advocated in Chattanooga. The purported interview, causing the resolution by the Trades and Labor council, appeared in a Chattanooga paper of two weeks ago and was written by a reporter who happened to be in the office of Mayor Bass while the Knoxville mayor was paying a friendly visit. In the conversation the question of reducing city expenses was brought up by Mayor Bass, who asked the Knoxville mayor to explain the way the Knoxville city budget was cut. This Mayor Trent did but in no way did he approve of the wage-slashing method and told the Chattanoogans so in the conversation. The reporter of the newspaper sponsoring the wage-reducing campaign among city and county employes wrote the story, making it appear that the Knoxville mayor approved the campaign.

The Chattanooga Trades and Labor council in a recent meeting passed resolutions condemning Mayor Trent. a copy of which was sent to the Knoxville Central Labor union. At the meeting Monday night Mayor Trent appeared before the C. L. U. delegates, explaining in detail how the story appeared. The explanation was satisfactory and no action was taken by the local unionists in regard to the resolution.

Mayor Trent said that he did not favor wage-cutting and that his record in this respect was well known to Knoxville unionists. He said that he had always advocated in the council the paying of the highest wages possible to city employes.

Mayor Trent will this week send a letter to the Chattanooga Trades and Labor council explaining his attitude on the question and how it happened that the story appeared as it did.

Secretary Matt Gerlach, of Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, said Thursday he has not as yet received the letter from Mayor Trent referred to above.

Rate Boost Hearing Bars Railroad Wages

Washington.—The question of wages of railroad employes was barred from the interstate commerce commission's hearing on the petition of the railroad executives for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

An attorney asked one of the executives if he did not think railroad wages are too high. Commissioner Meyer stopped the proceedings with the statement that "we shall have to deal with wages as they stand."

MINE WORKERS CONFER WITH GOVERNMENT HEADS

DISTRICT PRESIDENT HURT IN FIGHT WITH REDS

Above are pictured the officials of the United Mine Workers of America, who conferred in Washington with Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont and Secretary of Labor W. N. Doak, discussing the proposal for a conference of all factors in the soft coal industry to plan remedies for the industry's ills. Left to right, sitting: Thomas J. Kennedy, John L. Lewis, Secretary Doak, Secretary Lamont and Phillip Murray. Standing: E. J. Morgan, of Kentucky; Percy Tetlow, of Ohio; James Marks, of Pennsylvania; Hugh L. Kerwin, director, United States conciliation service; Van Bittner, of West Virginia; Lee Hall, of Ohio; David McDonald, William Houston, of West Virginia; K. C. Adams, of West Virginia; William Turnblazer, of Kentucky, and P. T. Fagan, of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Fagin, who is president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, was badly hurt when a number of communists invaded and attempted to break up a meeting of the United Mine Workers at Canonsburg, Pa., on July 19.

NOTICE!

Electrical Workers

At the regular meeting of Local 175 Wednesday, Aug. 5, an election will be held to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Brother B. A. Keebler, vice-president. All members are requested to be present.

E. E. CROSBY,
President.

LABOR MOURNS THE PASSING OF GEO. W. CLINTON

Death of Assistant Fire Chief Source of Sincere Regret to Friends.

Passing of George W. Clinton, assistant chief of the Chattanooga fire department, who surrendered to the Grim Reaper last Friday morning, following a long illness, was a source of sincere regret to hundreds of warm friends among the trades unionists of the city.

Chief Clinton had been ill almost continually since his appointment to the position on Aug. 11, 1930, and his associates had long since given up hopes of his regaining his health.

George, as he was known to hundreds of intimates, was a native of Chattanooga, and at the age of 20 went into the service. He was promoted step by step until his efficient and faithful service was recognized with the appointment of assistant chief, after twenty-two years in the employ of the city.

Chief Clinton was a staunch believer in the cause of organized labor, having been active in the formation of a firefighters' union several years ago and serving as the local union's second president, and two years subsequently as secretary. He remained a worker in the organization until his promotion last year, when the rules of the organization required that he take a withdrawal card. He was vice-president at the time of his retirement. He was one of the best-loved members of the fire department, but his popularity was by no means confined to his own calling and he numbered hundreds of friends throughout the city. Organized labor went to the front solidly for his promotion to assistant chief, and expressed to the commissioner its hearty approval of the choice.

Besides his widow, Chief Clinton is survived by four brothers—Lieut. Jack Clinton, of the local department, who was also active in the formation of the Firefighters' union; Charles, a member of the Meatcutters and the Painters and Decorators; Roy W, formerly a member of the Firefighters and now constable, and Jesse, of Jacksonville, Fla.

He was also a member of the Masons and the W. O. W.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Ridgedale Baptist church, conducted by Revs. G. W. McClure and D. N. Livingstone. Interment was at Forest Hills.

The Labor World joins hundreds of sorrowing friends in expressing sincerest sympathy to the surviving relatives of Chief Clinton.

GEO. E. VENABLE GOES TO REWARD

George E. Venable, member of Local 226, Painters and Decorators, for twenty-odd years, passed away Sunday afternoon at 3:30, at his residence, 602 Battery place. Mr. Venable had been ill for several weeks.

For twenty years Mr. Venable was a familiar figure around the Masonic temple, at Seventh and Cherry streets, having been custodian of that building for the past two decades. Although taking no active part in recent years, he was always interested in the work of his local union, as well as that of the Masons and Woodmen, of which organizations he was also a member. He had been a resident of Chattanooga for a half-century, or since he was 9 years of age.

Mr. Venable is survived by his widow, two sons, G. W. and E. B.; two brothers, J. G., of this city, and R. L., of Boston, and one sister, Mrs. Anna B. Gold, of Seattle.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 3, at the St. Elmo Baptist church, the Rev. L. W. Clark officiating. Services at the grave, in Forest Hills, was in charge of the Masons.

The Labor World offers the sympathy of the entire local movement to the surviving relatives of Brother Venable.

Revival in Spirit Of Organization Is Urged by Woll

Labor Executive, Advocating Higher Wages, Pleads for Fuller Use of Organized Workers' Economic Power.

(By International Labor News Service.)

New York City, July 30.—A revival of the spirit of organization and fuller recognition of the economic power of the wage-earners are big needs today, Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor and president of the Union Labor Life Insurance company, told the International Longshoremen's convention here.

"We need a revival of the spirit of organization," Mr. Woll said, "and we need to preach the economic power of the wage-earners. We must organize our power as consumers. If we buy from non-union stores we strengthen the hand of our opponent. We denounce capitalism, but aren't we the ones who built it up? We've been enamored with economic theories of the past and it still persists today. Speaking the voice of labor, I say that labor has nothing to lose and much to gain by forging the chain of organization."

Wage Cuts Attacked.

Assailing wage cuts as retarding business recovery, Mr. Woll declared that the depression had emphasized four fundamental principles on which to base a better social order.

These, he added, were that the reduction of wages decreased purchasing power, and restricted markets; that a constant reduction of working hours per day and working hours per week would give employment to every one; that price cutting was as detrimental as wage cutting, and that there should be united planning by labor, industry and government for economic development five or ten years hence.

"Wages in America," Mr. Woll said, "are generally conceded to be on a higher level than elsewhere, but the average industrial wage throughout the country is no more than $25 a week.

"Anyone who believes that a 5 or 10 per cent reduction in wages would bring prosperity fails to understand economics, or is merely deluding himself. If we were to raise those incomes from $25 to $35 a week, it would stimulate activity and increase our purchasing power by 30 per cent. The question is not one of only maintaining high wages, I think it is more important now that wages be increased."

Cunningham (in restaurant)—Perkins, how can you eat with a knife?

Perkins—It is not so easy as it looks. Look around at the other diners; not one of them can do it.

* * *

Esther—I'm not on speaking terms with Jimmie. The mean thing wouldn't give me his seat at the barber's this morning.

NOTICE!

Barbers, Local 415

All members are urged to attend the regular meeting of this local Monday night, August 3, as important changes in the general constitution of the International will be voted on; also a general vice-president for this district.

GEORGE PERRY,
President.

CENTRAL BODY DELEGATES IN SHORT SESSION

Featureless Meeting Disposes of Routine Matters in Record Time Monday.

Delegates to Chattanooga Trades and Labor council made quick work Monday night of routine business, and the regular session of that body was finished in less than one hour. A good attendance was present in spite of the extremely hot weather. Practically every item on the recorder's minutes has to do with "inside stuff," the exceptions being as follows:

Letter from the Chicago Metal Trades council explained the trouble with Grigsby-Grunow company, manufacturers of Majestic radios and Majestic refrigerators. It was stated the strike against that firm is still in effect, the management maintaining its antagonistic attitude toward organized labor.

E. E. McDaniels reported that various building trades unions had contributed to the "Achievement Week" program of the chamber of commerce by contributing the labor necessary in the erection of a modern home front at Eighth and Cherry streets. Secretary Gerlach was instructed to write each local having a part in the plan, expressing the appreciation of the entire movement for their civic spirit. He was also instructed to write a similar letter to the chamber committee.

D. E. Harrison, Tom F. Hall and W. L. Gardner were named as a committee to draw suitable resolutions on the death of Chief George Clinton, of the fire department, who was formerly a delegate to Central Body.

Air-Cooled Buildings For Federal Workers

Washington.—From now on all the large government buildings erected in Washington will be air cooled in order to bring a reasonable degree of comfort to the government workers during the intensely warm weather that afflicts Washington during the summer. The supervising architect of the treasury, in charge of the building program, is undecided on the question of equipping the smaller buildings with the cooling system.

For the larger buildings the cost of installing the air-cooling system will be around $300,000 when provision for it is made in the initial plans. In consequence, the internal revenue building, now under construction, will not have this facility because the cost would be around $700,000 due to the fact that it was not in the initial plans.

Internal revenue bureau employes insist that the building in which they work should be cooled like the others, even though the additional cost hovers around $400,000. Otherwise the present practice of dismissing workers on intensely hot afternoons will have to be continued.

JOB SERVICE UNDER ALPINE GETS RESULTS

U. S. Employment Agency Finds Work for Many.

345,000 IDLE MEN GIVEN EMPLOYMENT

"If There's a Job for Even One, We'll Get It," Director Tells Labor News Service.

By CHESTER M. WRIGHT

Washington, July 30.—Preparatory to launching its major attack on unemployment during the coming fall and winter, the United States employment service has, in the last three months, placed approximately 245,000 persons in jobs.

Nearly a quarter of a million men and women have been enabled to stand on the firm footing of a pay roll and give the laugh to the wolf.

It is only three months since President Hoover announced the appointment of John R. Alpine to have charge of the development of this service within the department of labor. Since that day Secretary of Labor Doak and Alpine have created an organization reaching into every state, hunting jobs and taking men out of the long waiting line of unemployed to fill them—one of the great human agencies of government.

Slaughter of Red Tape In Work Is Terrific.

If President Hoover has made the telephone famous in international diplomacy, John R. Alpine has at least helped to stabilize telephone revenues by his amazing use of that ready instrument in bringing together in fast time a vast organization that can now be said to be about at completion.

Doak and Alpine have teamed this job in trade union fashion. Both have been trained in labor battles to take the quickest road to effective action. As a result the slaughter of red tape has been terrific. "Get me John Blank on the telephone," is the order. No long letters, waiting days and weeks for answers. The telegraph is used as freely. When a hitch appears somewhere that doesn't unwind promptly the order goes to "bring that man here so we can talk to him and get things moving."

One thing stares the newly expanded service squarely in the face and nobody is inclined to duck the issue. It is this: The best agency on earth cannot find jobs that do not exist, cannot provide means for absorbing into a non-existent employment all of the millions thrown out by the collapse of the nation's industries. The service cannot MAKE the required jobs.

Uncle Sam Helps The Jobless Get Jobs.

This week I went over the whole situation with Alpine. We considered records and we took a look at the unemployment figures. Nobody in or about the service, and no other sensible person, expects the service to put six million men at work, unless and until a reviving industry offers work.

But a great deal can be done and is being done. That quarter of a million for whom jobs have been found stands up to say that it helps mightily to have the United States help a fellow to get a job. That is the significance of the situation.

"I feel entirely confident that in spite of all the limitations that we know to exist and that we cannot change we shall be able to make a real dent in the unemployment situation this fall and winter," Alpine said. Alpine, once a vice-president of the American Federation of Labor and once its acting president, speaks carefully and with caution.

Today, he informed me, there is a state director in every state and an assistant director in every state. In most states there is much more than that. The federal service is co-operating and dovetailing in with state and local free employment agencies wherever they exist. So that, within three months of intensive work—really, the kind of work that brought miracles out of nothing in the war days—a free employment machine of some eighty offices has been brought into being, functioning as a unified mechanism for the man without a job.

Service Shows Value In Great Farm Belt.

An example of what the service can do is found in connection with agriculture. If the service cannot make employers spend money for employment, the service can bring order into a situation. It is guiding the movement of thousands of seasonal workers, finding out where the next work is to be found, sending to the work the required workers, seeing that they do not all gather in one place to overcrowd each other and create disastrous conditions, preventing an incalculable amount of want, misery and despair.

Much attention is being given to war veterans also, and the bureaus especially concerned with war vet-

(Continued on Last Page)

CONGRESS MAY PROBE AWARDS TO PAY-CUTTERS

Non-Union Employers Get Cream of U. S. Contracts.

IGNORE BACON LAW AND SLASH WAGES

Rumor Says Favored Bosses Have Backing of Influential Politicians.

Organized labor is wondering what mysterious influence is being used by non-union, wage-cutting contractors to enable them to pick the cream of contracts under the government's emergency building program, says Charles M. Kelley, in a special article in last week's issue of Labor.

That curiosity is shared by members of congress, and it may be manifested in a demand at the December session for a sweeping investigation to determine whether everything is as it should be.

Charges are heard that some of the favored contractors have the backing of influential politicians who presumably are getting a part of the profits. Since of these men pose as lawyers, but as a matter of fact their chief business in Washington is lobbying.

Are Useful in Election.

When campaign time rolls around they are very active about national headquarters and are supposed to be useful in raising campaign funds.

They have lots of "pull" and are willing to use it in behalf of any client able to pay the price.

A law was enacted at the last session of congress, calling for the maintenance of prevailing rates in communities where federal work was being done, but it is asserted that the non-union contractors are paying little or no attention to its provisions.

Recently the treasury department gave contracts for building postoffices at Shreveport, La.; Key West, Fla., Manassas and West Point, Va., and Kittanning, Pa., to Algernon Blair, of Montgomery, Ala.

Labor leaders claim that Blair was one of the worst offenders in wage-cutting prior to the enactment of the safeguarding law. They have argued without effect with the departments that Blair's record is such as to disqualify him from further consideration.

Blair caused all sorts of trouble at Northport, L. I., last summer, when he imported workers from the south for a veterans' hospital job and lodged them in shacks which were declared by health officials to be "abominations." It is charged that after Blair completed the work many of the workers became public charges.

At Dayton, O., where Blair constructed a veterans' hospital, he treated his workers so badly that the community became outraged and took revenge on Congressman Roy Fitzgerald by defeating him for re-election.

Paid Half of Rate.

Fitzgerald made a hard fight for the hospital, and declares his defeat was entirely due to resentment over Blair's importation of workers, while hundreds of local men were jobless. Furthermore, he is said to have paid only about half the prevailing rate.

Blair is now engaged on a veterans' hospital at Memphis, where he is said to be pursuing the same tactics. Senator Kenneth McKellar has vigorously protested to the war department, and so has the mayor of Memphis, but nothing has been done to check the practice.

The W. R. Rose company, of Goldsborough, N. C., is another firm which has the inside track.

Despite the fact that the government has had a great deal of trouble with it' because of wage-cutting, importation of southern workers, and disregard of safety regulations, the Rose company has recently been given a contract to build a school at Washington, and last week was awarded a contract by the interior department for building an addition to St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington.

Organized labor for months fought the Rose hospital bid and had the wholehearted support of Washington business and civic organizations. All these protests, however, were ignored by the interior department.

The Townsend Lumber company, of Anderson, S. C., with a contract for building barracks at Langley field, Va., is declared by labor to have ignored the prevailing wage provisions.

Complaint was made to the labor department more than three months ago that the company paid only half the standard wages. This was backed up with affidavits by ten local contractors and many individuals.

No Action Taken.

To date the labor department has taken no action. The final decision rests with Secretary Doak. The department says it is making an investigation.

In addition to the firms mentioned, wage cutting and bad conditions are charged against Sanford Brothers, of North Carolina; Betson Cook, of West Point, Ga.; Virginia Engineering

(Continued on Last Page)

THE LABOR WORLD

810 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1931.

UNION WAGE IS PREVAILING.

When the playground department, in Los Angeles, stood out like a maverick against all other city departments and determined it would pay wages ranging from $1 to $3 below the union rate, the Los Angeles Central Labor council decided it was time to fight. The money had been voted by the citizens to provide work for unemployed and that didn't mean destroying standards.

Applying for a mandate to compel payment of the union rate, the unions won a sweeping victory for their contention from Judge Walter Guerin, who decided that the prevailing wage was as contended by the applicants.

Judge Guerin went further and declared that the state's legislative bodies and the people of the city had, by actual decision, taken a stand against wage cuts and for the maintenance of standards.

This decision should be of tremendous importance. The union rate is the prevailing rate. There is and can be no other prevailing rate.

WORDS OF WISDOM FROM EMPLOYERS.

The Bulletin of the Electrical Guild of North America, published at Pittsburgh, says:

"Price-cutters are wage-cutters and force others to become wage-cutters."

The same publication also denounces the system which permits officials to classify as a "responsible bidder" any bidder who can raise a bond. Every move looking toward establishment of better standards of work and life is a good move and not all employers are blinded by what seems to be immediate self-interest.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—When was the birthday of Samuel Gompers?

A.—January 27. He was born in 1850.

* * *

Q.—What is the Neptune association?

A.—An organization of licensed masters and mates of ocean and coastwise vessels.

* * *

Q.—How many international trade unions have branches in Canada?

A.—Eighty-four. Their Canadian branches number about 2,000, with a membership of upwards of 200,000.

What Next!

Addressing the Society for Coal Research at Bochum, Germany, Prof. Wilhelm Glund said that albumin can now be derived synthetically from coal. After years of study, he said a point had been reached where it is possible to obtain all the elements of albumin from certain chemicals contained in coal at a cost which would permit artificial albumin to compete with the natural product. Albumin is used for clarifying purposes, as in sugar-refining and cookery and also in the printing of calico, photography, etc.

At The Change

A Critical Time In Every Woman's Life.

"During a critical time in my life I took Cardui for several months. I had hot flashes. I would suddenly get dizzy and seem blind. I would get faint and have no strength.

My nerves were on edge. I would not sleep at night.

"Cardui did wonders for me. I recommend it to all women who are passing through the critical period of change. I have found it a fine medicine."—Mrs. Hettie Murphy, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine and contains no dangerous drugs.

E-176

CARDUI
Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

THIRD WINTER OF MISERY.

The third winter of unemployment is approaching. Those charged with surveying the condition agree that the situation will be much more serious than during the two previous winters.

It is not expected that there will be any diminution of the 6,000,000 now estimated to be barred from work. Indeed, the indications point to an increase above that number.

Welfare workers state that during the first four months of 1931 relieving the unemployed cost about 75 per cent of the total for 1930. It is said that this increase does not necessarily indicate an increase in the number of out-of-works during that period. It means that workers suffering continued unemployment or having intermittent work had spent their savings in order to buy a living for their families and finally reached the poverty status and became the unwilling recipients of charity relief.

On the charity side the situation is not cheerful. Relief organizations admit that large numbers of persons of moderate means who normally support community chests and similar funds will be unable to contribute as liberally this year as formerly. It has been quite customary for large employers to pledge large sums to charity organizations and then in reality compel their employes to pay a large portion to the pledge although the compulsion was masked under the guise of voluntary contributions. But with so many employes on reduced earnings resulting from part-time work and other forms of wage reductions the employers will be unable to tap this source of charity contributions the coming winter.

Every sign indicates that the bulk of next winter's necessarily immense fund to provide at least 6,000,000 unemployed workers and their families with the means of life and health must come from public funds.

Reliable statistics show that in 1929 about 60 per cent of the cost of direct family relief in 100 representative cities was paid out of public funds. In 1930, with the total relief cost greatly increased, public funds paid 72 per cent.

During the coming winter the total cost of providing the unemployed with the requisite amount of food, clothing, shelter and schooling for children of school age, will exceed the cost during either of the two preceding winters. Private charity organizations like the community chest are making arrangements for a federated drive in October for $82,000,000 for winter relief work. The drive for private charity funds has the official backing of the president's emergency committee for employment. But the major reliance must be on public funds.

Municipal and county public funds are under the control of bodies responsible to the voters made up largely of working people. The workers through their trade unions and other organizations should be able in an organized way to see to it that the only limit on private charity and the appropriation of public funds for relief of the jobless shall be the provision of decent living standard for all unemployed workers and their family dependents. Anything less will be a discredit to American institutions; and every American workingman who has had a part in creating decent living standards should make careful note of officeholders and others who seek in this dire emergency to destroy them.

SENSE ABOUT WAGE CUTS.

The fantastic idea, held by certain employers and their economists, that the business depression can be cured by reducing wages is emphatically scouted by the Midland Bank of Great Britain in a statement which is understood to be directly inspired by Mr. Reginald McKenna, chairman of the bank.

Wage cutters both in the United States and Great Britain insist that the cost of manufactured goods must be brought down to the depreciated level of commodity prices.

Wages, they say, are a substantial element in the cost of manufacture and should be drastically deflated to assist in adjusting costs to prices.

Dr. Sprague, economic adviser of the Bank of England, recently urged reducing costs of production in manufacturing countries, chiefly at the expense of wages, until the prices of finished goods are brought down to the distressing level of agricultural prices.

The Midland bank attacks this theory. It maintains that it is supreme folly to rely for revival of world business upon a downward adjustment of all prices to the level of those now obtaining for primary materials.

It insists that wage reductions and the general policy of working for lower commodity prices will end in "ultimate economic collapse." It holds that wages should be maintained and that the combined efforts of everyone should be used to advance commodity prices above the present level.

It should not be necessary for anyone either in Great Britain or the United States to warn against the suicidal policy of wage cutting.

Business and employment depend upon the purchasing power of the people at home and abroad. The larger their purchasing power, the larger is their ability to buy the goods other people produce.

It is axiomatically clear that the purchasing power of the masses of the people depends on their wages. If they are paid low wages, their ability to purchase goods is small; and the less goods they buy the less employment there is for the millions who produce the goods.

These economic facts are plain. Yet there are shortsighted employers and economists who are carried away with the theory that the main thing necessary to end industrial depression is wholesale wage reductions and the consequent heavy reduction in the purchasing power of the masses.

Wage reducing has already been tried in the United States.

Before the depression was out of swaddling clothes the employers applied their theory by throwing millions of workers, ultimately 6,000,000, into unemployment, and reducing their purchasing power to nothing. They have kept up the work by placing more on part time. In addition, there have been many reductions in wage rates both for full time and part time workers.

Employers have thus drastically reduced the purchasing power and lowered the standards of living of millions of our workers and their families. But from month to month the business depression does not show tangible signs of recovery.

The lesson is clear. The sure way to business recovery, the sure way to overcome the slump which is paralyzing the entire world, is to increase rather than decrease the living standards of the masses.

Wages must not be cut.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY

"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
PART XXXVI.
Lk. 18:18-25 (Continued)

WM. L. MOSS

When Jesus was approached by the rich young ruler the Master looked upon him with kindly eyes and realized that here was a case that needed drastic measures, for the young man's wealth was the only bar to the world of his ideals. To Jesus it was not at all a question whether this young man could "get to heaven." What Jesus saw as He looked upon the young man with sympathetic eyes and heart was that he could never share in the real life, the "abundant life" of which He taught, for this new life He preached was not a case of human beings stepping into a world made over for them, but was a kingdom of relations which those who entered the kingdom created of their own initiative. To this rich young lord with his wealth these relations were impossible—and Jesus knew it. Immense wealth is always difficult to acquire without doing injustice to others or injuring them. It is even more difficult to go through life with it and deal consistently fair with others. Above all is it difficult to have wealth and remain on a footing of equal humanity with our fellow-beings. Once wealth (in whatever form it may be possessed) is acquired it is hard to give away without creating mischief and distrust. Jesus demanded an heroic life of His followers, and to achieve that life one must place his faith in humanity and not in the "deceitfulness of riches." Wealth flouts the values of life, kills spirituality, destroys race solidarity and incapacitates its possessor for the heroic life—that life of supreme sacrifice for our fellowmen. Wealth softens us, saps our energy and eats away our moral stability.

This of course in Jesus' day was radical teaching. It is even more so now after centuries of the Church's repression concerning what Jesus really taught concerning the dangers of riches. When we take into account that the Church has failed to teach Jesus warned against the possession of wealth as an end and not as a means the same as He taught against many other things that destroy and incapacitate men it is easy to see why child-drivers, monopoly-builders, greedy individuals and crooked and avaricious financiers have no fear. Why should they fear men and women who have never been instructed fully as to what their greatest Teacher had to say about wealth?

Knowing that Jesus based all He taught on the teaching of the prophets of Israel, to those who acquaint themselves with the Master's teaching concerning riches the words of the bishop of Oxford become clear and understandable: "Much that we are accustomed to hear called legitimate insistence upon the rights of property the Old Testament would seem to call the robbery of God and grinding the faces of the poor."

It is not the mere possession of wealth that bars a man from the kingdom of God, but it is because of what his wealth does to him and causes him to do that makes him unfit to enter the higher life here on earth and be accepted of God as one of His own.

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

In fourteen years, from 1917 to 1930, inclusive, sixty-eight Class 1 steam railroads in the United States operated continuously without a single passenger being killed in either collisions or train derailments, the two most feared eventualities in railroad operation.

It is hard to grasp the significance of these figures, the National Safety council says. These roads traveled during this period 51,000,000,000 miles. That is equivalent to 277 round trips from the earth to the sun. Or, if you were speeding along at fifty miles per hour it would take 117,000 years to make the journey.

Yet in all this mileage not a single passenger's life was sacrificed in either of these types of train accidents. Surely a record of which the railroads can be proud.

* * *

Ashland, Ore., isn't a big city (it has only 5,000 population), but it is demonstrating that a community does not have to be large to provide its citizens with ample facilities for outdoor life and recreation. Ashland has one of the most beautiful recreation parks in the United States, according to the "American City." The park is named Lithia park from its fountain and is a generously forested area of 80 acres, extending into the canyons of Ashland creek. It is equipped with a modern playground, supervised in summer by a trained director. Tennis, croquet, archery, dancing, horseshoe courts, fine picnic grounds, and a beautiful auto camp are all provided for. Band concerts are held weekly during the summer. County conventions and school commencements, music-memory contests, Easter-egg hunts, and many other community activities are held there. The park is maintained through a two-mill tax levy yielding about $12,000, and it is administered by an elected park commission of five members.

* * *

Some newspapers have been criticizing Albert Einstein, world famous scientist, for asking Gov. Rolph, of California, to pardon Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings.

A sample of the criticism comes from the Evening Star, of Washington, D. C., which admits that on questions of science Einstein speaks with authority, but contends that he is not qualified in any manner to pass judgment upon the merits of the Mooney-Billings case. After intimating that Einstein must have only slight knowledge of the Mooney-Billings case and that perhaps he does not take into consideration the full history of the case, the Star sapiently observes that "His action does credit to his heart if not his judgment."

The argument is weak. For all the Star knows, Einstein may have closely studied the celebrated California case. If he did, it undoubtedly convinced him that Mooney and Billings have been the victims of a great injustice, an injustice which California courts seem powerless or unwilling to remedy.

Einstein's plea for a pardon was well taken and did credit to his heart as well as to his judgment.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

JOHN R. McCULLOCH, Francis Place and Joseph Hume, M. P., bear the proud distinction in the history of labor of having accomplished more for working men at the outset of labor's determined struggle for recognition than any other three men. As we have treated briefly of the work of Place, the tailor, and Hume we will now turn our attention to a consideration of McCulloch. At the time he met Place and Hume he was editor of The Scotsman, then a violent radical journal co-operating with the newly-established Edinburgh Review in advocating sociological and political reforms. A powerful article along sociological lines was contributed by McCulloch to the Edinburgh publication in 1823 based on facts furnished him by Place, one of the shrewdest men the early labor movement had. Now at the time McCulloch published his article Place had not become a force in labor circles. The article was widely read and immediately gave Place a name. Later articles by McCulloch advocating the acceptance of Place's ideas gave the tailor a prestige which put him in a position to assume full control of the labor movement of his day. Thus put into power by the articles of his friend, it is to the credit of Place as well as to the credit of McCulloch and Hume that through all the years they were implicitly trusted with the leadership of labor neither of the three men once violated their sacred responsibility. McCulloch with his pen and clear brain, Hume as a member of parliament securing passage of the desired bills, and Place, the astute general-in-chief, with all three working in close harmony and toward a common goal, the emancipation of labor from the then existing harsh industrial laws, forced through the house of parliament the first bill leading up to the recognition of the right of collective bargaining among working men which hitherto had been arrogantly denied them by their agrarian, political and industrial overlords.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
No. 45419
Annie Mae Harris vs. Carl H. Harris

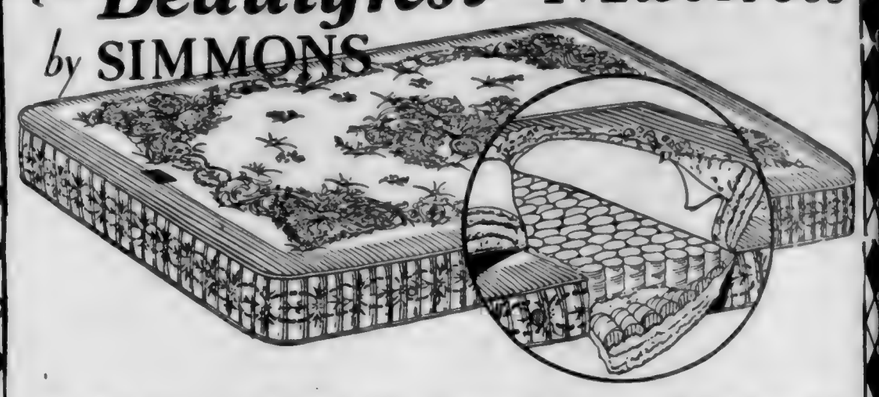
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Carl H. Harris is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 18th day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
F. L. Dixon, Atty. 8-7

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY AT STERCHI'S

GREAT SUMMER CLEARANCE!

The Beautyrest Mattress by SIMMONS



You'll Never Regret the Amount Invested in the Simmons Beautyrest Mattress at $39.50

To Get the Most Rest Known to Mankind Use It On the Simmons Beautyrest Box Spring $39.50

Buy It On Sterchi's EASY TERMS

Invest the Fruits of Your Labor In Something That Pays Dividends

STERCHI'S
QUALITY FURNITURE

BROAD ST., AT SEVENTH
251 EAST MAIN STREET
EIGHTH STREET AT PINE
EAST CHATTANOOGA
ROSSVILLE, GEORGIA

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right
OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Company
Ideal Service at Moderate Cost
Phone 6-6114

COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Honest Weight — Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

Ready Cash
For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.
Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

Those who desire better living and working conditions must do their share to secure them. Demand union made goods and service.

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

B L & K R
Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver & Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. home should be without it. Q Safe, Sure.

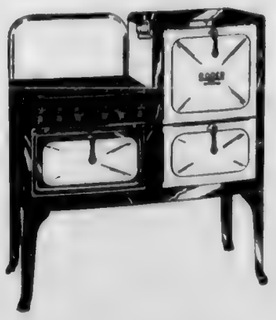
TIRED OUT AT 10 A.M.

Feel listless and weary before the day's work is fairly started? Dread to go back into a hot, stuffy kitchen?

Then you need a Modern Gas Range with its many labor saving conveniences—a Range that cooks and bakes automatically while you rest, read or play.

Put your entire meal in the oven, set the control and enjoy yourself. No need to watch fire or food.

A Modern Gas Range will bring convenience, cleanliness and economy to your kitchen. Make up your mind now to get rid of your old-fashioned, inefficient cooking appliance. Then come in and pick out a Modern Gas Range. You'll be glad you did—many times a day for years to come.



CHATTANOOGA GAS CO.
"Public-Be-Pleased" Service

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIEND

BILIOUS

"I have used Black-Draught . . . and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—H. O. Hendrix, Homerville, Ga.

For indigestion, constipation, biliousness, take

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

MEN who need a tonic should take CARDUI. Used over 50 years.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested me by deed of trust executed 3d day of October 1927, by Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrde to secure the indebtedness therein described, which deed of trust is of record in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book T, Vol. 25, page [illegible] et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions therein contained, and default having been made in the payment of several the notes described in said deed of trust, said notes in the sum of Fifteen Dollars and each in the sum of Twenty-five Dollars; and said notes payable monthly and the notes for January, 1931, and all notes since then, one each month, have been defaulted in the payment thereof, and have remained in default for more than thirty days after their maturity; and the holder of said notes having declared all of the same due and payable at once, and requested me to advertise and sell the property described in said deed of trust to satisfy the unpaid indebtedness, I, J. A. Long, trustee, will expose for sale and will sell in front of the west door of the courthouse, on Walnut street in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at 11 o'clock a.m., on to the highest and best bidder, at public outcry for cash in hand, and in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 8, 1931,

Lot number one hundred and twenty-six in Fairview (sometimes called Belleview), Chattanooga Land Company's Addition No. 1. Being the same real estate conveyed to Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, by H. B. Stafford and wife, E. L. Langford, about July 30th, 1926.

The title is believed to be good but will sell and convey as trustee only.

This 12th day of July, 1931.

J. A. LONG, Trustee.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned as Trustee by deed of trust executed the 7th day of May, 1930, by J. C. Goodwin and wife, Lizzie Goodwin, to secure a certain indebtedness, which said deed of trust is of record in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book X, Volume 24, page 606 et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions contained therein, and default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness at its maturity, and said default continuing, at the request of the holder of same, The Title Guaranty & Trust Company of Chattanooga, Trustee, will expose for sale to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, at the west door of the Courthouse on Walnut street, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton county, Tennessee, within the legal hours of sale on the following described real estate in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 29, 1931,

The south 80 feet of Lot No. 16, Block 7, J. & E. C. Foster's subdivision of Griffin's addition to the City of Chattanooga, as shown by map attached to deed registered in Book 1, Volume 1, Page 1, of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, and more fully described as follows: Beginning at a point 80 feet south from the southeast corner of the intersection of East Eighth Street and University Street, formerly "E" Street; running thence eastwardly 50 feet; thence southwardly 80 feet to a 10-foot alley; thence westwardly 50 feet along said alley to University Street, formerly "E" Street; thence northwardly said University Street to the point of beginning.

Said sale will be made subject to Seven Hundred Fifty and No/100 ($750.00) Dollars to the Administration and Trust Company, and to all taxes and assessments that are a lien due or unpaid.

This is believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This the 29th day of July, 1931.

THE TITLE GUARANTY & TRUST CO. of Chattanooga, Trustee.

W. S. Beck, President. 8-21

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45604

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

I. W. King vs. Debbie Davis King

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Debbie Davis King is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered by publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 23d day of July, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

B. DUDA, D. C.

Jno. S. Myers, Atty. 8-21

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45589

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Jamie Galloway vs. Charles Comer Galloway

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Charles Comer Galloway is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 21st day of July, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

B. DUDA, D. C.

L. Dixon, Atty. 8-14

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45562

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Blanche Welch Duckett vs. Ralph L. Duckett

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ralph L. Duckett is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 14th day of July, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

Jno. S. Myers, Atty. 8-7

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Myself.

A little bit grayer,
A little bit slower,
A little bit older,
But still a good goer.

A little bit wiser,
A little bit kinder,
To everyone's failings
A little bit blinder.

* * *

Man's Ambition.

At 4—to wear pants.
At 8—to miss Sunday school.
At 12—to be president.
At 14—to wear long pants.
At 18—to have monogramed cigarettes.
At 20—to take a show girl out to dinner.
At 25—to have the price of a dinner.
At 35—to eat dinner.
At 55—to digest dinner.

* * *

We have it on good authority that if you begin saving right away you may be able to buy the third and smallest toe of the left hind foot of a turkey for Thanksgiving. . . . Gabby Gertrude says she has used a lot of make-up in her time, but never for her mind. . . . "Handle With Care" has the same meaning to the railroad man that "No Admittance" has to the book agent. . . . A farm paper says that cows that are milking heavily may drink 300 pounds of water a day. In the old days when we had to pump water for 'em we had the idea that the amount was nearer 300 barrels. . . . The average girl's idea of a husband is a combination of Buddy Rogers, Rudy Vallee, John D. Rockefeller and Job. But you ought to see the one she eventually marries. . . . Have you heard of the Scotchman who took his own tablecloth to a night club to avoid the cover charge?

* * *

Hays—How come you always smoke quarter cigars?

Mays—Somebody always smokes the other three-quarters.

* * *

Caller (to doctor, who has already been awakened three times)—Hi, Doctor, Mrs. Jennings' little boy has swallowed a mouse!

Doctor—Tell him to swallow the cat, then.

* * *

A minister recently married a young couple:

The Groom—How much?

The Minister—Whatever you think it's worth.

The young man hesitated, fumbled, then handed him 50 cents. The minister was a good sport. He fumbled, hesitated, then counted out 20 cents change and handed the groom.

* * *

Jimmy—Did Moses have dyspepsia like what you've got?

Daddy—How on earth do I know? Why do you ask such a question?

Jimmy—Our Sunday school teacher says the Lord gave Moses two tablets.

* * *

Gerald—What does the word "Davenport" suggest to you, Margaret dear?

Margaret—Oh, I know; a city in Iowa.

Fagan Turns Gun On Assailant To Foil Murder Plot

Violence this week crashed into the lives of two trade union officers.

Ely H. Orr, secretary-treasurer, Newspaper Delivery Drivers, Chicago, was shot and killed.

Patrick T. Fagan, president United Mine Workers, Pittsburgh district, set upon a would-be assassin, seized the gun and shot the man.

Fagan Shoots First.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Pittsburgh, July 30.—Patrick T. Fagan, but a few days ago badly hurt when communists tried to break up a United Mine Workers' meeting at Canonsburg, Pa., was the victim of an attempt upon his life at his home here Sunday.

A man giving his name as Patrick Murphy mounted the steps of Fagan's home and asked for him. When Fagan came to the door Murphy asked if he were Fagan.

"Yes, I'm Fagan," was the answer.

"Well, you're gone," was the response as Murphy drew a revolver, according to Fagan's niece, Helen O'Brien.

But Fagan was too quick. He grasped the gun and fired as Murphy fired. Murphy died instantly, but a companion, waiting in an automobile, was arrested and is held, booked as Edward Snyder, Fleming, Ky., claiming to be a cousin of the late Sid Hatfield.

Fagan is 43 and for years has been the leader in this district. He largely guided negotiations leading to the recent agreement between the U. M. W. and the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company. The reds have hated him and red plotting is regarded as at the bottom of the attempt upon his life.

The United Mine Workers have been fighting bitterly against the communists in this state, as in West Virginia and Kentucky. Riots and every variety of trickery and treachery have been engineered by the reds in their desperation.

Young Secretary Shot.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Chicago, July 30.—Ely H. Orr, secretary-treasurer of the Newspaper Delivery Drivers, sat in a loop restaurant until 5 o'clock Sunday morning talking over newspaper delivery problems.

Orr then got into his car to go home. At Milwaukee and Fullerton avenue Orr was riddled with shotgun slugs and died.

In a union overturn Orr succeeded Jack Barry in December and police say they are seeking Barry and Daniel Fiore, another business agent.

A newsboy witnessed the shooting and heard one of the three assailants say, "Oh, boy, we got him that time."

Oklahoma Jobless Levy Food Supplies

Henryetta, Okla.—About 300 unemployed men and women marched on grocery stores here and demanded food supplies for an emergency relief station they had established in the city hall. The unemployed merely asked for groceries and used no force. Most of the merchants contributed.

Many families here have been in dire distress for months because of a shut-down of the coal mines and the general business depression.

Rev. Charles Holmes, a minister from Dewar, a mining village near Henryetta, led the crowd after praying for Divine guidance in the quest for food.

Gov. Murray promised to aid the unemployed if they are willing to work. He admits they are hungry and that something must be done, but adds that "you can't just feed them or they'll sit down and expect it."

Officials in charge of the American Red Cross headquarters at St. Louis declared they could do nothing to relieve the situation either at Henryetta or elsewhere. The national organization, it was stated, has taken no steps to relieve unemployment distress anywhere.

"He's a pretty good druggist all right, but he puts too much pepper in his chicken salad."

Hoffman Given 2-Year Sentence As Strike Sequel

(By International Labor News Service.)

Stroudsburg, Pa., July 30.—Alfred "Tiny" Hoffman, Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers' organizer, has been sentenced to prison again.

Hoffman was ordered to serve two years and to pay a fine of $1,750 by Judge Samuel E. Shull, after the judge had refused to order a new trial. Hoffman was convicted on various charges—conspiracy being the good old standby charge—in which it was alleged that the organizer conspired to assault, commit malicious mischief and tamper with automobiles. Notice of appeal was filed and Hoffman was released on $5,000 bail.

The charges grew out of the strike against the Mammoth Hosiery mills. Hoffman's attorney pleaded with the court against the sentence. He maintained that Hoffman had a legal position with the union and had advised the strikers against violence or any unlawful acts.

Hoffman has had rough treatment at the hands of the law in other strikes. He, with Edward F. McGrady, was "deported" from Elizabethon, Tenn., by some of that town's "best people" during the strike against the rayon barons of that city, a crime for which no one has been either arrested or punished. Hoffman served a sentence in South Carolina because of strike efforts.

Hoffman's great bulk has earned him the nickname "Tiny."

Hoffman's attorney assailed the testimony of Mrs. Nellie Miller, star witness for the state, as "unreliable and incompetent because she was the wife of one of the slayers of Alberta Bachman."

The Bachman girl, a striker and Sunday school teacher, was shot fatally early in the strike. Her alleged slayers are free on bial.

The lawyer attacked credibility of the state's other witnesses on the grounds their employment by the Mammoth mill following their desertion of the strikers' ranks, robbed their testimony of disinterestedness.

Immigration Decline Helps Employment

Washington.—Immigration for the calendar year 1931 will not exceed 50,000, and deportations will reach 20,000, leaving a net immigrant increase of but 30,000, Secretary of Laor Doak predicts. Immigration has passed the 50,000 mark every year since 1831, when the total was 22,633.

The department of labor holds that the decreasing number of immigrants is of benefit to the workers in the United States because nearly all immigrants are potential wage-earners. The over-supply and consequent unemployment of many classes of labor today is attributed to the unlimited immigration in the past.

Boarder—Come quick—two rats are fighting in my room.

Landlady—Well, what do you expect to get for fifty cents—a bullfight?

Patronize our Advertisers.

War!

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

Eighty-five cents of every dollar collected from the people of this country as national revenue is spent for past wars or getting ready for future bloodshed. The same can be said of every nation, big and little, in the world. Humanity is in the business of actively sustaining the spirit of war and financing them. That's the cold, naked truth about the whole business. And who in the past nurtured and kept alive the fallacy that wars will always be—in fact are—unavoidable? The question answers itself when we remember who it is that profits most by wars—selfish and greedy individuals and those whose vanity is only satisfied through a display of the trappings of war in peace time. We haven't fully awakened as yet, but some day we're going to see the economic bottomless pit into which we have been led by the alarmist cries of battleship builders and munition makers. The terrible waste in training individuals to shoot and to shoot straight will also dawn upon us. Then the barbaric splendor of gold braid, multi-colored uniforms, brass buttons and resplendent swords and firearms will become a hideous sight when seen in our museums. Then rusty and decaying battleships slowly settling to the bottom of the ocean near our coasts will be pointed out by mothers of future generations as instruments of murder once proudly kept manned and instantly ready for wholesale slaughter away back there in the dark ages of the 1930's! Then the national crime of the pitiless and insane slaughter of men by their nation will be as abhorrent to races of people as the pitiless and insane killing of one individual by another is to society today. In that day nations will have as high regard for each other's rights as enlightened individuals have among themselves.

5,000 Salesgirls Have Long Work Week

Washington.—A surprisingly large number of owners and operators of 5-and-10-cent and other limited price stores impose a working week of 48 hours and over on their salesgirls, according to a statement by the United States women's bureau. The data cover the years 1920 to 1928 and include over 5,000 women employed in eighteen states. A strikingly large proportion of the women work from 48 to 54 hours.

Employers who impose long hours on Saturday are largely to blame for the long week. From Monday to Friday none of the women had daily schedules in excess of nine hours and some worked less than eight hours. But on Saturday, the bureau says, "not far from three-fifths of the girls were required to work more than nine hours, about three-tenths had a schedule for this day of over ten hours, and over a sixth were expected to put in a Saturday in excess of eleven hours."

Our Advertisers are our friends.

WILL STEEL CORPORATION UNDO FARRELL'S PLEDGE?

Wage Reduction Rumor Afloat, But Without Authentic Backing—Big Combine's President Has Declared Pay Must Not Be Reduced.

(By International Labor News Service.)

New York, July 30.—Whether, after reducing its dividend rate, United States Steel will undertake to reduce wages is a paramount question in labor circles as well as in the financial district.

If Steel cuts wages, one trade union leader points out, it will be because President James Farrell has gone back on his own platform, or else because he has concluded it is time to punish other steel corporations by beating them at their own miserable game. Farrell has declared against wage reductions and he also has declared against price cutting.

It is pointed out that he cannot cut wages without doing what he has declared it almost a crime to do, but there is some inclination to hold that if there is a wage cut it may be the opening gun in such a war on other steel corporations as they will not relish, while labor pays the heaviest penalty for the fight between giants.

Steel workers, themselves unorganized for the most part, will have little if anything to say about what happens.

Only by the strength of our unity can we maintain our working and living conditions secured by organization.

The practical trade unionist always demands the union label, shop card or button.

Used Cars

1928 Whippet Sedan	$125
1927 Essex Sedan	125
1927 Chevrolet Coach	125
1927 Pontiac Coach	75
1927 Willys-Knight Coach	150
1927 Ford Roaster	75
1928 Chevrolet Coach	225
1929 Chevrolet Sedan	350

RICE BROS.
CHEVROLET CO., INC.
236-38 East Main Street
1520 Rossville Avenue

Do you know Your Union Label

UNION LABEL
Floor Workers International Union
Union Label of Steve Mounters
Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen
ISSUED BY AUTHORITY OF UNITED 894230
REGISTERED
C.I.U. No. 1
Coopers' Union Label
UNION SHOP
Sign Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union
ULWIU UNION-MADE
United Leather Workers Union Label
AMERICAN FEDERATION OF MUSICIANS
Emblem of American Federation of Musicians
Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance
Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America
THE UNITED HATTERS OF NORTH AMERICA
REGISTERED
United Hatters of North America Label
UNION LABEL
O.P.&C.F.I.A.
314
Platemen and General Pressmen Union Label
Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union
Metal Polishers International Union
Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union
UNION MADE
Union Label of Tobacco Workers
Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners
UNION LABEL
Union Label of Hotel Workers
Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America
Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings
Sheet Metal Workers' Union Label
Stove Workers' Union Label
Store Card of Retail Clerks
Bookbinders' Union Label
NO A 1895
Union Labels of Electrical Workers
CUSTOM TAILORS UNION LABEL
ORGANIZED 1883
1898898
Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America
Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union Label
Plate Printers and Die Stampers' Union Label
B U W C
Brick and Clay Workers' Label
THIS MACHINE OPERATED BY A UNION OPERATOR
MPPO
AFFILIATED WITH AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR
Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators
I.P.E.U.
International Photo-Engravers' Union Label
Paper Makers' UNION LABEL
Used on Rolls and Bundles
INTERNATIONAL GLOVE WORKERS OF AMERICA
UNION LABEL
Glove Workers' Union Label
Local Pressmen's Union Label
UNION MADE
Paper Makers' Union Labels
BOOT & SHOE WORKERS UNION
UNION STAMP
Factory
Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp
(REGISTERED) Bartenders' Button
Waiters' Button
ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL
NAME OF TOWN OR CITY
Allied Printing Trades Label
Local Typographical Union Label
Issued by Authority of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America
Union-made Cigars.
LOCAL
STAMP
Cigarmakers' Union Label
Card of Union Bartenders
THE STOGIES contained in this package are the product of UNION STOGIE MAKERS, Members of the C. M. I. U. of A.
LOCAL
STAMP
Label of Stogie Makers
A. F. of L. Label
Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America
UNION HOUSE
Card of Union Waiters

TAXI

Phone 7-1261

PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE

WATSON CAB CO.

PREMIER CABS — METER RATES

208 West Ninth St.

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

SWIM AT

Warner Park Swimming Pool

Open 9 A. M., Till 11 P. M.

POWER CORPORATION GAVE GRAFT WITH LAVISH HAND

Farmer-Labor Group in Canadian Parliament Forces Astounding Revelations of Millions of Dollars Given to Politicians by St. Lawrence River Concession Holders.

(By International Labor News Service.)

Ottawa, July 30.—Scandalous revelations of contributions of about $1,000,000 to political party funds, of rake-offs of several millions to senators, ministers and others, and retainers of nearly half a million to 20-odd law firms has given a black eye to private development of power resources.

Before the parliamentary committee, investigating charges of the farmer-labor group, President R. O. Sweezey and Secretary-Treasurer H. B. Griffiths, of the Beauharnois Power corporation, testified to giving $800,000 to the liberal party through Senators Haydon and Raymond. It had been proposed that they give $200,000 to the federal conservative party, but this fell down. The provincial conservatives of Quebec, led by Mayor Houde, of Montreal, however, got $30,000.

Lid Finally Forced Off.

The farmer-labor group forced off the lid in the interest of their public ownership of public utilities campaign. It is not news that the old parties traded special privileges for campaign funds, but by mutual consent attempts to throw in light were mostly sidetracked in the past.

Sweezey gave $120,000 to John Aird, Jr., son of Sir John Aird, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, thinking it was going to the Ontario conservative party and would help him get a contract for power from the Ontario Hydro-Electric commission. Aird admitted he had pocketed the $120,000 without doing anything to even try to earn it. He thought a corporation planning to spend $70,000,000 would not miss a small amount. Senator W. L. MacDougald, controlling a $12,500 company with no assets but a rejected application to exploit power from the St. Lawrence, held up Sweezey's corporation for about $1,000,000 and a huge block of shares. In this game MacDougald was assisted by a former deputy minister of railways and canals.

Other Officials Benefit.

Hon. Walter Mitchell, a former minister in the Quebec government, got a rake-off of $789,000, the same as Frank P. Jones. Hon. J. L. Person, another minister in the Quebec government, was associated with a rake-off of about half that amount.

Senator Raymond admitted making a personal profit of $529,600.

The concession to develop power from the St. Lawrence river at Beauharnois, 15 miles above Montreal, which produced so much easy money, was granted by the Terchereau government of Quebec, and the former Mackenzie King government at Ottawa. Some engineers told the parliamentary committee that the Beauharnois scheme would "butcher" the St. Lawrence deep waterway project.

Building Trade Wage Rates Not Reduced

New York, July 30.—Hourly wage rates in the building trades throughout the United States have had an almost uninterrupted rise since 1922, according to the national industrial conference board. At the end of 1930 the composite hourly wage rate of fifteen building trades in twenty-three cities was 27.4 per cent higher than in 1923.

"There is no evidence available, therefore," states the board, "that the current depression has adversely affected wage rates in the building industry. Whether or not it has lowered the earnings of building workers, it is impossible to determine from these figures. That depends entirely on the time worked, or the number of hours during which building workers have been employed."

According to the board the highest rates for 1930 were paid to plasterers and bricklayers, both averaging $1.70 an hour. The lowest rate was for laborers, slightly more than 73 cents an hour, and the next lowest for hod carriers, nearly 97 cents an hour. All other classes were paid more than $1 an hour.

Lady—Conductor, where do I transfer?

Conductor—Where are you going, please?

Lady—None of your business where I'm going!

NOTICE

To the Taxpayers of Hamilton County:

Under and by virtue of Chapter 622 of the Private Acts of 1931, passed June 29th, 1931, approved June 30th, 1931, the County Court of Hamilton County is authorized to issue $200,000.00 of school bonds for the purpose of acquiring sites and building schools at Red Bank and in the Tyner-Silverdale community. A resolution providing for the issuance of these bonds will be submitted to the County Court for passage unless, within forty days from and after the first publication of this notice, five hundred or more taxpayers representing an aggregate assessment of one and one-half million dollars, appear in person or by duly authorized agent or agents, at the office of the County Trustee of Hamilton County, and there sign a petition or request in writing, that the said bonds be not issued until voted on at a referendum of the qualified voters of this county.

WILL CUMMINGS, County Judge.

Rhodes-Jones $100,000 AUGUST CLEARANCE SALE

3-Pc. MOHAIR SUITE

SMASHING VALUES

ONLY RHODES-JONES OFFER SUCH LOW PRICES

GENUINE MOHAIR

Buying power permits us to quote this low price on a Genuine 3-Piece Mohair Suite, a regular $119.50 value. Your choice of Rose Taupe, Green and Peach colors. All cushions reversed in harmonizing colors. Buy now for future delivery.

$79.00

$3 CASH — $1.50 WEEK

RHODES JONES FURNITURE COMPANY

OPEN TILL 9 O'CLOCK SATURDAY NIGHT

"LET THEM ALONE; THEY'RE ORGANIZED!"

Hours of 10,000 On B.M.T. Cut to Avoid Layoffs

Employees, Exclusive of Motormen, Accept Scale With Safety Bonus Halved

Employees of the B. M. T. exclusive of subway and elevated motormen, numbering some 10,000, have assented to a wage agreement for the year beginning next month on the basis of a reduction in working hours and a cut of 50 per cent in the 2-cent-an-hour bonus paid for satisfactory work. The motormen, being members of a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, are not affected by the agreement.

Here is an unbeatable argument for organization in trade unions.

The New York Herald-Tribune of Sunday, July 12, reports that the mighty B. M. T. cut the hours and wages of all employes except those who belong to a union.

These organized workers are members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes who have gained the respect of employers under the militant and courageous leadership of the veteran President William D. Mahon.

These men are organized. The big corporation doesn't monkey with their pay. When their pay and working conditions are changed they have something to say about it. They are organized. They are in an American Federation of Labor union.

We reproduce the New York Herald-Tribune story in part. This big newspaper doesn't hesitate to give the reason why the unionized workers are not made to suffer reduction of wages. The families of these union men can go on as before, because there is a union.

Why are not all workers members of unions? Ask the next one you meet and show him the picture of the New York Herald-Tribune's story, which is a tribute to trade unionism and its constructive strength.

MORE ABOUT

PAY-CUTTERS

(Continued from First Page)

company, of Newport News, Va., and the Derby Construction company, of North Carolina, which recently failed on a war department job at Fort Humphrey, Va.

The ease with which these low-wage southern concerns grab off contracts is attributed to the "pull" of powerful republican politicians from that section. Only a congressional investigation is likely to reveal their identity.

Ohio Acts To Stop Pay Cuts On Public Works

(By International Labor News Service.)

Cincinnati, O., July 30.—Only after repeated complaints by merchants and trades people has the state taken action in the many disputes arising over reported wage-slashing by contractors on public works projects, fixing rates for common labor in the several industrial and building zones in Ohio.

The average rate will be 45 cents per hour for all zones. Individually, however, the zone rates will vary considerably. Hamilton county, in the extreme southwestern section, will have a minimum wage of 35 cents per hour. Cuyahoga county, where Cleveland is situated, will pay 50 cents per hour. The agreement was largely the work of O. W. Merrell, state highway director. It was learned at the conferences that some contractors had paid as little as 18 cents per hour for work on public roads.

Contractors Ignore Bacon Wage Rate Law

Washington.—John J. Gleeson, national secretary of the International Union of Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers, has filed a complaint with the department of labor charging that the officers' barracks at Langley Field, Va., are being constructed by workers paid less than the standard scale prevailing in that locality.

Gleeson declares that bricklayers working on this project are paid only 75 cents an hour, whereas the standard wage for that locality is $1.50. This practice is in violation of the Bacon law passed at the last session of congress to prevent contractors on government work from fixing wages below the standard prevailing in the community where the work is done.

Hugh L. Kerwin, chief of the conciliation bureau of the labor department, said the wage scales at Langley field are being investigated and that appropriate action will be taken. Mr. Kerwin admitted that numerous complaints had been received from various unions throughout the country that contractors were violating local wage scales. He said most of the disputes were being adjusted rapidly and without friction.

Mill Removal Threat To End Textile Strike

Providence, R. I.—Officials of the American Woolen company, owner of the Weybosset mill, 600 of whose unorganized employes recently went on strike, threaten to dismantle the plant and transfer the work to the company's other mills unless the strikers disavow their radical leaders and return to work.

R. A. Brown, of the U. S. department of labor conciliation board, visited the mill and deputized Alderman Frank J. Duffy, a member of the Wool Sorters' union, United Textile Workers of America, to keep him in touch with developments.

MORE ABOUT

JOB SERVICE

(Continued from First Page)

erans' employment have been expanded.

The bureaus for veterans are placed so as to be of real value to veterans—that is, they are in the industrial sections and nearest those points where there are the largest numbers of unemployed veterans. Similarly, the particularly agricultural offices are in the grain belt states, in the great northwest and on the Pacific coast.

Industrial labor itself is being given a service that is distinctly new and that enables it to plan ahead for coming employment. A special portion of the service has been detailed to watch for and tabulate work planned in advance. Thus local building trades councils are immediately informed by the service of all new work in contemplation.

This type of effort benefits organized workers principally, for the good and sufficient reason that there is no way by which the unorganized workers can be reached with this kind of information of this nature. To broadcast information of this nature would mean the flooding of jobs and consequent concentration of unemployment and destruction of standards. But working through the labor movement, with the combined information of the service and the unions as to where unemployment is worst and where men are needed, a moderated flow can be maintained, as it is in the agricultural states, where seasonal work is predominant.

If There's a Job For Even One, We'll Get It.

The story is not finished. Much remains to be done. Mr. Alpine, ranking as director-general and special assistant to the secretary, knows he faces the job of a lifetime, one that can never be done to the full. But more offices are to be opened. Every man in the organization, he tells me, owes his job to his ability and his tenure to the extent to which he can "deliver the goods." They "make good or get out," he declares and in the long story of his life's work there is reason to believe he means what he says.

"As our organization expands the employment returns will undoubtedly improve," he said, finally. "We are doing the best we can and every man in the organization is being impressed with the idea that we have not only a duty to the government and the people, but that we have an opportunity such as comes to few to reduce the volume of human suffering. That is our job. If there is a job to be had for even one man anywhere I think we shall find it and fill it."

Policemen Condemn Convict-Made Shirts

Washington.—The recommendation of the United States bureau of efficiency that uniform shirts for members of the District of Columbia police department be purchased from the district reformatory has developed general condemnation in police circles and among the citizens of the District of Columbia.

The policemen's association adopted a resolution against foisting convict-made shirts on members of the force and in addition declared that the bureau's recommendation would interfere with the employment of free labor and thus prolong the business depression. The bureau submitted the recommendation after determining that prisoners at the reformatory could make the shirts from 2 to 3 cents cheaper than similar ones by shirt manufacturers. It is understood the district commissioners oppose the proposition.

WATCH this section every we for Grocery Bargai

Make your Dollar Double Duty. Patronize those who patron YOUR PAPER — and save the difference.

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY

SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street — 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

PEACHES	Delmonte, Large 2½ Size, Can	19c
CAN PEAS	"Little Sport," Size 19 oz. Good Quality — Can	9c
COMP. OR PURE LARD	Very best grades (4 Lb. Limit) 4 Lbs.	35c
PINK SALMON	Fresh Alaska, Regular 15c Tall Size Can	10c
PORK & BEANS	Armour's "Veri-Best" Regular 10c size—Can	5c
POTTED MEAT	Armour's "Veri-Best" Regular 5c size—2 Cans	5c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

Bargains for Saturday!

SILVER LEAF	PURE LARD, 8 Pounds	88c
MAXW'L HOUSE COFFEE	Pound	27c
MATCHES	Strikelite, Box	2c
SALT	Reg. 5c Size, 2 Boxes	5c
PURE LARD (4 Lb. Limit)	4 Lbs. for	35c
BACON	Rindless Black Hawk	25c

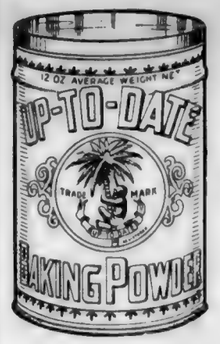
INTERNATIONAL UNION MARKET

THIS IS TO CERTIFY, That this Meat Market is conducted in accordance with the rules of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L. Therefore we commend it to the patronage of all.

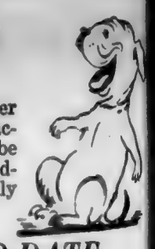
SAUNDERS STORE

423-425-427 MARKET STREET

(INDEPENDENT OF ANY CHAIN STORE—HOME OWNED)



Something to Eat!



A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feather

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSEE

IF YOU WANT THE

BEST

FLOUR

MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Shoes to Suit Every Occasion

County Wage Cuts Remain Paramount Issue

Tennessee Miners' Chief Defies Radicals

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI | CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, AUGUST 7, 1931 | Number 15

Court Ignores Labor's Request For Repudiation Pay-Slash Move

Calls for Reduction of Utility Rates, However.

FORBES DROPS SPIKE IN REACTION WHEEL

"Pinch Hits" for Workers, and Bats Out Home Run. Labor Will Not Be Confused by Injection of New Issues.

Resolution adopted recently by Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, condemning the alleged "economy" program of the county administration insofar as it relates to general wage-slashing among county employes, and calling upon the county court to rescind its vote of approval given at a previous session, was ignored by the members of that body when it met in special session Monday.

The matter was "passed up" in spite of the fact that more than one of the esquires has stated he voted for the county judge's proposal under a misapprehension, and one—Squire Bayless—was quoted in the Times as stating he had so voted and would demand a retraction of the court's O. K. upon the proposition.

Interest in the court's extraordinary session, however, centered on the introduction by Squire Dennis, and subsequent passage, of a resolution calling for a reduction in rates by local public utilities companies. Trades unionists while not in any way doubting the sincerity of purpose of this movement in nevertheless are of the opinion that the resolution is somewhat belated, and that in view of the wage-slashing activities of county officials, is "putting the cart before the horse."

Sensational prominence given the public resolution by the News, which is acting as a sort of official organ for the wage-cutters, was regarded as a possible effort to divert public attention from the main issue at the moment, which is a general reduction in the pay of working people and a consequent destruction of living standards for wage-earners.

In short, it is held that a reduction in utility rates is much to be desired, and has long been due; but the movement to obtain relief from this source might well have been made at a time when public interest was not centered in a misguided campaign to force upon working people lower wages and consequent return to conditions which have been won through many years of effort and sacrifice on the part of the real producers.

George Forbes, former president of Central Body and at present a member of the Chamber of Commerce, threw a spike into the cog at a meeting of the county finance committee this week, insistently propounding questions which apparently proved somewhat embarrassing to the wage-cutters and expressing himself in no uncertain terms on the low-wage campaign in general. The committee took no action in the matter of approving the pay-cuts, but whether or not Mr. Forbes' defi to the powers that be was in any way responsible for that fact is a matter of opinion.

LOCAL LABOR'S FIGHT GIVEN WIDE PUBLICITY.

The battle of local labor against the first organized attack of the reactionaries was given nationwide publicity this week when International Labor News Service, a semi-official newsgathering agency serving some 300 labor publications throughout the United States, sent out a story recounting the action of county officials in originating a local pay cut campaign and quoting the

(Continued on Third Page)

WAGES AND STANDARDS HOLD LINE "AT MARNE"

President Hoover Stands Pat, While Steel Votes Against Reductions—Rail Workers Refuse to Confuse Pay With Rates—Coal Balks at Crossing.

By CHESTER M. WRIGHT

Washington, Aug. 6.—Wages—the average man's living—have become such an issue as never before in this or any other country.

And the relative power of government and industry is due for a test.

President Hoover, delivering a declaration almost as terse as Perry's "Don't Give Up the Ship," put the White House once more on record within thirty minutes after the United States Steel corporation decision on wages had been announced.

Hoover's declaration, obviously more inspired by the faux pas of Secretary of Commerce Lamont than the steel magnates, was to the point, a cold blast under the Lamont chair and a flag for the other members of the administration, particularly Secretary of Labor Doak. Hoover said:

"No member of the administration has expressed the view or holds the view that the policy of the administration in advocating the maintenance of wages should be changed. It has not been changed."

Lamont Is Rebuked.

That seems to tell Secretary Lamont an important fact, for the secretary had been inept enough to say that some corporations now find themselves "without reserves" and faced with the prospect of closing down or "seeking temporary wage reductions," in which cases, he said, the government could not interfere. Lamont's remarks were in a letter to Representative Condon, of Rhode Island, in reply to a letter from Condon to President Hoover.

Secretary Doak stated to newspaper men that the administration's policy had not been changed. He was as emphatic as President Hoover.

How About Workers?

Secretary Lamont had nothing to say about the millions of wage earners who have "no reserves" and who face a winter of starvation. The fact is he went as far as he well could go in conceding to employers that what he called "temporary wage reductions" were excusable in certain cases. He let down the bars and the hasty effort to deny his effort to placate manufacturers doesn't wipe out what he said, though it may put a damper on anything further along that line.

As a matter of fact the blunder—if Lamont really blundered—probably has stiffened up the administration backbone in the matter of opposing wage reductions. There is strong probability that Lamont spoke his mind accurately, since he has no record of unusual understanding of economic facts in relation to human well-being and no record of unusual understanding of the problem of the wage earners. But that he has been sat upon properly by the president seems beyong question.

Meanwhile in three other great industries—railroads, steel and coal—the week presented a critical period.

Rail Unions Clear Air.

The railroads have their rate raise plea well advanced. The railroad unions have been in conference on the issue, knowing full well all of the implications and consequences of the situation.

The railroad unions, after carefully considering the situation in conference here, declared for the support of rate increases, where evidence shows they are justified, but were emphatic in stating that any effort to confuse the rate and wage situations simply obscured the issues. The prime concern of the unions is the wage issue and the wage issue is not involved in the rate case, as they point out. The statement of the unions has served to clear the air and to once more emphasize the part the bankers are trying to play behind the scenes.

Back of the whole broad question of "deflation" of labor—wage cutting and starvation—stand the big bankers, demanding their pound and a half of flesh, their plenty per cent.

It is no secret that many railroad presidents are in the rate raise fight against their will, and against their judgment, forced there by the financial powers that tell them what to do and when to do it.

Coal in Confusion.

In coal the situation grows no more hopeful. With the reds fighting desperately to destroy trade unionism, fed by the idiotic condition into which the owners have plunged the industry, the United Mine Workers are waging perhaps the gamest fight of their noteworthy career, building trade union strength for the protection of the workers and for the protection of the industry as well.

Mine owners, invited by Secretaries Lamont and Doak to a national conference with the United Mine Workers and government officials, have not yet agreed to such a conference. They stand balky at the crossing. Not many more than 25 have accepted the invitations, which means that for the present there can be no real conference. Industrial overlords seem blind to the economical and social issues that are in the make.

Steel Wages Untouched

The strain regarding steel was lifted Wednesday afternoon when directors of the United States Steel corporation voted a dividend cut and a "readjustment" of salaries, leaving the wages of the great army of steel workers untouched. However, the sting in the announcement was found in the slash of the pay of office workers. Because the pay in this classification is rated as "salary" it was possible to say "wages" would not be cut, but the horde of white collar workers in the steel industry are poorly fortified to stand a cut. But though the office workers seem doomed for a reduction, the volume of the reduction is not stated and the impression has gained headway that it will be light. The outstanding fact is that the wages of steel workers will not be touched and the blow falls heaviest where it should fall—on investors.

Wages at the Marne.

Altogether the week has brought such a tension over wages in enormous bulk as no other single week has seen and wages have emerged with more of triumph than was generally expected. In a sense it was a case of wages at the Marne and the wage-cutters were driven back in defeat—at least for the week. Without the terrific battle that has been waged to maintain wages, without the constant agitation that has aroused the nation to a new understanding, there could have been no such outcome.

Toronto Awards Contract to Highest Bidder To Provide More Jobs for the Unemployed

(By International Labor News Service.)

Toronto, Can., Aug. 6.—A precedent of great significance for relief of the local unemployed workers is seen in the action of Mayor Stewart and his associates in granting a contract for municipal supplies to the highest of two bidders in order to provide work for Toronto's jobless.

Mayor Stewart asked for bids for a certain number of boilers. The John Inglis company, of Toronto, bid $93,000, and a Galt concern bid $85,650. The city authorities awarded the contract to the Toronto concern.

"Charity begins at home," said Mayor Stewart in explaining the action of awarding the contract to the highest instead of the lowest bidder. "It was much better to have spent an additional $7,800 to have the work done in Toronto than to spend a large sum in keeping unemployed workers. The main consideration in awarding the contract to a Toronto concern was the fact that $30,000 in wages would be paid to Toronto workmen."

TRADE UNION CONVENTIONS.

The annual convention of the International Photo-Engravers' Union of North America opens at Minneapolis, Minn., on Aug. 17, and will remain in session for one week.

The annual convention of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America opens at Boston on Aug. 24.

DOAK FAVORS 6-HOUR DAY AND 5-DAY WEEK

Secretary of Labor Doak has come out flatly in favor of the six-hour day and five-day week.

"Before I became secretary of labor I advocated a six-hour day and a five-day week for industry and I am still of that opinion," Secretary Doak said.

"Since we adopted a five-and-a-half-day week in the government departments we have been doing just as well in the department of labor. The work is done as efficiently and it hasn't cost the government one cent additional. I think we would operate just as efficiently with a five-day week."

"MUNCIE PLAN" MAKES JOBS FOR MANY WORKERS

Building Trades Benefit by Co-Operation.

IMPROVE ENTIRE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Labor, Contractors and Supply Firms Join in Campaign Against Unemployment.

By HAL McNAUGHTON
Secretary, Sterling Advertising Agency.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 5.—The "Muncie plan" for putting men to work had its origin in the building trades section of the Muncie Chamber of Commerce, wherein representatives of trades unions, contractors and suppliers may, and do, meet on common ground.

This group was organized March 23, 1931, at a meeting called by Fred D. Rose, president of the chamber, at the instigation of leaders in the industry. An executive committee of eighteen was appointed to outline and carry through to completion a program which would create employment. Employe and employer, contractor and supplier were represented on this committee.

The problems which confronted this group at the start of the building season were common with those existing generally. A survey made in connection with unemployment had brought out the fact that 12 per cent of the labor in Muncie (a city of 46,000) normally was engaged in the building industry. The majority of these were skilled or semi-skilled workers who ordinarily contributed much to the buying power of the community. All but a handful were idle, with no immediate prospects of work or income.

New Building Not Needed.

An analysis of the situation indicated that new building projects were out of the question. Housing facilities were ample. Business and manufacturing institutions had no plans for expansion. With one exception, no new public buildings were under way, nor were any contemplated.

Then some one advanced the thought that if it were impossible to obtain a whole loaf, best be content with a half, and if the half loaf was beyond reach, a few morsels were better than nothing. The main idea was to put men to work and the way to put them to work was to unearth jobs for them.

It was pointed out that there were thousands of "little repair jobs" around the city that could, and should be done; that if all the repairs actually needed were started immediately "it would provide work for every man in the local building industry for five years."

Desirable Buildings Scarce.

It was reported that while housing facilities were sufficient (70 per cent of Muncie's population live in their own homes) there actually existed a scarcity of really desirable, modern, rental properties.

Perhaps if the right appeals were made, those who had money available could be induced to spend it in repairing and remodeling.

As an outgrowth of this discussion, the committee decided to launch an intensive publicity campaign built

(Continued on Third Page)

Turnblazer Blames Mine Owners For Renewed Activities Of Reds

Turnblazer's Challenge

The United Mine Workers of America is an American institution affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and the various state federations of labor, and believes in the principles of the American form of government as set forth by the framers of the American constitution, and I say to these red organizations that long after they have ceased their program of destruction and trying to divide the coal miners of this district, the United Mine Workers of America will be rendering service to the coal miner, his wife and children in a constructive and business-like way, and will be found doing business at the same old stand long after they have been forgotten and buried deep into the sea of oblivion.

Offers Co-Operation of Workers in Emergency.

WARNS UNION MEN TO SHUN COMMUNISTS

Dramatic Statement Appeals to Citizenship for Assistance in Battling New Drive of Reds in Tennessee and Kentucky.

WILLIAM TURNBLAZER
President, District 19, United Mine Workers of America.

Declaring that communists under the guise of various red organizations are endeavoring to enlist the sympathies and membership of workers in the various coal-producing fields of southeastern Kentucky and Tennessee, and placing the blame squarely on certain mine operators, William Turnblazer, president of District 19, United Mine Workers of America, defies the "representatives of the red international" and calls upon the patriotic citizenship of these districts to join in the battle against the forces of destruction.

President Turnblazer's statement, sent The Labor World this week for publication, is addressed to the coal miners and citizens of Kentucky and Tennessee, declares that a number of organizers for the reds have lately been sowing the seeds of their communistic theories and of an organization which "has for its ultimate goal the overthrow of our present republican form of government." He makes it plain that the United Mine Workers is not a part of this movement, and has nothing in common with its advocates, and warns that any member of the United Mine Workers taking part in the radicals' program will be immediately expelled from the legitimate organization.

Deplorable conditions among the mine workers of the district are described in detail by the miners' official, who pledges his organization to lend every assistance and co-operation to employer and employe alike "to bring a new order of things out of the present sad and deplorable state."

The statement follows:

For the past month in several coal producing counties, particularly Harlan county, there have been several organizers of the National Miners' union sowing the seed of their communist organization, which organization has for its ultimate goal the overthrow of our present republic form of government. Only last week twenty-seven miners of Harlan county, acting in the capacity of delegates, attended and took part in a convention of this organization at Pittsburgh, Pa., in which they adopted a program to carry on their destructive work in this field.

Article I of their constitution provides that the National Miners' union shall be affiliated with the Trade Union Unity league, which is the American section of the red international of Moscow, Russia. These various organizations, along with the Industrial Workers of the World, have no standing whatsoever with the American labor movement, and are not recognized by any craft affiliated

(Continued on Third Page)

PRESIDENT HOOVER REAFFIRMS OPPOSITION TO WAGE CUTS

Washington, Aug. 6.—President Hoover has emphatically reiterated his position that employers should not resort to wage cuts. The White House statement follows:

"....o member of the administration has expressed the view or holds the view that the policy of the administration in advocating the maintenance of wages should be changed."

Secretary of Labor Doak also declared that the policy of the administration in opposing wage cuts remained "absolutely unchanged."

The White House declaration was called forth by an unwarranted interpretation placed by newspaper correspondents and wage cutters on a chance remark made by Secretary of Commerce Lamont in a letter to Representative Condon, of Rhode Island, replying to Condon's charge that Rhode Island textile mill owners were slashing wages in violation of the White House agreement of 1929 not to cut wages during the depression and requesting President Hoover to intervene.

In discussing the situation in his letter to Condon, Secretary Lamont said that because of the unexpected long duration of the depression many corporations had already cut dividends and salaries and "are faced with the prospect of closing down altogether and thus creating more unemployment, or, alternately, seeking temporary wage reductions."

Secretary Lamont declared that where such cases occurred he did not believe it was the duty of the government to interfere and did not think such interference could be effective.

Newspaper correspondents interpreted Lamont's statement to mean that the administration had given up its opposition to wage slashing. President Hoover's terse denial promptly and definitely stopped the propaganda of the wage cutters.

Business and Professional Women Hold Pay Cuts Basically Unsound

Richmond, Va., Aug. 6.—Salary cuts are economically unsound and socially unjust, declared 2,500 leading business and professional women of the nation during the closing session of their biennial convention here. The vote of disapproval of the rather prevalent practice of slashing salaries was unanimous and spirited.

Miss Alice Engelhardt, of Cincinnati, O., national finance chairman of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, pointed out that the organization must stand for the highest standards in business if it is to measure up to its obligation to the women of the country. She followed with a motion that left no doubt as to the organization's stand on the salary cutting procedure. A ringing burst of applause and a unanimous vote in favor of the motion followed.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs has also undertaken in dead earnest a battle against the discrimination against women in government classification, in schools and colleges, in business, in railroads, in politics and in the professions. In a year when every item included in the budget received more than usual scrutiny before being included, the organization found it possible to appropriate $1,000 to a special committee of five which will make a survey and a study of the general subject of discriminations against women. Only women who have been members of the national federation for at least five years may serve on the committee, which will meet twice a year for discussions and conference.

The aim of the national federation, according to Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman, of Richmond, Va., newly elected president, is to bring about conditions such that human services will be recompensed on their merits only, regardless of sex or marital status.

Unemployment, pensions, old age insurance, shorter work days and shorter work weeks will be emphasized in the program of activities for the coming year, advises Miss Martha Connole, of St. Louis, Ill., national legislation chairman.

Green Predicts 7,000,000 Jobless; Shorter Work Hours the Remedy

Washington, Aug. 6.—The prediction that the jobless army will reach 7,000,000 next winter and insistence that shortening work hours is the major remedy for unemployment are the outstanding features of the monthly statement on unemployment by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Figures on trade union unemployment compiled by the federation show that 18.9 per cent of the union members were jobless in July as compared with 18.2 in June and 17.1 in May. In addition, 19 per cent of the membership are on part-time work. It is estimated that 175,000 trade unionists have been dismissed during July. Extending the federation's data to include all workers, Green estimates that the present unemployed army is around 5,200,000. If the ordinary increase in industrial unemployment occurs during the next few months the jobless will swell to 7,000,000 by winter.

President Green insists that a shorter work week is the only measure that will adequately meet this emergency.

"Shortening work hours is the only permanent solution to the unemployment problem. Other measures are mere palliatives.

"When we consider that with modern machines in our factories work which took the average man fifty-two hours in 1929 he can do in thirty-four hours, and that the average work hours have only been reduced from

(Continued on Last Page)

THE LABOR WORLD

810 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 19, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL CHATTANOOGA

FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, 1931.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—How are the cleaners, dyers and pressers organized?

A.—Some are organized in unions directly affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and some in locals belonging to the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America and Laundry Workers' International union.

* * *

Q.—What is the Potters' Herald?

A.—Official organ of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

* * *

Q.—When was the first upholsterers' strike?

A.—In 1850, in New York City, when the first upholsterers' union of record conducted a successful general strike.

What Next!

A device for recording telephone conversations, local, long distance and transoceanic, has been perfected in Germany and will be introduced in this country, it is announced. The invention can record a conversation of 15 minutes. It is hailed as an aid to trade, as it will provide an accurate record of business conversations.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

HAVING outlined at considerable length through a succession of previous articles in this series the gradual development of labor from serfdom, through the guild system, and then on down to the day and time when workingmen at last awakened and realized they must, if they would protect their interests, organize along the lines we of today call unionism. It must be borne in mind, though, that all through the different periods described in these articles in the past the working men did not so regard themselves nor must we regard them as constituting organized labor in the sense in which we know it today. Their early efforts were but the birth-pangs of what in its full fruition we today call unionism, and what they accomplished bore no more resemblance to present-day labor unions than did the loose colonial government worked out by our Revolutionary fathers in the first days of this country's existence as a nation resemble our present complex federal government. In both cases what was accomplished were but prophetic indications of what was to come in future years.

We are now ready to leave the shores of England and come to the United States to study further the history of the formative years of unionism. Before taking up with any degree of intensity the detailed study of the labor union movement in this country we must briefly scan colonial labor conditions. This in order that we may be able to form for ourselves an intelligent picture of the slow but inevitable growth of American trades unions.

Display your loyalty to fellow trade unionists by demanding UNION-MADE GOODS and UNION SERVICE.

RUN-DOWN and WEAK

"I began taking Cardui when in a weakened, run-down condition," writes Mrs. F. S. Perrit, of Wesson, Miss. "I took one bottle, and I seemed to improve so much that I sent for six bottles. After I had taken the six bottles, I seemed entirely well.

"Before I took Cardui, I was nervous, restless, blue and out of heart. I felt depressed all the time. After I took Cardui, all this disappeared.

"I gave my daughter Cardui and it helped to relieve irregular . . ."

This medicine has been used by women for over 50 years. E-170

Take CARDUI Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

LAMONT REBUKED.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont can consider himself rebuked by President Hoover, but what sort of diplomat was he—or what sort of secretary, for that matter—to get himself into a jam by writing that manufacturers who are without reserves may find themselves faced with the alternative of closing their plants or cutting wages?

What Lamont's letter would have done, had not Hoover jumped all over it, would have been to justify letting down the bars to wage cutters.

What does Secretary Lamont have to say of the millions of wage-earners who "have no reserves" and whose alternatives are to get a job somewhere out of thin air or crash their way into jail? The United States is a human institution as well as a cold governmental structure.

The wage cutters and the plenty per cent bankers back of them will make desperate matters worse if they can get away with it. The one and only salvation is to hold on and climb out, not to let go and sink deeper.

Credit the worst blunder of the time to Secretary Lamont. Credit some of his fellow cabinet members with a chivalrous and heroic effort to conceal that blunder and pull Lamont out of the hole. But any man whose brain lets him say that sort of thing in these times deserves no chivalrous help and no courageous camouflagers. Rebuke is better than palliation.

BUSINESS AND THE FIVE-DAY WEEK.

In an article entitled "Business Looks at Unemployment" in the August issue of the Atlantic Monthly, Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, presents certain views relative to unemployment and remedies for it. If these views represent the conclusions of business leaders, the 6,000,000 out-of-works have a dreary present and future confronting them.

Mr. Barnes says that unemployment caused by labor-displacing machinery and devices happens not "because there is less work to be done, but because the worker is not in the right place."

When the industrial engineers install machinery for the purpose of enabling the manufacturer of boilers to have the same number of boilers produced by a less number of workers, Mr. Barnes declares, the reason the dismissed boilermakers are jobless is because "boilermakers cannot be converted into automobile makers or textile weavers overnight." This reasoning is fallacious.

There are around 46,000,000 persons in the United States who come under the census classification of the "gainfully employed." Working under the standard six-day week with modern labor-displacing machinery and devices the laboring people have increased their output so that around 40,000,000 workers are today producing all the commodities and services our entire population of over 100,000 are able to buy.

The employers therefore refuse to purchase the labor power of the 6,000,000 surplus workers and toss them into the street to live as best they can.

In view of the well-known fact that the automobile industry, the textile industry and every other industry now have tens of thousands more workers than the employers in those industries will hire, it is fine consolation for the displaced boilermakers to be told that if they would convert themselves into automobile workers or textile workers there would be jobs galore for them.

Mr. Barnes implies that there is plenty of work to be done, and that the reason the unemployed workers are out of jobs is because they are not where the work is. This is erroneous.

There are 6,000,000 unemployed today because the manufacturers who own and operate our business establishments can get 40,000,000 workers on the standard six-day week to produce all the goods that can be sold at usual prices. Therefore they refuse to employ the 6,000,000 excess workers known as the unemployed.

In considering remedies for unemployment, Mr. Barnes relies on the larger application of spreading employment over the entire year which some business men under exceptional circumstances have adopted with a fair degree of success, a plan which is necessarily limited in its application even under favorable conditions. He igneres the shorter work week.

With the output of labor continually increasing, it is apparent that the only adequate remedy for our present unemployment is to reduce the length of the working week to the point where every one of the 6,000,000 jobless will be put to work.

It is likewise apparent that the only way to prevent unemployment in the future is to reduce the length of the working week proportionately to the reduction in the labor time necessary under new machinery and methods to produce the goods we require.

Reduction of the working week is labor's remedy for the unemployment problem.

Labor demands work for the jobless.

Labor believes that the five-day week would put most of the unemployed to work. If it does not, then the length of the working week should be further reduced.

It is time for business to stop "looking" at unemployment and use its power to settle the problem in the only way it can be settled—the five-day week.

Business holds the keys to our industrial and commercial establishments and refuses to permit 6,000,000 unemployed workers to enter.

Business should open the doors and put the unemployed to work.

The five-day week will do it.

WAGE CUTS ARE HARMFUL

By R. B. CRAIG
Labor Commissioner, State of Texas.

There are two vital factors involved in a solution of the present depression. One of these calls for full-time employment for workers. The other, of equal importance, demands good wages for full-time workers.

The problem of overproduction, or, more properly, underconsumption, will continue in an ever-increasing volume with employment curtailment and wage reductions. The wage-earner's dollar returns to the business world. It logically follows that the so-called overproduction is due to underconsumption, both resulting from fewer jobs and decreasing wages.

The United States government estimates show that there are now 6,000,000 idle men in our country. Say that each man was earning a total wage amounting to $1,500 per year, this would afford a purchasing power of $9,000,000,000 per annum, all of which would be returned to business channels.

It is said that our machine age has displaced millions of workers. This is true as a material fact, but should not prevail as an economic truth. Anything tending to limit or destroy the purchasing power of the great mass of consumers reacts proportionately to reduce the output and profit of business and industry. To meet this situation there should be just as many good paying jobs as before with more reasonably prevailing working hours to meet the demands. This is the only sane solution of the movement to stabilize business conditions. It is certainly not economy nor conducive to prosperity to kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
Part XXXVII.
AN EXPLANATION

The preparation of these articles during the past few months has been a real pleasure and a labor of genuine interest to the writer. It is with no small feeling of regret that I announce to the readers of The Labor World and this column that, with one exception, every major passage in the New Testament reflecting the mind of Jesus concerning money. The one passage of importance is the Parable of the Talents (Mt. 25:14-30), which will be discussed next week. Eight other passages hitherto not discussed by the writer in this column are of minor importance and may at some distant date be discussed here.

WM. L. MOSS

The writer has labored hard to do justice to every article in this series and to this end he has studied many authors in addition to relying on his own interpretation of the passages. From the beginning he was conscious of the fact that he was tackling a subject which is intentionally ignored by the expounders of Christianity of every shade of theological opinion. Yet the writer knew all along the passages he has discussed here in this column in the last few months are an integral part of what the Master taught. Having done what he conceived to be right the writer would not, even if such a thing were possible, blot out a line of what he has written in his articles on Jesus and money.

Next week's article will close the present series, and if the editor of The Labor World is still inclined to be indulgent and grant me still further space this department will continue to remain a fixture of this paper and the writer will launch out in the issue of Friday, Aug. 21, on a mid-summer and fall series under the caption of "The Social Ideal of Jesus of Nazareth." In the articles the writer will conduct a frank and independent study of the ethic of the Founder of Christianity.

W. L. M.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 3, 1931.

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

Will Rogers always starts his pieces by saying, "All I know is what I see in the papers."

The man who reads his newspapers—and especially his weekly labor papers—carefully and thoughtfully, can know a great deal.

Our weekly labor papers, including this one, tell us that the average wage of union workers is more than twice as much as the average wage of non-union workers. That is as important in the history of the world as what happened to Napoleon when he met Wellington and it ought to mean a Waterloo for non-unionism.

* * *

We see by the papers that the warden of Rhode Island's penitentiary has abolished prison censorship, believing that prisoners ought to see the newspapers without having holes cut in them. That, too, is news of progress—progress in human thought.

* * *

But, speaking of prisons, we read in the papers that there are twenty-six men in the death cells at Sing Sing, waiting for the last tragic march. The youngest is 18, the oldest 44!

The chief clerk at Sing Sing says that back of nearly every case is a young man's desire to show a girl a good time. "A young man's salary will not stand the strain," he sagely observes, adding that "only three out of ten that come to us this year have any kind of work."

We may say if we like that there is an indication of lacking moral fiber in these youths, but we must see also that society has created a condition, or tolerated a condition, that can turn a young chap into a murderer by closing to him the opportunity that normal cravings need for their satisfaction. In that way, or in some way, society has slipped in fulfilling its responsibilities toward youth and young chaps whose backbone is not as good as it might be.

Somehow, it is difficult to see where we quite "get even" with them or deter their successors merely by "bumping them off in a hot seat" after the damage has been done.

* * *

If ever there was a gallant fight for trade union principles it was the fight of the Cooks and Waiters, just ended in Cleveland.

For a year and eight days these trade unionists fought the fight of all organized labor.

For a year and eight days they manned the picket line!

A year and eight days is, if anyone cares to know, some stretch of picket duty—through the cold of winter and the inferno heat of summer. Cleveland can and does get both hot and cold.

The strike didn't end in a complete victory—but whatever the terms of settlement say, it was victory just the same.

* * *

To hold the lines through more than a year of the worst depression we have known is an achievement of which to be proud. Let there be no fooling about that.

When prohibition came along there were those who said this union would pass out.

But see what happened.

Instead of passing out it grew immensely stronger and staged the biggest fight of the year just passed.

* * *

Let honor be done these union men and women of Cleveland—the Cooks and Waiters, and with them the Musicians and Engineers who went out and stayed out for a principle.

The Red Cross

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

The chairman of the American Red Cross, John Barton Payne, was appealed to some few weeks ago in an effort to get the "Greatest Mother in the World" to help the starving and dying miners and their families in the blighted coal fields of Pennsylvania.

In answer to this request Chairman Payne said the Red Cross could not help the destitute miners, their wives nor their children because their plight was not due to an "act of God."

Remembering how active the American Red Cross was during the late World war, the most valuable of its service being rendered right on the fields of battle, I suppose Chairman Payne means to call that conflict an "act of God." If he does call that slaughter and destruction an "act of God" he is doing something which no other sane and sensible person has ever done, unless, perhaps, it be ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, and his sanity is now universally doubted.

Hitherto the American people, in light of Chairman Payne's ukase, have contributed to the support of the Red Cross under a misapprehension of the true spirit of its service. They did not know the person at the head of it would ever essay to pass on the worthiness of unworthiness of human suffering. They did not know he would ever declare the World war an "act of God" when it is now acknowledged to have been a stupid blunder of man, a tragedy of his own hell-bent politics and without the least trace of divine inspiration about it.

Either the concept the Red Cross is to play in human affairs must change in the mind of its chairman or the attitude of the American people toward that organization is a foregone conclusion. No organization acting along the lines laid down by Chairman Payne for the Red Cross is entitled to further support from the people among whom it is supposed to minister.

A HIGH-GRADE PRODUCT
. . . . . AT A LOW COST !

MINED IN TENNESSEE BY MEMBERS OF THE UNITED MINE WORKERS OF AMERICA

FENTRESS COAL

"100 Per Cent Union"

BUY NOW AT SUMMER PRICES!

Acme Coal Co.

622 East Ninth Street

WALTER D. MOORE
T. F. WARE

PHONE 6-1183

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

"If I got constipated, I would get dizzy and have swimming in my head. I would have very severe headache.

"For a while I thought I wouldn't take anything—maybe I could wear out the headaches; but I found they were wearing me out.

"I found Black-Draught would relieve this, so when I have the very first symptoms, I take Black-Draught and now I don't have the headache.

"I am a firm believer in Black-Draught, and after using it 20 or more years, I am satisfied to continue its use."
—F. B. McKinney, Orange Park, Fla. 6-171

THEDFORD'S
Black-Draught

WOMEN who are run-down, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

"PUT YOUR LIFE IN BISHOP'S HANDS"
Volunteer State Life Insurance Company
J. W. Bishop, Mgr. Home Office Agcy
ASSOCIATES
E. WALLACE — W. E. WEBER
A. PARK — C. W. BRADLEY
E. FLUKER — J. J. HARRISON
W. RAWLINGS — RAY SEAGLE
L. WALTERS — H. M. JUDD
L. BROOKING — J. H. JARVIS
R. B. WITT
MISS MAGGIE LYNN PEEPLES
H. W. RAY, WINCHESTER, TENN.

COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Correct Weight — Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

Ready Cash
For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.
Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street
We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right
OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

B L & K R
Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, safe, Sure.

Coca-Cola IN BOTTLES
Goodness and purity are sealed in.
Buy by the case

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
FARMER CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

MORE ABOUT COAL MINERS

(Continued from First Page)

with the American Federation of Labor.

The United Mine Workers of America is not a part of this so-called National Miners' union and has nothing in common with this red outfit, and will not be responsible in any manner or degree for any acts committed by this communist organization which does not believe in our American institutions, in constituted authority, church, or God, and is only an irresponsible organization with their chief headquarters in Russia, acting under the leadership of one William Z. Foster and William Dunne, personal and chief representatives in general charge of all activities of the red international in the United States.

I wish to advise the members of the United Mine Workers of America that our constitution prohibits any member of our union accepting membership in these red organizations under penalty of being automatically expelled from the United Mine Workers of America, and I desire to emphatically state without fear or favor that this section of the constitution of our organization will be carried out and enforced to the letter, and further wish to advise our membership to have nothing to do with or lend any assistance in any way, form or manner in giving aid or comfort to such organizations whose only object or policy is to create class hatred and discord, and get our people in serious trouble that will cause additional hardships to be imposed upon them by those who are without any constructive program or policy.

The United Mine Workers of America is an American institution affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and the various state federations of labor, and believes in the principles of the American form of government as set forth by the framers of the American constitution, and I say to these red organizations that long after they have ceased their program of destruction and trying to divide the coal miners of this district, the United Mine Workers of America will be rendering service to the coal miner, his wife and children in a constructive and businesslike way, and will be found doing business at the same old stand long after they have been forgotten and buried deep into the sea of oblivion.

It would not be amiss at this time, however, to bring to the attention, and for the benefit of, the coal operators operating mines in this field, that they have contributed their share to the present state of affairs and unrest by denying the American coal miner some of his constitutional rights and liberties. The United States government, through its various agencies, of which the United States supreme court is a part, guarantees to the workers of this country the right to belong to a labor organization, and this meets with the approval of the general public at large, but, however, it is not recognized by the coal operators who deny their miners the right of belonging to a labor union of their craft, a bona-fide, lawful, American labor organization, they deny them the right to select a man from among them to have a check weighman on the coal tipples to see that their coal is weighed correctly in accordance with the state law. They deny them the right to elect their doctor to look after their sick, whom they pay, and have no voice or vote in selecting, and forcing men to pay for insurance and deal out of company's stores that they do not want or care to deal with. Is not this taxation without representation? Is there any wonder that the coal miners are in revolt against these conditions they are forced to labor under? I ask the good citizens of these coal producing counties what they would do under like circumstances?

We have coal operators who deny the rights of the miners exercising their right of franchise in certain mining camps. We have certain operators who charge $5, $10 and $15 for gardens, notwithstanding the miner's rent is checked off over the company payroll for his house and ground surrounding and therefore he is forced to pay additional for these gardens when he is paying rent for same, and in some instances they pay rent for houses that they do not live in so they may secure employment. This is a terrible condition to exist in a religious and civilized nation, and allow me to ask the citizenship of these coal producing fields if the coal operators have not presented a fertile field for the I. W. W.'s and communists to preach and advance their doctrine to the listening ears of coal miners who are ready to grasp any organization that affords them the slightest promise of any degree of relief to assist them from the conditions they are forced to work under and imposed by coal operators who are supposed to be Americans.

Conditions are such within the mining industry in District 19 that I do not hesitate to say that the convict working in the state mines of Tennessee is drawing more money at the end of each month than the free miner who is working alongside of him in the free mines; this can be proven without fear of successful contradiction.

The United Mine Workers of America are ready and anxious to relieve this sad condition of affairs. We say a uniform labor cost which is 70% of operating coal mines will assist to a very large degree in eliminating these conditions, and will be helpful to the industry; it will bring about a better contented working force among those who are not dissatisfied, and when working men become dissatisfied they do not give to their employer his best efforts or co-operation.

The organization that I have the honor to represent stands ready to lend their assistance and co-operation to bring a new order of things out of the present sad and deplorable conditions. We cannot travel alone, we cannot travel separate roads, labor is an integral part of this industry and should receive that part of fair dealing and consideration that it deserves. Let us get back on the main highway and travel only one road; avoid any obstacles that may be placed before us and by so doing in a spirit of co-operation we as Americans can destroy any propaganda or false doctrine that any un-American organization, red or otherwise, may attempt to place before American coal miners. The United Mine Workers of America, District 19, pledges this loyalty to our government and its institutions, and its endeavors to assist the coal mining industry and will respond to its call, and we further serve notice that we will continue to resist any efforts put forth by these communistic organizations as we have in the past.

MORE ABOUT MUNCIE PLAN

(Continued from First Page)

around these thoughts: (1) That homes and business properties needed modernizing and men needed work; (2) that money spent on permanent improvements would help revive business; (3) that, now while prices were down, was a good time to make needed repairs.

First Publicity Effective.

The first advertisement appeared on Sunday, April 19. The response was immediate. Building and painting contractors reported the receipt of telephone calls from prospects all Sunday forenoon. By noon on Monday a dozen new jobs were under way. Dealers in paint, wall paper, hardware, building material and supplies reported the best business day in months.

Encouraged by this response, the leaders went out to enlist the aid of others in the campaign. The small group grew, almost overnight, to ninety-two members, who contributed a total of $1,955 for promoting the campaign. Banking institutions, realtors, insurance brokers, public utilities, abstractors, newspapers, retail merchants, organizations, all joined the building tradesmen in the growing movement.

Speakers were sent to discuss the plan before various civic clubs. Local broadcasting facilities were used to tell the story over the air. The newspapers reported the progress of the campaign in news stories. Within the week the movement had become a community project.

Publicity Campaign Pushed.

Other full-page advertisements followed the first. The leaders, sensing the value of using names in publicity, and of citing examples of what was being accomplished, listed the names of those known to have started improving their properties.

At the close of the second week of the campaign a survey was made to determine results. This survey disclosed that 115 modernizing jobs were under way and that more than 300 men had been put to work. The figures included only visible exterior improvements. No attempt was made to list interior work of a minor nature.

Thirty-two of these improvements were photographed and made the basis of another full-page advertisement.

One of the high points in the campaign was a dinner meeting, sponsored by the chamber of commerce, on May 25. The program for this dinner was built entirely around the building industry. Seven hundred and fifty men and women manifested their interest by paying a dollar a plate to attend.

To Continue Drive.

Lester C. Bush, manager of the chamber of commerce, who has directed the publicity for the campaign, estimates that a quarter of a million dollars' worth of improvements have been completed or started since the campaign was launched. The total amount spent by the committee up to June 1 was only $1,034.

Although they have accomplished their original purpose, i. e., to set in motion the wheels of the local building industry, the sponsors are not through. They already have made plans to continue the campaign, not only this year, but next. The board of directors of the chamber of commerce will be asked at their September meeting to include $2,500 in the budget to continue the work. This amount is to be matched by the building industry, making a total of $5,000 to be used in carrying out a greater program next year.

Close study of the local "market" has convinced the committee that only the surface of a fertile field has been scratched.

Meanwhile, the building tradesmen not only have set in motion the wheels of their own industry but they have given impetus to other lines and improved business morale. The list of building and remodeling permits is growing, pay rolls are mounting and dealers in a number of lines report substantial increases in sales.

Hoover to Co-Ordinate All Jobless Relief

Washington. — President Hoover, thoroughly impressed with the significance of a constantly increasing number of the jobless, has begun a thorough study of the unemployment situation with a view to bringing about co-operation of all federal, state and private agencies dealing with unemployment and unemployment relief. It is stated the president is taking this action because of the impending hard winter for the unemployed.

He summoned John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, and F. C. Croxton, acting chairman of the president's emergency committee for employment, to the White House for reports on unemployment and unemployment relief.

Payne declares that under its charter the Red Cross cannot take up unemployment relief. Croxton's committee is endeavoring to co-ordinate unemployment relief agencies and persuade employers to share available work among all their employes rather than work a certain number full time and dismiss the rest.

MORE ABOUT COUNTY COURT

(Continued from First Page)

resolution adopted by Central Body in opposition to the movement. A wide interest in the local situation will thus be created, and working people in many sections will doubtless watch developments with interest.

CITY WILL NOT JOIN MOVEMENT.

At a joint meeting of city and county officials Monday, called to discuss a proposed further reduction in the school fund allotment due the city from the county government, city fathers made it plain that they would refuse to accept another cut in their apportionment, and incidental to the discussions, Commissioner Huffaker, of the city department of education, made it plain that city school teachers' pay will not be cut. Mayor Bass had formerly stated there would be no general pay cuts by the city government.

"CONSOLIDATION" PROPOSAL STUDIED.

At the meeting referred to above a proposal was made that the entire governmental machinery of city and county be combined under one head. Two plans were drawn by an attorney for the Tennessee Electric Power company, at the alleged behest of Judge Cummings, one of which provides, in effect, that the city government be supreme, and the other that county officials hold the whip hand. The claim was made that such consolidation would be the means of saving the people hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. Prominent local attorneys, however, are holding that such consolidation would meet with many obstacles from a constitutional standpoint, and other citizens have expressed the opinion that possibly several features of the two governments might well be consolidated, and that the taxpayers might also benefit from a general housecleaning of political job-holders on the county pay-roll.

The consolidation plan, however, was submitted to a committee of prominent citizens for their study, and the taxpayers will have ample time to consider the proposition before the next session of the legislature, which would necessarily have to pass upon proposed changes.

The extraordinary session of the county court, called to consider the budget, adjourned without taking any action.

Workers Boost Output; Employers Cut Wages

Edinburgh, Scotland. — Increased output and lower wages for British building trade employes have gone hand in hand with the introduction of labor-displacing machinery, declared George Waddell, president of the Amalgamated Union of Building Trade Workers, in his presidential address at the annual convention of the union.

"Rationalization, heralded a few years ago as the solvent to our industrial troubles, is being rapidly applied and its progress merely adds to our difficulties and uncertainties.

"The introduction of labor-saving machines and devices proceeds uninterruptedly. It is the grimmest of grim irony to call these 'labor-saving.'

"They save labor nothing. Indeed, so intensified has been the speeding-up process that every workman today has to work harder and faster.

"Since the war our weekly earnings have been reduced considerably over one pound a week, and yet there has been a remarkable increase in the productive capacity of every individual workman."

Waddell condemned the organized employers for their drive to reduce the already inadequately low out-of-work pay one-third and described it as a part of the employers' general attack to reduce the living standards of both employed and unemployed workers.

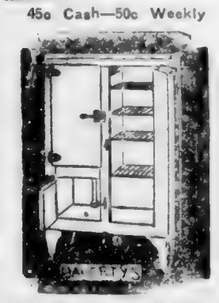
"The employers are insatiable," he concluded. "Not satisfied with the continuous wage reductions which have taken place since the war, amounting to over seven hundred million pounds per annum, they continue with constant demand and pressure."

1/2 OFF At Haverty's ON ALL Summer Furniture!

$7.50 High-Back Porch Rocker..... $3.95
These comfortable high back porch rockers now reduced to $3.95. Has double woven cane seat. Very substantially constructed. Natural finish.
45c Cash—50c Weekly

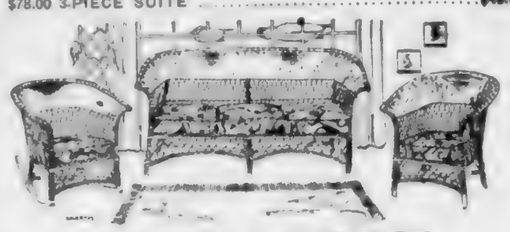
$35.00 Couch Hammocks . . . $17.50
Couch hammocks suitable for either lawn or porch. Covered in heavy Hollywood stripe canvas, cotton filled. Spring base. A regular $35 value.
$1.00 Cash—$1.00 Weekly

Natural Finished Hickory Rocker $6.95
Heavy natural hickory porch rockers. Reduced over one-half for this sale. Some with slat seats, some with cane seats. . . . them tomorrow.
45c Cash—50c Weekly



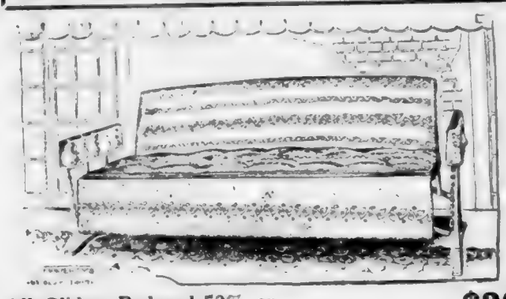
65-Lb. Capacity Steel Refrigerator $26.50
Porcelain finished all-steel refrigerators. Exteriors finished in your choice of colors, interiors in white. Holds a fifty-pound block of ice as the iceman cuts it.
95c Cash—$1.00 Weekly

Regular $56 3-Piece Hand-Woven Fiber Suite, Now Only..... $30
Only two of these suites to sell. The suite is handwoven of all-steel ogee fiber on a hardwood frame. Has box spring, cretonne covered cushions. Other suites—
$69.50 3-PIECE SUITE $42.00
$55.00 2-PIECE SUITE $30.00
$78.00 3-PIECE SUITE $49.00



$1.00 CASH—$1.00 WEEKLY

SEE THESE VALUES!
$2.50 Lawn Sprinklers $1.00
25-Foot Garden Hose with Nozzle $2.49
Folding Lawn Chairs $3.95
3-Piece Hickory Lawn Suite $16.95
$15.00 Fiber Rockers $6.95
$7.00 Fiber Fernery $2.69
$12.50 to $20 Fiber Tables $7.95
$25 Portable Phonographs $7.95
$2.95 40-Inch Porch Swing $1.95
$22.50 9x12 Fiber Rugs $9.95
10-Inch Oscillating G. E. Fan $17.00
8-Inch G. E. Fan $6.50
Fern Stands $1.29
Fiber Chaise Lounge $22.50
Metal Fire Screen $3.95
TERMS TO SUIT YOUR CONVENIENCE



All Gliders Reduced 50% or More . . . $42.00 Gliders, Now..... $20
Closing out our entire stock of gliders. You will find some exceptional values here. For instance, a $42 glider having cotton padded seat and back and spring-filled base at $20. Other gliders—
$79.50 GLIDERS NOW $35.00
$50.00 GLIDERS NOW $29.50
$45.00 GLIDERS NOW $22.50
TERMS $1.00 CASH—$1.00 WEEKLY

HAVERTY FURNITURE CO.
619 Market St.—620 Broad St.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned as Trustee by deed of trust executed the 7th day of May, 1930, by C. C. Goodwin and wife, Lizzie Goodwin, to secure a certain indebtedness, which said deed of trust is of record in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book X, Volume 24, page 606 et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions contained therein, and default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness at its maturity, and said default continuing, at the request of the holder of same, The Title Guaranty and Trust Company of Chattanooga, Trustee, will expose for sale to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, at the west door of the Courthouse on Walnut street, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton county, Tennessee, within the legal hours of sale on the following described real estate in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit: The south 30 feet of Lot No. 16, Block 7, P. & E. C. Foster's subdivision of Griffin's addition to the City of Chattanooga, as shown by map attached to deed registered in Book X, Volume 1, Page 1, of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, and more fully described as follows: Beginning at a point 30 feet south from the southeast corner of the intersection of East Eighth Street and University Street, formerly "E" Street; running thence eastwardly 50 feet; thence southwardly 30 feet to a 10-foot alley; thence westwardly 50 feet along said alley to University Street, formerly "E" Street; thence along said University Street to the point of beginning.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 29, 1931,

Said sale will be made subject to Seven Hundred Fifty and No/100 ($750.00) Dollars due the Administration and Trust Company, and to all taxes and assessments that are a lien due or unpaid.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This the 29th day of July, 1931.

THE TITLE GUARANTY & TRUST CO.
of Chattanooga, Trustee.
By W. S. Beck, President. 8-21

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45589
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Minnie Galloway vs. Charles Comer Galloway

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Charles Comer Galloway is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 21st day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C.
F. L. Dixon, Atty. 8-14

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45701
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Eva Tucker vs. E. B. Tucker

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that E. B. Tucker is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 6th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C.
B. M. Fogo, Atty. 8-28

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by deed of trust executed 3d day of October, 1927, by Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, to secure the indebtedness therein described, which deed of trust is of record in the Register's office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book T, Vol. 25, page 464 et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions therein contained, and default having been made in the payment of several of the notes described in said deed of trust, said notes in the sum of Fifteen Dollars and one in the sum of Twenty-five Dollars; and notes payable monthly and the notes for January, 1931, and all notes since then, one each month, have been defaulted in the payment thereof, and have remained in default for more than thirty days after their maturity; and the holder of said notes having declared all of the same due and payable at once, and requested me to advertise and sell the property described in said deed of trust to satisfy said unpaid indebtedness, I, J. A. Long, trustee, will expose for sale and will sell in front of the west door of the courthouse, on Walnut street in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, at 11 o'clock a.m., on to the highest and best bidder, at public outcry, for cash in hand, and in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, the following described real estate in Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 8, 1931,

Lot number one hundred and twenty-six in Belliview (sometimes called Belleview), Chattanooga Land Company's Addition No. 1. Being the same real estate conveyed to Frank Byrd and wife, Laura May Byrd, by H. B. Langford and wife, F. L. Langford, about July 26th, 1926.

The title is believed to be good but will sell and convey as trustee only.

This 13th day of July, 1931.
8-7 J. A. LONG, Trustee.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45686
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Rosa Lee Setliffe vs. J. F. Setliffe

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that J. F. Setliffe is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Sweets & Bean, Attys. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45692
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Mae Wilkinson Curtis vs. Richard William Curtis

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Richard William Curtis is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45693
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Benjamin T. Wooten vs. Ida Wooten

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ida Wooten is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45694
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
I. W. King vs. Debbie Davis King

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Debbie Davis King is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 22d day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C.
Thos. S. Myers, Atty. 8-21

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
No. 45562
Blanche Welch Duckett vs. Ralph L. Duckett

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ralph L. Duckett is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 14th day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Thos. S. Myers, Atty. 8-7

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45619
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Annie Mae Harris vs. Carl H. Harris

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Carl H. Harris is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 18th day of July, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
F. L. Dixon, Atty. 8-7

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45690
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Ruth Aitken vs. Roy Aitken

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Roy Aitken is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45691
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Matilda Griffin vs. Bride Griffin

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Bride Griffin is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

IF YOU WANT THE

BEST

FLOUR

MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

NOTICE OF BIENNIAL REGISTRATION

AUGUST 10 to 20, INCLUSIVE

Notice is hereby given that the books for the regular Biennial Registration will be opened at the various wards and precincts of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on August 10, 1931, and will continue open up to and including August 20, 1931. The hours of registration are from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

The following [illegible] Registrars at [illegible] respectively:

First Ward, First Precinct (Courthouse).
Mrs. [illegible]
Mrs. S. R. Hipp.
First Ward, Second Precinct (Courthouse).
Miss Kate W[illegible]
Mr. [illegible]
Second Ward (Sixth and Chestnut Streets).
Mrs. W. J. Counts.
W. D. Atchley.
Third Ward (Carter Street Fire Hall).
Charlie Carter.
Walter Foster.
Fourth Ward (Normal School).
Benjamin Cash.
Lee Hogue.
Fifth Ward (Sixteenth and Broad Streets).
Miss Annie Nolan.
W. J. Slaten.
Sixth Ward (City Hall).
Mrs. Lila B. Kelly.
Mrs. Allen V. Bates.
Seventh Ward, First Precinct (McCallie Avenue Pharmacy).
Mrs. Alfred Handman.
Mrs. O. J. Hubbuch.
Seventh Ward, Second Precinct (Corner Magnolia and East Ninth Streets).
Mrs. M. H. Joyce.
Gus A. Wood.
Eighth Ward (Andrew Lee's Drug Company).
Mrs. Walter Lane.
Mrs. Edith Rush.
Ninth Ward, First Precinct (Little Grocery Company).
Mrs. W. B. Crabtree.
Mrs. Forrest Lowery.
Ninth Ward, Second Precinct (Orchard Knob Fire Hall.)
Miss Cora Perry.
Mrs. J. M. [illegible]
Tenth Ward (Stephens Drug Co.).
Mrs. [illegible]
Mrs. [illegible]
Eleventh Ward, First Precinct (Dodds Avenue Fire Hall).
Mrs. [illegible]
Mrs. [illegible]
Eleventh Ward, Second Precinct (Hem Pharmacy).
Miss [illegible]
Mrs. [illegible]
Twelfth Ward, First Precinct (Bacon Drug Company).
Mrs. [illegible]
Mrs. [illegible]
Twelfth Ward, Second Precinct (Avery Little Drug Company).
[illegible]
[illegible]
Twelfth Ward, Third Precinct (Tates Store).
Mrs. [illegible]
[illegible]
Twelfth Ward, Fourth Precinct (Corner Hickory and East Third Streets).
Mrs. [illegible]
[illegible]
Twelfth Ward, Fifth Precinct (Clarence Jones' Garage).
Mr. [illegible]
Mrs. [illegible]
Thirteenth Ward, First Precinct (Carpenter's Store).
Mrs. [illegible]
Mrs. [illegible]
Thirteenth Ward, Second Precinct (East Lake Drug Company).
Mr. [illegible]
Mrs. [illegible]
Thirteenth Ward, Third Precinct (Lay's Drug Company).
Mr. [illegible]
Mrs. H. H. Cooke.
Fourteenth Ward (Mission Ridge Fire Hall).
William A. Wilkerson.
Mrs. L. V. Luckadoo.
Fifteenth Ward (Roger's Bldg., 117 Brainerd Road).
Mrs. J. Walter Gillespie.
Mrs. Ralph Cameron.
Sixteenth Ward (Riverview Pharmacy).
Mrs. C. R. Buford.
Mrs. W. L. Wergin.
Seventeenth Ward, First Precinct (Northside Pharmacy No. 2).
Mrs. W. L. Gordon.
Mrs. H. W. Longley.
Seventeenth Ward, Second Precinct (North Side Pharmacy No. 2)
Mrs. Frank Dugger.
Mrs. L. J. Martin.
Eighteenth Ward, First Precinct Fire Hall).
Mrs. J. R. C. Watson.
Mrs. Horace Humphreys.
Eighteenth Ward, Second Precinct W. F. Ashburn's Store).
Mrs. Burt Elliott.
Mrs. J. L. Davies.
Nineteenth Ward, First Precinct Fire Hall).
Mrs. E. C. McCormick.
Mrs. N. G. Cowan.
Nineteenth Ward, Second Precinct (1016 West Thirty-third Street).
Mrs. Joe F. Shipp.
Miss Beckie Friedman.

Amnicola (Baker's Store).
T. H. Desha.
Mrs. Lucille Dawson.
Bartlebaugh (Champion's Store).
Mrs. Alta Hawkins.
Miss Daisy Riddle.
Chickamauga (Price's Store).
Charles M. Netherland.
Miss Bessie Madison.
Eastdale (Varnell's Store).
Miss Mary Kate Morgan.
Mrs. F. A. Genung.
Eastdale (Snyder's Store).
M. C. Snyder.
Mrs. E. P. Brown.
Kings Point (Potter's Store).
David Potter.
Mrs. William Rogers.
Tyner (Tyner Motor Company).
Mrs. French Cooper.
W. C. Gibson.
Worley (Old Store).
Samuel Julian.
Mrs. T. M. Walker.
Bakewell (Bakewell Service Station).
Robert Gross.
Arthur B. Smith.
Daisy (Daisy Drug Company).
D. R. Lovelady.
Miss Maude Smith.
Fairmount (Old Academy).
Mrs. Nettie H. Conner.
John A. Kell.
Falling Water (Selcer's Store).
E. H. Barker.
Mrs. Jack Vevance.
Flat Top (Postoffice).
Miss Mary Young.
Mrs. Thomas Bowman.
Gann's (Community House).
Mrs. W. S. Rhodes.
George Raulston.
Goldpoint (Robinson's Store).
Z. T. Raulston.
Mrs. G. W. Varner.
Grandview (1839 Wauhatchie Pike).
Mrs. Marion Perkins.
Miss Penelope Allen.
Hixson (W. E. Hixson's Store).
John Hixson.
Mrs. [illegible]
Jones' Store (Jones' Store).
S. C. Jones.
Mrs. F. O. Gann.
Lookout Mt. (Incline Station).
[illegible]
Mrs. [illegible] Jr.
Lupton City (Commissary).
[illegible]
[illegible]
Montlake Park (White Oak Drug Co.).
[illegible]
Mrs. [illegible]
Mowbray (Millsaps' Store).
[illegible]
Mrs. [illegible]
Red Bank (Gilbert's Store).
Mrs. L. C. Rogers.
[illegible]
Sale Creek (Coppinger's Store).
Mrs. [illegible]
Mrs. L. L. Rogers.
Signal Mountain (Signal Mountain Hotel).
Mrs. Thomas Standfield.
Mr. John H. Early.
Soddy (Mayes' Barber Shop).
M. M. Clift.
Mrs. W. J. Martin.
Siveley (Mrs. Standifer's Place).
Mrs. Mollie Brown.
Mrs. Frank Rogers.
Wauhatchie (Dover's Filling Station).
Mrs. Thomas Dover.
Mrs. R. J. Massey.
Apison (Wilson's Store).
Mrs. Virgil Wilson.
D. A. Goins.
Birchwood (DeFriese's Store).
Milton DeFriese.
N. W. Roark.
Howardville (Marshal's Store).
Miss Gladys Marshall.
G. C. Tankersley.
Maddox (Lowe's Store).
R. T. Wilson.
W. D. Brumby.
New Union (Gamble's Store).
J. A. Goodner.
Ed Gamble.
Ooltewah (Squire Robinson's Office).
Carl Smith.
G. H. Robinson.
Salem (Salem Baptist Church).
Marce Smith.
R. C. Dunnegan.
Snow Hill (Lee Bros.' Store).
George M. Taliaferro.
J. P. Padgett.
White Oak (H. B. Knauff's Residence)
Mrs. Luther Carter.
H. B. Knauff.
Work (Malone's Store).
J. W. Davis.
D. W. Malone.
Woodland Station (Reece's Store).
Mrs. Jennie Wilder.
Mrs. S. W. Vaught.

This July 30, 1931.
PEABODY HOWARD, Chairman.
TOM CRUTCHFIELD.
GUY LANDIS, Secretary.
Hamilton County Election Commission.

UTICA OFFERS JOBLESS WAGE INSTEAD OF DOLE

Work for Three Days a Week Provided, With Bond Issue Probable—Community Chest Passed Up as Unsuited, While Fund for Pay Envelopes Is Raised.

New York City, Aug. 6.—A new slogan for the coming winter, of "Money for Wages, Not Doles," comes from Utica, N. Y., where the plan was tried during the last season, with satisfactory results, says Paul U. Williams, editor of the Utica Daily Press, in the Editor and Publisher.

Instead of putting the money in a Community Chest, and doling it out to those who seemed to need it most, the business men of the city of 100,000 people raised $100,000 by popular subscription, to be paid out in wages. They found the most needy cases among the unemployed. They called together the manufacturers, retailers, construction men, city officials and others concerned with employment. They arranged with the city to do work in parks, build sewers, shovel snow, and the like. They paid $4 a day for three days a week.

At the peak of unemployment the number of these was 5,500. It was reduced to 3,500, reducing unemployment 37 per cent. Mr. Williams estimates at this rate it would take $500,000,000 to wipe out unemployment for the entire country, as against the five billion dollar bond proposition now being propagandized by a prominent publisher. Mr. Williams also compares this with the expenditure of $17,000,000 in the city of Detroit, and claims that "It is the old story of public outlay on such projects, with some politics, as against management by interested private persons."

Mr. Williams says that the same committee has already met, in anticipation of a worse situation in the coming winter. He now proposes a $500,000,000 bond issue by the national government, to be distributed to communities according to the locality, and expended along the lines of the Utica method. With reference to the payment of the bonds, he says: "It would go where it properly belongs—upon those who can afford to pay."

CALLS PHILADELPHIA WORST FOR BARBER WORK ON SUNDAY

Organizer for International Union Declares Brotherly Love City Beats All Other Cities Combined—Seeks Remedy Through Organization Campaign, Backed by Central Labor Union.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 6.—Sixteen hours per day and $18 per week is still the lot of some of the workers in this city of "Brotherly Love." The barber is in this class. Of all cities of cut-throat competition, Philadelphia holds premier position; barbers shaving for 10 and 15 cents and cutting hair for 25 and 35 cents.

In order to overcome this deplorable state of affairs the Journeymen Barbers' International union has started an active organization campaign to rally the barbers in Local No. 2 so that conditions may be remedied.

Leon Worthall, international representative of the union, is making a strong appeal to the organized workers here to give their moral support to the barbers and the Central Labor union has pledged all aid possible.

Mass meetings of barbers are held weekly in the various districts of the city and if there is a chance of awakening the barbers to the call of organization, Local No. 2, under the leadership of Representative Worthall, will do it.

Addressing a meeting of the Central Labor union, Worthall pictured the conditions of the barbers, stating that there are more of his trade working on Sunday in Philadelphia than in all the rest of the United States, and this, he stated, in contravention of a state law which prohibits barber shops being operated on Sunday. "The organized labor movement must help to emancipate the barber and save him from this state of slavery," Worthall said. "This country has freed the negro in the southland, now let us free the journeymen barbers of Philadelphia."

Miami Gives Laborers $1 Wage Rate Boost

Miami, Fla.—The Miami unemployment committee has raised the wages of about fifty men employed at odd jobs around the city from $2 to $3 a day. The attention of the committee was directed to the fact that what is technically described as "common labor" receives $3 a day, and that the unemployed should not be victimized by paying them one-third less than the prevailing rate of wages. The committee is under the control of Mayor R. B. Gautier.

Pennsylvania Workers Get Job and Wage Slump

Philadelphia.—Factory employment, wage payments and working time in Pennsylvania declined quite drastically from May to June, according to statistics made public by the Philadelphia federal reserve bank. The bank's figures are based on reports from 843 manufacturing plants, which in June employed 264,000 workers and had a weekly pay roll of $5,600,000. Employment dropped 3 per cent, wages 7 per cent. All basic lines showed substantial reductions in workers and pay rolls from a year ago.

Insanitary Drinking Fountains for Workers

Washington.—Employers in the majority of approximately 1,500 workshops scattered throughout twenty-one states impose insanitary drinking fountains on their employes, declares the women's bureau of the department of labor.

The bureau claims its survey of drinking fountains reveals that the large majority of the fountains are capable of transmitting fifteen specific diseases, from tuberculosis to the common cold.

In most of the states the only regulation is the prohibition of the common drinking cup, and even this regulation is inadequately prescribed in seventeen states.

Big Mail Order Merger Nearing Completion

Chicago.—It is understood that the important stockholders of Montgomery Ward & Co. and Sears, Roebuck & Co. have finally reached an agreement for the marger of the two big mail order concerns. Together they have nearly 1,900 mail order houses and retail stores. The two companies distribute around 30,000,000 mail order catalogues a year and transact $600,000,000 of business annually, or something over 1 per cent of the nation's retail sales which were fifty billion dollars in 1930.

Southern Railway Will Not Cut Wages

Washington. — Officials of the Southern railway announce that they are not contemplating any movement for the reduction of wage scales covered by contracts with organized labor. It is explained that the press reports concerning an alleged general wage cut originated in a recent voluntary reduction of salaries of officers.

MORE ABOUT

GREEN PREDICTS

(Continued from page 1)

fifty-two to fifty a week, we understand why spare time has become unemployment instead of leisure. Hundreds of thousands have lost their jobs.

"Shortening work hours this winter for all workers in the plants would distribute available work so that none now at work need be laid off. It would also make necessary a permanent readjustment so that as industry recovers from the depression those now unemployed might find work."

President Green also urges employers to guarantee employment to their minimum force during the winter. This guarantee, he says, would change the mental attitude of such employes so that "instead of hoarding every penny and living in constant fear of unemployment, anxiety would cease and they would release millions to buy goods."

As [illegible] emergency measures President Green suggests the creation of work, [illegible] works in parks and on public buildings and roads, private work at homes, work for welfare organizations, and relief funds from private and public sources.

Fair wages, short work day, sanitary conditions are always assured the workers where the UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD are used or displayed.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

Rocky Road For Wage Cutters in Indiana Capital

Movie Houses Cut Off Musicians Who Refuse Reductions, But in Other Fields the Destructionists Hoe a Hard Row Full of Real Obstacles.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 6.—Deflating the workers' wages despite the advice of President Hoover to keep them up appears to be intriguing certain employers in this section. Musicians employed at two Indianapolis moving picture theaters where stage shows are put on refused to accept a drastic reduction in wages. After brief parleying the management of the theaters announced that stage shows would be discontinued and nothing but pictures shown—and with "canned" music.

The Indiana theater, under the management of Skouras Bros., who control a string of Publix theaters, will discontinue stage shows and show pictures exclusively. The Lyric theater, a vaudeville house, which has been showing pictures with six acts of vaudeville, will be a picture house exclusively, thus leaving Indianapolis without vaudeville shows or stage entertainment of any kind. Forty or fifty musicians are affected.

Another attempt to reduce wages of workers on Marion county highways evidently has failed, as the county commissioners refused to adopt the suggestion of the county road superintendent to cut wages of common labor to 35 cents an hour. The commissioners declared these workers were not receiving enough money and that instead of cutting their pay they should receive a raise.

The superintendent of the city sanitary department, under which the street cleaners and garbage plant personnel work, recommended a reduction in wages of some 300 employes in order to reduce city taxes, making a saving of some $50,000 a year. It was pointed out that so-called economies practiced in the sanitary department would not only be a health menace through the slowing up of necessary work, but would throw a burden on the workers in these departments, forcing them to carry a tax reduction which should be carried by all departments of city work. It was also shown that instead of workers in these departments drawing higher pay than similar workers in other cities they were actually drawing less.

With the exception of the theater musicians, who lost their jobs because they would not accept a wage cut, the deflation program is having a rocky road.

Bottle Blowers Keep Wages and Hours

Philadelphia.—Wage agreements in all departments of the glass bottle industry were renewed at the annual wage conference between the National Glass Manufacturers and the Glass Bottle Blowers' Association of the United States and Canada, declares James Maloney, president of the association.

The spokesman for the manufacturers stated that their committee was in accord with the sentiment expressed by President Hoover in retaining the present wage scale and the prevailing normal standard of living, and consequently was ready to agree to a renewal of last year's wage scale and working rules.

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

HOWARDS Announce

New Low Prices

LADIES' DRESSES AND LADIES' COATS
Howards Quality Cleaned and Finished
(Slight Extra Charge Small Pleats or Fancy Trim)
50c

MEN'S SUITS AND MEN'S OVERCOATS
Howards Quality Cleaned, Pressed and Tailored-Shaped
50c

Lower operating costs and further advancement in scientific methods enable HOWARDS to maintain the highest quality at these SUBSTANTIAL SAVINGS to THE PUBLIC.

6 CONVENIENTLY LOCATED CHATTANOOGA STORES

1629 McCallie Ave. — 8 East Seventh Street
729 East Fourth St. — 4728 Rossville Blvd.
19 Frazier Ave. — 2444 Broad St.

OVER A MILLION PEOPLE "TAKE IT TO HOWARDS"

OUR WEEKLY MARKET BASKE

WATCH this section every we for Grocery Bargai

Make your Dollar Double Duty. Patronize those who patroni YOUR PAPER — and save the difference.

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY

SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street — 2310 McCallie Avenue

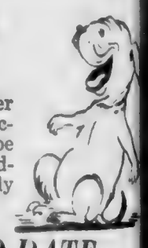
100% HOME OWNED STORES

SUGAR XXXX Powdered, or the Browns, 10c size 1-lb. carton, each 7c
PEANUT BUTTER "Pet" or "J.F.G." Very Best Grades, Pound Jar 15c
MAYONNAISE OR RELISH—"Kraft" or "Gelfand's," 19c Size, 2 Jars 25c
PINTO BEANS 5 FANCY RICE Lb. 4c
CARNATION OR PET MILK 10 Small Cans or 5 Tall Cans for 32c
COMP. OR PURE LARD Very best grades (4 Lb. Limit) 4 Lbs. 35c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.



UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feathe

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSE

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Groce has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties o the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make— Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, AUGUST 14, 1931 — Number 16

WAGE-CUTTING CAMPAIGN HITS ROCKY SHOALS

chool Board Heeds Protest of People.

NTEREST NOW IN COURT PROCEEDING

dges Lusk, Miller to Hear County Judge's Claims Saturday Morning.

ction of the county school board, ich in secret session rescinded its ious action in slashing the sal- of school teachers after con- ts had been sent to them, has ap- ently taken the "pep" out of the mmings-News-Arn wage - cutting paign locally, and eight-column mers have been lacking on the t-page of the afternoon paper e the startling and sensational overy" recently by reporters for News that some county teachers ive as much as $100 per month nine months in the year.

he school board had never been of animous opinion in the matter of cuts, and after the storm of pro- against the idea of further ening buying power of people employed, a meeting of the board quietly called and the unpopular unnecessary action was "killed."

ms the Cummings - News - Arn e-cutters lost a major battle, and erest now turns to the hearing be- Judges Lusk and Miller, an- ced for Saturday morning, on the tion of Judge Cummings to com- Hays Clark, criminal court clerk; ley Taylor, sheriff, and Tom ers, circuit court clerk, to slash ries in their offices. Mr. Rogers' ver, it is understood, will be filed Judge Yarnell. Original pro- l of the county judge was for a per cent cut, but when the offi- named above refused to enter the plan the judge filed a bill ing in some cases a much larger ction in salaries. Sam Erwin, and master, also refused to cut es, and the fact that this action apparently been ignored by the administration is a matter for derable comment. Mr. Erwin's was identical with that of ff Taylor, who agreed to cut his salary but declined to tax his ayees ten per cent of their earn- for the benefit (?) of the tax- rs as a whole.

unty Court Clerk Killough, Tax sor Scott Swafford, Trustee Al- Shipp and Mrs. Pearl Chivington, ter, immediately fell in line with alary-slashing plan of the county t, but it develops that actual cuts not as yet been made, although were scheduled to begin 15.

nsiderable speculation is rife as e result should Judges Miller and rule against the county judge in uses of Clark and Taylor. Mr. s answer to the bill denies em- es of his office are overpaid, and es gross extravagance to the y judge's administration.

is the belief that should Judge rings lose in his appeal Satur- following closely the collapse of campaign so far as it relates to teachers, the movement will die ural death, and its harmful ef- will be confined to the efforts en and women engaged in private ery who are endeavoring to ain living standards, but who found the battle much harder ne the initiative was taken by ls elected by the people them-

CHER DECLARES ULD BE ORGANIZED.

rge Forbes, who drove a spike the plans of the wage-cutters re- when, as a member of the fi- committee, he demanded answer ve pertinent questions concern- the standard-destroying cam- has received scores of letters nding his action, among which several from school teachers. f these is indicative of the posi- practically all, and Mr. Forbes d The Labor World to use it, ng, for obvious reasons, the sig- , as follows:

ar Mr. Forbes:

s a teacher in the county ools I want to commend the d you took recently in our alf regarding the salary cut.

know that there are scores teachers who are grateful to for your sympathetic under- ding and sincere efforts to . It is too bad that we can- have more men like you who not afraid to speak out and e have some sense of honesty justice.

r teachers ought to organize as other groups for their ection at a time like this. I'm e there is not a teacher in system "patriotic" (as they it) enough to want to take cut, but we all know that ld we refuse we most assur- would not have our jobs next . in spite of what Judge rings says.

his is not the first time we had things crammed down throats. It is indeed deplor- to think that one cannot be independent and speak out for his or her rights, but we are forced into silence and submissiveness for fear of losing our positions which at the present time are very necessary.

I think everyone realizes that a teacher never gets rich, especially beginning at such ridiculously low wages and getting a $5.00 raise every two to four years, maybe. I don't see how some have gotten up to $200.00 or more. It seems to me that if there is to be a cut, those making $150.00 or more could best afford such.

Think of the many teachers who, having taught only a few years, will now be teaching probably for less than what they started on.

If our schools could only be free of politics, what progress we might make, but as it is we are constantly in a state of turmoil on account of conditions such as exist at the present.

In closing let me again thank you for your earnest appeal in our behalf.

Workers Lose $10,500,000,000 In Wage Cuts, A. F. of L. Says

"If workers' incomes continue for the full year of 1931 at about the same level as the first half, they will lose $10,500,000,000 from the 1929 level," declares the Monthly Survey of Business of the American Federation of Labor.

The survey finds little encouragement in the business situation, and says that "sustained recovery in business as a whole has not yet started." The menace of continued wage cuts still hangs over both business and the workers, and figures are given to indicate a larger number of unemployed than last month. "To cut costs, manufacturers are increasing labor-saving devices," which in turn toss more workers into the jobless army.

To relieve the unemployment situation the survey stresses the shorter work week, insured jobs, creation of work, and adequate relief funds.

Wage reductions are deplored both for the decreased standard of living imposed on the workers and the lack of any real saving for the employers. "Loss in morale nullifies much if not all of the saving made by the wage cut," the survey says.

The survey approves the action of the United States Steel corporation in cutting dividends and salaries instead of wages and the Bethlehem Steel corporation in cutting dividends and letting wages stand. "It is the part of wisdom to let those carry the burden who are best able to bear it. Wage-earners have already taken heavy losses. Salaried employes have suffered less for they are less subject to short time and unemployment."

The survey stresses the influence of high wages and salaries on business by government figures on sales of retail stores in relation to individual incomes. "A comparison of workers' incomes and sales of retail stores shows that low workers' incomes mean poor business," the survey says. "States where workers had less than $1,000 a year sold an average of only $230 worth of goods per person per year. In states where workers receive over $1,500, retail business averaged $500 per person.

"If workers' incomes continue for the full year of 1931 at about the same level as the first half, they will lose $10,500,000,000 from the 1920 level. Allowing for changes in living costs their real buying power will be $9,000,000,000. Retail stores and landlords will lose this business. If wages are cut they will lose more."

Painters' Families and Friends Chase Glooms for a Day

Annual Barbecue-Picnic Enjoyed by Fifteen Hundred at Lake Winnepesaukah.

Union painters, their families and friends routed the glooms for one whole day last Thursday, and the joys returned for at least a one-day's visit at Lake Winnepesaukah, where the ninth annual picnic-barbecue of the local was held.

Some fifteen hundred people, men, women and children, enjoyed the program, which began at 10 a.m., and lasted throughout the day. The popular athletic contests had many entries, real prizes donated by local merchants bringing keen competition in each event. These games were so arranged as to offer opportunities to those of all ages to compete, and the happy throngs attested their pleasure through loud applause of the winners.

The barbecue, served at noon under the direction of "Zeke" Witt, was declared by many to be the most delicious which the old-timer has ever prepared, and that's covering lots of territory.

Committees on arrangements, every member of which labored long and hard to make the affair successful, were as follows:

General Committee—J. J. Smith, chairman; Charles Milford, A. L. Surrett, Frank Miller, Joe Jett.

Purchasing Committee—A. L. Surrett, chairman; R. J. Hogue, W. D. Canada, W. A. Witt.

Entertainment Committee—E. L. Blair, chairman; P. P. Thurston, George Sivley, Sr., J. G. Burkes, Paul Sanders.

Refreshment Committee — Charles Milford, chairman; George Sivley, Jr., George Harrison.

Ticket Sales Committee—Joe Farmer, Frank Thurston, Charles Milford, Joe Bork, George "Skinny" Witt.

Barbecue Committee—W. A. "Zeke" Witt, chairman; Fred Bodine, R. L. Keith, Jess Smith, F. S. Thurston, Skinny Witt, Homer Tarwater, A. G. Springer, Jr., A. T. Jones, H. M. Ottman, Joe Farmer, O. C. Mabee.

400 Strikes Against Wage Cuts Reported

Washington.—The U. S. labor department's division of conciliation is seeking to adjust eighty-six disputes in eighteen states, incolving 67,387 workers, of whom 56,425 are affected directly.

Within a few months over 400 strikes and controversies have been reported to the department and practically all of them against wage reductions.

During the entire year 1930 the department listed 653 disputes involving 158,114 workers, while during the first six months of 1931 there have been 447 disputes affecting 132,273 workers.

Molders Report Roper Gas Range Is "Most Unfair"

Ask Central Body to Inform Local Gas Company of Product's Status.

Roper gas ranges, sold in this city by the Chattanooga gas company, are a "most unfair product," according to a communication read Monday night at Central Body, from officers of Local 53, Iron Molders, and the body's executive board was requested to wait upon the management of the local gas company and inform them of the status of the concern which manufactures the stove. It was also requested that the committee inform the management of the Chattanooga Gas company that any other gas range would be more satisfactory to local trades unionists.

The committee, complying with the Molders' request, was scheduled to carry out the provisions of the letter some time this week. The communication, which was thoroughly explained by delegates from Local 53 Monday night, follows:

August 10, 1931.

To the Chattanooga Trades and Labor council:

At our last meeting of the I. M. U. No. 53 it was brought to our attention by International Vice-President Sampels that the Roper gas range is a most unfair product. He requested that this matter be brought to the Central Body and that the executive body be instructed to wait upon the management of the gas company and inform them that this firm is on the unfair list and also inform the gas company that any gas stove other than the Roper will be satisfactory to us.

With best wishes, I remain,

Fraternally yours,
JAMES O'CONNOR,
Corresponding Secretary.

Insurance at Cost Furnished by Union

Cleveland, Ohio.—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has increased its rates on life insurance for its members $2 per thousand dolars of insurance carried. The beneficiary assessment plan is used. Policies are written from $700 to $5,000, with the cost per month running from 95 cents for $700 to $6.70 for $5,000.

"The Brotherhood insurance and pension plans are written at cost," declares the Railroad Trainman. "They are free from the burden of high salaries, spacious and expensive offices, bonuses, etc., and are not required to pay dividends on watered stock."

CENTRAL BODY COMPLIMENTED BY PAUL AYMON

Federation Official Commends Wage-Cuts Fight.

BRANDS CAMPAIGN AS OUTRAGEOUS

Blames Horton Administration for Present Difficulties State Government.

Local trades unionists were highly complimented Monday night by Paul J. Aymon, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, for their activities against the wage-cutting program of the county judge and the Chattanooga News, and Mr. Aymon declared the eyes of the entire south were on Chattanooga, awaiting the outcome of the movement.

The federation president, who is also representative of the American Federation of Labor, branded the program for slashing the wages of public employes as outrageous, and declared that should it succeed the road would be made rougher for those engaged in private industry. Furthermore, he declared the effort to compel certain public employes to pay an enormous tax from their pay envelopes, to relieve the large taxpayers of a few cents a year, was grave injustice to them, and should have been strongly opposed as a matter of principle. He commended Clerks Clark and Rogers and Sheriff Taylor for their firm stand, and expressed the conviction that labor in general should appreciate the efforts of these public officials to balk the scheme.

MAKES REPORT ON STATE AFFAIRS.

Discussing the present state financial predicament, Mr. Aymon laid the blame at the doors of the Horton administration, and went into considerable detail in relating his experiences in co-operation with the labor legislative representatives at Nashville. He declared his doubts that a special session of the legislature would be held, and stated his belief that fear of a resurrection of impeachment charges would prevent the calling of such session by the governor.

Mr. Aymon said that, in spite of the depression, organized labor is holding its own in the sections which he has visited throughout the south, and predicted that with a return of prosperity the American labor movement will be the beneficiary of a wave of organization greater than we have ever dreamed of.

The federation official left Tuesday morning for Nashville.

REAPPOINTED

GEORGE D. LAWS

George D. Laws, assistant city plumbing inspector for the past three years, has been reappointed to that position by Commissioner Zach Taylor.

Mr. Laws has been a continuous member of Local 63, Plumbers and Steamfitters, for twenty-one years, and during that time has served his union in many capacities. He was president of the local five consecutive terms, and has at various times filled every office in the gift of his fellow members with the exception of financial secretary, including one year as business agent. George was also selected to represent Local 63 at the international convention of his union at Atlantic City in 1924. He is assistant to John T. Cotter, another member of the plumbers' local, who was recently reappointed after sixteen years' service to the city.

Reduce Dividends, Hold Wages, Says Industrial Efficiency Expert

New York, Aug. 13.—Prosperity will come to America at once if all manufacturers were to adopt the wages policy of the directors of the United States Steel corporation when they decided to cut dividends rather than wages, is the opinion of Douglas S. Keogh, president of the Charles E. Bedaux company, of New York, a concern which specializes in industrial efficiency systems.

"News of the steel corporation's decision may cause an unfavorable reaction in some quarters," said Mr. Keogh, "but it will certainly win the unqualified approval of labor everywhere and of the management in a great many industrial plants which have struggled to maintain wage scales even at the cost of reduced stockholders' dividends and lower executive salaries.

"The decision tacitly adopts the economic policy which recognizes that the wage-earning class comprises the bulk of the nation's purchasing power. Under this policy, any curtailment of the purchasing power of the wage-earners inevitably results in shrinking the consumer-market for all the products of this mass production age we live in.

"Management in many industries has been fighting the battle of the wage-earner, and in doing so has resisted strong pressure on the part of stockholders. The temptation to weaken and cut wages in order to curry the favor of stockholders has been strong. The action of the directors of the steel corporation therefore establishes a precedent in a key industry, which lends to the management of smaller industries some much-needed moral support.

"If stockholders in all our industries will consent to accept smaller dividends on their invested capital, and thus make possible the fullest employment of our wage-earning class at the best rates industry can afford to pay, then the depression will be short lived and America will soon find itself on the high road to prosperity."

Union Painters Pay Tribute to Departed Brother

Resolution Deplores Passing of George E. Venable and Offers Its Sympathy.

Resolutions recounting the worth of George E. Venable, veteran member of Local 226, Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, and expressing heartfelt sympathy to his surviving relatives, were prepared by a committee named by President Smith at last regular session of the local. Mr. Venable, who had been a long-time and honored member of the craft union, passed away July 26. The esteem in which Mr. Venable was held by his fellow-workers was expressed as follows:

"Whereas, on Sunday, July 26, 1931, Brother George E. Venable was taken from this life to the life everlasting; and,

"Whereas, Brother Venable was a loyal and conscientious member of this local union for some twenty years, giving freely of his time and talents to the upbuilding thereof; he enjoyed the love and respect of every member of this union, and his fellowship will be missed by one and all; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we deplore the taking away of this good brother, and extend to his surviving relatives our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in their hour of sorrow; be it further

"Resolved, That copies of this resolution be spread upon our minutes, sent the family of Brother Venable, and The Labor World for publication.

"H. MORRISON,
"FRANK MILLER,
"GEORGE SIVLEY, JR.,
"Committee."

Secretary Doak Labor Day Guest At Johnson City

Address of Cabinet Officer to Feature Celebration—Local Unionists Invited.

Hon. William N. Doak, secretary of labor in the cabinet of President Hoover, will feature a monster Labor day celebration at Johnson City, and Chattanooga trades unionists have been issued a cordial invitation to attend the ceremonies.

In a letter from J. B. Holcombe, president of the Johnson City Central Labor union, read by Secretary Gerlach at Monday night's session of Central Body, Mr. Holcombe declares the event will be "by far the outstanding celebration of the south," and urges that a large delegation from Chattanooga attend. It will be combined with the formal opening of the Appalachian Tri-State fair, and "from 9 a.m. to 12 midnight" will offer a fine program of entertainment.

The time-honored Labor day parade through the downtown section is scheduled as a noon-day feature, and aside from the address of Secretary Doak at 3 p.m., an outstanding national labor official is scheduled to speak at night.

President Holcombe's letter follows:

"As president of the Central Labor council of Johnson City and as chairman of the Labor day program committee I want to extend to you and all members of your organization an urgent invitation to be with us here at Johnson City on the day and night of Monday, Sept. 7. The Labor day celebration which will be held here will be by far the outstanding celebration of the entire south. It will start at noon and end at midnight.

"We have been highly honored by Hon. William N. Doak, secretary of labor in the cabinet of President Hoover, who has accepted the invitation extended him to be the guest of honor and the principal speaker at this celebration.

"Secretary Doak will deliver an address at 3 in the afternoon, and in view of his official position and the fact that the Labor day address of the secretary of labor is always an event of national importance, we feel sure you will be highly interested. This year, in view of general conditions, his remarks will be of paramount interest. At night another speaking program will be given, at which time one of the outstanding labor leaders of the country will deliver an address. We have extended invitations to several of the biggest men in the country and expect within a few days to have the definite acceptance needed before we can officially announce the evening speaker. This makes a double program.

"The celebration is being combined with the opening day of the Appalachian Tri-State fair and will be held at the fair grounds. Owing to the fact that Secretary Doak is a native of this region a big home-coming is also being combined with the other two events, so as to make this a tremendous celebration.

"We hope you can arrange for a large delegation to be present and to have a unit in the parade.

"Hoping to hear from you at an early date, I am,

"Fraternally yours,
"J. B. HOLCOMBE,
"President Central Labor Union."

Cost-of-Living Wages Denounced by Doak

Washington.—The theory that wages should be based on what it costs the worker to live is denounced as utterly unjust by Secretary of Labor Doak.

"The argument is made that the cost of living is falling and that real wages have therefore increased," said Doak. "The argument might apply if we had ever in this country applied a fair division of income to labor, but there is more to the question of wages than what a man can eat and what he needs to clothe himself.

"Labor is entitled to more than a bare subsistence. The employe's productivity has increased many fold, several hundred per cent in many industries. He is entitled to retain a portion of the gains thus made. All the gains should not go to the profits of industry."

MINE OWNERS RESPONSIBLE FOR DISORDERS

Operators Declared to Be "Playing With Fire."

RED ACTIVITIES SEEN AS MENACE

Garrison Reviews Terrible Conditions in American Coal Mining Camps.

By C. S. GARRISON.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 13.—Riots and disorders engineered by communists in various soft coal districts, especially in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, have focused the attention of the country on coal operators of those states, who have been playing with fire these many months and thereby endangering their own industry.

The killing and wounding of scores of persons in these riots; the attempted murder of Patrick Fagan, president of the Pittsburgh district of the United Mine Workers; sabotage and the disruption of business in many communities, as a result of the National Miners' union (strictly a communist outfit) has caused newspapers in these districts to call on the United Mine Workers to save the situation by organizing the miners as they were once organized.

Touching on the situation in Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said editorially: "From the outset the United Mine Workers of America have been commended for the orderly manner in which they have been seeking to re-establish their organization in this district. At the same time a tolerant attitude was shown toward the radical element of the miners with protests against any show of abuse of official authority in dealing with them . . . The disposition of the public to be fair has been abused. Tolerance has been mistaken for weakness . . . Murder and inciting to riot must be treated for what they are. Pure hoodlumism must be smashed. There can be no tolerance of a condition in which human beings are waylaid and shot down as if they were animals."

Reds Bar Lewis Speech.

At West Frankfort, Ill., a howling mob of so-called radicals refused to permit President Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, to speak, although he stood facing the hostile crowd for more than an hour. A communist organizer and agitator had been in West Frankfort for several weeks and the un-American demonstration was carried out in true communistic fashion.

Union officials of the mine workers point out that if the nonunion coal operators have any foresight whatever they will learn a sound lesson from these riots and disorders. The United Mine Workers' Journal charges the nonunion coal companies of the Pittsburgh field with being "directly responsible for what happens at Cannonsburg." The Journal says that "communism in the Pittsburgh district is their baby," and declares the operators by refusing the workers the right to organize, by their policy of wage reductions which reduce the men to a state of poverty and starvation; by the destruction of all decent working conditions; by the importation of thousands of strikebreakers, "have encouraged and promoted the spread of communism in their district."

Organization Work Pushed.

Meanwhile the work of organizing the miners in the various districts goes on. Oklahoma and Arkansas, which have been disorganized for years, caught the fever of organization and progress is being made in these states to bring the miners back into the union fold. David Fowler, international representative of the United Mine Workers, who has been in these fields for some time, reports a substantial movement in both states. Mass meetings at strategic points are being held weekly, although the soup lines have been in evidence for months among the miners who, even though they work occasionally, receive such small wages they are not enabled to keep their families from public charity.

In West Virginia Van A. Bittner, international representative of the miners, turned up a letter written by W. S. Nieson, superintendent of the West Virginia Coal and Coke corporation, addressed to A. R. Hewitt, TWELVE—LABOR WORLD general foreman of these mines at Junior, W. Va., in which Nieson informed Hewitt of an injunction obtained by the company in 1922, and that machine guns mounted on the company property should be used against the miners if they "stepped over the company's premises." Bittner, in a letter to Nieson, lashed him for his murderous intent and said copies of the letter had been sent to the Secretary of Labor and to the superintendent of the West Virginia state police.

Terrible Conditions Found.

Conditions in the mine fields around Wheeling, W. Va., were investigated by a committee of citizens of that city who found the situation terrible,

(Continued on Last Page)

Green Demands That Hoover Call Jobless Parley; Shorter Week Urged to Give Work to Unemployed

(By International Labor News Service.)

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 13.—President Hoover should either call a national industrial conference in an effort to remedy employment conditions or admit "the present economic structure of the country is an absolute failure," declared William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address to the convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor.

Green stated that labor's remedy for the jobless situation includes the five-day week, maintenance of present wage scales, and generous expenditure of government funds for public works.

He stressed the possibility of a rebellion of the army of unemployed, upsetting the political system of the nation, unless industry and government co-operate with labor.

"Are we going to make it necessary for workers to raid stores because their children are starving?" Green asked. "Can the financiers and wealthy feel secure in their homes when millions are hungry?"

If the five-day week does not distribute work so that every man shall have his share, Green said, the work week should be reduced to four days and three days if necessary.

Green said he disagreed with the belief of some persons that the government owes the jobless workers a living, but he was emphatic in his position that President Hoover should intervene in the deplorable plight of the jobless by summoning a national conference to consider the question.

He declared that "the one person clothed with ability to speak for the 120,000,000 people of this nation" should call a conference of industry and labor to deal with the unemployment problem. President Hoover, he said, should command the leaders of industry to join with him in a study and the formation of plans for overcoming the situation. If President Hoover does not do this, he should admit "the present economic structure of the country is an absolute failure."

"Organized labor will tell industry at a conference in Washington how to do it if they do not know themselves how to do it," Green said with reference to remedies for unemployment.

"While 6,000,000 are idle there are still between 20,000,000 and 40,000,000 employed," he continued. "But the man who is idle can't buy. Six millions purchasing units out of the consuming capacity is bound to have its effects, and the other 20,000,000 or more refuse to buy to their maximum capacity because of fear that they themselves may be idle tomorrow.

"Six million out of the market because they cannot buy and 20,000,000 because they will not is the situation. We can make these 20,000,000 purchase if their employers tell them that no matter what happens they are secure in their jobs. If the employers do that then these 20,000,000 people will go to the markets."

THE LABOR WORLD
810 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY
Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council
R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 14, 1931.

PEACEFUL DREAMS

Down the vale of life I'm passing,
Dreaming dreams of sweet delight,
When sweet love will soon be ruling,
Making all the world seem bright;
When greed's selfishness will vanish,
And our souls will be content
To enjoy the many blessings
Which our Heavenly Father sent.

Then sweet peace and love will rule us,
Filling us with happiness,
So each day we'll be rejoicing
That our lives the Lord will bless.
Hasten now the joyous coming
Of the brighter day to be,
When good selfishness will vanish
And more happiness we'll see.

When the Golden Rule we're living,
How united we shall find,
And sweet peace and joy be theirs taking
The contented, happy mind;
For the joy of righteous living
Will drive trouble quite away,
Then will come the blessed dawning
Of a brighter, joy-filled day.

—Martha Shepard Lippincott.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—How did strikes in 1930 compare in number with those in previous years?

A.—Not since 1916 was the number smaller than it was in 1930 (with the exception of 1924), but the number of workers involved was the lowest of any year on record, the United States bureau of labor statistics says.

* * *

Q.—What were the first labor papers published in Canada?

A.—"Ontario Workman," brought out by Toronto printers during the nine-hour strike of 1872 and continued as a weekly for three years. "Trades Journal," official organ of Provincial Workmen's Association of Nova Scotia, began publication in 1883 and continued for many years.

What Next!

Discovery is announced of a method of producing a copper alloy harder and of greater tensile strength than that of steel. The process, developed in the laboratories of the Montana School of Mines, involves the addition of nickel and silicon to copper and subjecting the alloy to heat treatment. It is reported that the metal has a tensile strength of more than 100,000 pounds to the square inch and is one and one-quarter times harder than structural steel.

Hosiery Mill Strikers Seek Sheriff Election

Stroudsburg, Pa.—Mammoth Hosiery mill strikers have nominated their own candidate, Ezra "Pete" Kunkle, for county sheriff against a strike-breaking county detective. The strike was declared last February after seventeen union members had been dismissed. Since then the officials of Monroe county have harassed the strikers with wholesale arrests, victimization for picketing and court injunctions. Judge Samuel K. Shull, author of the "Don't even breathe" injunction, recently sent Kunkle to jail for thirty days for contempt of court.

PAINS QUIT COMING

"When I was a girl, I suffered periodically with terrible pains in my back and sides. Often I would bend almost double with the intense pain. This would last for hours and I could get no relief.

"I tried almost everything that was recommended to me, but found nothing that would help until I began taking Cardui. My mother thought it would be good for me, so she got a bottle of Cardui and started me taking it. I soon improved. The bad spells quit coming. I was soon in normal health."

—Mrs. Jewel Harris, Winnsboro, Texas.

Sold At All Drug Stores. B-178

CARDUI
Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

LABOR SCORES AGAIN.

Score another for labor's case against blundering management and high finance.

"We've got to devise a way of protecting the wage-earning consumer against these fluctuations of over-supply and under-demand or he'll seek a way of his own."

So writes Leon Kelley, secretary of Fishler, Farnsworth & Co., in Printers' Ink Monthly, taking for his text one of Roy Dickinson's twelve points for management, promulgated in the pages of the same magazine for April.

* * *

Kelley lands hard. He says the reactionaries do not realize "how much their own position has changed." The "new executive," Kelly thinks, is of a new breed, actually understanding that if the economic order is to work at all it must work to the advantage of all. Hear him say:

"The best informed men of this new school are reviewing the last quarter-century along the following lines:

"'We established a high American standard of living for the consumer. We supplied him with wages sufficient to enjoy that standard. We took back his wages selling him our wares up to the hilt. We went even further and financed his purchases against wages as yet unpaid. We turned the wheeling of trade at high pressure. The result we called prosperity. On the other hand we encouraged our engineers to produce more at less cost, and faster. Soon these clever fellows, the engineers, were producing more than we needed. So, naturally, the production line had to slow up, and that deprived the consumer of a large part of the wages he was earning, in turn depriving us of customers."

* * *

Mr. Kelly says the "new" executives see that this is all wrong—as, of course, it is.

It will never be right unless and until management ceases to be a dictatorial function. It will never be right unless and until there is machinery that permits democratic expression effectively, so that ten men cannot say to ten thousand, "that for you."

The faster and the more fully organized labor comes to play its full and proper role, the sooner we shall be on the road to no more depressions.

Autocratic control of industry has convicted itself enough.

TEXTILE IGNORANCE.

The "Southern Textile Worker," which probably is entirely in harmony with what a reader of The Labor World calls "an orgy of wage cutting" at Union S. C., makes the ridiculous assertion that neither the American Federation of Labor nor the United Textile Workers protested against communism until the red National Textile union was formed. The truth is, as trade unionists know, that the whole American labor movement has fought communism and communists from the very outset and wrote into its original philosophy the principles that put trade unionism and communism at opposite poles in the social structure.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

WE HAVE now reached the point in our study of the history of labor unions where we leave the scenes of England and take up the thread of the story in the American colonies. Our reason for going back to colonial America to begin our studies of American labor is in order that our survey of the subject might be full and complete. Before the Revolutionary war all labor organizations in the colonies were limited to the skilled crafts, Boston as early as 1648 boasting guilds composed of coopers and shoemakers, embracing both masters and apprentices as members. The city of New York had similar organizations, as did also Philadelphia and Baltimore. Yet we must not for one moment either think or speak of these infant labor organizations as "trade unions," at least not in the present day use of the term. Such they were certainly not. "There are no traces," says Richard T. Ely in his "The Labor Movement in America (1905)," of anything like a modern trades union in the colonial period of American history, and it is evident on reflection that there was little need, if any, of organization on the part of labor at that time."

The Revolutionary war brought an increase in wages and immediately following the war a restive spirit took hold of American laborers. As a result many labor organizations, or as they were then called, "friendly societies," sprang into existence. England is erroneously called the home of "trades unionism," but the credit really goes to Philadelphia. True, a trades union was organized in Manchester, England, in 1829, but the first one in America was the "Mechanics' Union of Trade Associations," which was organized in the city of Philadelphia just two years earlier, or in 1827. In other words, the idea did come from England, but was actually brought into existence in America.

MEXICO BANS IMMIGRATION.

Mexico City.—The interior department announces that the immigration of laborers will be suspended indefinitely on Sept. 15 as a means of solving the Mexican unemployment problem. The ban will not apply to skilled tradesmen and workers from countries with which Mexico has immigration agreements.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

JESUS AND MONEY
"Ye Cannot Serve God and Mammon"
Part XXXVIII.
THE PARABLE OF THE TALENTS
Mt. 25:14-30

It is most fitting, although the writer did not plan such to be the case, that this present series of articles on Jesus and money should close with the Parable of the Talents from the 25th chapter of Matthew. The parable itself has this one meaning: God has put us here on earth, given us the world in which to live, and so long as we live we ought to make life productive. Since the parable is too long to quote in full the writer trusts those interested will read it in the original wording in their Bible. A rich man on the eve of taking a long journey calls his servants before him and to one he gives five talents, to another two and to the third he gives one. When he returns the servant who had received five talents hands over to his master ten talents; the servant who had been given two talents likewise doubles his talents and is able to return four talents, but the servant who had received one talent hides it while his master is away and when he returns the servant hands him the one talent. The servants who doubled their talents received the untinted praise of their master, while the one who had digged a hole and hid his master's one talent and therefore was unable to increase it pulls down upon his head the condemnation of his master.

WM. L. MOSS

The parable as Jesus relates it does not place any intrinsic value on the talents as such, nor does it commend what we call good business sense, neither does it teach anything concerning the good or evil of wealth as wealth. It teaches only one thing, namely, the duty of fidelity, watchfulness and foresight in administering to a productive rather than an unproductive end the things, whether they be money, time, our natural talents, our mind, our body, etc., God has given us. The keynote of the whole parable is contained in the words of Jesus spoken on another occasion, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant!" In the Parable of the Talents money is merely used by Jesus because it is an article readily lending itself to illustrate perfectly the thought He has in mind, since money is not only a common thing known to all, but its use in a parable leaves no doubt in one's mind as to what any speaker would mean by increasing what God has given us to the end that we become His productive children. The increase must be actual—just as money is increased, one coin added to another thereby making two coins—and not an increase on paper nor a contemplated increase in our minds nor a wished-for increase that we would bring about had we the time, etc. The increase MUST be seen—it must be an actual fact. The manner in which we increase our money is, therefore, a most apt illustration of this and Jesus uses the administration of wealth as the central thought by which the parable is made clear for no other reason. Jesus commends the wise use of possessions—not only of money but of all things we possess—and announces in the parable a law of distribution which not only applies to money, but to all things in our lives. "Unto every one that hath shall be given," Jesus says elsewhere, "but from him that hath not" (because he has not made the best possible use of the life God gave him) "even that which he hath shall be taken away." The Parable of the Talents puts things on a rock-bottom basis—make the most of what you have, no matter what it is, or you have miserably failed to do what your Creator intended for you to do with the life He gave you. Jesus means life is NOT a question of your relationship with your fellowmen, but the use you make of life is something for which you are answerable to God and God alone. No wonder Jesus has been hated, scorned, sneered at and ignored by self-willed folk!

THE END

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

In much older times kings could send armies to death. The will of one man held supreme sway over many thousands. We look back on these old days and think we do things much better.

Henry Ford has announced that very shortly he will shut down his great plant. He decides, all by himself, whether there shall be work or not and thousands take the consequences.

Because we still have in industry the autocracy we formerly had in political affairs, industrial emperors hold unlimited sway over the lives and fortunes of thousands.

The other day other thousands held their breath while a handful of men decided whether or not wages would be cut for the employes of the United States Steel corporation.

Picture a herald coming to the door at the close of the deliberation and signaling "thumbs up." That is about what it amounted to. It could as easily have been "thumbs down."

* * *

It was different in Chicago when wages of elevated railway employes were in question. Representatives of workers and employers sat down together and deliberated.

At the end of those negotiations everybody came out and signaled "thumbs up" for both sides.

In Steel there was an order. In Chicago there was an agreement.

Of course the emperors and the satrap don't want any change. The oligarchies want things to remain as they are.

But the human race needs a little more of the business of democratic conduct in these things.

"No wage fixing without representation" is as good as "no taxation without representation" and the principle is about the same in both cases.

* * *

Does anybody doubt that the coal industry would be in better shape if the mine owners, instead of opposing organization, had worked with the United Mine Workers, urging a constant development of interest in common problems, encouraging co-operation and the assumption of responsibility?

To call those men "mine operators" is a good deal of a joke just now. They are mine owners, but a whole lot of them are operating nothing. Many of them haven't much in their heads but an ache and they don't know what caused it.

* * *

It has taken a long time to explode the myth about Henry Ford. At last it has come out that he is no wizard. There is nothing super-human about him. He has certain high capabilities relating to automobile production, but he has shown that he is not fit to rule people.

No man is.

People have got to learn how to govern themselves—how to protect themselves. The first step toward that goal is organization.

How can any wage-earner observe the Ford plant in comparison with a well unionized industry, like the Chicago elevated lines, and remain a non-union man?

The non-union man really forfeits his citizenship rights in industry!

Think!

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

The darkest spot on the North American continent from the combined standpoint of wages, literacy, working conditions and living standards are the coal fields of the United States.

* * *

Miners, in view of their economic distress the year round, are on a plane with the peons of Mexico and Europe.

* * *

Because of extreme industrial oppression the miners' lack of liberty parallels that of the blacks of the Kimberly diamond mines.

* * *

Seasonal employment and the baronial attitude of coal magnates have chiseled never-to-be-effaced lines on the faces of the miners as well as on the faces of their wives and children.

* * *

Miners' children grow up knowing more about hunger than they do about a well-fed feeling.

* * *

It can never be said slavery does not exist in the United States so long as the present conditions go unchanged in the coal mining districts.

* * *

American coal mines—a shadow of hell itself, a cancer on the breast of Miss Liberty, a mocking sneer at American ideals, and a refutation of every syllable of the Constitution of the United States.

The UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD are the hall marks of UNION GOODS or SERVICE.

Success and progress are the by-products of consistency. Demand the UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD.

Railway Conductors Change Life Insurance

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—The Order of Railway Conductors of America has discontinued its assessment plan of life insurance in operation since 1868, and established the legal reserve system. Under the new system the members of the order get their life insurance at much lower premiums than those required by the privately owned companies.

Insurance is written for conductors from 20 to 65 years. On a policy of $2,000, for a man 20 years old, the annual premium written by the conductors is $28.90 as compared with the average of $34.66 charged by the privately owned companies, and for a conductor 65 years old $130.44 compared with $190.66.

Labor-Saving Machines Strike Lithographers

New York.—"Labor-saving machines and new methods have permanently reduced the opportunity of steady employment for a large percentage of hand transferrers and litho stone engravers," declared Robert Bruck, first vice-president of the Amalgamated Lithographers of America. "We should give most serious attention to prevention of new apprentices in both branches.

"The worker today is more concerned with assurance of steady employment at a wage allowing him a good standard of living than all the social legislation that has been proposed.

"It is true we are interested in old-age pensions and other necessary benefits, but steady employment will always be the goal of the workman. It is possible and will be realized whenever apprenticeship ratio is properly adjusted, hours of labor reduced and ruinous price cutting practices eliminated."

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

INDIGESTION

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest.

"I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted.

"Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."
—Clyde Vaughn, 10 Shippy St., Greenville, S. C.

Sold in 25¢ packages. B-173

Thedford's
BLACK-DRAUGHT
WOMEN who are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

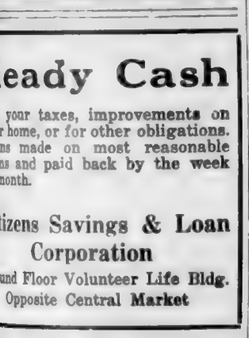
"PUT YOUR LIFE IN BISHOP'S HANDS"
Volunteer State Life Insurance Company
J. W. Bishop, Mgr. Home Office Agcy
ASSOCIATES
E. E. WALLACE — W. E. WEBER
E. A. PARK — C. W. BRADLEY
E. E. FLUKER — J. J. HARRISON
E. W. RAWLINGS — RAY SEAGLE
E. L. WALTERS — H. M. JUDD
E. L. BROOKING — J. H. JARVIS
R. S. WITT
MISS MAGGIE LYNN PEEPLES
H. W. RAY, WINCHESTER, TENN.

COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Honest Weight — Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

Ready Cash
For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.
Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street
We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right
OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

B L & K R
...ds Digestion, Stimulates Liver and ...dney Action; also fine as Tonic. No ...me should be without it. Quick, ...fe, Sure.



TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PREMIER CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

If you haven't made your will and are weighted down with Hoover prosperity, you may find some suggestion worth following in the will said to have been left recently by a certain merchant.

"My overdraft at the bank," it recited, "will go to my wife, she can explain it to them. My equity in my automobile I want to go to my son. He will then have to go to work to keep up the payments. Give my good will to the supply house. They took some awful chances on me, and are entitled to something. My equipment, give to the junk man; he has had his eye on it for several years. And I want six of my creditors for pallbearers. They have carried me so long, they might as well finish the job."

* * *

Sergeant (at police station)—What! You back again?

Prisoner—Yes, sir! Any letters?

* * *

Harry—They say stupidity can be inherited.

Gertrude—That's no way to talk about your parents.

* * *

Doctor (inquiring after boy who had swallowed a half dollar)—How is the boy today?

Anxious Mother—No change yet.

* * *

James—Papa, I ain't got no butter.

Papa—John, correct your brother.

John (looking over at James' plate)—Yes, you is.

* * *

A wit heard some people mention the name of a doctor who charged $10 for the first visit and $5 for the second. He went to see him and upon entering his office greeted him very effusively and said:

Wit—I am very glad to see you again, doctor. Can you give me another treatment?

The doctor could not remember whether or not he had seen the man before, so when the wit asked him what sort of medicine he should take, the doctor replied:

Doctor—The same that I prescribed for you the first time. Five dollars, please.

* * *

A rack full of neckties always gives us the impression that the designers have an idea all men leave the choosing of their neckties to their wives. . . . Another court has decided that a husband has the right to open his wife's letters. Most of us, however, will continue to ask permission first. . . . To most folks a sign "do not tamper with this" reads like an invitation. . . . Even if Einstein proves his theory of relativity we wonder what he is going to do with it?

* * *

Jimmy—I know why mosquitoes bite you more than they do other people.

Father—Why, son?

Jimmy—Cause you have high blood pressure and they don't have to suck so hard.

The reporter was sent to write up a charity ball. Next day the editor called him to his desk.

Editor—Look here, Scribbler, what do you mean by this? "Among the most beautiful girls was Horatio Dingley." Why, you crazy idiot! Old Dingley isn't a girl—and besides he is one of our largest stockholders.

Scribbler—I can't help it. That's where he was.

* * *

Character is what we stand for; reputation is what we fall for. . . . We know a girl so dumb she was fired from Woolworth's (not adv.) because she couldn't remember the prices. . . . Judging from the court records a lot of men met up with their wives when Central gave them the wrong number. . . . Every once in a while the boy who received all the best grades in school surprises folks by succeeding after he leaves school. . . . A Scotchman was having trouble with his eyes so went to the oculist one day to see what the trouble was. The oculist told him he had sugar in his tears, and the next morning his wife found him crying over his cereal. . . . A tax is about the only thing in the world that can go up and never come down. . . . This wouldn't be a half bad country if all the grafting were left to the horticulturists.

* * *

Nothing "half-baked" about this idea, sniggers H. F. B.

Mrs. Newlywed—We hadn't been married a week when he hit me with a piece of sponge cake.

Judge—Disorderly conduct. Five dollars and costs.

Mrs. Newlywed (sobbing bitterly)—And I made the cake with my own hands.

Judge—Assault with a deadly weapon—one year in prison.

* * *

What Do You Think?

Dear Cy: I've heard that some husbands think their wives are regular animals. Maybe these are some of the reasons:

1. She has a foxy look on her face.
2. She is a regular little monkey.
3. She is a "white elephant."
4. She is a regular old bear when out of humor.
5. Some people think she is a cat.
6. She is a regular mule for stubbornness.
7. She has a swanlike neck.
8. Her canine teeth are prominent.
9. She is as wise as an old owl.
10. Her actions are kittenish when she is in the right humor.
11. She is a dear.
12. She occasionally looks sheepish.
13. She thinks she is the goat.
14. She keeps an eagle eye on him all the time.
15. She is a poor fish.
16. She has a whale of an appetite.
17. She growls at him and snaps his head off occasionally.
18. She laughs like a hyena.
19. She does a lot of crowing.

—A Reader of Your Column.

Labor-Saving Machine Benefits Should Go to Masses in Hours, Wages and Prices

Madison, Wis. Aug. 13.—"Labor-saving machinery should be developed, but the benefits therefrom should be passed on in shorter hours, higher pay and cheaper prices," declared J. F. Frederick, executive board member of the Wisconsin federation of labor, in an address on economic planning and unemployment before the three-day labor institute at the University of Wisconsin.

"Only when a system of production and distribution with the primary object of serving the people instead of making a profit has been adopted by the world will our economic machinery function in a proper manner and the question of unemployment be solved," Mr. Frederick said.

"Unequal distribution of the fruits of industry, with its increased profits, large dividends, huge surpluses, and decreased wages, has led to the over-development of many industrial plants which due to the development of labor-saving machinery are able to produce much more rapidly than the masses of the people are able to buy."

Among measures to meet the present unemployment emergency, Frederick urged the maintenance of wages for those still employed, but with a reduction of the hours of labor to spread employment over a large number of workers, nation-wide planning of production, and provision of work on national, state, and municipal government projects.

Government Contractor Charged With Violating Prevailing Wage Rate Law

Washington, Aug. 13.—A 20 per cent capital levy to furnish jobs for our 6,000,000 unemployed and more widely distribute the nation's wealth is advocated by Maj.-Gen. Amos A. Fries, retired chief of the army chemical warfare service, noted opponent of radicalism and communism.

General Fries said it was a "situation unparalleled in the history of the world" to have "millions of people on the ragged edge of the bread line and surrounded by an abundance of everything they need."

"We have simply fallen down on our job," he said, and if a remedy for it is not found, "our brains are not so good as we have claimed."

General Fries declared that the 6,000,000 persons out of work ought to have a productive capacity of $1,500 a year, which would mean a total of $9,000,000,000. "The nation by their idleness is losing that amount, and I ask if it is not worth while considering raising that sum by a tax on capital to put them to work."

"I think we have too great a concentration of wealth," General Fries continued. "Something is wrong with our thinking apparatus if we can have 6,000,000 out of work and hungry while the country has every resource for the greatest prosperity."

Communist Foe Demands Capital Levy For Jobless, Indicts Economic System

Washington, Aug. 13.—Trade union leaders here have filed a complaint with the U. S. department of labor charging that the contractor who has the contract to paint the huge internal revenue building is violating the federal prevailing wage law passed by the last congress.

This is one of the first major construction jobs of the federal government in Washington on which the labor department has been asked to render a decision as to what constitutes the prevailing scale of wages.

In this case trade union officials declare that the union wage scale is the prevailing wage. The non-union concern that has the contract claims that "open shop" wages are the prevailing rate.

The complaint charges the nonunion contractor with paying painters $5 to $7 a day against the union rate of $11. It is also charged that the contractor works his men 11 hours a day and sometimes seven days a week.

Cuba Will Deport Jobless Spaniards

Havana, Cuba.—The department of interior has ordered the national police to take a census of the jobless, including both immigrants and indigent Cubans. The government proposes to send jobless Spaniards, of which there are about 4,000, back to Spain at a cost of $120,000.

During the sugar season the plantation owners imported thousands of Hatians, Jamaicans and Dominicans to work in the cane fields. They are now penniless and without any prospect of work until the next grinding season, which will not start until January. Until that time the government will undertake to keep them from starving.

"Say it with Flowers"
Joy's
Joy Phone 6-7168
817 Market Street

NOTICE

CARS WASHED	50c
CARS GREASED	50c
CARS SIMONIZED	$3.50
DUCO POLISH	$2.00
PLAIN POLISH	$1.50

STORAGE RATES
Day 25c — Night 50c
Weekly $1.00 — Monthly $2.50

AUTO AND TRUCK REPAIRING
Day, Night or Sunday at No Extra Cost

All Work Guaranteed

8th St. Auto Laundry
308 W. 8th St. Phone 6-6932

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Commissioners of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, contemplate amending Ordinance No. 1843, known as the Zoning Ordinance, so as to rezone and change Lots Nos. 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22 of the Connor, Foust & Thompson addition to Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, in the old Third Civil district, now a part of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, as shown by Plat Book No. 6, page No. 11, in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, from a Residential District in Section 3 to District D of Section 4, so as to permit the erection of a residential apartment building on said property, but no business of any kind shall be, or is to be permitted on said described land or in any apartment building erected on said land.

The Board of Commissioners of Chattanooga, Tennessee, will have a hearing in the office of the Mayor on Tuesday, Aug. 25, 1931, at 3 o'clock p.m., to hear protests of any person whose property is affected by said amendment.

By order of the Board of Commissioners of the City of Chattanooga, Tennessee, this the 21st day of July, 1931.

JOHN C. HIBBETS, Auditor.

NOTICE TO PAVING CONTRACTORS

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 31, 1931.

Sealed proposals directed to the undersigned and marked on the outside of the envelope: "Bid for grading and paving of Ocoee street approach to the Wilcox tunnel," will be received by the board of highway commissioners of Hamilton county, Tennessee, at its office at the courthouse, Chattanooga, Tenn., until 10 a.m. Aug. 14, 1931, for the construction of five hundred (500) feet of paving on the Ocoee street approach to the Wilcox tunnel.

Blank proposal, contract and bond, together with plans and specifications, will be furnished applicant by the county engineer, courthouse, Chattanooga, Tenn., upon payment of $25.

The successful contractor will be required to execute an approved surety bond for 50 per cent of the contract as determined by the bids.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check or bidder's bond for 5 per cent. of the amount of the proposal, payable to T. S. Wilcox, chairman.

Bidders must furnish satisfactory evidence of their experience, ability and financial responsibility, together with a schedule of operations by which they agree to conduct the work.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids and waive any information in the bids received.

T. S. WILCOX, Chairman.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45604
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
I. W. King vs. Debbie Davis King

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Debbie Davis King is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 23d day of July, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C.

Thos. S. Myers, Atty. 8-21

"Let Us Say It with Flowers"
Joy's
Joy Phone 6-7168
817 Market Street

STOP!

You Will Miss the Opportunity of a Lifetime if You Fail to Take Advantage of the Unheard-of Bargains in House Furnishings at Sterchi's

Fire Sale!

Beginning Friday at 251 East Main St.

Just Think of Being Able to Purchase a

Living-Room, Dining-Room or Bedroom Suite for only

$19.95

(Other Items Priced Accordingly)

COME QUICKLY — IT WON'T LAST LONG!

REMEMBER THE PLACE

251 E. Main St.

STERCHI'S
QUALITY FURNITURE

BROAD ST., AT SEVENTH

251 EAST MAIN ST. — EAST CHATTANOOGA
EIGHTH ST. AT PINE — ROSSVILLE, GA.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned as Trustee by deed of trust executed the 7th day of May, 1930, by C. C. Goodwin and wife, Lizzie Goodwin, to secure a certain indebtedness, which said deed of trust is of record in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book X, Volume 24, page 606 et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions contained therein, and default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness at its maturity, and said default continuing, at the request of the holder of same, The Title Guaranty and Trust Company of Chattanooga, Trustee, will expose for sale to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, at the west door of the Courthouse on Walnut street, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton county, Tennessee, within the legal hours of sale on the following described real estate in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 29, 1931.

The south 30 feet of Lot No. 16, Block 7, P. & E. C. Foster's subdivision of Griffin's addition to the City of Chattanooga, as shown by map attached to deed registered in Book X, Volume 1, Page 1, of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, and more fully described as follows: Beginning at a point 30 feet south from the southeast corner of the intersection of East Eighth Street and University Street, formerly "E" Street; running thence eastwardly 50 feet; thence southwardly 30 feet to a 10-foot alley; thence westwardly 50 feet along said alley to University Street, formerly "E" Street; thence along said University Street to the point of beginning.

Said sale will be made subject to Seven Hundred Fifty and No/100 ($750.00) Dollars due the Administration and Trust Company, and to all taxes and assessments that are a lien due or unpaid.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This the 29th day of July, 1931.

THE TITLE GUARANTY & TRUST CO.
of Chattanooga, Trustee.
By W. S. Beck, President. 8-21

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45589
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Minnie Galloway vs. Charles Comer Galloway

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Charles Comer Galloway is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 21st day of July, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C.
F. L. Dixon, Atty. 8-14

It costs no more in effort or money to secure UNION GOODS and SERVICE, if you demand and insist on them.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45692
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Mae Wilkinson Curtis vs. Richard William Curtis

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Richard William Curtis is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45693
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Benjamin T. Wooten vs. Ida Wooten

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ida Wooten is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 4th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NOTICE OF SALE OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS AND WARES FOR STORAGE

Take notice, that on the 31st day of August 1931, at 10 a.m., the Main Street Transfer and Storage Company will, at its warehouse at 1512 Carr Street, City of Chattanooga, County of Hamilton, State of Tennessee, sell at public outcry to the highest bidder the following described articles, to-wit:

One lot of furniture, consisting of general household goods, and one piano, stored by C. H. Ware.

Said goods will be sold for storage charges accrued thereon and all other necessary expenses incurred in making said sale, and said sale will be made in accordance with Senate Bill No. 128 of the Acts of the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee of 1909, passed on February 12th, 1909, and approved on February 19th, entitled "An Act Creating a Lien in Favor of Warehousemen and Providing Means for Enforcing Same," which said act takes effect from and after its passage.

Said sale will be made at public outcery and for cash and the proceeds thereof applied as directed by said statute.

This the 13th day of August, 1931.

MAIN STREET TRANSFER & STORAGE CO.
By J. S. Lamb.

Special days for UNION LABEL agitation are good, but making every day a UNION LABEL day is much better.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45686
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Rosa Lee Setliffe vs. J. F. Setliffe

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that J. F. Setliffe is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Sweets & Bean, Attys. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45690
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Ruth Aitken vs. Roy Aitken

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Roy Aitken is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45691
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Matilda Griffin vs. Bride Griffin

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Bride Griffin is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.

Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

IF YOU WANT THE

BEST

FLOUR

MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co. Chattanooga

IN KEEPING with our policy of rendering the most distinctive service at the lowest possible price, we have recently completed arrangements that enable us to earn a greater saving in the purchase of funeral supplies—that of buying in carload quantities.

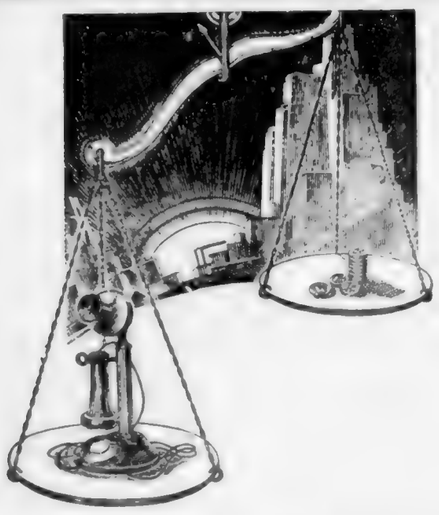
It has always been our policy to pass on to our patrons any extra discount we may obtain. That is why we are announcing a general reduction in all merchandise, together with the pricing of a complete funeral, thus eliminating any confusion as to details of cost.

We feel that this arrangement will be of great help to those in time of their bereavement.

R. J. Coulter Undertaking Co.

Funeral Home: 801 Vine St. Phone 6-6114

The South's Finest Ambulance



You get the most Value for the least Cost in Telephone service

Of all the things you buy there is none that gives so much for so little as telephone service.

Many times during the day or week or month, in the ordinary affairs of life and in emergencies you see evidence of the value of the telephone and realize the indispensable part it plays in every business and social activity.

Men transact a great part of their business over it. Women use it constantly to save steps and time in social and household duties. In an increasing number of ways, it adds to the comfort and security of family life.

Subscribers who look back over the month and consider what the telephone has meant to them are quick to appreciate its unequalled value and low price.

They realize that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE and Telegraph Company

(Incorporated)

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45701

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Eva Tucker vs. E. B. Tucker

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that E. B. Tucker is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 6th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

B. DUDA, D. C.

B. M. Fogo, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45558

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Grace Meyer vs. H. G. Meyer.

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that H. G. Meyer is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 11th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

J. H. Reddy, Atty. 9-4

ALONG MELODY LANE

By JOHNNY MAHONEY

Well, here's the ole column back from a vacation of two or three weeks. It seems that we are beginning just about the time two of our sources of news stop, namely, the Tivoli and Bijou.

* * *

It is rumored that two of the Troubadours, Bill Krug and Earl Van Arsdale, will go to Florida to continue their work of entertaining the deah public. Rumor has it that they will play on a Miami pier, but it would take a mighty good pier to hold up Bill and Earl when they get under way.

* * *

Ramon Pryor tells us that he thinks his year-old boy might make as good a musician as his father if he has the right training. Someone suggested that in this case he ought to be kept away from Frank Worthy.

* * *

Mr. Mom O'Neil, from Hixson, the Bijou and points east, has joined Jimmy Cox at Cloudland for the rest of the summer. Mr. O'Neil will eat, drink, swim and play saxophone with Mr. Cox.

* * *

We understand that George Ryerson is in Nashville, but no reports state that he is associating with Luke Lea or Henry Horton.

* * *

We wish to congratulate Uncle John Washburn on the opening of his new music store. We hope that he will extend credit to each and every member of the local.

* * *

Our last local meeting was postponed because of wet grounds. Watch for the next gathering around the first week of September.

* * *

We hear that Lloyd Wolfe has taken the fatal leap and gotten himself a wife. We wish to congratulate Lloyd and offer our sympathies to his wife.

WITH THE ELECTRICIANS

By E. E. CROSBY

Ed Carroll has been elected vice-president.

* * *

J. F. Kruge has returned and deposited his card with us again. He has been in Texas for the past two years.

* * *

Jude Lowery has been out of the city for the past week visiting in Georgia.

* * *

W. P. Howard is still on the sick list, but is improving.

* * *

E. E. McDaniels is toting a meal ticket around, but it looks like someone stepped on it with a hob-nail shoe.

* * *

Looks like Postoffice Lane is closed for repairs.

* * *

W. L. Williams has had his two weeks' vacation and is now back on the job.

* * *

Now's the time to have a peach of a time.

* * *

Grady McArthur says when the new little fellow out at his house cries, he just gives him a pair of pliers and things are o. k.

RAILWAY MEN UNDERPAID, HEADS OF UNIONS ASSERT

Executives' Association Declares Pay of Workers Is Not Too High and Protests to Interstate Commerce Commission Against Attempt to Inject Wage Issues in Rate Hearings.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Railroad labor, far from being overpaid, is actually underpaid and will resist wage reductions with all the means in its power, the Railway Labor Executives' association declares in a statement filed with the interstate commerce commission.

"Railway labor has submitted its claims to arbitration after arbitration in the last five years and without exception impartial boards have found that railway labor was underpaid," the association says in its statement, which was submitted in protest against the injection of a discussion of the railroads' petition for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

The statement of the association says that the injection of the wage issue in the rate hearing is unwarranted. On the question of rate increases, the statement asserts that railroad labor is "in favor of increases in instances where the facts disclose that such increases are justifiable." The statement goes on to say in part:

"It would be clearly improper for railway managements or others to attempt to raise this wage issue before the commission, and to ask the commission, even by delicate suggestion, to join in criticizing the administrative machinery provided by congress to determine the reasonableness of railway wages. But since this issue has been raised, the railway labor organizations wish to make their position clearly understood.

Railway Wages Not High.

"It is not true that railway wages are high. The vast majority of men in railway employment do not earn today, and have not earned for years, wages equal to those of men engaged in similar work, calling for similar skill, in private industries. There are several hundred thousand railway men who have been out of work for over a year. There are as many more who have been working only part time for many years. A substantial part of this burden of unemployment is being carried by the men who are employed.

"Railway labor has submitted its claims for arbitration after arbitration in the last five years and without exception impartial boards have found that railway labor was underpaid. The nation-wide depression of today has been caused by low wages, by the excessive profits of the few and the underpayment of the many, whose purchasing power would not absorb the flood of goods that industry produced. We do not believe that the way out of the depression is to aggravate the cause of the depression.

"We have no desire to prejudge the issues of the pending rate case.

No Ground for Pay Cuts.

"Every one must recognize that railway labor has a direct interest in increasing the traffic and the revenues of the railways, but we deny that there is any justification for seeking to increase the net revenues through the process of reducing the wages of employes.

"But we would warn those who would evade the issue of reasonable rates and, with appeals to prejudice and misinformation, would seek to substitute a wage issue, that no impartial review of the facts will support their contentions. The railway labor organizations not only are united and prepared to resist any such move with all the powers at their command; they are also fortified with the solemn agreement between representatives of employers and employes and the government of the United States not to permit the pressure of a business depression to be used as the excuse for breaking down the American standard of living and compelling men to labor for less than just compensation for their services."

Rockefeller Receives Appeals to Stop Colorado Fuel and Iron Wage Reductions

New York, Aug. 13.—Matthew Woll, third vice president of the American Federation of Labor, appealed to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to stop the 20 per cent reduction in wages decreed by the officials of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, of which Mr. Rockefeller is a controlling stockholder. The decree cuts wages from $6.52 to $5.25 a day.

"It is almost unbelievable and certainly most regrettable that Mr. Rockefeller's influence has not been brought to bear to stop the wage reduction policy put into effect by this company," Woll said. "I appeal to him to let his influence be felt now and that he intervene without delay to halt the application of this disastrous wage-cutting program."

Washington, Aug. 13.—Miss Josephine Roche, president and majority stockholder of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company, pleaded with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., by wire to stop the 20 per cent wage cut decreed by the Colorado Fuel and Iron company. Miss Roche's company employs members of the United Mine Workers of America and pays the union scale. Miss Roche, who was in Washington on a business trip, told Rockefeller that "one word from you can prevent the inhuman and economic waste which will result from the action taken by your company." Rockefeller did not give the "one word." He evidently believes that making profits is the primary function of his company, and that if in his judgment high wages endanger profits then wages should be cut.

Although it operates under a union contract and pays the highest wages in the state, Miss Roche said, the Rocky Mountain Fuel company had reduced its operating costs, increased its production per man, and had retained its tonnage output while state coal production fell 25 per cent during the last year.

5-Day Week Gaining In Building Trades

Chicago.—The five-day week for building trades mechanics is gradually being accepted by employers, according to a statement by Edward M. Craig, executive secretary of the National Association of Building Trades Employers, which has made a survey of building conditions in 130 American cities.

"In 1930," Mr. Craig says, "thirty-five cities employed building artisans on the five-day week basis, and today reports reveal more than sixty cities are hiring building workers on the short week schedule."

The five-day week has been established entirely in eleven cities, and the 40-hour week has been inaugurated in part in forty-two cities.

According to the survey the employment conditions are deplorable in the building trades, approximately 65 to 70 per cent of the workers being unemployed.

MORE ABOUT

COAL MINERS

(Continued from First Page)

although the committee (made up of members of the city council) were refused admittance to the bull pen at the Paisley mine at Elm Grove. However, a number of miners were interviewed by members of the committee at the entrance of the pen as they came out from work. Carl DuBarry, a negro coal loader, said he had worked for the Valley Camp company for a year and that his last pay check was for one cent. His first two weeks, he said, drew $18, the largest amount of cash he had ever drawn upon the company. DuBarry lives in a company house and had to be helped by the associated charities because he did not earn enough money to keep his family of three children and a wife. He said he had lost but one day's work in the year he had been employed. Other miners now on strike told similar stories, which were found to be true, it was said.

Steady Progress By Job Service In Placing Labor

Federal Agency and Co-operating Offices Found Work for More Than Half Million Persons in Four Months' Period.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Between April 1 and July 31 the newly organized United States employment service of the department of labor and co-operative employment offices made 638,689 placements, Secretary of Labor William N. Doak reports. The report was made public by President Hoover, who said that the employment service "shows a very large measure of accomplishment."

Secretary Doak's report said the reorganized service was actually working soon after the appointment on March 13 of John R. Alpine, of New York, as special assistant to the secretary of labor to direct the reorganization, "and from the date that its wheels were started in operation it has been gaining momentum hourly until this time it has demonstrated its worth in a most remarkable degree."

The number of federal and co-operative employment offices jumped from 279 to 332 between April 1 and July 31, the increase being almost entirely in the federal offices.

Drive to Aid Veterans.

The newest project of the employment service, the report said, is an intensive effort to find jobs for veterans.

The 538,689 placements made by the combined employment offices showed the measure of success of the service, the report added, although full data had not been received for July. The report goes on to say:

"It is but a beginning, and as the expansion increases, so also will results increase. With the splendid co-operation existing among state, city and civic free employment service, and with the equally splendid co-operation existing among the various veterans' organizations, we confidently anticipate increasingly fine results as a consequence of our efforts in all states of the Union and in the District of Columbia.

Building on Solid Basis.

"Obviously, it is impossible to find jobs where jobs fail to exist, but the United States employment service, by combing the highways and byways, has succeeded in finding jobs for 281,769 unemployed from April 1 to July 31, 1931, with complete returns not yet available, and if there are other jobs to be had this service proposes to locate them. We are paving the way, on solid foundation, for real employment service that could not be obtained by any other means.

"Despite the prevalent unfavorable economic conditions we feel that our efforts will have an appreciable effect upon the unemployment situation during the approaching winter."

Public Works Under Contract to Total 300 Million by Fall

Washington, Aug. 13.—By fall, public building projects administered by the department of the treasury totaling $300,000,000 will be under contract, President Hoover said this week.

The president made the statement in referring to a report of the treasury department on the progress in the public building program from May 15 to July 15.

The report shows that a total of 758 public building projects have been authorized at a cost of approximately $453,000,000.

In the period from May 15 to July 15, according to the report, contracts were let for forty-two additional projects, bringing the total under contract to 192 at an estimated cost of $135,637,366.

Painters on U. S. Job Paid Below Union Scale

Washington, Aug. 13.—Painters now at work on the new internal revenue building here are receiving $8 a day, $3 below the union scale of $11 a day. Apparently the federal government approves $8 a day as the prevailing scale, though it means a wage cut for union painters. Prevention of wage cuts was sought in the law passed by the last congress providing for the paying of the prevailing wage on government work.

The Alliance Construction company, of New York, is the contractor on the job. Twenty-five non-union painters were brought to Washington by the New York concern and other men have been hired here.

It is said only skilled painters are receiving the $8 daily wage. Others get $7 or less, while laborers are paid $4.

Our power of purchase, combined with a demand for UNION GOODS and UNION SERVICE, is the greatest organizing force we have.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

OUR WEEKLY MARKET BASKET

WATCH this section every week for Grocery Bargains. Make your Dollar do Double Duty. Patronize those who patronize YOUR PAPER — and save the difference.

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY

SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

Watch this space weekly for Lowest Prices on Quality Groceries

Your fellow Union Man buys here— Why not you?

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feather

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSEE

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make— Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI | CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, AUGUST 21, 1931 | Number 17

COUNTY WAGE-CUTTERS ABANDON TAX ALIBI--LABOR VIEW JUSTIFIED

Lynch Admits Pay Slashes Would Mean Only "Negligible Economy."

SMOKE SCREEN IS LIFTED BY LAWYER

Central Body Was Right Again — Court Proceedings Develop Into Fight on Clark — Lusk Commends Organized Labor.

JURIST SCORES "CHEAP LABOR"

"The court has always been in favor of those who labor and make their living as clerks receiving adequate compensation. It has not been so long since clerks were grossly underpaid. It is a well known fact that increases in compensation for working people of all classes have been due in large part to the activities of the trade unions, and this should be taken into consideration in this connection. Neither this county nor any other can afford to set the example of hiring cheap labor.

"Much has been said here about cheap help. When a person gives all of his time and the best in him to a job he should receive enough for his work to keep himself and his family from the edge of want."
—Hon. C. W. Lusk, Criminal Court Judge, commenting on proposed wage cuts for county employes.

The "smoke-screen" laid down by the Cummings-News-Arn wage-slashers was—inadvertently, possibly—lifted in the hearings before Judge Lusk this week, when County Attorney Carter J. Lynch, according to a paragraph in the Times' report of the proceedings, admitted the unsoundness of the declared basis of the campaign, which has been repeatedly given publicity as a move in the interest of reduced taxes. The paragraph referred to was:

Mr. Lynch insisted that the reductions sought by Judge Cummings would amount to no more than a negligible economy for the taxpayers, but declared they would be a "STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION WHEN THE WHOLE WORLD IS FACED WITH AN ECONOMIC CRISIS."

Assuming that the county attorney was correctly quoted, and that he respected the views of his chief, thus is the Cummings-News-Arn campaign to slash the pay of public employes admitted to be merely a precedent for private employers to cut wages or in other words an effort to place the county government in a position of leadership for a general wage-slashing, standards-reducing movement.

When the county judge, some weeks ago, initiated the campaign for lower pay for all county employes, including school teachers, Chattanooga Trades and Labor council vigorously denounced the action and ridiculed the claims that slashing these workers' pay would result in lower taxes for the people of Hamilton county. To the surprise and disappointment of many local workers, however, the Chattanooga News immediately took up the judge's battle and after, doubtless, locking the file cases containing copies of that paper for several months prior to the last county election, proclaimed Judge Cummings as a savior of the overburdened taxpayers, and sent out a corps of reporters to "uncover" the fact that certain county school teachers already receive $100 per month for nine months in the year. This publicity, however, evidently was wasted effort, as the county school board, in special session, shortly thereafter rescinded its action in cutting teachers' salaries.

The proceedings before Judge Charles W. Lusk, of the first division of criminal court, resulted from the fact that Hays Clark, clerk of the criminal court, and Sheriff Charley Taylor declined to join with other county officials and slash salaries in their offices when the county judge so demanded. Judge Cummings filed motion to force such reductions, to a much greater percentage than had been demanded of those officials who submitted to the program. The net result of the hearings, as judged by several citizens who attended all the sessions, was to show, by testimony of the county auditor, that Clerk Clark had drawn his salary in advance some time in 1929. Incidental to this, several witnesses were introduced in an effort to prove that the sheriff's forces and clerical workers in the sheriff's and clerk's offices were paid too much salary. Included among the witnesses was Mr. Roy McKenzie, head of a local business college, who testified that the average salary for a stenographer-office worker is from $50 to $150 per month. It was remarked privately following this testimony that the professor doubtless would have laid more stress upon the higher figure had he been talking with a prospective student of his institution of business training. The county auditor, incidentally, stated that he himself drew a salary from the county treasury of $400 per month, which, however, had recently been cut 10 per cent. He stated further that this was lower than the average pay for members of his profession.

Judge Lusk took the matter under advisement, promising to give his decision at the earliest possible moment. The jurist was in court for the first time following recent severe injuries in an auto accident.

Local trades unionists were gratified this week at what they regarded as another "victory" in the battle to prevent public officeholders setting a precedent for private industry to destroy American living standards won after many years of sacrifice chiefly through the efforts of organized labor. The admission of Mr. Lynch, they held, thoroughly vindicated the position taken by Chattanooga Trades and Labor council insofar as it relates to the underlying purpose of the campaign.

Friends of Judge Cummings, although deploring the fact that he should take the lead in a campaign of wage-slashing and regretting his activities in connection with the News-Arn combination, insist that the county official is sympathetic with the struggles of working people, and justify his present position by the fact that he is independently wealthy and possibly does not entirely understand the problems which lower wages and living standards will bring to the working man and woman.

CITY'S WEALTHY WOULD STOP SCHOOL PROGRAM

An echo of the recent movement on the part of local manufacturers and a group of wealthy citizens to stop all public works by the city and county is seen in efforts to secure signatures to a petition demanding a referendum on the proposed $200,000 bond issue for new school buildings at Red Bank and the Tyner-Silverdale community. The petition, in the office of Alvin Shipp, county trustee, is sponsored by Fred Arn, chairman of the chamber of commerce taxation committee, who has announced his intention to oppose any and all bond issues for public improvements. Among the first signers are members of the J. T. Lupton family, who themselves possibly furnish the requirement of $1,500,000 taxable property to accompany 500 names demanding the referendum. The name of former Senator Newell Sanders is also among the leaders. A majority of the names necessary have already been signed to the petition. It was said this week that wealthy manufacturers who are opposing the bond issue are requiring their employes to affix their signatures to the document. Attention has been called to the fact that the county has erected a $30,000 school at Lupton City, a mill community owned by the vast Lupton interests.

Citizens of the communities affected are "up in arms" against what they regard as an effort to deprive them of proper school facilities for their children, and are calling attention to the alleged fact that the opposition leaders are for the most part citizens who have never patronized public schools, being amply able to educate their offspring in the finest of private institutions, and therefore are without sympathy for the efforts of those less fortunate to provide facilities for the enlightenment of the children of working men and women.

It is said that should the effort to call a referendum be successful, it will probably mean abandonment of the project, due to the heavy expense of a bond election.

Whatever relief the public-building program might bring to the suffering job-hunters and their families could hardly be expected, in view of the recent developments, to interest the group of citizens who are now opposing all public improvements.

It's a Girl!

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morris, Monday, Aug. 17, at the Children's hospital, a girl. "Papa" is a member of the firm of the Angel Printing company. Mr. Morris announced Thursday that there would be no hurry about selecting a name for the little lady. "Of course," he said, "she must have the best, conforming with the policies of the Angel Printing company in its business dealings with the public, and we intend to give the same care to the selection of a name for the newcomer as is given to every job, large or small, which any of our hundreds of satisfied customers send in."—(Adv.)

Always demanding the UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD is evidence that you are a real live member of organized labor.

A. F. of L. Approves Gompers Memorial

Atlantic City, N. J.—The $100,000 memorial to be erected in Washington in honor of Samuel Gompers, former president of the American Federation of Labor, will be completed within a year, William Green, president of the federation, stated at the quarterly meeting of the executive council here.

The monument will occupy the triangular site contributed by congress in Washington on Massachusetts avenue between Tenth and Eleventh streets. The executive council approved the plans for the memorial as prepared by Robert Aitken, New York sculptor. The memorial has been approved by the national commission on fine arts.

AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION ARE APPROVED

State Committee O. K.'s Proposed Changes.

OPPOSE INROADS OF POWER TRUST

Seeks Investigation of Utility Rates and Urges National Conference on Unemployment.

Nashville, Aug. 20.—(Special.)—A meeting of the non-partisan committee of the Tennessee Federation of Labor and the railroad brotherhoods was held in the labor temple at Nashville on Monday and Tuesday. The committee gave careful consideration to the proposal to call a constitutional convention, and election for which will be held on Thursday, Sept. 24.

The committee indorsed the proposal to call the constitutional convention, to consider the four subjects to which it is limited in chapter 98, public acts of 1931. They are as follows:

(1) To improve our system of taxation and assessment so as to conform to present-day economic conditions by an amendment of section 28 of article 2, classifying property for taxation.

(2) To restrict the general assembly to general legislation, and to relegate all legislation of a purely local character to the respective counties and municipalities.

(3) To make the compensation of members of the general assembly commensurate with services rendered and to prohibit any bonus or extra pay.

(4) To extend the term of office of governor to four years, and make him ineligible to re-election to an immediate succeeding term; and to provide for the election of a lieutenant-governor.

Members of organized labor and their friends are urged to qualify themselves and vote for the calling of a constitutional convention, to consider the four subjects above named.

If a majority of the citizens vote to call the convention, it will be held at Nashville, on Monday, Nov. 16. The delegates to the convention will be asked to voluntarily pledge themselves, before election, that they will vote in the convention to submit to the people the four amendments to the state constitution set out above, to be voted on separately for ratification or rejection, and be confined to these subjects and none others, and that no amendment rejected by the people shall become part of the constitution.

In the event the convention is called an election to select delegates will be held on Thursday, Oct. 29. The number of delegates to be selected shall be thirty-three, one from each of the thirty-three senatorial districts. Any person 25 years or over may become a candidate for delegate upon filing with the secretary of state his or her petition on or before Oct. 15, indorsed by not less than twenty-five qualified voters of his or her county.

Members of organized labor and their friends are urged to support only progressives as delegates to the constitutional convention.

At the last session of the general assembly a commission was created to co-operate with a commission of a like character from the state of Alabama to make an investigation and recommend to President Hoover what disposition should be made of the Wilson dam located at Muscle Shoals and other power sites on the Tennessee river; also Cove Creek.

Newspaper stories indicate that these commissioners favor the development of the natural resources by private capital, which means the power trust.

We are opposed to turning over these last natural resources of the people to the power interests. We favor government ownership and operation of all the water power resources of the nation. We therefore are requesting our senators and representatives in congress to support the Norris bill, which provides for government development and control of Cove Creek dam and for government operation of Muscle Shoals.

A communication was addressed to the railroad and public utility commission requesting an investigation of the rates of the public utility corporations of the state.

A communication was sent to President Hoover urging him to recommend to congress measures for the relief of unemployment and to recommend that congress appropriate funds to feed the victims of the present economic depression; also, requesting President Hoover to call a national conference of representatives of industry and labor as requested by President William Green, and the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

TENNESSEE MINERS AGAIN FORCED TO BATTLE FOR AMERICAN RIGHTS

Coal Diggers at Isolene Declare Strike for Decent Conditions.

WORKERS ARE "FIRED" FOR UNION SYMPATHY

Ben Williams Outlines Deplorable State of Affairs in Mountain Camp—Mass Meeting Called for Sunday Afternoon.

Local union of the United Mine Workers of America organized at Isolene, Tenn., only after some thirty-odd practical miners had been discharged for alleged union sympathies, has declared a strike against the Cumberland Coal company, and although the works is comparatively small, a bitter battle is being waged between the contending forces—the operators declaring their purpose to destroy the organization and the workers countering with claims of American rights to combine for protection against what they term un-American conditions, or virtual slavery.

Such was the news brought to Chattanooga this week by Ben Williams, representative of the United Mine Workers of America, who is rendering such assistance as is possible to sorely-tried coal-diggers in District 19, who have recently been roused to united action against conditions which are declared to have grown steadily worse during the past several months.

"The mine at Isolene," Mr. Williams told The Labor World, "is the only non-union works on the Tennessee Central railroad now on strike. The trouble is a direct result of arbitrary action of the operators, the Cumberland Coal company, who discharged some thirty old employes because of their admitted sympathies with the program of the United Mine Workers. Before a local union was even organized, the mine superintendent called before him individual workers for a grilling, and if their answers indicated a sympathy with union labor they were promptly discharged. This left them no alternative but to call a strike. Before a meeting was ever held, however, the company went into court seeking to enjoin the discharged employes from a continuation of their efforts to obtain justice.

"The men are demanding reinstatement of the discharged workers, the right to membership in an organization of their own choosing, and a committee and arbitration board to take up and adjust complaints at the mine.

"This company, the miners declare, has never weighed a hatful of coal mined by the workers since the works was developed some three years ago. Coal sold to the consumer, however, is weighed on wagon scales installed for that purpose. No statement is ever made to the miner showing his tonnage mined or other work performed, but he receives a check on pay-day, and a miner who had the temerity to ask correction of any error was promptly discharged for his pains.

"The laws of Tennessee compel coal operators to build and maintain wash-houses, but no such convenience has been provided at Isolene. The miners themselves did fix up an old dilapidated barn, repaired it themselves, furnished their own wash tubs—and then the company charged them rent for the place, thereby not only violating the law with respect to the wash-house, but capitalizing these violations for their own financial profit. This company also operates a commissary store, and the miner is compelled to pay from 25 per cent. up over the prices in independent stores. The mine car that the miner loads has been increased in size twice since the company has been operating, but the pay scale to the miner remains the same per car. A notice posted only a few weeks ago read as follows: 'Load them bigger, and better coal, or get to hell out of here!'

"Prior to the calling of the strike every effort was made at conciliation, communications not even being answered, and a representative of the United States government failing to get any consolation out of the company other than statements that miners were discharged for union sympathies, and 'not a d—n one of them would ever work in the Isolene mines again.'

(Continued on Last Page)

Low Wages Bad Business

Retail stores prefer to locate in a high wage district. The District of Columbia, where wages average $1,595 a year, has 12 stores for every 1,000 persons; South Carolina, where yearly wages average only $675, has only 9 stores per 1,000 population. Stores in the District sell more; they sold an average of $682 worth of goods for every person in 1929, while South Carolina stores sold only $172 per person. Wage cuts are bad business.

DOAK HOLDS UNION WAGE RATE PREVAILS

Washington, Aug. 20.—Decision that the union wage scale is the prevailing rate for painters in Washington was made last week by Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, in ruling on a protest of organized labor against wages paid painters by the Alliance Construction company of New York. The Alliance company, which has a contract for constructing the internal revenue department building, has been paying the so-called "open shop" rate, which is much lower than the union scale.

Secretary Doak's decision establishes the prevailing rate on government work in Washington as $11 for an eight-hour day. The ruling was made under the prevailing rate of wages bill, passed by the last session of congress in an attempt to stop wage-slashing by contractors doing government work.

Under the law Doak's decision is final and the Alliance company has been ordered to comply with it. The decision followed an investigation by the department of labor.

War on Wage Cuts Declared by Labor Executive Council

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 20.—A declaration of war on wage cuts was made by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor at its quarterly meeting here.

The council reaffirmed the judgment of the leaders of organized labor that wage reductions are economically unsound and said "it is the unflinching purpose of the American Federation of Labor to stand resolutely against them."

The statement was made public by William Green, president of the federation.

The text of the council's declaration follows:

"The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor reiterated and reaffirmed its original position in opposition to attempted reductions in wages.

"It is firmly of the opinion that the distressing unemployment situation can be overcome only through the development of the purchasing power of the masses of the people to its maximum capacity.

"The facts are overwhelmingly in favor of the position assumed by the American Federation of Labor.

"Widespread unemployment which prevails throughout the nation is due to a lack of buying power upon the part of the masses of the people.

"The purchasing power of more than 6,000,000 wage-earners has been totally destroyed because they have been forced into unemployment.

"There must be added to this large number many millions more who are working part time only and who are dependent upon these unemployed and part-time workers.

"The many millions of dollars which have thus been lost will never be retrieved.

"The amount of goods this vast army could have bought and consumed if they could have been maintained in reasonable steady employment would have prevented a continuation of the distressing situation which now exists.

"In the light of these economic facts it is amazing to observe the statements of some who propose a further impairment of the purchasing power of the limited number of workers now employed through the imposition of reduction in wages.

"Unemployment will continue just as long as the purchasing power of the masses of the people rests below and beneath the ability to produce manufactured goods.

"Obviously, the consuming market, which is very largely made up of the masses of the people, must absorb manufactured products and manufactured commodities in a volume corresponding with the production facilities of industry.

"This can only be accomplished when the consuming power of this great purchasing market corresponds with the productivity and efficiency of industry.

"Low wages mean unemployment, human distress, and human suffering.

"The present unemployment situation will never be relieved until wages are built up so that men and women can buy and consume.

"The Executive Council commends very highly those employers and owners of industry who have subscribed to the high-wage philosophy enunciated by the American Federation of Labor, and who during this depression have steadfastly discharged their obligation and kept the promise made to the president of the United States to maintain the wage structure.

"On the other hand, the Council condemns, in a most vigorous way, the action of those employers who have taken advantage of human distress and human suffering to impose and force wage reductions in spite of the protest of the workers involved, as well as those who represent them.

"It is the unflinching purpose of the American Federation of Labor to stand resolutely against reduction in wages.

"We are sure of our position.

"We are confident that in assuming this attitude we are contributing toward the highest and best interests of all the people, and through such action we are serving as best we can to bring about a restoration of normal conditions at the earliest possible moment."

Man Held in Shooting Of 3 Unionnn Officials

Washington.—Tom Connors, 61 years of age, is reported to have been identified as the man who fired a fusillade of shots at three officials of the International Union of Operating Engineers in a restaurant here on May 21. Connors was arrested in Berwyn, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

One of the shots hit Frank Langdon, associate editor of the union's journal. Langdon lost one eye as a result of the shot. Arthur M. Huddell, president of the union, was saved when a bullet lodged in a pocketbook in his vest, but died several days later from heart attack. Before his death, Huddell attributed the shooting to his attempts "to eliminate racketeering in our union."

Connors was arrested at the instance of the United States department of justice.

Socialist Government Economizes in Wages

Vienna, Austria.—The socialist municipal government of Vienna declares it is obliged to inaugurate measures of economy with regard to wages and salaries of city employes. Extra pay allowances have been cut down in order to avoid reduction in ordinary wages. The municipality says it is forced to take this step because of decrease in income from taxes and municipal enterprises.

THE LABOR WORLD

810 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 21, 1931.

BUGHOUSE FABLES

By H. F. B.

". . . and after wages were cut, and one-third of the cotton was plowed under by the poor little farmers, the public utilities reduced their rates."

* * *

This isn't a fable. It's the gospel truth, and naked as a jaybird. Marriage has ceased to be a lottery! If you don't like what you get, you can turn it back into the general supply and make several more choices. Maybe! And it is no longer the woman who pays. It's the children! But, after all, isn't it civilization that pays in the long run? And, taking it by and large, hasn't civilization, or society, already begun to pay that heavy cost? It would seem so, from the press reports on the world at large.

* * *

And it came to pass that after the farmer plowed under one out of three rows of cotton, and wages were cut ten per cent, and the street car company went back to nickel fares, the grasshoppers came along and ate all the poor farmer's corn, and the other two rows of his cotton, and even dug his half grown 'taters up by the roots. And then the benevolent federal government lent him $40.10 an acre on his land to buy new seed with—but not to eat! He could go fishin' and eat the acorns and pine burrs till he made a new crop, and wear a crocus sack! And grass widders increased a thousand fold!

* * *

And then—Herbert Hoover was re-elected president of the U. S. without opposition! That is Americanism! Hurrah for the republican party!

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—What college president said of the workers' struggle to organize: "This movement of the working people against great odds to win a simple share in the control of their own lives is one of the great human movements of the last century?"

A.—Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina.

* * *

Q.—Did organized labor advocate the income tax?

A.—Yes. The 1898 convention of the American Federation of Labor demanded that congress enact a law providing for an income tax gradually increasing with the income. The demand was reaffirmed at the 1906 convention.

What Next!

"Packages" of live and very active bees are being sold for use by orchardists, sometimes being shipped long distance by express or mail, according to the department of agriculture. It seems the natural supply of bees and insects is insufficient in some places to care for the necessary pollination, and "packaged" bees have been developed for this purpose. Bees are placed in small boxes by beekeepers and the orchardist has only to set the package in the orchard and pull the cork from the box. The bees do the rest.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

Restless, could not sleep

"THERE were days when I felt like I could not get my work done. I would get so nervous and 'trembly' I would have to lie down. I was very restless, and could not sleep at night.

My mother advised me to take Cardui, and I certainly am glad she did. It is the first thing that seemed to give me any strength. I felt better after the first bottle. I kept it up and am now feeling fine."—Mrs. T. R. Gibson, Fort Payne, Ala.

E-731

CARDUI HELPS WOMEN to HEALTH

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

WALL STREET AND UNEMPLOYMENT.

The Wall Street Journal is highly incensed because William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, intimated the danger of a "revolt" of the unemployed unless the economic order is speedily reorganized on the basis of a work week short enough to give jobs to all the unemployed, now numbering over 6,000,000.

The Wall Street Journal represents the subversive type of American journalism which holds the view that wages should be reduced to maintain dividends, and that in general investors are entitled to live in luxury even though their luxury drives the workers to pounding the pavements in the army of the unemployed.

The Journal does not deny that millions of workers are idle through no fault of their own. It does not deny that these millions of jobless would be glad to earn a living if those who own and operate industry would give them the opportunity. But confronted with these incontestable facts it draws smug comfort from its belief that during the coming winter public and private charity, bread lines and soup kitchens will be so large and generous that no one will die from the lack of "food and shelter."

From the viewpoint of the Wall Street Journal, living wages when the employers can profitably employ them and soup kitchens supported by charity when the employers cannot profitably employ them are all the workers are entitled to and all they should ask. To suggest that they are justified in being grievously discontented with such an industrial status is characterized by the Journal as "excited rhetoric." A bourbon lady of the French revolution period had a similar view. When the poor of Paris went to the king's palace at Versailles and demanded bread, this gentle lady is alleged to have said, "Let them eat cake."

Equally reactionary is the Wall Street Journal's remedy for unemployment, or, rather, its lack of a remedy. It says that unemployment results mainly from the "fall in commodity prices and changes in industrial technique." It declares that "neither of these causes can be dealt with quickly."

By changes in industrial technique the Journal means the wholesale introduction of labor-displacing machinery and systems. With this new technique the workers in the manufacturing industries alone in 1929 produced 42 per cent more than in 1919. Generally speaking, the employers during this period have kept the length of the working week to the six day maximum that obtained when the workers produced 42 per cent less.

Why cannot the unemployment which is largely due to the introduction of this labor-saving machinery be "dealt with quickly?" It can be. If business leaders so desired, the five-day week could be an established policy within thirty days, and the 6,000,000 jobless men would be at work earning a living for themselves and their families.

The will to establish the five-day week, the will to make wealth producers and family providers out of 6,000,000 jobless, would soon find the way. But the Wall Street Journal and its reactionary satellites prefer a pauperized army of 6,000,000 unemployed trudging their way through rain and sleet and snow to bread lines and soup kitchens and bunks in municipal lodging houses.

THE RED CROSS.

John Barton Payne seems to regard the American Red Cross as his personal affair.

He has defined the scope of his operations. Aside from war work, the Red Cross will confine its efforts to relief from the effects of "acts of God."

Payne's associates in the Red Cross know well enough what effect this definition already is having. They "wish to goodness" he had never used that phrase.

They are be-deviled this way and that.

But that is the policy and there is nothing they can do about it.

The main machinery of the Red Cross runs now on invested money.

But its special relief work is done out of the dimes and dollars that are gathered in the annual "drive."

It is notorious that these dimes and dollars come from the workers, not from the rich.

This winter the workers may bear in mind Payne's definition and they may decide to hang onto their dimes and dollars.

The next Red Cross drive may show that while Payne defines policy, he cannot force money from those who do not like that policy. The Red Cross cannot afford to go too far from public opinion.

There will be a lot of men and women this winter who will say to the young society girls who go out to collect Red Cross funds that they prefer to do their own relief work—most of it in their own families.

There will be a great many who will refuse to give their money for use under such a policy as Mr. Payne has set forth.

If starvation can battle its miserable way to the grave without interference from the Red Cross because the cause happens to be economic instead of catastrophic, then Mr. Payne will most likely find dimes and dollars staying where he cannot get at them.

It would take a bigger earthquake than we have ever known and a bigger flood than we have ever known to bring us such widespread misery as we have with us today through unemployment.

It is doubtful whether even the World war brought to America an equal volume of suffering.

President Hoover talks about working through the Red Cross this winter, but there can be no such work until the definition given by John Barton Payne is changed.

This should be said: If the Red Cross is to limit its work to war, fire, flood and earthquake, then let that be understood and let it never ask money for any other purpose. Let us then build a new organization for the service of humanity—one with a more generous and understanding heart.

Under the Payne definition the Red Cross takes its stand with the exploiters. It is not "the great mother" of the afflicted and the suffering. It it just a machine, cold and calculating.

Nobody wants to say to the Red Cross: "You can go your way and we shall go our way," but if enough ice water is poured into the veins of an institution that should run warm with the life blood of a great human heart, well it can be said.

There have been times when resignations have been used to correct situations such as this.

Insane!

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

What would you think if someone went about telling people to tear down empty houses and downtown storerooms, because a dearth of vacant residences and storerooms in the business sections of Chattanooga would help cause rent to come down? What would you think of a guy who, if you told him you happened this week to have a dollar bill you did not have to spend immediately, and he told you to throw it in the sewer, because a dollar or two idle in your pantaloons would help cause a surplus of money and bring interest rates down? Suppose your butcher told you he was going to hire a drayman to haul away to be burned all the meat he might have left over at the close of business Saturday night, because a full stock of meat on his hands when he opened for business Monday morning would help bring the price of meat down? You would at once classify these birds as looney, wouldn't you? And I'm telling you, brother, if you didn't you'd be looney yourself! Now what has our infamous federal farm board suggested to farmers? Just this: That farmers destroy a part, at least a third, of their corn crop this year, because if they don't a surplus of corn will cause the price of that commodity to fall. Alright, boys, bring on the straitjackets!

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

THE SOCIAL IDEALS OF JESUS OF NAZARETH: An Interpretation

INTRODUCTION

WM. L. MOSS

Some seek the comfort of religion to escape what they have been told is hell; others to attain what they have been told is heaven. Some cultivate religion to bring their personalities to perfection; a very few are religious for but one purpose, to consciously help fulfill the work of He whose teaching was centered on a single accomplishment, the brining about of the Kingdom of God among men, the reign of God's eternal love on earth.

I shall not at this time appraise any one of these classes of Christians nor do I claim these groupings are all that could be suggested. The lines have been drawn rather broadly but they are inclusive enough to meet general purposes.

What I do want to make clear in connection with them is that for any man to call himself a Christian is commendable, no matter why nor how he became one. For him to be a conscientious Christian is even more commendable, for he is then striving to live up to what he conceives to be the real teaching of his Master, though he may fall short of the Christian perfection seen in others or perhaps he has dreamed of attaining himself.

It is to this conscientious Christian with all his conscious faults and imperfection as a Christian, who is yet willing to learn and to know of Him who went about teaching and doing good some nineteen hundred years ago, the writer offers the contents of this series on The Social Ideals of Jesus.

No attempt will be made to write a life of Christ. Doctrinal exposition of what Jesus taught or doctrinal statements about His person or work will also not be incorporated within these articles. Denominational lines will be ignored, even though universally accepted by all Christendom, by both catholic and protestant-minded believers, and only that which any follower of Jesus of any shade of religious opinion can follow seven days of every week of the year will be offered here.

To sum up in a few words, the writer will merely strive to reveal the mind of Jesus on two points:

(1) The social and ethical relations of men.

(2) The duties of men.

Beyond these two points no one need look for enlightenment in these forthcoming articles and hope to find it.

W. L. M.

UNEMPLOYMENT INCREASED EVEN IN BOOM YEAR 1929

By W. I. NEWMAN

Recently in these columns we published a chart showing the ups and downs of the total number of workers employed in manufacturing industry in this country. Reference to this chart will show that the number of workers employed in 1920, as shown by the data furnished by the bureau of labor statistics, was higher than it was in 1919 by about 6 per cent or 9,000,058, an increase of 540,003.

This would bring the total number of wage-earners employed in 1920 to approximately 9,540,061. Thus 1920 was the "boom year" prior to 1929, so that it will be fair to compare the two years in this respect. The census of manufactures shows the total of wage-earners employed in 1929 to have been 8,807,536; or to have been less than the total number in 1920 by the sum of 732,525.

Unemployment in Boom Year.

This means that in the boom year of 1929, when everything was running—supposedly—at top speed, there were about three-quarters of a million men and women, who had previously been employed, who were out of employment. There were some fluctuations in 1929, but at no time did the index number show more than 92 per cent of the number employed in 1923, while the index number in 1920 was about 118. This refers now to employes in manufacturing industries alone.

When we turn to other fields of employment, it is necessary to take figures gathered in periods just before or just after 1929. But the sources are government data, and are of such a character as to be properly applied here. The number of persons employed in the railroad industry in 1919 is given as 1,960,439, while the same figure in 1929 was 1,775,549. The use of the 1919 figure is not unfair here, as it is probably less than it would have been for 1920. And these figures show that in 1929 there were 184,890 fewer employes in the railroad industry than in 1919.

Unemployment in Every Direction.

Our sources of information (Statistical Abstract, 1929) show that in 1920 the number of employes in the mineral industries was 908,419. The same sources show that in 1928 the number of such workers was 733,728. If we apply the same conditions as obtaining in the mineral industries that obtained in manufactures, we shall be fair in our method of estimating the number employed in mineral industries in 1929.

Myth of General Prosperity.

We find that the average of 1929 employment was about 5 points higher than that of 1928 in the index number based on 1923 as 100. If we then add 5 per cent to the 1928 figures of mineral industries employment we shall have a figure sufficiently satisfactory for our purpose; and this gives us an additional 36,686 so employed in 1929, making a total for that year of 770,414 employes in mineral industries. Deducting this from the 1920 total, leaves the number of unemployed in that industry at the figure of 138,005.

Adding together these figures for the industrial employments, we have the following:

Number of Wage Earners Unemployed in 1920.
Manufacturing industries	732,525
Railroad industry	184,890
Mineral industries	138,005
Total	1,055,420

Adding together the total number employed in 1920, we have:

Manufacturing industries	9,540,061
Railroad industry	1,960,439
Mineral industries	908,419
Total employed in industry—1920	12,408,919

Taking these two sets of totals in their relation to each other, we find that, compared with the year 1920, there was in 1929 an unemployment—or a disemployment—of approximately 8.2 per cent in the industries named in the United States. We shall study some of the causes leading to this in another article.

City Jobless Relief Prevents Starvation

Philadelphia.—Over 25,000 orders for food and milk were distributed to needy families in the first two weeks of its existence by the Philadelphia bureau of unemployment relief. The bureau declares the issue of food and milk orders is necessary to save many from suffering and possible starvation.

The bureau finds no improvement in the unemployment situation and predicts that community relief work will have to be very much expanded during the coming winter. The relief work of the bureau is financed by a $3,000,000 municipal bond issue.

WHO'S AT FAULT?

Complaints of failure to receive The Labor World are constantly being reported to this office. Members of Local Unions are reminded that the various secretaries are charged with the duty of furnishing complete lists of their members, with addresses, but if your secretary does not supply same, call 6-7562 and we will immediately adjust the complaint.

DEMAND YOUR PAPER!

READ THE NEWS OF INTEREST TO OUR VARIOUS CRAFTS, AND

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

BILIOUS

"I have used Black-Draught . . . and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—H. C. Hendrix, Homerville, Ga.

For indigestion, constipation, biliousness, take

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

Women who need a tonic should take CARDUI. Used over 50 years.

"PUT YOUR LIFE IN BISHOP'S HANDS"
Volunteer State Life Insurance Company
J. W. Bishop, Mgr. Home Office Agcy
ASSOCIATES
E. E. WALLACE — W. E. WEBER
A. A. PARK — C. W. BRADLEY
C. C. FLUKER — J. J. HARRISON
W. RAWLINGS — RAY BEAGLE
L. WALTERS — N. M. JUDD
L. BROOKING — J. M. JARVIS
R. S. WITT
MISS MAGGIE LYNN PEEPLES
N. W. RAY, WINCHESTER, TENN.

COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Honest Weight — Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

Ready Cash
For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.
Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street
We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right
OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

B L & K R
Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

Coca-Cola IN BOTTLES
Goodness and purity are sealed in.
Buy by the case

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PREMIER CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Famous Man (to newspaper reporter)—You ought to feel mighty honored, young man. Do you know I have refused to see seven of your compatriots already today.

Reporter—I know. I'm them.

* * *

Teacher—Why do they measure the sea in knots, Johnny?

Johnny—They couldn't have an ocean tide any other way.

* * *

Helen—There goes that dressmaker of yours. She's getting very ritzy.

Marie—Yes, she just cut me on the bias.

* * *

Hard times note from the Brushville Bugle: "We are informed that several places were robbed in the vicinity of Pea Ridge the last two weeks, but nothing of value is missing."

* * *

Too many fellows with an eight-tube brain haven't any hook-up.

* * *

Tramp—Can you give me a bite to eat?

Housewife—Have you no trade, my good man?

Tramp—Yes. I make counterfeit money, but it isn't worth what the materials cost.

* * *

This old world has not grown decadent,
Why spend useless hours in remorse?
There's just as much horse-sense as ever—
Though most of it's owned by the horse.

George.

* * *

Two tramps met at the end of a long and unsuccessful day's begging. Both were tired and hungry.

Hank—Didn't you make anything, Bill? What about that house I saw you looking at—the big one with the open window?

Bill—Didn't trouble to ask. I looked in the window and saw two girls playing on one piano, so I guessed they were too poor for me to worry.

* * *

A ladies' aid society is a group of women organized to pry the preacher's salary loose from their husbands.

* * *

Little Daughter—Why is father singing so much tonight?

Mother—He is trying to sing the baby to sleep.

Little Daughter—Well, if I was baby, I'd pretend I was asleep.

* * *

Clarence—Do you know what your one great defect is?

Isabel—I simply can't think.

Clarence—Right, but I didn't think you'd acknowledge it.

* * *

A man unaccustomed to praising his wife went out of his way to call her an angel. "Mary," he said one morning recently, "you are an angel," and she felt charmed all day. In the evening she ventured to ask him why she had been so honored. "Well," said the wily man, "you are always flitting about; you are always harping on things; and by your own account, you have nothing to wear."

* * *

Alexander—Which is right: "The girl began to walk home," or "The girl started to walk home."

Horatio—Who was the girl?

* * *

Lawyer—Mr. Peck, your wife has been arrested and is being held incommunicado. But the police chief is easy and a little money——

Henry Peck—Fine, fine, and tell him that there's $10 for him for every day he can keep her that way.

* * *

Our idea of a heavy hint is something that should be dropped.

* * *

Doctor—Deep breathing, you understand, destroys microbes.

Patient—But, doctor, how can I force them to breathe deeply?

* * *

Mother—What did your father say when he saw his broken pipe?

Innocent—Shall I leave out the swear words, mother dear?

Mother—Certainly, my darling.

Innocent—Then I don't think he said anything.

Hoover to Have Aid Program As Congress Meets

Senator Fess Announces Concrete Plan Will Be Ready—President Confers With Heads of Relief Organizations.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Declaring that the federal government "must and will" take strong steps to prevent starvation during the coming winter, Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the republican national committee, announced here that the administration will have a concrete program for relief of the unemployment situation when congress meets.

The emphasis must always be on local responsibility and on voluntary action wherever possible, Senator Fess said. He added:

"We shall use every means to avoid a federal dole. Establishment of the dole in this country would be a catastrophe."

Quick Action Needed.

"The problem must be met within the next few months. The government must be ready to act as soon as congress meets, so that the necessary legislation may be enacted quickly and the machinery put into operation. No one can say right now what that machinery will be, but the administration is devoting the major part of its attention to studies of various plans."

Senator Fess' announcement followed a conference with President Hoover, who is studying the unemployment relief problem and who has been conferring with leaders of permanent and emergency organizations in the last ten days. Unification of the relief program has been accepted as the keynote of next winter's activities.

The president's emergency committee on employment, which includes labor representation, the Red Cross, the Association of Community Chests and the Family Welfare Association of America, are among the organizations whose leaders have conferred with the president in an endeavor to work out a co-ordinated relief program. Relief plans sponsored by the administration call for action on a national scale, but are based fundamentally on community action.

At present a survey of the situation is being made to determine the extent of the problem and the probable need for relief. When the survey is finished, concrete plans will be decided on.

Developments in the unemployment relief situation include a demand by Senator Blaine, of Washington, for a special session of congress in September to provide aid, a report by the president's emergency committee for employment showing little change in the low level of employment and a reiteration of the declaration of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor of organized labor's purpose to stand unflinchingly against wage reductions.

Bar Association Committee Report Attacks Radio Rights of Labor

Washington, Aug. 20.—The steady drive toward establishment of vested rights in radio is pushed one notch farther in a report just issued by the American Bar association's standing committee on communications. The bar association's annual convention will open Sept. 17, in Atlantic City, and the report will then come up for ratification.

Labor's right to representation on the air is definitely assailed by the report and it is clear that the bar association will oppose labor in the coming session of congress.

The Glenn amendment and the Shipstead-Sirovitch bill are selected as measures to be particularly opposed. The Glenn amendment would reserve a clear channel for labor's use.

The bar association committee's report opposes consideration for educational as well as labor representation on the air through legislative reservation of particular facilities.

The committee contends that recognition of labor's rights would tend to ruin "the finest broadcasting system in the world," a contention which trade union radio authorities brand as ridiculous. The bar association committee's support for the establishment of property rights in the air is clearly seen in that section in which the committee says:

"The rights of those who have invested large sums of money in broadcasting stations and in building up good will among listeners would challenge the attention of the courts and, if the trend observable in decisions already rendered is continued, would enlist the protection of constitutional guaranties."

34,000 File Clerks Seek Fifty Positions

Washington.—The terrific pressure of unemployment is shown by the fact that more than 34,000 persons have applied to participate in the U. S. civil service examinations for junior and under file clerks in various branches of government service. Last year only fifty file clerks were appointed from the list of eligibles derived from a similar examination. It is expected that a smaller number will be appointed this year.

WORLD WAR SOLDIERS JOIN OUT-OF-WORK ARMY

Indianapolis, Ind.—Officials of the American Legion will give active cooperation to the employment service for veterans of the U. S. department of labor. Because of the large numbers of the World war soldiers who are out of work it is feared in official circles that even the combined efforts of the legion and the department will be unable to adequately meet the problem. Connecting the soldier out-of-works with jobs is the major method of relief. The main thing is to find the jobs.

IF YOU WANT THE BEST
FLOUR
MADE
Buy—
Orient
Made by Mountain City Mill Co., Chattanooga

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

Learn what a difference six cylinders make in smoothness quietness flexibility handling ease riding comfort dependability economy long life

CHEVROLET

Step out of any other low-priced car, step into a Chevrolet, and learn what a difference six cylinders make.

When you start the engine, and let it idle—the car remains steady, as well as everything in it. When you drop into low gear, and let the engine take hold—the power flows evenly. There's no semblance of strain.

This smoothness stays with you whatever you do. Accelerate—throttle down—go fifteen or fifty. Consistently, you get the same fine, smooth response. For six-cylinder smoothness is built in the motor—and objectionable vibration never gets a chance to start!

Yet smoothness is only part of your six-cylinder experience. There's greater quietness, because noisy vibration is gone, and with it a big source of squeaks and rattles. There's greater comfort, especially at low and high speeds. A six doesn't tire the driver or the passengers. There's greater flexibility, because the power-impulses of a six overlap. And response is more positive; performance more elastic. A six is much easier to handle!

And if you raise the hood and watch the engine running—you'll know what a difference six cylinders make to your pocketbook. Without vibration to cause friction and wear, the whole car must last longer, require less repair. Thousands of owners have found that this engine uses less gas and oil than any other.

Twenty beautiful models, at prices ranging from $475 to $675

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich., special equipment extra. Low delivered prices and easy G. M. A. C. terms.

You owe it to yourself to see and drive a Chevrolet Six now. Learn what a difference six cylinders make.

NEW CHEVROLET SIX
The Great American Value

See your dealer below

NEWTON CHEVROLET
317-23 Broad Street — Phone 6-0181

RICE BROS. Chevrolet Co., Inc.
1508-1600 Rossville Ave. — Phone 7-2171

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned as Trustee by deed of trust executed the 7th day of May, 1930, by C. C. Goodwin and wife, Lizzie Goodwin, to secure a certain indebtedness, which said deed of trust is of record in the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, in Book X, Volume 24, page 606 et seq., conveying the property hereinafter described, to which deed of trust specific reference is hereby made for the powers and provisions contained therein, and default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness at its maturity, and said default continuing, at the request of the holder of same, The Title Guaranty and Trust Company of Chattanooga, Trustee, will expose for sale to the highest and best bidder, for cash, in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, at the west door of the Courthouse on Walnut Street, in the City of Chattanooga, Hamilton county, Tennessee, within the legal hours of sale on the following described real estate in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 29, 1931,

The south 80 feet of Lot No. 16, Block 7, P. & K. C. Foster's subdivision of Griffin's addition to the City of Chattanooga, as shown by map attached to deed registered in Book X, Volume 1, Page 1, of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, and more fully described as follows: Beginning at a point 80 feet south from the southeast corner of the intersection of East Eighth Street and University Street, formerly "E" Street; running thence eastwardly 50 feet; thence southwardly 80 feet to a 10-foot alley; thence westwardly 50 feet along said alley to University Street, formerly "E" Street; thence along said University Street to the point of beginning.

Said sale will be made subject to Seven Hundred Fifty and No/100 ($750.00) Dollars due the Administration and Trust Company, and to all taxes and assessments that are a lien due or unpaid.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This the 29th day of July, 1931.

THE TITLE GUARANTY & TRUST CO.
of Chattanooga, Trustee.
By W. S. Beck, President. 8-21

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45589

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Minnie Galloway vs. Charles Comer Galloway

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill which is sworn to, that Charles Comer Galloway is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 21st day of July, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C.

F. L. Dixon, Atty. 8-14

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45692

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Mae Wilkinson Curtis vs. Richard William Curtis

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Richard William Curtis is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45693

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Benjamin T. Wooten vs. Ida Wooten

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ida Wooten is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 4th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45701

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Eva Tucker vs. E. B. Tucker

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that E. B. Tucker is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 6th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C.

B. M. Fogo, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45558

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Grace Meyer vs. H. G. Meyer.

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that H. G. Meyer is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 11th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

J. H. Reddy, Atty. 9-4

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45686

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Rosa Lee Setliffe vs. J. F. Setliffe

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that J. F. Setliffe is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

Sweets & Penn, Attys. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45690

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Ruth Aitken vs. Roy Aitken

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Roy Aitken is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

It costs no more in effort or money to secure UNION GOODS and SERVICE, if you demand and insist on them.

Special days for UNION LABEL agitation are good, but making every day a UNION LABEL day is much better.

ALONG MELODY LANE

By JOHNNY MAHONEY

We hear that John McGuire, popular member of Local No. 80, is confined to his home because of illness. This column hopes for a speedy recovery for Mac.

* * *

Mr. Marion Liner, former dance orchestra musician and, of late, first trumpet in Mastero Leland's symphony orchestra, is reported as suspended by the national executive board for non-payment of his theater tax.

* * *

Chattanooga was honored last week-end by a visit from Robert McMahan, recognized as sharing honors with John Patty and Herman Dodd as the local's most handsome men. Bob sends many happy returns of the day to his admirers.

* * *

Another visitor of last week was Albert Quirk, who was passing through with Maynard, of Knoxville, to play an engagement down in Mississippi. Albert sends his greetings to the executive board.

* * *

William Krug, the playing fool, has been helping Miss Tommye Lassater furnish music for the younger set.

* * *

Jimmy Cox tells us from Cloudland that he has discovered one more piano player in the person of young Keese, brother of the well-known Alex. We expect Mr. Worthy to send his scout, Ralph, to look him over.

* * *

Cooper Null, better known as Greek, is now employed by J. H. Wann company. Here's hoping!

* * *

We are greatly pleased to see that Local 80 is represented in the Signal golf tournament by no other than our president, Ira Summers. Win or lose, we're behind you, Sandy.

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual instruction DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.

Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45737

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

George R. Berry vs. Lillian Jackson Berry

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Lillian Jackson Berry is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication by made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 14th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

McClure & McClure, Attys. 9-11

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45752

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Myrtle Morgan vs. Ralph Morgan.

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ralph Morgan is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 17th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

Wilkerson & Wilkerson, Attys. 9-11

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45691

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Matilda Griffin vs. Bride Griffin

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Bride Griffin is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 4th day of August, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45604

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

I. W. King vs. Debbie Davis King

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Debbie Davis King is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 3rd day of July, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C.

Thos. S. Myers, Atty. 8-21

NOTICE OF SALE OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS AND WARES FOR STORAGE

Take notice, that on the 31st day of August 1931, at 10 a.m., the Main Street Transfer and Storage Company will, at its warehouse at 1512 Carr Street, City of Chattanooga, County of Hamilton, State of Tennessee, sell at public outcry to the highest bidder the following described articles, to-wit:

One lot of furniture, consisting of general household goods, and one piano, stored by C. H. Ware

Said goods will be sold for storage charges accrued thereon and all other necessary expenses incurred in making said sale, and said sale will be made in accordance with Senate Bill No. 128 of the Acts of the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee of 1909, passed on February 12th, 1909, and approved on February 19th, entitled "An Act Creating a Lien in Favor of Warehousemen and Providing Means for Enforcing Same," which said act takes effect from and after its passage.

Said sale will be made at public outcry and for cash and the proceeds thereof applied as directed by said statute.

This the 13th day of August, 1931.

MAIN STREET TRANSFER & STORAGE CO.
By J. S. Lamb.

MORE ABOUT COAL MINERS

(Continued from First Page)

"These workers are all 100 per cent. native Americans and Tennesseans, and there is not the slightest hint of radicalism in the community.

"Adding to the bitter feeling being engendered by the arrogant attitude of the operators, however, is the boast that the discharged miners' places will be filled by farmers from the surrounding sections. The workers, however, refuse to believe that their neighbors are willing to assist the company in its efforts to establish and maintain virtual slavery, and at the same time aggravate the present unemployment situation and destroy their home market conditions.

"Sentiment in favor of the discharged workers is rapidly crystallizing. On Sunday, Aug. 23, at 2:30, a monster open-air mass meeting will be held at Isolene, when several state and national labor officials will address the citizenship.

"The following, addressed to the farmers of the Isolene district, has been given publicity:

"Mr. Farmer—Where is is your interest and welfare? Is it dependent upon the welfare of the employer or of the employe? Your interest is dependent upon the consumer, and the consumer is the farmer, the industrial worker, the clerk, the small business man and the professional man. When the industrial worker is handicapped by unemployment and low wages your market is destroyed. Are you in sympathy with the Cumberland Coal company or with the miner and his family? Are you going to allow this concern to make strike-breakers out of the farmers of this community? Does the farmer approve of industrial slavery for the miners? Wake up, Mr. Farmer, and figure out the reason why you are not able to obtain a fair price for your own product.

"This is an age of organization. Bankers, lawyers, doctors, merchants and manufacturers are organized. Why should not the miner, the farmer and all other workers combine for their own protection.

"Help to get better wages for the miner, and you will be creating a greater purchasing power for your own product. Defeat for the miners is defeat for the farmers. Victory for the miners is a victory for the farmers and the entire community.

"Help your brother worker to get a square deal."

Unions and the "Dole" Undermining England

New York.—Julius B. Baer, an authority on the organization and operation of commodity exchanges, returns to the United States with a very gloomy picture of present day conditions in Great Britain.

He found British unemployed workers drawing enough unemployment insurance benefits to support themselves and their families without the odium of private or public charity. He also found the British trade unions fairly successful in holding up wages against the attacks of reactionary wage cutting employers. Confronted with these two features of industrial Great Britain, Baer declared that England is at the mercy of the "dole" system and the labor unions, both of which, he said, are doing much to undermine the stability and future welfare of the country. He evidently missed in England the soup kitchens and bread lines which are such common sights in New York City, where the jobless workers eke out an existence on pauper relief.

Public Works Jobless Relief in Cleveland

Cleveland, O.—Public construction work for the relief of unemployment is more thoroughly indorsed in Cleveland now than when the citizens in November, 1929, voted public improvement bonds. Then it was estimated that at the worst the city would have to provide for from 10 to 15 per cent unemployment in 1930 and 1931. The present estimate is close to 30 per cent and this summer's load on private and municipal charities is greater than any time since modernization of charities began.

When work under construction this year is all in motion it will provide jobs for around 20,000 persons who are now or hitherto have been supported by public charity. This is being done with but 10 per cent of the public works program in actual operation. There is an active campaign to force more of the authorizations into actual work.

Mexican Labor Code Protects Native Labor

Mexico City. — The labor code passed by the chamber of deputies prescribes that all labor shall be "90 per cent native Mexican or naturalized Mexican of white race."

The code contains a clause prohibiting foreigners from serving on the board of directors of labor syndicates. It is believed the code will pass the senate in its present form.

"MAINTAIN WAGES AND BUYING POWER" NEW SLOGAN FOR AMERICA'S ORGANIZED WORKERS

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 20.—"Maintain wages and buying power," will be the fighting slogan of the American Federation of Labor through the coming months.

The executive council, in session here preparing the annual report for submission to the coming Vancouver convention, believes no other issue approaches in importance the issue of wage maintenance.

And the council looks to industry—not to the state—to bring the nation out of the industrial tangle. That is not to indicate that the council believes the state has no proper functions to perform, for that is not the case. But the council does believe that the primary responsibility for remedy rests squarely upon industry.

Among the things the council's position means is that the council does not favor state unemployment insurance and it does not favor a dole of any kind.

Legislative Campaign Possible.

"Industry operates under certain social sanctions," said President Green to International Labor News Service, explaining this attitude. "If industry operates under social sanctions it must accept social responsibilities and discharge those responsibilities properly." President Green indicated strongly that labor may engage in a legislative campaign to write provisions into incorporation laws, which constitute the social sanctions under which corporations operate.

It was clearly indicated by some council members that, in the absence of clear evidence of an abandonment of wage-cutting policies by certain large corporations and banking institutions declarations and actions much more emphatic than any yet made or taken may be forthcoming. The meaning of this is that this council is militantly determined that wage levels must be maintained, not solely as a matter of the welfare of workers, but as an absolutely necessary social measure for the restoration of national prosperity.

Many Bright Spots Seen.

The council made it clear that many employers have co-operated fully in maintaining wages. It has many bright spots to which it can point. The sky line is not all cloudy, by any means. It can discover some industrial improvement and it can and no doubt will point with deep satisfaction to such achievements as the recently renewed contract between Chicago elevated line employes and employers, in which wage scales were held intact.

The thing the council is unquestionably driving at in its determined reiteration of labor's wage philosophy is the attempted leadership of certain great banking houses which continue to seek to impress wage-cutting requirements on industrial houses coming under their influence.

"There has been some let-up of public declaration for wage-cutting," said President Green, "but banks can seek to enforce wage-cuts without making any public pronouncements at all. They can and do simply require the balance sheets of corporations asking for loans and they can and do point to wages in those reports and demand that wages be cut."

Labor Program Urged as Only Salvation for Present System

Greensboro, N. C., Aug. 20.—"If rugged individualism means six million hungry men walking the streets of America begging for work, then I say we have had enough of rugged individualism and to hell with rugged individualism." That declaration hurled at the convention of the North Carolina State Federation of Labor by George L. Googe, of Savannah, Ga., acting chairman of the American Federation of Labor's southern organizing campaign, was caught with applause, enthusiastic, emphatic, extended applause.

That the economic system of these United States must be modified to put the nation's hungry millions to work at wages that will establish a basis for mass consumption and with leisure time in which to consume what they create or be destroyed was the warning demand heard again and again in the numerous addresses made during the three days of the convention. It was a militant band of representatives of the state's organized labor who made up the convention, for each time the war cry was voiced it drew applause and plenty of it.

Googe, who has been entrusted with the responsibilities of directing the organization in seventeen states, came to Greensboro as the personal representative of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. He made the most discussed and most distinguished address of the convention.

The speaker could see no hope for the present economic system unless it adopts the solution offered by organized labor.

Contractors on Government Work Pay Laborers 25 to 30 Cents an Hour

Washington, Aug. 20.—Charges that contractors on government wrecking and construction jobs in the District of Columbia are paying laborers less than a living wage and less than the prevailing wage rate prescribed by law are made by George J. Adams, executive secretary of the district committee on employment.

The investigation of wages and hours for laborers on government construction work on which Adams bases his charges was made at the request of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Adams declares that contractors pay the laborers, for the most part, 25 or 30 cents an hour and work them 9½ hours a day instead of 8. The usual rate among local builders for this class of work is 40 cents an hour.

"My personal belief is that the wages set forth in the affidavits do not represent, or even remotely approach, a fair wage, a living wage, or the prevailing wage," Adams declared.

In regard to wage cuts in general, Adams said:

"I have given the question of wage standards considerable study, and I am convinced that injury will accrue to the economic and social stability of this country if a general policy of drastic wage reduction is permitted to gain headway."

Study of Bread Lines Staged in Baltimore

Baltimore, Md.—Bread lines as a form of unemployment relief are being investigated by the bread line committee of Baltimore Council of Social Agencies.

"The present sharply accentuated economic depression has brought in its wake bread lines in most of the large cities," said Harry Greenstein, chairman of the committee. "Baltimore has been rather free of this situation. We have had a certain number of bread lines which have actually operated in Baltimore during the past year, and it is hoped that this study will bring to light all the facts with regard to them. The committee also hopes to be able to make a recommendation with regard to whether there is need in Baltimore for bread lines, and, if so, what, if any, supervision should be given."

Stockyards Company Fights Profit Limit

St. Joseph, Mo.—The St. Joseph Stockyards company filed suit to prevent the U. S. agricultural department from enforcing its order fixing the company's stock-handling charges.

The department, acting under a law designed to protect farmers and stockmen from unjust handling charges, limited the company's return to 7½ per cent of its investment.

Housing Study Under Way for Fall Parley

Washington. — President Hoover's conference on home building and home ownership is completing its nation-wide study of housing for the meeting of the conference which will be held in Washington next November. Secretary of Commerce Lamont and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur are joint chairmen of the conference.

The report will include problems of home financing, city planning, city slums, landscaping, and house construction, equipment and management.

Cost Expert Hits 24-Hour Mill Plan

New York.—Textile mill owners' contention for 24-hour operation of their mills in the interest of minimum cost has received a severe blow from the report of Sydney P. Munroe, manager of the cost section of the Cotton Textile institute, who has been studying this question for a number of months. Monroe declares that from the cost point of view there is no justification for either narrow sheetings or carded yarn mills working on the 24-hour basis. On the contrary, he states that the "double shift carded yarn mill would lose more money than the single shift mill."

Mr. Munroe's conclusions support the claim of trade unionists, economists and enlightened manufacturers that 24-hour operation of textile mills is an uneconomic policy and should be abandoned for the single shift.

Oil Company Revises Employe Pension Plan

New York.—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey states that the company intends to revise its plans for paying annuities and insurance to its employes. Like most company-owned and operated annuity and insurance schemes, the employes are not consulted either in setting up the plan or in continuing it. It is one of the devices used to tie workers to the job.

KELLY DEMANDS 8-HOUR DAY FOR BUS OPERATORS

Washington.—Federal legislation at the coming session of congress for the regulation of interstate motor buses with a provision for the eight-hour workday for the operators is predicted by Representative Clyde W. Kelly, of Pennsylvania.

"Motor services should be prohibited from either requiring or permitting any of their operators to remain on duty for a longer period than eight consecutive hours," Representative Kelly declared. "Such a requirement would be in line with the safety of the public and with the welfare of the workers. Eight hours at the wheel of one of these big vehicles means a strain on the nerves and muscles of any man."

Bargains for Saturday!

CORN Fresh Dozen..... 10c
MATCHES Box 2c
PET MILK 10 Small Cans or 5 Small Cans..... 29c
MEAL White Pearl—12 lbs. 25c; 6 lbs. for..... 14c
FLOUR Pillsbury 24 lbs..... 77c
PURE LARD 4 Lbs. for.. 35c (4 Lb. Limit)
BACON Pound..... 25c Rindless Black Hawk

INTERNATIONAL UNION MARKET

SAUNDERS STORE
423-425-427 MARKET STREET
(INDEPENDENT OF ANY CHAIN STORE—HOME OWNED)

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED
EASY WAY
SELF SERVICE GROCERY
417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

LARD Pure or Compound, very best grades (Limit 4 lbs.) 4 lbs..... 35c
PINK SALMON No. 1 Tall, 15c Size, 3 cans..... 25c
SUGAR XXXX Powdered or the Browns, 10c size — 1 lb. carton for..... 7c
SWEET MILK (Bring empty bottle) Pint, 4c; Quart..... 8c
WESSON OIL Pint can 23c; Quart can..... 43c
MILK Carnation or Pet; 10 Small or 5 Tall Cans..... 29c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET

Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended. and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feather

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSEE

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

A HIGH GRADE PRODUCT
. . . . AT A LOW COST!

MINED IN TENNESSEE BY MEMBERS OF THE UNITED MINE WORKERS OF AMERICA

FENTRESS COAL

"100 Per Cent Union"

Buy Now at Summer Prices

ACME COAL CO.

622 East Ninth Street

WALTER D. MOORE
T. F. WARE

PHONE 6-1183

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, AUGUST 28, 1931 — Number 18

NOT CHAMPION OF LOW WAGES, LOWE DECLARES

Believes Pay-Cuts Only "Prolong Agony."

SERVICE DIRECTOR EXPLAINS POSITION

Calls Attention to Promises Which President Exacted of Industrial Leaders.

"I want to see business again on its feet, and low wages in my opinion are not conducive to good business," said L. B. Lowe, manager United States Employment Service, in a letter to the editor of The Labor World Thursday.

The communication was a continuation of correspondence begun when the department's local representative asked the co-operation of the editor in a plan to have the eight-hour day put into effect in all local industries. Newspaper stories, however, had previously stated Mr. Lowe's proposal to provide for a corresponding reduction in wages, and to this feature exception was taken in the reply, in which it was pointed out that such a plan could mean no relief for general conditions, and would only result in placing the burden of caring for the unemployed on the already overloaded shoulders of the worker whose wages had been "cut to the bone."

Mr. Lowe, in his letter of Thursday, calls attention to the conference of industrial leaders called by President Hoover at the beginning of the depression, when promises were exacted that wages would not be cut and that workers would not lose their jobs. "Whether or not those promises were kept you yourself know," he declares.

The employment service director says further that "were I to advocate the lowering of wages I would be unfaithful to the administration and to the president, and feel that I was only prolonging the agony."

The letter follows:

I am very grateful for the kindly expressions of helpfulness as shown in your letter of the 23rd instant.

I note with interest that part of your letter touching upon the fact that wages have been cut, while in some instances the hours of labor were lengthened. Speaking not as an authority but as a layman, I, too, feel that in order to see the wheels of industry again turning normally a market must be made, none can be found. In making a market for our products, the unemployed, so far as I am able to determine, are helpless to aid the situation.

You will recall that when this "depression" was in "its infancy," President Hoover called a meeting of industrial leaders and exacted from them a promise that wages would not be cut and that workers would not lose their jobs. On the contrary, great projects were to be started which would furnish many more men long-time employment. Whether or not those promises were kept you yourself know.

The attitude of the president is that in order to maintain our standard of living, efficiency and markets that wage standards should remain sufficiently high for the working man to provide himself not only with life's necessities but some of its luxuries.

Were I to advocate the lowering of wages I would be unfaithful to the president and to the administration and feel that I was only prolonging the agony. I want to see business again on its feet, and low wages, in my opinion, are not conducive to good business.

Permit me again to thank you for co-operation and interest which I assure you is greatly appreciated.

NO CUTS IN FORT WORTH CITY EMPLOYES' SALARIES

Fort Worth, Tex.—Employes of the city of Fort Worth will face no salary cuts during the coming year, it was announced by City Manager Fairtrace. Although at work paring down the department heads' budget estimates in order to institute a program, Mr. Fairtrace said his intention is to maintain present salary schedules. There will be no wage increases during the fiscal year, other than those provided by law for firemen and policemen, according to their length of service, he said.

CANADIAN MINE WORKERS ASK BARRING OF NON-UNION COAL

St. John, N. B.—The United Mine Workers for District 26 have petitioned the Canadian government to enact legislation which will bar the importation of coal which is produced under non-union conditions. It is contended by the executive of the district that a large proportion of the soft and hard coal brought into Canada is secured from mines in the United States and elsewhere that are not affiliated with organized labor. West Virginia is cited, in particular.

REACTION OPPOSES STATE ROAD BONDS

Directors of the Chattanooga Automobile club, at a called meeting last week, unanimously approved the calling of a special session of the state legislature for the purpose of authorizing a road bond issue to complete the state highway system, in co-operation with the federal government under the state-aid plan. The club directors held that to finish the program, upon which millions have already been expended, would be an economy move, and would provide employment for thousands of jobless during the coming winter.

Immediately, however, as might have been expected, the friends of the dear taxpayer who have rendered such signal service recently in opposing anything progressive during the depression, severely criticized the auto club directors, the Times taking the position, in effect, that because state funds have been mishandled in the past, no more should be appropriated.

The chamber of commerce taxation committee has not yet acted on the matter, and the outcome of the progressive action on the part of the automobile club directors is uncertain.

Call Is Issued For Convention Of Federation

Call for the fifty-first annual convention of the American Federation of Labor has been issued from Washington, and officials of the federation stress the importance of the coming meeting and the necessity for a full representation. The convention will meet at Vancouver, B. C., beginning Monday, Oct. 5, and will be in session for two weeks.

"The fifty-first convention will be held at a period of widespread unemployment and suffering from curtailed incomes," says the executive council. "As this convention will have to consider serious problems and formulate important policies, it is essential that all organizations be duly represented by delegates. At no time in economic history has the close integration of economic interests of all groups been so irrefutably demonstrated as during this world-wide depression. Labor has an essential contribution to make in securing for wage earners their proper share in economic progress so that prosperity shall be sustained. The coming convention will outline policies to that end and will need the experience and co-operation of wage earners from all industry.

"The officers of the American Federation of Labor and the members of its executive council appeal to all national and international unions, state federations of labor, city central bodies and local organizations to make special efforts to send delegates to this fifty-first annual convention."

Statistics Show Another Drop In Employment

Government Figures Indicate Decrease of 1.8 Per Cent in July from June—Purchasing Power Cut.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The general index for all manufacturing industries, for July, 1931, based on the monthly average of 1926 as 100, according to the bureau of statistics of the labor department, indicated that employment was at 70.4, as compared with 72.2 for June and 81.6 for July, 1930. This was a decrease of 1.8 per cent over June and 11.2 over a year ago.

The index for total pay rolls in manufacturing industries was shown as 59.1 for July, 1931, as compared with 62.5 for June, and 75.9 for July, 1930.

Translated into terms of purchasing power, this means that the number of workers in manufacturing industries is 29.6 per cent less than in 1926, and that the money they have to spend is 41.9 per cent less than in 1926.

To the cheerful rejoinder that prices are also lower and the cost of living is less, the same statistical office gives us the information that, based upon 1913, the cost of the six principal classes of living costs in June, 1926, was shown by an index figure of 174.8; while the same series showed a figure of 150.3 for June, 1931, a reduction of 24.5 in the index ratio, or 14 per cent from 1926 in the cost of living.

The only industry showing an employment increase over 1926 is the printing of newspapers, which records an employment index of 104.5, and pay roll of 104.8, which is nevertheless a slight drop from that of June preceding.

Seasonal increases appear in certain food industries, as ice cream, flour, baking and cane sugar refining; but the advance of the month in baking employment from 91.9 to 92.5 was accompanied by a drop in pay roll from 89.7 to 88.8.

Most significant is the total pay roll drop of 11.3, more than that in employment.

AMERICAN LABOR MOVEMENT OFFERS CHALLENGING PROGRAM TO NATION'S BUSINESS LEADERS

While Industry Hesitates, Workers Prepare and Submit Constructive Plans to Remedy Depression, Restore Confidence and Provide Employment for Jobless Millions.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, representing all branches and divisions of American industrial workers, recently met at Atlantic City, studying the present depression, and considering what to do about it.

With thoughtful, statesmanlike courage and restraint, the council has worked out a series of proposals which, taken together, offer a concrete plan for the relief and then the cure of unemployment, with the million evils which come in its train. Here are the elements of that plan, as assembled for the current issue of "Labor:"

1. Immediate preparation by federal, state and community groups for the relief of distress. The first task, as the council well says, is "to supply food, clothing and shelter to the victims of an economic tragedy which is approaching its third year."

2. Maintenance of wages. "We propose that the standard rates of pay be maintained," says the council, and it serves notice that organized labor will fight with all its power any attempt to slash wage scales. It points out that the depression was caused by the lack of buying power in the masses, and certainly cannot be cured by aggravating the cause.

3. Assurance of employment. Every large industry knows that it must continue to employ a certain minimum force. If it will guarantee to furnish that definite number of jobs for its workers during the next six months, half the terror now hanging over every industrial plant will vanish, and an enormous buying power, now hoarded against the dread of lost jobs, will be released.

Shorter Working Periods.

4. The shorter work-day and the shorter work-week. The council urges that the five-day week "be immediately introduced and accepted in private and government employ." Also that the hours worked per day be reduced to six hours "if necessary, in order to provide work for all."

5. Abolition of child labor. "Child labor is indefensible during prosperous periods, and it approximates a moral crime during periods of industrial depression," says the council. It pledges the efforts of organized labor to secure the adoption of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution. It points out that the release of children from industry would open a vast number of jobs for adults, besides being incomparably better for the health and education of the children themselves.

Aid for Wornout Workers.

6. Old age pensions. The council demands uniform state laws which would make needy citizens over 60 eligible for a pension of about $40 a month. This would remove another group of wage depressors from the labor market, and free the United States from the reproach of being the only enlightened country which makes no provision for its wornout human servants.

7. A real building program. The council insists that nation, states and municipalities press construction on a scale which will take up the "slack" caused by hard times, and make "workers wage earners instead of recipients of charity."

8. An anti-injunction bill. Organized labor will present to the next congress legislation to keep courts from acting as labor crushers and strikebreakers; a bill assuring labor the right, not the privilege, of organization and collective bargaining. This proposal is fundamental. It would give labor a freedom and standing without which no industrial program can be made to work.

No matter what pious hopes are voiced, no matter what well-meant laws are passed, if the individual worker is denied the right to organize and is forced to deal alone with a giant corporation, fair play is impossible.

Organization Overshadows All.

American labor, through its authorized representatives, thus presents the first definite, concrete program which has been offered for dealing with our present plight. The so-called industrial leaders have done nothing. As the council truly says:

"The owners and managers of industry stand impotent and helpless. They present neither leadership, plans nor policies. They lack initiative, and they offer no remedy."

The executive council asks the president of the United States to call a conference of the leaders of industry and the leaders of labor to discuss this program, improve it if possible, and get it into action with the least conceivable delay.

Hoover's Rare Opportunity.

Such an opportunity to render a great public service has seldom come to any man in all history. Will President Hoover have the courage and vision to act?

The plan put forward by American labor is a practical, statesmanlike program, offered at a time when some plan is bitterly needed, and when none is coming from any other quarter.

It is an American program. It can be put into effect without waiting for the approval of aid of any other nation. It needs no moratorium, no trade agreements, no treaty, no diplomatic notes. It can be launched without waiting for any word from anyone outside the boundaries of the United States.

Reform, Not Revolution.

It is a program of reform, not of revolution. It keeps the whole framework of our existing institutions. It depends as little as possible on political action, and as much as possible on consultation and agreement between workers and employers.

The present depression differs from all others. It is caused by too much, not too little. In the expressive phrase of the Chicago Tribune, the country has been knocked on the head with the horn of plenty!

Misery in Abundance.

We have in this land today an extra year's supply of wheat on hand; yet millions of people are hungry.

We have more than a year's supply of cotton on hand; yet millions of people are ragged.

We can produce more of every article of human use than ever before; yet there is bitter want in millions of homes, and dread almost as bitter in millions more.

Does anyone suppose that such monstrous lunacy can go on? Does anyone believe that people will continue to starve peacefully beside bursting granaries; go half-naked when farmers cannot sell their cotton, or shelterless when a host of building workers are eager for work?

Capitalism must set its house in order, must learn how to function for the benefit of all the people—or perish. That is not prophecy; it is the comment of common sense.

Capitalism is no longer unchallenged. At home, people are asking: What profits it a nation to have the most efficient factories in the world, if they run only half-time?

Communism hasn't a chance of being adopted in this country if capitalism can be made to work. But it is not working now.

The time is ripe for an economic Declaration od Independence. America can take the leadership of the world now as she did when Jefferson wrote more than a century and a half ago. Then a handful of struggling colonies resolved that "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed." The world has been growing up to that statement ever since, and has grown so far that kings are out of fashion.

Only Alternative.

Industry derives its just profits from service to the people—to all the people. If our present system, which we call capitalism, will put that code into practice, it will live. If not—then from Russia or Australia or from our own bankrupt farms or hungry slums will come a plan which may have neither the statesmanship nor the restraint of the program of the A. F. of L.

Our present "leaders of industry" did not know enough to lead. Do they know enough to follow when labor leads?

NORTH CAROLINA LABOR PRESENTS AN ELEVEN-POINT JOB PROGRAM

Greensboro, N. C., Aug. 26.—"The maladjustment existing between productivity and consumption, in which the wages, or purchasing power of the worker is hopelessly inadequate to consume the tremendous increase of their ability to produce, is a definite guarantee of permanent depression and business stagnation," says a resolution outlining an 11-point program for dealing with unemployment, adopted by the convention of the North Carolina State Federation of Labor, in convention here recently.

After analyzing the present industrial situation, the resolution presents the unemployment program as follows:

First: A general reduction of hours per work day and per work week, without reducing the rate of adequate wages, and substantial increases in the rate of inadequate wages.

Second: The adoption of practical regulatory measures, insuring the worker an opportunity of obtaining work, and to remove the insecurity of present workers employed, enabling them to spend their earnings without being subject to the fear and horror of unemployment.

Third: Old age pensions to provide life-sustaining necessities for the incapacitated derelicts in active competition in industry.

Fourth: Unemployment insurance, making it profitable to stabilize industry and prevent periods of unemployment.

Fifth: The co-operation of industry with national, state and municipal governments in adopting future planning for industrial expansion and improvements, public works and general utilities, funds to be released as conditions warrant.

Sixth: Mandatory compulsion of each individual industry to absorb any labor surplus created by mergers, automatic or labor-saving machinery or any and all efficiency methods contributory to such surpluses.

Seventh: Complete elimination of women of all ages and children under 18 years of age from night work in industry, and the abolishment of the present system of the entire family being forced to procure employment, regardless of age or sex, to obtain sufficient income to meet current expenses of bare existence.

Eighth: Substituting economic independence and decent living and working standards for the much abused practice of charity and paternalism.

Ninth: The restoration of handicrafts produced by the skill of the workers, as far as practical, and the launching of an extensive educational and advertising campaign to enlighten the purchasing public of the advantages derived therefrom, with the features of superiority of the product, in addition to the increased employment gained by this method.

Tenth: That we petition for governmental intervention and regulatory control of the situation, if industry does not respond in assisting to solve the unemployment problem.

Eleventh: That the efforts of industry to induce farm-labor to accept employment in industrial communities, thereby creating labor surpluses in industry, and adding to the further complications of economic conditions, should be discontinued.

N. Y. Power Plant Will Provide 18,500 Jobs

Albany, N. Y.—Around 18,500 men with a monthly pay roll of $1,474,000 will be given jobs by the New York state power authority as soon as treaty details with Canada are worked out to permit the construction of the $171,000,000 state-owned hydro-electric power plant at Massena Point on the St. Lawrence river, Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the power authority, declared.

It is expected that the treaty points will be settled before the end of the year. In addition to the direct employment, Walsh said that $50,000,000 would be spent for materials and equipment.

200,000,000 Jobless In Chinese Republic

Shanghai.—The ministry of industry estimates that there are at least 200,000,000 unemployed workers in China, or nearly half the country's entire population. The jobless live a hand-to-mouth existence, doing occasional odd jobs, begging, or being supported by their relatives. The estimate is based on a census of 120 districts embracing one-tenth of the total population of 432,000,000.

NO LABOR DAY LOCAL PROGRAM

Plans for a local program celebrating Labor Day have been definitely abandoned, and for the second year in succession Labor's holiday will be observed without festivities by trades unionists and their friends here.

Efforts have been made for several weeks to work out some kind of program which would not prove an expense to those participating, but due to conditions it was found that nothing of a substantial nature was possible which would not be burdensome on a large number, and many would be unable to participate who under different conditions might enter wholeheartedly into the celebration.

Observance of the day at Johnson City will feature Labor's celebration in Tennessee, an elaborate program having been arranged which will combine the opening of the Appalachian fair and a review of the accomplishments of the workers.

The Johnson City program will feature an address by Secretary of Labor Doak, and several Chattanoogans have expressed their intention of accepting the invitation of the central body in that city to attend.

Central Body Delegates In Short Session

Monday night's regular meeting of Central Body was brief, but delegates reported that a number of matters of business were transacted which may or may not prove decidedly interesting reading at an early date. Perusal of the recorder's minutes, however, developed nothing which can be published at this time. Attendance was somewhat light. E. E. McDaniels, vice-president, was given his first opportunity to "shine" as a presiding officer, due to the fact that President M. H. Ortwein was called out of the city by illness of his mother. It is said that "Mc" handled the gavel like a veteran.

Ben Williams, representative of the United Mine Workers of America, was a guest and delivered a brief address.

J. W. McKenzie and T. A. Jones were obligated as delegates from the Typos.

"Inside matters" referred to the executive board are calculated to keep that body busy during the next two weeks.

Less Work Held Only Remedy for Machine's Evils

Shorter Hours, With Present High Wages, Alternative to Abandoning Modern Methods, Navy Official Says.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Aug. 26.—The working week has been progressively shortened and will soon reach the five-day stage, Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the navy, told the state department of the American Legion in convention here.

The address was in effect an adoption by a member of the federal administration of the American Federation of Labor program of shorter hours, the five-day week and maintaining of present high wages—not so much as a solution of the existing unemployment problem as of the deeper problems presented by the invention and use of labor-saving machinery.

New Methods Oust Men.

In part Mr. Jahncke said:

"Avenues of research, begun under pressure of war-time necessity, resulted in new methods of manufacture, which in some cases permitted one man to do the work formerly requiring ten men.

"It has been reliably estimated that this process regularly displaced 2,000,000 workers every year in the past ten years.

"This excess was absorbed back into industry because of expansion of consumptive capacity, which is another word for prosperity.

Must Go to Root of Problem.

"The problem goes deeper than such evasive proposals as doles and public or private charity. The problem must be attacked at its root—and that root is the question how to control increasingly efficient mechanized production.

"Obviously, we cannot abandon if we would the use of more efficient machinery. But one alternative remains, and that is to supply employment by reducing hours of labor and shortening of the working week while maintaining the present high standard of wages.

"We have created for ourselves an enormous giant—the machine. Now we must learn to control it.

Method Up to Industry.

"The method by which hours may be shortened and wages maintained is a matter for industry to take care of itself, as a matter of self-preservation.

"Industry . . . has already cut the average working time in half.

COAL MINERS OF TENNESSEE FIGHT SLAVERY

Determined to Raise Standards, Says Williams.

DEMAND AMERICAN LIVING CONDITIONS

Communism Practically Unknown to Natives State's Mountain Camps.

That coal miners of Tennessee were never more determined to demand living standards higher than they have been forced to endure in recent years, and that the spirit for organization into legitimate American unions covers the coal fields like the dew, is the opinion of Ben Williams, representative of the United Mine Workers of America, who has been in Tennessee at the request of the rank and file of these workers, rendering such assistance as is possible in securing for them a return to something approaching living conditions which are the inherent right of 100 per cent. native Tennesseans.

Mr. Williams said that, in spite of unbelievable conditions forced upon Tennessee miners, communism has gotten no sympathy in the various camps, and the workers are placing every faith in the American labor movement and in united action to right their wrongs.

Describing a mass meeting Sunday afternoon at Isolene, Tenn., where a strike has been declared against mine operations, Mr. Williams told a representative of The Labor World Tuesday that he has never seen a more loyal, intelligent and determined group of men as the former employes of the mines there. The meeting was attended by hundreds, who by their actions approved the position of the United Mine Workers in the present industrial crisis, as explained to them by himself and by Paul J. Aymon, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, in addressing the mass meeting. The workers here, he said, have the active sympathy of business men and farmers throughout the territory, and are confident of winning their battle for justice.

In further discussing conditions which have in recent months been forced upon coal miners of Tennessee and other states who had no way of protecting themselves, Mr. Williams displayed a clipping from a Knoxville newspaper which outlined and commented upon the system used by mine operators of West Virginia in "plucking" the coal diggers through company stores. This clipping, reprinted below, fairly describes the system used in most unorganized coal districts, he said, and is but one feature of the unfortunate plight in which the present-day coal miner finds himself, and against which he is protesting through reorganized locals of the United Mine Workers of America.

The article from the Knoxville paper follows:

"We would rather starve fighting than to starve working to get that yellow slip," declares Gene Shiflett, strike leader in the West Virginia mines.

The yellow slip has no relation to the pink one generally supposed to indicate the loss of a job, unless it be that refusal to accept it is tantamount to firing.

It is merely the statement from the "company store" in the mining area. Just before the strike was called, Shiflett declares he got his yellow slip, indicating the status of his credit account. He saw that he had earned $46 in two weeks. But after he read to the bottom of the slip he was ready to walk out.

Here is what the statement said, according to a newspaper investigator:

Kelly's Creek Collier Company.
Account Current With Gene Shiflett.

11½ days at $4		$46.00
Total earnings		46.00
Store	$41.00
Gas	3.00
Rent	3.00
Doctor	1.00
Funeral fund	.50
Hospital	.65
Total deductions		49.15
Balance due Co.		3.15

Two full weeks of labor, resulting in a debt to the company of $3.15, only, Shiflett declares, after buying the necessities. From a nearby independent store, he claims, he could have bought the same amount of goods and have had a balance of $16.45 on payday.

Upon receipt of this advice, the reporter visited the independent store and compared its prices with those of that operated by

(Continued on Last Page)

THE LABOR WORLD

310 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562

Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

E. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 28, 1931.

BUGHOUSE FABLES

By H. F. B.

And then, after Herbert Hoover was re-elected president of the United (?) States, without opposition, by a complimentary vote of 63,285,642¼ votes, he immediately exercised his power delegated to him by the umpteenth congress, and reduced the tariff rates on all imports into this country 25 per cent flat, and at once called congress into special session with orders to revise the home tariff downward still another 50 per cent flat, and to settle the Muscle Shoals problem in the "affirmative"—whichever way that is—and to be darned sure they provided for the building of the Cove Creek dam!

And congress at once proceeded to do that in only three weeks; but 43 senators and 108 representatives died of shock and fits, and the "awakened people" at once called elections refusing to allow legislators to appoint or elect successors. And picked out real business men to represent them hereafter!

What's more! Organized labor actually got together for first time on record and elected 80% of these business men as senators and representatives. And nearly every one belonged to the manufacturers' association of the U. S.

The only article much in use in this country that the tariff was left on as at present was horsefeathers!

* * *

On the west end of the city blocks bounded by Sixth, Seventh, Pine and Poplar streets, on Seventh street, there are seven elm trees and as near as I, who am not an expert on trees, can see, there are exactly seven different kinds of elm trees in the lot! I am sure, however, that I know of two more kinds which are not there, one being the "slippery elm" and the other the "locking elm," whose grains of wood are so interlocked that it is impossible to split it, and it was of this wood that the best hubs of wooden wheels were formerly made. If any of our readers are posted up on elm trees, I'd like for them to take a look at this lot and list them for me. And any others they know of.

One of them is very similar in appearance to the new Chinese elm that, I understand, is being fast introduced in this country because of its rapid growth and freedom from disease. This tree has the same sort of narrow, small leaves.

* * *

It is only the synthetic aristocrat who needs to wear a high hat and ride a high horse to impress it upon the common herd.

* * *

And he who eats of corned beef and cabbage isn't necessarily a plebeian. Some aristocrats have been known to like it, and it possesses a wealth of world building possibilities.

PUTTING UNCLE SAM OUT OF BUSINESS

Editor Labor World:

It would be just as practical to lease the postoffice as it would to lease Muscle Shoals. I am surprised at the boldness of some of our prominent citizens making public statements that they are opposed to the government going into business, and using the government postoffice every day. Why don't they send their letters by express and back up their own argument? The truth is that the government is already in business at Muscle Shoals and is the sole owner of Wilson dam, and it looks like some folks are trying to put the government out of business. Any man or set of men that has more interest and confidence in a private concern than they have in their government is unpatriotic to that extent.

E. G. McCARSON.

B L & K R

Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

DIVIDENDS AND WAGES.

Those who live in whole or in part on that form of unearned income which is collected by investors are not doing so badly in spite of the wails that go up from the Wall Street press regarding the so-called tragedy of reduced dividends.

Standard Statistics company declares that July cash dividend payments by domestic corporations totaled $516,095,367, a substantial increase over the June figures of $412,327,778. Electric light and gas companies paid their stockholders over $85,000,000, telephone and telegraph companies more than $53,000,000, railroads more than $46,000,000, and banks over $56,000,000.

Editorial Research Rreports states that the total dividends paid by American corporations in the depression year 1930 are estimated to have exceeded similar disbursements during the prosperity year of 1929 by some $2,000,000,000.

Although the earnings of the corporations decreased heavily in the year following the stock market collapse, officials of the corporations in general maintained dividend payments to stockholders either at the 1929 level or increased them.

While some companies have reduced or omitted dividends, numbers of companies are still paying their stockholders at former rates even though current earnings do not cover such payments. These corporations are maintaining their dividend rates out of large surplus earnings accumulated in recent prosperous years. It was out of this fund of accumulated surplus earnings that in April the United States Steel corporation paid the owners of its common stock a dividend of $1.75 a share, amounting to $15,203,014, although the earnings for the quarter were only 5 cents a share, and kept up the good work in July by passing out $1 a share, amounting to $8,687,485, although the earnings for the second quarter were little if any more than for the first quarter.

The complete list of companies which have maintained former or slightly reduced dividend payments out of accumulated surpluses would be an imposing exhibition of dividend stability. But when it comes to the workers whose ability to produce wealth enabled employers to build up these surpluses, another story has to be told. Corporation officials, who dip so generously into corporation surpluses for the benefit of investors, ruthlessly tossed over 6,000,000 workers into the streets to live on public or private charity in the army of the unemployed, and reduced the earnings of uncounted numbers of other workers by wage cuts in various forms over ten billion dollars since 1929.

PER CAPITA CIRCULATION PROSPERITY.

Professional business optimists find encouragement in the U. S. treasury statement that the amount of money in circulation per capita rose 8 cents in July as compared with June. In June the per capita circulation was $38.57 and in July $38.65. The fact that based on these figures the money spent during July by 120,000,000 of people averaged 8 cents each more than in June is interpreted to mean that popular fear caused by the depression is passing away and that the people are now starting out to be more liberal spenders. Eight cents a head means about $9,600,000 more money spent during July than in June, and business profits figured on that amount reaches a comfortable sum. In the meantime, unemployment seems to be increasing.

GOOD WAGES—NO DOLE.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the republican national committee, declares that the administration will have a concrete program for relief of the unemployment situation. He says, in part:

"We shall use every means to avoid a federal dole. Establishment of the dole in this country would be a catastrophe.

"The problem must be met within the next few months. The government must be ready to act as soon as congress meets, so that the necessary legislation may be enacted quickly and the machinery put into operation. No one can say right now what that machinery will be, but the administration is devoting the major part of its attention to studies of various plans."

The statement of Senator Fess followed a recent conference with President Hoover, who is studying the unemployment relief problem and who has been conferring with leaders of relief organizations in an effort to present a united program.

The president's emergency committee on unemployment, which includes labor representation, the Red Cross, the Association of Community Chests and the Family Welfare Association of America, are among the organizations whose leaders have conferred with the president in an endeavor to work out a co-ordinated relief program. Relief plans sponsored by the administration call for action on a national scale, but are based fundamentally on community action.

It is cheering news to hear that something definite is to be done for the five or six million persons known to be out of work in our country. Many sporadic efforts have been made in this direction, but the relief has been slight because the masses were not benefited.

The American people do not want the "dole." They are entitled to regular work at good wages, so any plan that will give them this assurance will be acceptable.

Any reduction in the wages of those now employed will only tend to prolong the business depression. Wage cutting lowers the standard of living, since it reduces the buying power of the working people, who, after all, are the principal purchasers of manufactured products.

There is no fictitious value about their labor. They are justly entitled to an adequate return on their investment of time and personal skill, something they do not always get, as is proven by the selling prices of the products made by them.

In an address before the mayors' unemployment committee in Detroit last week, Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, made the following pointed references to the unemployment situation:

"This unemployment crisis, like every other calamity, has given us much reason to be thankful for the better qualities in human nature. Millions have been given to meet the needs of the unseen and the unknown who were in want. Millions of employes have contributed generously from their earnings. Thousands of employers have strained their resources to keep employed without reduction of wages men and women who otherwise would have fallen into distress.

"Very much has been done, and well done, by individuals, by communities, by labor unions, by companies and corporations, and by employes, to meet the need. Millions have given until it hurt. In very many respects our people have borne themselves in a way we can all be deeply proud of.

"We ought not, then, to mar the record of what we have done by failing to relieve what we pray God may not be the greater and more insistent distress of the coming winter. With reserves exhausted, credit gone, possessions sold, and the margin of safety generally evaporated for millions of people, we cannot escape the paradoxical fact that if the coming winter is as bad as the last one, it will be infinitely worse.

"What we have done over and over again for the unfortunate in distant lands we cannot fairly refuse to do for our own flesh and blood when they cry for help in our streets.

"I have no doubt whatever of our capacity to do promptly and do well what the depression will require if it lasts, provided we begin to prepare in time. But no such gigantic problem of relief has ever been presented in the history of the nation. My plea is that we recognize the magnitude of the task, think it out and plan ahead for relief by the only agency that can complete the job, and that is Uncle Sam."

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

THE SOCIAL IDEALS OF JESUS OF NAZARETH: An Interpretation

CHAPTER I
JESUS THE TEACHER OF MEN

We have set out to study the social teaching of Jesus and it is necessary before pursuing this objective to make a general survey of the Central Figure of our forthcoming discussions, what He taught, why He went forth as a teacher and why men and women today are following or should follow His teaching. Naturally the writer would not attempt the task before him were it not for the fact that he believes many do not take the time to interpret Jesus' teaching aright; many could interpret them correctly, but knowing what a true interpretation entails in a necessary changed condition in their lives will neither acknowledge nor be led by what they know Jesus taught and many frankly confess they are confused and are unable to reach a conclusive decision as to what He really did teach. Briefly stated, the writer has found there is no clear understanding of what Jesus stood for. Ask most any Christian what the doctrine of his particular Church is and in most cases he will make a gallant attempt to enlighten you. Ask him what were the axiomatic social convictions of Jesus and he will, if he dares say anything, begin to talk in a vague way about Christ's law of love and the Golden Rule. But he has missed the point entirely; Christ's law of love is a round-about way of saying Jesus himself loved people but doesn't tell us how he expressed His love and the Golden Rule is only a dozen or so words out of all that is recorded in the four Gospels of the New Testament as having been spoken by Jesus!

WM. L. MOSS

What, then, will be our aim throughout the discussions carried on in this series of articles?

We are going to work out for our use in our daily lives the social thoughts of Jesus and the social meaning of His personality as summed up in His character as a teacher. We will endeavor to prepare ourselves to face the present social and economic order of which we are a part and live our lives according to what Jesus taught regardless of our surroundings or condition in life.

But will not this mean economic loss and if not this then will it not force us into detestable compromise in order to slightly appease our conscience because we do not wholly bow to His will as revealed to us through His teachings? I present this as a natural and frank question on the part of every reader. In answer to this question the writer wishes to state he has nothing to "put over" anyone, no pet theories to establish, no strange doctrine he has clothed in innocency, he doesn't believe "the world is going to the dogs" nor does he believe the world is wrong and he is right. He can only recommend to every reader of this and of whatever he writes his own life's endeavor, a line of thinking which has been the means of opening up to him new worlds of life and thought and brought him manifold joys. It is this: Set your soul to but one purpose, which is strive to discover how Jesus viewed life and personality of the men about Him, how He saw the social relations of men, what the reaction was of His wonderful mind at the sight of the inequalities and sufferings of people around Him and what were His underlying and axiomatic convictions as a result of these three things. The more you study these four things the closer you will get to the real Jesus. I have no copyright on these guide-posts to my thinking; if they will lead you nearer to Him and His wonderful love, take them, use them, abide by what is revealed to you through them and, though men call you peculiar and unwilling to think as other folk, remember they also called your Master "peculiar" and "unwilling to think as other folk," therefore you must be getting pretty close to Him as He was in the days when He taught!

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

LAST week we related how, although the "trades union" idea originated in England, the first trades union was actually formed in the city of Philadelphia. The trades union formed in Manchester, England, only survived two years, and the Philadelphia organization one year. The death of the Manchester trades union was a complete extinction of that particular organization, but the Philadelphia body dissolved into the political activities of the day. Thus here also Philadelphia plowed virgin soil, for it was the evolution of the trades union of that city into politics which called into being the first "labor party" in the world. Philadelphia also has credit for being the home of the first wage-earners' paper, the Mechanics Free Press, an organ established by the Mechanics' Union in January, 1828, antedating by two years the first printing of a similar journal in England.

It is most interesting to note that the first trade union in the world to be established had its inception in the first general strike ever called in this country. In the midst of the torrid temperature of the summer of 1827 the carpenters struck for a ten-hour day. No sooner had the carpenters left their jobs than the bricklayers, painters, glaziers and other craftsmen joined in the movement. But somehow the strike failed of its immediate object and nothing more of any great importance is worth chronicling until 1833, when in the formation of the Trades Union of the City and County of Philadelphia the wage-earners are seen solidifying their ranks by embracing within this organization over fifty "labor societies" with a membership of over ten thousand toilers. Preparations were under way for another general strike. In June of 1835 this memorable incident took place.

Silence!

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

When we went to school we thought our teachers talked too much. Probably they did (to us!), but Dr. Willard S. Elsbree, of Columbia university, while he agrees teachers do sufficient talking in classrooms, don't talk enough about their profession—where the public can hear them. In a survey on "Teachers' Salaries" just released by his university, Dr. Elsbree points out that teachers receive their present low salary scale because they are too tight-mouthed about not only their monthly stipend (and the good professor says it would be to their advantage to call their earnings by their rightful title, "wages") but it would be to their best interest to speak right out and tell the world about conditions that really prevail in the teaching profession. I like the professor's advice to teachers—in and out of college. The mealy-mouthed attitude of heroic silence and childlike complacence of our noble army of public school teachers has never appealed to me. I can see too plainly it hasn't gotten them anything. And the fact that it hasn't riles me. I agree with Dr. Elsbree that it's the fault of the teachers themselves. Every teacher in the land ought to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor—the ideals of that organization would not permit them to tolerate through one single school term the low wages and working conditions two-thirds of them must endure. Yet as long as they are unwilling to face and frankly discuss their problems their economic condition will remain unchanged. It is a noble thing to think well of our profession, no matter what it is, but we are traitors to ourselves when we condone, deny, accept, ignore and attempt to hide from the gaze of outsiders whatever is destructive to our best interests connected with our means of earning bread and meat. It's a trite truism but worth quoting here that the wheel that squeaks get the grease—which is all Dr. Elsbree tells his co-teachers in his survey.

At The Change

A Critical Time In Every Woman's Life.

"During a critical time in my life I took Cardui for several months. I had hot flashes. I would suddenly get dizzy and seem blind. I would get faint and have no strength.

My nerves were on edge. I would not sleep at night.

"Cardui did wonders for me. I recommend it to all women who are passing through the critical period of change. I have found it a fine medicine."—Mrs. Hattie Murphy, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine and contains no dangerous drugs.

E-176

CARDUI
Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

COAL

Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25

Honest Weight — Prompt Service

CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

No goods nor service are "just as good" except they are guaranteed by a UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD.

NOW . . . .

FOR A LIMITED TIME!

A full enameled

GAS RANGE

for only

$39.75

75c down — 50c a week

And Your Old Stove

This new Ultra-Classique Tennessee Console actually possesse the aristocratic elegance of a fine piece of living room furniture. Yet it's offered at a price which convenient terms bring within the reach of all.

To you, Mrs. Housewife, this means — a kitchen that any woman would be proud to call her own . . . more delicious, appetizing meals without trouble or fuss . . . cooking convenience such as you've never known.

Yes! It means all of that. For this exquisitely different Modern Gas Range actually transforms kitchen hours into hours of leisure . . . kitchen drudgery into pleasant pastime . . . the kitchen itself into a delightful part of the home.

What a saving! What a range! Come in and let us show it to you.

CHATANOOGA GAS CO.

PUBLIC - BE - PLEASED SERVICE

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45692
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
The Wilkinson Curtis vs. Richard William Curtis

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Richard William Curtis is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45693
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Benjamin F. Wooten vs. Ida Wooten

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ida Wooten is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45701
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Eva Tucker vs. E. B. Tucker

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that E. B. Tucker is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. DUDA, D. C. 8-28
K. Fugo, Atty.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45688
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Grace Meyer vs. H. G. Meyer.

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that H. G. Meyer is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 11th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
J. Reddy, Atty. 9-4

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45686
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Rosa Lee Setliffe vs. J. F. Setliffe

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that J. F. Setliffe is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Roberts & Bean, Attys. 8-28

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45690
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Ruth Aitken vs. Roy Aitken

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Roy Aitken is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

It costs no more in effort or money to secure UNION GOODS and SERVICE, if you demand and insist on them.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45739
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
George E. Berry vs. Lillian Jackson Berry

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Lillian Jackson Berry is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication by made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 14th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
McClure & McClure, Attys. 9-11

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45752
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Myrtle Morgan vs. Ralph Morgan.

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ralph Morgan is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 17th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Wilkerson & Wilkerson, Attys. 9-11

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45691
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Matilda Griffin vs. Bride Griffin

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Bride Griffin is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next September rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in September next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 4th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. J. Davis, Atty. 8-28

NOTICE OF SALE OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS AND WARES FOR STORAGE

Take notice, that on the 31st day of August 1931, at 10 a.m., the Main Street Transfer and Storage Company will, at its warehouse at 1512 Carr Street, City of Chattanooga, County of Hamilton, State of Tennessee, sell at public outcery to the highest bidder the following described articles, to-wit:

One lot of furniture, consisting of general household goods, and one piano, stored by C. H. Ware.

Said goods will be sold for storage charges accrued thereon and all other necessary expenses incurred in making said sale, and said sale will be made in accordance with Senate Bill No. 128 of the Acts of the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee of 1909, passed on February 12th, 1909, and approved on February 19th, entitled "An Act Creating a Lien in Favor of Warehousemen and Providing Means for Enforcing Same," which said act takes effect from and after its passage.

Said sale will be made at public outcery and for cash and the proceeds thereof applied as directed by said statute.

This the 18th day of August, 1931.
MAIN STREET TRANSFER & STORAGE CO.
By J. S. Lamb.

REPLEVIN NOTICE
No. 1824
Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee.
Tennessee Electric Power Co. vs. Chattanooga Transfer and Storage Company
(E. Grady Varnell)

In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, a replevin notice having been served on goods in storage at the warehouse of the Chattanooga Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant, and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., on Monday, Sept. 21, 1931, at 11 a.m., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

KELSO RICE.
Justice of the Peace.
This 27th day of August, 1931.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45772
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
J. Hamilton Estes vs. Mary Estes

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Mary Estes is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 21st day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
B. M. Fogo, Atty. 9-21

Dad needs a Vacation, too . . .

MOTHER is busy planning her vacation—the children's holidays must be decided upon—but how can dad get away from business? If there was some way he could keep in touch with the office for a few minutes each day, he, too, could enjoy a well-earned rest.

The answer is the telephone, which gives quick and inexpensive voice contact with the office wherever you choose to go. By arranging to call the office at a particular time, you may be sure your manager pro tem will be at the telephone to report the day's activities and receive instructions. This enables you to use cheaper Station-to-Station service without risk of not finding your manager in.

Join mother and the children in having a holiday this summer, while dependable telephone service enables you to keep informed about your business or to call your friends at home. The operator wherever you go will gladly tell you about the cost of calls to your office—just ask for "Long Distance."

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE and Telegraph Company
(Incorporated)

ELSIE GOES CALLING

By ANNABEL LEE GLENN

"My sister is going to get married and mama says we are going to get our house painted for the wedding," said Elsie to the new neighbor who had moved into the second house down the street from Elsie's own home.

"When do you think all this will take place?" asked Mrs. Deming.

"Well, sister says her wedding is set for the 20th of August, and the house has to be finished before then. I don't know who is going to do the painting, but our minister, Rev. Cole, is going to do the marrying part."

Elsie was a little girl who liked very much to talk about things that were going to happen. She had come over to see Mrs. Deming, "just so she won't get lonesome right at first," she had told her mother. Mrs. Deming was glad to talk to Elsie because Elsie told her so many things she liked to hear.

"Gee, I don't know which will be the most fun, the wedding or the painting, but I think I'll like the painting best. Mother says the painters will have buckets of paint all around, and she told me I was to keep out of them, but I have it figured out that I can just sit on the porch and watch. That is, until they get ready to paint the porch. Then I can sit out on the grass and watch."

"Does your sister think she will have a large wedding in the church or a wedding at home?" asked Mrs. Deming, who was very much more interested in the wedding. She had only been married a little while herself and of course she liked to hear what other brides had planned for their marriages.

"Well, sister says she would like to be married at home and that is the main reason we are getting the house painted. Mama thinks it is a good excuse to get the house done over, too, so I guess she will be married at home. I know this much, dad said Mr. Hammond was to get the paint job if he isn't too busy, and if he can't do it, some other man is to get the work, only whoever does it, they are to be Union painters. Do you know what a Union painter is, Mrs. Deming?" Elsie didn't wait for an answer. "A Union painter is a man who belongs to a union and paints. And I bet you don't know what a Union is. I know because dad told me. Dad tells me lots of things. Would you like to know what a Union is?" Elsie stopped for breath.

"I know what a Union is. My husband is a Union machinist, and we often talk about the Union. Does your father belong to a Union?" Mrs. Deming asked her young caller.

"Oh my, yes. My father has belonged to a Union for over fifteen years. That's what he told me last night. You see, last night we were all talking about the house painting and the wedding and dad and mother were sort of scoldy to sister. Sister said she didn't care who did the house but she wasn't going to wait all summer for some Union painters to get through somewhere else and then do our house last. You know Union painters are the busiest because they are the best. Dad just said, "Young lady, you'll have to be more reasonable. If Charley Hammond is too busy we will have some other painters, but you may as well understand this, our friends are going to get the work. I'm not going to pay out my money to any outside firm. We'll have our house painted by Union painters, and it will be done right. Your mother says she is going to call Charley in the morning. If he can take our house as soon as his men finish their jobs at Thompson's and the new store we'll have him start here. He and his men can have this place looking like new in a week.' And then sister said she was sorry she had been so upset, and dad said it was all right because of course she was excited over her wedding."

"What is the name of your sister's sweetheart?" asked Mrs. Deming.

"Johnny King, and he's good looking. Mama thinks they are too young to get married but I don't think so. And then dad said that the Union men who were working and getting the Union scale could do Johnny and sister more good than men who are working for less money. Johnny and his dad run a store, you know, and the workmen would buy their supplies from him, and that in turn would help Johnny make more money so sister could have a nicer home."

"You think your father is about right in everything, don't you, Elsie?" said Mrs. Deming, laughing a little.

"Surely I do. He knows what to do and everyone who knows him thinks he is well informed. People say so. Dad says the Unions in this town have done more good than almost any other—what did he call it, now?"—Elsie thought for a moment, then went on, "more than any other civic organization, and I guess he's right. You know, the new schoolhouse was built by Union men, and the new bridge is being put in by some more Union men, and business around here has picked up, too. Dad said this morning at breakfast that if things keep on, and 'the working people of this nation can keep up their wage levels this depression will soon pass.' Those are dad's very own words. Don't you think that is right, Mrs. Deming?"

"Why yes, Elsie, I do. Jack, that is my husband, says the very same thing. When your daddy comes home this evening tell him Mr. Deming is a Union man, and maybe your father and mother and you could come down some evening this week. You be sure to come, too."

"Thank you, Mrs. Deming. I'll tell them. Oh, there's mother calling me now. I guess it is nearly lunch time. I'll come over again sometime and you come up to see us. Goodbye," and Elsie waved her hand to her friend as she ran down the steps and up the street to her own home.

"I thought my little girl wasn't coming home for lunch today," said Mrs. Rollins as Elsie came up on the porch.

"Well, mother, it was this way. Mrs. Deming and I were talking about the wedding and getting the house painted and we just had to take time to get everything talked over."

"Mother, what do you suppose that child has told now? I suppose you told all about dad and me getting cross with each other last night," said sister, looking at Elsie as though she expected an answer.

"Well, just a little. I only told her that dad said we were going to have Union painters, and that you did get a little cross because you were afraid you would have to wait too long for them, but I said you and dad agreed that the Union painters were our friends and of course we would have Union painters. That was all right, wasn't it, mother?"

"Of course, it was all right. We are going to have Union painters and we are having Charley Hammond and his men. They will start the first of the week, and the painting will be finished in plenty of time for the wedding."

"I'm certainly glad of that," said Elsie, just as if she were getting things ready for her own wedding. "I can hardly wait till the men start working. Oh, mother, I think I'll have the nicest time watching them paint."

What Next!

Perfection of a machine which makes artificial cotton has been announced by the Institute for Experimental Research, Moscow. The machine "cottonizes" rough bast fibers, converting them into manufacturable textiles, the announcement says.

Dope On the Electricians

By E. E. CROSBY

The new slogan will be get gas to match the color of your car.

* * *

John Kennedy and W. P. Howard have been sick but are out and around again.

* * *

Tom Tucker said he caught all the fish he wanted on the last trip up the river; just wondered if he wanted any.

* * *

Mack and some of the boys came out to give yours truly a surprise the other evening as I have been keeping bachelor's hall. I wasn't home, so they were surprised.

* * *

E. E. McDaniels would like for J. D. Lowry to get in communication with him.

* * *

W. B. Dyche claims it's alright for Knoxville to win from Chattanooga, but hates to see them lose to Nashville. What's the difference?

Don't criticize others if you are the sort of a union man who fails to spend his union-earned money for UNION GOODS and SERVICE.

Special days for UNION LABEL agitation are good, but making every day a UNION LABEL day is much better.

Employers in Six Industries Throw Thousands of Workers Into Jobless Army

Washington.—Increasing unemployment, running as high as one-fifth of the employes in the agricultural implement industry, and decreased earnings continued to be the fate of the workers during the month of July, according to a statement by the bureau of labor statistics of the U. S. department of labor.

Agricultural implement manufacturers hit the workers hardest. They tossed 19.8 per cent of their June employes into the army of the unemployed. Air craft manufacturers came second with a discharge list reaching 13.7 per cent of their June employes. Manufacturers of women's clothing and stove manufacturers fired 12 per cent of their employes, confectionery manufacturers 10.5 per cent, manufacturers of glassware 9.2 per cent, and manufacturers of pottery 8 per cent.

In 13,460 identical establishments in the manufacturing industries having in July 2,684,421 employes and combined earnings in one week of $59,354,085, the employers discharged 2.5 per cent of their June employes and reduced their total wages bill 5.4 per cent.

In fifteen major industrial groups the employers discharged 2 per cent of their employes in July as compared with June and reduced their total wages bill 4.8 per cent. In the major groups the bureau's figures cover 46,058 establishments having in July 4,491,521 employes whose combined earnings in one week amounted to $104,280,547.

The reductions in wages caused by the employers in this wholesale tossing of employes into the unemployed army destroyed the buying power of these workers and prolongs the business depression. The five-day week which Labor demands would have kept them all at work, maintained their buying power, and shortened the depression.

Jerusalem Chauffeurs Stage Protest Strike

Jerusalem.—The 24-hour strike of automobile owners and drivers in protest against the duty on gasoline and accessories and against high license fees was a complete success and passed without any of the outbreaks which the government anticipated. There were no motor vehicles on the streets of Jerusalem during the day except those of police patrols and a few government officials. Both Arab and Jewish drivers participated in the strike.

It's so awfully simple to demand UNION GOODS and SERVICE that it is simply awful more trade unionists do not do this important thing.

Do you know Your Union Label

Union Label of Steve Mounters

Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen

Emblem of American Federation of Musicians

Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union

Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance

Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America

Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union

Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union

Coopers' Union Label

United Leather Workers Union Label

United Hatters of North America Label

Union Label of Tobacco Workers

Union Label of Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union Label

Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners

Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers

Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America

Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings

Store Card of Retail Clerks

Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union Label

Jewelry Workers' Union Label

Bookbinders' Union Label

Machinists' Union Label

Union Labels of Electrical Workers

Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America

Brick and Clay Workers' Label

Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators

Photo Printers and Die Stampers' Union Label

International Photo-Engravers' Union Label

Used on Rolls and Bundles

Local Pressmen's Union Label

Allied Printing Trades Label

Paper Makers' Union Labels

Local Typographical Union Label

Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp

Bartenders' Button

Waiters' Button

Cigarmakers' Union Label

Label of Stogie Makers

A. F. of L. Label

Glove Workers' Union Label

Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America

Card of Union Bartenders

Card of Union Waiters

Notice to Coal Dealers

Proposals for Coal for City Schools!

1. Date to Be Delivered—Sealed proposals, in duplicate to furnish such quantities of coal as specified herein, as may be required for use in the City Schools of Chattanooga, State of Tennessee, for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30th, 1932, will be received until Eleven O'Clock A. M., Sept. 5th, at the office of the Commissioner of Education, located on the third floor of the Municipal Building of said city of Chattanooga, and then opened.

2. Bidders May Be Present—Each bidder shall have the right to be present, either in person or by attorney, when bids are opened.

3. Holders of Proposals—Proposals, in duplicate, must be forwarded to the said Commissioner of Education, postage prepaid, or delivered in person prior to the hour designated for opening.

4. Rejection of Bids—The right is reserved by the said Commissioner of Education to reject any and all bids and to waive technical defects. Bidders are cautioned against guaranteeing higher standards of quality than can be maintained in delivered coal, as the said Commissioner of Education reserves the right to reject any and all bids if he has information regarding analysis and test results that indicate higher standards have been offered than probably can be maintained.

5. Tests—The right shall be reserved by the Commissioner of Education to purchase for the purpose of boiler test other coal than that herein contracted for, provided the amount so purchased shall not exceed 10% of the estimated consumption during the period covered by this agreement.

6. Lowest Bid May Not Be Considered—If a bidder to whom the award is made shall fail to enter into a contract as herein provided, then the award may be annulled and the contract let to the next most desirable bidder without further advertisement, and such bidder shall be requested to fulfill every stipulation as provided herein, as if he were the original party to whom contract was awarded; provided, however, that such bidder is notified of said contract within sixty days after the date on which bids on this contract were opened. If such notice should not be given within sixty days, then the acceptance of the award will be optional with said bidder.

8. Contracts Not Transferable—No contract can be lawfully transferrable or assigned.

9. Default—No proposal will be considered from any person, firm or corporation in default of the performance of any contract or agreement made with the said city of Chattanooga or conclusively shown to have failed to perform satisfactorily such contract or agreement.

10. Quantity—The estimated quantity in fiftq-eight hundred (5,800) tons of 2,000 pounds to be purchased is based upon the previous annual consumption, but the right is reserved to order ag reater or less quantity subject to actual requirements of service.

11. Delivery—The coal shall be delivered in such quantities at such times as the Commissioner of Education may direct. All available storage capacity in each school building shall be placed at the disposal of the contractor to facilitate delivery of coal under favorable conditions. When an order is issued for coal the contractor, upon commencing delivery on that order, shall continue the delivery with such promptness as not to waste unduly the service of the said City of Chattanooga's inspector.

12. After verbal or written notice shall have been given to deliver coal under the contract a second notice may be served in writing upon the contractor to make delivery of the coal so ordered within a reasonable time, to be determined by the Commissioner of Education (after receipt of second notice). Should the contractor for any reason fail to comply with the second request the Commissioner of Education shall be at liberty to buy coal independently of this contract and for coal so purchased to charge against the contractor and his sureties any excess in price which would have been paid to the contractor had the coal been delivered.

13. Hours—The contractor shall be allowed to deliver coal during the usual hours of teaming—that is, between 8 A. M. and 5 P. M.

14. Weighing—The right shall be reserved by the Commissioner of Education to have any delivery of coal weighed at any time.

15. Kind and Quality of Coal—The coal must be a good coal and must be adapted for necessary fuel use in the particular boiler and boiler equipment. Several grades of coal are contemplated under the contract:

Item No. 1—Coal for down draft low-pressure heating boiler.
Item No. 2—Coal for up draft low-pressure heating boiler.
Item No. 3—Coal for stoker-fired boiler: 40% slack, 60% 2-inch nut.

16. Specifications—Each bidder must give analysis on which he is bidding, using the following form:
(a) Kind and size of coal.
(b) Commercial name of coal.
(c) Name of mine or mines.
(d) Location of mine or mines.
(e) Name or other designations of coal bed or beds.
(f) Railroad on which mine or mines are located.
(g) Name of operator of mine or mines.
(h) Percentage of moisture in coal "asr eceived."
(i) Percentage of ash in "Dry Coal."
(j) Percentage of volatile matter in "Dry Coal."
(k) Percentage of Sulphur in "Dry Coal."
(l) British Thermal Units per pound of "Dry Coal."
(m) Percentage of carbon per pound in "Dry Coal."
(n) Price per ton of 2,000 pounds for delivery to each school building.
(o) Fusion point (degrees F.) of ash

H. D. HUFFAKER, Commissioner of Education.
Municipal Building, Chattanooga, Tenn.
Aug. 25, 1931.

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

DANVILLE VOTERS "LET OUT" ANTI-UNION OFFICE HOLDERS

Pittsylvania County Citizens Take Advantage of First Opporunity to Express Disapproval of Attitude of Three Prominent Officials During Long Strike of Textile Mill Workers.

Danville, Va., Aug. 26.—Taking advantage of their first opportunity to express disapproval of the activities of various county officials during the strike here in the Riverside and Dan River Cotton mills, in which 4,000 members of the United Textile Workers of America were involved, the citizens of Pittsylvania county in the recent democratic primary nominated an entirely new set of men for the offices of magistrate of Schoolfield township, county commonwealth's attorney and sheriff.

The present incumbents, Magistrate R. S. Fitts, Commonwealth's Attorney P. J. Hundley and Sheriff C. A. Murphy, defeated after having served many years in office, were all prominently identified with the four months' struggle waged by the mill workers against intolerable discrimination on the part of the mill management—a struggle the total cost of which, to the union, mill, state city and county, was recently placed by a survey at $1,756,422.75.

Squire Fitts, with a record of twenty-seven continuous years as magistrate at Schoolfield, came into the spotlight during the first few weeks of the trike, when he wired the governor of Virginia and requested that national guardsmen be dispatched here immediately.

Sheriff Murphy came in for no end of criticism during the labor battle when his forces apparently made no effort to maintain law and order at Schoolfield. Murphy protested that it would be folly to attempt to control the "situation." Later, however, under the protection of state troopers, he "kicked out" the pickets' fires and left them unprotected—a prey to the whims of Old King Winter.

Commonwealth's Attorney Hundley prosecuted numerous strikers following alleged disorders, for which they denied responsibility. He, with Sheriff Murphy, was charged with the breakdown of law and order in the county, which resulted in the sending of national guardsmen here. Hundley has held the office of county prosecutor since 1913.

Thus it seems that others besides the strikers are paying—at this late date—for the strike which held the center of attention in the south last fall and winter. It is remotely possible also that the mills may have a taste of communist-sponsored discord among their workers at some future date, and then may learn just how mild an A. F. of L. strike is in comparison, for much communist literature is being distributed in the local textile area.

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

A young Irishman was a ward captain and his alderman gave a dinner to the faithful workers and their wives. The Irishman's wife was unable to accompany him and the following is the convercation which took place on his return home:

Wife—Was Mrs. Smith there?
Husband—Yes.
Wife—What kind of dress did she have on?
Husband—Well, really, I didn't notice.
Wife—Was Mrs. Martin there?
Husband—Oh, yes.
Wife—What did she have on?
Husband—I didn't notice.
Wife—Now, Mike, I don't think you went to the dinner at all.
Husband—Well, I'll tell you, dear. They had nothing on above the table and I was ashamed to look under.

* * *

"It's impossible to get money from those who have no money," says an economic expert. And next to impossible to get it from those who have, we would add. . . This old world might seem like a heck of a place, but just try to imagine what it would be with three sexes. . . When he was about to have a tooth extracted, a patient suddenly attacked the dentist. As the dentist won, however, it ended in a draw. . . What you save, you leave behind; what you spend you have for awhile; but what you give away in a worthy cause, you take with you. . . The happiness of people is all that makes business or anything else worthwhile. . . If you don't earn your reward you won't enjoy it. . . There is no man living who cannot do more than he thinks he can. . . A woman should know that often, from the shape of things, one cannot blame hosiery for wanting to run.

* * *

A judge declares that home life needs
Co-operation—who'll deny it?
'Tis hard to bring the bacon home
And then to have to fry it.
—H. F. B.

* * *

When it came to the naming of the new mine, the prospector's wife said:
Wife—Will you name it after me, dear?
Prospector—Yes, darling, I will. Yes, I'll name it in your honor.
And from that day to this, one of the richest gold mines in the Black Hills of South Dakota has been known as the Holy Terror.

* * *

Heck—How did Slim, the burglar, come to reform?
Jack—He went and got married, and the wife won't let him out nights.

* * *

Young man to H. F. B.—To what do you attribute your longevity?
H. F. B.—To the fact that I never died.

* * *

Clarence—I had a date with a real gold-digger last night. She spent all my money.
Emma—And I suppose you got in at 11 o'clock sharp.
Clarence—No, I got in at 1 o'clock flat.

* * *

Jerry—I hear you've been studying for months how to increase your salary. How did it turn out?
Freddy—Poorly. The boss was studying at the same time how to cut down expenses.

* * *

Housewife—What do you work at, my poor man?
Tramp—At intervals, madam.

* * *

First Salesman—Meeting with much resistance lately?
Second Salesman—Yes. I ran into three brooms and two bulldogs yesterday.

* * *

They call a sailing vessel "she," not because her rigging is so expensive, but because she makes her best showing in the wind. . . It's fortunate for the average man that he doesn't know half the things he would like to know. . . Unavoidable poetry is the kind folks pay to have printed. . . We can't recall ever having heard a soprano singing in such a way that her words could be understood. But then, we never remember feeling that it made much difference. . . Even if you can't tell a mother and her daughter apart nowadays there is little that you can't tell them together. . . The more ignorant she is of everything else, the better posted a gossip is on domestic affairs of everybody in the neighborhood.

* * *

Reynolds—Worry keeps me thin.
Jenkins—Joke, what on earth have you got to worry about?
Reynolds—I worry about getting stout.

* * *

This story of an ornery man comes from Knoxville. The bride waited at the church. The groom did not come. But, another wedding day was set. The guests assembled, the preacher was ready, the wedding music was played. Again the bride waited at the church. And again the groom did not come. Finally the bride said fiercely: "Well, tain't the pants this time, 'cause I bought him a pair."

* * *

Barber—Your hair is very dry and harsh, sir.
Voice-Culture Expert—So is your voice, but I didn't like to mention it.

* * *

Hood—I went to a spiritualist yesterday.
Fankboner—Any good?
Hood—Oh, just medium.

* * *

Visitor—Well, Joe, how do you like your new little sister?
Joe—Oh, she's all right, I guess; but there are lots of things we needed worse.

* * *

The following item is taken from a recent issue of the Corpus Christi, Texas, Caller-Times:
"Harrell's Business school, in the Furman building, announce the birth of a daughter, Carolyn."
This column thanks H. S., of Corpus Christi, for this pert item.

5-Day Week Jobless Relief Asked by Green

The immediate adoption of the five-day week as a necessary and constructive measure for the relief of unemployment is stressed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an article in the New York Times.

"Unions are leading the way toward the five-day week," Green declares. "Since the beginning of the movement in 1926, 533,000 union members have attained it. Following the union lead, the movement has gained so steadily in industry as a whole that there are undoubtedly more than a million wage-earners who enjoy the two-day week-end.

"I firmly believe that the five-day week will be widely established as a permanent schedule in industry within the near future. But unless employers see to it that the shorter schedule is widely established now, we must look forward to another bitter period of unemployment.

"Already another winter looms ahead when suffering from unemployment may be even worse than it was last winter. More than 40,000,000 persons may be the victims of want, hunger and starvation.

"If with all the intelligence of our leadership in industry, finance and public life we cannot prevent this national calamity, then we have failed indeed, and we can no longer blame workingmen if they condemn the present social order and seek some other form of organization which will give honest men a chance to earn an honest living."

150,000 World War Veterans Lack Jobs

Washington.—Out of between 50,000 and 55,000 of the approximately 290,000 disabled veterans of the World war who have reported on their employment condition to the U. S. Employment Service, 26,645 are jobless. On the basis of this return, E. C. Babcock, national commander of the disabled American veterans, estimates that around 150,000 of the disabled veterans are out of jobs. About 6,500 of the 50,000 or 55,000 reported on are established as unemployable, being in hospitals or institutions under domiciliary care.

MORE ABOUT

COAL MINERS

(Continued from First Page)

the company, use of which was mandatory. Here are his findings:

	Company	Independent
Bag of flour	.95	.75
Bacon, pound	.28	.17
Coffee, pound	.30	.15
Lard, pound	.18	.12½
Cigarettes, pkg.	.29	.13
Potatoes, peck	.70	.35
Beans, 3 pounds	.25	.15
Milk, can	.08 1/3	.10
Coca-Cola and pop	.10	.05
Shoes	6.00	3.00
Total	$9.04	$4.97

Under the circumstances, it cannot be wondered that Miner Shiflett and his companions are not entirely happy. Company stores, in general, cause a lot of trouble to workers. They have an unpleasant way of eating up savings, and if they all profiteer like the one in West Virginia, are contributing nothing to the solution of the labor problem.

SAMPLING THE UNEMPLOYED IS STATISTICIANS' JOB

New Haven, Conn.—"Sampling" the out-of-works is a new method for determining the extent of unemployment tried out in New Haven, Conn., by the department of statistics of the Russell Sage Foundation and the Yale Institute of Human Relations in cooperation with the New Haven citizens committee on unemployment.

The statisticians say the complete census of a city population to determine the number of unemployed is unnecessary. It is claimed that "sampling," which involves the investigation of only a small part of the population, can be made to give quite accurate representations of the whole, provided the scheme is applied by qualified investigators.

CONSTIPATION take

"IF I got constipated, I would get dizzy and have swimming in my head. I would have very severe headache.

"For a while I thought I wouldn't take anything—maybe I could wear out the headaches; but I found they were wearing me out.

"I found Black-Draught would relieve this, so when I have the very first symptoms, I take Black-Draught and now I don't have the headache.

"I am a firm believer in Black-Draught, and after using it 20 or more years, I am satisfied to continue its use."
—F. B. McKinney, Orange Park, Fla. L-171

THEDFORD'S
Black-Draught

WOMEN who are run-down, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

TAXI

Phone 7-1261

PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE

WATSON CAB CO.

PHONE CABS — METER RATES

208 West Ninth St.

OUR WEEKLY MARKET BASKE

WATCH this section every we for Grocery Bargain

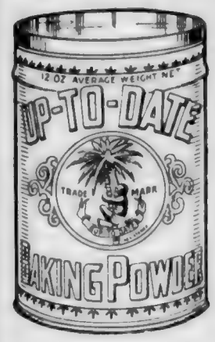
Make your Dollar Double Duty. Patronize those who patroni YOUR PAPER — and save the difference.

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED
EASY WAY
SELF SERVICE GROCERY
417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

LARD Pure or Compound, very best grades (Limit 4 lbs.) 4 lbs. 35c
PINK SALMON No. 1 Tall, 15c Size, 3 cans 25c
SUGAR XXXX Powdered or the Browns, 10c size — 1 lb. carton for 7c
SUGAR 25 Lbs. $1.27; 10 Lbs. 52c; 5-Lb. Bag 26c
MILK Carnation or Pet; 10 Small or 5 Tall Cans 29c
PORK & BEANS Armour's "Veri-Best" Regular 10c size—Can 5c

WE EMPLOY UNION LABOR ONLY IN OUR MARKET



Something to Eat!

A baking powder to achieve satisfactory results must be scientifically blended and chemically pure.

UP-TO-DATE BAKING POWDER

Makes biscuit as light as a feathe

STAGMAIER & COMPANY, Inc.

MANUFACTURERS

CHATTANOOGA, - - - TENNESSE

Bargains for Saturday!

MAX. HOUSE COFFEE Vacuum Pack (2 lb. limit), Lb. 27c
OCTAGON SOAP Large Bar (10 bar limit) 10 Bars for 39c
SALT Reg. 5c Size, 2 Boxes 5c
MATCHES Box 2c
HOMINY 2 for 9c
Van Camp's, 300 Size
PURE LARD 4 Lbs. for 35c
(4 Lb. Limit)
BACON Pound 25c
Rindless Black Hawk

INTERNATIONAL UNION MARKET
THIS IS TO CERTIFY, That this Meat Market is conducted in accordance with the rules of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L. Therefore we commend it to the patronage of all.

SAUNDERS STORE
423-425-427 MARKET STREET
(INDEPENDENT OF ANY CHAIN STORE—HOME OWNED)

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

IF YOU WANT THE

BEST FLOUR MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co., Chattanooga

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, SEPTEMBER 4, 1931 — Number 19

NO SET PROGRAM FOR OBSERVANCE OF LABOR'S DAY

Local Unions Plan No Formal Celebration.

NEIGHBOR CITIES TO HOLD PICNICS

Johnson City, Wilder Announce Only Elaborate Festivities in State.

Labor's golden anniversary will be observed quietly in Chattanooga, no program having been arranged by Chattanooga Trades and Labor council. Several all-day picnic parties have been arranged, while a number of trades unionists have expressed their intention of making trips to Knoxville, Nashville or Johnson City.

The most elaborate celebration in the state will be held at the latter place, where Secretary of Labor Doak heads the speaking program, and where the Labor Day exercises will be combined with the opening of the Appalachian fair.

At Nashville, Knoxville and Memphis the day will be observed with programs at the amusement parks.

The United Mine Workers of Overton and Fentress counties will stage a great celebration of their own, which is in the nature of a "thanksgiving" for peace and harmony in the Wilder coal fields between employer and employe. This field includes some half-dozen coal camps, and it is expected that some 5,000 people will gather for the ceremonies. Paul J. Aymon and William Turnblazer will deliver addresses, and a list of those invited to speak includes J. Will Taylor, Circuit Judge Brown, of Jellico; Judge Mitchell, of Cookeville; Representative Boswell, of Oakdale, and Messrs. Douglass, Patterson and Boyer, operators of the mines at Wilder, Davidson and Crawford. The celebration is being handled by committees from the three locals.

Labor Day speeches by President Green and Secretary Morrison will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting company. Mr. Green speaks at Ottumwa, Iowa, at 2:30 p.m. central standard time. Mr. Morrison speaks at Chicago, Ill., at 1 p.m., daylight saving time.

Barbers to Hold Monthly Meeting Tuesday Evening

Local 415, Journeymen Barbers, will hold their monthly meeting Tuesday night, instead of Monday, which is the regular meeting date, President George W. Perry said Thursday.

Mr. Perry added the hope that a full attendance would be on hand, as business of unusual importance will come up for attention by the members.

All union shops will be closed all day Monday, Mr. Perry said.

Dame Rumor Does Grave Injustice To Union Barber

Dame Rumor, that elusive and sometimes conscienceless character who has no respect for persons, has done a grave injustice recently to an employer of union barbers for many years. The victim is G. F. Mitchell, manager of the Sanitary shop, 13 E. Seventh street, and Mr. Mitchell is "on the warpath" as a result.

It was like this: Report circulated early this week had it that the Sanitary shop would remove the barbers' shop card and join the list of "catch-as-catch-can" cut-rate places which have sprung up in various sections of the city, chiefly in the outlying districts. And to say that the old-timer now "sore" is putting it mildly. "I have operated a union barber shop," he told The Labor World, "since 1917, and have made my living along with other barbers, under modern, sanitary conditions, from customers who want the service of a highly-skilled craftsman.

"If the time ever comes, which I don't believe it will, when I am forced to operate under different conditions, I will close up and quit business. In other words, when I must remove my shop card I will shut the doors and leave the field for somebody else."

And so, brother, if anybody asks you, tell 'em there's still a Union Shop Card in the Sanitary shop.

TORONTO HAS HAGGERTY FOR LABOR DAY SPEAKER

Toronto, Can.—John B. Haggerty, president of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders, will deliver the Labor Day address here under the auspices of the district labor council.

And Then When the Other Get Well, What?

—Darling in the N. Y. Herald-Tribune

AMERICAN LABOR HAS RIGHT TO FEEL PROUD OF ACHIEVEMENTS IN MAINTAINING WAGE RATES

President Green Declares Principle of Good Pay Has Planted Itself Firmly in Our Business System.

(An Advance Copy of an Editorial to Appear in the September Issue of The American Federationist, By William Green.)

"Both the American Federation of Labor and the nation have a right to feel proud of one big achievement out of this depression—our success in maintaining wage rates. Despite the severity of the crisis, wage cuts have been confined to smaller companies or to the mismanaged industries. During the first twelve months of 1930 the number of firms reporting wage cuts, per 100 firms reporting, were 6.7 per cent; for the first six months of 1931, 9.9 per cent. This amounts to 16.6 per cent for the eighteen months. Contrast this to 92.7 per cent for 1921!

"This means that the high-wage principle has planted itself firmly in our business system. Business at last realizes that high wages are an investment in the stabilization of prosperity. Unless income in the form of wages goes to wage-earners there is not enough consumer credit to move goods out of retail stores at a steady rate that will enable industry to operate continuously.

"Workers' incomes have been reduced by part time and layoffs, but with wage rates maintained, workers are in a position to recapture prosperity without having to regain a lost level of living.

"Those employers who honestly believe in high wages have returned to other and more fruitful fields to decrease operating expenses. Economics in buying and selling, elimination of wastes in production, cheaper credit, deflation of securities in fields that reduce production costs.

"Wage cuts defeat themselves because they lower morale and permanently impair the work capacity of employes and decrease the possibilities of selling the firm's product.

"Our success in maintaining wage levels is due to the conviction and the courage of industrialists and trade unions. Opposition has come from bankers, employers with limited vision and some economists.

"We hope to make progress by

WILLIAM GREEN

convincing responsible industrial executives and establishing a control over credit that will assure constructive practices. But the greatest power to establish and maintain the high-wage principle lies with workers in their organized capacity. Unless workers themselves set about the task of maintaining wages they cannot count upon security. Unless we look out for our own interests, we can count upon getting just appreciation only in our orations, for the rest we have to think and plan to get what we want.

"The trade union is essential for establishing and maintaining the high-wage principle."

NEW PUBLIC WORKS CONTRACTS SHOW $3,000,000 GAIN IN WEEK

Washington, Sept. 2.—Construction contracts for public and semi-public work reported for the week ending Aug. 22 to the president's emergency committee for employment increased almost $3,000,000 over the awards reported for the week ended Aug. 15, Fred C. Croxton, acting chairman, reports. The contracts covered 398 projects in forty-two states and had a total value of $37,710,674, Mr. Croxton said. His report in full follows:

"Public and semi-public works contract awards amounting to $37,710,674 were reported to the public works section of the president's emergency committee for employment last week. The addition of this amount brought the total of contract awards reported since Dec. 1, 1930, to $2,210,719,578.

"The week before last the amount reported was $34,758,379.

"The amount reported last week covers 398 projects in forty-two states and the District of Columbia and includes $1,640,986 worth of national park road contract awards made in July and $1,046,088 worth of federal forest road contract awards made in July. Other projects include federal, state, county and municipal buildings; school and college construction, hospitals, bridges, sewers, streets, drainage, water supply, power plants, rivers and harbors work, and other types of public and semi-public construction."

DAY'S PAY AND LAY-OFFS FOR OUT-OF-WORK RELIEF

Baltimore, Md.—Mayor Jackson has issued a request-order to all city officials and employes to contribute one day's pay a month for the creation of an unemployment relief fund. Lower-paid wage earners are exempted.

In addition, all civil service employes are required to take one day's holiday a month to provide temporary work for the unemployed on the eligible lists of the city service commission.

"POOR FOLKS" LOSE A ROUND IN SCHOOL ROW

Wealth Forces Vote on Bond Issue.

BUT END IS NOT YET —SQUIRE THRASHER

County Judge Pro Tem. Believes People Will Rebuke "Arn Crowd."

"Us poor folks" lost another skirmish this week when a group of Chattanooga's wealthiest citizens, under the generalship of the redoubtable champion of the taxpayer, Fred Arn, leading manufacturer and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce taxation committee, succeeded in securing the required number of names to a petition demanding a referendum on the proposed issue of bonds in the amount of $200,000 for school buildings at Red Bank and Tyner-Silverdale.

Under a new statute fostered by Senator Chambliss in the recent session of the state general assembly 500 taxpayers representing $1,500,000 assessed property may demand a vote of the people on a proposed bond issue, and Mr. Arn and his associates found easy sailing on the financial qualification, and, through the able assistance of both daily papers, managed to secure the required number of signatures in the allotted forty days to force the vote.

But, according to Wilkes T. Thrasher, county judge pro tem. and leader of the progressive forces, the end is not yet, and despite efforts of opponents now to prevent even the calling of an election by pointing out an alleged technicality in the act, the county court, which has the authority to initiate the movement for such election, will in all probability order it held.

"Holding of an election on this bond issue will cost the county several thousand dollars," Squire Thrasher said to a representative of The Labor World, "but the blame for this costly procedure can be laid only at the door of Fred Arn and his associates. I believe that the people of Hamilton county will recognize the just claim of the people of Red Bank, Tyner and Silverdale that their children are entitled to educational facilities on a par with those of other communities. That these schools are badly needed cannot be denied by those who have investigated conditions. In one case, for instance, the badly congested condition has forced the use of a dark and possibly unhealthful basement room, and the renting of a nearby church to take care of the overflow. To attempt to deny these citizens proper school facilities on the plea of 'economy' is manifestly wrong, and I do not believe the people of Hamilton county will approve the Mussolini tactics of Mr. Arn and his crowd, who in most cases have no children of their own who are forced to attend public schools.

"Another thing: The United States government itself has now under way a billion-dollar public works program, and the congress is to consider a proposal for the issuance of $5,000,000,000 additional to provide employment for millions of out-of-works this winter. On every hand it is being recognized that extensive public works must be undertaken to prevent actual starvation for millions during the coming months. Yet a selfish group of wealthy local manufacturers and capitalists would stagnate all progress along this line in order to save a few cents yearly in taxes.

"I believe the people will approve the issue at the polls, and I intend to do everything in my power to assure that the election be held and the local reactionaries rebuked by popular vote."

Squire Thrasher was open and bitter in his denunciation of the tactics of the opponents of progress, and was confident that their activities have served to arouse the people as a whole to the necessity for protecting the interests of poor people against a powerful and selfish group representing, in the aggregate, many millions of the county's wealth.

HOSIERY WORKERS CALL STRIKE IN READING, PA.

Reading, Pa.—Officials of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers issued a general strike call to the employes of the 27 hosiery mills in this vicinity. Strike leaders demand a 33 1-3 per cent increase in wages and recognition of the union.

About 10,000 hosiery workers are employed here. The Berkshire mills alone employ normally some 5,000 persons.

SENATOR ALBERT E. HILL PLEADS FOR ADOPTION FREE TEXTBOOK SYSTEM BY STATE LEGISLATURE

Chairman Nashville School Board Points Out Average Cost Per Pupil in That City Is 84 Cents—Wants Organized Labor to Push Movement.

Written for The Labor World
By HON. ALBERT E. HILL
Chairman Nashville Board of Education

Parents of school children of Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga and Knoxville are fortunate in having textbooks furnished free to their children. Especially is this the case during the economic depression when many, no doubt, are making a real sacrifice to send their children to school. In other cities and towns of Tennessee, where the parents have to furnish the school books, it must be a real hardship.

The cost of books to the taxpayers in Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga and Knoxville is very little. It has been absorbed in the budgets until no one feels it. Take Nashville, for instance; books are furnished free to every pupil from the first grade through the high school. The average cost per capita in the Nashville high school is $1 per year; in the grammar grades the average cost is 70 cents per year. I would judge the Nashville cost to be the average cost in Memphis, Knoxville and Chattanooga.

The committee appointed at the last session of the legislature to investigate the question of free textbooks presented a most excellent report, showing conclusively that it was to the best interest of school administrations, pupils and taxpayers to furnish free textbooks. The bill introduced in the legislature, however, provided for the state to print its own textbooks. This plan would cost for the equipment alone in the neighborhood of $200,000; then, as the book companies own a majority of the manuscripts, which are probably copyrighted, the state would be seriously handicapped in securing the right books. However, with the expensive clause in the bill it mustered enough votes to pass the house, but failed to come up on third reading in the senate.

The people of Nashville, Memphis, Knoxville and Chattanooga seem well satisfied with their experience with free textbooks, and a strong sentiment for the extension of their own use is growing throughout the state. It seems to me that a concerted effort on the part of those interested in furnishing free textbooks to all the children of the state would result in having the next legislature enact a statewide free textbook law.

One thing to the credit of the free textbook system is that no city, county or state, having tried free textbooks, has ever wanted to abolish the system. Free textbooks are an integral and essential part of the public school system. Thirty or more states of the union have acted on this principle and results have justified their policy.

The compulsory school law in Tennessee makes free textbooks essential. It is inconsistent to force our children to go to school and then not to provide the means for their schooling—school houses, teachers, books; one is practically useless without the other two.

ALBERT E. HILL

Free textbooks have proved to be economical, costing only a small per cent of the cost to individual buyers. They are convenient to teachers, to parents and to pupils. The teacher who finds all classes equipped with books at the first of each term has an advantage over the teacher who has a class only partly equipped with books.

The advantages of free textbooks are so apparent that those opposed to the system have no sound argument, but usually make the charge that free textbooks are a source of disease. If this is the case, we will have to include all books from the circulating library, all second-hand books, the church prayer and hymn books, and even those borrowed from friends. In fact, the contagion cry is the last word of the defeated, for free textbooks are carefully handled and those unfit for use are discarded. There is less danger from the use of school books, under a teacher's direction, than from any other books we can think of.

Free textbooks have proven satisfactory wherever they have been used, benefiting, alike, pupils, schools and communities.

Organized labor for many years has been to the forefront in all progressive legislation effecting our schools, and I trust that the members throughout the state will get busy and urge the next legislature to enact a statewide free textbook law.

UNIONS PAY OUT MILLION DOLLARS A WEEK TO UNEMPLOYED MEMBERS

Organized Labor Spending Enormous Sums for Various Forms of Out of Work Benefits, Putting Trade Unionists Entirely Out of Charity Relief Picture Coming Winter.

Washington, Sept. 2.—While public officials, including the new Hoover-Gifford committee, charity machines and others go through all manner of maneuvers and operations in preparation for the coming winter's relief work, the trade union movement continues to pay to its out-of-work members an amount estimated at one million dollars a week. It does this without fuss or feathers, fanfare or ballyhoo and will do that much or more throughout the coming winter.

Having reaped only wages, where wage-cutting corporations reaped harvests of dividends, the trade unions of the United States are paying their enormous relief totals out of wages, past and current. Again it is a case of "the poor feeding the poor."

This figure is an International Labor News Service estimate, based on certain known figures. It is almost certainly not too high and it may be far too low. A survey of the whole field would be a tremendous task and the compilation of exact figures almost impossible, for they are in large part known only to local unions, of which there are nearly 30,000.

In the fiscal year just closed the International Photo Engravers' union has dispensed $1,000,000 to its idle members.

In nearly all trades one system or another of remission of dues prevails and this alone runs into large figures in the aggregate. Particularly is this true in those cases where dues cover payments to benefit and mortuary funds. The International Molders' union pays the dues of its out-of-work members in genuine cash transactions and the payments run to large amounts. Here, as in most other cases, the relief work done by local unions cannot be estimated.

The International Typographical union has paid enormous benefits during the year. Out-of-work benefits have been paid by local unions through assessments. No. 6, in New York, has paid in excess of $21,000 per week, in addition to limiting the work-week to five days. The Chicago union has paid in excess of $310,000 during the year, International President Howard reports. In addition to these out-of-work benefits paid by local unions, the international has paid a million and a half as old age pensions, half a million in death benefits and $300,000 to maintain its home for the sick and aged during the year.

In the building trades unions local union assessments against working members for the relief of unemployed members are common, in most cases being at the rate of $1 per day for each day worked, so that a union having an average of 100 members working raises $100 a day for use in relief of unemployed members. Added to this local relief is usually some form of carriage of dues and in some cases additional benefits. Loans to local unions by internationals is not infrequent and here again an impressive total has undoubtedly been rolled up in the past year.

Many Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' unions are levying the one dollar assessment and the same is true of Operative Plasterers. The Operative Plasterers are at present likewise paying strike benefits.

Whatever may be the number of trade unionists unemployed, they are not numbered among those about whom the Gifford organization will have to worry. "Trade union unemployed are maintained by their fellow trade unionists," said Secretary Frank Morrison, citing the long record of the labor movement in "caring for its own."

PRINTERS OPEN ANNUAL MEET IN BOSTON SEPT. 14

Typos to Consider Many Major Problems.

UNEMPLOYMENT WILL DEMAND ATTENTION

Chattanooga Will Not Be Represented First Time in Several Years.

In connection with the convening of the seventy-sixth session of the International Typographical union in Boston, Mass., on Sept. 14, it is interesting to glance through the officers' reports for the fiscal year ending June 20, 1931, and note the many items indicative of the activities and strength of the I. T. U.

Chattanooga Typographical union will not be represented at the Boston convention, local printers believing that the money necessary to send a delegate could be better spent here at home in the interest of the unemployed members of No. 89. This will be the first time in several years that No. 89 has not been represented at an international convention.

This annual get-together of printers from all sections of North America, while looked upon by some as merely an excuse to take a nice long trip and have a good time, could really be called a part of the backbone of the union. Every member of this great organization looks forward each year to the convention, for thede legates consider many things which the membership at large deems of vital interest. Each local which sends a delegate gets a chance to present its pet plan for the improvement of some phase of unionism to the rest of the membership.

Probably the most important problem facing the delegates will be to devise some method of combating unemployment. Many solutions will be presented by the various delegates. Other items to be considered will be a probable change in the present pension laws, some method of increasing the general fund, and the probable creation of a defense fund.

The following items are gleaned from the International officers' reports, published in the August issue of the Typographical Journal, and are deemed worthy of reprinting in these columns to give members of other unions an insight on the activities of the I. T. U.

Of the $6,340,213.21 in the treasury, $113,550 is invested in bonds of Tennessee cities, as follows: Chattanooga, $37,200; Knoxville, $25,000; Memphis, $25,150, and Nashville, $26,200.

During the past fiscal year, members of Chattanooga Typographical union No. 89 have paid into the international treasury the sum of $3,642.54, while local members on the pension roll have drawn $1,816 and beneficiaries of deceased members have received $3,000 from the international treasury, a total of $4,816, or $1,173.46 more than the local active members have paid in.

Tennessee locals (eight in all) have paid into the international treasury $21,707.02 during the past year and have drawn back $47,977.51 in pensions, mortuary benefits and strike benefits, or $26,270.49 more than they paid in. Nashville local alone drew $32,849.51 from the international, of which amount $6,000 was in pensions and $2,000 in mortuary benefits, the balance being in strike benefits.

Receipts from all sources of the international for the past year were $2,714,035.62, while the expenditures for all purposes were $2,675,316.85, showing an increase in the treasury of $38,718.77, and that during a period when many businesses are showing a deficit.

On June 20, 1931, there were 3,343 pensioners on the roll, and dlring the past year the international has paid $1,303,960 in pensions, at the rate of $8.00 per week to each pensioner.

The total number of deaths since 1892 is 26,685. The largest number of deaths at any certain age was 580, which was at 50 and 60.

Mortuary benefits paid during the past year amounted to $518,629.81, and the total amount of benefits paid since 1892 is $7,447,913.20.

The net cost of maintaining the Union Printers Home at Colorado Springs, Colo., during the year was $304,606.56, with an average of 327 residents. The average cost per resident was $77.68 per month; $72,122.80 was spent during the year for construction and building repairs.

A total of 816,000 copies of the Typographical Journal were printed during the year at a cost of $76,405.06, or 9.35 cents per copy.

Based on payment of dues to the old age pension and mortuary funds, the total earnings of union printers during the year were $173,308,491.00, a decrease under last year's earnings of $10,566,310.00. Average earnings per member were $2,228.84.

Maintenance of headquarters property cost $10,637.51 for the year, an average monthly cost of $886.46.

There are 781 local typographical unions under the jurisdiction of the international, and these locals have

(Continued on Last Page)

THE LABOR WORLD
810 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7563
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY

Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council

R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager

Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 10, 1921.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1931.

TODAY'S LABOR WORLD.

This issue of The Labor World contains an unusually large number of articles prepared specially for the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of Labor Day by outstanding men of the American Labor Movement. The greatest economic crisis, perhaps, which has ever faced the nation is dealt with from different angles and varied viewpoints. It is noted that while some contain only pessimism, several of our contributors sound a more optimistic note and profess to see a bright future when the clouds have rolled away.

There is contained herein a wealth of informative matter which every citizen, trades unionist or not, should read and consider. We cannot urge too strongly upon our readers to preserve their copies until every word is given careful consideration and study.

Included, also, in our advertising columns is representation from scores of local business houses, the number of which, in all the circumstances, is extremely gratifying, and which we regard as a tribute to the high standing of the local labor movement. In practically every instance in the solicitation of this business, The Labor World's representative was extended the most courteous treatment, and this rule also held good among quite a few who were solicited and due to unfavorable business conditions felt that they were unable to have representation.

We commend the advertisers in this issue to every consideration of our readers, and urge upon them also a careful perusal of the messages extended by these local citizens.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—Where are highest and lowest wages for women workers in manufacturing found?

A.—The women's bureau of the United States department of labor reports that wages are highest in Rhode Island, New Jersey and Ohio and lowest in Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina.

* * *

Q.—What general strike saved the German republic?

A.—A strike called in 1920 to defeat a military dictatorship set up in Berlin by Dr. Wolfgang Kapp and others in an attempt to overthrow the Ebert government. The Kapp-Putsch, as the attempt to seize control of the government was called, collapsed after a few days as a result of the strike.

* * *

Q.—Has the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor had more than one president?

A.—No. James O'Connell has been president since the formation of the department in 1908.

* * *

Q.—What is the trade jurisdiction of the Tobacco Workers' International union?

A.—The manufacture of smoking and chewing tobacco, snuff and paper-wrapped cigarettes.

It's so awfully simple to demand UNION GOODS and SERVICE that it is simply awful more trade unionists do not do this important thing.

RUN-DOWN and WEAK

"I began taking Cardui when in a weakened, run-down condition," writes Mrs. F. S. Perrit, of Wesson, Miss. "I took one bottle, and I seemed to improve so much that I sent for six bottles. After I had taken the six bottles, I seemed entirely well.

"Before I took Cardui, I was nervous, restless, blue and out of heart. I felt depressed all the time. After I took Cardui, all this disappeared.

"I gave my daughter Cardui and it helped to relieve irregular . . ."

This medicine has been used by women for over 50 years. G-170

Take CARDUI Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

HISTORY OF LABOR DAY

Labor Day, 1931, is the thirty-eighth annual celebration of Labor Day as a legal national holiday and the fiftieth anniversary of the first local Labor Day celebration.

The history of Labor Day as a legal holiday is evidence of the methods and progress of labor.

Labor Day was not given to labor as a present from kindly disposed employers, social welfare workers, or legislators. Its recognition was won by the strength of labor itself.

The united efforts of the workers themselves established Labor Day as a national holiday years before any state legislature or the congress of the United States enacted the custom into law.

Nevertheless, the history of Labor Day statute laws themselves is important because it illustrates the increasing influence of labor's economic organizations over the actions of government bodies.

P. J. McGuire, the founder of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and for many years a member of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, originated the Labor Day idea.

At a meeting of the New York City Central Labor union held on May 8, 1882, McGuire stressed the propriety of setting aside one day in the year as a general holiday for the working people. He suggested that it be called Labor Day.

The Central Labor union adopted the idea and organized a Labor Day parade and festival on the first Monday in September, 1882.

The 1884 convention of the American Federation of Labor endorsed the proposal for a national Labor Day holiday by unanimously adopting the following resolution introduced by A. C. Cameron, a delegate from the Chicago Trades and Labor Alliance:

> "Resolved, That the first Monday in September of each year be set apart as a laborer's national holiday, and that we recommend its observance by all wage workers, irrespective of sex, calling, or nationality."

Organized labor carried on its demand for Labor Day so effectively that soon many municipal councils and state legislatures made it a legal holiday.

Oregon was the first state to make Labor Day a state holiday; the Oregon Labor Day law was signed by the governor on February 21, 1887. During 1887 the legislatures of Colorado, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York also made Labor Day a state holiday. In 1889, Connecticut, Nebraska and Pennsylvania enacted Labor Day laws; in 1890, Iowa and Ohio; in 1891, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Montana, New Hampshire, South Carolina, Tennessee and Washington; in 1892, Alabama, Louisiana, Utah and Virginia; in 1893, California, Delaware, Florida, Minnesota, Rhode Island, Texas and Wisconsin.

In the meantime the officials of the American Federation of Labor endeavored to have the congress of the United States make Labor Day a national holiday.

Shortly after the Fifty-third congress convened in 1893, Senator James H. Kyle, of South Dakota; Representative Amos J. Cummings, of New York, and Representative Robert E. De Forest, of Connecticut, introduced bills making Labor Day a legal holiday.

The Cummings bill was reported favorably by the house committee on labor, of which Lawrence E. McGann, of Illinois, was chairman. The committee did not report the De Forest bill.

The Kyle bill was reported favorably by the senate committee on education and labor, of which Senator Kyle was chairman. Following is the text of the Kyle bill:

> A BILL MAKING LABOR DAY A LEGAL HOLIDAY
>
> "Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, That the first Monday in September in each year, being the day celebrated and known as labor's holiday, is hereby made a legal public holiday, in the same manner as Christmas, the 1st day of January, the 22d day of February, the 30th day of May, and the 4th day of July are now by law public holidays."

The senate passed the Kyle bill on June 24, 1894, the house passed it on June 26, in the place of the Cummings bill, and President Cleveland signed it on June 28.

In his annual report to the 1894 convention of the American Federation of Labor, Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, announced Labor's victory with the following brief statement:

> "National Labor Day—It affords me pleasure to be able to report that the demand made by the American Federation of Labor for making the first Monday in September of each year a legal holiday passed congress and was made a law on June 28, 1894."

All hail to Labor Day, 1931!

WHERE POLITICAL ACTION FAILS.

Resignation of the Ramsay MacDonald government in England, to be replaced by a national government, with all parties participating, brings sharply to the front the extreme dangers faced by labor in the realm of partisan politics and independent labor politics.

Within the labor party structure the trade unions and the political leaders came to a point of disagreement as sharp as any point of disagreement between opposing political parties could be.

Regardless of the deep-seated industrial financial and economic troubles of England, the fact remains that in facing these difficulties the two components of the labor party split wide open.

The whole British labor front is bound to be affected for the worse. Instead of unity and solidarity within labor ranks there is dissension and dispute. Which is right and which is wrong matters little. There is division and that matters a great deal.

There will be in the United States no desire to express anything but hopes for the progress of the wage-earning masses of England, but the time is more than opportune to point again to the soundness of the American trade union policy in politics—partisanship to principles, but not to political parties.

OIL MAINTAINS WAGE SCALES.

Interesting it is that the great oil companies are not cutting wages. Better than that, some of them have guaranteed that during the coming year there will be no cuts.

It is reported that none of the Standard companies has cut wages and that none will. The Shell Oil company has announced no cuts during the coming year. It is assumed the other two Shell operating companies will follow suit.

Nor are these companies materially altering the number of employes.

With the big oil companies it is, employment as usual.

However, it need not be forgotten that these giants have been able to levy vast tribute in years gone by, storing up riches that would make a wage-cut a fanatic piece of economic criminality.

But, remembering that, it still is good news that oil employment among the big companies go on as usual.

THE MINERS GO TO BAT.

Union miners employed by the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company, Colorado, have agreed to postpone half the wages due in August, September and October and longer if necessary, to enable the company to maintain the union scale and meet the competition of the wage-slashing Rockefeller Colorado Fuel and Iron company. Union co-operation means more than hot air.

LABOR DENOUNCES RACKETEERING.

Hugh Frayne, veteran New York representative of the American Federation of Labor, was at his fighting best when he spoke at the great Madison Square Garden mass meeting to fight racketeering. Frayne made no mush-mouthed talk. He sailed in and told them that employers who slash wages and foster unemployment cannot escape their responsibility for a great part of the racketeering that New York is fighting. And the immense audience thundered its applause.

What Next!

Popcorn specialists have surpassed the record of two blades of grass for one. Through selection, they have produced a new strain which pops to twenty-six times its volume. The new strain, a yellow pearl popcorn named Sunburst, was produced during a seven-year period by agronomists of the department of agriculture in co-operation with the Kansas agricultural experiment station.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

GOD'S WORD

A Weekly Comment on a Text From the Bible

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

THE SOCIAL IDEALS OF JESUS OF NAZARETH: An Interpretation

CHAPTER I
JESUS THE TEACHER OF MEN

As we look back down the long stretch of man's history there is plainly discernible certain perinds that are marked by distinct characteristics, which, it seems to us today, are undeniable proof that each such time had a specific part to play in man's destiny. These outstanding and epoch-making periods in the course of man's past life on earth are neither vague nor easily subjected to misinterpretation to one who has even a college student's learning, and to the more scholarly student who devotes not hours but a lifetime to the study of history the characteristics of the periods to which I refer are as clear as the clouds in the heavens or mountain peaks against the distant horizon.

WM. L. MOSS

Something like nineteen hundred years ago three streams of humanity and the civilizations peculiar to each converged in the eastern part of the world. They were the Greeks with their cultured civilization, the Romans with their genius for organization and the Hebrews with their life subordinated to the idea of the supreme lordship of one true and living God. Neither of the three races seem to have recognized the part they were playing in the destiny of mankind—perhaps the Hebrews a little more than either of the other two, yet they were not fully conscious of their mission in the world as is evidenced by their lack of missionary endeavor. The Greeks were never conscious of their didactic mission; whatever is revealed in what their writers have left behind them that they had any desire to pass to posterity the best they were able to produce in the hopes that future generations would be helped thereby. The Romans were too busy satisfying their lusts and preparing for future wars to care a whit as to whether they passed anything on to coming generations. The Hebrews, while too self-centered to think at all of the outside world and least of all generations to come after them, yet had a sustained conviction that they were engaged in a sacred and special calling, but beyond the bare recognition of this conviction, and never inquisitive enough to fathom its meaning, they cared little for those who were to occupy this earth after they had left it.

In the midst of the maelstrom created by the meeting of these three races there was born One who, by His teaching and force of character, was to be the Light that lighteth the hearts of men. No one who had lived before Him had taught with such grace and conviction or had left such pragmatic axioms for men's use in their daily lives. All who had followed Him have in some one sense or another been forced to submit to a comparison to Him, and none have ever been put to this comparison and come out of it the victor. While the Greeks were spreading their culture, the Romans dazzling the world with their feats of arms and the Hebrews were sustaining their fast expiring political lives with religious antidote Jesus Christ was born of lowly parents in Bethlehem.

INSPIRE JOBLESS WITH CONFIDENCE, LEGGE SAYS

Grand Forks, N. D.—"A feeling of confidence must be inspired in the people, and if it takes farm board wheat to do it, that can be used," said Alexander Legge, former federal farm board chairman, in commenting on the proposition to distribute wheat under the control of the farm board to the needy.

Legge said he believed in selling things rather than giving them away, but he added that "if it becomes necessary, and there are going to be a lot of calls for help this winter, I think every man who needs it should be given a sack of flour. There is no case on record of a man starving to death with a sack of flour in his house."

Legge did not refer to the possibility of imparting confidence to some of the jobless by cutting the hours of work in his International Harvester company plants to five days a week.

What! Another?

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

Samuel Butler once wrote of man's fear of being devoured by tools of his own invention.

The day foreseen by Butler is here. Man has been feverishly inventing and inventing, and inventing until the invention of inventions has become almost a mania with him.

Each new invention has swelled the army of unemployed.

And each new invention has added to his surplus of goods.

As a result, today we have the unique experience of witnessing want and suffering amid our plenty.

At last we have come to feel we are doomed by our Machine Age.

Are we doomed?

No, it all depended on just one more invention—

This invention hasn't meant the destruction of our machine—

Nor the hangman's noose for our inventors—

But less profits for capital—

With shorter hours for labor—

And that's the best answer we INVENTED to solve the greatest riddle in the universe today—

It's the last invention, we hope.

Washington.—Reports received by the United States bureau of mines from state mine inspectors covering fatal accidents in coal mines for the first seven months of 1931 show that 838 miners were killed. During June 105 lost their lives. This is an increase of eighteen over the month of June. In the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania eighteen miners were killed.

Appreciation!

On behalf of Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council and its thirty affiliated craft unions, we desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the progressive local business firms which have by their patronage made this Labor Day Edition of our paper successful.

We bespeak for each and every one the most thoughtful consideration of our membership in spending their wages.

CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

M. H. ORTWEIN, President
MATT GERLACH, Secretary

FAITHFULLY SERVING HUMANITY

The PROVIDENT
LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE CO.
of Chattanooga, Tennessee

OUR PLEDGE:

"Every dollar received in premiums from Chattanooga reinvested in Chattanooga"

USE FACE BRICK—IT PAYS

KEY-JAMES BRICK CO.

MANUFACTURERS OF

REDS — BROWNS — CHOCOLATES
GUN METALS

SHALE ROUGH TEXTURE FACE BRICK

KEY-JAMES BRICK CO.

A. B. ("Brick") Adams, General Manager
ALTON PARK : : : TENNESSEE

LABOR DAY TIME TO "TAKE STOCK" AND REVIEW ACCOMPLISHMENTS SAYS VETERAN LABOR SECRETARY

Frank Morrison Declares Principles of Trades Unionism Should Be Recognized That Freedom May Survive.

Written for The Labor World
By FRANK MORRISON
Secretary American Federation of Labor

For officials holding positions of responsibility and trust in trade unions, Labor Day is a day of stock taking. Our minds revert to the year that has passed in retrospective consideration of circumstances and conditions which mark progress or retrogression for our movement.

Labor Day, 1931, finds problems pressing heavily and with no sign of the dawn of the millennium on the horizon. Labor is suffering keenly from the hardships and privations growing out of nation-wide unemployment. Union workers more fortunate than their unemployed brothers are co-operating to make the distress less acute by sharing with unemployed members the work available. These activities carried on under trade union regulations indicate the constructive machinery that could be put in motion through the co-operation of trade unions with employers in an industrial program. The potential power of the trade union movement as an instrumentality to remedy economic ills is checked by the attitude of archaic-minded employers, who pretend they support the American concept of liberty but at the same time enforce feudal policies in their relations with labor.

Throughout the pages of history we find the struggle of human beings for liberty, for the right of self-expression. Our own government is based on the recognition of this inherent right and the guarantee of the safeguarding of this right to its citizens. The trade union movement is the physical expression of workers struggling for self-expression and for the right of the development of opportunity for the masses of the people, for the enjoyment of a better life in accordance with their hopes and aspirations. In our own time, in our own country this struggle has been carried on always in the face of the bitterest opposition. Legislators, the courts of our land and the military forces of state and federal governments disregarding constitutional guarantees have stigmatized and penalized those workers who have the temerity to agitate for and support the demand for the application of these principles of liberty to the workers.

Automatic machinery is supplanting the need of human skill in industry. This condition is making the workers more dependent. Some large employers have adopted policies, so-called profit-sharing methods, employe stock ownership and other systems to lull the workers into a sense of security, as substitutes for their demand for the application of the principles of justice in the relations between employer and employe. Employers are short-sighted in believing that workers have not the intelligence to discern the false from the real. These substitutes will not satisfy the workers in their demand for justice.

With all our vaunted civilization and progress never before in history has it been more necessary for the principles of the trade union movement to be recognized and enforced, not only in the interests of the workers and the masses of the people but that our free government may survive.

PRISON SHOPS MAKE FAT PROFITS AS FREE LABOR GOES UNEMPLOYED

Massachusetts Convicts Turn Out Large Volume of Manufactured Products, Which Go Not Only to State and Municipal Institutions But to Individuals and Private Firms.

Boston, Mass.—In this year of depression, with many thousands of Massachusetts citizens looking in vain for work, the Massachusetts state prison shops are doing a business of more than $1,000,000 a year, in direct competition with free labor. The prison shops are selling not only to state and municipal institutions, but to individuals and private firms.

The prison shops are making shoes, knit underwear, foundry products, mattresses, brushes and other goods. The shops are run with very low labor costs and it is charged the convicts are being paid even less than the niggardly "wages" fixed by law.

Moreover, the shops are making fat profits—profits that would tickle many manufacturers in these hard times. The Boston Evening American, which has been tearing the lid off the prison labor situation, reports profits of the prison shops as follows:

> Thirty-six thousand dollars on shoes; $30,000 on knit underwear; $37,000 on other clothing; $30,000 on mattresses; $45,000 on foundry products; $126,000 on metal products; $8,000 on brushes; $9,000 on printing and $10,000 on miscellaneous products.

Both sales and profits increased over the previous year, which is an anomaly in the recent history of business, the Evening American points out. The American adds that this year profits are running even larger, due to the fact that raw materials cost less, while prices of the prison products are for the most part unchanged.

Commenting on the competition of the prison shops with free labor, the Evening American says:

"In the present economic situation, with business fighting for its life, conditions which ordinarily might be of less significance assume greater importance. With labor struggling for a living, convict competition takes on a new appearance."

Few Companies Report Paying Dismissal Wage

National Industrial Conference Board Finds Most Workers Get No Extra Pay When Deprived of Jobs.

New York City.—In a survey of the extent of payment of dismissal wages, the national industrial conference board, an employers' organization, found that out of 2,618 companies covered in the survey, only fifty-three, or 2 per cent of the total, pay dismissal wages under formal plans and only thirty additional pay dismissal allowances in special cases.

A statement on the survey issued by the board says:

"The 'dismissal wage' is the most recent of the many plans for alleviating some of the more distressing conditions surrounding enforced unemployment. Although it is of so recent origin as to have attained but a limited application in this country, the national industrial conference board, recognizing the importance of the principle involved, has made a careful survey of the subject and will shortly issue a report.

Some Nations Force Payment.

"No serious attempt has been made thus far in the United States to make the payment of a dismissal wage compulsory, but in some of the other countries such legislation has been enacted.

"A recent demonstration of the dismissal wage was furnished by a large industrial corporation. A concentration of departments made it necessary to close permanently two plants in New England. In addition to giving the employes a month's notice of the closing of the plants, the company paid dismissal wages totaling hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"The plan provided that all employes with fifteen or more years of service should receive one week's pay for each year of service, and similar provision was made for employes of 45 years of age or older with ten years or more of service.

Average Payment $500.

"Actual dismissal wages paid to employes of these plants ranged from $104.61 to $2,088, the average payment being approximately $500. About one out of every eight employes qualified for a dismissal wage.

"The practical result of this action, as revealed by an investigation after the plants were closed, was that instead of turning from their doors 2,000 people with a grievance, bitter and ready to listen sympathetically to radical doctrine, this company by its liberal policy justified in the eyes of its former employes and those who came into contact with them not only the particular management but the economic system under which it operated."

The trade unionist who is ashamed to demand UNION-MADE GOODS or UNION SERVICE is a barnacle on the trade union movement.

HEARTIEST GREETINGS

TO THE READERS OF THE LABOR WORLD

From

TOM ROGERS
CIRCUIT COURT CLERK

In appreciation of many organized labor friends, I wish you a mostt happy observance of your national holiday.

LABOR DAY GREETINGS

FROM

CRISMAN HARDWARE CO.

"LOOK FOR THE BIG KNIFE"

All kinds of Hardware and Builders' Tools

511 MARKET ST.

LABOR DAY GREETINGS

From the Office of the

CRIMINAL COURT CLERK

HAYS CLARK
MATT GERLACS
MRS. GEORGIA AXLINE

Protect Your Family and Yourself

WITH A

Complete Protection Policy

IN THE INTERSTATE

LIFE AND ACCIDENT CO.

JOS. W. JOHNSON, M. D., President

What Do You Know About Your Market House?

DO YOU KNOW—

That the Central Market is one of the cleanest markets in the United States?

That the Market Master prides himself in keeping a market of this kind?

That we can get all the water and soap that is necessary to keep clean?

That we handle more green vegetables during the winter season than all others combined in the entire city?

That we guarantee everything that is sold to be just as represented?

That all our eggs are candled and guaranteed fresh ones?

That we do not sell storage eggs unless properly marked with sign "storage" on them?

That the Central Market House complies with all laws as to weights and measures of both city and state?

That the Central Market House put the City of Chattanooga on a weight basis?

That the Market Master will furnish you with weight cards for your kitchen?

That it is to your interest to know the weight of foods you are purchasing?

That the Central Market is now one of Chattanooga's show places?

That if you have not shown your friends the Central Market you have not given all that is coming to them?

That 66 2-3 per cent of our trade in Central Market are wage-earners?

That if it is eatables you want, you will find them all at the Central Market?

That in writing this we are extending to you an invitation to visit Central Market, where your patronage will be appreciated?

COME IN and LET'S GET ACQUAINTED

Deserve better working conditions ...ding other workers to secure ... Demand the UNION LABEL ... SHOP CARD.

"Union-made, but does not bear a label" is a stock phrase which we should ignore. Demand the UNION LABEL.

Don't criiicize others if you are the sort of a union man who fails to spend his union-earned money for UNION GOODS and SERVICE.

It's so awfully simple to demand UNION GOODS and SERVICE that it is simply awful more trade unionists do not do this important thing.

NEW PRICES and New Record Values... that's what you get in Palmer Clothes for Fall. If you desire "most for your money" see our values when you are ready for your Fall Suit or Overcoat.

PALMER CLOTHES

$19.50 — $15.00

Just One Chattanooga Store

907 Market St. – Near 9th

JOE BERGHEIMER
UNION-MADE SHOES FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY
AGENT FOR THE MEN'S DOCTOR SHOES WITH UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE

20 East 9th Street

EVERY FACILITY is offered
THE CUSTOMER
of the
First National

The sixty-five years' experience of The First National means that you as a customer can be assured of receiving every facility of modern banking, rendered in the most approved manner, by experienced officers and clerks.

Whatever your financial need, you can count on its being met by some service of The First National.

For the wage earner the Savings Department is particularly indispensable. We invite you to start an account with us at our most convenient office.

W. A. SADD
Chairman of the Board

J. P. HOSKINS
President

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF CHATTANOOGA

Volunteer Branch
Georgia Ave. at Ninth

Main St. Branch
Market St. at Main

ONLY VISIBLE FORCE WHICH CAN END PRESENT DEPRESSION IS ORGANIZED LABOR.—ORNBURN

Cigarmakers' President Names Courage, Faith, Organization, Agitation and Education as the Greatest Needs.

Written for The Labor World
By I. N. ORNBURN
President Cigarmakers' International Union

President Hoover recently declared, while discussing the great depression from which the world is suffering, that we cannot legislate ourselves out of this depression.

The only known or visible force in America that can bring us out of this depression and prevent another is the trade union movement.

The enormously enriched, profiteering handful of organized trust magnates, who work against the millions of overworked (when they have work), underpaid workers and deny them the right to organize, demands our attention and action.

The workers are a lawabiding, peave-loving people and if accorded their right to organize for their economic freedom, the same right as enpoyed by organized capitalists, they are never dangerous. Our courts of equity insist that everyone, especially labor, shall come into court with clean hands. The employers who enjoy the right to organize for profit, and deny such right to the workers should wash their hands before they knock at the door of the tribunal of the people.

industrial engineers, and many em-

Trade unionists, real economists, ployers or executives of industrial institutions are openly declaring that reducing wages curtails the purchasing and consuming power of the masses and that the inevitable result would be to prolong the depression and ultimately reduce the American standard of living. For years, this has been the slogan and belief of the trade union movement.

Labor has many accomplishments to its credit, for which we can and do celebrate on this great day—Labor Day. Another ray of light that shines through the gloomy shadow caused by the world's greatest and meanest depression is the fact that the loss of membership has not been as great as in former like periods of idleness for the workers. For this we celebrate.

In the earlier cycles of industrial and commercial depressions, the records show that the membership of the unions rapidly decreased and wages were cut to the bone, and that employers justified their action by the false law of supply and demand. Happily that false theory has been discredited by the more intelligent employers of labor who want to be fair. This furnishes another cause for encouragement.

Years ago, organized labor took the leadership in showing by demonstrated facts that low wages first caused the depressions and that reducing wages prolonged them.

While the unions lost members during the former cycles of unemployment, it is also true that they rapidly regained the losses, and in each instance the gain went away beyond the peak number before the depression, and it will do so again with the return of prosperity in this instance. For this we also celebrate this day.

Let us on this day rejoice in this fact, and with renewed courage and faith in the trade union movement pledge ourselves individually and collectively to redouble our efforts to gain new members, and reduce the hours of labor of the workers until all are gainfully employed. No self-respecting American cherishes the idea of becoming a charge upon society.

We know that the trade union movement has been and is responsible for all that labor has accomplished in the past, and this fact should be conveyed to those who are unorganized.

Double the membership and through unions, we correspondingly increase the earning power and consuming ability of the masses. This in itself is a guarantee against further depressions with shivering breadlines of unemployed and destitute workers, who under such circumstances are always dangerous.

Since it is generally known and understood that we cannot legislate the depression aside nor can we wish it away, the only way to get rid of it and to prevent another is to adopt the trade union method of organization, good wages and shorter hours of labor. Without well organized labor, I see not much hope for the future.

What we need and what our country needs is courage, faith, organization, agitation and education.

Jahncke Urges 5-Day Week Without Wage Cuts for Unemployment Relief

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—The five-day week without wage reduction is immediately necessary to provide jobs for the millions of persons thrown out of work by the introduction of labor-displacing machinery, declared Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke in an address here before the American Legion of Wisconsin.

"Mechanization of industry has been the most astounding historical fact in a thousand years," Jahncke said. "Machine labor has virtually displaced hand labor.

"Avenues of research, begun under pressure of war-time necessity, resulted in new methods of manufacture, which in some cases permitted one man to do the work formerly requiring ten men. It has been reliably estimated that this process regularly displaced 2,000,000 workers every year in the past ten years. Today mechanical appliances do the work of one billion slaves. The liberation of man from toil, although yet far from full achievement, has progressed beyond the wildest dreams of our fathers.

"In the meantime the machine has got out of hand. It threatens to become the Frankenstein destroying its maker.

"Efficiency of production has outstripped capacity for consumption, causing unemployment, which has in turn still further lowered the capacity for consumption.

"The workday has progressively shortened. The working week has dropped from six days to five and one-half, and soon will reach the five-day stage.

"The problem goes much deeper than such evasive proposals as doles and public or private charity. The problem must be attacked at its root—and that root is the question how to control increasingly efficient mechanized production.

"Obviously we cannot abandon, if we would, the use of more efficient machinery. But one alternative remains, and that is to supply employment by the reducing of the hours of labor and shortening of the working week while maintaining the present high standard of wages.

"We have created for ourselves an enormous giant—the machine. Now we must learn to control it.

"The method by which hours may be shortened and wages maintained is a matter for industry to take care of itself as a matter of self-preservation."

Hoffman Conviction Held Unwarranted

Stroudsburg, Pa.—The lack of logic, legality and propriety which featured the trial and sentence of Alfred Hoffman, organizer for the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers, is set forth in briefs filed by union attorneys in their appeal to the superior court.

Hoffman was sentenced to two years in jail and fined $1,525 by Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Monroe county, after a local jury found him guilty of conspiracy to attack certain strikebreakers at the Mammoth Hosiery mills. Counsel for Hoffman claim the jury was prejudiced by an inflammatory and untrue newspaper article which appeared in a local paper during the trial, and claims that this alone justifies a new trial.

The UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD are the guide posts that tell us how we can advance the cause of labor.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

Unions Lose In Wage Rates and In Membership

British System Increases Unemployment, President's Special Investigator Finds — Back After Five Months to Report.

New York.—"The complete answer to the dole" is found in the experience of those European nations in which the dole has been in operation, according to John J. Leary, Jr., who returned recently after a five months' study of European employment and relief systems as the personal representative of President Hoover.

Leary, former industrial editor of the New York World, member of the executive board of the International Labor Press of America, and expert in reporting industrial relations, will present his findings direct to President Hoover. He found that the British dole increased unemployment and he found that American wage-earners are better off than are the wage-earners of industrial countries in Europe.

"Bad though conditions are here," Leary said, "five months' study of conditions in Europe made clear to me that the United States is going through this world-wide depression with infinitely less suffering than any other industrial nation."

It is understood that Mr. Leary's figures show that under the dole trade union membership has fallen away while wage rates have decreased.

DO YOU SEE ANY EMPLOYER GIVING JOBS TO OLD MEN?

You can have an income you can't outlive—and the children won't have to help keep you up—if you'll only do a little planning NOW. It costs nothing to inquire.

JOHN E. GILBREATH, Gen. Agent
RELIANCE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
1022 Volunteer Bldg. Phone 7-1057

"One Friend Tells Another"
RIGHT QUALITY
REASONABLE PRICES
RELIABLE SERVICE
COME SEE US!
S. T. & W. A. DEWEES CO.
GROCERS
810 Market Street Phone 7-1121

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
... FROM ...
HOTEL PATTEN
John Lovell, Manager
Chattanooga's Leading Hotel

"Ask the Buyers of GOOD PRINTING"
CHATTANOOGA
PRINTING & ENGRAVING COMPANY
300-302-304 Market Street
"Where Promises Count"
Specialty Printers of Catalogues, Booklets, Folders
Stationery and Office Forms
Complete Manufacturers of Loose Leaf Binders, Special Ruled Sheets and Blank Books
Dial 6-4239
QUALITY, SERVICE AND SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

...NCREASE CAPACITY TO BUY ...S SOLUTION PRESENT DEPRESSION

Written for The Labor World
By JOHN P. FREY
Secretary-Treasurer Metal Trades Dept., A. F. of L.

...Some years ago a great physician ...ved the medical theory that like ...s like. Apparently there are many ...ployers, business men and bankers ...ho believe that this medical ...ry would work equally well in ...e industrial world.

...s the present depression was ...ught on by the failure of employ... to pay sufficient wages to enable ...e mass of the people to purchase ...e nation's manufactured products, ...now recommend that the wages ...ich were previously too low should ...e still further reduced as a necessary step to bring a restoration of good times.

When the patient is suffering because sufficient oxygen is not entering the lungs, close the windows and reduce respiration. It would be as sensible and practical to do the latter as to apply the "like cures like" theory to the present industrial situation. Of course, there always are those who would carry out the doctor's orders without having first attempted to learn whether the doctor was a competent physician.

American workmen as a whole are too well-informed to accept the nostrums being recommended by some employers and bankers. The sound economic method of restoring prosperity is to increase the capacity of the mass of the people to buy, and there is but one way by which the buying power can be brought about —increasing the dollars and cents in the pay envelope.

Contract Maintains Union Teamsters' Pay

New York City.—A contract providing for the maintenance of the same scale of wages and working conditions in force since September 1, 1929, has been signed between the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and the Merchant Truckmen's bureau of New York. The contract, which is for two years, was signed at the end of negotiations lasting six weeks.

Pen Used by Cleveland to Sign National Labor Day Law Still Kept by A. F. of L.

When the bill making Labor Day a national holiday passed congress in 1894, Amos J. Cummings was a member of the house of representatives from New York city. He had introduced a bill himself with this object in view, but it was supplanted by a bill which passed the senate before the house reached the Cummings bill. After it was signed by President Cleveland, Representative Cummings wrote the following letter to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor:

"Washington, D. C.,
"June 29, 1894.

"Samuel Gompers, Esq., 14 Clinton Place, New York City.

"My dear Gompers: Yesterday I took the bill making Labor Day a national holiday, which had been passed by both houses of congress, down to the president and he signed it. Thinking that you would like to have a memento of the passage of a law elevating labor, which will probably remain on the statute books as long as the republic lasts, I send you the pen and holder which the president used in signing the bill.

"Yours sincerely,
"AMOS J. CUMMINGS."

President Gompers sent the following reply:

"New York, July 3, 1894.

"Hon. Amos J. Cummings, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

"Dear Sir and Friend: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 29th, informing me that you took the bill making Labor Day a national holiday to the president, that he signed it, and that you sent me the pen and pen-holder which the president used in signing the bill.

"I also received the pen and holder, and assure you that I esteem it, not only as a valuable souvenir in connection with the passage of the law, but also as a high compliment expressive of your attitude towards the great movement for the elevation of labor.

"Very truly yours,
"SAMUEL GOMPERS, President,
American Federation of Labor."

The pen and holder used by President Cleveland in signing the bill making Labor Day a national holiday is preserved in the archives of the American Federation of Labor as a lasting reminder of one of the most important achievements of the American labor movement.

Maryland Convicts Work Without Guards

Hagerstown, Md.—Thirty prisoners from the Maryland state penitentiary have been undergoing for a number of months a new experiment in prison reform at the state penal farm near here. The men work through the day at farm pursuits without armed guards and turn in for the night in ordinary dwelling houses formerly occupied by the farm tenants.

Experts on prison reform do not expect that all prisoners are eligible for wall-less prisons and unarmed guards or no guards at all. The thirty men now on Maryland's new experimental farm were selected by Superintendent of Prisons Harold E. Donnell from prisoners who were disciplined, industrious and desirous of going straight and who were nearing their time of discharge. It was also desired to give them occupational training to enable them to do productive work when they leave prison life.

Prison authorities have the conviction that if a prisoner cannot make his way in the world he is pretty sure to resort to crime again. They feel that before the prisoner leaves prison he should be made a producer, willing to work and able to work in a world where workers are supposed to have the right to earn an honest living.

With over 5,000,000 now out of work and the number increasing every month, it is doubtful if the training given at the state farm will insure immediate jobs for the released prisoners.

Nation-Wide Hosiery Mill Strike Is Likely

Reading, Pa.—If the full fashioned workers in Reading and vicinity respond manfully and in sufficient numbers to the strike call set for Aug. 24 for all mills in this area a general strike of all full fashioned workers in the country will be called if need be to enable the Reading market to become organized.

This declaration was made to a big mass meeting of workers held in City park here. Virtually all the ranking officers of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers were present and pledged themselves to do all in their power to hold out all unionized workers in the trade in all parts of the county after Sept. 1 when the national agreement expires, if that would be helpful.

A general strike in the industry would affect at least 50,000 workers in New York, New Jersey, New England, Wisconsin, Indiana and Pennsylvania.

Local manufacturers are plainly worried as the campaign is arousing greater interest among the employes than had been considered possible under the circumstances now obtaining here.

COAL MINE FATALITIES.

The United States bureau of mines reports that 105 men were killed in coal mine accidents in July as compared with 87 in June and 155 in July of last year. The bureau reports a total of 838 deaths in coal mine accidents for the first seven months of 1931, against 1,159 in the same period last year.

MAX YUDD

ORGANIZED LAPOR will find at MAX YUDD'S the best in the clothing line — the latest styles.

Everything in Men's Wear

8 West Ninth Street — Chattanooga, Tenn.

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

East Chattanooga Greetings

The Business Houses Listed Below Extend Good Wishes on Labor Day

Lee's Shoe Shop
D. S. LEE, Mgr.
Satisfaction Guaranteed
Work Called for and Delivered
2435 Glass St. — DIAL 2-6623

Koblentz Department Store
The Store for all the people

"Greetings to All Organized Labor"
BROWN DRUG COMPANY
3013 DODSON AVENUE — PHONE 2-6021

W. J. KELLEY & SON
Dealers in
GROCERIES, DRY GOODS AND SHOES
2300 Glass St. — Phone 2-7426

F. Y. GAMBLE CO., Inc.
GENERAL AUTO REPAIRING
Best Equipped Shop in East Chat'nooga
Brazing — Welding
Dial 2-3361 — 2409 Farleigh St.

ROSSVILLE GREETINGS

Merchants of Border City Offer Good Wishes for Labor's Holiday

ROSSVILLE HARDWARE CO.
PLUMBING MATERIAL and TRUE TAG PAINT
PHONE 3-1151 — 50TH ST. AND BOULEVARD

SIES & CO.
DIAMONGS — RINGS
Fine Watch and Jewelery Repairing
State Line, Rossville, Ga.
Phone 3-0195

LEE ROUTH & CO.
NOTIONS
NOVELTIES NECESSITIES

SCOTT'S SHOE SHOP
"Rossville's Best"

TRADE IN ROSSVILLE AND SAVE MONEY

KELLY DEPARTMENT STORE
Dry Goods --- Shoes --- Clothing
Ladies' Ready-to-Wear
113-15 Rossville Boulevard

COSTELLO PRINTING COMPANY
"We Print to Please the Public"
Telephone 3-1021
4805 Rossville Boulevard

MOORE DRY GOODS STORE
HIGH CLASS MERCHANDISE
Phone 3-0233 — 4918-20 Rossville Boulevard

KODAK FINISHING
OF QUALITY
BRING 'EM AT 9 — GET 'EM AT 5
ENGLERTH'S
722 Cherry St.

Complete 24 Hour Garage Service
Eighth & Chestnut Garage
Telephone 6-5463
Storage :: Washing :: Greasing
Expert Auto Repairing : Painting
H. L. GARRIGUS
Member of I. T. U., formerly Member of No. 89

North Chattanooga Greetings

Merchants North of River Offer Good Wishes for Labor's Holiday

M. & T. TABLE SUPILES
GROCERIES, FRESH MEATS, POULTRY AND VEGETABLES
You Can Buy Here for Less
Phone 6-7438 — 612 Tremont St.

W. F. O'NEIL GROCERY
608 BARTON AVENUE
DIAL 6-8231
Quickest Delivery Service in Town

If I had a job jes' totin' out de ashes fum dis heah ROYAL BLUE COAL I'd be loafin' neah 'bout all de time ! !

If you are not one of our patrons, we respectfully solicit a trial order so we may show you that we have the best grade of range, heater and furnace coal—also Radiant Coke. If you are already a customer, we thank you for past favors and hope that you will continue to patronize us.

GODSEY COAL CO.
Operated by W. M. Sherrill & Sons
415 N. Market St. — Dial 6-5128
North Chattanooga, Tenn.

HERBERT KEEDY — KEEDY & GRANERT — LOUIS A. GRANERT
COMPLETE AUTO and WRECKER SERVICE
302 North Market Street — Telephone 6-5815

SOUTH BROAD STREET

Merchants Extend Greetings and Hearty Good Wishes for Labor Day

U S A DRY CLEANING COMPANY — MRS. B. L. GUTHRIE, MANAGER
FANCY DRY CLEANING : DYEING : REPAIRING AND ALTERATIONS
Office and Plant
Branch No. 1, 1133 Market St. — Branch No. 2, 413 Dodds Ave. — 2439 Broad St., Phone 6-3106 — Branch No. 3, 117 W. 7th St. — Branch No. 4, 4911 Rossville Blvd.

CENTRAL CHATTANOOGA'S OLDEST DRUG STORE — (In Same Location Since 1895)
RAWLINGS DRUG CO.
Stuart H. Wyrick, Proprietor — Personal Service Since 1904
Your Prescription Compounded as Your Physician Prescribes
2002 Broad St. — Free Delivery — Dial 7-2413

Rainbow Restaurant
S. C. Reece, Prop.
REGULAR DINNERS and PLATE LUNCHES
Stew, Sandwiches, Cold Drinks, Cigars, Tobacco
I Will Appreciate Your Patronage
FOR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN
2449 South Broad Street

For Real Beverage Enjoyment
WELCH-ADE — PANPEPSIN
ORANGE-KIST — BUDWEISER
MOCCASIN CLUB PALE DRY
BUSCH LAGER
5c SPECIAL
Bottled by
Welch-Ade Bottling Co.
1915 Broad St. — Dial 6-4348

Dial 7-3246 — DAVENPORT'S — 2601 Broad
"THE STORE OF BIG VALUES"
Dry Goods, Shoes, Ladies' Ready-to-Wear

COMPLIMENTS OF Chattanooga Lumber Company
Cor. South Broad and Twenty-first Sts. — PHONE 6-6151

JEWISH LABOR DAY MESSAGE DEMANDS WORK AND WAGES FOR ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED

Serves Notice That Religion Has Only Condemnation for System Which Places Property Above Human Rights.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 2.—"We serve notice in the name of the most priceless spiritual possession of man, the sanctity of the human soul, that religion has naught but bitter condemnation for any economic order which, like our present one, again and again places concern for property above concern for human life and leaves millions of lives as wreckage in the mad scramble for material wealth," declared the commission on social justice of the Central Conference of American Rabbis in a Labor Day message made public by Rabbi Edward L. Israel, chairman of the commission.

"We face a situation now in which babes moan for a crust of bread while millions of bushels of grain rot in the granaries and the fields teem with an overabundance of produce," continues the message. "Children go barefoot and naked because, so we are told, their laboring fathers have made so many shoes, have produced so much clothing, that the only answer of sound economics was to stop their means of livelihood.

"Surely the degradation of charity, bread lines, and soup kitchens is not a godly answer to the challenging problem of responsibility for a universe where millions who want to work are forced to starve in the midst of teeming overabundance."

To meet the unemployment crisis the message urges five billion dollars for public improvements, including roads, elimination of grade crossings, and reforestation.

"These millions of unemployed workers have a right to jobs," declares the message. "It is essential not only to the material lives of men, women and children, but to their fundamental dignity and respect as human beings. No economic order can ethically rob men of their inalienable self-respect by making them objects of charity. If the private processes of our present economic order are paralyzed, our government owes it to its millions to act at once. A few years ago we, as a government, spent billions of dollars to destroy the lives of those whom we called our enemies. Do we hesitate today to spend constructively in order to preserve the lives of our own people?"

Turning to the shorter work week as an essential measure to provide jobs for the unemployed, the message says: "Our machines are turning out products faster than we can consume them. This is one great reason why we have so much unemployment. We must realize that the only solution is to regulate production, to shorten the hours of labor so that all may have the opportunity to be gainfully employed. The shorter working day and the shorter working week are both economic and moral necessities in our mechanized age. Machinery is made for man, not man for machinery."

The message also denounces the inequitable distribution of wealth and declares that "along with the adjustment of the problem of hours must come an adjustment of the distribution of the profits of industry. We have learned at a terrific price of suffering that whirring wheels piling up enormous profits for the few do not mean prosperity or happiness for society as a whole. And it is the happiness of society as a whole that is the concern of any righteous program of conduct.

"Our present economic order is to be judged and its permanence to be assured, not to the degress to which it can produce wealth and power, but to the extent to which it can provide the essentials of decent subsistence to the great mass of toiling humanity."

"There is nothing sacred in the present order," the message concludes, "and unless it can place itself more in accord with the fundamental principles of ethical conduct we forecast for it the same inevitable and inexorable doom as did the great prophets of our people in another day to another generation, blind and callous. May we have the wisdom, the humanity, and the consecrated spirituality to bring our stricken world to the healing touch of a godly justice and righteousness."

ACTIVE LABOR MAN WINS CANADIAN PARLIAMENT SEAT

Hamilton, Ont.—Alderman Mitchell, who in the recent by-election won the federal seat of East Hamilton for the labor party by a majority of about 3,000, has been president of the Trades and Labor council and active in the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada for years. In the general election a year ago, the conservative candidate won by 4,000 majority. The government candidate won the by-election in Three Rivers, Quebec, from which the labor candidate withdrew before nomination day.

BEER AS JOBLESS REMEDY.

Cooperstown, N. Y.—Legalizing the manufacture of beer would give employment to 1,250,000 persons in addition to providing a market for 80,000,000 bushels of grain annually, August A. Busch, president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis, declared at his summer home here.

Busch reached this conclusion by applying the experience of his own company in the saloon days to the beer industry of the entire country. He said 25,000 persons were dependent on his company, which produced 2 per cent of the beer of the United States, for a living.

REAL DEMOCRACY MUST REPLACE INDUSTRIAL AUTOCRACY.—WRIGHT

Written for The Labor World
By CHESTER M. WRIGHT
Editor International Labor News Service

All eyes turn toward industry this Labor Day—toward the places where machines stand idle, while men wait outside.

Millions are without work, wondering, getting nearer the point where desperation takes charge of life.

Industrial leaders display an astounding lack of capacity for overcoming depression.

Some of them profess to believe that lower wages will cure the ill.

They would try to cure with the thing that caused the disease.

This depression, stripped of all myths and mystery, was caused because men worked too many hours a week for wages that were too low.

The international situation now brings its own evil effects to bear upon us, but regardless of that, the one thing that can move America forward quickly is a great increase in wages and a general reduction of the hours of labor per day and per week.

How to do these things so that their effect will be sound and of real benefit should be the concern of industry in conference—in an enormous conference.

That means bringing more of democracy into industry. Democracy is the thing the reactionaries of factory and bank hate above all things.

They love their unquestioned power.

But democracy has got to come, one way or another.

Industrial autocracy has gone into a tail spin. Masters have failed. Now it is the job of the organized forces in every branch of industry.

There must be more democracy in industry—not a hundred years from now, but now!

Let thoughts of that be this Labor Day's chief business.

LABOR BUREAU COMPILES WAGES AND JOBS FIGURES

Washington.—The information on employment and pay rolls for the chemical industry collected monthly by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor is of great economic value in determining changes in wage totals and number of employes, says Ethelbert Stewart, commissioner of statistics.

"The bureau's indices of employment and pay roll totals make available a barometer by which the changing employment condition in the chemical industry, as well as the other industrial groups covered, may be measured with reasonable accuracy," Commissioner Stewart points out.

"In the case of the present business depression, the data furnished by the reporting companies have enabled the bureau of labor statistics to inform the public currently concerning the severity of the changes in employment and earnings, thereby making possible an estimate of the number of workers released or employed in the industrial fields covered, instead of leaving this question entirely to conjecture."

Listen In, Parents and get some information worth while concerning your children.

When Your Children Are Ill

nothing is left undone to get them back to normal health.

You Guard Them Against Disease

of all kinds—smallpox, measles, bad tonsils and adenoids.

How About Their Eyes?

Defective vision results in irritability, headaches and frequently embarrassment and apparent stupidity. You should know if your child's eyes are imperfect.

Harris & Hogshead
13 E. EIGHTH ST.
PHONE 6-7545
"SEE THE SIGN"

Special days for UNION LABEL agitation are good, but making every day a UNION LABEL day is much better.

THE PROVIDENT
LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE CO.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

Home Office Life Agency

LLEWELLYN CHAPMAN
Manager

CARL DYER, Cashier
SOPHIA STANDEFER, Asst. Cashier

ASSOCIATES
Edwin O. Martin
Ray C. Freeman
N. C. Carr
W. W. Rymer

"Union-made, but does not bear a label" is a stock phrase which we should ignore. Demand the UNION LABEL.

Deserve better working conditions by aiding other workers to secure them. Demand the UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD.

James Supply Co.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

MILL MINING FOUNDRY FACTORY TEXTILE RAILROAD PLUMBING CONTRACTORS SUPPLIES

Paints, Pumps, Machinery, Auto Accessories,
Heavy Hardware, Galvanized Roofing,
Carey's Composition Roofing

"WE GIVE SERVICE AND SELL SUPPLIES"

LABOR DAY GREETINGS

from

ZACH TAYLOR
COMMISSIONER OF STREETS AND SEWERS

Fall Style and Value!---

The Privilege of Our Lay-By Department Is Yours

Begin now to shop for Christmas. And if you desire you may purchase your goods, pay a deposit on the purchase price and the rest in weekly installments. Merchandise desired is redeemable at any time.

Busy Shoppers Fill the Store! Eloquent Proof That VALUES are Here

Department after department has come forward with exciting values . . . exceeding the achievements of any previous season. A Fiesta spirit reigns throughout the store—a happy shopping atmosphere . . . unique, interesting.

Yoou'll be well advised to buy everything you need for yourself and your home NOW. Predictions are being made throughout the land that the trend of costs will be upward from now on. Use your charge account. Use our mail order service, or telephone 7-1251.

We'll Be Glad to, Madam . .

Of course you're very busy at home, with your Fall housecleaning, and you need dozens of things . . . but, really, you don't have to step outdoors . . . just phone us, tell us what you want, and how much you want to spend, and we'll promptly send anything from pins to the latest hat.

The Number is 7-1251.

...AT...

Miller Bros Co

Another vacation time is over—another summer has become history, and a new season catches our attention. You'll find it a very delightful one, too. Never in years has fashion tempted women with such flattering and intriguing styles as the fall of Nineteen Thirty-one.

At Miller's you will be able to see for yourself just how this talk about "Empress Eugenie", ostrich plumes, luxurious fur trimmings, collar and sleeve interest, pebbly fabrics, satin and velvet's comeback—is going to affect you and your new fall wardrobe. On the whole the new mode is delightful. Anything so pretty cannot help but enhance the charm of the wearer. It is really a revolution in Milady's dress.

Throughout our entire store you will be impressed by the dominating note of individuality. We have made a determined effort to secure the newest and best in wearable models, but each with a smart distinction all its own.

We cordially invite you to this friendly store. We believe you will find it very important and helpful in planning your Fall wardrobe. We believe you will find our prices the very lowest.

Lunch in our Cafeteria or on our Balcony when shopping : : Delicious home cooked foods at lowest prices are served every day

Chapman's Funeral Home

Ambulance Service

"When Efficiency Is Indispensable"

TOM SELMAN, Manager
Lady Assistant

PHONE 6-4136

"Our Business Is Moving"

MAIN STREET TRANSFER & STORAGE CO.

MOVING, STORING AND PACKING FURNITURE

1512-14-16 Market St. Phone 6-4946

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

BRIGHT SUNLIGHT OF PEACE AND PROSPERITY WILL SHINE AGAIN ON TOILERS' HOMES.—LEWIS

Chief of United Mine Workers Sounds an Optimistic Note in the Midst of Misery and Suffering.

Written for The Labor World
By JOHN L. LEWIS
President United Mine Workers of America

Labor has passed through a serious and trying period since last Labor Day. Depression, unemployment and idleness kept their heavy hands upon those who toil and who constitute the foundation of national and industrial progress and security. Slack industry curtailed activity on the part of labor to such an extent as to make it more and more difficult for working men and women to sustain themselves and their families. No single branch of industry carried the entire burden of this condition, but it is a fact that coal mining suffered as seriously as any other class of work. There is no sound reason why this should be true, yet the fact stands out clearly and unmistakably.

But we must look forward, not backward. The past year with all of its sacrifices and disappointments is gone and it can never return, and it does not do any good to spend our time in bewailing the hardships of the last twelve months. Rather let us turn our attention to the future and devote our strength and intelligence to the task of making the next year better than the last. Depression cannot remain always with us, nor can progress be permanently retarded. Mankind always has been able to overcome every obstacle that barred its pathway, no matter how utterly discouraging the outlook may have been, and the clouds that darkened the industrial sky in the last year will be swept aside just as they have been throughout the world's history. Better days are coming. Of that fact, there can be no doubt. The greater our efforts, the more earnest our purpose; deeper our devotion to our duty, the more loyal we are to ourselves, our families, our fellowmen and our country, the sooner will the clouds fade away, and the bright sunlight of peace and prosperity shine again upon the homes and firesides of the millions who toil.

Jurisdiction Disputes Considered By A. F. of L. Executive Council

Washington.—In addition to the subjects which received special publicity, the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor at its quarterly meeting at Atlantic City dealt in a direct way with a number of sections of its report, which will be submitted to the annual convention of the federation which meets in Vancouver, B. C., on Oct. 5, 1931.

These sections include reports upon various jurisdictional disputes which have been handled by the Executive Council during the past year, unemployment, the five-day work week, wages, legislation, nonpartisan political policy, international relations, social justice legislation, and various other questions which are covered in sectional parts of the report.

Living Wage for Father Necessary In Solution of Child Labor Problem

Washington.—The solution of the child labor problem is found in a high living wage for the father.

This conclusion is reached by the child labor section of the White House conference committee on vocational guidance and child labor.

The committee also urged a national minimum standard for child labor. Night work would be barred for boys and girls of 16 or 17, with entrance prohibited into occupations known to be physically or morally hazardous. A maximum work week of 44 hours in eight-hour days was recommended. No child under 16, the committee held, should be permitted to leave school to go to work.

In declaring that child labor is largely a question of poverty, the committee said:

"An income earned by the chief wage-earner of the family sufficient to maintain a decent standard of living is basic to a normal solution of the problem of child labor as of other problems of child welfare."

The committee urges the adoption of a national minimum standard because the regulation of child labor in the various states has been slow and uneven and the cause of great injustice. Children in states with low standards are deprived of equal opportunity with others for health and immunity from injurious labor.

At the instance of the organized labor movement and child welfare societies congress in 1924 submitted to the state legislatures an amendment to the federal constitution establishing a national minimum standard for the employment of children. It has not yet received favorable action by two-thirds of the legislatures.

MACDONALD DENIES WAGE CUT REPORTS

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, recently declared that reports a manifesto will be issued by labor party leaders calling for voluntary cuts in salaries and wages as one means of making up the government budget deficit were "pure inventions."

"No proposal has been made," MacDonald said, "for a temporary, all-around cut in wages and salaries. The whole thing is ridiculous. I regard the stories about a manifesto on lower wages as sheer, malicious inventions. There is nothing which, by any stretch of the imagination, could be made the basis of such a discreditable report."

CAR STRIKE CONTINUED.

The Associated Press reports that 2,000 striking street car workers of Havana, Cuba, met on Aug. 20 with government permission, heard the Havana Street Railways company make further defense of its wage cuts put into effect Aug. 1, and voted to continue their walkout.

Representatives of the company, which suspended the great majority of its office and other employes and abandoned operation of cars, presented their contention that present economic conditions made the wage reductions necessary.

Other unions are supporting the walkout with daily contributions of money, food and other necessities.

PROTECTION FOR MOVIE NON-PERFORMERS

Concerned with the welfare of those women in the Hollywood moving picture industry who do not appear on the silver screen, the California industrial welfare commission, through a new order, effective Aug. 11, established a basic eight-hour day, six-day, 48-hour week for all women employed in the motion picture industry who do not act, sing, dance, or otherwise perform and who are not paid more than $40 a week. Overtime must be paid for at the rate of time and a half for the first four hours over eight and double time from there on. One day's rest in seven is required and double time for work on legal holidays.

It costs no more in effort or money to secure UNION GOODS and SERVICE, if you demand and insist on them.

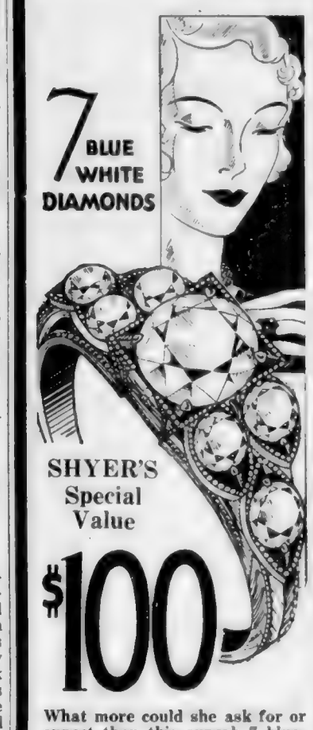
Masses Hunger While Food Products Rot

New York.—Huge amounts of farm produce are going to waste, and "yet there are millions of needy, without employment, without means, to whom these waste products would be a godsend," declared the New York state department of agriculture and marketing in criticizing the inefficiency of distribution under the present economic order.

"Peaches are arriving from Georgia in carlot quantities and are selling at prices which, at best, barely cover costs," the department said. "In many instances the grower does not get enough to pay for transportation, crates, picking and packing costs.

"The peach crop is estimated at 78,000,000 bushels, an excess over last year of 25,000,000 bushels. Thousands of bushels will rot on the ground for lack of a profitable market. This is true not only of peaches but of many other farm commodities."

The ENGAGEMENT RING FOR Her!



SHYER'S Special Value

$100

What more could she ask for or expect than this superb 7 blue-white diamond engagement ring? Bring this add with you and we will allow you $10 on this ring. This offer good only until Oct. 3, 1931.

$2.00 a Week

"Just Bring an Honest Face"

Shyer's
615 MARKET STREET

DR. L. J. USHER
Dentist

Plates as low as.....$6.00
Crown and Bridge Work, per tooth, as low as $3.50
Fillings as low as $1.00 Extractions.....$1.00
All other work as low in proportion

OFFICE: Corner Market & Seventh St.
Over Liggett's Drug Store

ENTRANCE 7½ E. Seventh St.
Hours 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

"SERVICE AFTER THE SALE"

Our expert mechanics are at your service, and we are always glad to advise with you as to the manner in which to assure maximum results at minimum costs.

D. S. ETHERIDGE CO., Inc.
329-333 Market Street
TWENTY-ONE YEARS IN CHATTANOOGA

REG. U.S. MILK NUT PAT. OFFICE
Benn-Hubb
5¢

Central Chattanooga Greetings

Organized Labor Will Find a Welcome at Any of the Business Houses Listed Below

LECK ROBINSON GARAGE
AUTOMOBILE REPAIRING
Brake Service — Motors Rebored
Phone 6-2793 217 E. Main St.

GARMANY'S DEPARTMENT STORE
LABORING MAN'S FRIEND
Union-Made Goods
38 E. Main St. Phone 6-7757

Stegall & Company
DICK STEGALL MANAGER
Building Material — COAL — Dial 6-0157 6-0158

LABOR DAY GREETINGS FROM . . .
R. O. BENNETT
FRESH MEATS
20 and 200 W. Main St. Phone 6-3654
Phone 6-1373

SHOENIG BACK HOME AGAIN
100-102 E. MAIN STREET
Cor. Mitchell Avenue
Abe in Charge

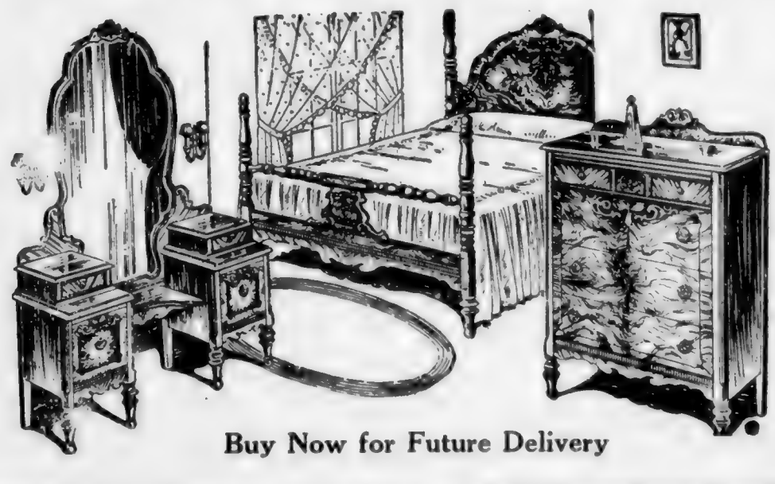
Watson's All-Bargain Store
1471 MARKET ST. Next Door to First National Bank PHONE 6-6451

LABOR DAY GREETINGS FROM . . .
PRICE AUTO CO.
DURANT Distributors
203 East Main St. Dial 6-9836

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
. . . from . . .
A. G. STIVERS LUMBER COMPANY
345 East Main Street Phone 6-7179

LABOR DAY SPECIAL

JUST ONE OF THE MANY SUPER-VALUES OFFERED YOU BY RHODES-JONES



Buy Now for Future Delivery

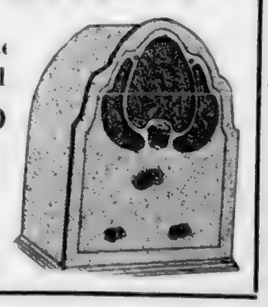
SUPER-VALUES That Only RHODES-JONES OFFER Priced Sensationally Low to Sell 25 Suites!! Be Here Early and Get Yours!

Compare this Beautiful 3-Piece Bedroom Suite with others costing twice as much and see what a wonderful buy you are getting. Remember, this price is for One Day Only (Saturday). Buy on Rhodes-Jones' easy terms.

$39.50

$1 DOWN — $1 WEEK

PHILCO'S NEWEST IN RADIO



Complete Installed $39.50
$1 CASH
$1 WEEK

BUY HERE WITH CONFIDENCE — RHODES JONES FURNITURE COMPANY — WE SELL AS WE ADVERTISE

LABOR DAY GREETINGS

from

H. F. "PETE" LAWRENCE

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

LABOR DAY GREETINGS

from

WILEY COUCH

LABOR DAY GREETINGS

From the Office of the

ATTORNEY-GENERAL

JOHN J. LIVELY NICK G. GIVENS

JOHN J. LIVELY, JR. ED LAWSON

LABOR DAY GREETINGS

from

KELSO RICE

Justice of the Peace

PRESENT ECONOMIC COLLAPSE DIRECT CHALLENGE TO INDUSTRY SAYS PRESBYTERIAN MESSAGE

Must Prove Superiority Not by Verbal Proclamation But by Providing Work and Wages for Unemployed.

New York, Sept. 2.—"The present economic collapse and disaster is a direct, definite and inescapable challenge to American industry to prove that it is superior to any other industrial system known to man," declared Dr. John McDowell, general secretary of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, in a Labor Day message to the 10,000 churches of that denomination. "This superiority," Dr. McDowell continued, "must be by demonstration, not by verbal proclamation; by work and wages, not by wishes and words."

Dr. McDowell emphatically declared that "keeping men at work at good wages is more important than keeping dividends going."

"It is becoming more and more evident every day," the message said, "that if the present system of industry in America is to continue, it must demonstrate that it is the servant of the people and not its master.

"We cannot overlook or forget that the American wage earners and their dependents constitute 85 per cent of the population of the nation. It is the goods they buy that maintain our industries. As a nation, we have evolved a machine economy that can emancipate the race from drudgery if we will but bring a far-sighted statesmanship to its direction.

"The choice facing American industry today is collective leadership by industry or collective control by the state. If self-government in industry is to abide, it must insist that concern for increased production and greater consumption is abortive unless linked with concern for just distribution.

"No society can reckon upon stability if one extreme of its population gets more than it earns, and the other extreme earns more than it gets.

"There must come out of the crucible of this depression a type of economic leadership that neither fears the future nor seeks refuge in Pollyanna philosophy; a leadership which recognizes that the responsibility for the regularization of employment rests primarily upon industry itself, and not upon government; that keeping men at work at good wages is more important than keeping dividends going; that the transfer of political and economic control from the self-seeking few to the self-seeking many is not the way of social and industrial emancipation for America; that here in America the people support the government, not the government the people."

Speaking of the church's responsibility toward the problem, Dr. McDowell said that it should be responsive to the human problems involved and "insist that things are for men, not men for things, that industry exists for society, not society for industry; that social duty must always take precedence over private right; that faith, not fear, is the only basis of a sound, permanent and effective industrial order.

"The church must help create goodwill and sound wisdom, which will issue in an economic system that will insure security and continuity of employment, a system that will keep open the door of opportunity for every man, woman and child in America, regardless of creed, color or condition."

Old-Age Pension Proposal Adopted

The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, at its quarterly meeting in Atlantic City, adopted a standard old-age pension bill to be supplied to the officers of all state federations of labor with the suggestion that they prepare to obtain its introduction and enactment into law by the various state legislatures.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said it was the first old-age pension bill written and sponsored by the federation. It provides that an aged dependent person may be eligible to receive a pension when he reaches the age of 60. The pension amounts to about $40 a month, and is payable to citizens of the United States and residents of the state where the law is effective.

It embodies within it the best of the different provisions proposed in all drafts of this character, an Executive Council statement said.

Fingerprinting Opposed by Labor

The new requirement that all applicants for positions under the federal civil service be fingerprinted was emphatically condemned by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor at its quarterly meeting at Atlantic City.

"The Executive Council regards this practice as highly objectionable," the council declared. "Upright, law-abiding citizens should not be subjected to such humiliation and to such embarrassing regulations.

"Labor is strongly opposed to fingerprinting in any scheme of employment, either in private or public industry. Those who have a criminal record and who may make application for appointment under civil service regulations can be discovered through investigations and through a resort to other means.

"The Executive Council will use its influence in supporting organizations representing government employes in their opposition to fingerprinting by the government of the United States as a requirement for employment. Organized labor will present its opposition to this practice to the proper governmental authorities and, if necessary, to the congress of the United States."

Stop Night Work, Council Urges

Abolition of night work for women and shortening the hours of work for women workers generally was urged by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor at its quarterly meeting in Atlantic City.

"The employment of women in industry during the night time and for excessive, long hours is a reflection upon present-day civilization," the council declared.

"The Executive Council firmly believes that night work for employed women should be abolished and legislation enacted in all the different states limiting the hours for women workers and bringing about the improvement of existing legislation providing for protection of women engaged in industrial occupations.

"It is the duty of the nation to protect women employed in industry.

"Furthermore, social and economic conditions require the extension of such protection. The Executive Council is determined to do all that lies within its power to secure additional protection for women workers."

It's so awfully simple to demand UNION GOODS and SERVICE that it is simply awful more trade unionists do not do this important thing.

Large Farms Urged To Meet Price Fall

Williamstown, Mass.—The problem of finding a solution for the worldwide fall of agricultural prices will be met by cutting down costs of production through mechanization of farms and an increase in the size of the farming unit, according to a statement made at the institute of politics by T. E. Gregory, professor of banking at the University of London, England.

The farm of the future, he said, would be a great factory enterprise, with farms as large as 150,000 acres. This will mean a reduction in the total number of farms as well as heavy decreases in the volume of farm labor required on them.

The agricultural nations would then have to face the terrific problem of the transfer of the idle farm population to alternative employment. He did not mention shortening the hours of labor on farms so that farm workers would receive the benefits of mechanized agriculture but predicted immigration restriction, tariffs on manufactured goods, and gvernment encouragement to local industry to give jobs to the displaced workers.

NEW COMPENSATION ACT.

The Quebec workmen's compensation act, which passed on March 25, 1931, went into effect Sept. 1. Employers affected have already been required to file with the workmen's compensation commission estimates of the amount of wages which will be paid to employes during the remaining months of the year 1931.

PARRENT'S PAINT STORE, INC.

Dial 6-0524 614 Market Street

LABOR DAY GREETINGS

from

SOUTHERN AD CO.

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

Not In Years Have You Had An Opportunity LIKE THIS

A Genuine

Hoosier

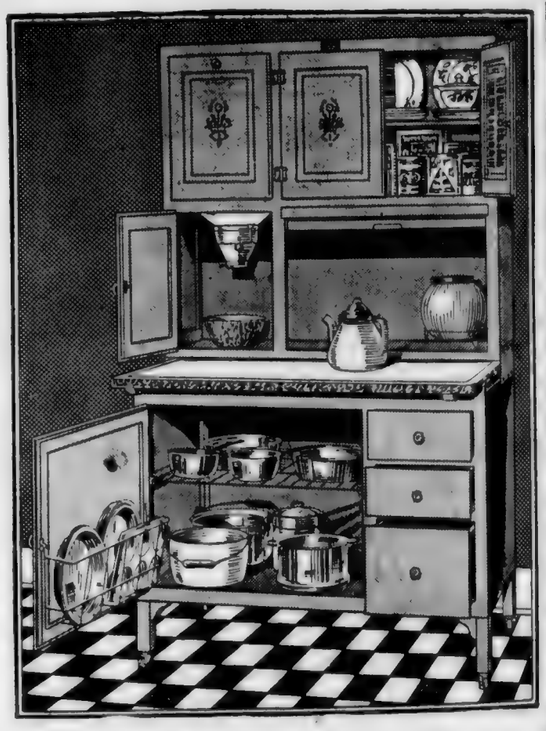
Cabinet and

A Porceliron Table

A Stainless Cutlery Set

ALL FOR ONLY $39.75

If You Buy Now!



FREE! WITH YOUR HOOSIER NOW!

$5 Allowed For Your Old Safe or Cabinet

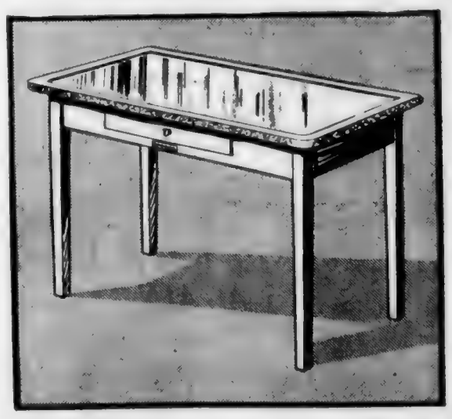
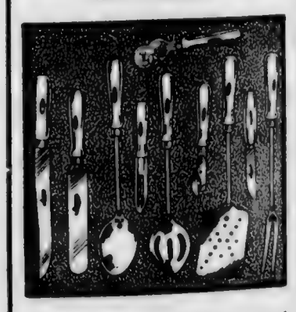
PORCELIRON TABLE



Large size porceliron cook table—finished to match your cabinet. We sell them regularly for $7.50. Free with your cabinet this week.

CUTLERY



You will enjoy this specially designed 10-piece kitchen set of stainless steel, each piece having a definite purpose. Attractive green handles. Free with your cabinet this week.

If you have ever thought of owning a Hoosier Cabinet you cannot afford to let this opportunity slip by. If you buy now you secure a genuine Hoosier Cabinet at a sensationally low price. You get with it a Hoosier porceliron-top table—and a 10-piece set of stainless kitchen tools. This complete outfit comes to you at this low price. But you must act quickly as this sale positively closes Saturday. If you buy now the complete group will be delivered to your home for only

Sterchi's (Coal or Wood) RANGE $49.50

$1 Down

Philco 5-Tube RADIO $39.50

Broad St. at 7th
251 E. Main St.
8th St. at Pine

STERCHI'S
QUALITY FURNITURE

Broad St. at 7th
East Chattanooga
Rossville, Ga.

Specify

Betsy Ross

BREAD

Produced by

CAMERON & BARR
BAKING COMPANY

a Chattanooga Institution owned and operated by Chattanooga People

DOW-GRISCOM CO. INC.
ART STUDIOS FOR ADVERTISERS
PHOTO - ENGRAVERS
COLOR PLATE MAKERS
ELECTROTYPERS - NICKELTYPERS
One of the Most Completely Equipped Organizations of its kind in the South
1000 GEORGIA AVENUE
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
H. D. HUFFAKER
COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

POWERS PAINTS GLOOMY PICTURE FOR CONTEMPLATION OF LABOR IN OBSERVANCE OF ANNIVERSARY

Fiftieth Milestone Seen as Most Dreary Occasion Which Workers Have Ever Experienced — Draws "Bill of Grievances" Against Industrial Leaders.

Written for The Labor World
By FRANK B. POWERS

The golden anniversary of Labor Day, which will be celebrated on Sept. 7, promises to be as dreary an occasion as Organized Labor has ever experienced. The third consecutive winter of unemployment, distress and hunger approaches, and is not conducive of the spirit of jollification.

Organized Labor has experienced many trials during those fifty years—strikes, riots, legislative and legal battles, long hours and low wages—but never before have 6,000,000 workers and their families been hungry in the midst of the most bountiful of crops; been ragged in the midst of enormous cotton and wool surpluses, or been homeless while hundreds of thousands of building workers are idle.

Instead of "celebrating" Labor Day in the usual manner, listening to bunk-shooting politicians and patting ourselves on the back for only a fair job of holding our own, the occasion seems to warrant the drawing up of a bill of grievances against the government and against financial and industrial leaders.

Publicly, the government has been advising that purchasing power of the workers must be maintained. By speech on the radio and on the platform, through interviews and articles, from President Hoover down, the spokesmen of the government have been tireless in expounding the philosophy of high wage standards as the best and quickest remedy for the "depression."

But privately the government, under the president's personal supervision, has been exercising the most rigid economies, cutting down the personnel in every department. True, wages of government employes were not cut, but the purchasing power of the largest employer of labor in this nation has been drastically curtailed. The example which Organized Labor had a right to expect from the largest employer has been the reverse from what it has experienced.

Industrial leaders have been on the front pages of the newspapers for months with solemn warnings against the lowering of the group purchasing power, but their subordinates in charge of personnel do not read the newspapers. Cuts in forces and cuts in wages have constantly taken place in the large industries, particularly in unorganized factories. The craze for economy is now spreading to industries which have been fair to organized labor in the past and who have tried to lessen the burden of the panic. But stockholders are demanding their dividends and refuse to dip into huge reserve funds which were piled up for just such an emergency as they are now faced with.

Financial leaders—on whose leased wires a great many of our members would like to be working—seem to be possessed of but one thought, and that is "sit tight." In the meantime they busy themselves with trying to operate telegraph systems for little or nothing.

What has become of the boasted leadership in our government and our industries? The leadership which turned a wilderness into a civilization in 150 years? Which has led the world out of darkness into sunshine by inventions, discoveries and experiments?

We have in this country a shortage of decent housing—and we also have extensive supplies of building materials and building workers out of work.

We have a large proportion of our population suffering from an insufficient supply of food, clothing and other necessities of life—and on the other hand we have a huge surplus of wheat and other grains, fruits and vegetables, cotton and wool.

We have millions of employed workers willing and anxious to purchase semi-luxuries and comforts in exchange for their labor—and a steadily increasing demand for lower wages so that these millions will be hard put to find money for bare necessities.

We have business men trying to get financial credit for legitimate business enterprises—and bankers with overflowing coffers of gold refusing unless wages are cut.

We have workers trying to get mortgages renewed on their homes—and bankers calling for payment in full or move out.

Our craft comprises those workers which should be engaged in putting the producer in touch with the consumer; the investor in touch with the securities market. Instead of every member being on the job, we have some 20% out of work.

And there is so much to be done.

For example, total savings deposits in the United States are now $10,000,000,000, the highest mark ever reached. Why, then, are legitimate business and sound financial institutions begging in vain for credit? One reason was stated above—bankers are demanding wage cuts, but that cannot be the only reason.

Where are the brokers and customers' men who should be trying to coax this hoarded money into legitimate channels? Are they so busy with their microscopic hunting ways to save pennies that they are blind to the dollars before their eyes?

Brokerage concerns cannot compete for the investment business without facilities. Too many of them are crippling their wire services to such an extent that it is doubtful if they could handle a normal volume if given the opportunity. Morale is suffering from wage cuts and threats of more wage cuts. But commissions have not been cut, nor have leased wire rentals.

Is that the leadership which is going to lead the way out of this panic? Instead of spending valuable time in trying to squeeze a few more pennies off the weekly payroll, they should be making an intensive drive for business. The broker and banker must be the intermediary which will bring the surplus of dollars within reach of the businessman, which in turn will start the wheels of industry turning once more.

Special days for UNION LABEL agitation are good, but making every day a UNION LABEL day is much better.

LOOKOUT BARBER SUPPLY CO.
IMPORTERS OF FINE CUTLERY
GRINDING AND CONCAVING
SAFETY BLADES RE-GROUND
HAIR TONIC AND TOILETE
WHOLESALE PRICES
926 Market Street Phone 6-7216

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
M. L. MULKEY
Justice of the Peace

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
J. B. "BEE" BAYLESS
Justice of the Peace

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
WILKES T. THRASHER
Justice of the Peace

Everything Electrical
W. C. Teas Co.
WIRING
LIGHTING FIXTURES
ELECTRICAL SUPPLIES and
REPAIRS :: RADIOS
116 E. 8th St. Phone 7-1246

SAFE AT HOME!
You're also SAFE and SATISFIED when you EAT at HOME PLATE LUNCH
SEVENTH AND CHERRY STS.
We cannot have all the good things in the world to eat, so we just have the BEST
WE SERVE TO SERVE AGAIN!

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIENDS

BUY THE FAMOUS
LOW AIR PRESSURE
GENERAL CORD
AT LOW PRICES AND ON EASY TERMS
BROWN TIRE CO.
Georgia Avenue at Vine

"We Strive To Please" . . . .

Is a business slogan which has been used, with varying degrees of sincerity, "down through the ages."

PIZITZ, however, is founded upon such a principle, and with our Quantity Buying, Quick Turnovers and Modern Merchandising, we have been enabled to make and hold a constantly increasing number of loyal friends for our institution.

Always alert to the opportunity to stock merchandise at a price advantage, we have had the pleasure of passing on to our customers the savings thus gained, and our reward has come in thousands of expressions of confidence that, whatever market conditions may be, PIZITZ will lead in displaying the best at the lowest prices consistent with constructive merchandising methods.

PIZITZ invites a thorough investigation of the quality of our goods, as well as a comparison of our prices with others. We especially invite the families of Union Labor men of Chattanooga to come into our store and see the display of New Fall Goods which is now arriving.

PIZITZ extends to Organized Iabor most hearty Labor Day Greetings, and wishes for you a most pleasant and successful celebration of your annual holiday.

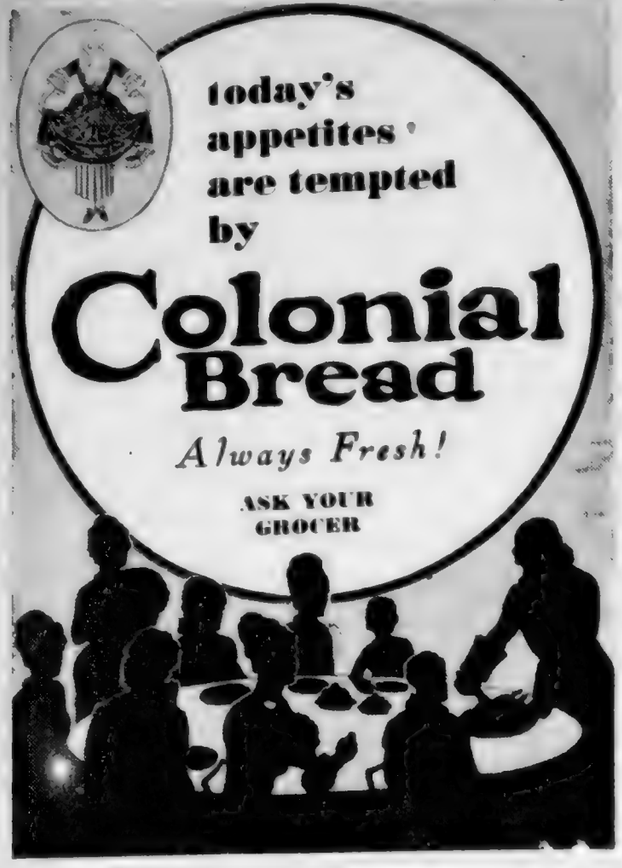
We Sell as We Advertise and Always for Less
PIZITZ
824-826 MARKET STREET

today's appetites are tempted by

Colonial Bread

Always Fresh!

ASK YOUR GROCER



The Old Oaken Bucket—

is splendid—as a song.

But the romance fades when you have to depend on one for your daily water supply.

You cannot be sure of a constant, pure, and abundant supply of water in any other way than by attaching your house to the mains of the Water Company.

City Water Company of Chattanooga
A. F. Porzelius, Supt.

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
E. D. BASS
MAYOR

DEMOCRACY FACES SEVERE TEST IF PEOPLE DENIED OPPORTUNITY TO EARN BREAD BY HONEST TOIL

America Has All Essential Factors for Prosperity, Says Howard—Labor Offers Only Practical Program for Protection of Fundamentals of Governmental System.

Written for The Labor World
By CHARLES P. HOWARD
President International Typographical Union

With millions of workers in all lines of industry out of work and with added millions of dependent women and children suffering the inescapable evils of unemployment, the American people still have much for which to be thankful as we approach Labor Day. America has the most stable government in the world. America has all the essential factors for prosperity. America has the capital, the machinery and the manpower with which to produce all that is required to make a happy and contented nation. Our immediate and pressing problem is to evolve a system of distribution that will meet the requirements of our people.

The national experience of the past 100 years has been one of alternating prosperity and panic. For the workers this has meant a few years of employment at a wage which permitted them to maintain a proper living standard, to be followed by a period which wiped out their savings and brought suffering and deprivation. For business and industry it has meant flush years during which there was an expansion and accumulation of profits, followed by a period in which failure and bankruptcy stalked throughout the land.

This system has benefited only the stock gambler and speculator, "who toils not and neither does he spin," and who like a social and economic vulture poises himself to prey upon the misfortunes of those who suffer losses.

Those who would preserve American ideals and institutions hold to the fundamentals upon which our government was founded. We believe it to be the first duty of government to protect the weak against the strong; to save the honest producer from the cupidity of the unscrupulous; and to guarantee to honest citizens life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. We also contend it to be the prime purpose and duty of government to guarantee to wage-workers and other producers the fullest measure of compensation for services rendered. Poverty and starvation in a nation which is capable of producing more than enough for all its people is a national disgrace. Our democracy cannot withstand the severe test put upon it if millions of willing workers continue to be deprived of the opportunity to earn their bread by honest effort.

We do not accept the theory that a dictatorship in the name of the proletariat, or fascism, is necessary to provide the solution for our problems. The best evidence that hope does not lie in that direction is to be found in the fact that ten thousand years of dictatorial government did not bring us a condition where it was possible for the world to produce sufficient food, clothing and shelter to sustain all of its people. During those centuries millions each year died of starvation because of the failure to solve the problem of production. The world will continue to suffer in a lesser degree until we solve the problem of distribution.

American labor offers as the machinery through which the solution can be developed its plan of organizing workers. To maintain the necessary balance between production and consumption the workday and the workweek must be regulated in such manner as to afford maximum opportunity for employment. As production increases though use of new methods and automatic machines there must be further and further reduction of the working time to avoid stagnation, unemployment and attendant evils. Effective organization of the workers into trade unions which accept the co-operative theory is the most practical way of accomplishing the desired result.

At a time when a majority of the nations of the world suffer from chaos, revolution and industrial and economic bankruptcy the trade unions of America are in the front line trenches protecting American ideals and institutions against a determined assault from within and without conducted by those who accept and advocate strange philosophy and untried theories. During the worst period of panic and depression we have ever known our problem has not been aggravated by strikes, lockouts, riots and disturbances. None can deny credit to the trades unions for maintaining stability during this trying period. On the other hand, where there has been effective organization of the workers there has been co-operation through which wage reductions have been avoided and established hours and conditions maintained. In those industries in which the unions have a voice the working time has been divided among a larger number of workers by restricting the workweek, and payment of out-of-work benefits has prevented suffering among organized workers. As an illustration of what can be accomplished through effective organization we offer the record of the International Typographical union during a year of panic and depression: A million and a half paid as old age pensions; half a million as death benefits; three hundred thousand for maintenance of its home for the sick and aged.

Where the most aggravated condition of unemployment existed in larger cities the Typographical Union has inaugurated the five-day week. In New York, the largest printing center in America, the union has paid out-of-work benefits in excess of $21,000 per week in addition to limiting the workweek to five days. In Chicago, the second largest center, the union paid out-of-work benefits in excess of $310,000 during the year, in addition to a five-day workweek. In numerous other cities and towns the demand upon the state, public charities and industry has been reduced to a minimum as a result of the trade unions bearing their own burdens.

At no other time in the history of our country has the value of trade union organization been more apparent. In the interest of prosperity and national safety, to maintain high standards and advance civilization; to protect the millions of workers from those who inherit or accumulate the power of wealth; to solve the problems of a machine age and enforce justice in the industry, the workers must organize.

There has never been a time in the history of the world when the command had equal significance—industrial workers, organize!

RAIL CLERKS' TIME CUT.

Working hours of Southern Railway system clerks have been reduced by the equivalent of a half day a week. The clerks will lose only the pay of their reduced time, there being no reduction in the prevailing wage and salary scales. Officials of the system said that the arrangement was by mutual agreement in the interest of the general economic situation.

J. M. McKINNEY
Painting — Paperhanging and Decorating
828 Broad Street Phone 6-6313

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
T. W. "TOBE" KILLOUGH
COUNTY COURT CLERK

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
SCOTT SWAFFORD
TAX ASSESSOR

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
EUGENE J. BRYAN
COMMISSIONER
OF FIRE AND POLICE

JACK O'DONOHUE COMPANY
Silent Service
518-520 Lookout Street Phone 6-3121

OUR PLEDGE.....
For a Still Greater Chattanooga

Offering SERVICE of the Hamilton National Banks to all legitimate enterprise.

The directors and officials of the Hamilton National are indeed proud that this bank has had a part in the building of Chattanooga and making of it the leading industrial city of the South.

To a still greater growth of our city this bank pledges its continued support and cooperation in every legitimate enterprise.

We invite the patronage of Chattanooga's citizens that we may build up larger resources to further aid the progress of our city.

The HAMILTON NATIONAL BANK
MARKET AT SEVENTH
Market at Main
1424 McCallie
Resources over $26,000,000
East Chattanooga
Rossville, Ga.-Tenn.

GREETINGS
AND BEST WISHES!

On Monday, America will pause to do honor to those who toil.

Labor in Chattanooga has had a major part in the upbuilding of our city, and the Chattanooga Gas Company offers on this, your national holiday, congratulations on the progress which you have made, and good wishes for a happy and satisfactory observance of Labor Day.

CHATTANOOGA GAS CO.
"Public-Be-Pleased" Service

LABOR DAY GREETINGS

J. H. WANN & SONS, Inc.

Chattanooga's Leading Funeral Home for a Quarter-Century

FUNERAL DIRECTORS
AMBULANCE SERVICE

660 Georgia Ave. Phone 6-2112

PAYNE-HEAD CO.

GENERAL
INSURANCE

Fire Liability — Automobile
Accident Compensation — Surety Bonds

Service to All Assured

Phone 6-6929 — 224 Volunteer Bldg.

In Every City

THERE IS ONE FURNITURE STORE THAT SELLS QUALITY FURNITURE AT THE LOWEST PRICES

IN CHATTANOOGA THAT ONE FURNITURE STORE IS, — THE LOOKOUT FURNITURE CO.

1419 Market Street — Opp. Terminal Station

Humming Bird
PURE SILK HOSIERY
WEARS LONGER

Full Fashioned
All Silk

On Sale Locally at The Vogue
719 Market Street

PRESIDENT GREEN DECLARES POLICIES AMERICAN FEDERATION SLOWLY GAINING RECOGNITION

Many Public Men and Large Employers of Labor Are Now Accepting the Principles Long Advocated by Workers.

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM GREEN
President, American Federation of Labor

September 7 labor will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of Labor Day.

While labor of the United States and Canada is passing through a severe struggle, it can congratulate itself on the fact that trade unions have maintained their numerical standing. Furthermore, many principles and policies persistently advanced by the American Federation of Labor since its organization in 1881 have been accepted by many public men and employers of labor. Among them are:

That national sustained prosperity depends upon the payment of high wages.

That the five-day week will benefit not only the workers but the business interests of our country.

That a shorter workweek for 600,000 government employes means much to them and to all labor.

That payment of the prevailing rate of wages on all federal buildings in the United States and the District of Columbia is a big step in advance.

That advance planning by the government for public works to be constructed during depressions will be of immeasurable benefit.

The practice followed during former depressions was to reduce wages. This resulted in a longer and more extensive period of hard times than would have been the case if wages had not been reduced. There can be no prosperity unless the workers receive more than a subsistence wage. Prosperity depends upon the purchasing power of the people, and the great majority of the consumers of our country are wage earners.

While reductions in wages have taken place, in most cases they were imposed upon those who work in non-union shops or factories. The great mass of organized wage earners have to a very large degree maintained their wage standards. This has served to show the unfortunate unorganized workers that if they desire more than a bare subsistence wage they must obtain it through organized effort and through identification with the trade union movement. Where an employer fixes the wage scales and the working conditions without consultation with his employes the latter soon become victims of greed, force and selfishness.

Some of the heads of the greatest corporations in America have publicly stated that if business is to revive there must be no cutting of wages. This shows a complete change in sentiment upon a subject, unsurpassed in the life of the American Federation of Labor. A few bankers have sought to show that prosperity is not due to the payment of high wages, but their sophistry has met with the ridicule it deserves. If the people cannot buy it is because they are unemployed or because they are paid low wages.

The five-day week has also received an impetus that will be of great benefit in the future. Many employers in order to keep their organizations intact have reduced the workweek. In one case a large employer of labor who had been running three eight-hour shifts reduced it to four six-hour shifts. In a public statement the president of the company said that the advantages gained were that "it has given 20 per cent more people employment at the same daily earnings." He added:

"It seems probable that American business will soon face the need of providing for a shorter workday and a wage providing for the American standard of living if we are to help keep our people busy and stabilize prosperity."

The five and a half day week established by the government will have its influence on all employers. Our next objective is to secure the five-day week for employes of the government.

For years we have contended that government contracts should be given only to those contractors who will pay the prevailing rate of wages and employ local labor. Congress enacted the prevailing wage rate law that went into effect April 2, 1931. While it is not a perfect law, we believe that it will lead to the enactment of other legislation that will forever eliminate those contractors who pay the lowest wages possible in the construction of government buildings.

For years the American Federation of Labor urged congress to provide during periods of industrial activity for the launching of an intense comprehensive public works program when unemployment increases. This law was passed and we are certain it will be of immeasurable benefit.

It is true that millions of workers have been unemployed during the past two years, and it is evident that the hardships of another winter will be faced by many wage earners. But it must not be forgotten that all the gains that labor has secured are the result of effort and struggle on the part of the American Federation of Labor, its affiliated organizations and its membership.

Labor's principles and policies which have been accepted by so many employers and public men will, when they are generally accepted, operate to the benefit of the wage earners of our land.

Therefore, no matter what the obstacles may be we should work unanimously together in maintaining our trade unions, for in them, and through them alone, can we expect to make greater advances in the future.

No goods nor service are "just as good" except they are guaranteed by a UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD.

Soviet Menace Is Shunned by Institute

Williamstown Sessions Give Only Glancing Attention to Communist Program of World Conquest and Destruction.

Williamstown, Mass.—The Russian soviet authorities refused to send to the Williamstown Institute of Politics any representative to speak for them in the discussion of the topics here presented, or to set forth the soviet point of view with respect to its economic system or political aim.

This was the statement made by Dr. Harry Garfield, president of Williams college, and the organizing genius of the political institute, the open conference on the Paris (Kellogg-Briand) peace pact.

To the question of why the soviet phase of international facts was omitted from the program of discussion on the fundamentals of disarmament, and why the Russian factor was mentioned in the whole four days' discussion only in a glancing fashion by two or three speakers, Dr. Garfield replied that he had not thought of the matter in that way before, but that it would seem as though the Russian attitude might well be given consideration. He stated that the arrangement of the program was in the hands of James G. MacDonald, head of the Foreign Policy association.

There was no mention made of the offer of Litvinoff, Russian soviet representative, that Russia would disarm if all the other countries would do the same; nor any mention whatever of the avowed intention of the soviet authorities to bring about the destruction of all other forms of (capitalist or democratic) government by any means within their power. The only possible exception to the latter was the aside remark that "Russia is beyond the pale," which was made in passing by one speaker. Vice-Admiral Rodgers spoke of the possibility of war with Russia among others, but did not develop the facts concerning the well-known soviet intentions.

Women's Bureau Head Calls European Conditions Bad

Washington, D. C.—Following her return from a three months' study of labor conditions in Europe, Mary Anderson, director of the women's bureau of the United States department of labor, said that conditions throughout European industry were "distressing."

Pessimism is general among the wage-earners, both men and women, as a result of unemployment and poverty, Miss Anderson said.

A 100% UNION JOB

A LABEL IN AND ON THE PAPER

We carry a Complete Stock of
UNION-MADE PAPERS
AND ENVELOPES

ANGEL PRINTING CO.

312 W. Eighth St. — Phone 6-7525

"VARNELL SELLS IT CHEAPER"

We are Agents for
JNO. W. MASURY'S PAINTS
"MASURY PAINT LASTS"

VARNELL HARDWARE CO.
TWO STORES

274 East Main — 14 Brainerd Road

THE OLD STAR LAUNDRY

HERE FIRST STAYS FIRST

813-815 Chestnut Street — Telephone 7-1104

Everything for the Car

Tires :: Tubes :: Batteries
Seat Covers, Etc.

AT BILL'S LOW PRICES

Bill's Auto Acessories Co.

Fourth and Market — 273 East Main

LABOR DAY GREETINGS

C. C. HOWARD FURNITURE CO.

Your Patronage Appreciated

Phone 7-3254 — 265 E. Main Street

BEST WISHES
to
ORGANIZED LABOR

"Complete, Competent Service"

TERRELL ELECTRIC CO.

In Our New Home, 1104 McCallie Avenue
(Opposite Warner Park)
Phone 2-1138
WE ARE AS NEAR AS YOUR TELEPHONE

HAVERTY'S

A Great Store Prepared to Serve You

Quality Merchandise

REASONABLE PRICES
EASY CREDIT TERMS

"It's Easy To Pay The Haverty Way"

HAVERTY FURNITURE CO.

619 Market St. — 620 Broad St.

HOME OF LOW PRICES

CORDIAL LABOR DAY GREETINGS FROM

EFFRON'S
THE HOME OF LOW PRICES

"Meet Me Under the Clock"

Another passing year still finds Effron's the department store home of Organized Labor. The years but tend to increase the number of friends and customers and to these the management and employees of Effron's extend their heartiest Labor Day Greetings.

Quality — Variety — Style — Value

All these, and more, too, are to be found at this great friendly store. All are noteworthy inducements for the throngs of satisfied shoppers that crowd Effron's every department. All are conclusive proof that it pays you most to shop at Effron's.

Good Will in terms of Good Values

It is a natural assumption that you feel most friendly towards the store that offers you the most for your money—that Good Will is measured by Good Values. Why wonder, then, at the growing Good Will enjoyed by Effron's, where honest, every-day values are prevalent throughout the store.

HOME OF LOW PRICES

COME TO THE

HOME OF LOW PRICES

COME TO THE

STABILITY MUST BE GOAL FOR RETURNED PROSPERITY.—WOLL; LABOR MAKES BEST COTRIBUTION

Mission of Labor Is to Forge Ahead and Compel Progress in Every Avenue, Declares Vice-President of American Federation of Labor.

Written for The Labor World
By MATTHEW WOLL
Vice-President American Federation of Labor

This Labor Day finds our forces battered by the storm of the nation's worst depression. But battered though we may be, our lines hold, our courage is unshaken and we know that our movement has made a contribution above all others toward a return to stability.

What we must look forward to is stability—not merely a return of prosperity.

A return to prosperity under the old terms would merely mean a rise in preparation for another fall. And the next fall, I assure you, would be worse than the one we have experienced, if there were no change of rules.

It is impossible to speak too harshly of the conduct of some of the great bankers and industrialists. Their conduct has been despicable beyond all description.

Having, through their autocratic power, brought the nation to its knees in depression, they seek still further ruination by reduction of wages.

It has been my privilege to offer a suggestion for curative action through a national industrial congress in which all organized forces playing a useful part should gather to create a new setting for industry and a new purpose.

The response has been gratifying, but it must be greater. The responsibility is clearly upon the shoulders of employers. We cannot compel them to act, but one thing we can do and that is to press for action at every opportunity and to hold to strict accountability those whose reactionary conduct flies in the face of human needs and scoffs at any release of autocratic power.

It is the mission of labor to forge ahead and to compel progress in every avenue. We cannot abandon the field, for the simple reason that we have no other place to go.

The coming winter will bring greater misery than last winter, beyond doubt, unless some unforeseen elements enter into the situation—and that seems most unlikely.

We must build our forces stronger. We must knit our ranks together. We must build our discipline, strengthen ourselves in every direction, for it is, after all, our strength that carries us forward. As the labor movement goes forward, so does the whole economic structure.

Let us ponder these things on this Labor Day.

A. F. of L. Executive Council Maps Drive to Ban Child Labor

A vigorous campaign to secure the ratification of the amendment to the constitution of the United States prohibiting child labor, now before the state legislatures, was planned by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor at its quarterly meeting in Atlantic City. The council expressed the belief that the "existing industrial depression will serve to influence the judgment of state legislative bodes which have not already taken action."

"Child labor is wrong both from a moral and industrial point of view," declared the council.

"It is indefensible during prosperous periods and it approximates a moral crime during periods of industrial depression.

"It is the purpose of the American Federation of Labor to press upon state legislatures, which have not already taken action, to adopt the child labor amendment to the constitution of the United States. The legislature of the state of Colorado acted favorably upon this amendment at its recent session.

"The council believes that the existing industrial depression will serve to influence the judgment of other state legislative bodies, some of which may meet during the coming winter, in favor of the adoption of the child labor constitutional amendment.

"The American Federation of Labor will continue, as it has in the past, to lead the fight for the protection of children, for the abolition of child labor, for the enlargement of educational opportunities for the children of the nation.

"It is the purpose of the American Federation of Labor to actively engage in securing amendments to child labor laws in the different states where such legislation does not measure up to the standard requirements of child labor legislation necessary to prohibit the employment of children at a tender age."

Jobs for Thousands On Federal Buildings

Washington.—The building program of the United States government will provide work for approximately 100,000 additional men during the next two years, according to an estimate made by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ferry K. Heath.

The building program calls for the expenditure of $700,000,000, of which about $500,000,000 will be expended in the District of Columbia.

It is estimated that a total of about 150,000 men will be employed, directly and indirectly under this program during the winter, and the number will be increased as the number of projects under way increases.

The treasury department explains that the increase of 100,000 comes about because of a large number of costly buildings and a number of smaller projects are getting under way.

Churches Urge Unemployment Relief Program

New York.—Rev. Dr. John McDowell, secretary of the committee on social and industrial relations of the Presbyterian board of national missions, has sent a letter to 293 Presbyteries requesting each to consider, at its fall meeting, the appointment of a committee on unemployment.

Dr. McDowell said his committee had been instructed by the Presbyterian general assembly to "seek to project and promote a practical and constructive program which will meet the needs of the unemployed." The program regards work as the first essential and relief the second.

The committee admits the existence of "grave maladjustments in business and industry, with results in poverty, insecurity, low standards of living and conflicts." It expressed the hope that by enlisting groups throughout the church in a concerted study of unemployment there would be developed a constantly expanding body of information which "eventually will find expression in an effort to establish a more Christian social order."

The committee will hold conferences on unemployment in several of the nation's industrial centers and submit its final report to the general assembly at Denver, Colo., in May, 1932.

President Names Gifford on Board To Mobilize Relief

Washington.—President Hoover has appointed Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, to set up an organization here to formulate plans and mobilize facilities to meet the unemployment crisis during the coming winter. A nation-wide advisory committee to assist Mr. Gifford will also be named by the president.

The major function of Mr. Gifford's committee will be to arrange for the systematic administration of relief funds to keep unemployed workers and their families from suffering from a lack of the necessaries of life.

ANDREWS PRINTERY
Incorporated
Producers of Catalogues
Promotional Literature and Business Forms
1233 BROAD STREET
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

Established 1921
GALYON PRINTING COMPANY
306 EAST ELEVENTH STREET
PHONE 6-0412
John R. Galyon, 29 Years Member of Typographical Union

MILLS & LUPTON SUPPLY CO.
SUPER SERVICE
1152-54 Market St. Dial 6-6171
Distributors
Du Pont Paints
Johns-Manville Roofing

"The Sign that Guarantees Cleaning Satisfaction in Chattanooga"
SIX STORES CONVENIENTLY LOCATED
1629 McCallie Ave. 4728 Rossville Blvd.
8 East Seventh St. 2444 Broad St.
729 East Fourth St. 19 Frazier Ave.

Mountain City Sign Co.
L. G. BROWNE, MANAGER
SERVICE IN SIGNS
D. F. Howren, O. C. Case, Chas. R. Ruggles
715½ Cherry Streeet Phone 6-0813

TIMOTHY'S
A Shopping Center for the Wives, Daughters, Mothers and Sisters of Chattanooga's Working Men
For nearly a half-century we have served the people of this city, with Service, Courtesy and Dependability always our motto.
It has further been a set purpose of this firm to give always 100 CENTS worth of Quality Merchandise for every DOLLAR spent here.
We handle nothing but the Best, and invite comparison both as to quality and price. Every purchase you make here is backed by our reputation of nearly fifty years' fair dealing.
If you are not already a customer, we invite your inspection of our New Fall and Winter Stocks, now on display, including everything to be found in a modern Dry Goods and Ready-to-Wear Store for Women and Misses.
Keep this in mind: The place to buy Dependable Merchandise, with assurance of A DOLLAR'S WORTH FOR A DOLLAR, is
TIMOTHY'S

O. B. ANDREWS COMPANY
Chattanooga, Tennessee
LUMBER, PAPER AND CONTAINER MANUFACTURERS
The Only Concern in the World Manufacturing Wooden and Paped Containers of Every Description

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
FROM
STOVALL HARDWARE CO.
House Furnishings
Shelf and Heavy Hardware
Carpenters' and Machinists' Tools
711 CHERRY ST.
"In that Good Block"

"WE SERVE TO SERVE AGAIN"
LOOKOUT PLANING MILLS
Chattanooga
1038 E. Main St. — Phone 6-5101
Lumber and Millwork
Keeping up with the times in Quality and Service
We have the Men, the Equipment, the Lumber

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIEND

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation

Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

REPLEVIN NOTICE
No. 1824

Before Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee.
Tennessee Electric Power Co. vs. Chattanooga Transfer and Storage Company
(H. Grady Varnell)

In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, a replevin notice must be served upon goods in storage at the warehouse of the Chattanooga Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant, and returned to me. It is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, for four consecutive weeks, Knox, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., on Monday, Sept. 21, 1931, at 11 a.m., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

This 25th day of August, 1931.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45862

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Eva Thomas vs. Niven E. Thomas

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Niven E. Thomas is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 3rd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Rankin, Frazier & Roberts, Attys. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45861

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Lucile Burkhart Taylor vs. Charles C. Taylor

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Charles C. Taylor is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 3rd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
D. L. Bachman, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45851

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Theresa Reading vs. L. C. Reading

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that L. C. Reading is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 2nd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Samuel Butler, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 24888

State of Tennessee, Chancery Court of Hamilton County

W. E. Long vs. Emma Long

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Emma Long is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying defendant to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 2nd day of September, 1931.
SAM ERWIN, C. & M.
By E. C. BRIDGERS, D. C. M.
Wm. H. Seymour, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45558

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Grace Meyer vs. H. G. Meyer.

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that H. G. Meyer is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 11th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
H. H. Reddy, Atty. 9-4

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45772

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

J. Hamilton Estes vs. Mary Estes

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Mary Estes is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 21st day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
W. H. Fogo, Atty. 9-21

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45751

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Myrtle Morgan vs. Ralph Morgan.

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ralph Morgan is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 17th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Harrison & Wilkerson, Attys. 9-11

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45739

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

George B. Berry vs. Lillian Jackson Berry

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Lillian Berry is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 21st day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Clyce & McClure, Attys. 9-11

INDIGESTION

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest.

"I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted.

"Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."

—Clyde Vaughn, 10 Shippy St., Greenville, S. C.

Sold in 25¢ packages. 9-11

Thedford's
BLACK-DRAUGHT

WOMEN who are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

TAXI

Phone 7-1261

PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PREMIER CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

COAL

Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25

Honest Weight — Prompt Service

CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

B L & K R

Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

Important Matters for Labor to Consider on Its Golden Anniversary

Written for The Labor World
By P. J. MORAN
General President International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers.

The golden anniversary of the establishment of Labor Day, Monday, September 7, 1931, finds organized labor facing the most critical period in its history.

Economists tell us that the worst of the depression is over. In the case of some industries that is true. Textiles, clothing, shoes, tires and other commodities have shown an upward trend.

But many industries will not and cannot respond for many months to come and the facts in the case are that there will be severe suffering during the winter of 1931-32, unless emergency relief is provided.

A hopeful attitude is praiseworthy. It is always well to look for the silver lining in the clouds. But, on the other hand, we must face facts and call a spade by its rightful name.

Two Meritorious Proposals.

Two remedial courses have been offered by our great American leaders. Each proposal is meritorious. Each is backed by sound logic and each has the endorsement of organized labor and some of the greatest minds of our country.

One plan is the proposal of William Randolph Hearst in which he urges that the government float a five-billion-dollar loan to be used immediately for public construction of all kinds. This plan would furnish work for hundreds of thousands of unemployed during the hard times that are to come, unless something is done at once.

That the money could be raised quickly with a minimum of effort has been clearly demonstrated in the past. And the good that could be accomplished cannot be measured. Hearst, well informed on the needs of our country, has pointed the way. There is no question but that his plan would greatly help to create employment and relieve the suffering and hardships now, which willing workers unable to secure employment are experiencing.

Busch Offers Plan.

A second remedial plan has been pointed out by August A. Busch, head of the Anheuser-Busch brewing interests. In a recent answer to a challenge of the drys that he prove his statement that modification of the Volstead act would aid materially in relieving the depression, he showed us that legalization of beer would:

1. Furnish employment for 1,125,000 persons in the United States, which approximates the number employed by the brewing industry before prohibition.

2. Aid the railroads by starting 180,000 freight cars on the roads laden with fuel and other supplies for the industry, the number estimated by the Anti-Saloon League in use, hauling coal for the brewing industry alone before prohibition.

3. Aid the farmers, who could turn fields now used for the production of unprofitable wheat into profit-making barley fields and cutting consumption of wheat to reduce the surplus which has caused a decline in prices.

4. Furnish immediate employment to many additional thousands of building trades workers and other craftsmen who would be required to rehabilitate plants that have been idle since the days of prohibition.

5. Aid more than 100 allied industries, which would be revitalized by the orders for millions of dollars worth of supplies and equipment required for the manufacture and sale of legalized beer.

Time Here for Action.

A government loan for public construction to provide employment and the employment provided through the modification of the Volstead act would do more than anything that has yet been proposed to restore normal conditions. Even if these two remedies failed to furnish employment for every person now out of work, their effect would so raise the morale of the people and business at large as to furnish the needed impetus to the upward trend that has already been felt in certain classes of industry.

California May Vote Big Bond Issue for Idle

Petitions to Be Circulated to Initiate Measure for Spending of Hundred Million Dollars for Jobs.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 2.—A move is under way to initiate a measure to give the voters of California an opportunity to vote on the proposal that the state float a $100,000,000 bond issue for the relief of unemployment. Senator Roy Fellom, of San Francisco, has been active in the proposal and has the backing of the California State Federation of Labor and other agencies that realize the serious situation that confronts the workers and business interests through the depression.

The understanding is that the petitions for the initiative measure will be circulated without cost in all parts of the state immediately upon assurance by Gov. Rolph that he would call a special election to act upon the same, as whatever is done, if anything, must be at the earliest possible moment to get any benefit for those who need employment.

It is reported from Sacramento that many telegrams are being received by the governor urging him to agree to set a date for such an election; they come from all classes of citizens. Secretary Paul Scharrenberg, of the state federation of labor, announces that he is heartily in accord with the proposal. President A. W. Hoch, of the federation, telegraphed Gov. Rolph as follows:

"On behalf of thousands of unemployed the California State Federation of Labor urges you to immediately set a date for a special election so that petitions may be circulated for an initiative act to provide for a $100,000,000 bond issue to relieve acute suffering due to unemployment."

"It is the belief that if the bond issue proposition is submitted to the people there will be no question about its adoption, as the necessity and need for some action is only too apparent," the Los Angeles Citizen says. "It looks as if it will be up to the various states to act as the United States government seems to not be able to get away from the talking stage in anything tangible to bring employment. The workers do not want a dole, but do want a chance to work."

Pizitz Store Has "New Fall Dress"

Local Pizitz department store, at 824-26 Market street, is having a "new fall dress," said apparel consisting of complete repainting and papering throughout. Manager Marx declared his company is glad to relieve the unemployment situation to this extent, and at the same time to make the appearance of the store "click" with the new fall stocks which are now arriving daily.

Union labor, he said, is, of course, being used exclusively.

McGrady Scores Bankers' Stand For Lower Wage

Banks' Position Fraught With Danger to American Institutions, Labor Man Tells Unemployment Conference.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 2.—Bankers are seeking to deflate still lower American wages, Edward F. McGrady, legislative committeeman of the American Federation of Labor, charged in a speech before the unemployment conference here called by Gov. Murray, of Oklahoma. "Business men anxious to expand their activities have gone to the banks to borrow funds, and have been told they could not have the money because the wages they paid were too high," McGrady told the conference.

"This position taken by the bankers is unthinkable," he continued. "It is un-American and is fraught with great danger to our American institutions. The policy is going to increase our economic distress."

Wage payments in industries for the first half of 1930 were below those of 1929 by $707,000,000, while dividend payments increased by $350,000,000, McGrady said. Wage-earners' incomes were cut 12 per cent while stockholders' dividends increased 28 per cent.

"Our present economic system is inadequate and must be changed, for mass production has brought to the people of the land mass poverty," McGrady said. "There must be a change before it is too late to stem the tide of discontent and disorder, the result of our American workers waiting indefinitely for some form of relief in a nation of plenty. They will not continue to sit quietly by in distress."

Jobless Conference Urges Public Works

Memphis.—The unemployment conference of the Mississippi valley states, meeting here at the call of Gov. Murray, of Oklahoma, decided to tackle the unemployment situation as a unit under a permanent organization to be set up by the conference.

Governors of each of the valley states were urged to boost public construction programs of states, counties and municipalities.

Gov. Murray suggested that state and federal employes return from 50 to 15 per cent of their salaries for the aid of the jobless.

State delegates were urged to organize and support activities of unemployment relief organizations in the affected states.

Clarence Douglas, special representative of the Inland Waterways corporation, said the government had already available $1,500,000 for public construction, river and harbor improvement and flood control and urged the conference to go on record as favoring the expenditure of this money as expeditiously as possible.

The practical trade unionist always demands the union label, shop card or button.

"Say it with Flowers"

DAY McAMIS, Florist

BUY DIRECT FROM THE GROWER—IT PAYS
CUT FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS

Phone 6-6134 6-6135

Greenhouses and Salesrooms: 416 Tremont Street

Do you know Your Union Label

A HIGH GRADE PRODUCT
. . . . AT A LOW COST!

MINED IN TENNESSEE BY MEMBERS OF THE UNITED MINE WORKERS OF AMERICA

FENTRESS
COAL

"100 Per Cent Union"

Buy Now at Summer Prices!

ACME COAL CO.
622 East Ninth Street
WALTER D. MOORE
E. E. WARE
PHONE 6-1183

A COMPLETE SERVICE
at the lowest cost
R. J. Coulter Undertaking Co.
The South's Finest Ambulance
Funeral Home 801 Vine St. Phone 6-6114

Delinquent City Taxes

On October 1st unpaid taxes pass into hands of delinquent collector.

Avoid this extra cost by paying now.

F. K. ROSAMOND,
Tax Collector.

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
ALVIN SHIPP
TRUSTEE

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
L. D. MILLER
CRIMINAL COURT JUDGE

LABOR DAY GREETINGS
from
J. N. PEARSON

ALONG MELODY LANE

By JOHNNY MAHONEY

Sunday, Sept. 6, will be the day of the next meeting of the local. There will be a great deal to come up, both important and unimportant. All members wishing to listen to the long-winded orations or the wise-cracks of Dodds, Stamper and Weaver come early and get the choice seats.

* * *

They say that musicians, both young and old, find it very difficult to keep out of trouble. It must be their temperament or something. Accepting Lloyd Wolfe as a musician, we see where the young trumpeter has married, had an auto accident, and lost his wife all in the short space of two months.

* * *

When two national fraternities selected Chattanooga as their convention site, it gave a few members some work, anyway. Miss Lassater and her Syncopators will play for the A. L. T.'s at the Read House and Cavern Castle, while J. Frank will show the delegates what makes the Signal Hotel the most popular around Chattanooga.

* * *

We are happy to announce that the officials of WDOD and the local are working together and towards a plan that will be of mutual benefit to both organizations. The one thing the members ask of the radio station is not to let Herman sing too often.

* * *

We hear that Pedro is in Chicago rehearsing his band for a winter engagement.

* * *

From all viewpoints it looks like a bleak winter for the musicians of the city. With the hotels stopping and dances closing down, it seems to be just too bad unless things change. Ramon Pryor says if things really get bad, he has first bid for Seventh and Market.

* * *

Sandy Summers is making us real proud of him for the interest that he has been taking in the local the last few months. We knew that the weather has been a little hot for golf, anyway.

* * *

Maynard had a right nice dance in Cleveland last week. Our old friend, Albert Quirk, played the drums and xylophones. Right in our jurisdiction —but what can we do.

Ralph Cooper, saxophonist and member of the editorial staff of the Chattanooga News, has returned from a six-weeks vacation in Florida. All reed players of the local were glad to see him return. O, competition!

DIVIDENDS IN SEPTEMBER WILL REACH $350,000,000

Eight Hundred Corporations to Disburse Huge Sums, Six Paying Out More Than Three Million Dollars Each, Despite Depression Which Brings Unemployment and Misery to Wage Earners.

New York City, Sept. 2.—Times are bad, especially for the wage-earners, but about 800 corporations, many of which have been cutting wages, are paying sizable dividends to their stockholders in September. Dividends from almost 600 corporations are going out Sept. 1 and other dividends will be paid during the month.

The total amount to be disbursed in September is estimated at $350,000,000. In September of last year $475,000,000 was paid by more than 900 companies. Payments this September include six of more than $3,000,000 each.

Among large dividend disbursements Sept. 1 are Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, about $6,000,000; American Tobacco company, $5,900,000; Drug, Inc., $3,500,000; Commonwealth and Southern, $3,400,000; Borden, $3,300,000.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will distribute $12,700,000 in dividends and Standard Oil of New York, $7,140,000 on Sept. 15. General Motors dividends of $35,000,000 are payable on Sept. 12, including $32,625,000 on the common stock.

Dividend disbursements go largely to the wealthy and well-to-do, who do not have to worry about unemployment. Very few unemployed workers are receiving dividends in September or any other month.

AMERICAN LABOR WON'T ACCEPT STARVATION, M'GRADY DECLARES

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 2.—Edward F. McGrady, of Washington, D. C., legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, telegraphed the following message to R. R. Lawrenre, of Winston-Salem, president of the North Carolina State Federation of Labor, during the federation's convention here:

"Monday and Tuesday it is imperative I be in New York City to help the paper makers and the allied printing trades in securing a new contract that involves a great many workers. I have instructed Organizer Googe to attend. Hope the delegates will strike out boldly against unemployment, hunger and misery in this land of plenty. For myself I declare, 'If the federal, state governments and industry fail to meet their full obligations and the choice for the workers is riot or hunger, then the American workers are not going hungry. If that be treason, let them make the most of it.'"

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

IN JUNE, 1835, the Trades' Union of the City and County of Philadelphia, three years after the organization was started, undertook a general strike and it has gone down in the history of unionism as the first successful general strike. It began with the cordwainers and spread rapidly to the saddlers, building trades, cigarmakers, smiths, bakers, plumbers, etc., and especially noticeable in connection with the strike is the fact that the unskilled workers on the docks also left their jobs in sympathy with the organized skilled craftsmen.

This first successful general strike was brought on by the resistance to the demand on the part of the workers for a ten-hour day, and it is chronicled by the newspapers of the day that "many influential men in the community are in favor of our workers' petition." As a result of this widespread indorsement of the workers' demand for a shorter workday numerous mass meetings not composed altogether of workingmen were held, resolutions adopted sympathizing with the men's cause, and finally, so great did the pressure become for all workers to go on a ten-hour basis that the city council of Philadelphia agreed to lower the hours of municipal employment to ten.

It is not difficult to understand the sympathy of so many citizens of Philadelphia with the workingmen's cause when we remember that the laboring men's leaders participated in civic affairs to a far greater extent in those days than do the leaders of today. Class lines had not been drawn so clearly as they are now. Back in those days it was not strange to see Ely Moore, of the "Typographical Association," elected to congress on the Jackson ticket and go to Washington as the first man to take a seat among the people's representatives as the outspoken champion of labor.

"Union-made, but does not bear a label" is a stock phrase which we should ignore. Demand the UNION LABEL.

No goods nor service are "just as good" except they are guaranteed by a UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD.

BUGHOUSE FABLES

By H. F. B.

Saturday night somebody dropped a pint bottle of Pluto water on the cement sidewalk at Miller Bros.' corner, and when your correspondent passed there a little later it seemed to be going on through, according to schedule!

* * *

Headline: Manufacturers' Oppose Dole Job Insurance." The National Association of Manufacturers today placed itself on record as offering a "dole" and general "compulsory unemployment insurance as harmful to interests of workers and taxpayers." While there's nothing like being consistent, this is exactly the same rumor they advanced for offering the payment of more than a "living wage," so the poor devil who has to work for a living might be able to put himself and family in a position where he could weather a "depression" on his own hook and not need a "dole" or any "insurance" against unemployment! Of course they oppose it. That would cost them quite a lot of their billions in dividends the new "clipping machines" have enabled them to put out by production and to "lay-off." (Found): A whole lot of men, who can't find a job anywhere else because they've been putting a certain sum into a certain hole ten hours a day so long they have become "Spiritualists" (God save the mark!) and couldn't do anything else if they had it to do! Consistency, thou art a virtue (?)

* * *

This barter and trade idea that has been revived, internationally, is a good thing, gentlemen! It works sleek as grease! Wherefore, when Hester made a little expert inquiring advice as to how to fix his hot water heater so it would circulate and not boil on top with the rest of it cold—and yours truly needs a shave, and is economizing most severely—he and I can get together all nice and comfy —and everybody happy. He thinks he's getting that advice cheaply, and I know I'm getting shaved cheaply. It's a great scheme. The joke of it is that I told him once how to fix it and he didn't fix it that way. May be he'll fix it right this time when the advice wasn't exactly free! I think Hester must have a little Scotch in him! (Not liquid, oh dear, no!)

MORE ABOUT PRINTERS

(Continued from First Page)

in their combined respective treasuries $2,764,596.20. According to the last quarterly report of these 781 locals, they have a total membership of 78,460.

When the board of trustees of the Union Printers Home held their last meeting, as usual there were a unmber of residents of the Home who were unable to appear before the board with complaints, suggestions or criticisms. A committee visited 83 such residents, and of the 83 there was one who voiced a complaint, and that complaint was that he was not satisfied with the doctors. One resident refused to be interviewed. There were 336 residents at the Home on May 31, 1931.

There are about 9,000 books on the shelves of the Home library.

During the past year motion pictures, both feature and comedy, were shown weekly at the Home from the first of October until the last of May.

During the past year the Home dairy has produced 42,390 gallons of milk and cream for table use, 5,839 pounds of butter and 3,177 pounds of veal.

Hogs now utilize the skim milk, waste feed and garbage, and from this source 14,898 pounds of pork have been produced for Home use.

The poultry department of the Home during the past year supplied 8,685 dozens of eggs and 2,742 pounds of chickens for Home use.

The Home garden supplied sixteen varieties of vegetables during the summer season.

Food supplies purchased during the past year by the Home, which includes groceries, meats, fresh fruits and vegetables, amounted to $65,759.92, while the value of supplies produced by the Home, including milk, cream, butter, veal, pork, poultry, eggs and garden products, was $30,239.23.

There were 469,016 meals served at the Home during the past year, of which 2,255 were for visitors and 109,500 were for employees; 78,944 meals were served on trays, and 278,317 meals were served in the Home dining rooms.

A menu picked at random, which was served at the Home on April 26, 1931, was as follows: Breakfast—Grapefruit, wheat muffins, mackerel or eggs, cinnamon buns and jam. Dinner— Fruit cocktail, cream of celery soup, fried Belgian hare, mashed potatoes with garden peas, pineapple salad with mayonnaise dressing, peach ice cream. Supper—Chipped beef in cream on toast, baked potatoes, Royal Anne cherries, orange layer cake.

The monthly average of actual cost of maintaining the Home during the past year was $25,885.78, while the average monthly cost for the previous year was $28,402.62.

Couzens Offers Million For Jobless Relief

Detroit, Mich. — Senator James Couzens contributed $1,000,000 to the Detroit jobless relief fund provided Mayor Murphy could raise $9,000,000 more from private sources.

The Detroit city council has appropriated $7,500,000 for unemployment relief from Nov. 1 to March 1. Mayor Murphy insisted that this amount was $10,000,000 too small. Therefore Couzens took the matter up and started the private fund off with his $1,000,000.

Senator Couzens stated he favored a special session of congress to enact laws making appropriations to assist the states in caring for the jobless during the unemployment crisis.

"The president is evidently determined not to call an extra session of congress, Couzens said. "The regular session does not meet until December. Consequently no aid can be given by it until it is too late for this winter's relief. Therefore other ways and means will have to be devised.

"It is more important to me that the unemployed be properly cared for this winter than it is to have my views adopted, so I am willing to adapt myself to the conditions and aid in every way possible."

Re-elected President Of Miners' District 26

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 2.—Re-elected by acclamation, W. D. Morrison continues president of District No. 26, United Mine Workers of America. The secretary and all board members, except one, were re-elected by sweeping majorities.

WHY LAUGH?

Just Had a Peep Into
STAGMAIER & CO.'S PREMIUM CATALOGUE
There are so many nice PREMIUMS to be had with Coupons taken from
Up-To-Date Baking Powder
Catalogue will be mailed you free upon request.
Stagmaier & Co.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

OUR WEEKLY MARKET BASKET

WATCH this section every week for Grocery Bargains. Make your Dollar do Double Duty. Patronize those who patronize YOUR PAPER — and save the difference.

Bargains for Saturday!

SOUP Van Camp's Tomato 5c
SALT Reg. 5c Size, 2 Boxes 5c
STREAKED MEAT Best Grade, 3 Lbs. for 25c
CATSUP 2 for 23c Van Camp's, Large
HOMINY 2 for 9c Van Camp's, 300 Size
BACON Pound 25c Rindless Black Hawk
VIENNA SAUSAGE Pure, ½ lb. size 5c
MATCHES Box 2c

INTERNATIONAL UNION MARKET
THIS IS TO CERTIFY, That this Meat Market is conducted in accordance with the rules of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L. Therefore we commend it to the patronage of all.

SAUNDERS STORE
423-425-427 MARKET STREET
(INDEPENDENT OF ANY CHAIN STORE—HOME OWNED)

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED
EASY WAY
SELF SERVICE GROCERY
417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

SWIFT'S JEWEL Best Comp. in 1 or 2-lb. Car. or Bulb; 4 lbs. 35c
PURE LARD Very best, "Laurel" (Limit 4 Lbs.—4 Pounds 35c
PINK SALMON No. 1 Tall, 15c Size, 3 cans 25c
"POLLY RICH" Special Prices Today "ORIENT"
WRITING PADS 50 Leaf, Public School, 2 for 9c
OYSTERS "Mermaid" Regular 15c Size, 2 Cans 25c

WE EMPLOY ONLY UNION LABOR IN OUR MARKET

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make— Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

IF YOU WANT THE BEST
FLOUR
MADE

Buy—
Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co., Chattanooga

OUR ADVERTISERS ARE OUR FRIEND

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, SEPTEMBER 11, 1931 — Number 20

JUDGE LUSK'S PAY-CUT RULING UPHOLDS POSITION OF LABOR; WORKERS WIN MORAL VICTORY

Wage-Slashers Rebuked by Local Jurist.

PETITION OF JUDGE CUMMINGS DISMISSED

So-Called "Economy" Campaign Effectively Checked by Opinion — Trades and Labor Council's Views Again Vindicated.

"If possible to avoid it, no governmental agency should lead the way back to the inadequate pay, with its trail of ignorance and want, that cursed us in former times," said Judge Charles W. Lusk, in dismissing suits brought by County Judge Will Cummings to force Sheriff Charley Taylor and Criminal Court Clerk Tom Clark into line in a program of wage-slashing which originally contemplated a 10 per cent reduction in salaries of all county employes, including school teachers, sheriff's officers and many others who in some cases received much less than $100 per month.

The above quotation from the court's opinion, given after able counsel on the person of the county attorney, with the expert assistance of the county auditor, had presented in full the case of the county judge against the contumacious officials, in which justifies the position taken by organized labor throughout the wage-cutting campaign. "America has led the world," said Judge Lusk, "in fixing wages and a consequent standard of living which gives dignity and decency to men in normal times to all who are willing to exchange therefor honest and intelligent effort."

The court's holding reviewed all phases of the testimony offered, and concluded, substantially, with, "It is accordingly ordered by the court that the motions of the county judge be, and the same are, in all things overruled and dismissed."

Judge Lusk indicated a wide study and thoroughly constructive grasp of the present economic collapse, and his utterances with respect to this phase of the proceedings were hailed by members of organized labor as indicating that at least one public official knows the dramatic seriousness of the industrial situation and its possibilities for untold harm to our country and its institutions. On this subject his honor said:

The court is fully aware of the seriousness of the present situation. Whatever may have been its cause, the panic is upon us and must be dealt with as best we can. With respect to our own country it is, in some respects, the most preposterous, the most utterly absurd in the history of men. Commodities were never so plentiful; manufacturers are seeking in vain for markets; farmers are offered less for foodstuffs than the cost of production; houses stand empty for want of tenants. And yet millions of men and women beg in vain for the opportunity to labor for the things which others are eager to sell. They go hungry while food rots in the fields and molds in granaries for lack of buyers; they go naked because clothing is too plentiful; they are houseless and homeless with houses vacant and landlords facing bankruptcy. Buyers and sellers are eager to bargain, and yet some strange paralysis grips them to a futile standstill.

Our whole economic structure is on the defensive. When men, women and children, in a land of plenty are deprived of the right to labor for an honest, decent living they have the right to demand of our statesmen, county, state, national and international, why these things should be. Therefore, whenever and wherever possible, the burden of taxation should be reduced to the absolute minimum consistent with the good of the public service.

The whole economic history of mankind, however, teaches us the folly of expecting efficient service from poorly paid help. The law of compensation works here, as everywhere, and we get what we pay for—no more. America has led the world in fixing wages and a consequent standard of living which gives dignity and decency in normal times to all who are willing to exchange therefor honest and intelligent effort. If possible to avoid it, no governmental agency should lead the way back to the inadequate pay, with its trail of ignorance and want, that cursed us in former times.

The proceedings before Judge Lusk were the result of a movement begun several weeks ago by the county administration to slash salaries and wages generally of county employes. Basis of the campaign was given as "economy" for the taxpayers, although this was later admitted by the county attorney, in open court, to be unsound and without merit. The campaign began with a request from the judge that the county court approve a "readjustment" program, which approval was given, although some of the court's members later declared they had misunderstood the scope of the plan, and threatened to withdraw their support. No further action was taken, however.

The county judge's program was immediately approved by the Chattanooga News, and the administration was commended by numerous local business concerns and some public, civic and semi-civic agencies, including the taxation committee of the chamber of commerce, which, under the leadership of Fred Arn, wealthy local manufacturer, has advocated a program of wage-slashing and stagnation of public works generally.

Several elective officials in the county government immediately accepted the administration's order to reduce salaries in their respective departments, but Sheriff Taylor, Clerk Clark and Circuit Court Clerk Tom Rogers refused to comply, and the county judge filed the bills to force action. The motion against Mr. Rogers, filed in circuit court, has not been heard. Sam Erwin, clerk and master, also failed to fall into line, but for some reason as yet not publicly explained, no bill was filed against him.

Organized labor, as represented by Chattanooga Trades and Labor council, standing alone as the only public agency formally protesting the wage-slashing campaign, denounced the plan as "unfair, unjust, unreasonable and unnecessary," and ridiculed the stated basis of "economy." The county court was called upon to rescind its action in giving approval to the program, but although several members expressed their intention to move to that end, as stated above, nothing was ever done about it.

The county school board, however, which had notified teachers that they must accept a cut of 7½ per cent in salaries, later called a special meeting and rescinded this action.

The ruling of Judge Lusk in the Taylor-Clark cases is regarded as a death blow to the wage-slashers, so far as they relate to public employes, and it is believed those whose wages were cut will be restored to their former standards.

As predicted following the county wage-cutting campaign, announcement was made this week that certain departments in the city government will "economize" in the matter of salaries. It is stated, however, that these slashes will apply principally to executives, and to none who receive less than $2,000 per year.

A long list of public and private institutions have already taken their cue from the county campaign, and the small-salary and wage-earning groups have suffered immeasurably through the example which the county government attempted to seat.

For Your Scrapbook

The whole economic history of mankind teaches us the folly of expecting efficient service from poorly paid help. The law of compensation works here, as everywhere, and we get what we pay for—no more. America has led the world in fixing wages and a consequent standard of living which gives dignity and decency in normal times to all who are willing to exchange therefor honest and intelligent effort. If possible to avoid it, no governmental agency should lead the way back to the inadequate pay, with its trail of ignorance and want, that cursed us in former times.—The Hon. Charles W. Lusk, Criminal Court Judge.

Maintain High Wages to Restore Prosperity, Manufacturer Urges

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 2.—If the wages of American workingmen are maintained and there is no lowering in the present standard of living, the United States will enter upon its greatest period of prosperity. Furthermore, under these conditions this country can assure its own welfare without much dependence on international trade. These are the beliefs expressed by W. A. Sheaffer, head of the big pen manufacturing company at Ft. Madison, Iowa, which bears his name, following a visit to Europe and Canada to study economic conditions.

Mr. Sheaffer's opinions are the basis of an article written by O. A. Mather, of the Chicago Tribune.

"Don't reduce wages if you can possibly help it," is Mr. Sheaffer's plea to American employers. "If you are compelled to do so temporarily, restore them quickly. Retaining our present scale for both the laborer and the producer is the single solution for unemployment and it is the only thing that will put the largest number of purchasers in the market to buy and consume additional goods. In turn, that policy will produce employment for a greater number.

"This country has 40,000,000 workers. If at the present time the unemployed have mounted to as high as five million and if you cut wages, you are cutting wages of 85 to 90 per cent of the people who are now employed and you are not doing anything but putting employment further away from the unemployed. A recent survey in all types of industries showed only 1 per cent had cut wages.

"If we hold our wage scale up and allow our present level of living and consuming to stay at the standards to which we have become accustomed, then even without any foreign trade we can have prosperity. With the additional sale of merchandise to the extent that foreign countries can afford to purchase we have no fear for a healthy future. In 1929 foreign commerce was 8 per cent of our total trade, while 92 per cent was domestic trade. If we put our domestic volume of business up to what it was in 1929 and we had no foreign business whatever, practically everyone would be employed at a good wage."

New York Labor Urged to Demand U. S. Relief Plan

Peter J. Brady Tells State Convention Unemployment Situation Must Be Handled by Federal Government.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 10—Speaking here before the annual convention of the New York State Federation of Labor, Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation Bank and Trust Company of New York City, urged the federation to go on record as favoring drafting of a federal unemployment relief plan. He urged that President Hoover call a special conference of cabinet members and others to draft such a plan.

Voicing the opinion that the federal government ought to permit the states to regulate the sale of light wines and beer, Brady declared that this would restore hundreds of thonsands of idle men to work and help to build up the lagging confidence of the lagging conndence of the American people.

He also urged that the federal government assist the state and municipal governments in the elimination of crime, which, he said, would tend "to wipe out a spirit of demoralization that is spreading across the land today in the wake of gang warfare and practices of all racketeers."

"The federal government," Brady declared, "must take over the unemployment situation. It must take the initiative, for its solution is beyond the scope of private individuals and labor organizations solely. Individuals have begun to lose confidence in one another and only the action of the federal government can restore this lost confidence.

"If the American people could subscribe to liberty bonds to the extent of billions of dollars in the world war, they can now purchase prosperity, relief or any other kind of bonds which the American government may see fit to float for the relief of the country."

VICE-PRESIDENT STAGE HANDS.

International President William F. Canavan, of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators, has selected Floyd M. Billingsley, business representative, of San Francisco, Cal., Operators' Local Union No. 162, to fill the vacancy existing in the office of seventh vice-president, which was created by the resignation of former Vice-President Cleve Beck. This appointment met with the unanimous approval of the central executive board and confirmed the previous report that the selection would be made with the end in view to having proper representation on the west coast.

NOTICE!

Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council will meet Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, in regular session. All delegates are requested and expected to be present, as matters affecting every local union will come before the meeting for discussion.

Unemployment's Only Real Cure Not on Program

Industry Dodges Care of Jobless Army, as Burden Is Thrown on Local Civic and Political Organizations.

By CHESTER M. WRIGHT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—The general scheme of unemployment relief work this winter this week began to emerge in fairly definite outline.

On the basis of facts known at this time it appears clear that relief will mean simply relief and that employment will remain another matter.

It becomes clear also that the Hoover decision against a special session of congress is definite and final and likewise that there will be no industrial conference called by Hoover or with his approval.

The new relief organization set up by the president under Walter S. Gifford, head of the telephone combine, is expected to energize local relief work and to supplement it where possible. On the basis of present indications the Gifford committee, on which several labor representatives hold membership, will be to serve as a clearing house for ideas and to lead local relief agencies into action and along more or less co-ordinated lines.

It is certain that Gifford would not have been appointed had he not found himself in agreement with the Hoover policy that relief must be local, with the federal government helping to organize it and stimulate it where necessary.

There is the possibility that the president hoped, by naming a man of Gifford's corporate standing, to draw from big interests and rich men the contributions for relief that up to now have been dramatically lacking.

Farm board wheat may be used in relief work. If this is the case it will be sold to communities or community agencies at low cost or will be given outright by congressional grant. There will, it seems, be a flood of propaganda on how to prepare wheat in the home for use. Already this is under way.

Reports from 25,000 local organizations as to the probable relief needs are being compiled and analyzed in Washington and the Gifford committee is getting a picture of the winter's task.

But nowhere in the whole relief agency picture is there a word said about more employment, the one real solution to the problem of unemployment.

The burden of unemployment is being thrown mostly on the already burdened shoulders of those who themselves verge on unemployment. The volunteer agencies of relief and the community governments are being called upon to care for the army thrown aside by industry. ery few are leveling any accusing finger at industry for having created this jobless army after an era of enormous profit-making and downright looting. The nation rallies to throw the burden on the civic and political organizations of America, while the industrial organizations by the simple expedient of folding their arms, figuratively, or closing their doors actually.

Industry Cold to Labor Plan.

The American Federation of Labor program of at once inaugurating the six-hour day and the five-day week, with maintained or raised wages, is not being received with howls of glee by industry. Pretty much it will be a case of "the poor caring for the poorer" this winter, unless there is a radical change of direction within the next few weeks. That seems unlikely, but it is not impossible. The shorter work-day and week movement may gain an impetus beyond all expectations.

P. O. Dept. Stops Wage Cut Scheme

Washington.—The postoffice department will make no recommendation to congress that wages or salaries of postal employes be cut to decrease the postal deficit, declared Acting Postmaster General Arch Coleman.

He said that barring wage and salary reductions the deficit could be met by either increasing first-class postage rates or increased taxation to enable congress to make appropriations to cover the deficit.

Outside of the department it is suggested that the deficit could be wiped out if congress would stop the practice of making subsidies to owners of aviation lines and shipping lines who cannot run their business profitably and whom the postmaster general helps out with contracts for carrying the mails at prices said to be far beyond the value of the services performed. It is urged that if congress desires to subsidize owners of ships and air lines, it should do so directly and not under the disguise of fat mail contracts.

GENERAL BOYD LOSES BATTLE AT NASHVILLE

Militia Head Swamped by Legion "Buddies."

COOPER IS NAMED STATE COMMANDER

Elizabethton Campaign Recalled by Defeat of State Adjutant-General.

Ambitions of Adjt.-Gen. T. Caswell Boyd, of the Tennessee National Guard, were given a rude jolt by delegates to the convention of the Department of Tennessee, American Legion, at Nashville Monday, when the general was swamped under an avalanche of votes in a contest with Prentice Cooper, of Shelbyville, for state commander.

Gen. Boyd and his friends, according to local legionnaires, had made a state-wide campaign covering a period of several months in an effort to get votes for the militia chief for the coveted post. Indorsements of posts throughout the state had been solicited, including the Chattanooga units, but the local posts declined to indorse the "military" record of the general by according him the honor. The nomination of Mr. Cooper was seconded by Peabody Howard, former commander of Davis King Summers post, who served as state vice-commander for East Tennessee when the new chief held the same position for Middle Tennessee. Mr. Howard has for many months been an ardent supporter for the cause of Mr. Cooper, who, incidentally, defeated Boyd for vice-commander for Middle Tennessee at the Jackson convention in 1929, local legionnaires recalled.

According to members of the Chattanooga delegation only about eighty of the 500 posts had been called on to vote when it became evident that a landslide for Cooper was in the cards, and the general then stopped the roll-call, admitting defeat and stating he did not wish to delay the proceedings by continuing the vote. It was said a majority of some 5 to 1 was indicated for Commander Cooper.

Boyd, it will be recalled, had charge of the state militia units sent by Gov. Horton to Elizabethton to assist in breaking the strike of some 5,000 textile workers against the oppression of German millowners in that mountain town. Reports of his activities in that affair were not such as to meet with the approval of working people, and it is believed that this possibly had some effect on the result of the ballot at Nashville Monday.

Local trades unionists recalled this week that Boyd was presented by the state, represented by Gov. Horton, with a brand-new sedan, presumably for "valor under fire," or something, during the troublous times at Elizabethton.

Job-Creating Body Set Up by Gifford

Washington.—A committee of sixteen business leaders, labor officials and economists, headed by Harry A. Wheeler, a Chicago banker, was appointed by Walter S. Gifford, director of the president's organization on unemployment relief, to develop ways for creating jobs for the five million or more out-of-works. The official name of the group is the Committee on Unemployment Plans and Suggestions.

Labor is represented by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and A. Johnston, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Federal Operation Of Muscle Shoals

Washington.—The commission appointed by President Hoover to lease the big Muscle Shoals hydroelectric power plant declares that seven bids already received are unsatisfactory because they do not properly safeguard the government and the consumers of Muscle Shoals output.

Chairman Samuel F. Hobbs issued a warning that unless the private power interests come across with offers more in accordance with equity the government would be compelled to operate the plant despite President Hoover's pronounced opposition to government operation.

UNION CARPENTERS CUT PAY.

Carpenters' union of Baltimore, Md., has announced a voluntary 10 per cent reduction in pay from $1.10 to $1 an hour. Other local Baltimore unions in the building trades are reported considering similar wage cuts.

Some Industries Gain, as Others Still Lose Jobs

Despite Slight Improvement, Situation Is Far From Improving, A. F. of L. August Report Says.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Seasonal gains have checked trade union unemployment and there was a slight gain in employment in August over the preceding month, the monthly report of the American Federation of Labor reveals. While temporary relief is coming to some industries, in others the situation is growing worse and the outlook is far from encouraging, the report indicates.

The federation estimates that 5,100,000 were out of work in the first part of August. Industrial employment gained and about 120,000 found work, but the net gain for the nation was only about 80,000 jobs, as about 40,000 men were laid off on farms at the end of the July harvesting season.

The per cent of union members unemployed and on part time in August is given as follows:

	Unemployed	Part Time
All trades	26	19
Building trades	51	16
Metal trades	30	26
Printing trades	14	23
All other trades	16	18

Twenty-six per cent unemployed for all trades was also reported for July. The August figures show an increase of one per cent for the building trades and one per cent for the printing trades. Unemployment decreased two per cent in the metal trades and one per cent in all other trades.

Fall Improvement Usual.

Commenting on the figures, it was said at A. F. of L. headquarters:

"Summer unemployment is usually checked in August. In our four years' record of unemployment in trade unions, only once has the fall season failed to bring at least a slight improvement in August; this one exception was last year when business and industry were rapidly plunging into deeper depression.

"August this year is no exception to the rule. Employment in industry has improved very slightly. Our weighted figure shows 18.4 per cent of the membership out of work in the first part of August, compared with 18.8 per cent unemployed in July (revised figure). Industrial unemployment has risen steadily from May to July; in August the rise has been checked. The figures are as follows: (weighted): May, 17.1 per cent unemployed; June, 18.2; July, 18.8; August, 18.4. September usually brings further temporary improvement with the fall busy season.

Two Industries Gain.

"The striking gain of the month was in the clothing and textile industries, where the fall season has begun. Nearly 30 per cent of those unemployed in July went back to work in August. Smaller gains in the manufacturing and shipping industries also provided jobs for many.

"In some trades, on the other hand, unemployment is still on the increase. In printing, unemployment has been increasing since February, except for one month, and has now reached the unprecedented figure of 14 per cent out of work. This is over three times the number out in August, 1929. In building, unemployment has increased since June, and is now almost at the February level, with 51 per cent out of work. This also is unprecedented for summer months. In theaters the midsummer dull season has thrown many out temporarily.

Outlook Not Bright.

"As a whole, the report shows that although the fall season is bringing temporary relief in some industries, in others the situation is far from improving. There has been no increase in part time work and 19 per cent of the membership are still on part time. The report for cities shows unemployment increasing in 13, and improving in only nine; two show no change."

Abnormal Decrease In Trade Reported

New York City, Sept. 2.—Business activity in July "declined more than seasonally" and "the few favorable signs are confined to manufacturing industries closest to consumer demand," the conference of statisticians in industry operating under the direction of the national industrial conference board reports.

The report said that "altogether business conditions this summer are being characterized by larger declines than are normally expected to be brought on by seasonal contractions. But, if other depressions can be taken as guides, seasonal forces making for contraction are usually intensified during such a period as business is now going through and have again operated to bring conditions back to the low reached at the opening of the year."

Although the distribution of materials and commodities by freight revealed the usual favorable seasonal tendencies, according to the report, sales at retail were slightly disappointing in July compared with what they were a year ago. Commercial failures declined in number less than was to be expected during the midsummer, but the liabilities of failng firms moved up rapidly in contrast with favorable tendencies exhibited during the previous month.

SPEAKERS TELL COAL MINERS OF UNION'S WORK

Organization Approved at Labor Day Outing.

THRONGS OBSERVE DAY AT WILDER

Public and Union Officials Commend United Action by Workers.

What was declared to be the largest crowd ever assembled in the Wilder community gathered together Labor Day to participate in a joint celebration staged under the auspices of United Mine Workers' local unions in Overton and Fentress counties, and the great crowds, which spent the entire day, gave sympathetic ear to addresses of outstanding men of the community, as well as representatives of the international union. The affair was declared to have been the most successful and thoroughly enjoyable of its kind ever attempted in Tennessee mining camps.

The speaking, which followed a basket dinner, was presided over by Ben Williams, representative of the international union, who introduced, in succession, Representative W. Y. Boswell, Circuit Judge Brown, John T. Jones, representative of the United Mine Workers; William Turnblazer, president of District 19, and Paul J. Aymon, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor.

Representative Boswell recalled his service in the state general assembly, pointing with pride to his sponsorship of measures affecting the workers. He said he had favored a state-wide free textbook law, and declared free schools and free education could not be fully realized until free books are provided for every boy and girl in the state. He referred to other major proposals in the interest of the masses which he had favored, and left a splendid impression on his audience.

Judge Brown, who is said to number his friends by his acquaintances in his district, expressed himself in no uncertain terms on the right of every worker to align himself with a trade union, and denounced any court which failed to give a fair and impartial trial to any accused, whatever might be their station in life.

John T. Jones, representing the international union, followed Judge Brown, and recounted various experiences with courts, both the "good" and the "bad." He gave a very instructive insight into the principles and ideals of the United Mine Workers, and reviewed the situation in Harlan county, Kentucky, giving a dramatic story of how justice and right have been outraged in that stricken district.

President Turnblazer and Paul J. Aymon also discussed local conditions, congratulating the mine workers of Overton and Fentress counties and predicting a long reign of peace and prosperity under the policy of co-operation between employer and employe as it now exists in this district.

Messrs. Williams and Aymon, who returned to Chattanooga Tuesday, were delighted with the success of the Labor Day celebration, and declared it had been productive of much lasting good as well as an enjoyable occasion for all who attended.

$2,000,000 Jobless Aid Voted by N. Y. City

New York.—The board of estimate appropriated $2,000,000 for direct relief of unemployment, making its total expenditure thus far $8,170,000, which has kept 15,670 men in emergency jobs on various city projects.

Last April the city secured permission from the state legislature to raise $10,000,000 for unemployment relief through a bond issue. The city charter restricts such emergency appropriations ordinarily to not more than $2,000,000 a year. There are about $800,000 available in the $2,000,000 fund. The authorities estimate that the present appropriation will keep all the men at work three days a week until the end of October.

UNION WORKERS LEND WAGES TO EMPLOYER

Denver, Colo.—The union employes of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company offered to lend the company half their wages for the current three months. Miss Josephine Roche, president of the company, accepted the loan.

The company is a union concern operating under an agreement with the United Mine Workers of America. Non-union coal companies in Colorado recently announced wage cuts of 25 per cent. The Rocky Mountain Fuel company has made no wage reductions. The loan from its employes will be used to tide the competition with the low-wage output of non-union competitors.

THE LABOR WORLD
210 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7563
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY
Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council
R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager
Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1931

The Program

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

When congress convenes March 4 for its next session the American Federation of Labor has planned to stage its biggest drive for legislation in recent years.

Nation-wide unemployment that now includes something like 8,000,000 men and women, wage cuts for a majority of all workers and the assurance of leaders in congress that both house and senate are becoming more and more willing to consider labor's voice are the three factors that have warned the federation that now if ever the hour for the legislative approach to the solution of labor's problems has come.

The federation hopes to bring about a new era in the status of the workingman and in the relations of capital and labor. To this end it is asking organized labor to back it up to the limit in spirit, word and deed in putting across its legislative program.

That none may be uninformed as to what our federation is going to propose to the next congress here is its program for national legislation:

1. Relief of unemployment distress.
2. Anti-injunction legislation.
3. Establishment of the six-hour day and five-day week for federal employes.
4. Abolition of child labor through a constitutional amendment.
5. Adoption of a federal public building program.
6. Old-age pension legislation.

Memorize these six points—or better still, paste them on the wall where you can see them every day.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—Who is Hugh L. Kerwin?
A.—Director of the conciliation service of the United States department of labor.

* * *

Q.—Has any state a labor code governing its public policy toward collective bargaining?

A.—Wisconsin has such a code, which in stating the public policy of the state as to collective bargaining, says: "Negotiation of terms and conditions of labor should result from voluntary agreement between employer and employes. Governmental authority has permitted and encouraged employers to organize in the corporate and other forms of capital control. In dealing with such employers, the individual unorganized worker is helpless to exercise actual liberty of contract and to protect his freedom of labor, and thereby to obtain acceptable terms and conditions of employment. Therefore it is necessary that the individual workman have full freedom of association, self-organization, and designation of representatives of his own choosing, to negotiate the terms and conditions of his employment."

LABOR MAN HEADS TICKET.

Backed by organized labor, John E. Breidenbach, president of the Central Labor union, Dayton, O., was nominated for city commissioner, heading the ticket, in the recent primary election. Breidenbach, in a field of eight, including two socialists and other drawing protest votes, gained a clean plurality over the two democratic nominees seeking election.

PAINS QUIT COMING

"When I was a girl, I suffered periodically with terrible pains in my back and sides. Often I would bend almost double with the intense pain. This would last for hours and I could get no relief.

"I tried almost everything that was recommended to me, but found nothing that would help until I began taking Cardui. My mother thought it would be good for me, so she got a bottle of Cardui and started me taking it. I soon improved. The bad spells quit coming. I was soon in normal health."
—Mrs. Jewel Harris, Winnsboro, Texas.

Sold At All Drug Stores. E-77

CARDUI
Helps Women to Health

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

HERE'S THE ISSUE!

(International Labor News Service)

Washington, D. C.—"Industry is responsible for unemployment. Industry can give jobs. Politicians cannot do it. Workmen cannot provide jobs and, except where they are organized, they have no control over jobs. Industry must face its reponsibility."

So said President William Green, to International Labor News Service.

"We shall hold industry to the issue. There is too much effort to conceal and confuse. We insist that industry is responsible, that industry can end unemployment and that it shall not escape its responsibility."

Government-Supported Strikes

The workers' power to create wealth and perform service is their only title to a living. The employers purchase the use of the workers' labor power and realize it in the form of commodities and services which are sold for a profit.

In the final analysis the workers' ability to obtain decent remuneration rests in the right to refuse to sell their wealth-creating ability unless the employers agree to pay the wages fixed by the workers for its use. The word "strike" is used to describe the act of workers when they withdraw the use of their labor power from the employers.

Strikes and the right to strike have always been fought by employers and condemned by employer interests. To prevent the workers from striking effectively, employers mobilize all branches of the government. Policemen are ordered to club strikers. Soldiers are ordered to shoot strikers. Judges issue injunctions depriving strikers of their elemental rights as citizens. In short, it would be difficult to unearth a strike of the workers which had the support of either policemen, courts, or soldiers.

But there are strikes which do receive government support. Recently the oil well operators in Oklahoma and Texas were confronted with an overproduction of oil. The big oil purchasing companies took advantage of the situation and reduced prices to such a point that oil well operators were being ruined. Some of the operators saw the only way to secure a reasonable price was to restrict the output. Many of the operators agreed to do this. Other operators refused. The oil companies sided with the refusing operators and kept knocking prices down more and more. Some operators struck by refusing to pump oil. But enough other operators refused to strike so that prices went on tumbling.

Then something happened. The governors of both Oklahoma and Texas sent the state troops to the oil fields, forcibly locked the wells of the unpatriotic operators and established military picket lines to keep the wells closed. This was done to enable the operators to reduce the output so that the buyers would pay a reasonable price for oil.

There was very little if any clamor against the revolutionary action of the two governors. Indeed, the action was quite generally approved as being in the public interest. Sydney A. Hale, the conservative editor of the conservative "Coal Age," a mine operators' publication, in an editorial describing the closing of the oil wells as "a commendable strike," says:

"Strikes and lockouts are Hogarthian strokes in the industrial picture which generally draw little admiration from the critics of American business.

"Recently, however, the country was treated to the spectacle of a strike which merits whole-hearted approval.

"The scene was the southwest and the strikers were the producers of oil, who shut down their wells because ruinous competion had depressed prices to ruinous levels.

"There are many bituminous coal companies that might emulate such a strike with immediate profit to themselves and ultimate benefit to the entire industry.

"Continued long-time operation at prices which eat into the dwindling substance of the past and hypothecate all reasonable hopes of future profit is without economic or ethical justification."

Trade unionists in various parts of the United States are now on strike to prevent wage-cutting employers from reducing wages to a point where they would not represent a reasonable figure for the use of the labor power of the workers. The spectacle of a governor ordering the state troops to lock up the factories whose regular employes are on strike and picket the factories with soldiers would receive the wholesale condemnation of employers, their journalists, economists, judges and politicians from one end of the country to the other. But such an action would differ in no degree from the action of the governors of Oklahoma and Texas in ordering state troops to close and picket oil wells in the endeavor to assist the oil producers in their strike to prevent cuts in the price of oil.

It is evident that government support for strikes depends on whether they are strikes of employes to maintain decent wages or strikes of employers to maintain decent prices.

Hold Industry Responsible

Dividend and wage figures now current continue to show that there is no need and no vaild excuse for the nightmare called depression.

Dividends, it is true, are off from the flush period. But dividends of $350,000,000 have just been declared by a group of corporations that last year declared dividends of $500,000,000. That is no great penalty on the owners of industry for their stupidity and blundering.

During the ten-year period previous to the big crash dividends had gone steadily up, factory product had gone steadily up and employment had gone steadily down.

Workers have been getting it in the neck for the last decade. Investors of money have been reaping great profits.

The aggregate of dividends is still handsome. The aggregate of human want is appalling.

Demagogues yap about the responsibility of governments.

Industry is responsible.

HOLD INDUSTRY RESPONSIBLE!

The Banks "Have a Way With Them"

United States Treasurer Andrew W. Mellon, millionaire aluminum and power magnate, "the best treasurer since"—and all that—has borrowed for Uncle Sam's treasury an amount something in excess of one billion one hundred million dollars.

Banks will "absorb" the loan.

Taxpayers didn't pay to Uncle Sam enough money to run on, so he has to borrow this billion plus.

Uncle Sam didn't know how, it seems, to get that much money.

BUT THE BANKS KNEW HOW TO LEVY TAXES THAT WOULD GET IT—and so they have it to loan to Uncle Sam at 3 per cent.

MUNICIPAL STORE TO AID IDLE.

Hartford, Conn., is trying a municipal store to aid the unemployed. About 400 families will receive foodstuffs from the municipal store or from one of the four distribution depots selected by the public welfare commission, through the putting into effect of a program by which families needing aid will receive it directly from the city government.

To carry out the plan the city is divided into five districts. Each person will present a card which specifies the date on which he is to call at the store.

NEW JERSEY RAILROAD ADOPTS FIVE-DAY WEEK

Elizabeth, N. J.—Around 1,800 of the regular force of 3,000 of the Elizabethport shop employes of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, who were laid off several months ago, will be put back to work on a five-day week basis after Labor Day, R. W. Brown, general manager of the railroad, announced. This leaves 1,200 shop employes permanently out of work.

Brown explains that in making up the permanent force to be employed on the five-day week he has selected the older and more experienced men.

The Social Ideals of Jesus of Nazareth

An Interpretation

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

Students of the life and teaching of Jesus have too long glossed over the significance of the years at Nazareth where He spent His earliest years living at home and where He developed those qualities of mind which have preempted for Him a place at the head of the list of the world's great teachers that is secure for all time to come. The home life at Nazareth was typical of the best that home life could be in those days. Nurtured in all the godly ways of a pure life by a pious-minded mother and taught to use His hands by Joseph in making a contribution to the sustenance as well as comforts of the world, Jesus grew, as one New Testament writer says, in both "wisdom and stature." That means He grew mentally as well as physically, and this unobstructed mental growth was seen in those young days as clearly as was the wonderful fruition of His mental capacities seen in later life when He traveled back and forth over the plains and hills of Galilee.

WM. L. MOSS

It has been complained that the gospels give us nothing in a direct way worth commenting on concerning the early life of Jesus. This is true, but indirectly the writers of the gospels supply us with a great deal about the home at Nazareth. We know it was supported by a workingman's wages—and knowing this we need only to supply the details. Then we know that Mary at the time of her purification presented the required "pair of turtledoves or two young pigeons" permitted the poor instead of the lamb and one turtledove or young pigeon demanded by the Law of those who could afford the lamb. Thus we learn volumes concerning Mary's and Joseph's attitude toward religion. In those days it was no disgrace to wear patched clothes and from Jesus' own mouth (Mk. 2:21) we learn He knew exactly how the patching was done. The lowly houses of the poor were without windows—in some rare cases probably one—and the Master speaks (Lk. 15:8) of the lamp that must be lighted before the good housewife can sweep. His personal experience alone could make such an indelible stamp of so insignificant thing as this on His mind—undoubtedly the home at Nazareth itself had no window! The rich man and the poorer but energetic workingman would not permit themselves to be caught with an empty cupboard (Lk. 11:5) and be forced thereby to borrow bread from a neighbor. Only one who had come in contact with the practice among poor folk of that day of bargaining over the price of sparrows (which served as a food and has been called "the cheapest flesh food used.") His knowledge of this use of sparrows for food we gain from Mt. 10:29. That the family circle was closely encompassed in small quarters, with each day's housework going on with the children playing in the midst of it, we learn (Mt. 6:30) by the incident of the heating of the oven, the woman grinding meal, and by Jesus' exactness in referring to the hiding of the leaven in three measures of meal (Lk. 17:35 and Mt. 13:33).

PUDDLERS' RATES UNCHANGED.

Dispatches from Youngstown, O., report that for September and October tonnage rates paid puddlers and finishing hands in midwestern steel mills will continue unchanged, the average selling price of bar iron during the preceding sixty days having remained at $1.70 a hundredweight. There has been no change in wages in this branch of the industry this year.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

THE year 1834 is marked by an incident we must not fail to include in our chronicle of the beginnings of unionism in the United States. Numerous "trades unions"—more or less loosely affiliated—had sprung up by this year in cities of the east, such as Troy, Newark, Pittsburg, etc., and were composed of groups of different crafts in each city. These local "trades unions" (or "trades and labor councils" as we call them today) sensed the need for further and wider activity along the line of either consolidating all locals of a single craft into a national organization, or, the combining of all the "trades unions" throughout the country into a composite national body, which of course is what the American Federation of Labor is today.

Thus we can see that labor's best methods of organization today have been retained only after decades of trial and elimination, and their merits proven over a course of years before they were retained as the established practice of organized workingmen.

But to continue with our original line of thought. In 1834 the "National Trades Union" was organized and for three years (or until the panic of 1837) held annual national conventions. Almost paralleling this organization's existence was the effort to federate the unions of single crafts, which was first tried out by the cordwainers in 1835. In that year the cordwainers founded a "National Trades Union" to bring together their own scattered locals throughout the country. In 1836 their national trades union met in New York city. Then in rapid succession the combmakers, coopers, weavers and printers organized separate national alliances and still other organized crafts planned to do likewise.

By the year 1837 we see the beginnings of most of the characteristics of modern labor unions, and the characteristics will be summed up in the introduction to next week's editorial on this subject.

Desperate Conditions Of Textile Workers

Deplorable conditions attributable to wage reductions among southern textile workers are described in the September number of the American Federationist. The revelations are based on a first-hand investigation of three unnamed mill villages in which it is claimed the mills are owned and operated by a firm of northern bankers.

The mill people work 10 hours a day and 55 hours a week.

Wages are described as having been very low at the beginning of the year, with a wage cut of 10 per cent added in February.

The article says that in one town there had been fifty-two deaths this year compared with thirty-seven during the same period last year before the wage slashes and the installation of "stretch-out" methods. Nine of the deaths were among children under five years of age.

"With the pinch of low income families, and especially children," the article declares, "do not get proper nourishment and consequently there is a great deal of sickness."

The survey claims that workers whose tasks were increased by the "stretch-out" system received no extra pay and many of them complained their work was too much for them and caused them to lay off for a day now and then to rest up.

The report tells of heads of families working for from $9.30 to $11 a week of 55 hours. A survey of pay envelopes of 75 men and women showed average wages of $10.70 for the men and $8.81 for the women per week. Some of these were on part time work.

The survey estimates the minimum budget for a family of five in the textile villages at $17.16 a week, basing the estimate chiefly on figures compiled by the U. S. department of agriculture.

Safeguard Your Future by securing A College Education at the UNIVERSITY OF CHATTANOOGA

WHEN it is not possible for young men and women to secure remunerative positions the wisest and most sensible thing for them to do is to go to college. This has two advantages: First, they are engaged in a worthwhile occupation; second, they are better preparing themselves for the business, commercial and professional opportunities that will be open to them in the near future. The cost is well within the reach of every ambitious young man and woman.

The University of Chattanooga is a College of Arts and Sciences, offering courses of study leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and Bachelor of Business Administration. The curriculum of the college includes the following general subjects: Art, Bible, Biology, Chemistry, Comparative Literature, Commerce, Dramatics, Economics, Education, English, Finance, French, German, Greek, History, Latin, Mathematics, Music, Philosophy, Psychology, Physical Education, Physics, Political Science, Public Speaking, Religious Education, Sociology, Spanish.

In addition to the courses leading to degrees in the University of Chattanooga, there are four special prevocational courses: The Pre-Engineering, the Pre-Law Course, the Pre-Medical and Pre-Theological. Students planning to study for degrees in Law, Medicine, Engineering or Theology can take the work for the first two years, as a general rule, in the University of Chattanooga.

The University of Chattanooga has the highest possible educational rating. It is an accredited member of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States, and is on the list of Colleges approved by the Association of American Universities. Its credits are accepted by all institutions of learning in this country and abroad. The University maintains a high standard of scholarship in all branches of its curriculum.

The University's endowment of over one million dollars is a guarantee of stability of organization and administration as well as of a high quality of faculty leadership and instruction.

Fall Term Opens Monday, September 21

Freshman Registration Thursday, September 17

UNIVERSITY of CHATTANOOGA

"PUT YOUR LIFE IN BISHOP'S HANDS"
Volunteer State Life Insurance Company
J. W. Bishop, Mgr. Home Office Agcy
ASSOCIATES
G. E. WALLACE — W. E. WEBER
G. A. PARK — C. W. BRADLEY
E. E. FLUKER — J. J. HARRISON
E. W. RAWLINGS — RAY SEAGLE
E. L. WALTERS — M. M. JUDD
E. L. BROOKING — J. H. JARVIS
R. B. WITT
MISS MAGGIE LYNN PEEPLES
N. W. RAY, WINCHESTER, TENN.

Ready Cash
For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.
Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

REPLEVIN NOTICE
No. 1834
Before Kobe Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee.
Tennessee Electric Power Co. vs. Chattanooga Transfer and Storage Company
(H. Grady Varnell)

In this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff, and is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, a replevin notice having been served on goods in storage at the warehouse of the Chattanooga Transfer and Storage Co., belonging to said defendant, and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, commanding the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., on Monday, Sept. 21, 1931, at 11 a.m., and make defense to said suit or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.

KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.

This 27th day of August, 1931.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45862
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Eva Thomas vs. Niven E. Thomas

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Niven E. Thomas is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This rd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Raskin, Frazier & Roberts, Attys. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45861
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Lucile Burkhart Taylor vs. Charles C. Taylor

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Charles C. Taylor is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 3rd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
R. A. Bachman, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45851
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Theresa Reading vs. L. C. Reading

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that L. C. Reading is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 2nd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Hamel Butler, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 24888
State of Tennessee, Chancery Court of Hamilton County

W. E. Long vs. Emma Long

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Emma Long is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying defendant to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 2nd day of September, 1931.
SAM ERWIN, C. & M.
By E. C. BRIDGERS, D. C. M.
Sam H. Seymour, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45772
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

J. Hamilton Estes vs. Mary Estes

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Mary Estes is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 21st day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
R. M. Fogo, Atty. 9-11

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45752
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Myrtle Morgan vs. Ralph Morgan.

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Ralph Morgan is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 17th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Wilkerson & Wilkerson, Attys. 9-11

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45757
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

George R. Berry vs. Lillian Jackson Berry

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Lillian Jackson Berry is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.

This 14th day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
McClure & McClure, Attys. 9-11

BILIOUS
"I have used Black-Draught . . . and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—W. O. Hendrix, Homerville, Ga.
For indigestion, constipation, biliousness, take
Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT
WOMEN who need a tonic should take CARDUI. Used over 50 years.

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street
We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right
OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

"Say it with Flowers"
Joy's
Joy Phone 6-7168
817 Market Street

TAXI
Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PREMIER CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

COAL
Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Honest Weight — Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

EDMONDSON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Shorthand, Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Banking, Penmanship, Civil Service and all commercial branches. Individual Instruction. DAY and NIGHT SCHOOL. C. W. Edmondson, LL.B. M. Accts., Prest.
Power Bldg.—Sixth and Market

B L & K R
Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

Proposals for destroying wheat, cotton and other property in an effort to bring better prices and restore prosperity are not arousing popular enthusiasm. Somehow the public doesn't take kindly to destroying food and clothing material while thousands are wretchedly clad and poorly fed. Men sense that destruction of property is not only wrong and futile, but dangerous. There is the feeling that in the words of Owen D Young: "If America burns her surplus wheat and cotton when men are hungry and underclothed elsewhere in the world, that fire will start a conflagration which we cannot stop."

* * *

"The reductions do not apply to unionized employes with wage agreements," says a newspaper dispatch telling of cutting of wages by the St. Louis-San Francisco railway.

"The new policy does not affect workers whose wages are covered by agreements with organizations of which they are members," says another dispatch, announcing wage cuts by the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway lines.

The foregoing quotations are typical of many that have been appearing recently. They are telling arguments for trade unionism and say in so many words that the worker who doesn't belong to a union has little chance of maintaining his pay and standards of living in times such as these.

* * *

More than 100,000 boys and girls of 14 and 15 years of age received employment certificates and sought jobs last year that were needed by unemployed men and women, the United States children's bureau reports. This is a serious situation. It is hard enough to find work in times of depression without the competition of children. The report lends emphasis to the recent declaration of the American Federation of Labor executive council that "child labor is indefensible during prosperous periods and it approximates a moral crime during periods of industrial depression. . . . It seems most contradictory that children should be employed when millions of working men and women are forced into idleness because of unemployment."

The situation demands that every enemy of child labor line up and work as never before for legislation to take children out of industry.

* * *

The following uncredited tribute to the "unrewarded workers" is appropriate at this Labor Day season:

"As we glance through the record of past centuries we find in every land monuments to the glory of conquerors of earth, palaces, temples and tomb; but where are monuments to the workers who made these conquerors possible? Silent, unwavering they marched down the path of the ages carrying temple, palaces and tomb upon their backs. With sweat and blood they built what others planned. Their endless toil raised the vast walls of the Pharaohs, the mighty tower of Ninevah, and the accumulated millions of dollars. From the earliest dawn of civilization the unrewarded worker has grown man's food, fought his wars, built his temples, etc. We have raised a monument to the unknown soldier, why not one to that even mightier figure, the Unrewarded Worker, and upon the base of this monument should be carved the following: 'To the Unrewarded Worker of the ages whose ceaseless toil has created all the wealth, the power, the prosperity of the world.'"

* * *

Who said the days of feudalism were gone? Here's Henry Ford announcing that married men employed in his plant at Iron Mountain, Mich., must have vegetable gardens or lose their jobs.

"Next year every man with a family who is employed at the plant will be required to have a garden of sufficient size to supply his family with at least part of its winter vegetables," said Czar Ford. "Those who do not comply with the rule will be discharged."

If Ford's action is not pure despotism, worthy of a feudal lord, what is it? It is not merely suggested that his employes have gardens, but they are ordered to have them. Refusal means loss of a man's job and perhaps hunger and privation for himself and family. "I am boss and you must do as I say, or starve," says Ford, who acts as if he had never heard of democracy or the right of a man to do as he sees fit, provided he does not encroach on the rights of others.

* * *

Labor has sometimes expressed doubts as to the benefits of new machinery, but not so Wall Street, which has looked on new machinery as profitable and therefore altogether good. Now even Wall Street is beginning to have doubts about all new machinery, if a recent editorial in the Magazine of Wall Street reflects its view. The Magazine of Wall Street thinks that new machines are not always what they are cracked up to be, saying, in discussing "Will o' the Wisp Mechanization":

"'Keeping up with the Jones' is as much of a folly in industrial as in social life. Perhaps it has a lot to do with unemployment. It would be edifying to know just how much a lot of our mechanization has contributed to reduction of production costs. Perhaps if there had been more figuring on that item there would have been less of a tendency for plants to put in new machines because their competitors were doing so. We suspect that there are many wonderful machines in America that have added as much as overhead costs as they have saved in labor—overhead costs that go on even when the plant is shut down. Let us assume such a case. The machine has reduced employployment. It has also reduced dividends because of the money that went into its purchase and because of the added amount that must be carried to surplus to take care of interest charges. The general result is a reduction of purchasing power of both workmen and shareholders. The plant may be producing as much or even more than before the installation of the new plant, but it is contributing less to the pool of mobile funds from which in the end its products must be purchased. Instead of progress this machine represents regress. For all we know American industry may be littered up with mechanical 'improvements' that are really business and social evils."

* * *

During a recent municipal ownership campaign some of the defenders of an exploiting gas company declared that a certain advocate of municipal ownership was not even a taxpayer. Asked when the man had died, the stupid answer was, "Why, he isn't dead, but he isn't a taxpayer."

The truth is everybody who is alive pays taxes—and they pay rent and interest whether they are aware of it or not.

Every time a person buys food, pays rent, buys gasoline, takes out an insurance policy or goes to a theater, he automatically pays some of his money to the government. The old saying that death and taxes are inevitable is truer today than it ever was. And, as a result, tax reduction, far from being a matter that interests only the wealthy few, is a matter of tremendous personal importance to each of us.

It would not be far from the truth to say that the consumer pays all the taxes, for it is in the power of the big fellows to pass the impost on down and lay the burden on the back of the people.

No goods nor service are "just as good" except they are guaranteed by a UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD.

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

Dear Cy:
I am enclosing my latest poem. Let me know at once whether you can use it, as I have other irons in the fire. —Forbes.

—

Dear George:
Remove irons; insert poem.
—Cy.

* * *

Foolish Questions.

How near is soon?
How close is nearly?
What is most likely?
How many is a few?
When is by and by?
How low is low down?
How far is over yonder?
How good is pretty good?
How high is up?
When I say I don't want any how many don't I want?

* * *

Casper—Have you ever had a lesson by correspondence?
Lennox—Yes, I never write to women now.

* * *

Gladys—Dick's clever. I wish dad would give him a start in life.
Brother—The next time your father finds him staying later than midnight, he'll need a head start.

* * *

Harry—Whenever I see you I think of Jones.
Sam—But I'm not a bit like Jones.
Harry—Yes, you are. You both owe me $10.

* * *

Windy Wolfe says, "One of the biggest kicks I ever got was when the doctor's assistant told me to look pleasant as he proceeded to take an X-Ray o' my liver."

* * *

They tell of a Scot's wife whose doctor told her that she needed salt air. She woke up next morning and her husband was fanning her with a herring.

* * *

When you observe the methods of parents and see how well the kids turn out, how can you keep from believing in Providence? . . . Fifteen per cent of school children are below normal mentally, we are told. That's too high. We don't need that many "economic experts." . . And then there was the timid freshman who preferred blondes because he was afraid of the dark. . . The more some young couples try to get ahead, the farther they get behind in their payments. . . Nothing will ruin an interesting intellectual argument quicker than the arrival of a pretty girl. . . When your own plans go wrong, it's touch luck. When another man's plans go wrong, he oughta knowed better.

* * *

Lord, suffer me to catch a fish
So large that even I
In talking of it afterward
Shall have no need to lie.
—Zeke Witt.

* * *

Mother—Now, Johnnie, I know thousands of little boys and girls who would be glad to eat that spinach.
Johnnie—Name three of them!

* * *

Catherine—I don't believe that gossip about Doris. Nor that little I've heard.
Margaret—Oh, Gee, I hoped you might have heard more about it.

* * *

Abie—Papa, vat is science?
Papa—My, how could you be so stupid? Science is dose tings vat say "no smoking."

* * *

The Answer.

What are the wild waves saying
As they lap the shores of our land?
Just this: "Your bathing suit, dearie,
Is shrinking to beat the band."
—H. F. B.

Deserve better working conditions by aiding other workers to secure them. Demand the UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD.

Do you know Your Union Label

Union Label of Stove Mounters

Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen

Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance

Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America

Coopers' Union Label

United Leather Workers Union Label

Emblem of American Federation of Musicians

Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union

Union Label of Tobacco Workers

Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union

Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union

United Hatters of North America Label

Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union Label

Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners

Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers

Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America

Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings

Stove and Welsh Mountain Union Label

Jewelry Workers' Union Label

Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union Label

Bookbinders' Union Label

Store Card of Retail Clerks

Union Labels of Electrical Workers 161

Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America

Brick and Clay Workers' Label 661

Plate Printers and Die Stampers' Union Label

International Photo-Engravers' Union Label

Used on Rolls and Bundles

Local Pressmen's Union Label

Paper Makers' Union Labels 161

Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp

Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators 161

Allied Printing Trades Label

Local Typographical Union Label

Cigarmakers' Union Label

Glove Workers' Union Label

Bartenders' Button

Waiters' Button

Card of Union Bartenders

Label of Stogie Makers

A. F. of L. Label

Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America

Card of Union Waiters 161

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed by Walter Cooley and wife, N. A. Cooley, dated Nov. 22, 1929, of record in Book "R," Volume 24, Page 64, et seq., of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the note, representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of all equities of redemption, homestead, dower and all other rights of exemptions of every kind at the west door of the courthouse of Hamilton county, Tennessee, on

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1931,

between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., the following real estate in Hamilton county, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot No. 8, block 14, Highland Park addition No. 1, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 1, Page 28 of the Register's Office of Hamilton county, Tennessee. Said lot fronts 50 feet on the south side of Dumesnil avenue and extends back southwardly, of uniform width 135 feet to an alley.

Sale will be made subject to note for $4,000.00 due Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, dated Feb. 9, 1926, recorded L-20-395, and to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as trustee only.

This 11th day of September, 1931.

AMERICAN TRUST AND BANKING COMPANY, Trustee.

By E. Y. Chapin, Jr., Trust Officer.

10-2

What Next!

Representatives of railroads and the Pullman company recently witnessed a demonstration of apparatus for cooling passenger trains by the use of the same steam which heats them, held at the plant of the Carrier Engineer corporation, Newark, N. J. A temperature of 106 degrees was maintained outside the train while within it the temperature was kept at 75 degrees.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

No. 45880

State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Grace Trantham vs. Harrison Trantham

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Harrison Trantham is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication by made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the court-house in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.

This 8th day of September, 1931.

TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.

Thach & Thach, Attys. 10-2

Dr. L. J. Usher

Dentist

Plates as low as $6.00

Crown and Bridge Work, per tooth, as low as $3.50

Fillings as low as $1.00 Extractions $1.00

All other work as low in proportion

Gas administered for extraction if desired

OFFICE: Corner Market & Seventh St. Over Liggett's Drug Store

ENTRANCE 7½ E. Seventh St. Hours 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Delinquent City Taxes

On October 1st unpaid taxes pass into hands of delinquent collector.

Avoid this extra cost by paying now.

F. K. ROSAMOND,
Tax Collector.

"I'm glad we have a Telephone again"

A number of people who gave up their telephones during the stress of the past twelve months have told us that this proved to be false economy and they have had their service restored.

Those who have not had their service reinstalled, and those who may be hesitating about having a telephone of their own, are reminded that telephone service is no longer regarded as an expense, but is considered a necessary home convenience and economy.

No other money you spend can bring you more actual value. Thousands of telephone subscribers know the truth of this. They do not consider their telephone statement as a "bill," but rather as a reminder of pleasanter living and broadened opportunities.

Those who have previously enjoyed telephone service appreciate it more than ever; new subscribers wonder how they ever did without it.

Telephone service costs so little and the advantages are so many that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE and Telegraph Company

(Incorporated)

103,000 Children Hired in Place of Adults by Low-Wage Employers

Washington, Sept. 10.—During 1930 employers throughout the United States deliberately resorted to wholesale employment of children between 14 and 15 years old at lower wages than adult workers would be paid and are still keeping up the work, according to a statement by the U. S. children's bureau.

During the very period in which these employers were tossing adult workers into the army of the jobless by millions, they took 103,000 children between 14 and 15 years from desks and playgrounds and put them to work, often in the places of the fathers and older brothers who had been fired.

In many instances officials who granted the employment certificates stated the the reason given for the children going to work was to support the family because the adult members had been discharged.

In the meantime the president's organization on unemployment relief and similar organizations are urging parents to keep their children in school until the long-hoped for but evidently very remote end of the business depression and resumption of prosperity absorbs the 5,000,000 unemployed adults.

If the five-day week were adopted so that the unemployed fathers of the children who have left school to go to work could earn wages enough to keep their children in school, it would assist materially in reducing the number of working children.

KEEP CHILDREN IN SCHOOL, A. F. OF L. HEAD URGES

Washington, Sept. 10.—The president's organization on unemployment relief launched a nation-wide campaign to keep young people in school instead of taking jobs in competition with adults.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, made the opening radio address.

"There are over 5,000,000 persons walking the streets looking for jobs," Green said. "There are approximately 5,000,000 more working part time. What stronger or more convincing argument can be offered why any boy or girl under 16 years of age having been given gainful employment should now be sent to school and the work they have been doing be performed by adults?

"Why have we committed this double folly of taking from an adult the opportunity to earn a living and giving it to a child and thereby depriving it of a child's heritage? Partly because we know not what we do and partly because we have not had the wisdom to establish and maintain the social and economic standards necessary to protect the children of the nation.

"We have permitted boys and girls to leave school in order to help the family when the bread-winner lost his opportunity to work. Such a policy leads to immeasurable social waste and enriches no one. If we would create real wealth we must first protect our children. We must give children a chance to prepare for the problems and responsibilities of life."

Green presented an impressive list of states whose child labor laws still permit young persons of tender years to take jobs and declared that the present unemployment problem "sharply discloses our failure to establish a far-sighted policy in restricting the age at which children are permitted to work in gainful occupations."

"Obviously, in addition to our back-to-the-schools movement we need to stop the movement of children into industry at its source and keep children in school," he said.

"Now that public opinion is freeing children from a mistaken sacrifice, activities should be mobilized to safeguard the children and to deal with the unemployment problem intelligently. There is an opportunity for all organizations interested in child welfare to join together in a constructive back-to-the-schools effort."

President Green insisted that many of the state child labor laws fixed the statutory age for the employment of children too high and in addition are partially nullified by exemptions and faulty administration.

"The experts for child welfare have been urging the need of child labor laws in states prohibiting gainful employment to children under 16 years of age and requiring work certificates for all under 18 years," he said. "Child labor laws supplemented by compulsory school attendance laws properly enforced would assure children opportunities for physical, mental and spiritual development.

"It is because labor believes that such fundamental legislation is indispensable to child welfare that we have urged and supported the ratification of the national child labor amendment. Now is the time to put the experience gained during this depression to constructive use. Surely we have learned a most valuable and impressive lesson as to why permanent protection should be accorded the children of the nation.

"As president of the American Federation of Labor I wish to urge all unions to join with other local groups to form a living barrier that will turn children from work back to the school and the playground.

"I urge each central labor union to appoint a committee to co-operate in the local effort to find out the facts and to make such adjustments in the home situations as may be necessary to assure the family the necessities of life. Employment for the bread-winner is the most constructive measure.

"This movement in the interest of child education and school attendance should appeal to all humane sentiments and should receive the support of all classes of people. We ought to understand as a result of the experience of this depression covering a long period of time that the employment of children in the mills, mines and factories of the nation serves to displace the father, the bread-winner and the idle worker.

"There is no valid, sound and convincing reason why children should be employed when millions of fathers and bread-winners are idle.

"Let us give the children a chance. Send them to school, so that two distinct and vital purposes may be served; first, relief of the unemployment situation, and second, the education and protection of the children.

"The appeal of this back-to-school movement is to parents, educational and municipal authorities, and in a wider and more comprehensive sense, to all classes of people. Let the efforts which are being put forth to send all children of school age to school this year, and to keep those who have reached the legal age when they would be permitted to accept employment in continuous attendance at school, be reflected in an increase of many thousands of children in the school rooms and upon the playgrounds of the nation."

It's so awfully simple to demand UNION GOODS and SERVICE that it is simply awful more trade unionists do not do this important thing.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

WHY LAUGH?

Just Had a Peep Into

STAGMAIER & CO.'S PREMIUM CATALOGUE

There are so many nice PREMIUMS to be had with Coupons taken from

Up-To-Date Baking Powder

Catalogue will be mailed you free upon request.

Stagmaier & Co.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

Lutherans Ask Parents' Aid in Helping Jobless

National Council Urges Children Be Kept in School to Give Whatever Employment There Is to Heads of Families.

New York, Sept. 10.—The National Lutheran council here has issued an urgent call to Lutheran parents throughout the nation to keep their children in school rather than have them seek jobs in competition with heads of families.

The call was signed by the presidents of the six national ecclesiastical groups into which the Lutheran Church in America is divided, and will be read from Lutheran pulpits by the 7,500 pastors in this country on Sunday, Sept. 13.

The message, entitled "In Time of Unemployment; a Call to the Church," says:

"Believing that the church has a serious responsibility in the present emergency of unemployment, and a support of the efforts of the president's organization on unemployment relief, through the National Lutheran council, we urgently call upon congregations, pastors, colleges, schools, and inner mission agencies in our respective churches to urge the advisability of our young people continuing in school rather than seeking employment in competition with heads of families."

In an accompanying statement, the Rev. Dr. Ralph H. Long, executive director of the National Lutheran council, said in part:

"The reasons for endeavoring to keep our Lutheran young folks in school briefly stated are: First, self-improvement in preparation for future positions and for the enrichment of American life; second, the prevention of idleness among young people which generally results in mischief and crime; third, to give whatever employment there is to be had to those who are heads of families and supporters of dependents."

BUGHOUSE FABLES

By H. F. B.

Editor Labor World.

You know, I'm nothing if not scientific, and the idea that is occupying my remarkable brain this week pertains to heredity and environment. I am writing this to find out which of these influences you think exercises the greatest control over the lives and actual beings of the next generation? It seems to me that, as near as I can see, heredity has the stronger hold. You remember the old saying that "Bad blood will tell?" Do you really believe that a child, born of common stock, no-account parentage, if taken at birth—or we'll say, after the first year, during which it has been nourished by the mother at her breast, then placed into an atmosphere of refinement and culture, and reared to man or womanhood, with every care in the world and even actual love and consideration of its foster parents—is going to remain the same, cultured, refined and charming personage they succeeded in raising (if they did succeed), or is that person going to revert to original type in a reasonable length of time?

And do you believe that the child of a long line of cultured and refined parentage who might become transposed into the environment of the common stock, no-account class and reared amid sinners and wrongdoers, is going to ever be satisfied with such a life and not try to climb out to a higher, better plane of existence? I'm betting on heredity myself, but the deep contemplation of these two economic and biological problems has brought up before my mind's eye the horrible vision of the revolt of both heredity and environment combined in the children of one class of our present generation. Man! it's wonderful! Just think of what will probably be the result when the next generation comes up of the present-day, fourth-class jazz-hound morons, who never use their legs to walk anywhere, but sky-loot around to dances and late card parties, and so forth! They will, to begin with, have voices that are a combination of a bass drum and a clarinet in a derby hat, and their clothes will be of negligible quantity; but their chief plane will be that their natural mode of self-locomotion will be in a series of hops and slides with a few intermediate wriggles and twists! And have no natural sense of music whatever! Their parents of today have already begun to confuse racket and rhythm with music, and the end is not yet! It is very sad!

P. S. I'd also like to ask you, sir, who in Sam Hill is to blame for the outrageous mess that was made of my second paragraph of last week's effusion? It looks as if either the printer was drunk when he set it up, or the proofreader was crazy! There's no sense in it at all as it was printed and I've been asked if I was drunk when I wrote it! There are three errors in it. That totally destroys the effectiveness of it, and any darned printer ought to be able to read even my writing better than that! I enclose clipping properly marked for you to see the errors, and don't want it to occur again!

Yours, with bristles up,
H. F. B.

(Editor's Note—Printers don't drink, and all proofreaders are crazy.)

BEST EARNING AGE.

Earning power of the typical mechanical engineer is greatest at 55, according to a survey made by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The "maximum professional income" of one-half of the mechanical engineers of the country who were 55 years old last year was $7,600. A quarter of the group earned $12,500 and one-tenth more than $25,000 during the year. Salaries are lowest in the far west and highest in New York.

"Engineering earnings do not decline seriously with age," says the report.

OUR WEEKLY MARKET BASKET

WATCH this section every week for Grocery Bargains. Make your Dollar do Double Duty. Patronize those who patronize YOUR PAPER—and save the difference.

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED

EASY WAY

SELF SERVICE GROCERY

417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

WRITING PADS	50 Leaf, 2 for 9c; 100 Leaf, 2 for	15c
SUGAR	XXXX Powdered, or the Browns, 10c size 1-lb. carton, each	7c
PURE LARD	Very Best Grade (4 lb. limit)—4 lbs.	35c
COMPOUND	Very Best Grade (4 lb. limit)—4 lbs.	30c
OLIVES	3 and 3½ oz. Stuffed or Plain, 2 Bottles for	15c
PINK SALMON	No. 1 Tall, 15c Size, 3 cans	25c

WE EMPLOY ONLY UNION LABOR IN OUR MARKET

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES

In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

IF YOU WANT THE

BEST FLOUR MADE

Buy—

Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co., Chattanooga

Go to your Union Meetings

Don't say you are too tired; the weather is bad; or there is too much quibbling and "hot air" to interest me.

Every time you miss a meeting and leave it to the other fellow to look out for your interest, you are doing an injustice both to yourself and your organization.

Your views on especially vital subjects should be represented in discussion and by vote, and the only way for this to be done is for you to be at your union meeting.

You are responsible for the good and welfare of your organization, and non-attendance of union meetings on your part is not excuse enough for you to voice your opinion after a measure has been passed. It is then time for you to concur in what has been done and work in harmony with the officers and other members of your union.

Go to your union meetings regularly and induce others to do the same, because one important thing to remember is the meaning of the slogan:

"United we stand, Divided we fall."

FIFTY-TWO PATERSON SILK MILLS SIGN UNION CONTRACT

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 2.—There are 6,783 silk workers on strike here under the banner of American Federation of Labor unions, a statistical report by the unions says. The report says that more than 1,500 workers affiliated with the A. F. of L. unions have returned to work under union agreements signed by fifty-two shops.

Patronize our Advertisers.

MUSICIANS' OFFICIAL DIES.

William G. Dodge, assistant president of the American Federation of Musicians, passed away in New York City on Aug. 3. Funeral services were held from the Musicians' local headquarters in Boston, Mass., on Aug. 5. Dodge was assistant president in the Musicians' international office for eight years and served on the executive board of Musicians' Local Union No. 9 in Boston for twenty years. Fred W. Birmbo succeeds the deceased official.

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, SEPTEMBER 18, 1931 — Number 21

CENTRAL BODY URGES SUPPORT SCHOOL BONDS

Proposed $200,000 Issue Formally Approved.

"BIG TAXPAYERS" SIGNED PETITION

Vote Forced by Wealthy Citizens Not Interested in Workers' Children.

Delegates to Chattanooga Trades and Labor council Monday night went on record as favoring the proposed issuance of $200,000 in bonds by Hamilton county, for the purpose of erecting new school buildings at Red Bank and Tyner-Silverdale.

A resolution prepared by a special committee calls attention to the fact that the required number of signatures have been secured to demand a popular vote on the question, deploring this action as having been "promoted principally by wealthy citizens who have little or no interest in whether or not a workingman's children are given an education," and called upon trades unionists and their friends to go to the polls and register their protest against this action by casting their ballots in favor of the issue.

No mention is made in the resolution of the fact that many of the petition's signers, known to be among the city's wealthiest citizens, were shown by a printed list to be assessed at ridiculously low figures. This, it was said, will be taken up in due time.

The resolution also recalls that citizens of the communities where it is proposed to build the new schools have pointed out the crowded conditions of the present structures, and the great need for some relief in order that their children may receive instructions under proper surroundings. The fact that erection of the buildings now would mean a saving to the taxpayers and would provide employment for many heads of families is also brought out in the resolution, which follows:

Whereas, the required number of local citizens have signed a petition calling for a referendum on the proposal to issue $200,000 in bonds for the erection of grammar schools at Red Bank and Tyner-Silverdale; and,

Whereas, citizenship of these communities have earnestly urged the vital need of these schools, present enrollment being so great as to force the temporary occupation of rented buildings adjacent to the thoroughly inadequate structures now in use; and,

Whereas, erection of these much-needed buildings at this time would be a matter of economy, and would provide employment for many heads of families now in need; and,

Whereas, we believe that the movement to demand a popular vote on the proposed bond issue was promoted principally by wealthy citizens who have little or no interest in whether a workingman's child is given an education; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we go on record as lending every support to the issuance of said bonds, and we call upon all fair-minded, public-spirited citizens to go to the polls on the date set for this bond election, and register their protest against reaction by casting their ballots in favor of the issue.

ELECTRICIANS BACK SCHOOLS

Local 175 Approves Proposed Bond Issue for Red Bank-Tyner.

Local 175, Electrical Workers, at their regular meeting Wednesday night approved a resolution adopted by Central Body in support of the proposal to issue bonds for new school buildings at Red Bank and Tyner-Silverdale. A committee, consisting of E. E. Crosby, I. C. Patton and W. P. Howard, had been instructed to draw resolutions expressing the sentiment of the members, and this committee offered the position of Central Body as the proper stand. The Electrical Workers approved the expression unanimously, it was said.

CROSBY SAYS—

T. H. Lofty says bring on the hot weather, he can lay under a tree and keep cool, but can't do that and keep warm.

* * *

Here's some plans the wire-twisters won't have to twist any wire around: The Dawes plan, Young plan, and the Hoover plan, or moratorium.

* * *

I. T. Patton is reported on a trip up north to Soddy.

* * *

One thing sure, the fellow that isn't working won't have to take a reduction in wages.

* * *

No register, no vote. So be sure and do both for our schools.

* * *

Ed Carrol said just because he was carrying a suit case is no sign he was leaving town. Fine, Ed, stick around.

* * *

Grady McArthur says the new radio is keeping him up a little later than usual these cool nights.

* * *

J. C. Fournier reports a new boy at his home.

Lost Union Card

Andrew C. Wolfe, structural iron worker, reports the loss of his card in Chattanooga this week. Mr. Wolfe will appreciate its return to The Labor World office, if found. It is No. 117191, issued at Oklahoma City. Finder may phone The Labor World, 6-7562.

City Employes Of Hub to Get Five-Day Week

Mayor Curley Tells Labor Meeting 7,000 Will Begin Plan January 1 in Effort to Increase Employment.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 17.—In a Labor Day speech before the Central Labor union, Mayor Curley announced that 7,000 city employes will go on a five-day working week beginning next January 1, in an effort to bring the shorter week to municipal workers in other cities and thus increase employment. The mayor said the five-day week here will add about 800 workers to the city pay roll.

Thirteen thousand employes in the Boston fire and police departments, the schools, city hospitals will not be included in the five-day week.

"The five-day week is here," Curley told the labor meeting. "We are going to institute it in Boston in January, and we hope the example set by the city may be generally accepted by every other community in America.

No Other Answer.

"There is no other answer if the inventive genius of the American nation robs the people of America of 3,000,000 opportunities for a livelihood in ten years. If, as the economists state, in the next ten years 4,000,000 more opportunities will vanish, there is only one answer, and that is the adoption of the five-day week.

"You increase the number of employes by 16 per cent, and you offset the vanishing job."

Mayor Curley praised the accomplishments of the American Federation of Labor in shortening the work day and week and in having passed labor legislation. He discussed how other countries have dealt with unemployment and declared that the five-day week is the answer to the problem. After pointing out how machinery is displacing men, the mayor said:

"It is a serious situation. Nobody wants the dole. But you have only two choices, either work and wages for the American people or the dole. And we believe in work and wages. I hope the president of the United States is listening in. I hope he realizes what we believe in. We are interested in America. We want it to prosper and are willing to die for it, but we believe it is the duty of our government to provide for this unprecedented situation that obtains in America.

Labor Must Be Helped.

"It is unfair to permit organized labor to continue planning for the entire 122 millions of people in America. It is too big a job. This job should be the concern of every individual in America. Religious, financial, labor and educational organizations should all come together with a common purpose, a single proposition, work and wages for the people of America.

"A $5,000,000,000 program is what is needed. We did not hesitate at $30,000,000,000 during the World war. We have an economic war here and during the two years it has been in progress we have not nationally spent one dollar to settle it. Let congress assemble and appropriate $5,000,000,000 so that no one will be out of employment during the coming winter."

PRINTERS PLAN ANNUAL MEET

Tennessee-Kentucky Conference Convenes at Knoxville Sunday.

Annual convention of the Tennessee-Kentucky Typographical Conference, scheduled for Sunday at Knoxville, will be one of the most important meetings of this organization since its organization more than eleven years ago.

A special session will be held Saturday night. Matters affecting the welfare of the membership of the local typographical unions of both Kentucky and Tennessee will be discussed during this session of one day, and recommendations pertaining to the unemployment situation existing in the printing industry will receive especial attention.

A short program of entertainment, ending with a banquet Sunday evening, will be intermixed with the business sessions, which will, as has been the custom for years, be short and to the point.

Labor officials from both Tennessee and Kentucky will be in attendance at the conference, as well as a representative number of delegates from practically every local typographical union in its jurisdiction.

Hon. Henry P. Hanson, of Memphis, president of the conference, has served in this official position since the body was formed, and Raymond Redd, of Lexington, Ky., has the distinction of having been re-elected as secretary for a like number of years, both officials serving so well that their election has been at all times unanimous.

Chattanooga Typographical union will be represented by W. L. Gardner, president of No. 89, T. R. Cuthbert and R. M. Cooke.

Small Output Given By Soviet Workers

New York.—Despite the use of the most modern machinery available, the production of women's clothing in the women's garment factories of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics lags behind American standards, declared David Dubinsky, general secretary-treasurer of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, on his return from an investigation of production methods and working conditions in the garment industry of the soviet union.

In the coat shops Mr. Dubinsky found up-to-date machinery with mass production on the Henry Ford plan in full operation. In a Leningrad plant employing 4,000 women the cloth is cut in layers by huge bandsaw cutting machines, and factory officials stated that each garment passed through 172 operations.

"The Leningrad factory, according to figures given to me on the premises," Dubinsky said, "yields 6,000 coats a day, about a garment and a half per worker. In the United States with such an equipment the output would be at least nine coats per worker.

"In the Kharkov factory I found the output somewhat higher, about three garments a day per worker, but even here production lags far behind American standards."

Dubinsky said the workers themselves "are hustling and doing their best because they are all piece-workers and seem to have an earnest desire to help in the progress of the five-year plan." He attributed their small output to inefficient management.

"In general the soviet factories impressed me favorably," Dubinsky concluded. "They are roomy and run on a big scale. I cannot frankly say that I noticed anywhere any outspoken dissatisfaction with the communist regime, though suffering and want are widespread."

PEOPLE TO VOTE ON QUESTION OF CONVENTION

Proposed Changes to Be Submitted.

WORKERS URGED TO SUPPORT CALL

Four Major Problems Make Up List for Delegates to Consider.

Next Thursday, Sept. 24, the people of Tennessee will vote on whether or not a constitutional convention shall be called to consider four major questions offered by resolution of the recent session of the general assembly. Under the resolution, the convention, if called, will be limited in its deliberations to consideration of these four proposals. Should a majority vote to call the convention, it will meet at Nashville on Monday, Nov. 16. Delegates will be asked to voluntarily pledge themselves, before election, that they will vote in the convention to submit the amendments to be voted upon separately by the people, for ratification or rejection, and that no one of the proposals rejected by the people shall become part of the constitution.

In the event the convention is called an election to select delegates will be held on Thursday, Oct. 29. The number of delegates to be selected shall be thirty-three, one from each of the thirty-three senatorial districts. Any person 25 years or over may become a candidate for delegate upon filing with the secretary of state his or her petition on or before Oct. 15, indorsed by not less than twenty-five qualified voters of his or her county.

Joint legislative committee of the Tennessee Federation of Labor and the Railroad Brotherhoods, after a thorough study of the situation, has indorsed the convention as proposed, and members of organized labor and their friends are urged to vote "for," and if the proposal carries, to vote only for progressives as delegates.

The four proposals, all of which, as stated above, have been indorsed, are as follows:

(1) To improve our system of taxation and assessment so as to conform to present-day economic conditions by an amendment of section 28 of article 2, classifying property for taxation.

(2) To restrict the general assembly to general legislation, and to relegate all legislation of a purely local character to the respective counties and municipalities.

(3) To make the compensation of members of the general assembly commensurate with services rendered and to prohibit any bonus or extra pay.

(4) To extend the term of office of governor to four years, and make him ineligible to re-election to an immediate succeeding term; and to provide for the election of a lieutenant-governor.

CARPENTERS STOP CAMPAIGN

Dance Will Be Given as Scheduled, Business Agent Announces—Regrets Publicity.

Following newspaper publicity of action taken by Central Body Monday night with respect to telephone ticket sales by promoters employed by Local 74, Carpenters, to put on a public dance for the benefit of the local, C. W. Smith, business agent, said Thursday the sale had been immediately stopped, but the affair would be given as scheduled.

Mr. Smith stated that the Carpenters contracted with the promoters in good faith, and instructed them to use only the name of the local in their solicitation, and to seek support solely on the merits of the affair. He said the local members regretted the publicity, and had taken the only action possible in stopping the campaign after the protest had been made.

Grim Reaper Calls Mrs. Robt. S. Barnes

Mrs. Mary Katherine Barnes, 25, wife of Robt. S. Barnes, of the News composing room force, passed away last Sunday afternoon at a local hospital following a short illness. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from Greenwood church, near Harrison, the Rev. J. H. Hughes officiating.

The Labor World offers sincere sympathy to Brother Robert and other surviving relatives in their great bereavement.

Nurse (going off duty)—Is there anything else you wish, sir?

Patient—Yes, kiss me good night.

Nurse—I'll send in an orderly—he does the dirty work.

O'CONNOR NOW KNOX MAYOR

Trades Unionist Honored by Citizens of Neighboring Village.

HIZONNER HIMSELF

HON. JOHN T. O'CONNOR

Although it is difficult for a Chattanoogan with the proper degree of civic pride to realize that the people of Knoxville ever did anything right, local trades unionists are forced to break down and confess that the voters of the village to the north of us did themselves proud last Saturday when they gave to John T. O'Connor highest vote in a race between twelve aspirants for city councilman. The high vote, according to precedent, assures the mayoralty for the old-timer, and that he will fill that office with distinction and with credit to his home city is a foregone conclusion of those who know him best.

Mr. O'Connor is a member of the International Association of Machinists, and has served the labor movement in almost every capacity over a period of some twenty-five years. From president of his local lodge he went to the chief executiveship of the Knoxville Central Body, and later served three terms as president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor. He also represented the state body for a time as its legislative chairman. Although it has been some years since he occupied an official position with the federation, his advice and counsel is still sought and highly valued when major problems are under consideration, and a convention of the state body without his presence—well, it's just not the same.

Mr. O'Connor is a student of economics, with a fine philosophy and the intelligence to make it effective.

Chattanooga Trades and Labor council Monday night instructed Secretary Gerlach to wire congratulations of local trades unionists, among whom the newly-elected official has numerous warm personal friends.

James A. Trent, now serving as mayor of Knoxville, will be forced to enter a run-off with three other candidates to decide the winners of two seats on the council.

Joe—You must have been out with that architect last night.

Floe—Why?

Joe—Well, I see blue prints on your neck.

* * *

She Had Pneumonia.

For her on the front door
They've hung a wreath,
She would wear naught above
And less beneath.

MAYOR RAPS PAY-CUTTERS

Texas Executive Flays Those Who Would Reduce Standards.

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 17.—Employers who make any suggestions about cutting wages on city construction work are going to get themselves "told plenty," Mayor Chambers has announced in no uncertain terms, says a special correspondent of Labor.

The San Antonio Builders' Exchange—an organization composed of the city's "leading" contractors—has objections to the union scale being embodied in contracts awarded for public work.

It voiced those objections to the school board with a request that the pay of all skilled crafts be cut $2 a day.

Mayor Chambers was furious when he heard of this move.

"I don't know what the school board is going to do, but I do know what the city is going to do if such a request for wage reductions is made over here," he declared heatedly.

"We are going to tell these gentlemen that we believe wages are too low now—and that we are not only for a living wage, but are for the union wage.

"I have never heard of a builder, a contractor or an architect offering to reduce his own profit. Instead of that, they all want to jump away down the scale and make the laboring man take the 'rap' if there's any reducing to be done.

"These employers argue that two small school buildings can be erected from the money wrung from the dinner buckets of workers. Yes, they are right. They could also import workers from Mexico who would work for 30 cents a day, and enough money would thus be saved to build two or three large buildings."

Unemployment is becoming more critical every day, Mayor Chambers said.

"There are people in San Antonio living on nothing but clabber milk. They are suffering intensely.

"And yet there is a group of business men who would make matters worse by reducing wages. It's preposterous."

Wedding Bells Ring For Wade H. Patton

This depression apparently has no terrors for Wade H. Patton, member of the Intertype Composing company force, for on Sept. 11 Mr. Patton "took unto himself a bride," the lady being Miss Ophelia Adele Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown.

Mr. Patton came to Chattanooga some time ago from Philadelphia, while Mrs. Patton is a graduate of Central High school and Tennessee State Teachers' school at Murfreesboro.

The Labor World wishes for the young couple a long and happy voyage on the matrimonial seas.

"Oh, yes," said Mrs. Gadgett, proudly, "we can trace our ancestors back to—to—well, I don't know exactly who, but we've been descending for centuries."

* * *

Harry—I'm forgetting women.

George—So am I. I'm for getting a couple as soon as possible.

PREPARE FOR OPENING OF NIGHT SCHOOLS

Sessions to Begin Monday, Sept. 28.

FREE INSTRUCTION OFFERED TO PUBLIC

Wide Variety of Subjects to Be Included in 1931-32 Courses.

The free night school, "The People's University," will begin the 1931-32 sessions at the vocational school, corner Fourth and Chestnut streets, September 28. According to O. C. Kirkman, school director, indications are that a large enrollment will feature this year's session of the popular and ever-growing system organized under joint auspices of federal, state and city governments.

Night school sessions will be held on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, with classes in the following subjects offered: Elementary and advanced fundamentals, high school, commercial, professional, technical, home making and others. Day classes will be conducted covering any subject needed by working people, at any hour between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., if as many as fifteen enroll in any one subject.

Prof. Kirkman said it was hoped that classes may be organized for Saturday morning sessions, and if sufficient numbers are interested these classes will be formed.

In addition to age limits, pupils must give evidence that they are qualified to succeed in the work which they undertake. These technical classes in night and day schools are for the purpose of supplementing daily employment or some allied trade.

Classes will be operated in outlying districts where a demand for such is evident. An enrollment fee of $2 is all the cost attached to the course, with the exception of textbooks.

The office on Chestnut street will remain open all next week, beginning Monday night, and Prof. Kirkman stressed the desirability for early enrollment, as only such classes which have enrolled the required number will begin sessions on the 28th.

Among those who may be helped by the adult education system are listed the following: Women who desire to prepare for the duties of the home; women who wish to solve the problems of the family; all whose early education was neglected; those who would supplement their early education with more culture; the foreign-born who would learn the language of America; aliens who wish to become citizens; men and women who wish to prepare for professions; those who wish to advance in their trade or profession; office workers and others who would enter or advance in the world of business; the ambitious who desire self-improvement in any line.

A brief description of technical courses offered follows:

Automotive Mechanics—Engine repair, chassis repair, motor block testing, carburetor work, ignition, starting, lighting, trouble shooting, and storage battery work.

Blue print reading, trade drawing, trade mathematics—as required of all skilled mechanics in the various trades.

Boiler Code—A study of the A. S. M. E. standard boiler code as applied to constructive operation and inspection of both low and high pressure boilers.

Cabinetmaking—Woodworking for cabinetmakers, bench workers, and machine operators, including designing, billing and wood finishing.

Drawing and Design—Commercial designing, figure drawing, sign painting, window display.

Home Making Courses — These courses are planned to meet home problems, related to the clothing, food and health of the family and are as follows: Food preparation and Structural Design and Structural Drafting—Beginning and advanced classes. Principles of structural design, covering strength of materials, graphic statics, slide rule instruction, use of handbook, etc.
serving, food demonstration, nutrition, clothing selection, clothing construction, alteration of ready-made garments, home nursing, child development, millinery.

Mechanical Drawing—The underlying principles of all drawing will be taught. Open to anyone, whether trade worker or not. This course will be followed by special drawing courses such as mechanical and architectural drawing.

Practical Electricity — Electricity and magnetism, batteries, electrical machinery, electrical circuits, direct current generators and motors, inside wiring for light and power, meters and meter-testing, power plant operation, alternating current generators and motors, transformers, armature winding, house wiring.

Plumbing — Theory of plumbing, drawing for plumbers, mathematics for plumbers, plumbing practice.

Sheet Metal Drafting—Principles of sheet metal drafting and laying out of work open to all sheet metal workers.

Davis Denounces Wage-Cutting As a Blow to Business Revival

Washington, Sept. 17.—Vigorous opposition to wage cutting as a peril to industry was the keynote of an address by United States Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, at the Labor Sunday services at the Washington Cathedral.

He urged a reorganization of our economic system to enable the wage-earners and farmers to secure a more equitable portion of the national wealth.

"A bountiful nature and the ingenuity of man have built up high surpluses of food and commodities of every description," he said, "and yet in this great nation of ours, we find men, women and children who are hungry and unable to obtain enough food to keep themselves normally nourished. We find abject poverty stalking about in our country.

Wage-Cutting Condemned.

"What shall it profit if wages are reduced to such a low level that the wage-earners of our nation are barely able to provide themselves with fundamental necessities of life?" he asked.

"What substantial hope can be held for the revival of national prosperity if the buying power of wage-earners and our farmers is seriously curtailed through the medium of drastic wage reduction policies and cheap selling prices for their products?

"What will be the effect of such economic policies upon our American standards of living? And what menace do such unsound and economic policies bear toward the welfare and existence of our nation?

"One need not be an economist to analyze the vital questions. The answers are so obvious that they should be apparent to every thinking man and woman in our country.

"For instance, what does it profit industry to drastically reduce wages and salaries when the result often manifests itself in the creation of such woeful community conditions that this saving on industry's payrolls is often wiped out or neutralized by the end of the year in intensified appeals for aid sought by community chest, Red Cross and other humanitarian organizations?

Advises Revising System.

"Furthermore, realizing that our farmers and wage-earners constitute an overwhelming majority of our nation's population, it is logical to believe that national prosperity cannot be attained unless both classes obtain a fair and square share of the distribution of the wealth they produce.

"Every move made to curtail the buying power of our farmers and wage-earners further retards the sound revival of brisk business and industrial conditions. Hence, our economic system for the distribution of our national wealth sould be revamped, in compliance with the ethics of the 'golden rule,' so that our farmers and wage-earners can earn more, spend more, buy more and use more.

"Moreover, I believe that sound ways and means could be found for this revision of our economic system, entailing no real financial hardship upon the part of industry or its stockholders."

For Your Scrapbook

(An unfortunate typographical error in last week's issue destroyed the effectiveness of a featured statement by Judge Lusk, made in his opinion dismissing suit of County Judge Will Cummings against Sheriff Taylor and Criminal Court Clerk Clark to enforce wage cuts in the departments of these two officials.

We regard Judge Lusk's statement as one of the most reasonable, constructive, sane and effective pronouncements made by any of the hundreds of leaders in all walks of life respecting the present industrial collapse, and for this reason we are reprinting below the paragraph as it was originally written, in the hope that our readers will recognize and digest its full significance.—Editor.)

The whole economic history of mankind teaches us the folly of expecting efficient service from poorly paid help. The law of compensation works here, as everywhere, and we get what we pay for—no more. America has led the world in fixing wages and a consequent standard of living which gives dignity and decency in normal times to all who are willing to exchange therefor honest and intelligent effort. If possible to avoid it, no governmental agency should lead the way back to the inadequate pay, with its trail of ignorance and want, that cursed us in former times.—The Hon. Charles W. Lusk, Criminal Court Judge.

THE LABOR WORLD
410 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY
Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council
R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager
Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1931.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARIES.

Cutting the budget of the Chattanooga Public library to such an extent that the board in charge of that institution is seriously considering the abolishment or curtailment of the branch libraries in the various high schools is looked upon with a great deal of concern by members of organized labor.

The working men and women of the city use the facilities of the library in greater proportion than any other group of our people and any impairment of the usefulness of the library will be felt keenly by them.

It is understood that a conference of the city commission and the library board will be held looking to a readjustment of the tentative budget, and it is hoped some method will be found by which the city commission may be permitted to continue the appropriation that the library has enjoyed in past years.

The Legion Acts

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

Resolutions have been prepared for presentation at the annual convention of the American Legion at Detroit which opens Monday calling upon legionnaires to help break the backbone of Old Man Depression by giving employment to those without work.

On the surface this looks fair enough were it not for the fact that labor economists have been using literally tons of ink telling people industry and not individuals nor this or that organization must shoulder the blame for the present unemployment and that industry alone must seek a solution.

We must not assist industry—or capital, call it what you will—to throw up any kind of a smoke screen in its endeavor to hide from view the real cause for the present employment. No organization must take on itself the responsibility of bringing order out of the present economic chaos.

The American Legion is largely an organization composed of men who are wage-earners themselves. Those in a position to give employment to others and who are also members of the legion are a small proportion of its membership. The legion is not to blame as an organization for the last three years' unemployment—industry is to blame, and there no responsibility must remain. The legion's demand, therefore, for work to be given the unemployed should be made to industry—not its wage-earning membership!

Raise Wages, Filene Tells German Bosses

Leipzig, Germany.—German employers should systematically raise the wages of German workers instead of confining themselves to technical rationalization, Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant, told German industrial leaders in an address at the Leipzig fair. The present economic crisis, he said, is caused by the impossibilty of the masses purchasng what is produced.

The practical trade unionist always demands the union label, shop card or button.

Restless, could not sleep

"THERE were days when I felt like I could not get my work done. I would get so nervous and 'trembly' I would have to lie down. I was very restless, and could not sleep at night.

My mother advised me to take Cardui, and I certainly am glad she did. It is the first thing that seemed to give me any strength. I felt better after the first bottle. I kept it up and am now feeling fine."—Mrs. T. R. Gibson, Fort Payne, Ala.

CARDUI HELPS WOMEN to HEALTH

Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

Machinery and Unemployment

Statistics compiled by the government of the United States show that the value of the commodities produced by the workers in American industries in 1929 was eight million dollars more than in 1919, although there were 675,000 fewer workers in 1929 than in 1919.

As a result of this increase in labor's commodity-producing capacity and business depression, the employers have discharged more than 5,000,000 workers, turning them over to charity funds for a living for themselves and their families, and placed 5,000,000 more on part-time work and earnings with a drastic lowering of living standards.

The underlying causes and social results of this catastrophe are being studied by a committee appointed by Secretary of Labor Doak to investigate "technological" unemployment and the effect of the displacement of workers by machinery.

Dr. Charles A. Prosser, former director of the federal board for vocational education and a writer on educational subjects, is chairman of the committee.

In explaining the work of the committee Dr. Prosser says it has divided the problem into two parts. It will endeavor to determine what effect technological improvement has on the volume of employment, and also what can be done to "conserve" the workers whom the employers discharge because fewer men working the same number of hours with semi-automatic machinery can produce more goods and services than more men with the old machinery.

Employer-economists claim that labor-displacing machinery does not in fact displace labor but increases the number of jobs. Labor-economists claim the machinery does displace workers and that employers use it to create the army of the unemployed. Dr. Prosser's committee will attempt to adjudicate the statistical truth of these conflicting views.

In commenting on the tremendous increase in the output of labor under machine production and the millions of workers now without jobs. Dr. Prosser said that technological unemployment may result in "sweeping economic and social changes."

He stated that the problem of "conserving" the worker displaced by machinery involved the problem of caring for all the unemployed, regardless of the cause.

"The committee will also make a report," he added, "regarding ways and means of safeguarding workers before displacement, at the time of displacement, and after displacement through improved placement and retaining services in states and local communities."

It is gratifying to know that the committee has included in its program the problem of "caring for all the unemployed, regardless of cause." The jobless millions have but little interest in scientific and microscopic explanations of the causes which have deprived them of the right to earn a living. What they want is work.

Vitiating Child Labor Laws

Vitiating labor laws by administrative processes is one of the methods by which protective labor legislation is deprived of much of its value. This is especially true of child labor laws.

A striking illustration of this defect is brought out in a recent study on certain features of the Illinois child labor law made by Savilla Millis Simons for the Illinois committee on child welfare. The study has not been published, but it is summarized in the American Child, the official organ of the national child labor committee.

The Illinois law prescribes that children who apply for work permits shall be examined to determine their physical fitness for work. The American Child says Miss Simons discovered that "on the whole, physical examinations for work permits were found to be perfunctory. Only three of the larger cities had school physicians to give the examinations. In two cities no physical examinations were given. Several cities gave no re-examination for subsequent permits, and in none were permits withheld pending correction of physical defects."

The Illinois law also designates legal employments for children, fixes the hours of work, and specifies the age at which work permits may be given. On the administration of these vital provisions the summary says:

> Little attempt appears to be made to check up on the nature of the proposed employment, and its legality, or on the number of hours' work expected. Only a few of the largest firms troubled to return permits upon the termination of the child's employment. Another loophole for employment without a permit is found in the practice of the free employment bureaus of Illinois which, although not placing any children known to be under 16, accept the statement of a child that he is over 16 without question.

In street trades studied in five cities Miss Simons found deplorable conditions for child workers. In Rockford, "children sold papers on the streets without restriction as to age or hours of work, and teachers reported that some of them began to work so early in the morning that they fell asleep in school." In Decatur the investigator found "a family of children ranging from 12 years down to 4 years all selling papers, and an 11-year-old girl who had been selling papers all winter aided by her 5-year-old brother."

An outstanding tragedy of the lax administration of child labor laws is the number of children killed and injured by the action of employers who illegally put them to work in occupations where the industrial hazard is very great. On this point the American Child gives the following summary of Miss Simons' report on accidents to young workers in Illinois:

> Almost 70 per cent of the children under 16 years of age injured by industrial accidents in Illinois during 1929 were illegally employed, and the present study shows that plenty of opportunity for illegal employment arises from the lack of uniformity in methods of issuing work permits and from lack of effectiveness in enforcing the compulsory school attendance law.

Illinois is not the only state where children of tender years are victimized by the antisocial and unpatriotic practices of low-wage employers and the laxness of administrative officials. There is nothing so sacred as children who can not protect themselves.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

THE year 1837 serves somewhat as a point of demarcation between the old pioneer stage of organized labor and what we might in a general way term its modern phase. This is true, not because no further changes took place in the general character of labor organizations following this date or because after 1837 labor conditions became static and did not advance beyond what they were at that time, but because in one sense or another most every characteristic of present-day labor unions had either taken root or were beginning to do so.

Several of the crafts which had been organized for several years held national gatherings of their representatives from scattered locals throughout the United States by 1837, and such "trades unions" which had not called annual conventions saw the wisdom of doing so and were making their plans accordingly.

The dues system in local organizations was now fairly well established and such national affiliations as had been established were receiving dues from local unions.

While the number of labor papers begun at this early date was not large those which had been started by enterprising laborists were laying the foundations of loyalty to the laboring masses of the country which a later and more numerous labor press have so magnificently upheld in the years that have gone by since the first labor weekly was founded.

Local "trades unions" were now holding weekly or monthly "lodge meetings," at which were discussed plans made for the endless series of strikes taking place throughout the country.

And lastly, unionists had awakened to the fact that long hours only served to stultify the workman and he must have, and there must be developed by workingmen themselves, some fair ratio of leisure hours to the number spent at daily labor, for hitherto the number of hours a workingman spent at work were all out of proportion to the number he was permitted to call his own.

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS.

Mangua, Nicarauga.—The Nicaraguan government has contracted with the Swedish match trust for 10,000,000 boxes of safety matches for use in connection with a government monopoly. The government will sell the matches at 2 cents a box, calculating a profit of $80,000 annually.

The Social Ideals of Jesus of Nazareth

An Interpretation

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

If you will look closely at the narratives supplied us by the four gospel writers two important facts will reveal themselves. First, throughout the entire public ministry of Jesus we see Him living among the common, ordinary folk of His day as one of them, and mingling with them with a natural simplicity that elicits admiration. On the other hand what is also true? Exactly the opposite. We see Him hobnobbing with the cultured and opulent, always at ease among the great of the nation and moving about among the well-to-do as much at home as among the poor of the land.

WM. L. MOSS

Here we have the very essence of the secret of Jesus' greatness—He was all things to all men! To the poor He was rich in spirit—possessing that richness of spirit that makes one gracious, kind, sympathetic, forbearing, understanding. To the rich He was poor in spirit—possessing that quality of humbleness of spirit that makes one lovable, inclined to meet others half way, willing to do goodness for its own sake, broad-minded yet firm. This characteristic of being all things to all men can only be instilled in people who live in homes which are not of the poorest nor of the richest. Such a home had Jesus. The family were not able to make a grand spalsh at Nazareth yet at the proper season they were able to travel up to Jerusalem to observe the feast. The menfolk of the home were neither dependant on neighbors for the family's sustenance nor were they without a trade. Both Joseph and Jesus were carpenters, as were undoubtedly also Jesus' brothers. Jesus was no anemic weakling for carpentering in those days demanded muscle to work hard woods into staunch plows and ox yokes, furniture, and window and door frames. These of course had to be lifted here and there as they were turned from the misshapened raw wood into the finished articles.

Thus we see Jesus in His early manhood engaging in work useful to the community. At Nazareth He knew life, tasted life, lived life as life really is. He came to know and understand men and their problems. When the hour came when He was sent forth to do the Father's will Jesus did not from that moment have to begin to learn what life is like for He already knew. Nazareth had provided him with the schooling he needed in this respect. And He was conscious of the fact that He knew what life is—and not only that, but men could see that He knew, and knowing that He knew followed Him from place to place eagerly catching every word that fell from His lips.

What Next!

Experiments with aluminum paint on refrigerator cars are being made by the Canadian National Railways. Recent tests have shown that the outer temperature of a car-roof covered with aluminum paint is 10 degrees lower than that of a roof colored the usual "box-car red." Two new refrigerator cars have been painted entirely with the aluminum paint. Aluminum paint has been used to some extent on railroad passenger cars in the United States.

Special days for UNION LABEL agitation are good, but making every day a UNION LABEL day is much better.

Bargains for Saturday!

PINK SALMON No. 1 Tall, 3 for..... 25c
PREMIUM SODAS 1-Lb..... 12½c
PET MILK Small, 10 for 28c; Large, 5 for..... 28c
BUTTER Lb..... 29c
KRAFT'S ELKHORN
SALT MEAT Lb. 9c
STREAK O' LEAN
BACON Pound..... 25c
Rindless Black Hawk

INTERNATIONAL UNION MARKET
THIS IS TO CERTIFY, That this Meat Market is conducted in accordance with the rules of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, A. F. of L. Therefore we commend it to the patronage of all.

SAUNDERS STORE
423-425-427 MARKET STREET
(INDEPENDENT OF ANY CHAIN STORE—HOME OWNED)

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED
EASY WAY
SELF SERVICE GROCERY
417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue
100% HOME OWNED STORES

COMPOUND Very Best Grade (4 lb. limit)—4 lbs..... 30c
PURE LARD Very best, "Laurel" (Limit 4 Lbs.—4 Pounds 35c
PINK SALMON No. 1 Tall, 15c Size, 3 cans..... 25c
SALT OR MATCHES Reg. 5c Sizes, Box..... 2c
CAMAY Regular 10c Soap, 3 Bars 19c and get 1 Ivory Snow..... FREE
"CALUMET" Baking Powder, Lb. Can 24c, and Nice Dish..... FREE
WE EMPLOY ONLY UNION LABOR IN OUR MARKET

COMING
SEPTEMBER 21st AND ALL WEEK
FREE FESTIVAL AUSPICES VETERANS FOREIGN WARS
D. D. Murphy Shows
(INC.)
TITAN OF THE TENTED WORLD
14 THRILLING RIDES | 400 PEOPLE | 16 NEW FEATURE SHOWS
Traveling on 30 Double Length Railroad Cars
WARNER PARK SHOW GROUNDS
THE AMUSEMENT SPOT OF CHATTANOOGA
FREE ADMISSION! FREE PARKING!
A WEEK OF THRILLS AND AMUSEMENT

Speaking of Cakes—
Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're
ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES
In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

NIGHT SCHOOL
"The People's University"
Opens for Instruction on Monday Night, Sept. 28
...at the...
VOCATIONAL SCHOOL
Corner of Fourth and Chestnut
Courses offered:
Fundamentals — Home Making
High School — Commercial
and Technical Subjects
Building open for conference and enrollment on September 21, 22, 24, 25 from 6 to 9 p.m. No class will be organized until twelve to fifteen people enroll.
Be sure to enroll in advance
For other information call 6-3321
Classes for colored at Howard

IF YOU WANT THE BEST FLOUR MADE
Buy—
Orient
Made by Mountain City Mill Co., Chattanooga

Delinquent City Taxes
On October 1st unpaid taxes pass into hands of delinquent collector.
Avoid this extra cost by paying now.
F. K. ROSAMOND,
Tax Collector.

A HIGH GRADE PRODUCT
....AT A LOW COST!
MINED IN TENNESSEE BY MEMBERS OF THE UNITED MINE WORKERS OF AMERICA
FENTRESS COAL
"100 Per Cent Union"
Buy Now at Summer Prices!
ACME COAL CO.
622 East Ninth Street
WALTER D. MOORE
T. F. WARE
PHONE 6-1183

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45918
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Omer B. Eubright vs. Omer B. Eubright
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill which is sworn to, that Omer B. Eubright is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause will be set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 18th day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
10-9
Solicitor & Myers, Attys.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45898
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Nancy C. Thaxton vs. George T. Thaxton
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill which is sworn to, that George T. Thaxton is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause will be set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 18th day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
10-9
Solicitor & Thach, Attys.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45908
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Myrtle Irwin vs. Jake Irwin
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Jake Irwin is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause will be set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 18th day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
10-9
Solicitor & Weatherford, Attys.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45880
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Grace Trantham vs. Harrison Trantham
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill which is sworn to, that Harrison Trantham is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause will be set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 8th day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
10-2
Hunt & Thach, Attys.

REPLEVIN NOTICE
No. 1824
John Kelso Rice, Justice of the Peace for Hamilton County, Tennessee.
Tennessee Electric Power Co. vs. Chattanooga Transfer and Storage Company
(H. Grady Varnell)
It this cause it appears by affidavit that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff and is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, a replevin notice has been served on goods in storage at the warehouse of the Chattanooga Transfer and Storage Co. belonging to said defendant, and returned to me, it is therefore ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in the city of Chattanooga, Tennessee, for four consecutive weeks, summoning the said defendant to appear before me at my office, 17 East Sixth Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., on Monday, Sept. 21, 1931, at 11 a.m., and make defense to said bill or it will be taken for confessed and be proceeded with ex parte.
KELSO RICE,
Justice of the Peace.
This 27th day of August, 1931.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45862
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Eva Thomas vs. Niven E. Thomas
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Niven E. Thomas is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 2nd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Samuel Butler, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 24888
State of Tennessee, Chancery Court of Hamilton County
W. E. Long vs. Emma Long
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill which is sworn to, that Emma Long is a nonresident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said nonresident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 2nd day of September, 1931.
SAM ERWIN, C. & M.
By E. C. BRIDGERS, D. C. M.
Sam H. Seymour, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45861
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Estelle Burkhart Taylor vs. Charles C. Taylor
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill which is sworn to, that Charles C. Taylor is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 3rd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Jno. H. Seymour, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45851
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
Theresa Reading vs. L. C. Reading
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill which is sworn to, that L. C. Reading is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 2nd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Samuel Butler, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45772
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County
J. Hamilton Estes vs. Mary Estes
It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Mary Estes is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 21st day of August, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
M. Fogo, Atty. 9-11

CONSTIPATION take

"If I got constipated, I would get dizzy and have swimming in my head. I would have very severe headache.

"For a while I thought I wouldn't take anything—maybe I could wear out the headaches; but I found they were wearing me out.

"I found Black-Draught would relieve this, so when I have the very first symptoms, I take Black-Draught and now I don't have the headache.

"I am a firm believer in Black-Draught, and after using it 20 or more years, I am satisfied to continue its use."
—F. B. McKinney, Orange Park, Fla. E-171

THEDFORD'S
Black-Draught

WOMEN who are run-down, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

B L & K R

Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed by Walter Cooley and wife, N. A. Cooley, dated Nov. 22, 1929, of record in Book "R," Volume 24, Page 64, et seq., of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the note, representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of all equities of redemption, homestead, dower and all other rights of exemptions of every kind at the west door of the courthouse of Hamilton county, Tennessee, on

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1931,

between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., the following real estate in Hamilton county Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot No. 2, block 14, Highland Park addition No. 1, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 1, Page 23 of the Register's Office of Hamilton county, Tennessee. Said lot fronts 50 feet on the south side of Duncan avenue and extends back southwardly, of uniform width 135 feet to an alley.

Sale will be made subject to note for $4,000.00 due Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, dated Feb. 9, 1926, recorded L-20-395, and to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as trustee only.

This 11th day of September, 1931.

AMERICAN TRUST AND BANKING COMPANY, Trustee.
By E. Y. Chapin, Jr., Trust Officer.
10-2

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed by Fannie A. Cawood, dated August 28, 1919, of record in Book "Y," Volume 15, Page 49, et seq., of the Register's Office, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the note representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of all equities of redemption, homestead, dower and all other rights of exemptions of every kind, at the west door of the courthouse of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on

MONDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1931,

between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., the following described land situate in the Old Fifth (5th), Present Second (2nd) Civil District, County of Hamilton and State of Tennessee, to wit:

Lot No. Six (6), in Block No. One Hundred Seventy-four (174) in East End Land Company's Addition No. One (1), as laid down on Plat registered in Plat Book in Register's Office, Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Sale will be made subject to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This 18th day of September, 1931.

AMERICAN TRUST AND BANKING COMPANY, Trustee.
By E. Y. Chapin, Jr., Trust Officer.
10-9

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of a trust executed by Paul A. Sloop and wife, Jean M. Sloop, dated October 7, 1930, of record in Book "L," Volume 25, Page 674, et seq., of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the notes representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of all equities of redemption, homestead, dower and all other rights of exemptions of every kind, at the west door of the courthouse of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., the following real estate in City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

MONDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1931

Lot No. Twenty-five (25). J. T. Thomas' Re-Subdivision of Block No. Four (4). The Highlands, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 9, Page 5 of the Rigster's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Sale will be made subject to a first lien of $2,500.00 due the Administration and Trust Company, and to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This 18th day of September, 1931.

AMERICAN TRUST AND BANKING COMPANY, Trustee.
By E. Y. Chapin, Jr., Trust Officer.
10-9

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed by G. R. Lewis and wife, Elisabeth Lewis, dated June 7, 1924, of record in Book "T," Volume 25, Page 296, et seq., of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the notes representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, at the west door of the courthouse of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1931,

between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., the following real estate in Second (2nd) civil district, Hamilton county, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lots Nos. twenty-four (24) and twenty-five (25), block number one (1), East Section of East Chattanooga Land Company, as recorded in Plat Book Number Three (3), Page thirty (30), of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Sale will be subject to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This 18th day of September, 1931.

THE ADMINISTRATION & TRUST CO.,
Trustee.
By E. Y. Chapin, President. 10-9

Green Asks Labor to Support Gifford's Idle Relief Group

Labor throughout the United States should co-operate with the president's organization on unemployment relief, headed by Walter S. Gifford, through which it is planned to enable cities to meet their own needs this winter, said William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a statement made public by the Association of Community Chests and Councils, which is the agency delegated by the president's organization to mobilize the collection of relief funds in 376 cities.

"Labor has made an excellent showing in Community Chest totals throughout the country," Green said. "Analysis of returns show that 22 per cent of the grand total is received in subscriptions of less than $25. This classification, of course, is largely made up of gifts from employed people. Another significant fact is that, as the number of subscribers from this group has decreased, their grand total in dollars has increased, showing that the employed man and woman have been looking out for their less fortunate fellow workers.

"I am concerned with certain fundamental changes in the economic and industrial system which I feel would tend to prevent a recurrence of the present deplorable state of affairs. For these changes I shall continue to argue, but the stern necessity for relief must be given instant attention.

"We cannot content ourselves with advocating methods of fire prevention while the fire is raging. Similarly, while giving consideration to permanently corrective measures, we must also do everything in our power to ameliorate present human suffering.

"I rejoice that the necessity for a widespread winter relief program is being recognized early, and I urge labor groups everywhere to co-operate whole-heartedly in the welfare and relief mobilization, as well as in other measures which may be undertaken by Mr. Gifford and his committee."

Roosevelt Asks $20,000,000 Work Fund for Jobless and 5-Day Week

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 10.—A five-day week on state and municipal public works, a $20,000,000 unemployment relief fund for next winter raised by a 50 per cent additional tax on personal incomes, and municipal authority to issue unemployment relief bonds, were the outstanding features of Gov. Roosevelt's jobless relief recommendations in a special message to the New York state legislature.

1. A relief administration of three members with an appropriation of $20,000,000 to be expended wherever possible on state public works, the balance to be apportioned between the counties and cities to be expended on work useful to the public.

2. An additional personal income tax of 50 per cent to provide the $20,000,000. One bill would apply the increase to this year's incomes; an alternative measure would make it retroactive and applicable to the year 1930 on the basis of returns already filed.

3. Authority for cities and counties to issue three-year bonds for relief of the unemployed, by means of public work wherever possible.

4. A five-day week in all contracts for state or municipal public works, except supervisory labor.

5. Payment of $548,000 to veterans who until the business depression set in had failed to apply for their state soldiers' bonuses.

Under Gov. Roosevelt's plan relief will be restricted to men and women who have been residents of the state for at least two years immediately preceding the date when the relief legislation becomes effective.

It is intended to spend as much of the money as possible to employ persons on public works for the state and distribute the rest to counties and cities so that the funds will assure the most benefit to the unemployed.

The official bill incorporating the governor's recommendations provides that wherever possible the money is to be used to pay wages for work useful to the public.

Where this cannot be done the local administrators of funds apportioned are authorized to purchase food, clothing and coal for distribution among the needy coming within the scope of the measure and also to pay rent where necessary. But no money must be turned over to any beneficiary, except in payment for work.

In this connection Gov. Roosevelt said in his message:

"Under no circumstances shall any actual money be paid in the form of a dole or in any other form by the local welfare officer to any unemployed or his family."

Railroad Clerks Fall Victims of Efficiency Moves

Big Four Employes Lose Jobs As Result of Division and Department Consolidations Within System.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—With winter—like "prosperity"—just around the corner, a large number of men and women in the auditing division of the Big Four railroad learned this week that the new efficiency will contrive to get along without them. The employes, all members of the Clerks' union, had made a valiant effort to stave off the blow for months, but corporation interests proved stronger than human principles.

Seventy persons have been notified their services will no longer be needed beginning this week. Fully twenty more clerical workers will be dismissed by the close of the year, bringing the total to nearly 100. It was made clear these jobs have actually been abolished, never again to be filled.

The drastic changes are one result of the consolidations within the Big Four system. Passenger and freight divisions are involved and entire departments have been moved about the system like chess men on a draught board. A group of 181 employes will be moved here from New York in the new set up. At the same time 154 persons, representing virtually the whole department of the auditor of freight accounts, will be moved to Cleveland.

Business firms along the principal lines of the system believe they see a fundamentally new industrial and commercial set-up in the drastic shake-up of the transportation facilities east of the Mississippi. Towns that are important in the transportation scheme will wake up to find themselves reclassed, while others, hitherto inconsequential, will become important as a result of the merged facilities either in their community or in adjacent cities. For the present it means fewer jobs and more problems for welfare groups.

It costs no more in effort or money to secure UNION GOODS and SERVICE, if you demand and insist on them.

Canadian Idle Paid $2.40 a Day on Roads

Toronto, Canada.—The Dominion and provincial governments of Canada are co-operating to complete the trans-Canadian highway from the west to the east coast as a measure to provide work for the jobless.

Six hundred miles of the highway are in Ontario. It is believed the construction of this section will absorb all of the unemployed who are physically strong enough to do the arduous work of road building.

The wages are $2.40 for an eight-hour day with 75 cents a day deducted for board and accommodation. The road workers will be housed in unemployment camps built and administered by the Ontario government.

Neither sale nor consumption of liquor will be tolerated in the camps, where something equivalent to military discipline will prevail. The road camps have been listed in the same category as bunk houses, which do not constitute private residences within the meaning of the liquor control act.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—Who is Holt Ross?
A.—President of the Mississippi State Federation of Labor.

Q.—What school in New York City is named after Samuel Gompers?
A.—The new Samuel Gompers Industrial High School for Boys, which will be finished in February, 1932.

ALONG MELODY LANE

By JOHNNY MAHONEY

The Roundtowners of WDOD under the direction of Prof. John Patty certainly deserve a lot of credit when we stop to think that they're using only a five-piece combination when most of the radio bands we hear use from ten to fifteen.

• • •

We see where Miss Tommye Dodds furnished music for a recent banquet at the Patten. Will someone advise us if we are to congratulate Miss Lasster and Herman, and if so, why we weren't invited to the ceremony.

• • •

Uncle John Washburn tells us that for the past month or two he has been able to land all kinds of band jobs, but they are always so negligent about paying off.

• • •

Earl VanArsdale is offering various rewards to the person who will be able to tell him what ails his Packard. Buck Weaver advises him to take it to a horse doctor.

• • •

Copper Null, formerly of Jimmy Cox's Collegians, is filling an engagement in Murfreesboro.

• • •

We were glad to see John McGuire out again. A speedy recovery and a good band at McCallie would be a mighty good Christmas present for John. They say that John can get so much out of the McCallie boys that they ought to make him football coach.

• • •

Please excuse this column when it misses a week or two. It's the effort and the hot weather.

Patronize our Advertisers.

RUPTURE

E. J. MEINHARDI
OF CHICAGO IS COMING HERE AGAIN

He will personally demonstrate his method without charge at the Read Hotel, Chattanooga, Tenn., on Thursday only, September 24th, from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Only men are invited.

This method contracts the rupture opening in the average case no matter how large the rupture or where it is located.

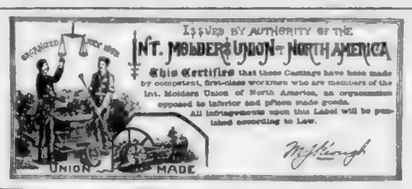
Rupture often causes Stomach Trouble, Backache, Constipation, Nervousness, and other ailments. Hundreds of deaths from rupture can be avoided.

(This visit is for white people only.)—E. J. Meinhardi, Home Office, 1551 N. Crawford Ave., Chicago.

Do you know Your Union Label

Union Label of Stove Mounters

Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen



ISSUED BY AUTHORITY OF THE
INT. MOLDERS UNION OF NORTH AMERICA
This Certifies that these Castings have been made by competent, first-class workmen who are members of the Int. Molders Union of North America, as opposed to inferior and prison made goods.
All infringements upon this Label will be punished according to Law.
UNION MADE

Emblem of American Federation of Musicians

Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union

Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance

Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America

Coopers' Union Label

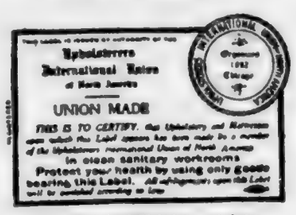
Union Label of Tobacco Workers

Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union

Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union

United Leather Workers Union Label

Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union Label



Upholsterers International Union of North America
UNION MADE
THIS IS TO CERTIFY, that Upholstery and Renovation upon which this Label appears has been made by a member of the Upholsterers' International Union of North America in clean sanitary workrooms
Protect your health by using only goods bearing this Label.
Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America

Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings

Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers

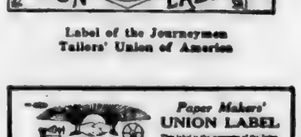
Sheet Metal Workers' Union Label

Jewelry Workers' Union Label

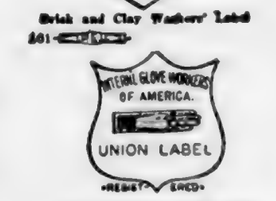
Store Card of Retail Clerks

Bookbinders' Union Label

Union Labels of Electrical Workers



Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America

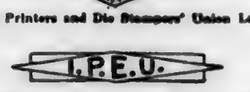


Brick and Clay Workers' Label

Plate Printers and Die Stampers' Union Label

Used on Rolls and Bundles

Glove Workers' Union Label

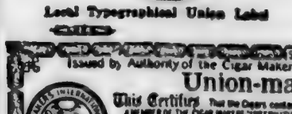


International Photo-Engravers' Union Label

Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp

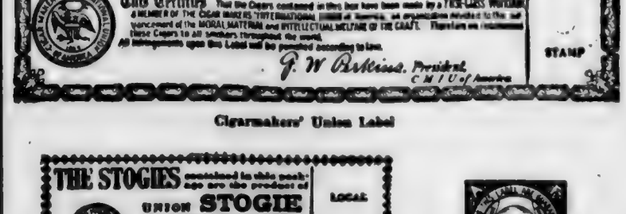
Local Pressmen's Union Label

Allied Printing Trades Label

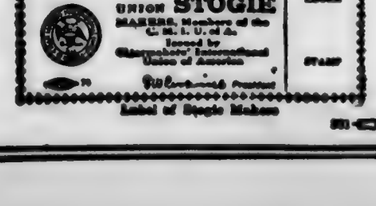


Local Typographical Union Label

Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America



Issued by Authority of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America.
Union-made Cigars.
This Certifies That the Cigars contained in this box have been made by a First-Class Workman
LOCAL
STAMP
J. W. Perkins, President, CMIU of America
Cigarmakers' Union Label

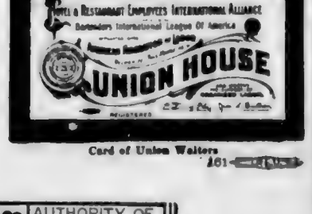


Label of Stogie Makers

A. F. of L. Label

Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators

Union Label of Carpenters and Joiners



Card of Union Waiters

WHY LAUGH?

Just Had a Peep Into
STAGMAIER & CO.'S PREMIUM CATALOGUE

There are so many nice PREMIUMS to be had with Coupons taken from

Up-To-Date Baking Powder

Catalogue will be mailed you free upon request.

Stagmaier & Co.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

TAXI

Phone 7-1261

PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE

WATSON CAB CO.

PREMIER CABS — METER RATES

208 West Ninth St.

COAL

Red Ash Nut . . . $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25

Honest Weight — Prompt Service

CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

HERE'S INTERESTING PICTURE OF THE MOVIE PROJECTIONIST

Radio Address Traces Progress of Industry and Gives Insight Into Vast Changes in Conditions Surrounding Present-Day "Engineers."

A picture of the present-day moving picture projectionist which is doubtless somewhat new to the general public, as well as decidedly interesting, is contained in a radio address delivered Labor Day by a member of Salt Lake City local of the International Alliance. Tremendous growth of this great industry in a comparatively few years, and transformation of the machines from a small, insignificant bit of poorly-developed mechanism into the highly-complicated, scientifically-constructed inventions of today are interestingly covered, incidental to the similar pace of progress set by the operators, and their elevation from a "crank-turner" to one of the highest-skilled mechanical engineers.

The address is reprinted below by courtesy of the National Advisory Committee, an organization of employers and employes who work jointly for the advancement of the industry in all its various phases. The radio speech, delivered by George A. Yeager, of Local 250, is as follows:

I have been asked by the Salt Lake Federation of Labor and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators of Salt Lake City to give you some idea of what it means to be a motion picture projectionist. First permit me to make myself clear as to the terms moving picture operator and motion picture projectionist. In the early days of the industry, at the time the nickleodeon was so popular, no one cared what the projectionist was called and probably some of the names he was called would not look good in print or sound well on the air. Due to the simplicity of the equipment and the crude manner in which the performance was offered to the public, a man with little or no knowledge of the trade or profession, if you will, not only could but did man the projection equipment. The projectors were of the crudest and would hardly be recognized at this time. The film was allowed to run into a sack beneath the projector and the audience waited after it was run through the projector while the operator rewound it on the reel for the next showing. Only one projector was used and one operator. An accident to either meant a delay in the performance and no doubt there are many who can remember the old familiar slide which was flashed: "One moment, please, while the operator changes reels." However as the industry progressed—and by the way it grew faster than any new form of amusement had ever been known to grow—and as the early and crude projectors were replaced by better and more complicated mechanisms, the man in the projection room was forced to either learn the rudiments of the trade or step out in the interest of progress and make way for better equipped men. Then it was common to find men in the projection room who knew nothing of optics, mechanics, or electricity, while the present projectionist in addition to these subjects should know radio physics and the theory of vacuum tubes and photo-electric cells and many kindred subjects, including acoustics. In the early days of the industry no one thought of establishing a minimum wage scale and it was a common occurrence for the old-time operator to receive such a low wage that he was forced only too often to sleep in the theater after the performance was over for the day. Working conditions as we know today simply did not exist. The equipment, such as it was, was crammed into a booth which left very little room for the operator after the equipment was installed. No ventilation was provided and no sanitary conveniences were in evidence. This in spite of the fact that the men worked long hours in an atmosphere heavily charged with the fumes of carbon dioxide gas. How different today. The projection rooms are for the most part large and airy. Ventilation is provided for and in most cases sanitary conveniences provided. The layman may well ask: "What accomplished this great change?" The answer is organization. As better men came into the projection rooms of the country it became evident to them that some form of organization must come if conditions were to be bettered and wages raised and as a result today we have the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada, a labor union that has grown from a few small locals in the early nineties to a large international union with over 700 locals throughout the country today. This change for the better was not accomplished in a day, a week or a year and there is still many things to do before the projectionist can sit back and say: "Well done." One of the greatest things accomplished for the employer is the stabilizing of the trade. In the early days of the industry too many men regarded the projection of motion pictures as a steppingstone to something better and consequently very few men worked at the trade long enough to become familiar with the equipment, to say nothing of learning the finer phases of the trade. Today it is common to find men who expect to devote their entire lives to the projection of motion pictures. The advantage of this to the employer is too evident to need further comment.

Before proceeding further permit me to explain the action of motion picture film when burning. The delusion that film will explode if ignited has long been prevalent in lay circles and has probably been the cause of innumerable parents keeping their children from the motion picture theaters, when actually there is no danger to the audience from fires in the modern theater. Film will burn, yes, but there can be no danger to the audience from it in the modern fireproof projection room. The danger of the audience comes from the likelihood of someone in the audience seeing burning film projected on the screen or smoke issuing from the crevices in the openings of the projection room, and by the simple act of calling "Fire" cause a stampede of the audience. Naturally if the audience should stampede there is going to be a loss of life, for people are always trampled in a stampede of any proportions. If you should ever be in a theater when a film fire occurs keep your seat and counsel those around you to do likewise until asked by the management to file out of the theater in an orderly manner. I do not want to convey the impression that burning film is not dangerous for the speaker has several projectionist friends who will carry to their graves the scars from burns received in film fires and one of the projectionists in a theater in Provo, Utah, received burns in a film fire two years ago from which he died. He gave his life to prevent a stampede in this theater. What greater service could any man give? The price of safety from film fires in a theater can be summed up in a very few words, namely, film in perfect condition, projection equipment in first class condition, and last, but by no means the least, two competent union projectionists on duty in the projection room at all times. If you value the safety of yourself and loved ones, keep them away from any theater where these conditions do not exist.

With the coming of sound pictures, the projectionists of the United States and Canada were confronted with an entirely new condition. New, and, in most instances, equipment of a radically different nature from anything ever used in the projection room before, was placed in his hands. That the rank and file of the projectionists of the country quickly mastered this equipment and presented the new type picture to the public in an artistic manner is a recognized fact. Mr. H. M. Wilcox, operating manager of Electrical Research Products, Inc., a subsidiary of the Western Electric company, who is responsible to them for the results obtained on their sound equipment, in a letter to the projection advisory council has this to say: "I wish to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the co-operation which has been accorded us by the projectionists of the country in connection with the introduction of sound talking picture equipment in the theaters of the United States." In my opinion no higher compliment could be paid to the members of our craft than that just quoted, coming as it does from a recognized authority on sound and connected as he is with the Bell Telephone laboratories, contrary to the common belief of a labor union as exemplified by the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada, is not the cold-blooded mercenary organization that you may have been led to believe it is, and our union is always amongst the first to give both time and money to the furtherance of any worthy cause. Our services are always to be had, gratis, for any charitable enterprise and we pride ourselves in that we are reliable, substantial citizens of the community, ready at all times to co-operate with any enterprise for the good of the city, state or nation.

Pa. Provides Free Milk For Underfed Children

Harrisburg, Pa.—The state of Pennsylvania started its policy of providing free milk to undernourished children among the unemployed workers by opening three stations, Gov. Pinchot announced.

The stations are in Avella, Washington county; Kinloch, Westmoreland county, and Bernice, Sullivan county. The stations are under the supervision of the state department of health and are supported by funds voluntarily contributed.

"This work is undertaken because it is absolutely necessary," Gov. Pinchot said. "Conditions are graver than the average citizen imagines, and the happy smiles of professional optimists cannot alter them. Establishment of the stations is visible evidence that Pennsylvania proposes doing everything in its power to feed those who are hungry."

Sunday School Teacher—And when the prodigal son returned, what happened, Tommy?

Tommy—His father ran to meet him and hurt himself severely.

Sunday School Teacher—Wherever did you get that impression?

Tommy—It says so right in the Bible—that his father ran to meet him and fell on his neck.

FINCK'S
RED BAR
OVERALLS

2,000,000 men buy these Overalls every year. Made in a Union Shop. Every garment has sewed upon it the Union Label. Union Men, ask your dealer.

Look for Red Bar on pocket.

W. M. FINCK & CO., Makers
Detroit, Mich.

W. R. CANNON, Mgr.
Southern Branch : Dalton, Ga.

Wagner Urges Two Billion Be Spent for Jobs

New York Senator Advocates Huge U. S. Building Program, Better Child Labor Laws and Dry Act Modification.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Demand that the federal government embark at once upon a building program to give work to at least one million men was voiced by Senator Robert F. Wagner in the principal Labor Day address at the New York State fair here. Senator Wagner urged a bond issue of $2,000,000,000 be floated to finance the proposed construction program.

Wagner advocated withdrawal of a "million children under 16 years of age who are holding jobs which ought to be filled by their fathers, their elder brothers and sisters," by strengthening legislation to keep the children in school and having industry itself realize the wrong done the child and the adult both by these children working.

Modification of the Volstead act within the limits of the constitution, with an expected substantial addition to employment, was cited as a third measure of relief, and "erection of a nation-wide system of employment offices conducted in co-operation with the states" as a fourth.

Emergency Here, He Says.

The $2,000,000,000 construction program, he said, should be the very minimum.

"These are not ordinary times; these are days of emergency," Senator Wagner said. "In 1917 we learned how to inject speed into planning. It is unlikely that we have already forgotten that lesson in 1931.

"There are highways to be repaved, widened and straightened. Hundreds of river and harbor projects are on the approved list. There are large federal zones which require reforestation.

Favorable Time for Borrowing.

"We shall be told that the federal government has not the money to engage upon this program. The federal government can borrow the money. Its credit is at the peak. Interest rates have rarely been lower.

"The banks are glutted with idle funds that ought to be busy creating employment. It would be a boon to the entire country to cause this frozen capital to flow freely once again in the channels of trade.

"Never in its history has our government had occasion to borrow more for more economic reasons and for loftier purposes.

Can We Let Idle Starve?

"We shall probably be told that the federal government cannot afford to spend that money. Let me ask in turn, can we let American men and women who are out of work starve? And since maintain them we must and we shall, can we afford to let the labor go irretrievably to waste? To permit that to happen would be the grossest form of national extravagance, the only course that we can not afford.

"The pith of the proposal is: That the federal government proceed at once to provide direct employment for at least a million men. It can and should be done."

Our Advertisers are our friends.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

Notice is hereby given by the Commissioners of Election of Hamilton County that the Special Election provided for by Senate Joint Resolution No. 59, namely, to enable the people to vote on holding a Constitutional Convention, will be held in the various wards and precincts in said County on Thursday, September 24, 1931, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. The ballot will read:

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

FOR A CONVENTION
AGAINST A CONVENTION

Special attention is called to Officers, Judges, Clerks and Registrars that the law requires service and that the Election Commissioners will invoke the law against any official named who shall fail or refuse to appear at his or her proper precinct for service.

The following have been appointed to serve as Officers, Judges, Clerks and Registrars for said election:

First Ward, First Precinct—Officer, W. M. Nixon; judges, J. S. Hunt, Chas. J. Saffer, G. W. Stephenson; Clerks, Willie Sloan, Miss Edna Hodge; registrars, Dewey Vogt, Mrs. S. R. Hipp; assistant registrar, Mrs. Joe McCutcheon.

First Ward, Second Precinct—Officer, Fred Fox; judges, Mrs. George Ring, Mrs. E. W. Burns, N. P. Bacon; clerks, J. C. Stickney. Mrs. J. E. Watkins; registrars, Miss Allie Hunt, Mrs. T. J. Davis; assistant registrar, Miss Kate Williams.

Second Ward—Officer, W. J. Counts; judges, Thompson Allen, A. T. Park, E. M. Prigmore; clerks, J. G. Foster, Miss Effie McCullough; registrars, Frances Brennen, Mrs. Carrie Alexander; assistant registrar, Mrs. W. F. Rouff.

Third Ward—Officer, J. M. Alper; judges, John McMahon, Sam Butler, C. H. Crowe; clerks, Pearl Contor, Mrs. Butler Richardson; registrars, Chas. Contor, Maggie Smith; assistant registrar, Mrs. Sam Brock.

Fourth Ward—Officer, Ben Cash; judges, H. A. Winer, Y. L. Abernathy, Raleigh Crumbliss; clerks, Con Robinson, Gertrude F. Warren; registrars, Joe Cash, Leolola Miles; assistant registrar, Herschel Keith.

Fifth Ward—Officer, Lyttleton H. Richardson; judges, James H. Landis, C. A. Baker, George McPherson; clerks, Neil Lynch, Miss John McCullough; registrars, Miss Annie Nolan, Lola Bobo; assistant registrar, Mrs. Edith Worthy.

Sixth Ward—Officer, L. G. Wilson; judges, M. J. Robinson, Lila B. Kelly, A. L. Dodson; clerks, T. P. McMahon, Jr., John Childress; registrars, Louise Long, Dora Hodge; assistant registrar, Mrs. E. J. Crowe.

Seventh Ward, First Precinct—Officer, Isham McGee; judges, Lapsley W. Hope, J. P. Winn, O. J. Bubbuch; clerks, Ken G. Whitaker, Mrs. George W. Martin; registrars, Mrs. Alf Handman, Mrs. C. W. Lusk; assistant registrar, Mrs. W. W. Draper.

Seventh Ward, Second Precinct—Officer, Chas. S. Whitcomb; Judges, John McDaid, H. D. Huffaker, Elmer Rule; clerks, Mrs. D. A. Landress, Mrs. George Graham; registrars, Mrs. M. H. Joyce, Mrs. Gus A. Wood; assistant registrar, G. T. Grubbs.

Eighth Ward—Officer, C. R. Wallace; judges, Chas. J. Krug, S. W. McPherson, W. G. Slaten; clerks, Mrs. Willie Oehlson, Dewey Leonard; registrars, Mrs. Walter Lane, Mrs. Edith Rush; assistant registrar, Mrs. Geo. Freeman.

Ninth Ward, First Precinct—Officer, H. F. Wenning; judges, S. G. Simmons, J. Early Smith, B. H. McLaughen; clerks, Mrs. M. M. Morris, Mrs. B. H. McLaughen; registrars, Mrs. W. B. Crabtree, Mrs. Forest Lowery; assistant registrar, Mrs. Julia B. O'Brien.

Ninth Ward, Second Precinct—Officer, J. R. Horton; judges, W. A. Perry, Mrs. T. M. Marett, A. J. Ware; clerks, Miss Cora Perry, Mrs. Ben McGill; registrars, John Langford, Mrs. J. M. Petitt; assistant registrar, Mrs. J. L. Fox.

Tenth Ward—Officer, A. M. Gifford; judges, I. N. David, J. D. Cotter, G. B. Kelly; clerks, Mrs. W. E. Hallmark, G. W. Sutton; registrars, Mrs. George W. Fletcher, Miss Genevieve Ernest; assistant registrar, Mrs. J. E. Mosier.

Eleventh Ward, First Precinct—Officer, J. H. Campbell; judges, Carl Taylor, Mrs. Horace Fritts, Truman Hinch; clerks, Mrs. Carl Wilson, Mrs. J. E. Dare; registrars, Mrs. W. D. Espy, Mrs. O. E. Tobey; assistant registrar, Mrs. Clay E. Ivins.

Eleventh Ward, Second Precinct—Officer, A. E. Merriam; judges, Fred P. Kampschafer, Mrs. Sam E. Jones, W. S. Weatherford; clerks, Miss Bessie Kolb, C. S. Sharp; registrars, Miss Gussie Blanton, Mrs. Mueller; assistant registrar, Mrs. Leila M. Dudley.

Twelfth Ward, First Precinct—Officer, J. C. Brown; judges, C. A. Eppersen, Miss Meta Lawson, R. H. Crox; clerks, Mrs. Mervil Crox, Walter Foster; registrars, Mrs. W. S. Biles, Mrs. A. H. Clark; assistant registrar, Mrs. John Rabun.

Twelfth Ward, Second Precinct—Officer, R. E. Mosley; judges, John Cordell, J. W. Royal, C. Z. Taylor; clerks, Floyd Royal, J. W. Lowe; registrars, W. Blanton, Mrs. Mueller; assistant registrar, Jack McDonald.

Twelfth Ward, Third Precinct—Officer, Lee Burns; judges, Mrs. Fred Elder, P. L. Cate, John Tinker; clerks, Mrs. P. K. O'Neal, T. E. Thurman; registrars, Mrs. Barney Strickland, Mrs. R. R. Lee; assistant registrar, Mrs. C. T. Posey.

Twelfth Ward, Fourth Precinct—Officer, Sam Lawson; judges, T. E. Lawson, John O'Rear, O. T. Thatch; clerks, Mrs. Nettie James, W. J. Clark; registrars, Mrs. Marie Byers, W. A. Ware; assistant registrar, W. M. Crawford.

Twelfth Ward, Fifth Precinct—Officer, Clarence T. Jones; judges, Fred Bitler, Mrs. E. B. Seay, M. F. Valentine; clerks, Mrs. B. A. Delzell, Mrs. M. F. Valentine; registrar, Mrs. Sam Parry; assistant registrar, Mrs. Clarence T. Jones.

Thirteenth Ward, First Precinct—Officer, Paul Carothers; judges, J. E. Foust, Dave Keith, Pat Dowd; clerks, Mabel Meadows, Marie Dowd; registrars, Mrs. Paul Carothers, W. M. Stoner; assistant registrar, Mrs. G. W. Myers.

Thirteenth Ward, Second Precinct—Officer, O. B. Pemberton; judges, J. M. Prince, W. B. Cummings, Mrs. Milta Mae Stoner; clerks, Frank W. Prince, Mrs. Anna B. Meier; registrars, E. K. Hollingsworth, Mrs. J. J. Anderson; assistant registrar, Mrs. D. F. Simpson.

Thirteenth Ward, Third Precinct—Officer, Larkin Brown; judges, J. E. McClain, Jess Gamblen, M. R. Woodall; clerks, Mrs. Chas. W. Clark, Mrs. H. H. Cook; registrars, Mrs. Maude Roberts, Mrs. G. R. Cochran; assistant registrar, Mrs. J. E. McClain.

Fourteenth Ward—Officer, M. L. Dillard; judges, W. A. Wilkerson, W. B. Jones, Judson Buchanana; clerks, Mrs. Harold Smartt, Mrs. L. V. Luckadoo; registrars, T. Rudd Lodor, Mrs. H. C. McCalla; assistant registrar, Mrs. F. W. Johnson.

Fifteenth Ward—Officer, Chester Gillespie; judges, Mrs. Chas. H. Weigel, Mrs. G. R. Fox, Boyd Dixon; clerks, Mrs. W. H. Norvell, Mrs. C. W. Duffy; egistrars, Mrs. J. Walter Gillespie, Mrs. Ralph Cameron; assistant registrar, Miss Bessie Jones.

Sixteenth Ward—Officer, S. E. Whitaker; judges, T. O. Selman, E. R. Betterton, John A. Patten, Jr.; clerks, Mrs. Tom Carothers, Mel Wight; registrars, Mrs. W. M. Richardson, Eleanor Wight; assistant registrar, Mrs. T. F. King, Jr.

Seventeenth Ward, First Precinct—Officer, John H. Allen; judges, John Wrinkle, Mrs. J. E. Bacon, H. W. Longley; clerks, Mrs. Sarah B. Sherrill, Mrs. J. W. Wheeler; registrars, Mrs. W. L. Gordon, Mrs. M. J. Askew; assistant registrar, Mrs. S. R. Roddy.

Seventeenth Ward, Second Precinct—Officer, H. W. Schoolfield; judges, David Knox, Ermie Walker, W. O. Mitchell; clerks, Mrs. E. A. Thrasher, Mrs. D. L. Kennedy; registrars, Mrs. Frank Dugger, Mrs. L. J. Martin; assistant registrar, Mrs. Fred Bennett.

Seventeenth Ward, Third Precinct—Officer, Joe L. Dobbs; judges, Cam Thompson, Robert Murphy, W. L. Wergen; clerks, H. R. Alge, Mrs. Gannaway; registrars, Mrs. C. G. Pullen, Mrs. W. L. Wergen; assistant registrar, Mrs. C. F. Alge.

Eighteenth Ward, First Precinct—Officer, Burnet Sizer; judges, Frank Netherly, W. B. D. Chambers, Horace Humphreys; clerks, Mrs. Dorothy Wescott, Mrs. Robert Humphreys; registrars, Dan Shirey, Mrs. O. L. Hayes; assistant registrar, Mrs. J. M. Byers.

Eighteenth Ward, Second Precinct—Officer, A. M. Rollins; judges, William Millsaps, O. H. Allgood, Fred Boryles; clerks, Mrs. D. L. Coffey, Wallen Ashburn; registrars, Mrs. Bert Elliott, Miss Grace Hester; assistant registrar, Atlee Hudson.

Nineteenth Ward, First Precinct—Officer, H. M. Camp; judges, C. F. Alread, G. W. Rowland, John McGraw; clerks, Mrs. J. V. Robinson, Mrs. N. G. Cowan; registrars, Mrs. E. C. McCormick, L. H. Delaney; assistant registrar, Mrs. Pat Cohen.

Nineteenth Ward, Second Precinct—Officer, Claude Cappley; judges, George W. Jackson, Joe Selby, Dave McKinney; clerks, Catherine Leonard, J. S. Searcy; registrars, Hulda Nite, Miss Becky Friedman; assistant registrar, Miss Estelle Brown.

SECOND DISTRICT

Amnicola—Officer, W. M. Delzell; judges, W. O. Bankston, Donald Shoemate, Bob Griffith; clerks, Mrs. Ida Desha, May Griffith; registrars, Mrs. W. M. Delzell, Mrs. Pauline Stowe; assistant registrar, Wilma Denham.

Bartlebaugh—Officer, J. T. Cooper; judges, Tom Shirley, W. C. Champion, V. M. Monger; clerks, Miss Avalyn Anderson, Miss Daisy Riddle; registrars, D. W. Lamon, Mrs. Mary Leaman; assistant registrar, Frank Conner.

Chickamauga—Officer, Benton White; judges, C. M. Netherlands, M. P. Cusick, A. C. McMillan; clerks, Mrs. W. D. Conner, Mrs. L. H. Quarles; registrars, Mrs. F. M. Cornelison, Mrs. Bessie Madison; assistant registrar, P. H. Fitzgerald.

Eastdale—Officer, S. M. Varnell; judges, Ben Heiskell, Mrs. Sarah Elrod, E. McElhaney; clerks, Mrs. A. T. Morgan, Mrs. W. A. Brown; registrars, Mrs. W. H. Kinslow, Sr., Mrs. F. A. Genung; assistant registrar, Mrs. J. W. Wilson.

East Ridge—Officer, Fred Spriggs; judges, T. C. McDonald, Wess Williams, Milo Merrill; clerks, Miss Mattie Lee, Mrs. Charles Miller; registrars, Charles Lerch, Mrs. Lon Harlow; assistant registrar, Mrs. N. P. Smith.

King's Point—Officer, J. M. Poe; judges, John Lightfoot, J. P. Webb, Bill Rogers; clerks, E. W. Wyatt, W. A. Roy; registrars, H. Moss, Mrs. G. Tallant; assistant registrar, George Gardenhire.

Tyner—Officer, R. E. Holbert; judges, W. R. Moore, Mrs. Lala Friar Smith, J. H. Johnston; clerks, Mrs. R. W. Browning, M. R. Gibson; registrars, Mrs. L. S. Roberson, Mrs. Cofer; assistant registrar, J. C. Torbet.

Worley—Officer, Samuel Julian; judges, W. T. Worley, T. S. Dudley, T. M. Walker; clerks, Mrs. C. C. Coffey, H. O. Joyner; registrars, John Davidson, Mrs. T. M. Walker; assistant registrar, Mrs. Lula Julian.

THIRD DISTRICT

Bakewell—Officer, Floyd Varner; judges, William Oyler, R. B. Gross, Elmer Gray; clerks, Mrs. Cleo Ziggler, Mrs. Arthur Smith; registrars, Charles Clift, Ida McGill; assistant registrar, Joe Hutcheson.

Daisy—Officer, John Cox; judges, Andy West; Charles Sparks, L. E. Tilly; clerks, Mrs. Mae Blacker, Mrs. George Hensley; registrars, D. R. Lovelady, Miss Maude Smith; assistant registrar, Mrs. Detta Lowder.

Fairmount—Officer, Tom C. Conner; judges, J. M. Vance, A. R. Hatfield, John A. Kell; clerks, Miss Emily Weatherford, Mrs. Earl Brown; registrars, Nettie H. Conner, W. W. Woodhead; assistant registrar, Mrs. J. H. Brown.

Falling Water—Officer, A. S. Moody; judges, R. E. Pitts, J. W. Smith, John Venance; clerks, John Pitts, Winnie Jackson; registrars, Mrs. C. L. Thatcher, Mrs. Will Gann; assistant registrar, Mrs. E. H. Barker.

Flat Top—Officer, Luther Young; judges, R. B. Hughes, Murphy Green, Oscar Young; clerks, J. F. Young, Mrs. Tom Bowman; registrars, Tom Bowman, Mrs. Lontella Young; assistant registrar, Miss Mary Young.

Gann's—Officer, E. W. Dent; judges, W. B. Hixson, M. J. Higgins, George Miller; clerks, Mrs. W. S. Hixson, Mrs. George Miller; registrars, Mrs. Alta Rogers, Mrs. George Raulston; assistant registrar, Mrs. T. H. Cox.

Gold Point—Officer, Sidney Allison; judges, J. H. Robertson, Z. T. Raulston, G. W. Varner; clerks, Mrs. Ida Bailey, Mrs. W. H. Raulston; registrars, Cowart Hixson, Ethel Penny; assistant registrar, Mrs. W. T. Keith.

Grandview—Officer, Mrs. Marion Perkins; judges, Charles Rolston, J. T. Whittenburg, Charles Minnis; clerks, Mrs. W. A. Banks, Mrs. J. B. Friedel; registrars, John Thomas, Mrs. S. E. Gunn; assistant registrar, Mrs. Nellie Rolston.

Hixson—Officer, J. N. Thomas; judges, B. Potts, Henry Lee, Perry Phipps; clerks, Walter Burkhart, Mrs. Gertrude Elliott; registrars, Annabelle H. Messick, Mrs. Jim Riddle; assistant registrar, Grace Rogers.

Jones Store—Officer, Bob Clift; judges, Charlie Jones, Hill Masterson, Alonzo Gann; clerks, John Igou, Jessie Bice; registrars, John Jones, Mrs. F. O. Gann; assistant registrar, W. R. Jones.

Lookout Mountain—Officer, H. L. Harbin; judges, J. B. Ragon, Sr., C. C. Brand, Gus A. Wood, Jr.; clerks, Marvin Massey, Mrs. Gus A. Wood, Jr.; registrars, Mrs. Hollis M. Caldwell, Mrs. J. H. Anderson; assistant registrar, Mrs. Lee Colbert.

Lupton City—Officer, L. M. Hise; Judges, J. J. Tolbert, T. E. Wilker, J. B. Angel; clerks, H. O. Sebastian, Walter Smith; registrars, Miss Parnett Higgins, L. H. Weatherford; assistant registrar, Miss Lena Burdette.

Midvale Park—Officer, J. C. Farris; judges, A. J. Oberhausen, A. Garris, Tom H. McPhail; clerks, Mrs. J. H. Hixson, Hobart Martin; registrars, Mrs. Mary Blevins, Mrs. D. B. Musgrove; assistant registrar, Mrs. Emma Lingenfelter.

Mowbray—Officer, Adam Millsaps; judges, L. H. Hatfield, J. O. Hatfield, Adam Millsaps; clerks, Melvin Hatfield, J. P. Grant; registrars, Ernest Smith, Mrs. Winifred R. Millsaps; assistant registrar, J. S. Johnson.

Red Bank—Officer, W. H. Burchart; judges, William Crerar, E. Crosby, R. C. Vandergriff; clerks, Mrs. H. D. Porter, L. C. Train; registrars, Mrs. C. V. Hunt, Mrs. S. Gilbert; assistant registrar, Mrs. C. Batey.

Sale Creek—Officer, C. W. Bryan; judges, S. G. Hutcheson, O. A. Rogon, Joe Rogers; clerks, Mrs. Florence Coulter, Mrs. Fred M. Burton; registrars, Mrs. Eliza Eldridge, Mattie Davis; assistant registrar, M. E. V. Hunt.

Signal Mountain—Officer, Sam Behm; judges, F. F. Hamilton, Tom Stanfield, Dave Walker; clerks, Mrs. C. B. Adams, Miss Davie Waller; registrars, Mrs. H. L. Buchanan, Mrs. John H. Early; assistant registrar, Mrs. Franklin Harris.

Soddy—Officer, C. D. McKee; judges, Lee Hale, George Dyke, Tom Hackney; clerks, Bill Eldridge, Fred Clift; registrars, Mrs. Henry Davenport, George Branham; assistant registrar, Mrs. Bob Armor.

Siveley's—Officer, D. W. Brown; judges, J. W. Outlaw, R. M. Sivley, Alvin Harris; clerks, Mrs. Minnie Standifer, Mrs. Frank Rogers; registrars, Roy E. Brown, Mrs. Sam Walker; assistant registrar, Mrs. Mollie Brown.

Wauhatchie—Officer, J. B. Collins; judges, Mrs. William Fryar, Tom Hall, Rufus Massey; clerks, Gladston Manning, Mrs. Robert Tinker; registrars, Mrs. Tom Dover, Mrs. Rufus Massey; assistant registrar, J. Arrant.

Woodland Station—Officer, W. Dyche; judges, A. J. Wilder, J. Hammond, T. L. Fine; clerks, Mrs. Katie Coulson, John Roberts; registrars, Mrs. J. C. Wilder, Will Hodson; assistant registrar, Mrs. Durham.

FOURTH DISTRICT

Apison—Officer, E. L. Murphy; judges, J. G. Johnson, Eli M. Chenutt, D. A. Goins; clerks, Mrs. Claude Knauff, Ada Longley; registrars, L. Poe, Jess Davis; assistant registrar, Mrs. Sam McGhee.

Birchwood—Officer, Charlie Moore; judges, Milton DeFriese, Joe H. Conner, N. W. Roark; clerks, Charles Conner, Bill Harris; registrars, John Jenkins, Mrs. W. R. Randolph; assistant registrar, John F. Hall.

Howardville—Officer, F. A. Tarsersley; judges, A. L. Howard, W. Critchfield, J. S. Marshall; clerks, Cynthia Hall, R. H. Bramlett; registrars, Ruth L. Tankersley, Gladys Marshall; assistant registrar, G. O. Tankersley.

Maddox—Officer, D. L. McCamish; judges, Ben Crox, R. T. Wilson, D. Brumby; clerks, Mrs. Bessie Cross, J. A. Ramsey; registrars, P. L. Rogers, Mrs. W. E. Lowe; assistant registrar, C. W. Evitt.

New Union—Officer, W. J. Gooner; judges, E. K. Brown, R. Stephenson, Ed Gamble; clerks, J. Shelby, Tom Smith; registrars, Mrs. Joe Goodner, Mrs. Luck Gross; assistant registrar, John Hall.

Ooltewah—Officer, J. H. Pope; judges, Oscar Acuff, Luther Sylvester, W. H. Robinson; clerks, Marie Robinson, Mrs. Plant; registrars, Mrs. Nettie Plant, Ralph Lovell; assistant registrar, Mrs. Floyd Knowlin.

Salem—Officer, J. W. Roark; judges, Berry Roark, J. W. B. Hixson, R. C. Dunnegan; clerks, S. Roark, Riley Dunnegan; registrars, Marce Smith, Mrs. W. H. Hixson; assistant registrar, T. J. Roark.

Snow Hill—Officer, H. H. Hughes; judges, W. H. Taliaferro, Tom Hooder, J. P. Padgett; clerks, Mae Hooder, Virgil Kerr; registrars, Myrtle Taliaferro, Claude Davis; assistant registrar, Henry Moore.

White Oak—Officer, J. J. Carson; judges, Thomas Ryall, J. McKenney, H. B. Knauff; clerks, Mrs. John R. Clyde Tallent; registrars, Mrs. H. Knauff, Mrs. J. P. Mosier; assistant registrar, Bob Knauff.

Work—Officer, J. W. Davis; judges, G. T. Friddell, A. G. Moon, D. Malone; clerks, Mrs. J. W. Davis, Jesse Pearson; registrars, T. Moon, Mrs. Laura Moore; assistant registrar, Miss Eva Thach.

This September 12, 1931.

PEABODY HOWARD,
GUY LANDIS,
TOM CRUTCHFIELD,
Commissioners of Election

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, SEPTEMBER 25, 1931 — Number 22

CHAMBER HEAD WARNS AGAINST TOO MUCH AID

Prevent Starvation, But No More, Says Strawn.

LARGE TAXPAYERS MUST BE PROTECTED

Government Action Deprecated as "Unwarranted Burden on Wealthy."

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The statement that the millions of unemployed should be given enough pauper relief to keep them from absolute starvation and nothing more, a defense of the owners and managers of industry for their failure to do anything tangible to remedy unemployment, an attack on the American system of representative government, and a brief for the rich in their concentration of the most of our national wealth in their own hands and inferentially of the methods by which they have brought about the wealth concentration, were the outstanding features of a nation-wide radio address by Silas Strawn, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

On the question of the jobless millions, who are unemployed because the business men who control and manage our industrial life have demonstrated themselves wholly incapacitated for the task, Mr. Strawn took the usual attitude of reactionary employers that keeping the 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 out-of-works just above the starvation point is all the jobless should expect and all society should be asked to do.

To insist, as labor does, that the owners and managers of industry, who possess the right to employ workers, should adjust working time so as to put all the jobless to work, and thus enable them to provide a living for themselves and their families above the starvation line, was of course not within the range of Mr. Strawn's philosophy, and government action to provide either work or relief for the unemployed was deprecated as an unwarranted burden on the taxpayers.

"We of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States realize full well the serious problem of unemployment," he said. "We American citizens cannot permit the unfortunate to starve in a land of plenty.

"On the other hand, we must not, by the exercise of our usual liberality, encourage vast numbers of the unemployed in the belief that we are about to establish a system of doles, either private or governmental.

"I am in favor of doing everything possible, but we must not be wasteful."

The business establishments of the United States were controlled and administered by the business men when the depression first showed its head in 1929 and have been controlled and administered by the business men right down to the depression present.

During this period, the wage-earners have suffered billions of dollars in decreased earnings decreed by business men. From 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 workers whom business men have discharged are dependent on pauper relief for themselves and their families. Hundreds of thousands of farmers are unable to meet interest payments on farm mortgages. Hundreds of thousands of depositors have lost their savings in closed banks.

Despite these facts, and representing those who own and administer industry, Mr. Strawn declared that "the business men of this country are more capable of dealing with existing conditions intelligently, wisely and courageously than are the politicians who exercise governmental functions."

By the phrase "the politicians who exercise governmental functions," Mr. Strawn evidently meant the congress of the United States, composed of representatives and senators directly elected by the citizens. Nevertheless, when business men see opportunities for added profits in shipping subsidies or aviation subsidies or a tariff to benefit manufacturers, Mr. Strawn and his associates take a limited special trip to Washington and demand help from the same "politicians" whose ability and will to assist in remedying existing conditions "intelligently, wisely and courageously" he attacked.

He denied the accuracy of statistics which show that 4 per cent of the population owns 80 per cent of the wealth and supported his denial by a lot of figures on the number of automobiles owned, telephones used and labor-saving devices in operation. These figures were formerly worked off in a radio address by Myrle Thorpe, editor of the "Nation's Business," the official journal of the chamber of commerce, of which Mr. Strawn is the president.

In conclusion, Mr. Strawn found nothing wrong in the present concentration of wealth, and characterized as "bolshevistic propaganda talk about a few rich owning the country or failing to do their duties as citizens." He emphatically opposed all efforts to impose additional taxation upon the wealthy.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL OF AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

Top row, reading from left to right—First Vice-President Frank Duffy, Carpenters; Secretary Frank Morrison, Printers; President William Green, United Mine Workers; Treasurer Martin F. Ryan, Railway Carmen; Second Vice-President Thomas A. Rickert, United Garment Workers.

Bottom row, reading from left to right—Third Vice-President Matthew Woll, Stereotypers; Fourth Vice-President James Wilson, Patternmakers; Fifth Vice-President John Coefield, Plumbers and Steamfitters; Sixth Vice-President Arthur O. Wharton, Machinists; Seventh Vice-President Joseph N. Weber, Musicians; Eighth Vice-President G. M. Bugniazet, Electrical Workers.

BROWN 'CUTS UP' IN HOME TOWN

Ancient Pipe-Fixer Gets Editorial Mention in Columbus Enquirer-Sun.

BIG FROG

"HANDSOME HAL"

H. F. Brown, local pipe-fixer known to scores of friends as "Handsome Hal," is given honorable mention in a recent issue of the Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer-Sun, which quotes the venerable Chattanoogan at quite some length, everything considered.

One of Mr. Brown's fellow-craftsmen explains it this way: He declares Brown recently visited Columbus, his old home town, and loudly proclaimed that since coming to Chattanooga he has grown and prospered even as the bay tree, and in fact has become one of Chattanooga's most prominent and leading citizens. The editor of the Sun, obviously a gullible chap, quotes the yokel (that drunken printer again; the word was written "local") as follows:

Here is the red tag that the Chattanooga police place on visiting cars: "Welcome, Visitor! Chattanooga extends to you the glad hand and hopes you will return early and often. This card entitles you to park your car as long as you please in Chattanooga. Never mind the time limit. (But please be reasonable.) Please do not park in safety zone or near fire hydrant."

* * *

Hal F. Brown, former Columbus citizen, now a resident of Chattanooga, sends in the above card. It makes a most agreeable impression on tourists. In this connection Mr. Brown writes: "It seems that every time I come to Columbus I see where you are overlooking a good bet. I know the old town is doing as well as could be expected, if not better, but while on my recent visit I saw only one car of tourists on

(Continued on Last Page)

BIG BUSINESS REVELS IN CARNIVAL OF EVER-MOUNTING PROFIT WHILE JOBLESS BEG FOR RIGHT TO WORK

Earnings of Industry Little Hurt by Depression—Burden of Carrying Losses of Hard Times Loaded Onto Labor and Small Business Men—Representative Corporations Show Big Increases in Financial Returns.

(Mr. Wright's article is given added significance by the announcement that several great corporations, headed by Steel, have decided to cut wages generally. Big Business, like the proverbial drunken sailor, continues to hold high carnival over the remains of its victims, reveling in ever-increasing profits and ever and anon adding another punch to the worker and his family while its paid propagandists fill the daily newspapers with sophistry and shed crocodile tears over the future of the dear workingman.—Ed.)

By CHESTER M. WRIGHT

Washington, Sept. 24.—This is a poor man's depression. It has clamped down on working people and little businesses.

Big business, in the main, knows no depression and in a large measure is placing itself in position to reap enormous gains when the turn comes.

Profits go on, as usual, in a large section of the big business world.

Since Jan. 1, this year, there have been more than 1,000 bank failures, but the failed banks are not big fellows of Wall Street. They are mostly in the hardest hit industrial regions, though the total of 1,098 failures up to Sept. 15 carried deposit liabilities of $764,000,954. Mostly poor people are the victims, typified to some extent by a report coming from Chicago involving three American Legion members who deposited their bonus money in a bank which failed the following day.

Corporate Profits Grow.

But corporate earnings have continued to show prosperity for a great section of the big business world, regardless of the state of unemployment for wage earners.

Corporate earnings figures are just available. A list of 260 representative corporations, compiled by houses specializing in the field of checking industrial earnings, shows an average gain for that list of 28.7 per cent over 1930, the figures being for the second quarter of each year. Here are 260 representative corporations that increased their earnings, making bigger profits than before.

Furthermore, it is shown that a list of twice as many industrials which do not report quarterly, but report semi-annually, record gains as great.

Big Business Little Affected.

How little big business as a whole has felt the depression is shown by the statements of a list of 923 corporations having aggregate earnings of $1,029,998,912 for the first half of this year. The same corporations had aggregate earnings of $1,625,890,327 for the same period last year, lopping off some 585 millions, but leaving the billion and more intact. This group of 923 includes 126 industrials, 103 telephone companies, 90 other utilities and 33 finance companies other than banks.

Railroads were hardest hit. Industrials gained or made small losses. Utilities gained or held their own. Telephone companies made profits. Textiles lopped about a million dollars off its aggregate deficit.

Bond Holders Lose Heavily.

Aside from railroads the blow of depression has fallen hard on speculative endeavor. Bond holders have taken and will take enormous losses. Much of this loss falls on wage-earners who have been able to buy a $100 or $200 bond. The bonds now in default total $1,500,000,000, a figure too big for most persons to comprehend in terms of dollars. Not long ago a secret meeting of bankers was held at the White House in an effort to devise some method of protection for at least some of the holders of these bonds. Enormous amounts of these bonds are held by banks. Many of the defaulted bonds, if not most of them, are real estate mortgage bonds, widely distributed. But other bonds have suffered decreased prices, the fall going to a point where it is felt banks must not be required to write off the entire loss, but may "write down" 25 per cent so that published statements will not look worse than necessary, even though many bonds have dropped to a point where their selling price is next to nothing and their potential value very little.

Little Fellows Worst Hit.

Losses that have fallen on big business are so minor in relation to volume and to income that from every angle of examination the depression reveals itself as a depression loaded onto the wage-earners and the small business men, though not all lines of small business are suffering. Many are holding their own with last year, or so nearly holding their own that the question is one of slightly reduced profits, but not of suffering.

With great masses of wage-earners the question is one of total loss of income and for millions of others a reduction of small incomes. For business and finance in the higher brackets it is one of positive gains in a great section of the field and of reduced profits in others, leaving profits in other sections, leaving the actual losses to railroads and to speculative lines, to state the situation in general terms, with the admission that there are generous exceptions in all directions. The exceptions that must be made, however, do not challenge or change the fact that the overwhelming, crushing weight of the depression of today falls upon the poor, while out of the most of the small end of this funnel of misery there trickles an ever-growing number into camps and "jungles" of unemployed whose last connection with the accustomed method and standard of living has gone after months of unemployment.

PROFITS!

Representative companies showing higher profits for the first half of this year than for the corresponding period of 1930

	Earned Per Share 1st Half 1931	1st Half 1930
Bohn Aluminum	$2.62	$1.95
Colgate-Palmolive-Peet	1.74	1.57
Endicott Johnson	2.51	2.12
Hershey Chocolate	8.04	6.85
Monsanto Chemical	1.56	1.52
J. C. Penney	1.46	1.44
Perfect Circle	3.04	2.26
Standard Brands	.63	.57
Trico Products	3.08	3.05
Waldorf System	1.28	1.24
Sears, Roebuck	1.31	1.24
Safeway Stores	2.61	2.15
Kroger Grocery	1.25	.12
Drug, Inc.	3.04	3.01
Warren Foundry and Pipe	1.05	.68
Adams Millis	2.49	2.15
Auburn Auto	12.09	4.79
Bigelow Sanford	1.91	1.41
Consolidated Cigar	2.65	2.49
Devoe & Raynolds	.57	.32
Household Finance	3.01	2.56

Representative companies showing higher profits for the second quarter of the year than in the first quarter

	Earned Per Share 2d Quarter	1st Quarter
Air Reduction	$1.28	$1.21
Allis-Chalmers	.40	.33
American Chicle	1.28	.97
Atlas Powder	.40	.04
Beechnut	1.43	1.20
Borg-Warner	.57	.21
Canada Dry	1.30	.91
American Rolling Mill	.07	Deficit
Childs Company	.90	.31
Chrysler	.78	Deficit
Commercial Solvents	.25	.21
Corn Products	1.05	.78
duPont	1.22	1.01
General Amer. Tank Car	1.56	1.48
General Cigar	.81	.76
General Motors	1.22	.61
General Railway Signal	1.63	.47
Inland Steel	.64	.53
Johns Manville	.78	.12
Kimberly Clark	1.01	.97
Loose Wiles	.88	.32
Mack Truck	.16	Deficit
Mathieson Alkali	.51	.39
National Cash Register	.75	Deficit
Studebaker	.58	.36
United Biscuit	.95	.73
United Fruit	1.24	1.06
Westinghouse Electric	.33	Deficit
Western Union	2.93	1.22

UNEMPLOYMENT CAN BE CURED

O'Connor Says Capital-Labor Conferences Will Find Remedy.

RE-ELECTED

HENRY P. HANSON

Capital and labor hold jointly the key to a solving of our present economic crisis, yet a deaf ear is turned by industry to appeals for co-operation by President William Green and others, in seeking conferences to devise ways and means to end the depression.

Such was the claim of John T. O'Connor, who if precedent is followed will be the next mayor of Knoxville, having received the highest vote in the recent councilmanic election.

"Seven million persons are pounding the sidewalks, vainly seeking employment," said the former state labor official, "and something must be done. Our banks have millions of surplus money. Crops were never better, and our granaries are bursting with grain. There is plenty of everything, yet stark poverty stalks abroad. Representatives of labor and capital could find a remedy for this situation, but President Green's appeals for conferences go unheeded."

Mr. O'Connor's address featured a banquet closing a two-days meeting of the Tennessee-Kentucky Typographical conference, which met in Knoxville Saturday and Sunday. The affair was staged at Gatlinburg, Sunday night, following a trip through the Great Smoky Mountains National park, a courtesy to the delegates by the Knoxville union.

Mayor James A. Trent presided, and introduced several prominent speakers, including representatives of the Knoxville newspapers.

The conference discussed unemployment and other economic ills and reviewed proposed relief measures, particularly as such concerned members of the Typographical union.

The Tennessee-Kentucky conference was organized eleven years ago, and the same president and secretary have served since its formation. Henry P. Hanson, Memphis, president, was re-elected Sunday, as was Raymond Redd, secretary, Lexington, Ky.

Next year's meeting will be held at Louisville, Ky.

It costs no more in effort or money to secure UNION GOODS and SERVICE, if you demand and insist on them.

LIGHT BREAKS THROUGH GLOOM OF DEPRESSION

Slight Signs of Improvement Are Reported.

SEASONAL GAINS IN SEVERAL LINES

Business Week and A. F. of L. Survey Find Some Cause for Optimism.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Some rays of light have begun to pierce the business gloom, but it is too early yet to say whether they are really significant.

The Business Week reports that slight but belated signs of the expected autumn acceleration of business activity appeared the week before Labor Day. Railroad movements of merchandise freight at last turned upward after a depressing period of persistent decline and building contracts also improved from the disappointing August level, the Business Week reports, with the result that its weekly index of business, after touching new lows in the middle of August, rallied a little.

Reports received by International Labor News Serfvice indicate a quickening of industry in New England, with shoes, hats and textiles leading in the revival. Shoes and hats are especially active. Some New England shoe factories have orders to keep the plants busy for three months with a full force of operatives. Hat factories in Danbury, Conn., are reported working overtime. Textile plants are doing more business and taking on workers.

Cotton and Wool Gain.

The cotton cloth manufacturing industry shows increased activity in August by comparison with July in reports collected by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York. Gains were recorded in new orders, shipments and production.

The wool branch of the textile industry is steadily developing a sharp advance from the low point to which it plunged in 1930 as a result of the depression. Woolen manufacturing plants in some sections are approaching 24-hour activity. Consumption of raw material by mills for the first seven months of 1931 has broken all previous records except those of 1929 and 1927, according to data received by the U. S. census bureau.

"Fundamentally reassuring are the relative stability of commodity prices in the face of burdensome surpluses, and the progressive weakening of the successive waves of reaction to unfavorable news in the security market, while the forces of deflation wear themselves out," the Business Week says.

Europe the Bogeyman.

Both the Business Week and the American Federation of Labor monthly survey of business agree that while the immediate emergencies of the European situation have been taken care of, with the financial aid given Germany and Great Britain, Europe is still the big factor in the business situation.

Business men and financiers are apprehensive as to what may happen when the debt holiday ends next June, the A. F. of L. survey says, adding that this destroys the basis of confidence necessary for business recovery. "International financiers realize the need of revising war debts and reparations, but are not yet ready to move," the survey says.

The labor survey says that the foreign crises have delayed recovery here and remarks:

"Business at home is under the shadow of catastrophe abroad. The September upturn has been delayed and forecasters now believe that revival will not begin this fall. . . . Business declined further last month, so that August was probably the lowest point of the depression."

Hoarding Delays Recovery.

One cause of the continued depression, the labor survey points out, is that beside the decline in workers' income, thousands are hoarding their earnings for fear of unemployment. "Hoardings of workers and others are estimated at from $800,000,000 to $1,000,000,000," the survey says. "If the 20,000,000 wage-earners who will probably be employed from November through March were sure of their jobs from October on, we estimate that at least $300,000,000 could be released for purchases, and workers could undertake instalment purchases amounting to about $700,000,000 more, making a total increase in buying of $1,000,000,000. This is one way to build confidence, the crying need of business recovery."

ASKS ARMS CUT.

The Woman's Trade Union League of New York has begun a campaign to get the signatures of at least 10,000 women on a petition for the "bold reduction of every variety of armament," which is to be presented to the international disarmament conference at Geneva next February. Mrs. Maude Swartz, vice-president of the league and secretary of the New York department of labor, is in charge of the campaign.

THE LABOR WORLD
410 W. Eighth St. Phone 6-7562
Published Every Friday by
THE LABOR WORLD PUBLISHING COMPANY
Owned and Controlled by
Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council
R. M. COOKE.....Editor
NEIL J. CROWLEY.....Manager
Entered as Second-Class Matter April 29, 1916, at the Postoffice at Chattanooga, Tenn., under the Act of March 3, 1879. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 19, 1921.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1931.

Ho, Hum!

Written for The Labor World
By GEORGE F. SAMUELS

Instead of shortening the working day (the obvious thing to do) we go on giving all the leisure to an increased and increasing number of parasitic people.—George Bernard Shaw.

If everybody works for a committee, that is "communism." If they work for a board of directors, that's "capitalism."

[illegible] that you spend it on [illegible] own living.—Sir John Simon.

An Oklahoma farmer stole one chicken and was sent to prison for three years. If he had stolen 1,000,000 [illegible] have had a better [illegible] not gone to prison.—Sam D. [illegible] nion.

The railroads have refused to join with the bus drivers. About the only place they seem to get together is at the passenger station.

American [illegible] more time-saving [illegible] and less time than any people in the world.—Thomas A. Edison, Inventor.

A good many men would give up [illegible] if they had to work as hard to get [illegible] as they do to get [illegible].—Wanda Hale.

Germany Protects Idle From Food Profiteers

Berlin, Germany. [illegible] pressure to curb profiteers and force down prices of food and commodities at their source and at distributing points for the protection of the jobless was announced by the ministry of agriculture as an essential part of the government's program for unemployment relief this winter.

The Prussian government has decided to reduce the teaching staffs of secondary schools. In Berlin alone 500 assistant and part-time teachers will be dismissed, and the number throughout Prussia will reach 2,500.

This method of government retrenchment is emphatically opposed in public circles.

PATERSON SILK STRIKERS WIN 52 WAGE AGREEMENTS

Paterson, N. J. [illegible] are 6,788 silk workers [illegible] under the banner of the [illegible] Silk Workers and the United Textile Workers, declares the latest report issued by the American Federation of Labor unions. The report states that [illegible] workers [illegible] the [illegible] unions have [illegible] under union agreements [illegible].

[illegible] employers refused the employees [illegible] to deprive the workers of their right to picket, distribute [illegible] and similar strike activities.

Judge J. W. Freeman in the criminal [illegible] acquitted 14 workers [illegible] "loitering" at the Henry Doherty Silk mill. Charges were also dismissed in the [illegible] against seven other strikers for [illegible] handbills.

It's so awfully simple to demand UNION GOODS and SERVICE but it is simply awful how [illegible] ists do not do this important thing.

At The Change
A Critical Time In Every Woman's Life.
"During a critical time in my life I took Cardui for several months. I had hot flashes. I would suddenly get dizzy and seem blind. I would get faint and have no strength.
My nerves were on edge. I would not sleep at night.
"Cardui did wonders for me. I recommend it to all women who are passing through the critical period of change. I have found it a fine medicine."—Mrs. Hettie Murphy, Poplar Bluff, Mo.
Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine and contains no dangerous drugs.
E-176
CARDUI
Helps Women to Health
Take Thedford's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, and Biliousness.

Letting the Rich Escape

Unemployment will not be met by employment, during this coming winter. Unemployment will have to be met, therefore, by relief.

And unemployment relief is a question of money. Where is the money to come from? That, for months, has been the problem.

Mr. Walter Gifford has been appointed for the purpose of seeing to it that this question is kept on the basis of local action. This means: not state resources, but city and town resources. The assumption is that Mr. Gifford is one of the class that has the money. And that he will be able to see that the money is forthcoming. The fact is, that Mr. Gifford's class has hitherto very successfully sidestepped such burdens and responsibilities. That is the reason why they have the money, now. Can a leopard change its spots? Rather, did you ever hear of a leopard that wanted to change its spots? That breed of leopard is rather proud of its "spots."

* * * *

Why this insistence, that unemployment relief must be local? Be assured, it is not because of the superior quality of such relief. Local administration of relief is, of course, efficient. But local sources of relief funds have proven to be hamstrung before they get started.

The present federal administration—Mr. Mellon, Mr. Hoover et al.—are committed to a politico-economic program of as little taxation as may be. This with an eye—two eyes—on the coming national election. To secure the money, from the places where the money is definitely known to be, means very simply: income taxation in the higher brackets. Mr. Gifford lives in the higher brackets. If the money comes at all—if there is adequate relief—and does not come from these high brackets, it will come from the lower brackets. Largely, it has been coming from below the place where the brackets are. There have been some notable exceptions: Count them!

* * * *

Now, it so happens that most of the votes in this coming national election are going to come from the place below the brackets. The managers of this unemployment relief fund, on the other hand, know that their campaign funds must come from the brackets—way up. They are planning to use the money in the campaign fund—from the brackets—to hypnotize the voters—down below the brackets, into forgetting about the "local relief" for the unemployment—that is not going to "relieve."

It is rather difficult to fool the fellows up in the brackets. But it has usually been possible to fool the fellows below the brackets. And anyhow, somehow, after all, it is rather expected that by the time we get around to November, 1932, there will not be so much unemployment, and the administration—Mr. Mellon, Mr. Hoover et al.—will be able to "point with pride" to the unemployment that was—formerly.

* * * *

It may be, however, that organized labor will have an organized memory of what took place in the winter of 1931-1932. In either case—in any case—both of the old parties will have had their campaign contributions from the upper brackets. Otherwise, there will be no campaign worth talking about. Unemployment will be off the front page by that time. At least, we all hope so.

* * * *

We all seem to be in better health, anyway, on account of our dieting. That is what the public health service told Mr. Hoover. And nothing is going to be done that will jeopardize the public health.

* * * *

Labor puts the blame for unemployment upon industry and those who have looted industry through low wages and huge profits drained off either through superimposed financial structures or some other fancy device of which there are many. But unemployment relief is being dragged into politics, not by one party, but by both. Those who make of this issue a political football are likely to suffer from the rebound, if there is an organized memory.

The relief program is being filled with ballyhoo and hokum. "Local" relief is going to let out the higher brackets in more ways than one. Wall Street and LaSalle Street can be asked to help relief work in New York and Chicago, but not in any other place, though the responsibility of these two great financial marts may reach to the ends of the earth—and does.

THESE ARE GREAT DAYS TO KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN!

OUR AMERICAN TRAGEDY.

The tragedy of the part-time worker who has a family to support is poignantly revealed by C. J. Freund, a social worker, in an article in the Commonweal describing distressing economic conditions in Milwaukee.

According to Mr. Freund, the Family Welfare Association of Milwaukee [illegible] as the minimum [illegible] monthly budget required for the support of a family of five, [illegible] parents and three children of [illegible] age. Here is the budget; Food, [illegible] clothing, $18.90; rent, $25; [illegible] 70; light and water, $1.75; [illegible] supplies, $5; household [illegible], $10; insurance, $2; car [illegible], $4.

Mr. Freund points out that this "is [illegible] a relief budget, and does not [illegible] medical and dental attention, [illegible] expenses, activities, recreation, and other items required for a [illegible] American life."

It is apparent that on this basis a worker who earns 50 cents an hour and works full time, eight hours a day for the six day week, with earnings of about $100 a month, is compelled by even a small reduction in his working time to give his family a living below the charity standard established by the welfare association.

Nor is the common laborer the only one whose family standards are destroyed by part-time employment. The skilled mechanic with his 80 and 90 cents per hour and up is also compelled to lower the living standard for his family. Mr. Freund tells the tabloid story of one skilled worker hit by part time:

> Recently I investigated the case of a family whose monthly requirements for the bare necessities of existence were $97.50. The father's earnings had averaged $39 per month for three months. His wage rate had not been reduced. He was merely working on a short schedule of hours because of the depression. And any social worker will testify that this is by no means an unusual case.

Mr. Freund also punctures the favorite sophism of certain owners and managers of industry and their economists who claim that dividend reductions and 10 or 15 per cent decreases in pay for high-salaried executives are the equivalent of part-time work and wage cuts for workers:

> "I don't know why you make such a fuss about the men," a manufacturer complained a few days ago. "They are making 65 per cent of their best earnings, and my income is less than 38 per cent of what it used to be. They are better off than I am."
>
> This is a familiar and fallacious line of reasoning. When the manufacturer's income is reduced it means that he cannot afford a contemplated trip abroad or to Bermuda or Alaska, or that he cannot make an investment or buy a new car or build a country home, or he may even have to give up some of his club memberships, but there is enough to eat and to wear for himself and his wife, and for his children, if he has any.
>
> But as soon as the workingman's pay is reduced, he and his family must get along with less meat, vegetables, butter, milk and bread.

An economic system which produces 5,000,000 or more workers totally unemployed and compelled to support their families entirely on pauper standards devised by charity organizations, and which develops another 5,000,000 workers placed on part time with the consequent reduction in living standards, cannot expect to receive for long the social sanction of the American people.

LABOR QUERIES

Q.—When did the American Federation of Labor first declare against the sales tax?

A.—In 1921, when the convention held that year vigorously denounced sales tax proposals and declared opposition to any tax on consumption. President William Green, of the federation, has just announced that organized labor will use all its influence to prevent the enactment of sales tax legislation.

* * *

Q.—How long has Frank Morrison been secretary of the American Federation of Labor?

A.—Since January, 1897.

One good turn deserves another. Your demand for the union label or union service will usually cause the other fellow to do the same for you.

The Passing Show

Note and Comment on Things Doing in the March of Events

Editorial writers point out that Labor Day addresses show that the people are thinking about unemployment, its causes and its remedies.

It is also pointed out that Labor Day speakers emphasized the need to prevent such depressions as we are now experiencing. The feeling seems to be growing stronger every month that this depression was unnecessary and its repetition must be prevented at all costs. This marks progress.

Also, Labor Day speakers from the ranks or organized labor and some others struck a new note of militancy. It was asserted that the workers have been patient long enough and that the time has come for them to demand the putting into effect of the sound and constructive American Federation of Labor program for the prevention of depressions. John P. Frey was one of those who strongly stressed this view.

* * *

Taking a crack at Henry Ford for his ukase that workers at one of the Ford plants must have gardens or lose their jobs, the Magazine of Wall Street remarks, "We do not look for any loud outburst of applause of this idea from the farmers," and adds:

"Industrialism has given us an abundance that was undreamed of two hundred years ago. We still have to work out a method of dividing up the pie. In former times the problem was to have a pie to divide."

The Magazine of Wall Street puts its finger on the problem. The pie is not being divided equitably. A few are getting too much, while the great mass is getting too little. This condition caused the depression, a fact which is slowly but surely sinking into the minds of the people.

* * *

The federal trade commission has succeeded in obtaining agreement of Utah's soft coal operators to abandon false advertising, defamation of competitors, bribery of competitors' employes to obtain information on competitors' business, and bribery of common carriers' employes to induce business.

It is quite evident the Utah coal operators have been guilty of all sorts of chicanery and cheating. Operators in other states probably haven't been any better. The kind of tactics which the Utah operators have now promised to stop undoubtedly have had something to do with the plight of the soft coal industry. And yet some of the coal operators profess not to know what the trouble is or what can be done to remedy it!

The Social Ideals of Jesus of Nazareth

An Interpretation

Written for The Labor World
By WILLIAM L. MOSS

It is my purpose before undertaking an extended discussion of the actual social ideals and teaching of Jesus to present readers of these articles with a connected study of the real Person of the Master which will throw light on the environment in which He grew up, trusting that the information thus gained will help my fellowmen understand Him better and lead them to make an effort to discipline their lives according to His precepts.

WM. L. MOSS

In two of the preceding articles we learned Jesus came from a family neither rich nor poor. Now we shall dismiss consideration of His home surroundings and give our attention to His Person. The garments He wore were not of the conspicuous sort; He did not affect in His clothes any of the badges of social distinction, that is, He did not wear the long, flowing robes embroidered with purple. These embroidered robes were worn only by those with means above what the average person possessed. Nor did He wear the coarse camel's hair garments of the extremely poor, which also was the clothing of religious fanatics. He wore a white robe-like outer garment (Mt. 9:20) around the lower edge of which was only the customary border (Lk 8:44) prescribed by both Palestinian custom and Jewish law for males, while underneath this top garment Jesus wore a seamless tunic (Jn. 19:23), the modesty and simplicity of His clothes suggesting a home endowed with only the material necessities of life and no more, a home conducted along the prevailing standards of everyday, self-respecting folk of that time.

The attire of Jesus might seem mean and unpretentious when we compare it to the rich dress of the Scribes and Pharisees, the great merchantmen and land-owners of His day if we did not remember in those days it was as true as it is today that the quality of a man's clothes do not indicate the quality of his mind.

Jesus' raiment clearly reflected the home of His infancy, youth and early manhood. For thirty years (Lk. 3:23) this home and the industrious man and modest woman at its head exercised a wholesome influence over Him. From its simple but respected threshold He went forth to do the Father's bidding trained as any other normal, well-trained Jewish youth of His day was trained. Then through a strenuous ministry culminating in the vicarious event on the Tree of Life atop Golgotha He continued to unconsciously show the effects of that wonderful but simple home training.

Next Week: Chapter II, The Thought Trend of Jesus' Mind.

Jobs and Men

A Series of Contributed Editorials Discussing Industrial Conditions.

ONE of the earliest lessons learned by the labor unionists was that their organizations, no matter how imperfectly they were then organized, must be inclusive and all-embracing. Inclusive, in that they could not offer protection to or fight the battles of members of the same craft who were not members of a union, and all-embracing to the extent that unionists demanded that all who worked beside them must either belong to their union or else they or the non-union worker must get off the job and stay off. Rapidly therefore it became the fashion of unionists to apply such epithets as "scab," "rat" and "fink" to those who did not belong to any labor organization and yet who persisted in attempting to work at a trade in which there were organized craftsmen or who displaced organized workers following a strike or other break in the relations between the organized workers and their employers.

As the strike fever began its spread during the 1830's places of employment under ban by the unionists because of a strike or other cause began to be systematically picketed. Sharp warnings were issued either in the form of posters, mailed letters, passed on by word of mouth or, as was generally the case, broadcast in the form of handbills. The following is a typical example of such a warning:

"We would caution all strangers and others who profess the art of horseshoeing that if they go to work for ——— under the above prices they must abide by the consequences."

The "consequences" were of a most salutary nature, being of two kinds generally: a fine imposed on union workers who violated the warning, and if the strikebreakers were not members of a union, a broken head or other bodily injury.

At this period (the 1830's) the boycott was being effectively used against prison labor. We think campaigns against prison labor goods something that has originated within the last few years, but this is a mistake. As early as 1834 to 1837 the New York stonecutters agreed they would not "either collectively or individually purchase any goods manufactured" by convicts nor would they "countenance" merchants who handled such articles of merchandise.

CELEBRATES 68TH BIRTHDAY.

"Uncle Arthur" Henderson, a former Methodist lay preacher who became foreign minister and replaced Ramsay MacDonald as leader of the British labor party, celebrated his 68th birthday on Sept. 13.

He is a native of Glasgow and was once apprenticed as a molder at Newcastle. He has been a labor member of parliament longer than any one else, having been elected first for Bernard Castle, Durham, in 1903. His first cabinet post was as a minister without portfolio during the war.

NIGHT SCHOOL
"The People's University"
Opens for Instruction on Monday Night, Sept. 28
...at the...
VOCATIONAL SCHOOL
Corner of Fourth and Chestnut
Courses offered:
Fundamentals — Home Making
High School — Commercial
and Technical Subjects
Building open for conference and enrollment on September 21, 22, 24, 25 from 6 to 9 p.m. No class will be organized until twelve to fifteen people enroll.
Be sure to enroll in advance
For other information call 6-3321
Classes for colored at Howard

Delinquent City Taxes
On October 1st unpaid taxes pass into hands of delinquent collector.
Avoid this extra cost by paying now.
F. K. ROSAMOND,
Tax Collector.

OUR PLATFORM

1. We stand for the best interest of the working people.
2. We are emphatically opposed to violence and intimidation at all times.
3. We are opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their methods.
4. We are opposed to Socialism as impractical and Bolshevism as un-American, and not being in accord with the policy of the American Federation of Labor.
5. We believe in the settlement of labor disputes by peaceable and conciliatory methods.
6. We believe in the mutuality of interest of all persons in industry and are opposed to those destructive forces that would decrease production at the expense of labor.
7. We believe that permanent prosperity for the wage-earner will be secured only when workers become home owners and we pledge our support to every sound movement to attain this end.
8. We believe in a wage system based on the skill and energy of the workman, insuring the advancement of the competent and stimulating the less skillful to greater efforts. We include in this a minimum scale for workmen.
9. We favor strict sanitary conditions and the adoption of modern methods for checking contagious disease, and for the protection of the lives of working people.
10. We favor the safeguarding of the lives of workmen in mills, mines and factories, and laws that will require such safety devices as may be necessary to bring this about and enforce fair conditions of employment for labor.

"PUT YOUR LIFE IN BISHOP'S HANDS"
Volunteer State Life Insurance Company
J. W. Bishop, Mgr. Home Office Agcy
ASSOCIATES
A. E. WALLACE — W. E. WEBER
H. A. PARR — C. W. BRADLEY
R. R. FLURER — J. J. HARRISON
R. W. RAWLINGS — RAY SEAGLE
R. L. WALTERS — H. M. JUDD
R. L. BROOKING — J. M. JARVIS
H. S. WITT
MISS MAGGIE LYNN PEEPLES
H. W. RAY, WINCHESTER, TENN.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45918
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Otey E. Enbright vs. Omer B. Enbright

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Omer B. Enbright is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 15th day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. S. Myers, Atty. 10-9

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45898
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Nancy G. Thaxton vs. George T. Thaxton

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that George T. Thaxton is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 15th day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Jno. Hallberg, Atty. 10-9

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45908
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Myrtle Irwin vs. Jake Irwin

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Jake Irwin is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 15th day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Miller & Weatherford, Attys. 10-9

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45880
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Grace Trantham vs. Harrison Trantham

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Harrison Trantham is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 8th day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Thach & Thach, Attys. 10-2

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45862
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Eva Thomas vs. Niven E. Thomas

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Niven E. Thomas is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 3rd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Chadwick, Frazier & Roberts, Attys. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45861
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Nellie Burkhart Taylor vs. Charles C. Taylor

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill which is sworn to, that Charles C. Taylor is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 3rd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Sam A. Barkman, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45851
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Theresa Reading vs. L. C. Reading

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that L. C. Reading is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 2nd day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Conrad Butler, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 24888
State of Tennessee, Chancery Court of Hamilton County

W. F. Long vs. Emma Long

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Emma Long is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon her, it is ordered that publication be made for four successive weeks in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying defendant to appear at the next October rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in October next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to her.
This 3rd day of September, 1931.
SAM ERWIN, C. & M.
By E. C. BRIDGERS, D. C. M.
R. Seymour, Atty. 9-25

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45937
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Gracie Hartman vs. John Hartman

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that John Hartman is a non-resident of the State of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 18th day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
Thos. T. Thrasher, Atty. 10-16

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE
No. 45939
State of Tennessee, Circuit Court of Hamilton County

Jackie Guider vs. Robert Guider

It appearing from allegations in complainant's bill, which is sworn to, that Robert Guider is a non-resident of the state of Tennessee, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, it is ordered that publication be made in The Labor World, a newspaper published in Hamilton county, notifying said non-resident to appear at the next November rules of said court, to be held at the courthouse in Chattanooga on the first Monday in November next, the same being a rule day of said court, and make defense to said bill or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to him.
This 18th day of September, 1931.
TOM J. ROGERS, Clerk.
T. D. Fletcher, Atty. 10-16

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of a trust executed by David J. Jones and wife, Annie Jones, dated October 22, 1927, of record in book "Y," Volume 21, Page 591, et seq., of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the note representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of all equities of redemption, homestead, dower and all other rights of exemptions of every kind, at the west door of the Court House of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on between the hours of 10 A. M. and 4:00 P. M the following described land situate in the City of Chattanooga, County of Hamilton and State of Tennessee, to-wit: A lot located on the Southwest corner of West Sixth Street and Cross Street and beginning at the intersection of the South side of West Sixth Street with the West line of Cross Street, running thence Westwardly along the South line of West Sixth Street one hundred (100) feet more or less, to the property formerly owned by the Roane Iron Company, thence Southwardly with the East line of said Roane Iron Company's property one hundred (100) feet to a stake; thence Eastwardly and parallel with the South line of West Sixth Street one hundred (100) feet, more or less, to the West line of Cross Street, thence Northwardly with the West line of Cross Street one hundred (100) feet to the beginning. Being the same property that was conveyed by Harry Jones, single, to David J. Jones, by deed registered June 22, 1927, in Book "U", Volume 21, Page 386 of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1931,

Sale will be made subject to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This 25th day of September, 1931.
AMERICAN TRUST AND BANKING COMPANY, TRUSTEE.
By E. Y. Chapin, Jr., Trust Officer.
10-16

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed by Walter Cooley and wife, N. A. Cooley, dated Nov. 22, 1929, of record in Book "R," Volume 24, Page 64, et seq., of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the note, representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of all equities of redemption, homestead, dower and all other rights of exemptions of every kind at the west door of the courthouse of Hamilton county, Tennessee, on

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1931,

between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., the following real estate in Hamilton county, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot No. 3, block 14, Highland Park addition No. 1, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 1, Page 23 of the Register's Office of Hamilton county, Tennessee. Said lot fronts 50 feet on the south side of Duncan avenue and extends back southwardly, of uniform width 135 feet to an alley.

Sale will be made subject to note for $4,000.00 due Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, dated Feb. 9, 1926, recorded L-20-395, and to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as trustee only.

This 11th day of September, 1931.
AMERICAN TRUST AND BANKING COMPANY, Trustee.
By E. Y. Chapin, Jr., Trust Officer.
10-2

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed by Fannie A. Cawood, dated August 28, 1919, of record in Book "Y," Volume 15, Page 49, et seq., of the Register's Office, of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the note representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of all equities of redemption, homestead, dower and all other rights of exemptions of every kind, at the west door of the courthouse of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on

MONDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1931,

between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., the following described land situate in the Old Fifth (5th), Present Second (2nd) Civil District, County of Hamilton and State of Tennessee, to wit:

Lot No. Six (6), in Block No. One Hundred Seventy-four (174) in East End Land Company's Addition No. One (1), as laid down on Plat registered in Plat Book in Register's Office, Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Sale will be made subject to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This 18th day of September, 1931.
AMERICAN TRUST AND BANKING COMPANY, Trustee.
By E. Y. Chapin, Jr., Trust Officer.
10-9

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed by Paul A. Sloop and wife, Jean M. Sloop, dated October 7, 1930, of record in Book "I," Volume 25, Page 674, et seq., of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the notes representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of all equities of redemption, homestead, dower and all other rights of exemptions of every kind, at the west door of the courthouse of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on

MONDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1931

between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., the following real estate in City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lot No. Twenty-five (25), J. T. Thomas' Re-Subdivision of Block No. Four (4), The Highlands, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 9, Page 5 of the Rigster's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Sale will be made subject to a first lien of $2,500.00 due the Administration and Trust Company, and to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This 18th day of September, 1931.
AMERICAN TRUST AND BANKING COMPANY, Trustee.
By E. Y. Chapin, Jr., Trust Officer.
10-9

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of trust executed by G. R. Lewis and wife, Elisabeth Lewis, dated June 7, 1924, of record in Book "T," Volume 25, Page 296, et seq., of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the notes representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of the equities of redemption, dower and homestead, at the west door of the courthouse of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1931,

between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., the following real estate in Second (2nd) civil district, Hamilton county, Tennessee, to-wit:

Lots Nos. twenty-four (24) and twenty-five (25), block number one (1), East Section of East Chattanooga Land Company, as recorded in Plat Book Number Three (3), Page thirty (30), of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Sale will be subject to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This 18th day of September, 1931.
THE ADMINISTRATION & TRUST CO., Trustee.
By E. Y. Chapin, President. 10-9

Special days for UNION LABEL agitation are good, but making every day a UNION LABEL day is much better.

Take It or Leave It!

Items of More or Less Interest Picked Up From Various Sources

CY KOLOGY, EDITOR

The Commendable Young Lady of Ghent.

There was a young lady from Ghent,
Who was absent, wherever she whent;
Whether by rail or by ship
She went in a clip,
And arrived where'er she was shent!

She took a short trip into France
To purchase her boss man some pance,
Where she met a young gent,
Who was also from Ghent,
And married the man in a trance!

Which peeved the boss man in Ghent,
To wed her himself he'd mehnt;
So he fired her flat,
Without even her hat,
And she's out both a job and a gent.
—H. F. B.

* * *

Neighbor—Have you seen the new play that I wrote about the man and wife who were always quarreling?

Mr. Perkins—No, but I heard you and your wife rehearsing it.

* * *

Suitor—Do you ever peep through the keyhole when I am sitting in the parlor with your sister?

Small Brother—Sometimes, when mother ain't there.

* * *

The woman in the flat above
Takes vocal—how we curse—
And every day in every way
She's getting worse and worse.
—H. F. B.

* * *

Miss Rayner—I hope you'll dance with me tonight, Mr. Jones.

Mr. Jones—Oh, rather! I hope you don't think that I came here merely for pleasure!

* * *

It may have been an apple that caused Adam's downfall, but these days men fall mostly for peaches. . . A nervous breakdown seems to be a luxury in which only the rich indulge. . . The man who is only a follower can't see where he is going for the dust in his eyes. . . Perhaps every man at one time makes a fool out of himself over a woman. The lucky ones are those who do it early in life and get it over with.

* * *

A magician said to his youthful helper: "Now, are you sure there is nothing in the silk hat?"

"Positively," replied the urchin, "the rabbit you put in before the shoe got away!"

* * *

Evolution.

Age six—father gives little Willie roller skates.

Age twelve—father gives Willie bicycle.

Age eighteen—father gives Willie college education.

Age twenty-three — father gives Willie diploma.

Age twenty-four—father gives Willie job.

Age twenty-four years, three days —father gives Willie up.

* * *

The battleship was in port, and visitors were being shown around. The guide was exhibiting a bronze tablet set in the deck.

Guide—Here is where our gallant captain fell.

Old Lady—No wonder. I nearly tripped over it myself.

* * *

Foreman—Do you know that I began life as a barefoot boy.

Fireman—Well, I wasn't born with shoes on, either.

* * *

Diner—Have you any wild ducks?

Waiter—No, sir; but we can take a tame one and irritate it for you.

* * *

Jack—Say, Mary, are you going to the party tonight?

Mary—I'll say I am, Jack! I'll be there with bells on!

Jack—Okay, I'll ring you later.

* * *

One reason for so many divorces, says H. F. B., is that so many fool people insist on getting married. . . A girl sings this defiant refrain: We will be better off when the brain instead of the pocketbook creates our opinions. . . Most of us forget the lucky breaks and remember only the bad ones. . . It must be terrible to have money to burn and not be able to start a fire. . . A good many shrewd women have discovered that alimony is a much more profitable enterprise than matrimony. . . Men don't mind marrying a flapper—if she's a pancake flapper.

* * *

Judge—Do you mean to say that such a physical wreck as your husband gave you that black eye?

Plaintiff—Your honor, he wasn't a physical wreck until he gave me the black eye.

* * *

Tommy—Ma, do I have to wash my face again before dinner?

Mother—Certainly, dear.

Tommy—Aw, gee, why can't I just powder it over again like you do yours?

* * *

Wife—John, is it true that money talks?

Husband—That's what they say, my dear.

Wife—Well, I wish you'd leave a little here to talk to me during the day. I get so lonely.

What Next!

Announcement was recently made in London of a new stamping and pressure machine which it was declared would "revolutionize British industry." The Daily Mail said that the machine could be used in stampings of every sort from watch mechanisms to motor car bodies, and for making nails, bricks, composition materials and the manufacture of furniture and pulverized wood.

Patronize our Advertisers.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of a deed of a trust executed by Robert Street and wife, Emma Street, dated May 1, 1931, of record in book "R," Volume 25, Page 572, et seq., of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee, reference to which is made for a full recital of its provisions, and for the purpose of satisfying the indebtedness therein mentioned (default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness) the undersigned, as trustee under said deed of trust, will, at the request of the holder of the notes representing said indebtedness, offer for sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder for cash and in bar of all equities of redemption, homestead, dower and all other rights of exemptions of every kind, at the west door of the Court House of Hamilton County, Tennessee, on

MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1931,

between the hours of 10 A. M. and 4:00 P. M., the following real estate in City of Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, to-wit:

Being the South 86½ feet of Subdivision of the Jennings Tract, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 2, Page 14, of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee. Said part of lot fronts 86½ feet on the West Side of Dodson Avenue (formerly Harrison or Miller Street) and runs back westwardly, of uniform width, 150 feet to an alley; being the same property conveyed to Robert Street and wife, Emma Street, by James Dillard Colston, by deed registered in Book E, Volume 8, Page 454, of the Register's Office of Hamilton County, Tennessee.

Sale will be made subject to a prior lien of $600.00 dated December 5, 1930, due The Administration & Trust Company, and to any unpaid taxes.

Title believed to be good, but will sell and convey as Trustee only.

This 25th day of September, 1931.
AMERICAN TRUST AND BANKING COMPANY, TRUSTEE.
By E. Y. Chapin, Jr., Trust Officer.
10-16

Job Stabilization Plan Makes Labor Pay for Unemployment

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 17.—The so-called employment stabilization program adopted by the California State Chamber of Commerce is primarily designed to make labor stand the costs of unemployment, although the employers are responsible for it.

It urges putting workers on part time with part-time pay, extra vacations without pay, and suggests that employers provide workers with the maximum amount of employment "consistent with production schedules and sound financial practice," which every business concern does whether business is good or bad.

The plan also includes giving wage earners now at work "every reasonable assurance" of the safety of their jobs. The use of the adjective "reasonable" clearly implies that the job security is a fragile thing subject to withdrawal whenever the employers believe business conditions and profits make it an unreasonable guarantee. Nevertheless, the sponsors for the plan claim this "reasonable" assurance makes the workers with jobs good spenders so that their wages quickly pass back into the employers' hands with added profits on the turnover.

A unique feature of the plan is the stress it lays on radio propaganda to impress the workers with the fiction that the employers are doing something wonderfully altruistic in reducing the working time and consequently the earnings of their employes by the devices which cost the employers nothing.

Despite the fact that the workers of California in common with the workers of the entire country have increased their output 42 per cent since 1919, the California employers' program for employment stabilization does not even mention, much less advocate, the five-day week, which should be accorded the workers as a matter of elemental justice.

The program contains nothing to provide work for any of the 6,000,000 now unemployed.

Instead of calling it an employment stabilization program, it should be called an unemployment stabilization program—a scheme to keep in the army of the jobless the 6,000,000 unemployed now pounding the pavements looking for work and ending their fruitless journey in public and private bread lines and soup kitchens.

Selah Chamberlain, chairman of the stabilization committee of the state chamber of commerce, says that California business men are sponsoring the program "in order to prevent what may become far-reaching and unsound encroachments upon the proper and logical functions of private business enterprise."

Always demanding the UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD is evidence that you are a real live member of organized labor.

"They Wear Like a Pig's Nose" UNION MADE

FINCK'S
RED BAR
OVERALLS

2,000,000 men buy these Overalls every year. Made in a Union Shop. Every garment has sewed upon it the Union Label. Union Men, ask your dealer.

Look for Red Bar on pocket.

W. M. FINCK & CO., Makers
Detroit, Mich.

W. R. CANNON, Mgr.
Southern Branch : Dalton, Ga.

Always demanding the UNION LABEL and SHOP CARD is evidence that you are a real live member of organized labor.

Our Advertisers are our friends.

Do you know Your Union Label

Union Label of Stove Mounters

Store Card of Meat Cutters & Butcher Workmen

Emblem of American Federation of Musicians

Shop Card of Journeymen Barbers' Union

Union Label of Bill Posters and Billers' Alliance

Emblem of Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Ry. Employes of America

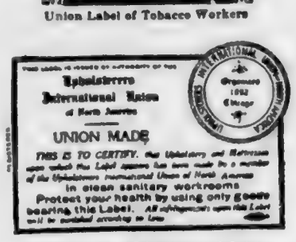
Coopers' Union Label

Label of Int'l Metal Engravers' Union

Union Label of Metal Polishers' Union

United Leather Workers Union Label

Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union Label

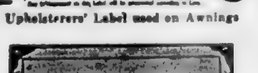


Union Label of Upholsterers' International Union of America

Upholsterers' Label used on Awnings

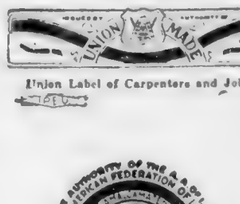
United Hatters of North America Label

Union Label of Sheet Metal Workers



Store Card of Retail Clerks

Bookbinders' Union Label



Card of Union Waiters

Label of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America

Brick and Clay Workers' Label

Used on Rolls and Bundles

Glove Workers' Union Label

Emblem of Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators

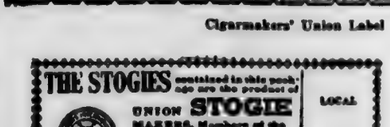
Paper Makers' Union Labels

Boot and Shoe Workers' Union Stamp

Local Typographical Union Label

Emblem of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America

Cigarmakers' Union Label



Label of Stogie Makers

A. F. of L. Label

Dr. L. J. Usher

Dentist

Plates as low as $6.00
Crown and Bridge Work, per tooth, as low as $3.50
Fillings as low as $1.00 Extractions $1.00

All other work as low in proportion
Gas administered for extraction if desired

OFFICE: Corner Market & Seventh St.
Over Liggett's Drug Store

ENTRANCE 7½ E. Seventh St.
Hours 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

B L & K R

Aids Digestion, Stimulates Liver and Kidney Action; also fine as Tonic. No home should be without it. Quick, Safe, Sure.

Ready Cash

For your taxes, improvements on your home, or for other obligations. Loans made on most reasonable terms and paid back by the week or month.

Citizens Savings & Loan Corporation
Ground Floor Volunteer Life Bldg.
Opposite Central Market

PARAGON CAFE
(Circle Club Headquarters)
11 West Ninth Street

We Serve a Delicious Lunch for 25c, 35c, and 40c
REAL WESTERN STEAKS
Prices Right

OPERATED BY GANNAWAY BROS.

INDIGESTION

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest.

"I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted.

"Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."
—Clyde Vaughn, 10 Shippy St., Greenville, S. C.

Sold in 25¢ packages. E-170

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

WOMEN who are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, should take Cardui. Used for over 50 years.

"Say it with Flowers"

Joy's

Joy Phone 6-7168

817 Market Street

WHY LAUGH?

Just Had a Peep Into
STAGMAIER & CO.'S PREMIUM CATALOGUE

There are so many nice PREMIUMS to be had with Coupons taken from

Up-To-Date Baking Powder

Catalogue will be mailed you free upon request.

Stagmaier & Co.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

TAXI

Phone 7-1261
PROMPT MESSENGER SERVICE
WATSON CAB CO.
PREMIER CABS — METER RATES
208 West Ninth St.

COAL

Red Ash Nut ... $5.00
Furnace Nut $4.25
Honest Weight — Prompt Service
CITY COAL CO.
718 E. Main 6-3163

WORLD OWES 15 BILLIONS TO AMERICAN INVESTORS

Debts to United States Citizens Total $15,675,000,000 in Addition to Obligations of Foreign Governments to Treasury Amounting to $11,640,000,000---American Investments Largest in Canada.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The world owes approximately $15,675,000,000 to private American investors, according to a study just completed by the U. S. department of commerce. This figure is a maximum. Owing to difficulties in computation, the total may be actually $14,900,000,000. The study shows a possible range of error of $775,000,000.

The debt to private investors is in addition to obligations of foreign governments to the U. S. treasury, which total $11,640,000,000. Short term capital loans are not included nor are investments in foreign countries by missionary and educational institutions.

The private investment represents the sum of direct investments abroad by individuals and corporations plus so-called portfolio investments. The last item stands for the value of bonds and stocks publicly offered and sold in the United States by foreign corporations and governmental agencies. Direct investments amount to $7,841,000,000 and portfolio investments to $7,834,000,000.

Private American investors have a stake of $4,929,000,000 in Europe of which the greater part, $1,421,000,000, is invested in Germany. The next largest amount is in Great Britain, which has $641,000,000. France has $471,000,000 and Italy $401,000,000.

Canada, with American investments totaling $3,942,000,000, had more United States money than any other single country.

Shipstead Attacks Wage Cutters; Hits Leaders' Do-Nothing Policy

Washington, Sept. 17.—A militant protest against wage reductions to protect the interests of investors and speculators from the economic consequences of the business depression was voiced by United States Senator Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota, in a radio address broadcast from coast to coast.

"The clamor for wage reductions goes on throughout the world," Senator Shipstead said. "The theory seems to be that because the cost of living is alleged to have declined, the wages of labor should automatically decline.

"The basis for this belief, of course, is the assumption that wage-earners have no inherent right to aspire to a higher relative standard of living than they can obtain in periods of depression.

"This assumption is again based on the orthodox principle that the income in capital, even though such capital structure be heavily inflated, must be maintained at all costs, and capital losses are therefore transferred to labor by reduction of wages."

Senator Shipstead said farmers are unable to meet interest or amortization payments on farm mortgages, depositors are unable to draw deposits from closed banks, 7,000,000 workingmen are out of employment, ships are lying idle in harbors, and business is going bankrupt.

In the face of this great crisis, "financiers and industrial and political leaders," instead of doing something tangible to remedy the situation, issue statements charged with the idea that the depression is "psychological and due to a state of public mind," he declared.

"Such leaders have no mind at all," he said, "and should not confuse the public mind with foolish statements, given weight and attention simply and only because of the fact that these persons who have made them occupy positions of prominence and power.

"Such men must bear the responsibility of a do-nothing policy that leads to further chaos, as is becoming increasingly apparent to people everywhere."

Confronted with the evident determination or inability of financial and industrial leaders to do anything material to remedy the situation poignantly emphasized by employers refusing to employ millions of workers and reducing them and their families to a precarious existence on pauper relief. Senator Shipstead said he believed President Hoover should call a special session of congress at the earliest possible date.

Senate Hearings on Jobless Insurance Will Be Held in Washington, D. C.

Washington.—Hearings of the U. S. senate select committee on unemployment insurance, originally planned for a number of industrial centers throughout the country, will be held exclusively in Washington

The resolution authorizing the hearings was introduced in the senate by Senator Wagner, of New York. The committee consists of Senator Wagner, Senator Hebert, of Rhode Island, and Senator Glenn, of Illinois.

Following the usual procedure, it was expected that Senator Wagner, the author of the resolution, would be chairman of the unemployment insurance committee. But in compliance with, it was said, a demand from the White House, the customary procedure was scrapped and Senator Hebert chosen to head the committee.

Senator Hebert recently returned from Europe, where he made a study of unemployment insurance in England, Germany and Italy. He made the statement that in England unemployed workers whose application for unemployment insurance is disallowed by the officials designated by law to handle the claims use political influence reaching to the secretary of the treasury, who sees to it that the applicants are paid unemployment insurance whether they are entitled to it or not.

Industry Fails To Help Jobless, Green Charges

Leaders Offer No Program for Dealing With Unemployment Emergency, A. F. of L. Head Tells Carmen's Convention.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 10.—Charging industrial leaders with failure to meet the unemployment situation, President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, told the biennial convention of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes that the only constructive proposals for dealing with the emergency have been made by organized labor.

"Those who have expected the depression to pass have been disappointed," Green said. "The unemployment situation is more and more widespread, blighting all sections of the United States and other nations. Among the captains of industry there does not seem to be a realization or appreciation of the seriousness of the situation.

"I charge them with failure to meet the urgent needs of the situation. There has been nothing whatever done collectively by those who own and manage industry to relieve the situation.

Leaders Make No Move.

"I have asked them to point to a single instance where they have collectively announced even a program. Notwithstanding our appeal for concerted action and co-operation, or even a declaration of policy, there has been no response whatever. They are seemingly hoping that fate or some unseen power will restore normal conditions."

Labor demands that President Hoover call an immediate conference between the leaders of labor and industry, President Green said. He declared that labor would co-operate to the fullest at such a conference.

William D. Mahon, president of the carmen, concurred with President Green in declaring that "enactment of relief measures and not commissions for surveys is what the country needs."

He offered a resolution asking President Hoover to call a special session of congress to consider a relief program.

No Definite Program Devised.

Mayor James M. Curley urged the convention to go on record in favor of the special session.

"September will mark the end of the second year of depression," the mayor said, "and yet no definite program, other than passing the hat, has been devised to meet the most extraordinary and unprecedented situation in history."

President Mahon's resolution followed comment on the appointment of Walter S. Gifford as the head of a commission to study and co-ordinate unemployment relief. Mr. Mahon urged the carmen to serve notice as a unit on President Hoover that they wanted no more commission reports.

Mr. Mahon asserted that the only relief to be obtained for the thousands of hungry unemployed during the coming winter must come from government funds as private relief sources have been exhausted.

Member Local 80 Dies at Nashville

Members of Local No. 80, American Federation of Musicians, were shocked this week to receive news of the passing, at Nashville, of George Miller, who was well known here as a former member of the Bijou orchestra and other local musical organizations. He was a leader of the Shrine band at Nashville, and had a large number of pupils.

Mr. Miller expired suddenly following a brief illness. He is survived by his widow and one child.

NOTICE!

Chattanooga Trades and Labor Council will meet Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, in regular session. All delegates are requested and expected to be present, as matters affecting every local union will come before the meeting for discussion.

GERMAN POSITION BAD.

Addressing Catholic workers at Nuremberg, Dr. Adam Stegerwald, labor minister of Germany, said that not until genuine peace had been established in Europe could Germany's acute labor problems be satisfactorily solved.

"Labor's position is admittedly bad," Dr. Stegerwald said, "but it cannot be improved in an unstable Europe."

Attempts of victor nations to transform their political demands into commercial demands and to impose these upon private business and enterprise, he said, have failed and will continue to fail under the present private capitalistic system in the world.

PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT FIGHTS LABOR BROKERS

The insular legislature and the governor-general's office in the Philippine islands have combined efforts to end the form of racketeering responsible for sending Filipino laborers to Hawaii and the American west coast without provision for their employment. A thorough investigation has been demanded by the legislature.

MORE ABOUT

HANDSOME HAL

(Continued from First Page)

your streets during my stay. Of course Columbus is not so rich in historical associations and scenery as Chattanooga is, but with the paved roads you now have, and the naturally beautiful scenery about the city, I should think that more tourists would be attracted to Columbus.

* * *

"Our chamber of commerce secretary," continues Mr. Brown, "tells me that each tourist that enters the city spends from one to ten dollars before he leaves. Chattanooga has thousands of tourists in the course of the year. Columbus, I am sorry to say, seems very little known to tourists." Mr. Brown advises advertising, of the right kind and in the right quarters, to create a growing tourist interest in Columbus. His old town he considers one of the beauty spots of the south. That it will make a hit with tourists, he does not doubt.

Carpenters Renew Dance Ticket Sale

Sale of tickets to the benefit dance sponsored by Local 74, Carpenters, has not been stopped, as was reported, but will be continued by a committee from the local, who assumed charge of the sale following retirement last week of promoters employed by the union to conduct the campaign, C. W. Smith, business agent of the local, announced this week.

Mr. Smith said that the dance will be held, as scheduled, on Wednesday night, Sept. 30, and efforts to dispose of tickets will be continued until that time.

Tickets may also be had, Mr. Smith announced, at Eckerd's.

Tom Turner Lands A "Regular" Job

According to the gossip in certain local barber shops (or maybe it should be shop), Tom Turner, well-known barber, has recently become Mr. Thomas Turner, tonsorial artist.

It is explained that Tom sought for some time, in vain, for regular and sustaining employment. Now the bunch at the Broadway shop declare that all he needed was a reputation, and the proprietor of the Broadway, with his well-known generosity, agreed to allow Tom to operate a chair there for several days as a sort of advertisement for Tom.

Mr. Hester says immediately it became known Mr. Turner had worked in his shop, successfully, bids for his services began to come in, and after looking over a few, Tom decided to locate in the Times Building shop, and is now permanently employed there.

"There's nothing like getting yourself a reputation," says Hester.

"I guess that's right," says Tom.

JUST BROWN

Dear H. F. B.: If you're such a bear for science, and so blamed smart, will you kindly tell me how to get all the tooth paste out of a tube without placing it on an asphalt paving and running over it with a road-roller? I've tried many schemes in vain. Hopefully, O. O. M.

Answer: This is an easy one, and odd as it may seem, I remember, not long ago, seeing, in a well-known daily column, by a writer whose initials are "O. O. M.," that he was perturbed because he never had found any "gadget" to squeeze out all the tooth paste. The longer I live the more colossal ignorance I seem to run up on!

To get all the tooth paste out of the tube while using and not be mussy about it, you simply hold the tube with your finger on the spout and roll it up tightly from the bottom, keeping the upper end of it full, and squeeze out as needed, then roll up more of it! I thought even a newspaper man had that much sense!

* * *

Dear Fixer: You being a scientist of note and authority on "signs," will you please inform me if by any chance you have seen any hopeful sign that this infernal hot summer may eventually pass? R. M. C.

Answer: Well, this weather ain't nothing to what you may expect in the next world! But as I don't believe in double punishment for even the most heinous sins, I will tell you that I have seen three very good signs of approaching cold weather. First, on Monday morning of last week at 5:40 a.m., when I trotted out to get my morning paper, Pine street from my home, half way the block to West Sixth street, was literally black with blackbirds, probably ten thousand of them, after the water, as the street had just been flushed. On Tuesday I saw the autumnal equinox, a thing of rare beauty you see only once in twelve months! It was especially lovely this year! And also on Tuesday, late in the afternoon, I saw thousands of chimney sweeps circling to enter the Tivoli chimney preparatory to their annual migration south. All three of these signs, I can assure you, are "sho' signs" you read about! Absolutely infallible and relible. So if you will just sit on a block of ice a few days longer, I am sure you will obtain some relief from this balmy Chattanooga climate. If you can't stand it that long, I'd advise a trip down to Miami or Havana, Cuba, where you can either keep cool or quickly get into such a condition you won't mind the heat.

* * *

H. F. B. will be glad to answer burning questions upon receipt of 50 cents and a self-addressed and stamped envelope, at least until further notice.

The teacher was examining the class in physiology.

Teacher—Mary, you tell us, what is the function of the stomach?

Mary—The function of the stomach is to hold up the petticoat.

EVERY PURCHASE GUARANTEED
EASY WAY
SELF SERVICE GROCERY
417 Market Street 2310 McCallie Avenue

100% HOME OWNED STORES

COMPOUND Very best Grade, Popular Brand (Limit 4 Lbs.): 4 Lbs., 30c; 4-lb. Pail, 39c; 8-lb. Pail 69c
CHERRIES Sour Pitted, for Pies; Large 2 Size Can—2 Cans 25c
COCOMALT Large Can 39c; 25c Size 20c; 10c Roll Lunch Paper FREE.
SUGAR XXXX Powdered, or the Browns, 10c size 1-lb. carton, each 7c
CAN PEAS "Tip Top," Size 1 Tall Can, Extra Quality—2 Cans 15c
"COOK'S BEST" Macaroni or Spaghetti, Reg. 7 oz. Size—2 Pkgs. 7c

WE EMPLOY ONLY UNION LABOR IN OUR MARKET

Speaking of Cakes—

Why Bother with Baking when your Grocer has a fresh supply Daily in 15 varieties of the tastiest Cakes it's possible to make—Of course they're

ERSKINE'S ROYAL CAKES
In Sizes to Suit Every Occasion

IF YOU WANT THE BEST
FLOUR
MADE

Buy—
Orient

Made by Mountain City Mill Co., Chattanooga

Need Old Friends be Soon Forgotten?

The loss of old friendships is probably most often due to friends moving to other localities. Keeping up a correspondence is bothersome and even irksome to many of us, so that these friendships once dear to us are gradually lost.

But this need not happen to you. Thousands of people now know from experience that their telephone is the tie that keeps friendships alive. Your friends, wherever they may be, are as close to you as your telephone. A call now and then to your out-of-town friends will keep these old and dear friendships alive, affording much happiness to you and to them. The cost is negligible. You can talk a distance of 150 miles for as little as fifty cents when using Night Station-to-Station service after 8:30 P. M.

Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co.
(Incorporated)

"THE COST IS SMALL WHEREVER YOU CALL"

Say this to the Advertiser: "I saw it in the Labor World"

OWNED BY THE CHATTANOOGA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

THE LABOR WORLD

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF ALL THE WAGE-EARNERS

"United We Stand; Divided We Fall!"

Volume XVI — CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, OCTOBER 2, 1931 — Number 23

STARVATION PAY ON FEDERAL JOB BRINGS PROTEST

Public Indignant at Contractors' Methods.

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF UNEMPLOYMENT

Postoffice Contract Discloses Low Scales Paid to Common Laborers.

Disclosures of starvation wages paid to laborers on government contracts have recently been the cause of increasing indignation on the part of citizens in all walks of life, and the contention of organized labor that employers in many lines are taking advantage of the desperate condition of the unemployed are fully borne out in stories which are gradually leaking out of alleged profiteering at the expense of the unfortunate.

Representatives of an outside contracting concern which has begun razing old buildings on the site of the new Chattanooga postoffice was quoted by Friday morning's Times as defending a wage scale of 15 cents per hour by stating that he was swamped with requests for men who were willing to work for 10 cents per hour. A workday of nine hours was also defended, the official holding that his company was not violating the law in compelling laborers to work more than eight hours per day.

This particular job, contracted by a Chicago wrecking company, has had the attention of the United States employment service, and the wage scale and hours worked have been reported to Secretary of Labor Doak at Washington.

New statute passed by the congress last April provides that the prevailing scale of wages shall be paid on all government construction work, and in many cases the organized workers have charged violation in various parts of the country. It was recalled Friday morning that only recently a New York contractor was compelled to pay the union scale of wages to painters on a government job at Washington.

Chattanooga Trades and Labor council a short time ago referred to Washington reports that a contractor on the Missionary ridge road had a wage scale in effect of 10 cents per hour, and later rumors of a similar situation on a state job are being investigated.

Chicago Wrecking company's representative was quoted in the Times as "citing wages paid by the city and state, averaging 15 cents per hour." Mayor Bass Friday morning flatly denied the accuracy of this statement, and declared the city payrolls will show the rate of compensation of laborers is 25 cents per hour. Marion T. Mason, assistant director of the local office of the United States Employment Service, is said to have advised the Chicago concern's spokesman to pay 25 cents per hour, and upon refusal of this request the matter was referred to Maj. Campbell, state director, and by him to Secretary Doak.

Alleged local scales have not as yet affected directly the organized crafts, but trades unionists hold that if the new law is violated with respect to unskilled labor contractors will attempt to pay a similar ratio to skilled workers, and it is declared such efforts will be combatted to the limit by the local organizations.

750,000 UNEMPLOYED IN NEW YORK CITY

New York.—Lawson Purdy, a director of the Charity Organization society, estimates the number of unemployed in New York City reach 750,000 or more.

He declared that the combined relief agencies of state, county and private enterprise could not possibly meet the need arising from the unemployment emergency this winter. "All we can do," he said, "is to see that much of the need we can meet. The emergency unemployment relief committee must care for those persons who are destitute and who cannot be helped by city or state."

DU PONT RAYON PLANT ADOPTS FIVE-DAY WEEK

Richmond, Va.—The du Pont Rayon company has adopted the five-day week in its Richmond plant. Willis Shackleford, plant manager, said the new plan will give jobs to from 150 to 200 additional workers. The Richmond plant has from 1,300 to 1,400 men and women on its pay roll at this time, Shackleford said. These workers have been on a 49-hour week and will now go to a 40-hour week. The new policy is not general throughout the du Pont system as yet.

Union Wage Suggested For District Work

Secretary Doak Advises That Organized Workers' Scale Be Held "Prevailing" on D. C. Municipal Projects.

(International Labor News Service)

Washington, Oct. 1.—Adoption of the union wage scale as the "prevailing scale" to be paid by contractors on municipal construction in Washington, D. C., has been suggested by Secretary of Labor Doak.

Secretary Doak's suggestion was made in reply to a letter from the District of Columbia commissioners, asking him to advise as to the proper scale of wages to be paid by contractors under the provisions of the Bacon-Davis act. This law provides that contractors on federal government work pay the wage scale prevailing in the community in which the work is being done.

In suggesting the union scale as the "prevailing scale," Secretary Doak followed his recent action in ruling that the "prevailing wage" for painters in the district should be $11 for an eight-hour day, which is identical with the union scale. The decision was made to settle a dispute on the painting contract for the new internal revenue building.

Key State Labor Asks $50,000,000 For Unemployed

Private Charity Is Unable to Cope With Relief Problem and All Citizens Must Be Assessed, Conference Says.

(International Labor News Service)

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 1.—A special conference called here by the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor approved the decision of Gov. Pinchot to summon a special session of the legislature to deal with the unemployment situation and pledged co-operation with the governor in his efforts to meet the problem.

Raising of money by the state to aid the unemployed was indorsed, the conference saying:

"It becomes more glaringly obvious each day that the theoretically 'voluntary' collections by private charitable societies are now utterly insufficient for the widespread want that prevails. Therefore, it becomes absolutely necessary to assess all citizens of the commonwealth, in proportion to his or her ability, to contribute to a universal levy for relief purposes through the conventional channels of taxation. No fair minded citizen who is able to enjoy any sort of normal income will object to paying a small additional amount to prevent the entire economic fabric of this nation from being seriously undermined. The provision of adequate relief for the needy is as much a matter of elementary self-protection for society as a whole as it is a humane deed undertaken to prevent the suffering of individual citizens."

Industrial Congress Proposed by Woll

Silver Bay, N. Y.—Economic planning by an industrial congress was recommended as containing a possible solution for the ills that afflict us by Matthew Woll, third vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address before the conference on industrial relations held under the aupices of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Woll described his proposal as the "beginning of a permanent industrial legislative structure within industry, for industry and the whole people, which shall commence a democratic industrial structure comparable to our democratic political structure."

The congress, Mr. Woll explained, would be composed of representatives of organizations devoted to practical and not propaganda purposes. "It is manifestly impossible," he said, "to procure authorized spokesmen for groups that are not organized." It would have under its jurisdiction industry, trade, transport, agriculture, labor, extraction of raw materials, credit and financial channels and service equipment. Agreements reached would be voluntary.

"I have proposed," Mr. Woll continued, "that the principal aim should be to begin the task of building a great national structure that can function in accord with the fundamental principles of democracy for the purpose of bringing about a better service to humanity on the part of American industry, using that term in its very broadest sense, for the purpose of finding and removing the maladjustment that has caused our present national suffering, and for the purpose, in brief, of making things work as well as may be humanly possible."

Mr. Woll expressed the fear of a revolution by the workers unless something tangible is done to remove economic distress and suffering.

One good turn deserves another. Your demand for the union label or union service will usually cause the other fellow to do the same for you.

WAGE SLASHES DEAL TREMENDOUS BLOWS TO RETAIL BUSINESS

Merchants Lose When Purchasing Power Drops Over Four Billion Since 1929—Wage Totals 39 Per Cent Below Two Years Ago, Due to Unemployment, Part Time and Pay Slashes, U. S. Figures Show.

(International Labor News Service)

Washington, Oct. 1.—Recent wage reductions will this week begin to tighten the strangling grip on thousands of retail counters, the first step in the process of back-firing clear to the heart of production, speeding up the turn of the vicious circle out of which depression is made.

